Could Not Raise Money Enough to Keep Wife Happy

According to a letter Mrs. [illegible] Jean Blum wrote to her husband, Benjamin F. Blum, while he was in a hospital, she was inclined to believe that "maybe true love will endure, regardless of the [illegible] gets."

She reproached him in the letter for linking her name and the name of another man, and added: "You do accuse me of the most impossible things."

Mr. Blum, who sued his wife for divorce, stated in Judge [illegible]field's court yesterday, when asked what reason Mrs. Blum gave for not wanting to live with him: "She did not want to settle down, and she wanted more money than I could give her."

He said he spent about $4[illegible] on his wife in seven months. The court continued the case for further evidence.

OUST JUDGE, IS DEMAND.

Landis is Attacked by Senator.

Jurist Admits He Made Statement That Angers the South Carolinan.

Pokes Fun at Dial in Address and Says Bankers Caused Youth to be Thief.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Senator Dial of South Carolina announced in the Senate that he would [illegible] impeachment proceedings against Federal Judge Landis of [illegible] if he obtained confirmation of statements credited in the press to Judge Landis in the case of Frank J. Carey, a bank clerk, charged with embezzlement.

Carey, who pleaded guilty to embezzling $46,000 from the National Bank of Ottawa, Ill., was released yesterday on his own recognizance by Judge Landis, who was quoted as saying the bank directors were responsible for the theft because they paid Carey only $90 a month.

"The man who utters that kind of sentiment," said Senator Dial, "is unworthy of public confidence and should be impeached."

"IT'S ALL TRUE."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Feb. 12.—Federal Judge Landis of Chicago, in an address before the Iowa American Legion here tonight, admitted making statements similar to those Senator Dial of South Carolina charged him with, and asserted: "I repeat it and send it to Senator Dial with my compliments."

Judge Landis sent his audience into roars of hilarity by his thrusts at Senator Dial.

"Senator Dial says," stated Judge Landis, "that he has written to find out what is reported I said in the report—that is to say, that the banks were really responsible for the theft, because they paid Carey only $90 a month. I want to tell you what the case was. This man won't have to inquire any further. I want to save him his Senators Favor Construction of Plane Carriers for Our Newest Navy.

Late Kind of Vessel Will Take Place of Fighters That Are Asked For.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—While declining to discontinue or suspend the building of capital ships, Congress has been awakened to the necessity of providing for the contingency that giant aircraft may become the most formidable instrument of naval warfare at no distant date.

The General Board of the Navy recommended the construction of airplane carriers, of which Great Britain now has a fleet built and building. Secretary of the Navy Daniels did not press the recommendation, being content to remodel the collier Jupiter into an airplane carrier, though its speed is half that of the British craft.

The Senate Committee on Naval Affairs has now recommended the construction of two airplane carriers in place of several destroyers and other vessels, and the indications are that the suggestion will be adopted.

FISKE FOR AIRCRAFT.

Rear-Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, the foremost American authority on naval problems, believes the so-called capital ship has seen its best days. The American who has to his credit the greatest list of inventions achieved by any one naval officer in the world thinks naval supremacy a year or two years hence forward will belong to that nation which possesses the most powerful fleet of aircraft. Asked his idea of the future navy, he replied:

"It seems to me it will be vastly different from the fleets of today. It will probably consist of large vessels without smokestacks or masts, or possibly with internal-combus-

CAPITAL HONORS LINCOLN.

Los Angeles Veteran Selected to Preside at the Celebration.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—One of the greatest honors which has ever come to him was paid to Congressman Osborne of Los Angeles today when he was asked by Speaker Gillett to preside over the House during the exercises marking the celebration of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln.

Congressman Osborne is the only veteran of the Civil War on the Union side and will be the only veteran in the new Congress, the only other veteran of the war from the States, Gen. Sherwood of Ohio, having been retired at the last election.

Gen. Sherwood, by the way, although over 80 years of age, will go from the floor to the press gallery to represent the Toledo News-Bee, of which he was once the editor.

SELECTION POPULAR.

In view of Congressman Osborne's record, his selection as presiding officer seemed immensely popular and he got an ovation, both sides of the chamber joining in the applause. The Speaker was Richard Yates, former Governor of Illinois and son of the other famous Richard Yates, who was Lincoln's friend.

For more than an hour he told some of the most interesting incidents of the martyred President's life, producing some of Lincoln's letters and some intimate letters, giving details of those troubled times. Many of the facts related in Mr. Yates's speech were new and had never been published. His address received the closest attention of one of the largest audiences of the session.

SON LIVES QUIETLY.

Robert Todd Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln, and only living relative of the great emancipator, is spending his days quietly in this city, living in Georgetown just across the street from the house occupied by Secretary of War Baker. Mr. Lincoln, although 78 years of age, does not show his years, and is quite active, attending to his personal affairs each day and visiting among friends.

In appearance Mr. Lincoln does not resemble his distinguished father in any particular. He is hardly of the average height, rather stout and wears a closely cropped beard, which has turned gray. When correspondents called at his residence and asked Mr. Lincoln if he had any message to send to the American people on the anniversary of his father's birthday, he replied:

CONTENTED LIFE.

"There is absolutely nothing that I have to tell the American people. I have done enough talking during my lifetime and I do not think it would be proper for me to say anything now. I am sure no one is interested in any of my views concerning the questions confronting the nation at this time. I have taken no interest in public questions for a number of years, feeling that I should spend the remainder of my life in absolute peace and contentment with the rest of the world."

Born in Springfield, Ill., on August 1, 1843, he entered Phillips Exeter Academy in 1853. After having been

PROBLEM OF CABINET IS UNCERTAIN.

Harding Has No Definite Disarmament Plans, He Declares.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. AUGUSTINE (Fla.) Feb. 12.—While the Cabinet problem was taking on new elements of uncertainty today, President-elect Harding let it be known his plans for international peace and disarmament also are far from definite formulation. Taking note of published reports that a disarmament conference would be called early in the new administration, he said he had made no such plans, although the idea fitted in with his general scheme for an association of nations. It was a feature of the problem, he added, to which he would give no specific [illegible] until he came into the Presidency and was fully advised as to the status of diplomatic relations.

Today's Cabinet developments concerned chiefly Charles G. Dawes and F. O. Lowden, both of Illinois, and mentioned for Secretary of the Treasury and of the Navy, respectively. The net result was to leave more in doubt than ever whether either would be in the Cabinet.

Mr. Dawes, who recently denounced Republican investigations into the conduct of the war, conferred more than an hour with Mr. Harding.

Mr. Harding said they had talked about co-ordination of government agencies. He added that he had high regard for Mr. Dawes's ability.

So far as is known, Mr. Lowden has no definite appointment to come here, but it was learned authoritatively today that the question of his accepting a Cabinet post has not been settled.

Tonight Mr. Harding took part in two Lincoln Birthday celebrations, pressing a button to open a Lincoln banquet in Seattle, Wash., and attending a Lincoln memorial service.

Mr. Harding made a short talk at the memorial meeting, paying tribute to Lincoln as "the greatest American and the supreme human being since the days of Calvary." He said it was the nation's highest destiny to cling to the nationality inherited from Lincoln and to make it a proud boast to be an American citizen.

"Although the nation must play its full part in the world," he added, "it must first of all guard against surrender of its national principles."

TAR-AND-FEATHER VICTIM KIDNAPED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HOUSTON (Tex.) Feb. 12.—Eight masked men today kidnaped B. I. Hobbs at Alvin, a town south of Houston, and fled to the country in motor cars, according to reports received here. Hobbs was tarred and feathered by a masked group of men in Houston last Saturday night.

At that time Hobbs was told to leave within three days. He went to Alvin the following Monday. According to the report, Hobbs is said to have come to an Alvin garage today and asked for his own car. Almost simultaneously the men, wearing hoods and gowns, ordered him to drive away and the masked party followed. About an hour later Hobbs was reported to have passed through Manville. He was alone.

VICTIMS OF TORNADO ARE LAID TO REST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OCONEE (Ga.) Feb. 12.—As many as six funerals at once were conducted here today when twenty-nine negroes and one white boy, victims of last Thursday's tornado, were buried. Dan Davis, a negro preacher, who, with his wife, escaped death in the storm, announced tonight that he would preach tomorrow on "Sin and Tornadoes."

There was a dance in the negro settlement the night before the storm, he said, and it was followed by a free-for-all fight and a shooting affray.

LOST STREET CAR UPSETS.

Score Injured When a Wandering Eagle Rock Coach Turns Over on Curve.

Thirty persons were trapped in an overturned Hawthorne-Eagle Rock City car which got lost last night. The motorman wandered from the car's regular route and ran the car into a sharp curve at Avenue 26 and Griffin avenue. Thirteen of the injured passengers were taken to the Receiving Hospital and about ten persons, suffering from slight injuries, were hastened from the scene in private automobiles to the homes of neighboring physicians.

The injured passengers treated at the Receiving Hospital were:

J. G. Schultz, 45 years old, ironworker, 3211 Granada street; sprained back and painful leg injuries.

Flora E. Holst, 15, 2217 Huron street, schoolgirl; possible fracture of the right arm and facial abrasions.

OAK CREEK (Colo.) Feb. 12.—Four miners are trapped in the No. 2 mine of the Moffat Coal Company, one and [illegible] miles [illegible] as a result of an explosion late today. Rescuers with oxygen helmets entered the mine tonight.

Patrick St. Patrick, a fifth miner trapped by the explosion, was found wandering around in a dazed condition near what is known as Stope M and N. The origin of the explosion is unknown.

Weaver Sharp and Ed Hamidy, miners, and two foreigners, shotfirers, are missing. Supt. John Alexander has charge of the rescue work.

GERMANY STILL DEFIANT.

Will Not be Dictated to on Reparations, Says Minister of Finance.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—Germany is not going to the London reparations conference to be dictated to, Dr. Wirth, Minister of Finance, told the Bremen Chamber of Commerce today. Great economic questions could not be solved in that way, he added.

"We are prepared to accomplish all we can," he continued, "because we feel under a moral obligation to assist in reconstruction, and we will make reparation proposals of our own in London.

"The newspaper reports on this subject are incorrect. Our offer will not be a small one. The nation must learn to realize that what we shall offer cannot be extracted from the national wealth, but must be produced by work."

"America cannot hold aloof," added the Finance Minister, "when the economic forces of the entire world shall assemble around one table, and all plans are mere theories unless the whole economic world is prepared to co-operate."

Representatives of German export manufacturers at a meeting here today voted to memorialize the American governmental bodies dealing with tariff matters setting forth present conditions among German working men and the German industries and supplying all available data on German production. This documentary evidence is intended as an argument not only that there is no purpose on the part of Germany to dump cheap German wares on the American market, but that it would be impossible.

Exporters declared the workmen were highly paid and would only work six hours a day.

Committees were named to collect data from every important industry for submission to America.

CLAIM GERMAN SHIPS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Feb. 12.—The reparations committee has transmitted to Walker D. Hines, American arbitrator in the distribution of German inland shipping under the peace treaty, its determination of the Allies' losses to be paid from Germany's Rhine fleet at 820,000 tons, 63 per cent of which was incurred by France, 33 per cent by Belgium and 4 per cent by other countries.

The entire river fleet is placed at upward of 6,000,000 tons, and, therefore, the losses are less than the 20 per cent limit the treaty placed on the amount Germany must replace.

This award, which Mr. Hines must approve, is in addition to the allocation of 253,000 tons of barges and tugs with a capacity of 24,000 horsepower allocated to France by Mr. Hines early in January.

French tax collections in January failed to equal th ebudget estimates for the first time under the present schedule.

Total collections were 1,204,442,000 francs, while the budget estimates were 1,362,783,000 francs.

A heavy slump in the taxes on the business turnover and the customs on sugar, which is attributed in the official announcement today on tax receipts to "restrictions in consumption," was chiefly responsible. The biggest drop was in the business turnover, which yielded 183,683,000 francs, instead of the estimated 483,666,500 francs.

EMULATE LINCOLN.

Republican Model, Says Lowden.

Great Illinoisan Honored by Political Descendants at Notable Dinner.

Governor Adds Tribute; Wires from Harding, Coolidge, Robert Lincoln Read.

The simplicity of Abraham Lincoln, the example and courage and humanity of Lincoln, his eloquence and lofty ideals all served their purpose last night when more than 100 leading Republicans of Los Angeles and Southern California solemnly reconsecrated themselves to Lincoln Republicanism at the first annual banquet of the Lincoln Club of California held in the Ambassador Hotel.

Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Gov. Stephens of California and former United States Senator Cornelius Cole, who was a member of Congress during Lincoln's administration in 1864, and who knew Lincoln intimately, were the principal speakers.

Gov. Stephens, in paying a high tribute to Lincoln, digressed for a moment to speak hearty words of praise for Gov. Lowden, saying, "if he is called to administer to high office in the national government none of the States of the Union will be happier than California." Gov. Stephens called upon the Republicans present to realize the Republican ideals of Lincoln through wholehearted support of President Harding.

A sudden hush fell upon the Republican gathering when Henry M. Robinson, president of the Lincoln Club, introduced former Senator Cole, from whose lips fell an eyewitness story of the historic occasion when Lincoln uttered his immortal Gettysburg address.

TENDER TRIBUTE.

The venerable speaker, now in his ninety-ninth year and sole survivor of the Congress that sat during Lincoln's administration, paid tender tribute to the martyred emancipator.

"Lincoln was not old then, although they called him 'Old Abe,' and I was not old; I have never been called old and am not old now," said Senator Cole, "but it fell to my lot to be associated politically and socially with Mr. Lincoln during the last three years of his life.

"President Lincoln came unescorted to the platform for his address at Gettysburg. Edward Everett delivered a long, but eloquent speech and then the President, laying aside the dark gray shawl he wore about his shoulders, got to his feet and began his address.

"He seemed to say nothing that was new to us, nothing that we hadn't heard before. We did not apprehend at that time the beauty and strength of his words. Everybody was disappointed at the brevity of his address. His voice then, as always, was a sweet, tender, tenor voice—his appearance was charming and agreeable."

And as the Senator proceeded to relate intimate touches of Lincoln's life and supply bits of conversation, the very presence of the great emancipator seemed to be brought nearer to the men who sat almost in awe as the speaker continued.

Mr. Robinson briefly explained the purposes of the club, saying that it was formed for the purpose of fostering the highest ideals of the Republican party. He said the banquet would be an annual affair.

Dr. John Willis Baer, vice-president of the club, read Lincoln's Gettysburg address, using an engraved brass tablet which he presented to the club for use on future annual meetings of the club.

Telegrams were received from President-elect Warren G. Harding, now in St. Augustine, Fla.; Vice-President-elect Calvin Coolidge, who wired from Asheville, N. C., and from Lincoln's son, Robert T. Lincoln of Washington, D. C.

The three messages were read by Walter R. Leeds, secretary of the Lincoln Club.

HARDING'S MESSAGE.

Mr. Harding's message follows:

"The life and work of Lincoln, emancipator and savior of our country, furnish us the finest ideal of American national patriotism and service.

SEASON FOR SEA MONSTERS OPEN.

First Serpent to Puzzle Scientists is Found South of Miami, Fla.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MIAMI (Fla.) Feb. 12.—Scientists and deep-water fishermen here are puzzled over the finding of a huge sea monster off Soldiers' Key, a few miles south of Miami, which they are unable to name. The body of the creature was found three weeks ago by Elmer E. Garretson of Huntington, L. I., who today towed part of the skull to Miami. This fragment is fifteen feet long and seven feet wide and weighs three tons.

Mr. Garretson said he did not know how long the monster was, but he saw as much as eighty feet of it. Sharks were devouring the flesh when he first found it.

CARDINAL BOURNE WARNS THE IRISH TO OBEY LAWS.

Fears Members of the Catholic Church Are Joining Societies Which Are Anathema.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, in a pastoral letter to his archdiocese, which will be read tomorrow, refers to the "horror and outrage in Ireland."

"In the midst of this welter of confusion," the letter continues, "I have grave reason to fear that some of my own flock, impelled by legitimate love of country and urgent longing for realization of their lawful aspirations, are unwarily allowing themselves to become implicated in societies and organizations which are in opposition to the laws of God and the Catholic church."

Cardinal Bourne refers to the warning of Cardinal Manning in 1867, in which Catholics were reminded that the church, through the Pope, had declared all conspiracy was a sin. Cardinal Bourne adds:

"And I take that warning, heard fifty-four years ago, and make it my own today. The name Fenianism is no longer in use, but the activity it connoted is still alive and the denunciation of the second archbishop of Westminster applies in unchanging measure to that activity today by whatever name it is called."

The cardinal declares that Parliament should deal "justly and promptly with this tragedy in Ireland."

DISCUSS RELIEF WORK.

Whether the American Committee for Relief in Ireland, which recently arrived, will be permitted to execute its plans depends on a conference of the civil and military authorities. Chairman France and other members of the committee, with the American Consul, visited Dublin Castle today and had a long interview with Sir John Anderson, Undersecretary, and Gen. MacReady, both of whom displayed interest in the intentions of the committee, but opposed the plan for the distribution of money and supplies.

It was pointed out by the officials of the Irish government that no chance could be risked of the money becoming diverted to the uses of the republican army. It was suggested to the committee to spend a few days in Belfast and Donegal and investigate the field for relief work there while authorities were considering the scope that should be allowed the committee.

It is understood that the committee accepted the situation and probably will go to Belfast after visiting Balbriggan Monday. It was intimated to the committee that its relief work, if permitted at all in martial-law areas, will be sharply defined and that the committee would not be permitted to alleviate the effects of punishment, officials in-

CUT NAVAL STRENGTH TO 100,000.

Reduction in the Marine Corps is Also Provided for Next Year.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The House today accepted without comment the provision for reducing the enlisted strength of the Navy from 143,000 to 100,000 men after July 1.

During consideration of the naval appropriation bill no objection was raised to the section providing funds sufficient only for 100,000 during the coming fiscal year.

Clauses providing for a reduction of the Marine Corps from approximately 27,000 to 20,000 men and for an appropriation of $90,000,000 to carry on the 1916 building program during the next fiscal year probably will be reached Monday.

Representative Garrett, Democrat, Tennessee, took the Republican party to task for "scrapping the only definite disarmament program ever laid before the world—the League of Nations."

Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois, wanted to know if the League of Nations meant disarmament, why nations already in the League had taken no steps to reduce their armies and navies.

"Because the United States is not in the League," shouted Mr. Garrett. "We're trying to build the biggest navy in the world."

Attacks on the navy bill on the ground that many provisions were new legislation continued today, Representative Britten leading the fight, but practically all sections considered remained intact.

CARUSO'S LUNG INFECTED?

Great Tenor's Illness Not Pleurisy Alone, Believe His Friends.

BY KATHERINE STANDISH.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Caruso's intimate friends say that the real truth of the great tenor's illness has never been given to the public. In treating him for pleurisy, his physicians have discovered a tubercular infection in one of his lungs. It is very doubtful if he will ever be able to return to the operatic stage. His malady is said to be due to [illegible] his lungs. Some time ago Caruso noticed that his marvelous voice had begun to lose its strength.

The truth was borne in upon him when he went home to Italy about six years ago. There he was told with ruthless frankness that his voice was no longer the same and that he was a baritone trying to sing tenor. He has never tried to sing in Italy since then.

During the last few years he has forced his voice unmercifully. Singing quietly at rehearsals or in his own home, his voice has been more beautiful than ever, incontestably the most wonderful voice that has ever been heard since the beginning of time. But he has not been content with quality. His artistic pride demanded the old volume. Wherefore his musical friends have been forced to witness a heartbreaking battle to see the great tenor fighting his golden throat, even to the point of throat hemorrhage, in the effort to tear out the terrific volume of sound.

I have been told that sometimes Caruso would go to a phonograph and bring out one of his records made years ago and listen with his eyes dimmed with tears to the voice of glorious youth that poured out to his middle-aged ears.

THE BREAK COMES.

The break came when his throat began to bleed a few weeks ago. The severe attack of pleurisy followed. Astonishing quantities of fluid have been taken from his side where drains are kept continually.

Caruso is pathetically hopeful that his career will be spared. Every day on his sick bed he tries out his voice. His reasons are not entirely academic and artistic for wishing to continue in opera. With the customs duties he has had to pay on his return from Europe, and with his murderous income taxes to the Federal government and New York State, and with the State taxes on his unproductive real estate, the singer has to sing to keep money in his purse.

Also, Caruso, who is personally one of the most charming and lovable of men, is prodigally and profusely generous with his money.

HARLOW'S TAVERN RAIDED.

Proprietor and Three Waiters Are Arrested as Violators of Prohibition Laws.

As the result of a midnight raid following information communicated to the Federal Department of Justice officers by one of their number who has been posing in and about Los Angeles for several weeks as a rich young man about town, Fred C. Harlow and three of his waiters were arrested last night on charges of violating Federal prohibition laws. Mr. Harlow and the waiters, all Japanese, were taken to the County Jail, where bond was arranged.

The raid was conducted at what is known as Harlow's tavern, on Washington Boulevard between Culver City and Venice.

The officers say that, besides evidence as to sales of liquor gathered by their agent, who has been a frequenter of the place, they found the kitchen full of small teapots which contained man-sized drinks of rum, whisky, brandy, creme de menthe and other cordials and liquors. The favorite means of serving the forbidden drinks was in teapots and after-dinner coffee cups.

All of the automobiles in the parking space of the tavern were searched and a list of the owners' names made so as to furnish the officers with a list of witnesses in the event they deem it necessary to call them.

which we are passing, the study and understanding of his career constitute the best training in that Americanism on which we must all rely for assurance that our country will be always true to itself and to its every proper duty in the world." [Applause.]

"I earnestly wish prosperity to the Lincoln Club of California and the fullest measure of success in seeking the attainment of its high ideals," wired Mr. Lincoln, whose message concluded: "I venture to express my most grateful feelings for the sentiment which inspires the club to use my father's name upon its flag." [Prolonged applause.]

Following is the greeting from Mr. Coolidge:

"This day marks the birth of a man great in his love of humanity. He trusted men because he knew them. He saved his country because he was willing to sacrifice himself. The same sentiment, the same trust, the same sacrifice are due to our country today from the Republican party which had it from its first President, Abraham Lincoln." [Applause.]

Gov. Lowden, without an attempt at oratorical effect or flourish, spoke reverently and tenderly of the life service of the martyred Emancipator.

"It is more than a half-century since his countrymen, with reverent hands, bore him to his grave," said Gov. Lowden, "and still his pitiless logic for the right, his serene faith in God and man, were the weapons with which democracy, humanity and righteousness but recently fought and overcame their ancient foe.

"Today, my friends, is his birthday. It will refresh the patriot's hope; it will strengthen the statesmen's resolution; it will grip humanity's heart if the friends of man everywhere, on this day, shall pause long enough to recall his life and death and to resolve that Abraham Lincoln shall not have lived and died in vain.

"It always touches me deeply when I go into another State and find that an important club has been named for the Great Emancipator. There does seem to be something in the name of Lincoln which gives vitality to an American club as can no other. So, tonight, I am doubly glad to appear before you and discuss some of the phases of Lincoln's life.

"We have known ever since Lincoln's death that he was America's most perfect product, but the world did not learn how much he meant to it until the great war came and civilization was threatened on every front.

"Then it was that in Paris or London, or wherever it was that men were still hoping, fighting with their backs to the wall—then it was that the whole world turned to the words of Lincoln. Whether it was Lloyd George in the Parliament of England, or Clemenceau in France, or wherever it might be, it was Lincoln's words that gave inspiration to all the forces fighting the battles of civilization. Though peace has come, his mighty voice is just as potent now as it was during that fateful time of war. [Applause.]

TRULY SERVED MANKIND.

"Lincoln truly served mankind because he loved mankind. Genuine service must always spring from the promptings of the heart, and is never the product of the will alone. And so he couldn't help giving his tenderest thought to the workingman. He cared for him because he cared for all men. Everyone is familiar with his significant saying that the Lord loves plain people because He made so many of them.

"Any form of government is but a means to an end and that end is happiness of the individual. I am sure that in our almost a century and a half of existence, since the great day of independence, more men have lived happy lives in our country and under our form of government than in any other in all the history of the world.

"But the happiness and well-being of the average man and woman must be steadily advanced if our institutions are to endure. The economists may explain, the statesmen may excuse our failure to accomplish this but the fact remains, our civilization will fail if the well-being of the men and women and children of America shall not continuously improve." [Applause.]

And at this point in his address Gov. Lowden took opportunity to emphasize to his hearers the fact that Lincoln's ideas of a free government for a free people must, at this time, be reapplied and renewed if the Union is to continue to prosper and to progress.

"This cannot be, in my opinion," he said, "if we destroy private initiative in industry. For every invention, for every improved process made under the stimulus of private initiative, though the inventor may profit, society profits immeasurably more. A steadily reducing amount of human labor is all the time required to produce the necessities of life. [Applause.]

"If we shall abandon the ancient landmarks and substitute for private initiative and private industry a socialistic state, the progress of mankind will be arrested and retrogression will set in.

"Again Lincoln speaks to us. It is a message for today: 'The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do at all or cannot do so well for themselves in their separate and individual capacities. In all that the people can individually do as well for themselves, government ought not to interfere.'

"He also warns us: 'Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him labor diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built.'

"There are those who believe they can see somewhere high in the sky a shadowy banner, upon which is written the word, 'Internationalism.' To some, this far-away flag seems white—to others it seems red. They believe that this flag is to supersede the flags of all the nations of the earth. That time may come, but it will come only when the millenium shall dawn. In the meantime we can serve humanity best by serving our own country first. [Applause.]

"My friends, somehow we need a flag whose folds we can touch with our hands, and our soldier boys need a flag which, if death shall come, can fold them in its embrace—the flag of their country and not a shadowy international banner floating somewhere out of sight.

VISION CIRCLED THE GLOBE.

"All through his writings runs the thought that our cause was the cause of humanity. In his speech at Gettysburg, he did not say, 'Let us highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish' "from the United States," but 'from the earth.' His vision circled the globe.

"His great heart was beating in sympathy with mankind everywhere. But he knew that the surest way to held the world was to cherish our priceless heritage at home. He knew that if he could preserve intact the liberties and institutions which we called our own, that was the greatest service we could render to mankind.

"Humanity! Yes, Lincoln in his great heart embraced more men and women and children than any other who has lived since Calvary, my friends; but Lincoln knew that he was serving the far-off savage, that he was serving the oppressed serf somewhere else, that he was serving outraged and wronged humanity the world around most by serving his country first.

"How well he wrought I doubt if even he himself could fully understand. The condition of mankind the world over has been constantly improving, due to our influence and example. The American republic has been an inspiration to the lovers of liberty everywhere.

"It is the last and best hope of the world and he who would imperil its future by excess love for other peoples and other lands is recreant not only to his country, but to mankind everywhere. The nation which he saved had grown so powerful in a little more than fifty years that it was able, in the supreme crisis of civilization, to turn the tide of the great world conflict. And as he prayed, so now may we have faith to believe that 'government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth.' [Applause.]

"The cause of democracy is the cause of humanity. Democracy concerns itself with the welfare of the average man. Lincoln was its finest product. In life he was its noblest champion. In death he became its saint. His tomb is now its shrine. His country's cause for which he lived and died has now become the cause of all the world." [Prolonged applause.]

BY GOV. STEPHENS.

Gov. Stephens spoke as follows:

"How fortunate we are on this particular evening as we gather to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of America's universally loved and respected President, to have at this table men from every State in the Union, men who knew Abraham Lincoln as a man, and as President, men who have grown from boyhood to manhood, from youth to serviceable old age, under the doctrines and principles followed and established by the Great Emancipator.

"It is with great pleasure that I, as Governor of this State, welcome to California the former Governor of Illinois, Hon. Frank C. Lowden, whose able administration, so lately brought to a close, has given him a reputation extending far beyond the confines of his State. Gov. Lowden's future is bright with promise, and if he is called to administer a higher office, California will be well pleased. [Applause.]

"I am glad to see here assembled many that are eminent through their business and other activities in the State of California; glad am I to express the extreme pleasure afforded us all by the presence among us of our own former United States Senator, Hon. Cornelius Cole, who in the years from 1867 to 1873 represented this commonwealth in the upper house at Washington. [Applause.]

"We have come together tonight not only as citizens of this great republic, but as members of the great Republican party, whose administration of the nation's affairs has always accomplished most for the general good. Under Republican rule, and Republican policies, the nation has prospered. [Applause.] In 1846 Abraham Lincoln was first a candidate for Congress. Among other things he stood for was a high protective tariff, and ever since we who have tried to do as he would have us do have worked for and favored the protective tariff policy for American homes and American industries. [Applause.]

"In the lowliest of American homes, in a log cabin in the woods of Kentucky, Abraham Lincoln, our martyred President, was born, in the year 1809. When he had reached the age of 50 he was elected President of the United States. Lifted up by God Almighty to bear the burdens of a great conflict, he fulfilled his mission, and brought America through its darkest days—an undivided nation. Great was the man, and great has been his reward, for he lives today not only in the hearts of his countrymen, but also in the hearts of men throughout the world as one of the world's sublimest characters. Those who wore the blue, and those who wore the gray, are rich in their regard and their praises of Lincoln, the immortal. He was our 'Father Abraham'—may we not tonight resolve and re-resolve to live and work for the upbuilding of the republic for which he gave his life? [Applause.]

"Onward, brethren of the Republican faith; forward, men of California, to where we can be of greatest assistance to our next President, Warren G. Harding of Ohio, in giving to the United States, and to the world, the best possible example of a government serving as Lincoln would have had it served, a government of the people, by the people and for the people." [Prolonged applause.]

Following the conclusion of Gov. Lowden's address, the Lincoln Club voted unanimously to elect Gov. Lowden and Senator Cole honorary members of the organization. Telegrams of greeting were sent to Mr. Harding and to Mr. Coolidge.

FROM LOWDEN TO LINCOLN.

Following are some notable extracts from ex-Gov. Lowden's Lincoln Day speech last night:

"It is more than a half-century since his countrymen, with reverent hands, bore him to his grave. And still his pitiless logic for the right, his serene faith in God and man were the weapons with which democracy, humanity and righteousness but recently fought and overcame their ancient foe."

"We have known ever since Lincoln's death that he was America's most perfect product, but the world did not learn how much he meant to it until the great war came and civilization was threatened on every front."

"If we shall abandon the ancient landmarks and substitute for private initiative industry a socialistic state, the progress of mankind will be arrested and retrogression will set in."

"He also warns us: 'Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him labor diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built.'"

"There are those who believe they can see somewhere high in the sky a shadowy banner, upon which is written the word 'internationalism.' To some this faraway flag seems white—to others it seems red. They believe that this flag is to supersede the flags of all nations. That time may come, but it will come only when the millennium shall dawn. Meantime, we can serve humanity best by serving our own country first."

"Lincoln truly served mankind because he loved mankind. Genuine service must always spring from the promptings of the heart, and is never a product of the will alone."

graduated from this institution he entered the Harvard law school, but left to join the army, serving until the end of the Civil War as captain on the staff of Gen. Grant.

He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1867 and began his practice in Chicago. On September 24, 1868, he married Miss Mary Harlan, daughter of James Harlan of Iowa. He was Secretary of War in the Cabinets of President Garfield and President Arthur and United States Minister to Great Britain from 1889 to 1893.

LAY "CORNER-STONE."

The "corner-stone" of America's first airway from Washington to Dayton, O., was laid today at Bolling Field here with appropriate ceremonies, designed as part of the celebration of the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday. High officers of the army, members of Congress and aviators of note attended.

A feature of the dedication was the first public appearance of the American messenger airplane, one of the smallest in the world, which is planned to take the place of motorcycles for certain messenger work. The plane has a wing spread of only twenty feet and stands seven feet high. It will carry a load of 240 pounds and with its sixty-horse power motor makes ninety-five miles an hour.

PEZET IS SPEAKER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) Feb. 12.—The example of Lincoln's "tolerance and innate sense of justice" in his treatment of all international problems offers the world the "only sure, straight road to peace," Ambassador Pezet of Peru declared today in the annual address before the Lincoln Centennial Association here.

Because in foreign, as well as domestic, questions, Lincoln sought the full truth before committing himself, the Ambassador added, his deeds are remembered and he grows with the years in the hearts of all peoples.

"Let all statesmen take Lincoln for their model," he said, "and the causes for many wars will vanish like morning mists in the sunlight. In this sense Lincoln belongs not only to the American people, but to all just men everywhere."

INCIDENT RECALLED.

Recalling the course pursued by the United States under Lincoln's administration in resuming diplomatic relations with Peru after they had been severed during President Buchanan's administration as the result of a controversy resulting over Peru's seizure of two American vessels charged with contraband trading, Ambassador Pezet declared this to be typical of the acts of international justice which had earned the reverence and love of all Latin-American peoples for Lincoln's memory.

"How many wars in the world's history have arisen from causes no more fundamental than the difference existing between my country and yours at the time that Abraham Lincoln took the helm of affairs?" he declared. "How many wars have sprung from the intransigeance little men, called by ironic fate to rulers of great people?"

GOV. SPROUL SPEAKS.

"Lincoln was prophesier of woman suffrage eighty-four years before the Nineteenth Amendment became the law, as indicated by his New Salem letter of 1836," Gov. Sproul of Pennsylvania, who preceded Ambassador Pezet, declared. He typified Lincoln as "one whose extraordinary insight into politics and political questions was keen at the age of 20."

"We may rejoice that has weathered the world continued, "and that our passing through the cast up by the tempest parture from the faith of the nor loss of confidence in the of our republic.

"Out of this celebration sacred memory of Abraham we may confidently predict of those virtues which free government and through the republic with its opportunities shall never

"Lest We Forget"

"The Poppies of Flanders Field"

WHILE abroad during the summer of 1919 on a horticultural commission for the French Government, the President of our company had an opportunity of visiting some of the recent battle grounds of France and of viewing the disaster wrought by modern warfare. The devastated cities and towns, the chaos of forest and field, the ruined cathedrals and desolated homes, the homeless wandering aimlessly about with only a bare existence confronting them and all the joy of living gone—all these sights bore mute testimony to the curse of autocracy's ambition.

As he stood in contemplation of this hideous mockery of man's effort and achievement he was impressed as with a miracle by the beauty and promise of the poppies everywhere existent. In the abandoned trenches, in the shell holes, in the very ruins of buildings, on the roadside and in the deserted street and on the fields of carnage where the martyrs to a cause gasped an end to earthly life, there, blood red, symbols of the life blood of the heroic dead, grew the poppies.

And thereupon a thought occurred to him, and of that idea was born a mental vision of those same poppies growing in a land where the highest ideals of mankind have birth and fructify; growing along our magnificent boulevards, in beautiful gardens and public parks; growing in memory of the sons of America and the sons of our Allies, who gave to the full measure of their devotion that Liberty and Justice should not perish from the earth.

And of this was born the resolution to crystallize the thought into accomplished fact—but free of any commercialism. Arrangements for harvesting the seed and its shipment to us were undertaken and perfected, but unavoidable delays have just placed us in possession of it. It is now ready for distribution without charge to anyone who regards the idea as commendable and who wishes to take part in its fulfillment.

As long as the supply lasts the seed will be distributed with the compliments of HEAVIER STEEL FOR SANTA FE.

New Union Depot is Planned at Phoenix.

Youth Held on Suspicion of Robbing Passengers.

Improvements on Reservation Near Flagstaff.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Feb. 12.—The Santa Fe is laying heavier steel on the Phoenix-Wickenburg section. [illegible] engines have been added at Prescott, each of 260 tons weight, practically double the power of others heretofore used. They have been put into service on the steep Iron Springs grade.

The Southern Pacific, leading in the movement for a new union depot in Phoenix, has instituted condemnation proceedings against property in the southwestern part of Phoenix, said to be wanted for the improvement. It has been decided to continue the downtown office in connection with the Santa Fe.

Howard Brazee, a Proenix lad, 17 years old, is being held on a charge of robbing passengers on a Southern Pacific Phoenix sleeper.

A banquet was held at the Goodyear camp, near Chandler, on the occasion of the retirement of John J. Granville, who for several years has been in charge there of the interests of the Southwestern Cotton Company. He was presented with a loving cup.

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) Feb. 12.—Important improvements are being made on the Indian reservation northeast of this point. A single-span 150-foot bridge across Canyon Diablo at Leupp has been completed and a 300-foot single-span bridge across the Little Colorado will be opened soon. The Indian school is being enlarged to care for 400 pupils. Supt. Robert E. Burris of the western Navajo agency, at Tuba, has resigned and will be succeeded by Byron A. Sharp, transferred from the Salt River Pima agency, near Phoenix.

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well-known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists ask a customer who wished to buy a cough medicine whether it was for a child or an adult and, if for a child, they almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for colds, croup and whooping cough it is unsurpassed.—[Advertisement.

WAR OF FUTURE WILL BE IN AIR.

tion engines. Every one of those ships will carry as its major weapons three kinds of airplanes: First, aircraft for scouting duty, both over water and over enemy coasts; second, bombing planes for dropping explosives on ships and fortifications; third, torpedo planes carrying projectiles to be launched against the hulls of surface ships."

"Is that the sort of future navy Admiral Sir Percy Scott is crusading for in England?" Admiral Fiske was asked.

LESSONS OF WAR.

"In general, yes," he replied. "Scott wants to lose no time in profiting from the lessons of the World War. He saw, as the whole world saw, that fleets of mighty armored ships could not get closer than ten miles to enemy coasts. He knows that the gun range of a battleship is limited. He knows that speedy aircraft have heavy ships hopelessly outstripped. In radius of action there is no comparison between them."

Admiral Fiske originated the torpedo plane system and lived to see it adopted in principle by the American, British and Japanese navies. It is the torpedo plane, he is convinced, that is destined to spell the doom of the big, costly surface ship.

"It is not easily seen," said Admiral Fiske, "how a battleship can protect itself from the attack of a torpedo plane. The battleship is protected from ordinary torpedo attack by destroyers, smoke screens and similar devices, all of the same class of speed, and all on the same location plane in space as the thing to be protected. A destroyer may be twice as fast as a battleship, but not ten or fifteen times as fast. A destroyer cannot get up in the air and fly and a destroyer is a target for a naval gun.

DRAWS COMPARISON.

"A torpedo plane can attack without being noticed until it is too high. High up, it is invisible and inaudible. It can descend so swiftly that it cannot be hit even if seen. It can come within close range of the battleship, launch its torpedo and swoop upward again so swiftly that it is practically safe. Even if it were not safe, what is one man, one inexpensive plane, against the loss of a giant ship?"

Admiral Fiske is 67 years old. There is no more progressive naval officer just out of Annapolis than the man who invented an electric range-finder and electric ammunition hoist, an electrical system of turning turrets and a system for detecting submarines.

Admiral Fiske does not think aircraft navies will mean disarmament. He does not believe in disarmament. He says as long as Americans want world trade and a mercantile marine we must maintain invulnerable strength at sea.

BRITISH RAILROADS FACING BANKRUPTCY.

ONLY ONE ROAD NOW SOLVENT, SAYS DIRECTOR OF MIDLAND; TO ASK ASSISTANCE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Only one railroad in England is in a solvent condition and the British government need not be surprised if it is asked to extend financial assistance to the railroads of that country, Sir William Granet, a director of the Midland Railway, said today on his arrival here from London.

"The government will have to raise the money," he declared. "The condition is just the same as your railroads found themselves in after the war."

Business conditions in England, he said, were undergoing a period of decided depression and he expressed the opinion that more than a year would elapse before anything like normal is attained.

DISCOVERS CAUSE OF FALLING HAIR

Chicago Specialist Says Greatest Percentage of Baldness Due to Alopecia Pityrodes.

Prof. John H. Austin, over 40 years a bacteriologist, hair and scalp specialist, who now has offices at Hamburger's, says this scalp disorder is often mistaken for common "dandruff."

Alopecia pityrodes starts with a scaling of the scalp, sometimes slight, commonly called "dandruff," sometimes abundant — producing thick, grayish-white, dry or greasy scales—which leads to falling of the hair. This stage lasts from two to seven years, as a rule. At first, when the hair starts to fall, it is hardly noticeable, but as this ailment, "Alopecia Pityrodes," becomes more deeply seated, and as the microbacilli multiply, as they always do, the falling of the hair increases rapidly and in time the top of the head becomes entirely bald.

Prof. Austin has found that only the most powerful microscope can determine the exact trouble with which the hair and scalp are afflicted, and has proved that the use of mange cures, dandruff cures, hair tonics, vaseline and elixirs, is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

FREE MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATION of the hair and scalp—both men and women invited. Private Office, Second Floor Hamburger's. Hours, 10 to 12, and 2 to 4.—[Advertisement.

flicted for attacks on the crown forces.

FIRE ON PASSENGER TRAIN.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CORK, Feb. 12.—One soldier was killed and a number of others were wounded today in an attack on a passenger train outside of Mill-street station by a hundred armed men. The attackers fired on the cars, which contained thirty soldiers, from both sides of the line.

ATTACKERS GET RIFLES.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, Feb. 12.—An official report of the attack by armed men on a passenger train in Cork today, reported in news dispatches from that city, says the train was about to leave Mallow station when armed men boarded the engine and compelled the engineer to proceed until the train had reached a cutting near the Mill-street station. There it was halted and a heavy fire was opened on the foremost car, where forty soldiers were riding. A fight lasting fifteen minutes followed in which a sergeant was killed and one officer and five soldiers were wounded, four seriously. Rifles and equipment were taken by the attacking party, numbering 200 men, and the engineer was ordered to proceed. In view of this and of similar incidents, involving danger to railway men and passengers, the official report says, a repetition of the occurrence would lead to the closing of the railway in the martial law area in which the attack occurred.

One man, a civilian, was killed by a police volley today at Clondrchid bridge, in the martial law area, which armed men destroyed yesterday.

An attack was made last night upon the barracks at Elphin, County Roscommon. The police held out all night, without injury to any of their number, although explosives were used in the attack and one of the gables of the building was blown in.

BARRACKS ATTACKED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BANTRY (Ireland) Feb. 12. Three hundred armed civilians attacked the Drimoleague police barracks last midnight. The garrison offered a fierce resistance, and with the help of a relief force repulsed the attacking party.

One sergeant of the defending forces was wounded. The barracks and near-by houses were badly damaged by the firing.

CONSULATE NOT ENTERED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The Evening News today printed a dispatch from Cork which said much excitement had been caused at the Covo (Queenstown) by the visits of troops to the American Consulate. The message said the military had carried off some leather bags to the Royal Irish Constabulary barracks, the contents of the bags not being known.

A Queenstown message quoted American Consul Mitchell as stating there was no foundation for the report that crown forces had entered the Consulate.

NO DEPORTATION ORDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—No order has been issued for the deportation of Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork and he will not be deported, M. F. Doyle, one of his counsel, said tonight after a conference late today with Secretary Wilson. For O'Callaghan to go back now, he added, would mean giving himself into the hands of his enemies, and his legal status and rights will be defended to maintain for him freedom to return to Ireland at his own convenience.

The order recently issued by the Labor Department defining O'Callaghan's status as a "seaman," Mr. Doyle said, contained no time limit.

The time limit reported when the order was announced gave the Lord Mayor until yesterday to reship under penalty of being deported. He was said to be on a speaking campaign in New York State tonight.

time for his cotton mills and his banks."

GIVES DETAILS.

Judge Landis then went into details of the case, in which Francis J. Carey, a clerk in the National City Bank of Ottawa, Ill., was charged with the embezzlement of $96,000.

Carey, he asserted, was only 28 years old, and was paid but a little more than $3 a day for handling approximately $1,000,000 a month. Judge Landis declared that his investigations showed him that Young Carey was the support of his mother and four younger brothers and a sister. The judge further declared that his study of the situation had disclosed the fact that the bank which employed Carey as receiving teller at $90 a month paid "20 per cent of profit on the investment to their shareholders on their stock per annum."

BLAMES BANKERS.

"Then it was," Judge Landis declared, "that I made the statement that a board of bank directors that were guilty of creating the condition I have outlined would naturally and reasonably invite embezzlement. I repeat that here, and I send that to Senator Dial with my compliments."

Judge Landis, reading from "Who's Who" of Senator Dial's interest in South Carolina banks and cotton mills, declared:

"I think he had better get out of the banking business or else get out of the Senate," and concluded that if, in all his sixteen years of service on the bench, he had not accomplished anything else, "I have performed the Herculean task of dragging" Senator Dial "from what appeared to be an airtight obscurity."

Judge Landis declared that he had, of course, to send Carey some place, but that he did not intend to send him to the penitentiary.

His Hearing Restored.

The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York City. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does this so successfully that no one could tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by perforated or wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 111, 70 Fifth avenue, New York City, will be given prompt reply.—[Advertisement.

Josef Hofmann at his Steinway

STEINWAY
THE INSTRUMENT OF THE IMMORTALS

HIS moving fingers touch the Steinway into life—the master and his instrument are one — there comes a shower of gorgeous sound—a sense of beauty fills the air—there is a hush of breathing while the listener drinks the beauty from each fleeting note. Perhaps the master is Hofmann, perhaps Rachmaninoff. Yesterday it might have been Paderewski. Half a century ago Franz Liszt and Anton Rubinstein were kings. But whenever the time and whoever the master, the piano remains the same—Steinway, Instrument of the Immortals.

In Los Angeles, the Steinway Piano may be found only at the Birkel Company.

FELTS MURDER TRIAL OPENS.

Nineteen Matewan Citizens Are Under Indictment.

Baldwin-Felts Detective is Put on the Stand.

Confused by Popping Rifles, Fired and Fled.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WILLIAMSON (W. Va.) Feb. 12. Excited and confused, with pistols and rifles popping on every side, John McDowell, one of the Baldwin-Felts detectives, who battled with the citizens of Matewan May 19, testified today he fired three shots at Reece Chambers, a defendant, and then fled while seven of his comrades and three townspeople lay dead.

McDowell was the first witness called at the trial of nineteen Matewan men, indicted in connection with the death of Albert C. Felts, leader of the detectives. He was followed by two telephone operators, May Chafin, a niece of Rece Chambers, and Elsie Chambers, his daughter.

TO EVICT MINERS.

McDowell said he had come with the detectives to evict several miners and their families from houses owned by the Stone Mountain Coal Company at Matewan. While the evictions were in progress, McDowell recalled that Albert Felts had seen C. C. Testerman, Mayor, and Sid Hatfield, Chief of Police, accompanied by a party of men coming their way. Felts, the witness testified, ordered some of the men to get their guns, and they did. The Mayor protested to Felts, who answered that he had ample authority. To which Testerman replied: "Well, you don't pull anything like that and get away with it down here."

TOLD OF WARRANTS.

When the evictions ended and the men were preparing to leave, Hatfield told Felts warrants for their arrest had been sworn out in Williamson.

McDowell was not clear as to how the shooting started or who fired the first shot. He said firing was going on all around him, but the only man he saw shooting was Reece Chambers. McDowell, according to his testimony, fired three shots at Chambers and then crossed over into Kentucky. Fully 100 shots were fired, he said.

Miss Chafin was on duty in the telephone exchange, she testified. She heard Sid Hatfield call Tony Webb, who was chief deputy sheriff and asked him when warrants could be obtained for the arrest of the detectives. She further testified that she heard Hatfield tell Webb: "We'll kill the———before they get out of Matewan." Miss Chambers testified to substantially the same thing.

CREW OF LOST SHIP LANDED AT BOSTON.

BELGIAN STEAMER, STORM VICTIM, BELIEVED GONE TO THE BOTTOM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—The rescue at sea of the thirty-six men, comprising the crew of the Belgian freighter Bombardier, as their ship was going down was described today when they arrived here on the steamer Mt. Clay. The latter, bound from Hamburg for New York, but diverted to this port, was formerly the German commerce raider Prinz Eitel Friederich.

With decks awash and heavy seas crashing upon them, the men of the Bombardier lost two of their four lifeboats when they tried to leave the ship Wednesday morning. The chief officer managed to put off with ten men in safety, and sixteen men got away in another boat.

Meantime, the Mt. Clay had put over a lifeboat and picked off ten men who remained, among them Capt. Mathes, who was last to leave his ship. She sank soon afterward, the crew believes. The Bombardier, formerly operated by the Shipping Board as the Iris, was carrying a general cargo from New York for Antwerp when she encountered a hurricane Monday and sprung a leak. Buffeted by the storm, the seams opened and water flooded coal bunkers and engine room, extinguishing fires, putting radio apparatus out of commission and washing coal into the pumps which became clogged. The wireless was restored sufficiently to send out feeble distress signals that called the Mt. Clay fifty miles away.

Capt. Mathes said he felt the loss of his ship keenly, but added: "That will not be the last of your American-built ships that will be lost. They have made them with a plate from Ohio and another plate from Philadelphia and a winch from California. It will not be the last and it is the result—"

There he stopped.

CLEVELAND BISHOP DIES IN TENNESSEE.

NEWS AT THE STATE CAPITAL.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 10.—Abolition of the State Reclamation Board, created in 1911 to carry out the flood control plan of the Sacramento and San Joaquin drainage district, is designed in a bill of which Senator Claude F. Purkitt of Willows is the author. The real purpose of the measure, believed at first to be only an amendment to the Drainage District Act of 1911, just became known.

The move to abolish the Reclamation Board is backed by the farmers of Colusa county, and comes as a climax to years of bitter fighting and litigation between owners of land in the Sacramento Valley and the board.

Many suits have been tried, several of which reached the Supreme Court, in which the land owners, especially those residing in Sutter and Colusa counties, have endeavored to prevent the board from exercising its power to levy assessments for reclamation and flood-control work.

When originally created, the board consisted of only three members, but in 1915 the act was amended to provide for seven members. The affairs of the board are direct by General Manager Melville Dozier, Jr., who receives a salary of $10,000 a year, a sum equal to the salary paid the Governor.

The contract for printing the 34,878 State highway bonds, covering $34,878,000 of the fund remaining to be expended under the third bond issue of $40,000,000, has been awarded to a San Francisco firm on its bid of $16,741.44.

Another public auction sale of State scrip, which may be applied in the purchase of vacant nonmineral government land in California, has been set by State Surveyor-General Kingsbury for March 7.

All money received from the sale of scrip goes to the support of the public schools. At the last sale held several weeks ago, the price received averaged $6.81 per acre. The scrip is sold in forty-acre lots for cash, though no purchaser is allowed to buy more than 640 acres.

The list of unemployed in California continues to grow while jobs remain very scarce and hard to find, according to reports made to Deputy State Labor Commissioner Blair. During the month of January positions were found by the State employment bureaus for only 7839 persons, 5356 of which were men and 2483 women.

Positions were filled by the various bureaus during January as follows: Los Angeles, 3538; San Francisco, 1112; Oakland, 1052; Fresno, 759; San Jose, 431; Stockton, 469; Sacramento, 383; Marysville, fifty-six, and Chico, thirty-nine.

The State Board of Prison Directors has fixed the price of San Quentin grain bags at 7½ cents each, and this price will remain in effect until April 1, in order to give the growers an opportunity to calculate on their crops and to figure on the number of bags they will need. After April 1 the price is subject to change by the directors.

MOTHER COMES TO AID OF CONVICTED SON.

SEEKS TO HAVE DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12.—Mrs. Anna Bowles Wiley, a Terre Haute (Ind.) newspaper woman, and Mrs. Fannie Hall, mother of William Henry Norris, alias Arthur Owen Davis, confessed slayer of City Marshall J. W. Reives of Redding, were in Sacramento today on behalf of the young slayer. Norris is under sentence to be hanged at San Quentin penitentiary on March 25.

At the office of Gov. Stephens, Mrs. Wiley declared that Norris, who she said records showed to be 17 years of age, was mentally subnormal. She said that commutation of the sentence would be asked of the Governor on that ground.

RAILROAD LABOR BOARD WILL REST.

DATE FOR HEARING CONTROVERSY OVER WORKING RULES INDEFINITE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Both sides in the railroad controversy over rules and working conditions before the railroad labor board rested today with the date of resuming the hearing indefinite. Meanwhile the dispute brought before the board of employees of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railway will come up for hearing Monday. This case, which grew out of a proposed reduction in wages and which was held up by a board order, is considered one of importance as pointing the way to possible action by other roads.

The rules hearing was adjourned Thursday until labor representatives would be prepared to present their evidence in reply to the roads' objection to the national agreement.

Brunswick
PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

A Famous Invention
That Makes the Brunswick a Super-Phonograph

The Ultona

The exclusive all-record reproducer, a Brunswick invention. It plays ALL records at their best, with the proper needle, the proper diaphragm and the correct tension. Not an attachment, but a built-in part.

There is a Brunswick to fit every purse and circumstance from the Model 7 at $115 up to the Les Beaux Arts at $775—any one of which may be purchased on the Barnes Easy Payment plan—plus Barnes Service.

NO ONE feature of the Brunswick Method of Reproduction has done so much to revolutionize people's ideas of the difference between phonographs as the Ultona.

The Ultona is an exclusive Brunswick idea, covered by patents.

At a turn of the hand it plays all makes of records—not an attachment, but a part of the design. The Ultona obtains better playing results.

But this is not the only advantage. It is counter-balanced—the only scientific reproducer that cushions the path of the needle by proper suspension.

This means an end to "scratching" noises. It means bringing out the hidden beauties of the record. It means a longer-lasting record, one that retains its newness.

If the Brunswick had no other advantages over ordinary phonographs, this one feature should decide you in its favor.

But there are many other exclusive features. We want to point them out to you, so that you can make intelligent comparisons. You buy only one phonograph—you might as well take time to investigate—find out before you decide.

Let us also play some Brunswick Records for you, so that you can become acquainted with finer recordings.

The very NEXT BEST thing to owning a Brunswick is to USE Brunswick Records. They will play on your machine with steel or fiber needles.

"The Greatest Event in Edison's Life"

(Quoting from an International news dispatch appearing in the daily press, February 8th.)

Responding to the question, "What has been the most important event in your life?" Thomas A. Edison, the world's master genius, answered: "That crude model which I thought might possibly give a clew to the problem of recording and reproducing the human voice. It actually did so on the first test, and my astonishment was profound."

The crude model Thomas A. Edison referred to was his invention of the first phonograph from which after years of research and the expenditure of millions he eventually evolved considered one of the greatest scientific achievements of the age.

This phonograph Re-Creates music with absolute fidelity as proved by Collins and Harlan, noted entertainers, who sang jointly with it in a tone test at Trinity Auditorium recently. In this test the impossibility of distinguishing between an artist's voice and its Re-Creation by the New Edison was proved definitely. Little wonder that the world's greatest inventor has called the New Edison his supreme achievement.

NEW AIM IN QUIZ ON WAR.

Secret Archives of Baker's Department Kept Sealed.

Investigators Are Refused Look Over Files.

Ship Construction Amazed Germans, Says Hurley.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—A resolution which is expected to shift the Congressional investigation of the conduct of the war into a new field was introduced today by Representative Flood, Democrat, Virginia, member of the general investigating body.

The resolution called on Secretary Baker for all facts connected with the application of J. M. Hill and C. C. Lindsey for permission to inspect the secret archives of the War Department and the refusal of the department to grant such permission.

The two were employed by an investigator who was employed by the Johnson subcommittee, and not directly by the committee, the chairman explained. A voucher of $2400 for their work, or part of it, made out in the name of their employer, is held by Chairman Ireland of the House Committee on Accounts, and had not been paid.

CONTRACT RECORDS.

Their names were brought before the general investigating committee last June. Mr. Flood, in then denying charges by Republican members that the War Department's attitude was unfavorable to the investigation, declared the only refusal was in the case of Hill and Lindsey, who were seeking certain secret records containing the settlement of contracts.

This action, he charged, was taken after the department authorities had found that their real purpose was to obtain money from a newspaper for information supposed to be on file among government records, "in the event they were unable to obtain a large sum through blackmail."

EXPENSES CRITICISED.

Chairman Ireland in the House this week criticised the expenditure of large sums by investigating committees, declaring he had seen no real application of concrete results from the war investigations, and that his committee undoubtedly would have disapproved many of the contracts had it known about it. It was indicated tonight that another resolution bearing on the case would be introduced Monday.

In his statement to the committee, which he made public today, Mr. Flood said Hill and Lindsey went to the department with a letter from Samuel T. Ansell, former acting Judge-Advocate-General of the Army, counsel for the Johnson subcommittee.

ALL AMAZED.

Both the Allies and the Germans were astounded at the rapidity with which the Shipping Board constructed ships after the United States entered the war, a House investigating committee was informed today by E. N. Hurley of Chicago, chairman of the board from July, 1917, to the summer of 1919.

High government officials in England, France and Italy told him after the armistice, he said, that they were highly pleased at the achievements of the board. He learned also, he said, that the Germans, too, had been amazed at the board's program.

He discussed the favorable comment he had heard abroad after touching on criticisms in this country. Admitting mistakes had been made, he said that was inevitable since it was necessary to create a mammoth organization quickly to turn out ships.

"We delivered the ships," he declares. "That's what we were supposed to do."

PROFITED BY MISTAKES.

Shipping Board officers profited by their mistakes and the ships put into use, he declared, helped turn the tide of the war.

Mr. Hurley paid tribute to the men associated with him, especially Charles M. Schwab, who, he said, had been drafted to take charge of construction when satisfactory progress was not being made. At the Peace Conference, Mr. Hurley continued, Clemenceau told him that this appointment had frightened the Germans, heartened the French and cheered the British.

"I know that his appointment," he added, "inspired the American people to get behind the shipbuilding program."

He expressed optimism over the future of the American merchant marine, but said too many ships might prove a liability in case of insufficient cargoes.

Junking of the government's wooden ships was favored by Mr. Hurley, who said the vessels were no longer of any use or practical value.

BOMB EXPLOSION IS BLAMED ON POLITICS.

WARD HEADQUARTERS ARE WRECKED AND SIX MEN HURT IN CHICAGO.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—A bomb explosion at the nineteenth ward Democratic headquarters last night seriously injured six men, and was attributed to politics today by Anthony d'Andrea, City Council candidate from that ward.

A big hole was blown in the wall of the brick building close to the speakers' stand where d'Andrea had just finished addressing a crowd of about 300 of his adherents.

Alderman John Powers, who for thirty-three years has represented that ward in the City Council and State Senate and is a candidate for re-election to the Council, said today he hoped no one would believe that he would "countenance such an action" by any of his followers.

Two of d'Andrea's precinct captains suffered broken legs, one had his leg blown off, and several others were hurt.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MAY GO DRY DESPITE VOTE.

PREMIER DRAFTS BILL PROVIDING STRINGENT CONTROL OF LIQUOR.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) Feb. 12.—Stringent control of the liquor trade in British Columbia is provided in a bill prepared by Premier Oliver to be introduced in the Provincial Legislature net week.

The Premier, in outlining the measure today, said it would abolish bars and saloons, prohibit sales to minors, provide for the establishment of government liquor stores in large centers which would be conducted at a small profit. Illicit buying will be made a punishable offense with the municipalities receiving 50 per cent of all fines imposed.

The proposed bill would place the liquor business under control of a non-partisan board.

WHEAT GROWERS WILL ELIMINATE MIDDLEMEN

PLAN CO-OPERATIVE SELLING TO SAVE 55 CENTS ON EACH BUSHEL.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The National Association of Wheat Growers today decided to adopt immediately a co-operative plan of selling their product in an effort to save approximately 55 cents a bushel through the elimination of the middleman's profit. This action was taken at the final meeting of the executive board of the association.

The growers plan to establish central receiving stations in each State where the farmers may send their wheat and obtain a receipt for it. From the stations the wheat will be sold direct to the millers. Stations for receiving wheat also will be established at all large seaports to handle export trade, it was said.

MEN ARE OVERCOME IN HOLD OF VESSEL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, Feb. 12.—Two men were overcome by gas today on the hold of a ship under construction at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation yard and were removed unconscious to a hospital. It was reported they would recover. Six other workmen who went to the rescue of their comrades were also overcome temporarily.

Breaking of a gas pipe was given as the cause of the accident. The workmen were engaged on a rush job.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WAUCHULA (Fla.) Feb. 12.—The lynching here Thursday night of Ben Campbell, a negro, was reported yesterday. He was taken from the City Jail by a mob, hanged to a telephone pole and his body riddled with bullets. He was accused of attempting to attack a white woman.

APPOINTMENTS ARE APPROVED BY KING.

WINSTON CHURCHILL BECOMES SECRETARY FOR COLONIES; OTHER CHANGES.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—King George today approved the appointment of Winston Spencer Churchill as Secretary for the Colonies; Sir Laming Worthington Evans, as Secretary for War; Lord Lee of Fareham, as First Lord of the Admiralty, and Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, as president of the Board of Agriculture.

The appointments followed the resignations from the Cabinet of Lord Milner and Walter Hume Long as Secretary for the Colonies and First Lord of the Admiralty, respectively.

The appointment of Winston Spencer Churchill, who has been Secretary for War since January, 1919, was forecast in London dispatches some time ago. Talk of Mr. Churchill for the post began shortly after it was unofficially reported, early in January, that Lord Milner was about to quit the colonial office, owing, it was believed, to differences in the Cabinet over his policy in regard to Egypt. London advices, however, had not reflected the imminence of Mr. Long's resignation as civil head of the Admiralty.

Sir Laming Worthington Evans, who succeeds Mr. Churchill in the War Office, is a former Minister of Blockade, and has been Minister without portfolio since April, 1920. Lord Lee is a former civil Lord of the Admiralty. Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen has been parliamentary secretary to the Board of Agriculture fisheries since 1918. The presidency of the board has been held since late in 1919 by Lord Lee, who now becomes First Lord of the Admiralty.

MERCY FLEET MAY GO TO AID OF STARVING.

SHIPPING BOARD VESSELS WITH VOLUNTEER CREWS TO CARRY GRAIN IS PLANNED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—To relieve the starving thousands in China, a mercy fleet of Shipping Board vessels manned by volunteer crews of American naval reservists and carrying great stores of grain donated by American farmers and hauled to the Pacific Coast by volunteer railway employees, would soon set sail across the Pacific under plans outlined today to Secretary Daniels by a committee headed by Carl Vrooman, former assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Mr. Vrooman said the grain already had been donated by farmers in the West and that members of the railroad brotherhoods had offered to give their services without pay to haul it to the west coast.

The Naval Secretary was enthusiastic about the proposal and arranged for an immediate conference with Shipping Board officials to see about getting the vessels. He told the committee he felt certain there would be no difficulty in getting enough naval reserves to volunteer for the trip without pay or contingent on Congress granting the pay later, the men to be provided with transportation, quarters and food by the Navy.

The committee explained to Mr. Daniels the necessity for immediate action in view of the terrible conditions prevailing in the famine areas of China and the time necessary for the long voyage.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES REPORT ON HUNGRY.

ADMIRAL AND MINISTER SAY MORE FOOD IS NEEDED IN EUROPE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Additional reports from American representatives in Europe regarding the need for relief work there were sent to the Senate today by President Wilson.

Rear-Admiral Bristol, American High Commissioner at Constantinople, told of the thousands of suffering refugees at Constantinople, in Bulgaria, Armenia, Turkey and other near eastern countries. He said partial statistics showed that the American relief institution collectively expended $10,000,000 in the Near East in 1920 and that generally the work was well done.

Hugh Gibson, American Minister to Poland, said an investigation of conditions there showed that "if food, clothing and medicines are not obtained from abroad, serious prejudice must result to the coming generation."

ARCHBISHOP TO BE HONORED IN ROME.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ROME, Feb. 12.—Archbishop D. H. Dougherty is expected to arrive here early in March. He will be the guest of the American College in order to receive the ceremonial visits and congratulations on his elevation to the cardinalate from the chief officials of the papal and civil courts, high prelates and other friends and admirers.

These visits will follow the secret consistory and after Mgr. Dougherty has received notice of his nomination.

MONTANA LABOR ASKS TRADE WITH SOVIET.

GREAT FALLS (Mont.) Feb. 12.—Trade with soviet Russia was urged and efforts for the establishment of an Irish republic were endorsed at today's session of the Montana State Federation of Labor here.

A plan for the establishment of a labor union bank here was adopted by the convention. It would be the depository for labor union funds of the State and would lend financial support to union institutions, among them the Butte Daily Bulletin, according to the plan proposed.

The VALUE of CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, and after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and, although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."—[Advertisement.

GERMAN MORALS YET ON DECLINE.

Status of Unmarried Mother Changed by War.

Churchmen's Efforts to Cause Change Futile.

No Social Stigma Attaches to Women Now.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—Despite recent efforts of Cardinal Bertram, archbishop of Breslau, and all the German Catholic archbishops and bishops, to curb the moral decline in Germany by issuing a signed pastoral, the public attitude towards immorality has not changed. If anything it has become more tolerant of late. The status of the unmarried mother has changed since the days before the war. Among shop girls and factory workers there is no longer any social stigma attached to the birth of an illegitimate child, according to one authority. Because of the country's loss in population the people have come to look upon such a thing as the fulfilment of a patriotic duty under disadvantages. The only change that takes place is that the mothers thereafter call themselves "Frau" in place of "Fraulein." In these days it is very rare for an employer to dismiss a girl under such circumstances, while before the war dismissal was an inevitable result.

As an example of the change in the public attitude is an article which appeared in Vorwaerts telling of the dismissal of a telephone girl for this cause and severely censuring her fellow-workers for being narrow-minded enough to permit such unusual treatment.

Another incident tending to show the increasing trend toward immorality took place in the Reichstag where the Socialist Deputy, Frau Schroeder, proposed a decree making unmarried motherhood no longer a ground for the dismissal of a woman official or a cause for her not being accepted for a post. Dr. Lewald, the government representative, however, refused to grant the decree, and said that each case must be considered on its merits.

Woman Who Killed Husband Dies.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ROCKFORD (N. D.) Feb. 12. Mrs. Charles Bynam, 22 years old, who shot and killed her husband here Tuesday and then took poison, died today. Her baby, 10 months old, has also been poisoned, and is not expected to live. Domestic troubles is believed the cause.

SCORE INJURED IN CAR WRECK.

the lost car and C. W. White was conductor. The car, No. 633 of the Hawthorne-Eagle Rock City line, was bound for Eagle Rock City and should have switched onto San Fernando Road from Pasadena avenue.

BLAMES MOTORMAN.

When the car reached Griffin avenue, several passengers noticed that it was not on the right line and notified the crew. One of the passengers, Mrs. S. C. Beerbauer, stated that she informed the motorman of his mistake, but he refused to listen to her. Conductor White said he also told Motorman Blackwell that he wandered from his regular route and that Blackwell told him they would switch back at the next crossover. The car reached the end of the Griffin-avenue line and then turned back.

"We told him he was not on the right line," said Mrs. Beerbauer, "and he got mad and wouldn't listen. He speeded the car up as we came down the Griffin-avenue grade. The car hit the turn at a high rate of speed and jumped from the track and before we could rise from our seats it plunged over on its side. I was thrown against the top of the car, but escaped injury from the flying glass."

PANIC IN CAR.

Motorman Blackwell was catapulted through the window of the front vestibule to the pavement. Conductor White was hurled against the top of the car as it rolled over on its side. Then the car was in darkness with its thirty passengers, mostly women and children, madly trying to extricate themselves from the wreckage. Women were screaming and children were shrieking, while the men struggled to batter a way through the top of the car to liberate them.

All the passengers were tangled in a heap against the bottom side of the car. Several women and children were pinioned beneath the seats and struggling humanity. Persons living in the neighborhood rushed from their homes and with heavy timbers battered an opening in the front vestibule. Through this opening, all the passengers were rescued. Extreme difficulty was experienced in untangling many of the women and children from beneath the shattered seats. All of them were dragged to safety, but before the ambulances from the Receiving Hospital and East Side station arrived, several of the injured were taken away before their names and the extent of their injuries could be learned.

Motorman Blackwell refused to comment on the accident except to state he could not stop the car, but Conductor White said that Blackwell is a new man on the Eagle Rock City line and was undoubtedly unfamiliar with the route. White said he tried to convince Blackwell of his error, but that the motorman only retorted he would switch back to the right line. The turn at Avenue 26 and Griffin avenue is a very short and dangerous one, owing to the incline of Griffin avenue leading to the curve from the north.

J. G. Schultz, one of the passengers, said he was standing on the rear platform when the car overturned. He was hurled against the side of the car and a small child fell on his chest. On top of the child was one of the heavy seats, which Schultz said he had to hold up at arms' length for many long minutes to prevent it from crushing the child. Schultz was the last passenger to be rescued from the car.

After Police Surgeon Dorn and his assistants had attended to the injured, which filled the Receiving Hospital to capacity, most of them were removed to their homes in ambulances.

ONE HURT WHEN TWO BIG RED CARS COLLIDE.

George Hillyer of 522 Bushnell avenue, Alhambra, was injured when Oak Knoll car No. 722 of the Pacific Electric line collided with the rear end of a two-car San Gabriel train near the Indian Village on Huntington Drive last night. The injured man was taken to the Gold-street Hospital in Alhambra, where it was learned that he had suffered a wrenched shoulder and badly cut hand.

According to the report made by the car crews, the San Gabriel train had stopped to throw a switch when the Oak Knoll car came upon it unexpectedly from the rear. None of the other passengers were hurt.

The San Gabriel train was in charge of Motorman Bowles and Conductor Devashore and consisted of cars Nos. 560 and 551. The Oak Knoll car was in charge of Motorman W. D. Evans and Conductor A. Sandefur.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GREAT FALLS (Mont.) Feb. 12. Between 200,000 and 300,000 bushels of wheat will be shipped at once from Montana to western and Coast markets if the plan adopted today by the Montana State Union, American Society of Equity is completed.

A committee report also urged that the 1922 crop be sent to the same markets as from 10 to 30 cents a bushel additional profit could be made, allowing for transportation and sale price.

DANIELS BUYS CABINET CHAIR.

Navy Secretary and Meredith Pay $100 Each for Their Seats as Souvenirs.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Secretaries Daniels and Meredith are to retain their "Cabinet seats" permanently. They arranged today to purchase the chairs they have occupied each Tuesday in the Cabinet meeting as souvenirs.

Formerly the chairs were sold for $65, but these are days of higher prices and the two officers are understood to have paid more than $100 each.

Secretary Baker has contended himself with removing the brass name plate from the back of his Cabinet chair. He paid $4.50 for that.

ITALY MUST AGREE TO INSPECT SHIPS.

AMERICAN CONSULS INSTRUCTED TO WITHHOLD BILLS OF HEALTH IF NEEDED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — Further instructions have been sent American consuls in Italy by the State Department, Assistant Secretary Laporte announced tonight, to withhold issuance of bills of health to all vessels leaving for this country unless they have absolutely conformed to American quarantine regulations against the spread of typhus.

By requiring Italy to pass American medical inspection, he said, it was believed the Public Health Service would have the typhus situation under control.

In New York, he added, the situation is well in hand, but the quarantine facilities are crowded and inspection work is slow.

Meanwhile, he said, by diverting incoming ships to Boston, the work of receiving incoming passengers is being carried on with less delay.

That engine noise you can't explain

EVERY sound is music to your ear when the engine runs smoothly and sweetly. But how often a harsh, grating noise, a bird-like squeak or even heavy pounding spoils your trip!

Can you explain this engine noise as it jars on your ear? Poor lubrication causes 90% of engine trouble. Under the terrific heat of the engine 200° to 1000° F.—ordinary oil breaks down and forms great quantities of sediment.

Why have such worries? Sediment is reduced 86% when you use Veedol, the lubricant that resists heat. See the two bottles at the right. With Veedol in the engine, most serious engine troubles are prevented. Have your engine flushed out. Put in Veedol. Leading dealers have it in stock. Ask for a supply today.

GOVERNOR TOLD FALL IMMINENT.

Blame for Extravagance Put Before His Door.

Banker Warns That Spending Orgy Must Cease.

Says People Will Feel Bill Now as Never Before.

Charging that reckless extravagance has featured the present State administration at Sacramento and that Gov. Stephens did not realize "what a fall awaits him, politically," J. A. Graves, president of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles, issued a statement last night, calling upon the State administration to chop State expense rather than increase it.

Mr. Graves's statement was directed at the King tax bill now pending before the Legislature ostensibly to raise the State tax on public utility corporations. He advised the defeat of the bill when the Legislature resumes sessions on the 24th inst. The people, he said, could not afford any higher taxes than they are now paying and he declared that the King bill is merely a covert blow at the people in the guise of a higher tax on the corporations.

"This is no time," said Mr. Graves, "to mince matters when talking about taxation in this State. Our State officials, in their arrogance at the supineness of the taxpayers, have gone wild on extravagance. They spend money like water. Fine office furniture, stenographers, clerks, lackeys without number, adorn each office of every commission, board or investigating body who are spending the public money.

AUTOS FOR ALL OF 'EM.

"It used to be a saying regarding railroad officials that every man above a track walker had his private car. Now practically every employee of the State above a janitor has his automobile and chauffeur provided at the taxpayers' expense! The Governor uses his automobile almost entirely for political propaganda. He is riding around the State in it now, urging the passage of the King bill!

"Every commission, board and investigating body has an attorney whose position is a fat sinecure for some politician. The result is that for the next two years the Governor, who has not yet realized what a fall awaits him politically, wants $20,000,000 for the salaries of State employees! When one protests and asks if economy cannot be practiced, he is put off with the question, 'Shall we discharge the nurses in the insane asylums?'

"The Governor does not know, realize or understand what economy of the Lowden brand means in government affairs. He has not the slightest intent to disturb any of the politicians who are drawing large salaries without rendering adequate service therefor. It is feared that there is a 'joker' in every line and page of every bill, including the King bill, which the administration has introduced in the Legislature.

"From the record of those now in charge of the State's affairs it is greatly to be feared that instead of economy all of these kills will lead to further expenditures.

LAUDS ECONOMY BILL.

"The King bill should be defeated and the bill of the Taxpayers' Association should be passed in its stead! It promises economy; why not give it a trial? True, in enforcing the provisions of the taxpayers' bill, if it should be passed, the same administration would have the enforcement of the bill.

"Our State taxes have been enormous in the past, but things have been prosperous and, though grumbling, we have paid. The people will feel their tax bills this year as never before even if they are not increased. It is certainly time for economy!

"No necessity has been shown for raising the increased revenues provided by the King act. On the contrary, if proper economy is exercised, a saving of many millions in the State's expenses can be made. Certainly we ought to make an effort in that direction.

"If the Governor really wants to economize, why does he not cut the expenses of his own office from $47,000 per annum to $20,000 per annum—which which would be ample?"

HUNDRED PER CENT ENROLL IN MANY BUILDINGS OF CITY AND COUNTY.

In the Junior Red Cross campaign now being conducted in the Los Angeles city and county schools a number of 100 per cent schools are being recorded.

The campaign is in charge of Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven, director of the Junior Red Cross; Mrs. Susan B. Dorsey, chairman of chapter school committee for the city schools, and Mark Keppell, chairman of the chapter school committee for county schools.

Among the schools reporting a 100 per cent membership this year is the Sixty-first street school, which has an enrollment of 717 pupils. St. Catherine's school has also reached the coveted goal, duplicating its former records in this line.

Among the smaller schools of the county which have reported for the honor is the Oak Flat school at Castaic. In forwarding the subscription in behalf of her eight pupils, the teacher writes: "We occupy a tent with only the most primitive equipment, but we are anxious to be a part of the great movement and to help make the world better."

The Alpine school at Littlerock is also reported with a 100 per cent membership. It has an enrollment of twenty-five pupils, many of whom are of foreign parentage.

Memberships in the Junior Red Cross are placed at the nominal cost of 25 cents, but many are given in the spirit of self-denial and express the enthusiastic interest of the children of Los Angeles city and county in the big humanitarian movement which they are actively furthering.

The high schools have not yet turned in their complete reports and these, with other schools whose subscriptions are still to be reported, are expected to bring the fund up to last year's total or even better.

Sioux Falls Bishop Selected.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ROME, Feb. 12.—The Vatican has prepared the papers in the appointment of a bishop for Sioux Falls, S. D., which is expected to be made at the coming secret consistory. As there are some formalities still to be settled, however, no announcement of the name of the appointee has been made.

Head Stuffed By Catarrh or Cold? Use Healing Cream

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat distressed, or your head is stuffed by nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing inflamed, swollen membranes and you get instant relief.

How good it feels. Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hawking, snuffling, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure.—[Advertisement.

PEACE COMMISSIONER VISITS COUNTRYMEN.

FORMER ARMY OFFICER AND WORLD TRAVELER TO SPEAK THIS AFTERNOON.

Information concerning conditions in European countries, especially in Assyria and Austria, will be given to the congregation of the Armenian Congregational Church today at 2 o'clock when Maj. A. Yoosuf, M. D., a noted Assyrian and formerly with the United States Medical Corps, will speak. Maj. Yoosuf, whose home is in Worcester, Mass., arrived in Los Angeles yesterday from Fresno, where he visited with former residents of his native country, Mesopotamia. During a contemplated week's visit here he will make the Southland Hotel his headquarters.

Maj. Yoosuf's war record includes an itinerary of travel and unusual experiences which have given him an exceptional opportunity to judge of the European political and economic status. While a practicing physician in Worcester in 1917, Maj. Yoosuf enlisted in the Medical Corps of the United States Army and saw service in France until the signing of the armistice. In 1912-1913, during the Balkan War, he was with the Red Cross in Constantinople. Upon his return from France he was delegated to represent the Assyro-Chaldean peoples at that council of nations.

Maj. Yoosuf is especially concerned with the interests of his native country. Mesopotamia, he said, desires independent freedom in conformity with the policies of the League of Nations, declaring that all nations, great or small, should have complete autonomy. At the present time, he said, the upper half of Mesopotamia is controlled by the English, while the lower half is under the control of France.

The Socialist movement is a great source of detriment in Europe, he declared. While the majority of Italian people seemed to have been in agreement with D'Annunzio in his declarations regarding Fiume, the more intelligent class were with the government.

LOUISIANA WILL SEND TWO MAGNOLIA TREES.

GOVERNOR GLAD TO SECURE REPRESENTATION IN UNIQUE FOREST.

Favoring the plan to start a forest of States in Los Angeles, the Governor of Louisiana replied to the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday and agreed to co-operate.

Gov. Parker states that the idea to provide a recreation spot and a beautiful grove of trees brought from every State in the Union, where State societies may gather, or where students of horticulture may recieve practical information, is an excellent one.

Writing from Baton Rouge, Louisiana's Governor promises to comply promptly with the request of the chamber, and adds, "One of my sons, who is the father of twins, has a pair of young magnolia seedlings, which have just grown up, and I have asked him to carefully pack them and ship them to you by express. My belief is they will find the climate of California just as congenial as that of Louisiana, and I venture to suggest that you plant them at least sixty feet apart, because in years to come each will make a most stately tree, which will not only be an evergreen, but in the spring will be covered with beautiful flowers."

The Park Commission of Los Angeles has promised a tree for the grove and a letter received from the Governor of Idaho last week at the chamber announces that another Western State will be glad to send a young tree to be planted before the rains end.

Co-operation with the chamber has been offered by State societies, which have signified their desire to officiate at the tree plantings.

WILL LEARN NEW WORK.

Fifteen Disabled War Veterans Put on Rehabilitation Lists.

Fifteen disabled veterans of the World War who reside within the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles office of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, with headquarters in the Wilcox Annex Building, have been approved for re-education under the Rehabilitation Act.

Those who will receive $100 or more per month from the government while learning new trades or professions are: Edward J. Brock, Alden A. Bekken, George C. Ballard, George E. Blanchard, George R. Childers, Maurice F. Enderle, Ralph B. Ericson, Albert E. Hood, Ernest E. McCary, Howard L. Mann, John A. Menard, William W. Phillips, Albert Miller, Frank C. Renter and Charles M. Stiffler.

PREVENTIVE WORK WINS

Children Threatened with Tubercular Trouble Gaining Weight.

Although established only a short time, the Mother Cabrini Preventorium at Burbank, affiliated with the Bureau of Catholic Charities, reports encouraging results of its work among the children of tubercular parents, and under-nourished girls and boys who show an inclination to tuberculosis.

Under the direction of Dr. Charles C. Browning and a staff of physicians and nurses the children are placed on special diet and given a systematic course of exercise and treatment.

Specific cases recorded in the general tabulation of results are given as follows: Of eighteen girls examined one gained fifteen pounds in three months; one gained thirteen pounds in three months; two gained eleven pounds in three months; two gained ten pounds in that period; three gained six pounds; two gained five pounds; four gained three pounds in the three-month period, while one girl gained two pounds in one month.

TAKING NO MORE MEN.

Army Recruiting Station here will help on Mileage and Medals.

Although the Army Recruiting Station in the San Fernando Building is not accepting any more enlistments and activities in that line have been temporarily discontinued, the office is still engaged in issuing Victory Medals, Victory Buttons and in making application for bonus and mileage for the veterans of the World War. This work will be carried on by the office force at the station until such time as recruiting is opened again. It is, however, urged that those who are entitled to these emblems of service call as soon as possible at the War Department may decide to close the station entirely, in which case it would be necessary to apply directly to Wasshington, D. C.

At present the only men who are accepted for enlistment are those who have served at least one enlistment, have been honorably discharged as non-commissioned officers and re-enlist within 20 days to fill their own vacancy.

REDLANDS ENJOYS COMMUNITY PLAYS.

REDLANDS, Feb. 12.—Redlands had her first community plays last night, given at the Wyatt under the direction of Garnet Holme. Mr. Holme is also to direct the pageant for Redlands this year. Three one-act plays were given.

The first was "Suppressed Desires" and those in the cast were Mrs. W. R. Severance, Louis Jackson and Mrs. T. E. Yerxa. Mrs. C. G. White designed the scene.

The second was "Ghost of Jerry Bundler," and those in the cast were H. D. P. Kingsbury, C. G. White, J. W. Brougher, Jr., Philip Wynne, J. E. Brewster, Herbert Gastrin and Dr. A. C. Cameron. W. E. Rabbeth designed the scene.

The third was "Helena's Husband" with Mrs. A. T. Gage, Mrs. Harry Cherrier, Mrs. T. A. Ogden, Prof. H. E. Wise and Herbert Spoor in the cast. Dudley Wynne designed the scene.

Senator Chamberlain Better.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, who has been ill several weeks, returned today to the Senate.

Little Mother Happy Again

"For the past nine years I have been very much distressed with bloating and stomach trouble due to constipation since I was a child. No medicine gave me more than temporary relief. I got so bad I was afraid I would have to leave my three little children. But since taking a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy two years ago I have been entirely well; no constipation or other trouble." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—[Advertisement.

ELMER WEBER SOME GOLFER.

Playing with Ed Gayer Defeats Diegel and Cady.

Cinches Game When the Thirteenth Hole is Won.

Semifinals Are to be Played This Morning.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

It took C. Elmer Weber of the San Gabriel Club thirty-six holes of match play over the Pasadena links yesterday to convince Leo Diegel and a gallery of some 200 souls that he is considerable of a golfer. Playing with Ed Gayer as partner in the sixteen-team pro-amateur carnival, Weber defeated Diegel and Jack Cady by a score of 1 up over the marathon route.

Scheduled for only eighteen holes, the match progressed to the twenty-seventh when things were all square at the eighteenth. No decision having been reached at the twenty-seventh, the players journeyed on for another nine holes, and Weber cinched the affair when he won the thirteenth hole. His par 4 here with a stroke handicap gave him a birdie 3.

HELD ADVANTAGE.

Weber and Gayer held this advantage to the finish, though Diegel tried hard on the seventeneth to knot the going by holding out for a birdie 2. His direction was as accurate as anything, but he had too much speed on the ball, and it bounced out on the green after hitting the edge of the cup.

When the eighteenth hole was halved, Diegel having driven out of bounds and leaving the battle to Cady, the Detroit lad turned to Weber, and said, "You're there!"

GREAT GOLF.

Mister Diegel had reference to the sensational and spectacular golf which Weber had unloosed all day. Rarely does an amateur play so consistently as did Weber yesterday. Using an iron from the tee, he kept his drives straight down the fairway, and with the exception of the two longest holes and the short ones was on the green in 2. It was midiron, mashie and midiron, mashie until the thing became sickening to Diegel and Cady.

And on the greens Weber was a terror. If a long putt was needed to win the hole, he sunk it; if it was a half he halved it. He was as consistent as a clock. When Diegel sunk a difficult and fairly long sidehill putt on the tenth hole of the fourth round for a birdie 3 he figured he had put his team ahead, 1 up. But he reckoned without Weber. The latter had the same sort of a putt, and he put it the same place Diegel did his ball. It was a corker.

PLAYED ALL DAY.

But, that was the way Weber played all day. The gallery followed him around waiting for him to "break." But Weber didn't "break," and Diegel, at his best—he shot a 68 on the last eighteen—wasn't enough to beat the Weber-Gayer combination. Weber played with a ten handicap and Cady with a two, but Weber really shot better on the holes where he had no strokes than he did on those where he had an advantage. Weber and Gayer's best ball for the first eighteen was 61 and for the last eighteen, 60. Weber's putt on the eighteenth green hung on the lip of the cup for a 74 without his handicap. That's how good he was.

After finishing with Diegel and Cady, Weber and Gayer went forth to battle Clarkson and Bill Bowman. Darkness put a stop to the festivities, with Bowman and Clarkson, 2 up at the end of twelve holes. They were 1 up at the turn, making it 2 up when Gayer missed an eighteen-inch putt on the eleventh green for a half. Big Gayer was hitting his drives splendidly, but was lost on the greens. He tossed off a chance to get back a hole on the twelfth by missing a nine-inch putt. It was dark at the time. Spectators hovering around the hole saw the ball move but a bare four inches.

EARLY SURPRISES.

Surprise began to develop early, as returns from the various matches began to come in. The first was the unexpected defeat of John Black, 1920 open champ of the south, and George Patterson, at the hands of young Tom Kelly and Roy Tufts, 1 up.

About the time all hands got through gasping at the unexpected defeat of Diegel and Cady, the downfall of Eddie Loos and Charles Thompson at the hands of Jack Croke and Paul Hunter was recorded, 4 and 2.

Croke and Hunter played superlatively. The former came to life with a bang, and shot a 66, four strokes under par, and missed a short putt on the home green for a 65. Hunter with his 68 wasn't far behind.

TO WAGE BATTLE.

This morning the Hutt-Martin-A. M. Andrews team, which defeated Bob Black and Ben Leslie in the second round, 1 up, will meet the Croke-Hunter combine. In the lower half of the draw, the battle will be waged between Tom Kelly and Roy Tufts on the one hand and the winner of the Clarkson-Bowman and Weber-Gayer tussle on the other. Little Tom Kelly did splendidly yesterday, getting a 73 in the afternoon. Tufts was also sticking in fine shape with a 76, and they look like a pretty good bet for the money.

Here is Jack Croke's record round—the best that has been made in competition on the Pasadena course:

Out—
Par	4	3	4	4	3	4	4	4	5	—35
Croke	3	4	3	4	3	4	3	4	5	—33

Bob Black and Ben Leslie (0) defeated Ernest Martin and Ford Sterling (8,) 2 and 1.

Hutt Martin and A. M. Andrews (6) defeated Tom Stevens and Charles Hermann (8,) 3 and 2.

Tom Kelly and Roy Tufts (6) defeated John Black and George Patterson (2,) 1 up.

Frank Peebles and R. Modisette (6) defeated William Bell and T. E. Getzelman (8,) default.

Ed Gayer and C. Elmer Weber (10) defeated Leo Diegel and Jack Cady (2,) 1 up (36 holes.)

Arthur Clarkson and W. J. Bowman (6) defeated Art Rigby and George Cline (8,) 2 up.

SECOND ROUND.

Jack Croke and Paul Hunter (0) defeated Eddie Loos and Charles Thompson (5,) 4 and 2.

Hutt Martin and A. M. Andrews (6) defeated Bob Black and Ben Leslie (6,) 1 up.

Tom Kelly and Roy Tufts (6) defeated Frank Peebles and R. Modisette (6,) 1 up.

Arthur Clarkson and W. J. Bowman (6) were 2 up on Ed Gayer and Elmer Weber (10) when darkness halted the match on the twelfth hole.

DEFEATED EIGHT (FIRST ROUND.)

George O'Neil and Scotty Chisholm (6) defeated Jack Munroe and Phil Carter (4,) 2 and 1.

Tom Stevens and Charles Hermann (8) defeated Ernest Martin and Ford Sterling (8,) 1 up.

John Black and George Patterson (2) defeated William Bell and T. C. Getzelman (8,) default.

Leo Diegel and Jack Cady (2) were all square with Art Rigby and George Cline (8) at the end of the first nine. Approaching darkness halted the match, which will be resumed this morning.

Results in the annual winter handicap golf tourney at the Los Angeles Country Club follow:

Dr. J. V. Cooke defeated H. L. Billson, 1 up.
C. H. Palmer, Jr., defeated E. A. Inglis, 1 up.
M. E. McLoughlin defeated J. H. Moulton, 1 up.
H. S. Brintnall defeated C. E. Dale, 3 and 2.
M. E. McLoughlin won yesterday's sweepstakes with a score of 5-5-0.

ERBAL MAKES NEW RECORD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Feb. 12.—Joseph Erbal of New York, an unattached entrant in the running high jump, provided sensation for the A.A.U. junior indoor championships tonight by making a new mark of 6ft. 1¼in. The former record was made by Roberts of Syracuse in 1917.

CANADIANS PREVAIL.

In the lawn-bowling contest at Exposition Park yesterday the Canadians defeated the Americans, 158 to 139. The individual scores follow: Canadians—Graham, 20; Hughes, 21; Walker, 16; McBrien, 22; Harold, 11; Apinall, 29; Rudd, 15; Keen, 18. Americans—Gilbert, 13; Angell, 14; Munro, 26; Ewry, 11; Frick, 19; Peterson, 14; Clark, 23; Clair, 18.

VISITORS DO THE VISITING.

BY CARL GILDNER,

Sales Manager W. P. Herbert Co., Chandler and Cleveland Distributors.

There is one trait probably inherited from the ox-cart days that many of us have difficulty in eliminating, even in these days of the refined motor car. It is that provincial habit of sticking to the "beaten path," which means the roads we know.

How many times are we who have lived here a few years asked about well-known near-by places, which we must confess we have never visited. This was forcibly brought home to me by a gentleman from Philadelphia, who drove across the continent to enjoy California's wondrous climate and good roads. He has driven to many points of interest in Southern California, and he tells me that it is a never-ending source of comment in his party to see how few real California residents visit our scenic attractions. On trips to Rubidoux, Topango Canyon, Arch Beach, Palm Canyon, the missions, etc., he found that most of the sightseers were people who had been in California but a very short time.

Frequently before making these trips he sought information from various old residents concerning the desirability of making the particular trips. Practically always the old-timers had to refer him to some newcomer, who, like himself, was actually seeing California.

We become so imbued with the actual necessity of the automobile in business life that we fail to get the proper benefit from our own good roads. We get into the habit of using the boulevard to a favorite beach, and somehow when we get out for pleasure we just turn the radiator in that direction.

In the old days, of course, there was a good excuse for not venturing in a strange locality. It was the risk of getting lost. Now all the highways and byways are marked by very clear signs, with all due credit to the Automobile Club of Southern California. Besides, we can always get the maps we need from the same source.

BIKERS QUALIFY TODAY.

Qualifying trials for classification certificates for riders who will compete in the opening meet at the new Washington and Hill streets stadium scheduled for next Sunday will be held on the new track between the hours of 11 and 5 o'clock today. Seventy-five candidates for speed honors have entered the meet and will be put through the paces under the supervision of the California Cycling Association. At the same time a rider to represent Los Angeles in the State championship will be selected.

In order to qualify for class A, a rider will be required to show a speed of thirteen seconds for one lap of the eight-lap course. Slower riders will be graded into B, C and D classes according to the time they make. Among the stars who will be in action are "Cyclone" Black, the Riverside county champion; Clyde Arbuckle, brother of "Fatty;" "Speed" Drysdale of Fresno, who will be coached by Frank Chance, who raced against his father in Fresno twenty years ago; Earl Thompson, Los Angeles champion; George Vigliano, Poly High champion; Peter de Paoli, Ralph de Palma's nephew-mechanician; Jean Marceneau, famed Frenchman, and Joe Palimer, who is Charles Ray's selection for the championship winner.

The track is daily being proved the fastest course of the kind in the world. From the spectators' viewpoint the Parisian garden in the infield of the course will be the point of vantage. Instead of being the gathering place for the hoi polloi, the arena will be a rendezvous for smartly-gowned women and their escorts. Sun-shaded seats at tables will provide an opportunity to watch the races, enjoy the music of a big jazz band and clever entertainers between the racs. A circular promenade will give those who wish to stroll about a bit, the opportunity.

YOUTH AND AGE EXTREME.

Angels' Rag Chances Depend on Work of Vets and Younger Element.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Angel chances of the coming season depend on the two extremes of age and youth.

If Oscar Stanage, veteran of the Detroit Tigers, can deliver the stuff behind the bat, and the younger element which President Powers secured in return for Pertica and Bassler is up to snuff, the club should be as strong and probably stronger than it was last season, when Killefer kept his men in the race almost to the last wheeze.

Some of the highly-strung fans were prostrated temporarily by the loss of Pertica, Brown and Bassler, but the blow falls somewhat lighter when the situation is calmly meditated.

A BIG LOSS.

Pertica unquestionably represents a considerable loss, and it remains to see whether the club will be adequately compensated by the pitching talent secured in the deal, although it unquestionably has been strengthened in other departments.

Brown was of little value to the club last season, and unless he showed a decided improvement would be of greater assistance to the Angels in Podunk than in Los Angeles.

Had the transaction with Detroit been a straight trade, Bassler for Stanage, Los Angeles would be regarded as having been bested in the swap. But additional talent was received, and more is to come. Age, indeed, succeeds youth behind the plate, but this may not be as apparent as the difference in years would indicate.

NEVER PEPPERY.

Bassler never has been a "peppery" player. In fact, he shows less of this quality than some players ten years his senior. Johnny is a sedate individual, rather oldish in his actions. Stanage would not of necessity be excessively effervescent to throw as much life into the team as "Sawtelle Johnny." Bassler is an exceptionally good backstop. Otherwise he wouldn't be going up.

The team will miss him. But in losing him, it won't lose any tabasco. Stanage knows as many tricks of baseball as Bassler, probably more, but hardly figures to hit quite as well. The chief difference is that one is coming and the other going. There is less difference in the minor league value of the two than in the major league, where they are seeking players who will increase in effectiveness.

NEW MEN.

Killefer will have new men at second and third, who, with Griggs and McAuley, are figured to round out the infield. Lindimore, who will handle the Ajax stuff, is one of the most highly touted youngsters sent to the Coast in recent years. Detroit has promised Powers a young and able second baseman, who will be a regular going concern around the keystone. Jimmy McAuley, at short, aspires to show the fans something this year.

Last year he stepped into his baseball shoes without any spring training, and as a result never was right all season. At the finish he was just a month behind what he should have been. Never caught up. If McAuley can approximate his American Association form, and there seems no reason why he shouldn't, he will rank as one of the short fielding stars of the circuit.

TO DRAW THREE.

Killefer will have six outfielders from which to draw three acres. Red himself is included in the six. There are the veterans, Ellis and Crawford, bottled in bond athletes of known quality, and the more youthful Statz of the vintage of last season. Bogart and Carrol, new ones taken in part payment for Pertica, are regarded as rather prolific in possibilities.

The Angels are getting that dash of new blood which ought to be good for anything that ails them. Also, there will be a feast of new faces for the cannibalistic fans. There are few things more refreshing on a hot summer day than a moist, fresh face, preferably seasoned with freckles to keep it from spoiling.

DIM YOUR EYE.

Should two or three of the newcomers perform up to the advance notices, Killefer might put a team in the field calculated to dim your eye. The sudden development of a couple of good ones sometimes spells the difference between the cellar and the championship. Three teams in the National League last season needed one guy of just the right kind to put them in the pennant-winning class.

Anyway, Mr. Killefer opines that those who have already ceded the pennant to Vernon because Maier and Killefer got three-quarters of Manhattan for Johnny Mitchell, may yet have to take it back.

EARLY BIRDS.

Killefer expects to have all his pitchers emulate the early, bright-eyed birds which arise in time to cop all the fat, first-division worms. Last spring some of the heavers were rather late in reporting for one reason or another, and as a result didn't get through with their training until July. He will send his heavers to Elsinore March 1, and a week later the main squad will follow with the usual fanfare of flivver trumpets.

Thanks to Ed Schalimo's hoe brigade, or the "fearless fifteen," practically all the alibis have been raked off the new diamond, leaving the athletes without a good, legitimate grumble. Sod, skinned from the old diamond, will be grafted on the new. There is no finer sight in the world than an old diamond giving up its skin for a new diamond. Mankind could learn an old lesson anew from this. We used to give skin that it might be grafted on a friend, but now graft and skin the friend. Thus, the world grows skinnier, and everything is raw.

TRAINER SNYDER.

Frank Snyder, for several years a conditioner of boxers, has succeeded Scotty Finley as trainer of the Angels. Mr. Snyder, having associated with scrappers, is expected to put much fight into the Angels. This can be done by rubbing them the wrong way.

Charley Hollocher, former Portland shortstop, and now one of the National League stars as shortstop of the Chicago club, has arrived here, making half a dozen of the Cubs now in this vicinity.

Whereas the Cubs formerly came en masse, they now arrive a driblet at a time. One Cub at a time is not a gorgeous spectacle, but is in keeping with this democratic era.

The Cubs this season have a Leathers and a Fuhr, which makes them the real article. Prior to this they have been Cubs in name only.

Rip Snorters from Pomona Grab Honors.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLAREMONT, Feb. 12.—Pomona's rip-snorting sophomore class ran away with the honors in the interclass track meet here today with a total of seventy-nine points. The seniors had thirty-four, juniors thirteen and the freshmen eight. Charley Daggs with first in both hurdles and second the shot and 100-yard dash, was the high-point man and Widdess, with firsts in the shot and discus and second in the hammer, was next highest. Performances in the sprints and hurdles were exceptional for this early in the season.

The results:

One-mile run—Won by Curtis (Soph.,) Bell (Fresh.) second, Moreman (Sen.) third. Time 4m. 52s.

100-yard dash—Won by Arnold (Soph.,) Daggs (Soph.) second, Walker (Fresh.) third. Time 10 1-5s.

120-yard hurdles—Won by Daggs (Soph.,) Crosswhite (Sen.) second, Rounds (Soph.) third. Time 16 1-5s.

440-yard dash—Won by Payne (Jun.,) Wire (Soph.) second, Backstrand (Jun.) third. Time 53 2-5s.

Two-mile run—Won by Curtis (Soph.,) Weaver (Sen.) second, Hill (Soph.) third. Time 11m. 21s.

880-yard run—Won by Handley (Soph.,) Edwards (Soph.) second, Livengood (Jun.) third. Time 2m. 6 4-5s.

220-yard hurdles—Won by Daggs (Soph.,) Rounds (Soph.) second, Walker (Fresh.) third. Time 26 3-5s.

220-yard dash—Won by Arnold (Soph.,) Douglas (Soph.) second, Harvey (Fresh.) third. Time 22 2-5s.

Relay, four men, 880 yards—Won by Sophomores. Time 1m. 36s.

Shot put—Won by Widdess (Sen.,) Daggs (Soph.) second, Rich (Sen.) third. Distance 38ft. 1in.

Hammer throw—Won by Morgan (Soph.,) Widdess (Sen.) second, no third. Distance 111ft. 8in.

Discus throw—Won by Widdess (Sen.,) Morgan (Soph.) second, Bolman (Soph.) third. Distance 122ft. 4in.

Pole vault—Won by Shaver (Soph.,) Walker (Soph.) second, Wilson (Soph.) third. Height 11ft.

High jump—Won by Voorhies (Sen.,) Garrison (Jun.) second, Rimmer (Fresh.) third. Height 5ft. 6½in.

Broad jump—Won by Crosswhite (Sen.,) Rich (Sen.) second, Wilson (Soph.) third. Distance 20ft. 3½in.

SANTA ANA HIGH BEATEN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Feb. 12.—Coach Guy Daniels of Redlands High believes that his chances for having a well-balanced track team are much better than he hoped as a result of a practice meet held with Santa Ana High School. Redlands won the meet, 77 to 36, and incidentally some of Daniels's men uncorked themselves as never before.

Bob Allen was the particular shining star of the meet. Bob took a total of five firsts and one second, a very creditable performance for any aspiring young gentleman. Allen stepped the 100-yard dash off in 10m. 2s., the 120 high hurdles in 17s. flat, the 220 dash in 23m. 1s., heaved the discus 102ft. and snapped the shot out for about forty feet.

England was the next best bet for Redlands. Ed took third in the 100, won the 220 low hurdles in 27s. and was a member of the winning relay team.

Hilliard performed well also, for he stepped a mean 440 in about 54s. and was never pushed. He also was on the relay team, as was Allen and Griffits.

Hansen, Strout and Roth tied for first in the high jump, Dodge took first and Mead third in the 800, Neely was second in the 440, Soares, MacCubbin and a Santa Ana man tied for first in the pole, Clock took third in the discus and third in the shot, Hinckley was first and Stoneham second in the mile, and England second and Roth third in the broad. Redlands took every first but the shot and broad.

RACE DRIVER NEAR DEATH.

Jim Al Thiele, dark-horse driver of the Thiele Special, gave himself and several spectators a horrible thrill yesterday morning when, in practice for the Washington's Birthday race program at the Los Angeles Speedway, he came within an ace of being killed. Riding high on the west turn, a tire blew out with a loud bang and Thiele's car was hurled up into the top guard rail. Tearing out six or eight feet of the rail, the car spun around and dashed madly down to the dirt apron inside with Thiele twisting at the wheel to regain control. By a marvelous mixture of good fortune and good driving, Thiele righted the car and brought up on all four wheels, with no worse damage than a wrenched frame and badly mussed up tail on the car. Thiele believes that he can get the car ready in plenty of time for the race a week from Tuesday.

FANS LOOK FOR NEW RECORD.

Great Interest Prevails in Redlands-U. of S. C. Field Meet Saturday.

Great interest prevails in the meeting between the one-mile four-man relay teams of Redlands University and the University of Southern California on Paddock Field, Pasadena, next Saturday. If a new Southern California record isn't hung up by the winner the fans are going to be terribly annoyed and a new Pacific Coast record is quite within the realm of possibility.

Last year the Redlands outfit, composed of Zediker, Lloyd Yount, Bill Yount and Kilby, averaged pretty close to 51 seconds to the man and it is understood that this year Zediker, who was the slow member last year, has chewed down his mark about a second.

According to the Trojan rooters the Baptists can't cut much ice unless they can ramble around 3 minutes 22 seconds. Schiller, with a record of 48 4-5, Wilson, with a mark of 49 4-5 and Bill Isenhour and Eddie Leahy both apparently capable of very close to 50 seconds will make a horribly hard aggregation to beat.

The open 100-yard dash will bring together Charley Paddock, who is not likely to lose his championship, and Bill Isenhour of U.S.C., Spangler and Argue of Occidental, Yount of Redlands and Stoddard of southern branch, with a possibility of Benny Arnold of Pomona. This is a classy field and will make the running for second place very exciting.

The open high jump and polevault events will likewise attract a lot of nifty performers as will the 120-yard hurdles in which Yount of Redlands, Daggs of Pomona, Anderson of Pomona High and Rogers of U.S.C. will mingle. The track is said to be very fast and quite a few very fast performances are expected not only in the aforementioned events, but likewise in the high school relay races.

Wichita Team is the Victor in Polo Game.

The Wichita Cowboys polo team defeated the Midwick Juniors at the Midwick Country Club yesterday afternoon, 6 to 5. A big crowd was present, comprising at least 150 automobile parties. The game was hotly contested throughout.

The following were the line-ups: Midwick Juniors—Dr. Z. T. Malaby, No. 1; Col. Ball, No. 2; Reggie Weiss, No. 3, and John B. Miller, Jr., No. 4. Wichita Cowboys—Hueston, No. 1; Vickers, No. 2; Minnick, No. 3, and Marshall, No. 4. Carlton F. Burke refereed.

In today's game, the match will be between the Midwick Seniors and an all-comers picked from all-star players. There will be a handicap of eleven goals for each team. The winner will be presented with a set of silver loving cups.

The teams will line up as follows: Midwick Seniors—L. M. Hughes, No. 1; Teddy Miller, No. 2; A. P. Perkins, No. 3, and Carlton F. Burke, No. 4. All-Comers—J. A. Whitmore, No. 1; J. Minnick, No. 2; Reggie Weiss, No. 3, and Max Fleishman, No. 4. Referee, J. B. Miller, Sr. Play will start at 2:30 o'clock at the Midwick Country Club.

JOHNNY BUFF NEW FLYWEIGHT CHAMP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—Frankie Mason of Fort Wayne, recognized by some boxing authorities as the flyweight champion of America, lost that title here last night to Johnny Buff, Jersey City battler, in a fifteen-round bout.

Buff was the aggressor throughout, and had Mason a battered-looking spectacle at the end of the bout. Mason gained but two rounds in the fifteen.

CONFESSIONS OF PLAYERS DENIED

Indicted Ball Men Repudiate Conspiracy Angle.

Lawyers for Defendants to Fight to Bitter End.

Judge McDonald Gives Out Some Good Advice.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Attorneys representing Chicago American League baseball players indicted in connection with the alleged throwing of the 1919 world series today opened their fight to exonerate the men by announcing a demand would be made from County Judge Devore Monday for a bill of particulars.

Notification of the contemplated action was accompanied by affidavits from Claude Williams, Joe Jackson and Buck Weaver denying they had entered into a conspiracy. Jackson and Williams denied they had confessed to a conspiracy when they testified before the grand jury.

EXPECT TO FIGHT.

"We expect to fight from beginning to end and to take advantage of every legal process and technicality," said Benedict Short, representing the two players. "Whether the alleged confessions will be repudiated, ignored or defended cannot be said now."

Announcement of the action brought a statement from Judge McDonald, who brought the case before the grand jury, that if Jackson, Williams or Eddie Cicotte repudiated any part of their grand jury testimony, immediate steps would be taken to prosecute them for perjury.

"These men had better proceed very carefully," he said, "for they may jump from the frying pan to the fire."

TO SIT TIGHT.

G. E. Gorman, assistant State's Attorney, said the State would "simply sit tight, as its case was complete."

The prayer of the defense petition asks that the State be compelled to furnish the defense with a bill of particulars of the following:

What control and supervision, if any, the White Sox club owners had over the players after the expiration of their contracts Sept. 28, 1919.

When and where and in what manner William Burns and Hal Chase, former major league players charged with helping engineer the alleged throwing of the series, and Rachel Brown, Sport Sullivan and Abe Attell, conspired with the petitioners to destroy the business and reputation of the White Sox club.

WHERE AND HOW.

What bribe was offered and given and by whom and to whom and when, where and how such bribe was offered and given and by whom it was accepted and received.

When, where and in what manner the petitioners did not execute plays with their best skill and ability and in what games and in what plays did the petitioners not play with their best skill and ability.

How games alleged to have been thrown could have been won by the players under indictment.

TO THROW SERIES.

Claude Williams, before going to the grand jury to testify, issued a sworn statement that he received $10,000 to help throw the series and that he gave Jackson $5000. He said arrangements were made to throw the series in a conference between himself, Jackson, Weaver, Risberg, Felsch, Gandil, Cicotte and McMullin and two gamblers named Brown and Sullivan previous to the series. His affidavit today said he did not know whether the Brown and Sullivan at this conference were the Brown and Sullivan indicted and that he did not know N. K. Nims, mentioned in the indictments as a victim of the alleged conspiracy.

KALLIO AND BAKER ATTACH SIGNATURES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 12.—Pitcher Rudy Kallio and Catcher Del Baker of the Portland baseball team signed their contracts today. Gus Fisher, former Portland catcher, now a free agent, notified W. W. McCredie, president of the club, that he had accepted an offer and would report to Santa Maria, Cal., where the Portland team will train. Second Baseman Marty Krug, traded to Portland for Paddy Siglin, wrote from San Diego, saying he has retired from professional baseball.

STANFORD QUINTET DOWNED BY U. OF C.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, Feb. 12.—The University of California basketball team defeated Stanford University here tonight, 30 to 24. Score at the end of the first half was, California 13, Stanford 13.

Eggleston featured for California, while Righter was star player for Stanford. Coop of California scored highest with a total of 16 points. California won through superior short tossing.

BOXING FAILS TO DRAW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 12.—Boxing programs will be held with less frequency in Portland hereafter, the boxing commission announced today. For some time they have been given every week, but the commission said attendance did not warrant having them so often.

ELKS TO BOWL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TOLEDO (O.) Feb. 12.—The Elks national bowling tournament, with more than 100 teams entered will open here today. The tournament will continue about ten days. Jerry Smith, recognized as the champion bowler of the United States, will bowl with a Milwaukee team, February 20.

ZBYSZKO GRABS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Feb. 12.—Stanislaus Zbyszko won over Ivan Linow in straight falls in a wrestling match here tonight.

SPANIEL IS BEST DOG IN AMERICA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Midkiff Seductive, an eighteen-pound cocker spaniel, tonight ascended the throne of dogdom and for one year will reign as the best dog in America. He was chosen as the winner of the forty-fifth annual show of the Westminster Kennel Club. He is owned by W. T. Dayne of Kingston, Pa.

Ray Keating to be on the Mound Today.

Joe Pirrone's All-Stars seem to have it on the L. A. White Sox (colored) baseball team, trimming the latter yesterday for the fourth consecutive time, 6 to 2. Rogan for the Sox, although he struck out eleven men, was unusually wild, giving ten passes.

Owing to his unsteadiness in the seventh, the All-Stars were able to pile up three runs and put the game away on ice.

Keating will be on the mound for the All-Stars today and Pirrone expects his major leaguers to make it the fifth straight victory. The largest Saturday crowd of the season was present. A banner crowd is expected today. "King" Curry will heave for the Sox. The grounds are at East Fourth and Anderson streets. The score:

JOE GORMAN IS TOO NIFTY FOR FOWLER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 12.—Joe Gorman, Portland lightweight, won a ten-round decision over Monk Fowler of New Orleans here last night.

Billy Mascott, Portland bantamweight, fought an eight-round draw with Frankie Monroe of Los Angeles.

Roy Sutherland, Los Angeles lightweight, and Willie St. Clair of Sacramento, fought a six-round draw. Leo Bell, Portland lightweight, was awarded a six-round verdict over George Burns, also of Portland.

WILSON PLANNING TO MEET MALONE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Tentative proposals for a match between Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, and Jock Malone of St. Paul, have been agreed upon, it was said here today, a Minneapolis promoter having laid plans to stage the bout there either March 4 or March 17. Wilson and his manager declared he would give the former titleholder, Mike O'Dowd, one week to accept terms for a match, and then would accept the Malone contest, postponing a meeting with Mike Gibbons, of St. Paul, who issued a formal challenge Thursday night.

THRONGS AT TWO ILLINOIS FETES.

City and Long Beach Picnics Attract Thousands.

Lowden Speaks at Each; Tells of Lincoln's Deeds.

Ex-Governor Meets Pupils of Old Days and Friends.

Twenty thousand people from Illinois divided attendance yesterday at two great gatherings of former residents of the Sucker State—one held at Lincoln Park in this city and the other at Bixby Park in Long Beach—and the picnickers at each place were privileged to hear an address commemorative of Lincoln's birthday anniversary made by former Gov. Lowden of Illinois. The Lincoln Park gathering was held under the auspices of the Illinois State Society of Southern California; that at Long Beach under the auspices of the Illinois State Association of Southern California.

The sons and daughters of Illinois, many of whom had been pupils of Frank O. Lowden when he taught school, greeted the former Illinois Governor at Lincoln Park with a burst of applause when he mounted the speakers' stand yesterday afternoon. Men and women clapped their hands and little children waved flags. Mrs. Lowden, who followed her distinguished husband onto the stand, was presented with a bouquet of red roses.

Mr. Lowden faced a throng of 10,000 persons, most of them members of the Illinois State Society of Southern California. His voice carried to the outermost fringe of the crowd. At the conclusion of his address, he stepped off the stand and mingled with the people, greeting former pupils and exchanging felicitations with friends and acquaintances.

ALL QUOTED LINCOLN.

"In every crisis of the war, the statesmen of the Old World as well as the statesmen of the New, had recourse time and time again to Lincoln's inspiring words," he said. "Whether it was Clemenceau in France or Lloyd George in England, or wherever men were hoping and fighting with their backs to the wall, it was Lincoln's words which furnished inspiration for all.

"So in these times of peace, Lincoln's words are just as important as they were in the stress of war."

While the crowd was awaiting the arrival of Mr. Lowden, the Page Military Band played, and old-time songs were sung. Among the speakers preceding and following Mr. Lowden's oration were: Col. John Sobieski, R. D. Richards, Col. Willis Nance, W. J. Emerson, State Attorney of Illinois, and Samuel Mitchell. S. H. Enyeart recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Miss Winona Wenzlick read "Wilson's Nine Points, Not Pointing Any More." Rev. Mr. Vivian gave an original poem on Illinois.

GREETED AT BEACH.

Until former Gov. Lowden actually took the platform at the mammoth Illinois picnic in Bixby Park at Long Beach yesterday afternoon he was constantly the center of a demonstrative crowd of friends and admirers eager to shake his hand. His efforts to put away his due share of the chicken dinner gracing the picnic table at which he sat were interrupted time after time by the greetings of old acquaintances.

About 10,000 attended the annual picnic and heard Gov. Lowden's address, which was largely devoted to laudation of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday anniversary the picnic celebrated, was roundly cheered time and again. An affecting greeting was that of Gov. Lowden and J. C. Fesler, from New Rochelle, Ill., old friends who had not met for years. They threw their arms around each other and their eyes filled with tears. An object of interest at the park was the automobile house in which Dr. W. P. Fread drove halfway across the continent for the express purpose of attending yesterday's picnic.

To Mayor Lisenby's address of welcome, Dr. Henry K. Booth responded. The Illinois song followed, after which Dr. F. V. Mosslander of Springfield, Ill., spoke. President Asher of the Illinois State Association of Southern California then introduced Gov. Lowden, who spoke in part as follows:

LINCOLN STATE'S GIFT.

"Illinois has made many contributions to our common country and to civilization, but her supreme gift, transcending, as I believe, that of any of her sister States, was Abraham Lincoln. It was impossible for Lincoln as President to foresee the emancipation of the slaves because the Constitution protected slavery. He could only know that he had but one duty and sadly and solitarily he set about that duty. In very truth the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children. Slavery was a sin, but it was sin of the fathers. Lincoln bowed his great shoulders to bear this sin.

"Bull Run, Shiloh, Antietam—these battles all were fought not for the slaves, but for the Union. If any had been decisive for the Union slavery would have remained. But events are mightier than men. It was destined that slavery should perish forever from this continent. So the South must fight so well that the North should be compelled for its own preservation to free the slaves.

"If I were an artist and were to paint a group typical of the Rebellion, it would be Lincoln standing side by side with a private soldier. For both received orders from above. Comrades they were, by virtue of the law of obedience. This explains the sympathy between the great President and the humblest man in the ranks of the Union Army."

WHOLE CITY FULL OF BADGERS AT PICNIC.

TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND SET NEW WISCONSIN RECORD AT SYCAMORE GROVE.

Former Wisconsin people now in Los Angeles and vicinity yesterday established a record for picnic attendance that will keep the former residents of other States hustling. With the advantages of a summer sun and a legal holiday, it was estimated that more than 25,000 former residents of the Badger State gathered in Sycamore Grove. According to the records of the Federation of State Societies, this number accorded the Badgers the distinction of having eclipsed the picnic attendance records of the entire season of 1920, exclusive of the Iowa picnic, and outnumbered the Wisconsin record last year three to one.

As it was the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday, a number of prominent G.A.R. men had charge of the program. Col. Frank H. True, president of both the Wisconsin State Society and of the Federation of State Societies, presided. Maj. A. F. Judson, who fought for four years in the Confederate Army, but who now asserts that he is a "good Republican," was the principal speaker for the old veterans.

H. J. Arnold, another veteran of the Civil War, recited Lincoln's Gettysburg speech as he stood under a large picture of Lincoln framed high on the band stand in the middle of the grove. Other speakers were Charles E. Brasted of Waukesha, Wis.; Julius C. Birge, historian for the Wisconsin Society; Charles Milwaukee Sivyer and John Hooper of Winnipeg, Can. C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies delivered his address on "The Four Necessities of a Successful Picnic."

Next Saturday the Minnesota State Society will hold its winter picnic, when former Gov. Lowden of Illinois will be the principal speaker.

LYNCH MAY MEET HERMAN ON JULY 4.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—Joe Lynch, holder of the world's bantamweight title, has been offered $25,000 to meet Pete Herman in a twenty-round match for the title.

Dominick Tortorich, dean of local promoters, tonight authorized Lew Diamond, manager of several fighters who left for New York, to make arrangements with Lynch to meet Herman here if Lynch was ready and willing to defend his crown.

Herman has said that he will rest up and re-enter the ring when Lynch agrees to meet him.

Tortorich wants to bring the two together. He plans to stage the scrap July 4 or before that date and thinks it will draw a $50,000 gate.

JOE MOORE IS THE NEW SKATING CHAMP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAKE PLACID (N. Y.) Feb. 12.—Joe Moore of New York City won the international ice-skating championship, which ended today, with 100 points. Charles Jewtraw of Lake Placid, who recently won the national title, was second with 8 and Roy McWhirter of Chicago, third, with 60. The women's international title went to Miss Gladys Robinson of Toronto.

McWhirter set a new world's amateur record in winning the three-mile event in 8m. 45s. This was two-fifths of a second faster than the former record made by John Nillson at Montreal in 1915.

The junior champions are:

Sixteen-year class, Martin Brewster, Lake Placid, 120 points; 14-year class, Harold Fortune, Lake Placid, 80; 12-year class, Carl Parody, Lake Placid, 90; 10-year class, John A. Shea, Lake Placid, 60.

In the 10-year-old class Shea defeated Raymond Murray of New York City, who had forty points.

HELL PRESSURE HIGH AT CANAL.

Pastor Says Vice Flaunts in Amazing Effrontery.

Sailors and Soldiers Preyed on by Many Harpies.

Conditions There Are Called Menace to This Port.

"The hell-pressure is higher to the square inch in the Canal Zone than in any other region of the world," declares Rev. Harry Owen, pastor of the church at Cristobal, who is now in Los Angeles soliciting funds for four union churches across the isthmus.

"Within a radius of 500 yards of my church," he continued, "there are more than 1100 prostitutes. This cross-roads of the world has become, to an extent which menaces our naval strength and the welfare of ports served by vessels passing through the canal, a Mecca for the fallen women of all lands.

"Prostitution has thrived in Panama out of all proportion to the number of inhabitants. Situated as it is, Panama is daily visited by hundreds of seamen from commercial vessels, as well as by sailors and soldiers of the United States Army and Navy. Prostitutes from distant lands, as well as native women learning of the rich harvest to be reaped there and of the light restrictions on their freedom, consider the city as their own. Recently 98 per cent of the registered prostitutes and an equal percentage of the clandestines were found to be seriously diseased. Over a period of fourteen years 27,633 cases of venereal disease among employees and their families were treated by American physicians alone in the Canal Zone and the admission rate at American hospitals has remained fairly constant at 12½ per cent of the population.

"Although the Eighteenth Amendment is operative in the Canal Zone, it is only necessary to cross the street to obtain liquor, and I can assure you that the street which serves as the limit to the zone is about the most crossed thoroughfare imaginable.

"This situation constitutes a menace to the health and morality of Los Angeles, as one of the chief ports concerned in what contagions and what depravities are brought from the isthmus by the countless vessels which pass through the Panama Canal. It is an acute menace to the welfare and efficiency of the men in the government service who are exposed to such tremendous temptations there, and who are given so few diversions to offset them."

Dr. Owen, who is a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society, is the representative of the committee on religious work in the Canal Zone appointed by the Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America and is directing the work of soliciting $150,000 in the various cities in this country which are most directly affected by conditions on the isthmus. A number of citizens in this city and in San Francisco have already responded generously to his appeal. If the response is sufficient, adequate churches and social centers will be erected at Cristobal, Gatun, Pedro Miguel and Balboa.

SEARCH FOR RECORDS OF EXTRA WIFE.

Police Suspect Would-be Suicide of Bigamy; Woman Already Locked Up.

Joe Peppa, 33 years of age, said by the police to have a record of seven arrests on felony charges and who is now in the California Hospital recovering from a self-inflicted bullet wound in the chest, may be arrested on a bigamy charge, according to Police Detectives Fitzgerald and Cahill, who are investigating his case.

Peppa attempted to kill himself several days ago when he became despondent over his troubles with the police and because of a felony case pending against him in Superior Court. He shot himself in the presence of Mrs. Margaret Schoening Peppa, who says she married him about a month ago in Ventura. Mrs. Peppa, after having been questioned by the police, was taken into custody Friday night and charged with suspicion of bigamy. The police charge that she failed to secure a divorce from a former husband. Records of her marriages are now being investigated.

Yesterday the investigating officers also began to inquire into a divorce said to have been secured by Peppa from a former wife who is now living in Portland, Or. It is believed by the police that Peppa failed to secure a full divorce from this first wife before marrying Mrs. Schoening.

NEW PEETE CASE LAWYER LIKELY.

Shift Contemplated if New Trial Move Fails.

Convicted Woman's Husband Tries to Get Funds.

Many Visitors Received in County Jail Yesterday.

Another change of attorneys for Mrs. Lofie Louise Peete, in the event her motion for a new trial is denied Wednesday, became imminent yesterday when it became known that Richard C. Peete, her husband, had been consulting W. J. Ford with a view to having him carry an appeal to the Appellate Court if necessary. It is also reported on good authority that Mr. Peete has been in communication with friends in Denver in an effort to raise sufficient funds for carrying on the defense of Mrs. Peete, who recently was convicted of murder in the first degree for slaying J. C. Denton.

Public Defender Aggeler, chief counsel for Mrs. Peete in her trial and who is preparing his argument for Wednesday, when he hopes to gain a new trial for his client, yesterday declined to affirm or deny the reported new legal lineup.

"I would not care to discuss the possibility of Mrs. Peete changing attorneys until after the hearing on the motion," he stated.

HUSBAND'S ATTITUDE.

It has been known for some time, however, that there is a strong probability that the Public Defender may not be permitted to carry an appeal in this case to the higher court. If such a contingency arises, Mr. Peete has previously declared that private counsel will be engaged if possible.

Should Mr. Ford definitely decide to represent Mrs. Peete it will be the fourth time Mrs. Peete has changed attorneys. When she first came from Denver as a voluntary assistant to the prosecution her husband engaged former Judge O. N. Hilton of Ontario, whose services were practically rejected by Mrs. Peete. This caused Mr. Hilton's withdrawal. He was followed for a few days by Atty. Biarne Castberg, who was in turn supplanted by Attorneys W. D. Van Ostrom and W. J. Ford. Soon after her indictment the last two attorneys withdrew from the case when it became apparent that adequate funds for the defense could not be raised. The Public Defender's office was then brought into the case and Mr. Aggeler, assisted by Deputies Frederic H. Vercoe and Robert H. Scott, defended her in the trial.

During the time that the Public Defender represented Mrs. Peete prior to her trial, S. S. Hahn was reported as being almost ready to take over the case. This condition existed in such a degree that formal statements were finally issued declaring Mr. Hahn is her legal adviser in all matters other than the defense for the murder trial.

Consistent rumors yesterday had it that a wealthy friend of Mrs. Peete has signified his willingness to advance a large sum for her defense, but it is known that Mr. Peete himself is endeavoring to raise the money among his friends.

Mrs. Peete yesterday had many visitors in the County Jail, among them being Mrs. Mamie Tilton, whose testimony during the trial was one of the hardest blows dealt the defense. Mrs. Tilton formerly was modiste and confidential friend of Mrs. Peete.

TENANTS TO FRAME PLAN FOR BATTLE.

Meet Tomorrow to Decide on Course When Rent Law Becomes Effective.

At a mass meeting to be held at 7:30 tomorrow night in Walker Auditorium, 730 South Grand avenue, organized tenants of the city will make their final plans for the fight which is to come within the week on the rent regulating ordinance which takes effect Tuesday.

Willard C. Steele, president of the rent-payers' association, will be chairman of the meeting, which will be addressed by Walter Gould Lincoln, attorney for the association, and Edward Roberts. Tenants will be informed as to the legal aspects of the situation and will be advised as to how they should proceed after the rent-regulating ordinance becomes effective.

That the apartment-house owners also have been active is shown by the fact that preparations have been completed for making an application to Judge Shenk tomorrow for the issuance of an order to compel the City Council to show cause why it should not be enjoined against putting the ordinance into operation on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

Auto Club Recommendations Upheld by Ruling.

Commission's Specifications Held Inadequate.

A minimum thickness of six inches of concrete pavement will be required by the United States Bureau of Public Roads in connection with Federal aid construction in California, according to a telegram received by the California State Automobile Association in San Francisco yesterday from C. H. Sweetzer, district engineer of the Bureau of Public Lands, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The government bureau has just completed a survey of the California highway system at the request of Gov. Stephens and the Highway Commission, and the telegram received yesterday indicates that unless the State Highway Commission accepts the recommendations of the California State Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California to increase the thickness of State roads to six and eight inches, approximately $10,000,000 of Federal aid funds may be lost to California.

FEDERAL REQUIREMENTS.

The telegram which was sent by Mr. Sweetser to Ben Blow, good roads manager of the northern club, is as follows:

"Reference is made to your letter of the 5th inst. requesting information as to the thickness and width of mix and steel reinforcement required in concrete pavements by the bureau in connection with Federal aid construction in the State of California. It is the policy of this bureau to consider the conditions on each individual Federal aid project as there are elements such as subgrade drainage and present and prospective traffic which vitally affect the determination of the standards of construction to be used. In view of the conditions revealed during the investigation of the State highway system recently made by the bureau at the request of the State Highway Commission, it has been decided to require a minimum thickness of six inches of concrete pavement on a satisfactory subgrade, providing, however, for increasing this thickness to a minimum of eight inches where there is a question of poor subgrade or drainage.

"Treatment of subgrade and shoulders is also required where it is deemed necessary. There is no standard width of surfacing which applies to all Federal aid constructions; however, on three projects recently submitted a width of eighteen feet was specified. Up to the present time a mixture of one part of Portland cement to two parts of sand and four parts of crushed stone or gravel has been approved. The use of steel reinforcement in the concrete is recommended especially over certain types of soil, as it is believed that the additional cost of same is justified by the insurance it gives against excessive cracking and the fact that it prevents cracks which develop normally from opening up to any extent. However, the use of reinforcement is not recommended as a substitute for an increased thickness of the pavement."

AUTO CLUB REPORT.

In the report compiled after six months of investigation by H. J. Brunndier, chairman of the Good Roads Committee of the California State Automobile Association, Prof. Charles Derleth, Jr., dean of the civil engineering department of the University of California; J. B. Lippincott, consulting engineer representing the Automobile Club of Southern California, and Highway Engineer Walter C. Howe, employed by the State association, the two clubs recommended for trunk roads as follows:

"We recommend pavements of an average thickness not less than six to eight inches, dependent upon subgrade drainage and traffic requirements. Wherever the subsoil is treacherous and yielding, these concrete pavements require an amount of reinforcement proportional to the foundation difficulties to be overcome."

Prior to the investigation made by the two automobile clubs, the State Highway Commission spent many millions of dollars in constructing roads of four-inch thickness. Since the inauguration of the investigation by the two automobile clubs the commission has increased this thickness to five inches.

AUTO CLUB REPLIES TO HIGHWAY BOARD.

CHARGES LATTER'S STATEMENT IS VAGUE AND CONTAINS MISSTATEMENTS.

Officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California yesterday issued the following statement in regard to the reply made recently by the State Highway Commission relative to the joint Auto Club report on highway conditions in this State:

"The reply of the California Highway Commission to the preliminary joint report made public by the California State Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California is vague, contains many misstatements of fact and attempts to befog just and constructive criticisms.

"The reply of the Highway Commission indicates forcibly that the commissioners themselves realize that the present width of the road (fifteen feet) and the thickness prescribed for present construction is not such as present-day traffic, to say nothing of future traffic, demands.

"It is true that the Highway Commission, before this report was made public, issued its own report raising the minimum thickness of roads from four inches to five inches, but this report was compiled and published after the Highway Commission had been under investigation by the engineers of the two automobile clubs for a period of more than four months, in which time more or less information as to what recommendations the clubs would make relative to width and thickness had, perhaps, leaked out.

"The very statement made by the commission that present specifications called for a five-inch reinforced road of fifteen feet minimum width, irrespective of subgrade conditions, justifies the somewhat emphatic criticisms made by the two clubs, which seek not to belittle or discourage any public officers in the discharge of their duty, but desire only to safeguard and protect not only the people of today, but those of tomorrow and time to come. We seek to see that roads are built which will economically serve present-day traffic and give promise for continued service under that traffic increase which normally must take place."

BRINGS WORD OF OIL FIELD IN COLOMBIA.

NEW CONSUL ON JOB HERE; TELLS OF HIS COUNTRY'S MINERAL RESOURCES.

F. Pereira Gambo, recently appointed Consul here for Colombia, took up his new duties yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce building.

"The production of oil is Colombia's youngest industry," he said, "and promises to become the greatest. Oil was first discovered in Colombia about a year ago. Since that time drilling has been very active. A very rich field has been found in the department of Sandrandel, where already two huge wells have been brought in. The largest of these produces 10,000 barrels daily and was brought in as a gusher, which shot a massive spray of oil 150 feet high. A near-by river was coated for many leagues with a film of oil after the gusher was brought in.

"Colombia's other chief industry is the working of emerald and platinum mines. The only perfect emeralds in the world are found in Colombia. To mine these products properly Colombia invites American interests to come to her. The mining laws are very liberal and concessions may be obtained with but little expense.

"My coming to Los Angeles was to establish direct communication between the Pacific States and Colombia. I want to inform the Americans of the wonderful natural resources of that country, that they may go there to play a part in its development."

Mr. Gamba succeeds Dr. Joseph Sarrano as Colombian Consul in Los Angeles. His home is at Bogota, the Colombian capital, where he was professor of mining engineering in the National University. He is a graduate of the National University and finished his studies in New York. He is also the author of several books on Colombia's mineral resources.

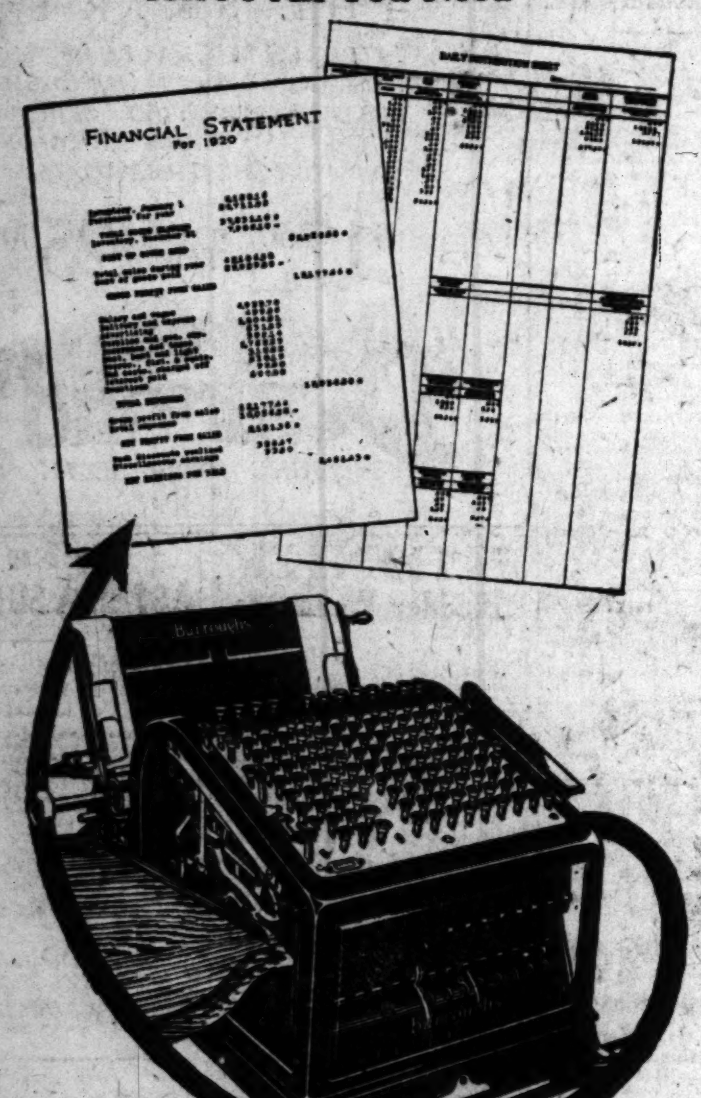
Income Tax?

Here's All You Need



There's one man who is not losing any sleep over the income tax.

He is the treasurer of a small hardware company, and a busy man. He does not employ a bookkeeper and though he works all day on the floor, he posts the books himself in the evening, but—

He has a Burroughs Bookkeeping Machine.

Last year, when it came time to make up the Income Tax Return, a deputy internal revenue tax collector dropped into the store and took a look at the Burroughs-kept ledger.

"Why," the collector exclaimed, "you have everything you need right here in plain sight. Just copy off the figures!"

"Can Figure Mine in Twenty Minutes"

With the aid of the Burroughs, this man keeps accounts up-to-date all through the year, so when the tax return is due it is a simple matter to gather the figures from his clear, accurate record. The machine makes it easy to add purchases and sales, classify expenses, take inventory and figure net profit.

Before the Burroughs was bought, he spent from six to eight hours a day on the books, working late into the night and Sunday. Now, all this work is finished in a short time each evening.

His accounts receivable, accounts payable, and private ledger are kept with the Burroughs. Customers' statements also are inserted in the carriage of the machine along with the ledger sheet, and both are posted up-to-date every day.

If you are having trouble with the Income-Tax-figure Hunt this year, now is the time to take steps that will save you from the work and worry next year, and give you daily and monthly business figures you need in these days of quick changes and uncertain markets. A phone call to the nearest Burroughs office will put you in touch with men who can show you a surprisingly simple method for getting this information.

The A B C of Business

Adding, Bookkeeping and Calculating represent the three great groups of figuring operations that constitute the A B C of business. To handle these operations the Burroughs Adding Machine Company manufacture three types of machines in a wide variety of styles and sizes, among which may be found a machine that will fit the needs of any business, large or small.

A Burroughs representative will be glad to show you the type of machine made to fit the needs of your particular business. A telephone call or a letter will bring him.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING.

A new office building, with the upper floors occupied by doctors and dentists, will be erected at the southwest corner of East Colorado street and El Molino avenue, it became known today through the purchase of the corner by Dr. Charles D. Lockwood and H. G. Chaffee. The new building will be four stories high and have an eighty-foot frontage on Colorado street.

AUTOMOBILE TURNS TURTLE.

Harry Comerford of San Bernardino and Roy Rand of Colton were treated at the Emergency Hospital here today for injuries received when the automobile in which they were riding on Huntington Drive turned turtle when it struck a rut in the roadway as they endeavored to turn the car out of danger. Neither was seriously hurt.

AUTO THIEVES ACTIVE.

Three high-grade automobiles have been stolen by thieves in the last twenty-four hours, according to reports made to the police. Former United States Senator Flint owned one of the cars stolen. Another victim of the auto thieves was H. G. Chaffee, head of a grocery chain and president of the Rotary Club here.

PLAN TO IMPROVE MOUNTAIN RESORT.

WILDWOOD RANCHO TO BE MECCA FOR TOURISTS; NEW INCLINE RAILWAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Feb. 12. — What promises to be one of the most unique pleasure resorts in all Southern California was assured this week with the completion of the deal for the purchase from James McLees of Duarte of the famous Wildwood Rancho, for many years a well-known camp at the mouth of Fish Canyon, about four miles east of this city.

The new owners, who are Dr. C. A. Newcomb of Chicago, Patterson Pogue of Los Angeles and Dan Wood of Wisconsin, have paid about $50,000 for the property, and plan to expend many times that sum before they have their project completed. They will incorporate under the name Wildwood Association and propose to build one of the most attractive mountain camps in the State. Fish Canyon is naturally one of the most picturesque in the south, and taking advantage of all its natural beauties, the new owners plan to lay out a nine-hole golf course and build a clubhouse upon a fifty-foot mesa that is included in their holdings, lying a thousand feet above the canyon floor.

To reach this mountain valley they will construct a mountain incline railway. The present clubhouse is already being remodeled and a new dining-room being added. Many new cottages will be constructed and a picnic park, with a hundred big tables placed under the spreading trees, will be laid out for the accommodation of the public desiring to spend a few hours in the mountains.

The architecture will all be Indian in style, and in keeping with the surroundings. Next year Dr. Newcomb is planning a unique health resort and sanatorium for victims of nervous diseases, with open-air training and exercise in the invigorating mountain air as the basis for his treatment.

Already the place has a wide reputation because of its easy accessibility and remarkably beautiful location. There is dancing, swimming and mountain hikes for the visitors, and the improvements will undoubtedly add many new sports to the list.

BUSINESS MEN TO SOLICIT MONEY FOR HOSPITAL. TOURISTS' PICNIC.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Feb. 12.—In an effort to secure at least $250,000 to be used for the construction of a modern endowed hospital in Santa Ana, a community-wide canvass for donations will start March 1, under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today.

J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the boost organization, will be drive chairman, and is now enlisting committee chairmen in the various districts. The territory to be canvassed includes Santa Ana, Orange, Tustin, Garden Grove, the beaches and all other contiguous territory. Several large donations by local men are anticipated.

TOURISTS' PICNIC.

Nearly 4000 eastern tourists gathered at Orange County Park today to be the guests of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce at an automobile tourists' picnic. Speaking was on the program, a basket lunch was a feature, and this afternoon dancing and a sport program occupied the time. It is planned to make this picnic an annual event.

Mayors of Two Cities Brand Him as Un-American.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Feb. 12.—Following receipt of telegrams from Mayor B. C. Bailey of Denver and Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, Or., both of whom gave unfavorable reports as to Lincoln Steffens's lecture, Public Affairs Commissioner Eugene Tincher today announced the revocation of the municipal auditorium reservation for Steffens for next Wednesday night had been made permanent.

The messages received by Tincher from the mayors mentioned asserted that Steffens and his fellow-worker, Irwin St. John Tucker, gave lectures which were "appeals to the radical, un-American element."

MOTHER AND SISTER SAVE WOMAN'S LIFE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Feb. 12.—Mrs. Mignon Landis, wife of Cullen Landis, motion-picture star, was severely, though not seriously, burned when her clothing was burned from her body this afternoon. Her garments ignited from a small gas stove. Her mother, Mrs. Verette Hath, and her sister, Miss Isolda Chaves, smothered the flames with a blanket, saving the woman's life. The near fatality occurred in the bathroom of the family home, 1243 Hellman avenue.

Yellow-Car Men Finish the Safety Pennant Fight.

After a spirited contest covering application of all of the "safety first" rules of the Los Angeles Railway, the "Safety Pennant" has been awarded to division two of the company's car employees and will be formally presented to the winners on Tuesday.

The safety department of the street car company worked out a system of scoring for the contest which resulted in the following standings and points for the five divisions which participated: Division 2, 784 9-10 points; Division 5, 776 8-10 points; Division 3, 753 points; Division 1, 741 1-2 points; and Division 4, 719 1-3 points.

One of the surprising things discovered as a result of the tallying of points was that, on the average, fewer infractions of the safety rules are made by men new in the company's employ than by those who have been with the company for two years or more. This discovery is receiving study from the company's supervisor of safety, John C. Collins.

PLAN FOR VALENTINE DANCE AT PIER HALL.

A special Valentine program has been arranged for tomorrow night at Ocean Park. Little Meriam Esther Close, daughter of L. C. Close, assistant general manager of the Pickering pleasure pier, will act as the spirit of Valentine and will spread Valentine greetings to the crowd.

A Valentine ball will be held in the dance pavilion on the end of the pier. Prizes will be given during the lucky-spot dances and several other attractions will be offered. Lucille Williams will perform a special Valentine dance.

The Canadian Society of Southern California will hold a Valentine party in the dance pavilion on Tuesday night. It is to be a masquerade ball. A regular carnival program has been arranged and the pier and ocean front walk will take on the appearance of a Mardi Gras carnival. A troup of entertainers and dancers will at the pavilion.

SMALL BOY GONE; FEAR KIDNAPING.

Five-Year-Old Lad Goes Shopping with Parents; Vanishes on Streets.

Believed by his parents to have been kidnaped, Fred Traenkle, Jr., the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Traenkle of 428 North Grand avenue, was sought last night by anxious relatives and the police. The boy disappeared as if by magic at about 8:15 o'clock from in front of a laundry on Temple street, near Hill.

At the time of the disappearance Mr. and Mrs. Traenkle were in the laundry. They had left their home a few minutes before, accompanied by their son, bound on a shopping tour. They thought the boy was following them into the laundry, where they remained a minute or two, and on going out were amazed to find that he was not with them. Immediately a search for the missing youngster was begun, but up to a late hour no news of him had been received. The parents know of no one who would be likely to steal their son.

The boy is described as an extremely pleasing child. He is of medium height, of light complexion and has bobbed light hair. He is of a quiet disposition and his relatives insist he does not easily make friends. He was dressed in a sailor suit, with long trousers, gray overcoat, and a round, blue sailor hat.

ELECTION FOR WAR MEMORIAL BUILDING.

SOUTH PASADENANS HOPE TO LEAD THE WAY IN SOUTHLAND NEXT TUESDAY.

South Pasadena will vote next Tuesday on the proposal to issue bonds to the amount of $12,000 for a war memorial building. The election and the special Congressional election will be handled by the same officials. It is proposed that the $12,000 be used to erect a public building, which will be leased to the American Legion of South Pasadena for a long period at a nominal rent.

Members of the Legion and prominent taxpayers of South Pasadena are working zealously for the measure and are confident that it will be carried by a substantial majority. Among the advocates of the bond issue are Walter Raymond, proprietor of the Raymond Hotel, Jonathan S. Dodge, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, Judge John W. Shenk, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, Mrs. O. B. Manchester, Mrs. Elizabeth Mumford, Dep. Atty.-Gen. Arthur Keetch, E. H. Rust, G. B. Ochiltree and Fred Fairbanks.

Supporters of the measure point out that a tax rate to finance the proposed building would be less than 1 cent on each $100 assessed valuation. If the bonds carry, South Pasadena will lead the way in Southern California in erecting a war memorial building. The Legionnaires are assisting a general citizens' committee in the campaign.

Five men from South Pasadena gave their lives in the World War and it is felt that a building used by their surviving comrades will be a fitting memorial to them.

WOMAN WHO SHOT LOVER NEAR DEATH.

Tragedies Linked to Case of Mrs. Lundberg Bared as Reaper Hovers Near.

The death she sought when the crushing tragedies of others made her own life-long sorrows unbearable and caused her to take the life of the man she loved, yesterday lingered close to the bedside of Mrs. Edith Lundberg while physicians at the County Hospital fought to save her in spite of herself. With every possible effort being made in her behalf, the frail little woman, who shot and killed Linas F. Worden and then tried to commit suicide last Tuesday night in front of her home, was reported as sinking.

Interesting light was shed on her case last night by a statement made by Tillman E. Justice, attorney representing the young woman and her family.

"It is hard for the outside world to understand this tragedy, and harder still for the dying invalid to bare the innermost secrets of her heart," Mr. Justice said. "The newspapers published accounts of the shooting, and the public in many instances received the impression that the affair was ordinary—the usual tragedy of two lovers confronted with something they could not face.

"That was not the case. I have talked with the friends and relatives of the girl. I have talked with the young woman. Her thoughts now are for the family of the man she killed, and not for herself. She has no desire to clear her name by placing the blame on anyone else, but those who know her realize that it was the accumulation of tragedies affecting those around her that made her despondent."

Mrs. Lundberg, he explained, has been an invalid since childhood. Her romance with young Worden brought joy mingled with the bitter realization that she was not made for the joys that others had. Her sensitive nature and temperament served to aggravate this state of mind, said the attorney.

Mrs. Lundberg's condition, while desperate, remains practically unchanged.

WAS KILLED IN WRECK.

Man With Sister Here May Have Been Using an Assumed Name.

Ralph Burns, or Ralph Finn, said to have had a sister named Mrs. Teresa Finn or Mrs. Clement Finn residing at 402 East Seventeenth street in this city, was killed in a railroad wreck, according to a letter received by The Times from Ora Hoover, who gives his address as Postal Lock Box 225, Oceanport, N. J.

Mr. Hoover gives no particulars about the railroad accident, nor does he explain the confusion of names of the dead man. He says, however, that the wreck victim, who had studied civil engineering at the University of California, and who worked for a construction company in Detroit, was in the Army under the name of Ralph Burns. The dead man is described as having been 22 years of age, as weighing about 160 pounds and as being of medium-dark complexion. He was about 5 feet 9 inches tall. City directories do not list the sister at the address given.

RECRUITING PUSHED.

Guard Regiment Now in Charge of Enlistments Here.

Announcement was made yesterday that recruiting for the local infantry regiment of the National Guard has been placed on a new footing, in that independent activity in this field by the individual companies has been suspended and the regiment alone handles the work of enlistment. Each recruit, however, is permitted to choose the company in which he shall serve.

Capt. W. A. Heinicke and Lieut. R. S. Dicey of Co. A, in conjunction with Capt. Norris, have opened a recruiting office at 340 South Hill street and are making a vigorous campaign to get new men for the regiment. Their first three days of activity netted twelve recruits.

What Position for You?

When you go into the business man's office and apply for a position, the first question he will ask you is—"What business training have you had?"

The student who has been given an intensive training by the business specialists at the Commercial Experts' can answer this question to the satisfaction of the man who wants to be shown.

The proof of the value of the methods of this institution is indicated by the positions its graduates hold.

Willis-Woodbury BUSINESS COLLEGE

Situations Secured

Because of the long record of good work done in training young people for business life, Willis-Woodbury College is widely known and the demand for our graduates exceeds the supply. Business men in growing numbers have come to depend upon us for their office help, sending in their applications much faster than we can graduate students to fill these positions.

If you prepare thoroughly with us there will be no trouble in securing you a satisfactory situation. We are always pleased to extend the privileges of our free Employment Bureau to all students who prove worthy of our recommendation.

Then, too, should it become necessary at any time to make a change in your position, we will assist you in finding another one. We are always glad to help former students in any way. Willis College students have a free life membership in our Employment Department.

It pays to attend a Willis College because of the many advantages offered in these up-to-the-minute institutions. Instruction, being individual, you may begin at any time in the year with equal advantage, so why not now? Ask for full particulars. STEPHEN T. WILLIS, President.

EXTENSION SPEAKER HAS WAR TOOTH FILM.

ARMY CAMP RECORDS REVEAL IMPORTANCE TO HEALTH OF GOOD MOLARS.

Lecturing under the auspices of the university extension department of the State University, Maj. Leonard G. Mitchell, is showing a three-reel cinema feature, made during the war for use in the base camps, showing the results of defective teeth upon the body and mind, and the prevention and cure of bad teeth. It is now recognized by medical authorities that a diseased condition of the mouth and the teeth is the primary cause of much bad health, and that the individual with faulty teeth is the first to succumb to disease. This was demonstrated in the Army camps.

The main object of these lectures is to teach, first, prevention of trouble by the proper care and nurture of the teeth from infancy. Abnormal methods of living and especially of eating are the basis of the very large percentage of poor teeth in this country. The use of whole grains and of food that must be chewed instead of merely swallowed is first essential for sound teeth. Proper care of children's teeth, and cleanliness are also necessary factors.

Defective teeth in school children bear a close relationship to defective scholarship. A large portion of money and effort is wasted in schools upon children who are not in a physical condition to respond to teaching. A high percentage of such waste, it has been practically demonstrated, may be prevented by the right kind of care and treatment for the teeth.

Maj. Mitchell will deliver a series of lectures illustrated by the film before schools and other bodies of young people in this city.

MANY ARE CARED FOR BY CATHOLIC BUREAU.

CLINIC WORK IS IMPORTANT PHASE OF OPERATIONS OF CATHOLIC CHARITIES.

Caring for the physical welfare of thousands of men, women and children has become one of the most important phases of the Bureau of Catholic Charities' many activities. This work is largely carried on through the clinics established at Santa Rita Center, Brownson House and in the Day Nursery and Infant Home, under the direction of the organization.

A staff of prominent physicians, surgeons and specialists is allied in the work with the bureau, whose activities in this field of humanitarianism, as in its charity, is entirely nonsectarian. Each gives freely and without charge of his or her time and skill.

The clinic work covers general medical care, eye, ear, nose and throat treatments; tuberculosis, psychiatry, psychology, orthopedic, dental examinations, laboratory work, diptheria immunization and the services of a staff of nurses, whose duties range from personal visits to homes of the sick, treatments by bureau nurses such as medication, diets, dressings, etc., and general advisory work.

RUUD HOT WATER

Come and see water heated as it flows—fresh and sparkling from the mains—instantly—economically

Ruud Hot Water means an unlimited supply of hot water by simply turning any hot-water faucet in the house.

Seems like magic; but Ruud Hot Water is a scientific fact demonstrated in 150,000 homes.

All you need is a Ruud Automatic Gas Water Heater in your basement or kitchen. Then hot water for bath, kitchen, and laundry is ready instantly, day or night.

BIG ISSUES HANG ON ELECTION.

Ninth District to Pick Congressman Tuesday to Succeed Charles F. Van de Water, and Every Real Republican Vote is Needed for Lineberger.

BY THE WATCHMAN.

Upon the outcome of the special Congressional election in the Ninth district next Tuesday hinges the fate of a lemon industry worth approximately $10,000,000 a year to Southern California. Ranchers and business men alike declare that the necessity for an adequate tariff on lemons is the paramount feature of the campaign.

Those most familiar with the situation feel assured that the voters of the Ninth District will elect Maj. Walter F. Lineberger of Long Beach to fill the seat in Congress left vacant by the tragic death of Charles F. Van de Water, also of Long Beach, after he was elected member of Congress on the Republican ticket by an overwhelming majority. They are equally confident that [illegible] Charles F. Van de Water met [illegible] protectionist, Republican and what [illegible] when they so emphatically re[illegible] last November, will be de[illegible] with equal emphasis now.

Choosing a Congressman to fill the vacancy is going to be a costly [illegible] and the voters should be certain that they get their money's worth. It has been estimated that the election will cost between $40,000 and $50,000. If the district succeeds in polling 100,000 votes, as it hopes to do, the cost even then will be between 40 and 50 cents for each vote cast.

The necessity for calling this special election arose from the fact that Charles F. Van DeWater met his death in an auto accident on Valley Boulevard three weeks after his signal victory over the political chameleon of the Ninth District.

THE FIGURES.

The outcome of the Van de Water-Randall campaign proved that the Ninth Congress District is just as Republican as it is dry, for Mr. Van de Water polled 62,952 votes out of the 105,446 ballots that were cast, while Randall picked up 36,675, [illegible] getting 5819, leaving the [illegible] Republican candidate a plurality of 27,000 over his chief [illegible].

The death of the Congressman-elect did not make the Ninth district any less Republican than it was at the November election, but it did give rise to the necessity of replacing him with another strong Republican, and Maj. Lineberger, World War veteran, a rancher and business man, was unanimously selected by the Republicans of the Ninth District as the logical man to take Mr. Van de Water's place in Congress.

Maj. Lineberger was nominated at a special conference in Pasadena from a group of prominent aspirants which included such well-known men as L. L. Lostutter of Pomona, Jonas Killian of El Monte, Montaville Flowers of Monrovia and W. E. Evans of Glendale. Since his selection by that conference he has had the solid support of the Republicans in his district, and the confidence reposed in him as a man in every way qualified to represent this section in Washington is evidenced by the fact that Gov. Stephens and Senator-elect Shortridge journeyed all the way from Sacramento and San Francisco to this county a week ago to take the stump in behalf of his candidacy.

WET-DRY ISSUE DEAD.

Supporters of Lineberger point out that the wet and dry issue is dead—that it has been dead since national prohibition was adopted. The real issue, they believe, is that of sending a dyed-in-the-wool Republican to Washington as a guarantee to the people of the Ninth District that one of the richest agricultural regions in the world—a section which is essentially a high protective tariff district—will be fairly and squarely represented by a protective tariff Congressman who is familiar with the needs of the people, because he himself was a citrus grower during the years just prior to the World War.

The attitude of C. C. Chapman, prominent fruit grower of Fullerton and Los Angeles, as to the wet and dry question, can scarcely be questioned, Cadet Taylor of the Pomona Republican Club points out, and yet Mr. Chapman, one of the most widely known church workers in Southern California, admits that adequate tariff for citrus fruits is the big issue of the campaign.

"I have been splendidly impressed with Maj. Lineberger, the man who is carrying the Republican standard in this campaign," says Mr. Chapman. "I have long been filled with a deep distaste for the political record of Mr. Randall. No person could have shown himself to have been such a complete misfit in that Republican protective tariff district as this man who has been all things to all men and who has sought to ally himself with all parties for his own political aggrandizement.

"It fills my heart with shame when I ride along the boulevards of this beautiful country and see signs stuck up near some dry wash which reads: 'Help Yourself to Lemons. The Democratic Low Tariff Makes Them Worthless to the Growers.' Is that the way this country should repay the citrus growers for the labor of a lifetime in building up these magnificent groves which are such a delight to the eye, and which have been profitable to the owner under Republican administrations?

"I am filled with a splendid optimism concerning the outcome of Tuesday's election. I only hope that the plurality for Mr. Lineberger will be so large that it will convince the few remaining supporters of Mr. Randall that the district does not want Randall's brand of politics, and that it does want, with decided emphasis, a return to Republicanism and common sense."

GET OUT AND VOTE.

In a statement made yesterday former United States Senator Frank P. Flint declares the Congressional campaign in this county a struggle for the principle of protective tariff. He looks for a big Lineberger victory, but warns Republicans against the old impulse to stay at home on election day. He declares that overconfidence has beaten many a political organization, and he strongly urges everyone to vote early and request his friends and acquaintances to do likewise, in the interest of a big Republican victory.

"It is an acknowledged fact," says Mr. Flint, "that the Ninth District is overwhelmingly Republican. The November election returns gave Mr. Van de Water a 27,000 plurality over Randall. The district has always been overwhelmingly Republican, but Democratic victories have been recorded in Republican districts, before now, for no other reason than because of indifference on the part of voters.

"Walter Lineberger is a Republican who commands the respect of all parties. He is a high protective

G.O.P. LEADERS FOR LINEBERGER.

Unique because it is now the only political contest in the country which is of national importance, the special election in the Ninth Congressional District Tuesday is being watched in Washington, and many eastern States with as much interest as that which surrounds it locally.

Dr. Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican Congressional committee, is taking great interest in the contest. He calls attention to the fact that it will be the first test of Republican strength since the great national landslide in November, and says that a Lineberger victory may be construed nationally as a second indorsement of the proposal that Republican principles be applied in the solving of the many important problems that confront the country. It will serve, he declares, to encourage and hearten the new administration and the new Congress as they assume full responsibility on March 4.

"Fortunately the Republican conference recently held in the Ninth District brought forward to make this important race," says he, "a splendid gentleman, who is eminently qualified for the high office of Representative in Congress and who is entitled to the enthusiastic support of all Republicans. That man is Maj. Walter F. Lineberger.

"Reports reaching me from all sections of the Ninth district are convincing that Maj. Lineberger will be elected by a big majority if the Republican vote in the district is cast. The danger in a special election is lack of interest on the part of the better citizens, who are usually occupied wtih their own affairs. I wish I might impress on all the importance of Republican success in this contest."

Alfred L. Bartlett, chairman of the Republican County Central Committee in this city, declares without qualification that at least two nationally-known speakers and twelve well-paid workers for the national FOOD PRICES DROPPING ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Dollar of 1919 Now Worth $1.68 in Staple Groceries; Fall in Meat Costs Less Marked, but is Real One.

Food prices are coming down.

Relatively speaking, a dollar will buy $1.43½ worth of staples against 85¼ cents' worth in June, 1919. Another way of saying it is that $1 in June, 1919, is now worth $1.683 in purchasing power.

Dealers in food products say that there will be still further declines.

Meat prices are also falling, but not so rapidly. There is a wide range of price for the same cuts in different parts of the city. Sharp wholesale declines have recently been made, and cheaper retail prices are predicted.

Following are comparative retail quotations for 1919, 1920 and 1921 on staple groceries and meats:

When Mrs. Los Angeles took her anemic son Dollar for his daily exercise yesterday she was surprised at the obvious improvement in his condition and appearance. His hair was accurately parted; his face shone with the glow of returning health, and he walked with a lessened limp.

After three years of invalidism during which her son, the apple of the maternal eye, had been less than half a man, this evidence of returning vigor was a source of great delight, and to bolster up her own opinion as evidenced by the unaccustomed jingle in the region of the purse strings after a shopping expedition, she led Dollar to his specialist, Dr. Cornergrocer, for a fresh examination.

The doctor looked over the patient; felt his pulse, examined his tongue, stethoscoped his expanding lungs, thumped his biceps and then referred to his case chart.

It was all true. Young Dollar had come back. Or at least he was coming back so fast that many symptoms which distinguished his activities before the cruel war deprived him of his 100 percentage were again in evidence.

Because everybody loved Dollar when he was in his prime, and because everybody is interested in his rejuvenation the doctor permitted a glimpse over his shoulder at the record.

SOME COMPARISON.

After war was declared in 1917 Dollar entered a decline. He went through several bombardments and came out of them much the worse for wear. Around June, 1919, there was a slight rally, which only preceded a fresh sinking spell, so that the June, 1919, Dollar was worth only 85¼ cents. In January, 1920, but thirteen months later, or at this present time, the battered old Dollar of June, 1919, will buy in staple food supplies commodities worth $1.22¼ by the 1919 standard, while the Dollar of January, 1920, has gained in purchasing power until in February, 1921, it is worth in trade $1.43½ on the same comparative

GOLDEN FRUITS TO CHARM CROWDS

Eleventh National Orange Show, Greatest Exposition of Kind in the World, Will Open at San Bernardino Friday; Many Thousands to See Displays.

Miss Billie Monette,

And a glimpse under the "big top" at San Bernardino, where the displays of the Eleventh National Orange Show are being prepared.

San Bernardino, the gate city of California and the center of the Golden State's world-famed citrus fruit belt, will open wide its hospitable doors to the tens of thousands who will again this year attend the National Orange Show, the eleventh annual exposition of its kind and the greatest of them all. The Eleventh National Orange Show — California's Greatest Midwinter Event—will be held in San Bernardino from next Friday to the 29th inst., inclusive.

To the tourist on the Pacific Coast the National Orange Show embodies everything that is truly Californian; in architecture, in the fruits displayed and in the atmosphere enveloping it all, it symbolizes this empire of flowers—this Land of Afternoon.

The National Orange Show is the largest enterprise of the kind in the world; its acres of floor space are covered with magnificent feature displays—great locomotives, bridges, temples and fountains, all full sized and made entirely of citrus fruits, while the walls are banked with rack displays of the choicest of California oranges, lemons and grapefruit entered in competition for awards given for quality, size and color. The million of oranges used in the construction of the National Orange Show come from the finest of California groves and are the finest that the groves produce. The exposition is an inspiration to growers to produce better fruit; to win the National Orange Show Sweepstakes is the greatest honor that can come to a citrus fruit growing district.

THOUSANDS ATTRACTED.

One hundred and sixty thousand people last year saw the National Orange Show and marveled at its beauty. Thousands of vari colored lights play an incessant yet alternating stream of illumination upon the banks of golden friut. Great lighted and revolving feature displays form a thousand rainbows in the spray of fountains. The general scene is one of enchantment; one unconsciously expects to find somewhere in it all the goddesses of mythology and angels with their harps.

While the orange exhibits are under canvas—the largest tents west of the Mississippi house the exposition—the National Orange Show is held in Urbita Springs Park, one of the scenic wonder places of Southern California. Urbita Lake, lying like a precious stone in a setting of wide reaches of orange groves, lends its rare beauty to the general enchantment of the exposition. The walks and drives of this quiet place, throughout the park and around the lake, dimly lighted by a thousand lanterns, present, during the period of the show, an aspect of oriental splendor.

It was in San Bernardino more than a decade ago that the National Orange Show was conceived; it was born in the minds of a few farsighted men. It was launched with the announced purpose of being an asset to the California citrus fruit industry, and through the years of its wonderful development and existence that purpose has remained foremost in mind. The exposition has grown from 3000 admissions the first year to 150,000 admissions today.

WIDE APPEAL.

Men engaged in the citrus industry throughout California take a pride and an interest in the National Orange Show, and they come great distances to display their fruit. The exposition has made an appeal not only to those directly engaged in the citrus industry, but to the general public and, particular, to the tourist who is in California to see California, and California is not seen with the National Orange Show overlooked.

Fifty years after the discovery of America, when Juan Rodrigues Cabrillo in his galleons from Navidad found California, or even two centuries later, when Spain came and laid the corner-stone of a new empire in the New World, the California of today was not foreseen; its cities and its citrus industry were undreamed of—for it is within much less than a century that these things have come to be and the National Orange Show came to fill a niche in the historical development of the Southwest.

The growth of the National Orange Show has only been in line with the growth of the indutsry it represents. Six persons are living today in the place of five a decade ago. Population has increased one-fifth in ten years. Nearly twenty oranges are eaten today in the place of five a decade ago. Consumption has quadrupled in ten years—twenty oranges for six people instead of five for five, as was once the rule. Why? Oranges today are not different from yesterday, nor lemons, but their uses are more numerous and widespread; the demand is greater. The National Orange Show has had its part in creating the increased demand.

The total acreage planted to oranges in California is 116,470, producing an average of 15,858,939 boxes of oranges a year. The total acreage planted to lemons is 26,744 producing an average annual total of 3,792,030 boxes of lemons.

INTERESTING HISTORY.

The banks of oranges and other citrus fruits which will be on display at the Eleventh National Orange Show will appeal to the esthetic sense of all who visit the exposition. But there will be, perhaps, only a few who will pause to look into the past for a glimpse of the most interesting and important incidents which have played so large a part in making a demonstration such as the National Orange Show possible.

An inquiry into the origin and first spread of the orange deals with an interesting bit of horticultural history. There is strong presumptive evidence that the orange came from China and Cochin-China. From there it spread into India, probably at about the beginning of the Christian era. Writers differ as to how it was introduced into Europe. Some believe it was introduced by the Portuguese about 1548, the first tree having stood for a long time at Lisbon. Whether or not the Portuguese deserve the credit for introducing the orange in Europe, they found it abundant in India, Vasco de Gama having noted the fact in his account of the mission to India.

Gallesio, an Italian author, states that the sweet orange was introduced by the Arabs into Europe through Persia and Syria and on to the shores of Italy and France, while the bitter orange came by way of Arabia, Egypt and the north of Africa to Portugal and Spain. Early explorers introduced oranges into Brazil, where they became wild, as they did when introduced into Florida by the Spaniards during the sixteenth century, probably about 1560.

Tradition has it that the orange was first brought to the Pacific Coast about 1701, the first tree being planted on the peninsula of Lower California, at the mission of Loreto. From there seed was brought into the territory now comprising the State of California. Vancouver, in his memoir of the Pacific Coast in 1792, mentions seing orange trees growing at San Buena Ventura. This is one of the first authentic records of the occurrence of the orange in California.

The honor of establishing the first orange orchard in California rests with the San Gabriel Mission. The archives of the mission covering the early history were lost, but several writers fix the date of the first planting of the orange there at about 1804. Stimulated by the success of this horticultural venture, other settlers began to plant oranges about their homes, solely for domestic purposes.

The first oranges were planted at San Bernardino in 1857—forty-five trees obtained from Los Angeles. These trees were the real beginning of Southern California's citrus industry, for the place where they were planted is today almost the exact center of the greatest citrus-fruit growing district in the world.

GIRL BOOSTERS AID SHOW.

Yesterday was National Orange Show day in Los Angeles, when an automobile parade of boosters came from San Bernardino, calling attention to the Eleventh National Orange Show to be held in San Bernardino from the 18th to the 28th inst.

An automobile truck was loaded with pretty young society girls of San Bernardino, who hurled greetings, in the shape of oranges, to thousands of Los Angeles people.

The automobile pageant was limited to a dozen machines headed by Maj. Leo A. Stromee of Lost Battalion fame, and Joseph A. Rich, president of the National Orange Show. The orange show girls were attired in orange-colored coats and hats. They were Misses Roxie McNeil, Hazel Cochran Guilfoyle, Loretta Rigney, Beulah Hartman, Sylvia Sloan, Nora Parker and Mrs. Gladys Sloan Kellogg.

The Eleventh National Orange Show bids fair this year to excel in beauty any of the past shows. It is to be larger. Exhibits are being placed now from every orange-growing community from Sacramento to the Mexican border.

Among the special days arranged for the big exposition is State Societies Day, set for the 24th inst. Arrangements are under way for an excursion from Los Angeles to San Bernardino, which will include a basket picnic at Urbita Springs Park where the exposition is to be held. Rotary Clubs of Southern California will assemble at the show on the 22nd inst. California's greatest midwinter event is this year expected to break last year's attendance record of nearly 200,000 persons.

Our several previous announcements have evolved a merited public confidence, both to the fact that we are ABSOLUTELY RETIRING FROM BUSINESS and the genuineness of our 35% PRICE REDUCTION, which has been more than justified—it has resulted in a volume of business far in excess of our anticipations yet there still remains in our tremendous stock, a quantity and variety of raw material sufficient for the production of any desired or most wanted effect. Our display rooms and studios are replete with a comprehensive showing of all that is new in LIGHTING FIXTURES, CANDELABRA, TORCHERE, WALL BRACKETS, FLOOR AND TABLE LAMPS as well as FRENCH COLONIAL PRISMS, SPANISH AND ITALIAN WROUGHT IRON and other period effects.

LIGHTING FIXTURES being objects of such constant and personal use and associated to such an extent with daily life, our artisans and master craftsmen endeavor to cater to the patron's individual conception in the assembling of original and specially ordered effects—this fact, coupled with that of the UNPRECEDENTED PRICE REDUCTION OF 35%, should stimulate YOUR interest, if the purchase of LIGHTING FIXTURES has been or is in your mind.

Visit our studios—take advantage of this opportunity to procure MODERN LIGHTING FIXTURES and effects at prices which will not, in all probability, ever again be presented to you. Out-of-town orders given prompt and careful attention. INSTALLATION GUARANTEED WHEN DESIRED.

Trade Opportunities at Ocean's Crossroads.

HAWAIIAN CARGOES WAIT FOR LOS ANGELES SHIPS.

Island Ports Handle Immense Volume of Imports and Exports; After a Second Mainland Doorway.

BY ARTHUR L. MacKAYE.

...the wonderful development ...ndustrial activity at Los An... ...arbor and the centering there ... the Orient and other ... lumber ports, there ... tremendous opportunity ... relations by Los An... the Territory of Hawaii ... of Honolulu, on the Is... Hilo, on the Island ... Kahului, on the Is... with possible exten... to the Island of ... a new port is now being developed for the use of transoceanic steamers.

The total trade through the ports of the Territory of Hawaii, mostly by way of Honolulu, exceeds $80,000,000 a year, a sum which is for the most part for goods handled through the port of San Francisco. To get a fair share of this great volume of trade Los Angeles will have to take decisive action for closer relations with the business interests of the Territory.

Just at this time there is an especially good opportunity to make a real beginning in laying the foundations for such commercial rapprochement between the business interests of Los Angeles and those of Honolulu as will mean added prosperity for all concerned. Especially will additional trade arrangements prove of benefit to those steamship lines sailing from Los Angeles as their home port to the Orient, with stops at Honolulu, the half-way port of the Pacific.

BAY CITY IS BUSY.

San Francisco is making desperate efforts to retain practically all of its rich traffic with Honolulu, but Seattle has already made a beginning in securing some of the trade, sending cargoes of lumber and general merchandise and bringing back canned pineapples and other island products. In this trade one of the large steamers of the Shipping Board has already been allocated. Meanwhile the Matson Navigation Company is preparing to spend millions of dollars to monopolize the carrying trade between the islands and the mainland, seeking to take the place of the old American-Hawaiian Steamship Company as freighters and the other steamship lines for passengers.

In this respect it has secured the allocation to it for the Hawaiian trade of two of the great "535" steamers of more than 20,000 tons register, fitted up with the most luxurious passenger quarters, and at the same time is having built other steamers to handle the 500,000 or more tons of sugar shipped out of the Territory each year.

Beginning with next spring three new pineapple canneries will be in operation in the Territory and the estimate for the total pack of this delicious tropical fruit, according to the most modest figures, is 6,100,000 cases. Here is one great opportunity for shipping interests of Los Angeles.

BANANA TRADE LURES.

There has also just been perfected the formation of a company in Honolulu which proposes to ship to the Coast thousands of bunches of bananas every month. Already thousands of bunches of bananas are being sent to San Francisco on the Matson steamers to be distributed from that port all over the Northwest and even to Southern California. Here is another big opportunity for Los Angeles shipping interests.

Still another opportunity is even now developing in the copra industry; for Honolulu is the central shipping point for the copra of Fanning and Washington Islands, while big cocoanut plantations in the Territory are beginning this year to bear nuts for copra or for export.

Of the millions in values of goods imported and exported by Hawaii, approximately $30,000,000 is for imports, mostly from the mainland through the port of San Francisco, to the benefit of San Francisco merchants, and approximately $50,000,000 as exports, mostly to the mainland, represented by the raw sugar, pineapples, honey, rice, coffee, hides and bananas. There also is beginning to be exports of preserved tropical fruits, including mango and guava jellies. To these must soon be added considerable shipments of copra and cocoanuts, while more and more the great canned pineapple industry is being developed as thousands of acres available for this fruit are being planted.

At present the rich sugar interests of Hawaii are bound up in five principal agencies, which absolutely control this industry. They are Castle & Cook, C. Brewer & Co., Alexander & Baldwin, American Factors and Theodore H. Davies & Co. These five great sugar and shipping agencies are bound together not only by more or less inter-locking directorates, but by the Sugar Factors Company, the stock of which is held by all of the big agencies and the men who control them.

Over and above all of these is the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association, composed of practically all the big plantations of the Territory. This association meets once a year to formulate the policy of the associate members regarding the sugar industry and maintains a highly-paid lobbyist in Washington, D. C., to look after the interest of the industry there and before Congress.

The past president and director of the Sugar Planters' Association, the president of Castle & Cooke and the president of the Matson Navigation Company is the same man—E. D. Tenney. He also is past president of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce. What Mr. Tenney has to say in business affairs in Hawaii naturally has a great deal of weight. Also the Interisland Steam Navigation Company, with a fleet of steamers connecting the various islands of the Territory, is dominated entirely by the same agencies and men.

But there have recently grown up to secondary importance two or three independent shipping agencies, dealing for the most part with the shipments of rice, coffee, pineapples, bananas, honey, hides and other island products, outside of sugar.

INDEPENDENT IN FIELD.

Probably the best known of these is the Fred L. Waldron Company, which has been the agent for the majority of the independent steamship lines touching at Honolulu. This firm has shipped millions of cases of canned pineaples to the mainland by Shipping Board and other steamers, while at the same time it is the agent for imports for many of the independent merchants of the city, who realize that having only one door, like San Francisco, for their trade on the mainland is a mighty poor policy. A great many of them are hoping that Los Angeles will develop such reciprocity of trade relations as to open to Hawaii another doorway to commerce for the mid-Pacific Territory of the United States.

In my opinion whatever wholesale dealer in Los Angeles, or combination of dealers, desires to extend trade relations to the Territory of Hawaii with its 250,000 of population, should have as direct agent some man, or firm, perfectly acquainted with conditions in the commercial field there and of the methods of doing business.

I would also suggest that if the steamship companies sailing out of Los Angeles Harbor are in earnest about securing return cargoes from Hawaii they should have a special agent familiar with conditions in the Territory, especially outside of Honolulu, where is a most important field of operations.

This coming spring three new big pineapple canneries on the islands of Hawaii Maui and Kauai will begin operations. The opportunity for Los Angeles business men and Los Angeles shipping interests is here to be seized.

WILL TALK ON FINANCE.

Banker Will be City Club Speaker at Forum Tomorrow Night.

Dr. Edward Elliott of the Security Trust and Savings Bank will give a talk on "The Federal Reserve System and Readjustment" at the open forum meeting of the City Club tomorrow evening. At the club's Wednesday luncheon important measures pending in the Legislature, other than the King tax bill, will be discussed. Friday at noon there will be a community sing, and Friday night a dinner will be given for new members. The King tax bill will be the subject of a debate at the Saturday luncheon.

FOOD PRICES GOING DOWN.

basis, and even the husky infant we loved so well back in 1917 is worth for food from 80 to 85 cents.

Dropping the simile of the Dollar's personality the Los Angeles housewife with a family of five will find much of encouragement to continue the fight against the old High Cost of Living in the staple price list.

There are only two or three items in the list above that could be even termed semi-luxuries. Every family will purchase at least 90 per cent of these items or substitutes therefor every month. They may buy dried peaches instead of prunes, or a jar of jam instead of a can of pineapple, but for the most part the list will stand as representative of the staple requirements of the average Los Angeles family.

These figures are taken from the published selling prices of several different retailers, and were selected as essential items without regard for past or present costs. They were taken for one reason only, to show the worth of a dollar in the three periods indicated.

AS TO MEAT.

Meats do not make quite so good a showing, but neither do they altogether bear out the frequent complaint that prices are higher than ever.

Retailers assert that costs would be lower if the public would consent to buy more freely of the cheaper cuts. This condition is improving, for money is not flowing quite so freely as it was a year ago.

There is still considerable slack between the packer and the wholesaler although the statement that meat is higher than it was a year ago is not borne out by the facts in the case.

The difficulty in establishing staple retail meat prices is found in the wide latitude taken by dealers in different parts of the city. In fashionable residence sections very high prices are still demanded and secured, apparently on the theory that the traffic should be made to pay all it will buy. Thus investigation disclosed that a tenderloin steak costing 60 cents per pound in one part of town could be purchased for 40 cents in another. This is a condition solely between the dealer and the consumer, and has nothing properly to do with the average. It is profiteering, and will be curbed when the consumer refuses to pay the graft.

ON THE HOOF.

Many meat products on the hoof are selling for one-half to two-thirds the price secured a year ago. This reduction does not find adequate reflection in the retail marts, and the buck is passed from one to the other, with the exception that the unfortunate grower is apparently an unconsidered quantity. Admitting then that there is much to correct in the meat situation, it is encouraging to note that here, too, there is a definite decline in prices over an eighteen-month period.

That Los Angeles meat prices are far above those prevailing in eastern cities is the claim made by visitors from other sections. One correspondent quotes pork steak at 25 cents in his home town, as compared with 55 cents in Los Angeles; prime rib roast, 22 cents, as compared with 38 cents here; pork sausage 25 cents, compared with 45 cents, and fresh poultry at 35 cents, as compared with 50 cents in local markets.

Chicago advices say that recent wholesale declines are from 25 to 35 per cent, and this reduction will in the course of time make itself felt throughout the retail market.

As a matter of joyful fact food prices are coming down. One of the big wholesalers permitted a glance through his daily price revision list which goes out every morning, and for days and days there have been rows and rows of happy looking figures all under eight smiling letters —D-E-C-L-I-N-E-S.

HOME-MADE CHILDREN.
An advertisement announces home-made children's clothing for sale. It seems to be that home-made children are unfortunately getting scarce.

RESTING EASY.
Vice-President Marshall is going to visit Europe, give a season of Chautauqua lectures and write a book. Having been tied tightly to the capital for eight years, he purposes to now have some fun and make some money. None will begrudge him either. He is a good scout.

LET'S GO.
Of all the army slogans and phrases tried out "Let's go!" seems to have best survived. It is short and snappy and fairly represents the impulsive and fearless character of the average American soldier. "Where do we go from here?" was good, but "Let's go" is better.

A REAL MELLON.
Andrew Mellon of Pittsburg, to whom the political writers are awarding the portfolio of Secretary of the Treasury, is said to be the second richest man in America. Any time the treasury goes broke he will be in position to dig in his roll and help out. When they were cutting melons this Mellon was getting ripe.

A HORSE APIECE.
Lord Rosebery wants to know what America would do if it had an Irish question on its hands. We have the Philippines, but are willing to admit that they hardly match up with Ireland. Probably if we had had Ireland on our hands the politicians would have talked us out of it by this time and the Irish would now be ready to throw in with England.

FIENDISH.
Fiends disguised as prohibition agents robbed a Chicago widow of twenty-five gallons of whisky. It was practically all the booze she had in the world and she faces a bleak and barren future without any promise of moisture for her parched tongue. Any man who will disguise himself as a prohibitionist in order to filch the last drop of whisky from a lone widow should be carrion for buzzards.

BLUE AND GRAY.
As a result of Mrs. Harding's shopping adventures and experiences in New York it appears that blue is the favorite color of the first lady of the land. She acquired several one-piece dresses in which the blue was dominant and she had blue in hats and wraps to match. Gray is her next best bet. President Harding is also strong for the blue and the gray and a united America. This should make a harmonious family party.

LOT'S WIFE.
Some folks will say that the man who exchanged his wife for a $600 lot was a good trader. He must have thought a lot of her, even if he does seem to have treated her like dirt. Marriage is a lottery, anyhow, and the husband at least now knows his lot. On the other hand, although women are supposed to be expensive, the new holder got his as cheap as dirt. But trading a woman for a lot would be good ground for a divorce. Any real estate man knows that.

DOWN TO HARD PAN.
Lord Northcliffe's newspaper, the London Spectator and the whole influential press of England now approach an agreement upon a financial program for Great Britain which begins with three ironclad stipulations: No increase of the national indebtedness upon any pretext; no inflation of the currency; no increase of taxation beyond the normal limit. Upon these propositions the English press is becoming steadfast. With this three-barred fence erected the government would have to cut its coat to fit its cloth. How fine it would be if the press and public could get together on a like program in this country—especially in California. No bond issues—save those that paid themselves from start to finish; no increase of taxes anywhere, even under the specious plea that somebody else was paying them. The result would be a demonstration of Spartan living that would be annoying to the tax-eaters, but splendid for the taxpayers.

THE LOST EMPIRE.
The near-Socialists are making a fine mess of Austria. They seem incapable of putting their country back in the producing class. About all they can do is to print more money and they have issued so much now that its redemption is utterly impossible. As a result the people will not accept their own currency. A loaf of bread may bring a hundred or a thousand crowns, just as the baker may feel about it. Every month the American relief administration is spending $500,000 to feed Austrian children and this will go on indefinitely. The people are making no practical or substantial move to help themselves. Vienna, which was once the gayest and brightest of European capitals, is still a beautiful city with its miles of substantial buildings, but it is peopled by parasites. There are more officeholders and government employees than there were when Austria was an empire of sixty million souls. Austria must develop a dictator with an itch for economy or else pass through the bankruptcy court into the hands of a receiver.

GETTING OUR SEA LEGS.

LEARNING to stand steadily while the ship wallows in the wind—that is what the sailors call "getting one's sea legs." The term is widely applicable just now. Here is the dictionary definition of "sea legs:" "Legs able to maintain their possessor upright in stormy weather at sea, that is, ability to stand or walk steadily on deck when a vessel is rolling or pitching in a rough sea." Who will say that our Ship of State has not been rolling on a rough sea? Only the strongest statesmen have been able to keep their sea legs and walk steadily. Inexperienced seamen have got many a tumble on the deck of the storm-tossed ship.

It requires practice to keep steady and upright when the storm strikes. Anybody can keep his feet when the ship rides smoothly on a calm sea. Anybody can present a bold front before the storm smites. Anybody can sing serenely while the "The Gospel ship is sailing on," "Bound for Canaan's happy shore." How well can you keep the tune when the tempest's crescendo thunders. Could you have sung in full-toned voice when the Titanic was going down and the band was playing? Could you have stood steadily on the bridge with the courageous captain till the waves washed over your head? What we can be and do on the deck of the storm-rolled ship—that is the test. "If you can keep your head, when all about are losing theirs." That is what the captain must do. That is what the general must do. That is what the captain on the Ship of State must do. Any of us might do an easy thing under easy conditions. Any of us might do an easy thing under difficult conditions. CAN WE DO THE HARD THING UNDER HARD CONDITIONS? There is where the hero heart finds its throne and coronation. Toy soldiers cannot do that. That calls for the real Gen. Grant sort of soldier. That kind of man shuts his teeth tight, blows the battle smoke from his stifled nostrils, saying, "We will fight it out on this line if it takes all summer."

II.

WHEN things shake, any of us can fall down. How well can we stand on the vessel's deck when we are rocked in the cradle of the deep? Who stands when others run? Who keeps his feet when others fall? Who, if he must be wounded, gets the wound in the breast and not in the back? Who is still standing after the ship has lurched and wallowed till hundreds lie sprawling on the decks? The man who is standing is the man who got his sea legs in the storm. This is his hour. This is his time of triumph.

The petrel seems to play with the sea. He laughs when the waves leap. So wondrous is his skill and strength of wing movement that you hardly know whether he is flying or going afoot. But awing or afoot he is sure of his sea legs. He is sure of the miraculous might of his wings. He is sure of his standing strength. Our storm-rocked Ship of State needs nothing more this hour than statesmen with the stormy-petrel sureness. This is no time for shitepokes who only have swamp legs. They keep away from the sea and the ship. The State is not looking for men who stand sleepily in some swamp of ignorance, or doubt, or uncertainty, or despair. The statesman must know his job. He must be inured to the wind and weather. The boat has been rocked enough. God and the people are sending him out to sea to help steady the ship. It will not do for him to be a whole quadrennium in finding his sea legs. The real sailor must get his sea legs quickly and keep them while the storm is howling on the sea.

We were walking past a pleasure resort on the seacoast a while ago and stopped a moment by a collapsing platform. A grown man stood at the top. A patron of the play threw a ball and struck a certain spot, when the whole thing collapsed and the platform performer came tumbling at our feet. Some such performers are in every sphere of human activity. We do not need to go to a private show to see a man fall down. Then this is no time for falling down, even if anybody could think it funny. We were never more in need of upstanding strength. WE MUST NOT PUT ANYBODY ON OUR SHIP OF STATE WHO HAS BEEN FALLING DOWN AT HOME. The faller-down has swamp legs. He has no sea legs. And if he were placed on a rocking ship he would not have persistence or purpose or power enough to stick to the struggle till he got his sea legs. Sea legs are legs of skill. They are legs of strength. Sea legs are legs to stand on. They are not legs to fall down on or wabble with. Anybody could do that. A nobody can fall down. A nobody can waver and be weak.

III.

WHAT a company we see marching across the pages of history, who got their sea legs. In their days the seas were always unsettled. Storms were the rule and not the exception. What a time they had in Noah's day. But he got on board and he got his sea legs. Abraham had to be the key man in his day. The ship of humanity in his day was rocked by many a storm. Men reeled to and fro in that crisis time like drunkards in delirium. But this man of faith was no wabbler. He kept his sea legs. The ancient Hebrew record declares that "He STAGGERED NOT at the promises of God." "He staggered not through unbelief." The doubtful mind is always unsettled and unsettling. Getting one's sea legs and keeping steady in the storm. That is what saves the ship. Look at Moses. He was the matchless Hebrew legislator. The human ship was storm-beaten in his day. He was called upon to be leader of a mutinous multitude. In one crisis they were ready to stone him. He said, "God, what shall I do?" That great Father voice which is ever speaking among men gave quick answer, saying, "Go forward."

This is always the slogan. KEEP YOUR SEA LEGS AND GO FORWARD. Paul had to do it in founding the new church in the old world. Jesus had to do it when the storm swept his best supporters from his side. Luther was getting his sea legs in his stormy day when he nailed the theses to the old church door, declaring the everlasting freedom of the human soul. In the stormy days of Wesley he got his sea legs on the rolling ship and set the world on fire with a new evangel. Columbus got his sea legs and found a new world. He kept his course in spite of the curses of the crew. Three hundred years ago the "Pilgrims" of Plymouth Rock got their sea legs and sailed in the Mayflower. These stalwart sailors founded an empire of freedom. Later the Ship of State rocked. Washington got his sea legs and saved the ship. He was no stampeder. He was a pillar of the new Republic. Storm stampeders have never been State saviors. When the storm struck it was Washington's high hour. Like eagles' wings, his soul was built for storms. He was the refuge man to whom the new nation fled for safety. In 1860 the Ship of State wallowed again in the winds of war. Thousands scoffed at the idea that a clumsy rail-splitter from the South could ever find his sea legs on a storm-tossed ship. But while thousands of the sneerers rolled about like helpless logs on the storm-struck deck Lincoln stood as straight and strong as the mast rooted in the ship's heart. He got his sea legs. He saved the ship.

"From want and poverty he leaps,
  As if from dreaming trance,
And climbs with steady steps the steeps
  That challenge his advance;
Truth-girt he stands serene and strong,
  Where battle bugles blare,
And with the right subdues the wrong,
  Divinely brave to dare.

"Our common flesh and blood was he,
  Earth-born, but heaven-sent
To bring the people's jubilee,
  With love's disarmament;
Almighty power had girded him
  With undefeated right,
And when our skies with war went dim,
  God's chieftain won the fight."

IV.

NOW we must have steady-standing captains of commerce, of school, of church, of state. From all these great regions of human interest the demon of selfishness must be cast out. Vacillating qualities must be put aside. In all these living spheres of action we must have men of hope and of heroism. We must have men of faith and of force. We must have men of courage and of character. Let our commercial leaders be courageous and clean. Let our teachers in our schools be loyal to our American faith and our Flag. If, as reported lately, we have in this country about 8000 Teutonized teachers in our schools, colleges and universities they must at once be set aside. Like the old Hebrew preacher-prophets, let our preachers of righteousness "cry aloud and spare not." Let our statesmen leaders hold aloft the banner of our American ideals. In short, our captains of finance, of education, of religions and of state MUST GET THEIR SEA LEGS AND STAND STEADILY ON THEM TILL THE STORM IS OVER. And let us be assured that the storm will subside, the skies will clear, and the sea will again be calm.

HEARST AND HIS BLUDGEON.
Commemoration of Lincoln's Birthday brings to the minds of the great mass of Americans the profession of faith of the Great Emancipator that "you can't fool all the people all the time." It brings an annual renaissance of confidence that, however subtle and plausible a demagogue or a charlatan may be, the people themselves will surely find him out. This aphorism is peculiarly applicable to Los Angeles at the present moment, when the exposure of the attempt of the Hearst papers to use their news columns as a club to compel merchants to advertise has taken place.

Ever since the Hearst papers invaded Los Angeles discriminating people have been aware that the tactics of Hearst to secure business are those of the strong-arm man and the blackmailer; that the Hearst headline is the "Jolly Roger" of American journalism. His record in other communities was to them fully known. But it required the incident of the Bullock's permit for a bridge over a little blind alley, known as St. Vincent's Place, running half a block north from Seventh street in the heart of the retail district, to bring the attention of all the people to the brutal, dishonorable, roughhouse methods the Hearst underlings employ.

Permission to build this bridge and superstructure was granted by the City Council nearly two years ago, after repeated hearings. The permit was not irregular in any way. Bullock's offered at the time to pay the city for the privilege, although no charge had ever been made for any of a number of similar permits already granted. But the City Attorney gave a written opinion to the effect that there was no law under which the city could charge a rental for such a permit. The alley in question is not city property. The city only holds an easement over it for street purposes and the superstructure does not interfere in any way with its use by the public.

There is a proper provision in the charter, however, that the Council may not grant permits of any kind in perpetuity, and the Bullock's permit contains a clause making it revocable at the will of the Council. It was upon this pretext that the Hearst minions seized in their attempt to club Bullock's into advertising in the Examiner and Herald. No charge was made that Bullock's had violated any of the provisions of the permit; but the Examiner and Herald sought to use their influence with the Mayor and the members of the Council to make them pull Hearst chestnuts out of the fire. Certain members of the Council and of the Municipal Art Commission flinched at the first attack. Plainly they were keeping one eye on the approaching municipal election.

But the Hearst satellites had not figured on the independent spirit of the merchants and business men of Los Angeles, on the highly developed sense of honor and fair play of the community as a whole. As soon as the real facts of the controversy became known every important business and commercial association in the city, headed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, joined in a denunciation of the outrage which Hearst sought to perpetrate. They passed strong resolutions declaring that the good faith of the city was involved, that the permit was a just and proper one, that it encouraged construction and business expansion and did not endanger even an abstract right to the possession and use of streets and alleys by the people.

In the opinion of the people as a whole the sole questions to be decided were whether Bullock's had secured the permit under misrepresentation and whether they had abused the privilege granted. When it became generally known that Bullock's had not done so—that it was simply a Hearst conspiracy to use the Mayor and the Council to club Bullock's into signing advertising contracts, protests by the hundred began pouring in upon the city authorities. The devious practices resorted to by Hearst were fully exposed; subterfuge was no longer possible.

And when the voice of the people of Los Angeles is once heard the representatives of the people are quick to take heed. The Bullock's permit will not be revoked. The good faith of the people will not be impugned. Hearst and his lieutenants have learned that the merchants of Los Angeles will not pay forced tribute to him or his publications. They have won their fight for industrial freedom and they have refused to submit to extortion and blackmail. Hearst has found again, to his loss and humiliation, that "you can't fool all the people all the time."

It will now be interesting to witness how the Hearst forces take their defeat; whether they will pursue with vilification the five members of the City Council who displayed their courage, their character and their red-blooded Americanism by voting Friday against the revocation of the Bullock's permit. These men have all been threatened by the Hearst papers. The people will watch Hearst's clubbers and bruisers.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

NIGHTS AT HOME.

I always spend my nights at home, remote from strife and care; a pillow soft supports my dome, my feet rest on a chair; and so I read some gripping pome or volume ripe and rare. My aunts and grandmas play some tunes, or blithely sew and knit, while merry children, full of prunes, throw many a gladsome fit, till lullabies their mother croons—and so the calm hours flit. And when the morning comes I read how men who roamed by night fell victims to the auto's speed, were shot up in a fight, or touched for all their chicken feed by some unholy wight. I read of kidnaped maidens fair, and parents in distress, of youths who lose, in White Way glare, the number of their mess, of misdeeds in the gamblers' lair, and crimes no man dare guess. I say, if those who gallivant, would spend their nights at home, with grandma, niece and maiden aunt, and read some helpful tome, the crime of which the peelers rant would disappear like foam. I'd rather be with bards who think than with the men who prance to places where the glasses clink, and there are games of chance; a book is better than a drink, or than a tango dance. And when at dawn I leave my bed I caper and I sing, no hold-up, with a bar of lead, has spoiled my larboard wing, I do not have to stitch my head, or wear it in a sling.

Theodore Maynard, visiting English lecturer, gives his subject the promisingly sensational title of "The Imminent Break-up of Civilization." It should have thundered. But unfortunately Maynard is a small man who buttons and unbuttons his coat anxiously throughout his discourse, wears his trousers hitched up at least two inches too high, and is apt to be a bit apologetic.

He has doubtless chosen his subject on the same theory that inspires the effeminate young dandy to keep a ferocious bulldog for a pet and leads him around on a leash. Maynard should confine himself to a Blenheim spaniel-sized subject.

Judge Sydney Reeve had his picture taken with the Witherell kidnapers and the successful detectives. As a judicial innovation it offers any amount of scope. Judge Willis seems to have overlooked the romantic possibilities of being filmed with Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Peete and little Betty, but there is yet time.

The Witherells, however, have not overlooked some of the romantic and pecuniary advantages of being kidnaped. It is to be hoped that fair young wives and mothers generally will not be too much impressed. We cannot be expected to work up all that horrified alarm and passionate sympathy as a regular thing. Commercializing one's sorrows is all very well once in a way, but as a vogue it should certainly be discouraged.

Many earnest strivers have set out to save New York in their day, but they evidently were not funny enough. They tried to appeal to New York's soul, whereas, of course, salvation must be injected through the funny bone.

If New York is finally brought to grace through its sense of humor, we can only hope that St. Peter will appreciate the joke.

Mons. Pierre Lamont of Paris ascribes the French crime wave to the American crook films which have become so popular in France.

Oh, I don't know, Monsieur. Crime was not entirely unknown in France before the advent of the film. French literature teems with stories of picturesque blackguards, and Charlotte Corday stabbed Marat in his bath long before American Wild West films were ever thought of. The film industry admits that it is a great influence, but it modestly declines to take the credit for all the popular enthusiasms.

Representative James Ivers of Utah has introduced a "companion" measure to the anti-cigarette bill, by which meat eating on Fridays is to be strictly prohibited.

Why only on Fridays? Byron declared that a beefsteak always made him feel ferocious. And the vegetarians tell us that meat eating is the chief basic cause of all crime. Every one knows that the carnivorous animals are the most dangerous.

The Utah legislator is too moderate. Why play with such a carnal sin? Banish the sinful meat from our tables altogether and done with it. An ascetic fast on Friday won't do us any good if we can eat two beefsteaks on Saturday to make up for it.

All the visiting British celebrities from Elinor Glyn to Gilbert K. Chesterton complain about our steam heat. They say we keep our hotels and homes much too warm and it saps their energy.

Which is, of course, rough on our British visitors, but if it likewise modifies our American energy, we evidently need it. Great Jehosaphat! What should we be without it?

And talking of Elinor Glyn, they say she insists upon sleeping on the floor and, as she sets the fashions at the Hollywood Hotel these days, everybody's doing it. So the chambermaids have all asked for a rise, because lifting those darned mattresses on and off the beds every day was not in their contract.

The management is understood to have appealed to Elinor to keep any other little idiosyncrasies she may have in the privacy of her boudoir a strict secret hereafter. If, for instance, her temperament calls for leopard skins instead of chairs, she can have them. But she mustn't tell anybody.

Hush, Elinor. That is telling tales out of school. You will be subpoenaed for a witness before you know where you are. And don't forget those private stocks are probably produced in your honor. You must positively be more appreciative.

Human nature was not the only thing that defeated ex-Gov. Cox for the Presidency. He also lacked votes. And there is no consolation in the fact that he received 11,000 more votes than Wilson in 1916, and yet was defeated overwhelmingly when Wilson was elected. The women did not generally vote for President in 1916.

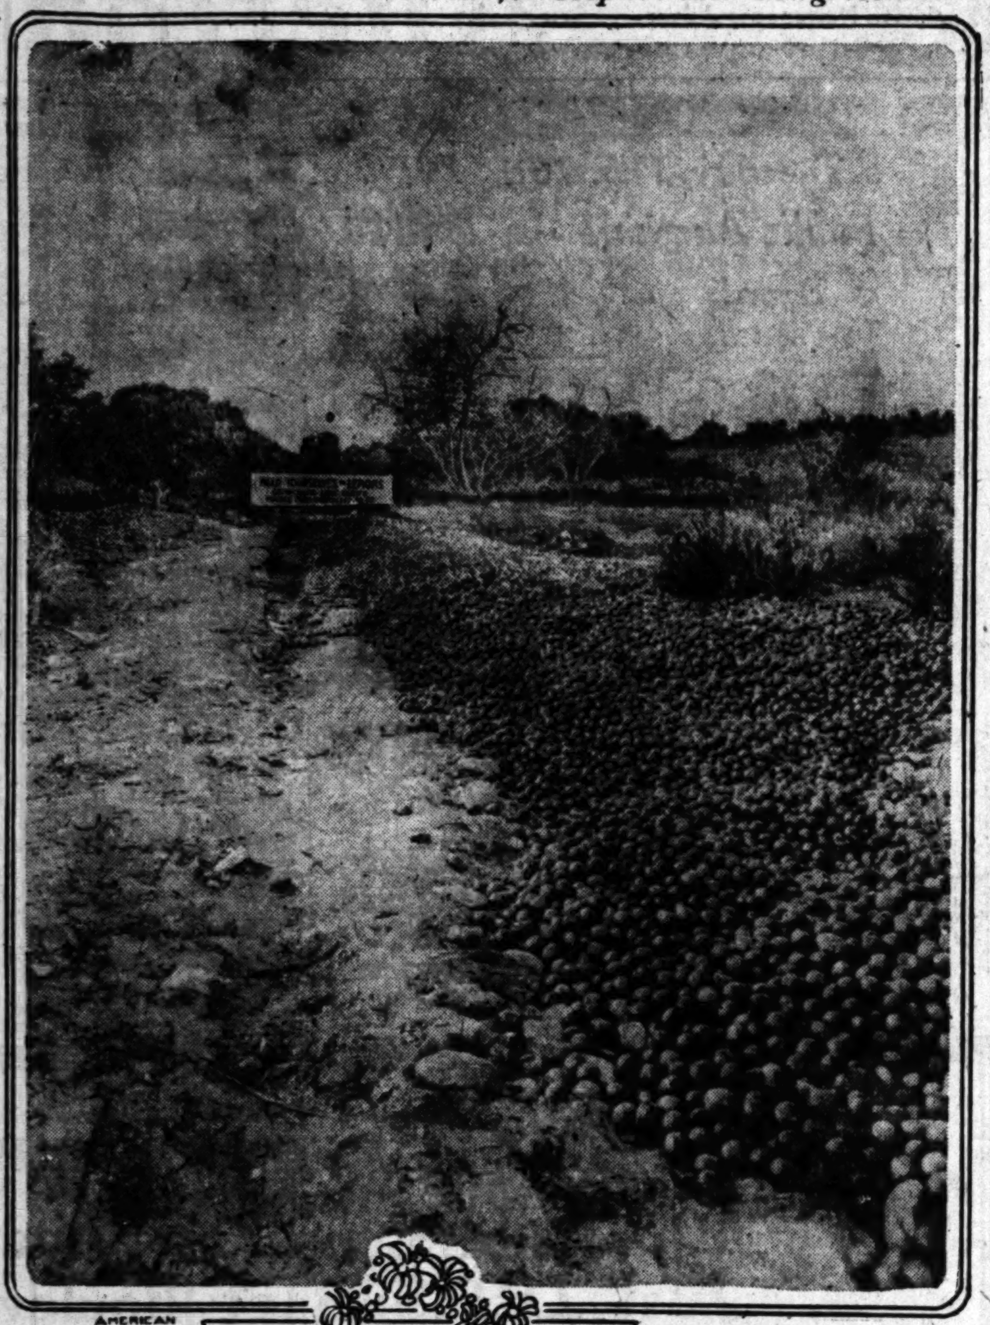
Wasted Lemons Point Need for Republican Congressman.



Citrus Fruit, Hit by Low Tariff, Abandoned in San Dimas Wash.

On the sign the public is asked to take away potential wealth made useless to orchardists by competition of cheap European product dumped on American markets.

FOR A PROTECTIVE TARIFF.

Citrus By-Products Need It as Much as Lemons, Declares Grower.

Urging that the lemon growers who are now suffering heavy losses because of importations from Sicily should roll up their sleeves and work unceasingly for an adequate protective tariff instead of planning to grub-out or bud-over their trees to oranges or grapefruit, George N. Hamilton, one of the most prominent citrus fruit growers in the Claremont district, declares emphatically that he hopes the Ninth Congressional District will be able to find a Congressman who can save the lemon industry from the costly blunders that have been made.

Mr. Hamilton favors a strong protective tariff not only on lemons, but upon all the citrus by-products made by the growers in Southern California. He urges, first of all, a tariff that will prevent the Italians from doing what they did in 1913, when the southland lemon crop was damaged by cold weather. At that time the same quality of Sicilian and Italian lemon which was sold in 1912 for $2.88 a packed box, was wholesaled in New York at $4.38 per box.

He points out that a similar calamity may overtake the country if lemon growing becomes so hazardous that the ranchers bud their trees over to other citrus fruits. He says he understands that Italian importers are ready to contract for delivery of lemons in eastern markets this year at $2 per box, which is less than the cost of production here.

Touching up the question of protection for citrus fruit products, Mr. Hamilton says: "While Italy is shipping us 3800 carloads of lemons each year she is also supplying this country with all the citric acid taken from 10,000 carloads of Italian lemons. Large districts in Italy convert their entire lemon crop into lemon products. The Italians dominate the world traffic in these products. The Italian government, through a state bureau, fixes the price and insures immediate returns to the makers of lemon products by a system of credits based upon warehouse receipts. Its price on citrate of lime now is sixteen cents a pound in United States money, which amounts to twenty-four cents a pound for the citric acid content.

"Twenty-four cents a pound in our money will buy about $1.25 in their money. As a ton of lemons makes forty pounds of citric acid, the acid from a ton of lemons brings Italy $50. On the same basis the oil from a ton of lemons brings Italy $10.80; total, $60.80 for a ton of lemons. It takes $1.93 of it to pay for a day's work by unskilled labor. Of our money it takes 37½ cents to pay for such a day's work over there. This illustrates the advantage that the exchange rate and low wages give the Italian lemon grower.

RETURNS LOW HERE.

"Our exchange by-products' company at Corona is well managed, and turns out good goods, but is now getting 47 cents a pound for citrus acid, about $23 for the oil and acid from a ton of lemons, and at present prices hopes to pay our association $5 or $6 a ton for the fruit delivered. This is a quarter of a cent a pound, not half of the cost of picking and hauling the fruit.

"Citric acid is used largely for drugs and drinks at the soda fountains. It is a very suitable article for an extremely high tariff when a high tariff for revenue is necessary, as now. A tariff should be imposed high enough to give the lemon growers of the United States as much of the lemon products market of the United States as they need to consume their crop at prices that will return to the grower 2 1-4 cents per pound for the fruit on the tree, this amount being necessary to give the grower his cost of growing, including 7 per cent on his investment as the grower's profit. I figure that it will require a tariff of $1 a pound on citric acid, a proportionate one of 60 cents a pound on citrate of lime, and $2 a pound on oil of lemon to give California lemon growers the price and market they require."

advocate. It is incredible that the Ninth District, which grows one-third of the citrus fruits raised in the State, besides a great percentage of the walnuts, olives and other California products coming into competition with foreign-grown products, should ever have chosen a low tariff man to represent it in Congress.

"Despite any specious argument Randall may put up which would lead a voter to believe he advocates a protective tariff, it must be borne in mind that if we send back a Democrat to Washington the Republicans will assume that we do not want protection on the products grown here."

Dear sir:

Together with thousands of other citizens in your district, I have been the recipient of numerous franked circulars, the obvious purpose of which has been to extol and bolster your public career.

Most of these efforts at personal propaganda have promptly gone to the wastebasket—along with stock selling hokum and like literature. But an effusion has just come to hand under date of January 4 that so insults the intelligence and slurs the patriotism of every American that I am constrained to reply.

In the maze of excuses and verbose dodgings that you have indulged in, is found an attack, not merely upon a citizen who has the temerity to aspire to your thoroughly defeated place in Congress, but a knife thrust in the back of a veteran of the World War, who has so honorably acquitted himself "over there" and as a citizen, that his fellows look to him to again place their community representation where it can be a thing of pride and no longer a reproach.

MAKES BASE APPEAL.

Mr. Randall, your attack upon the conduct of American officers as a class—and you make no exception—can have but one purpose and effect, and that is an appeal to the elements in our commonwealth which are today attempting to undermine the very fabric of our civilization.

Doubtless the fact that you were at all times so far and safely removed from the zone of personal danger should, in a measure, account for your colossal ignorance as to the type of man that led the American forces overseas. You plainly have expressed a contempt for him. In so doing you need not look far for thorough reciprocation.

If it is astounding to you that "a former service man, a major of engineers," whom you hasten to decry because "he" is running for Congress in the Ninth District"—has promised to give his "careful scrutiny" to all measures tending to benefit the World War veterans, and champion only those that are worthy—how much more astounding must it be to your Parnassan intelligence to be told that that is just the kind of representation every thinking ex-service man wants.

BURDEN TOO GREAT.

It might be of interest to you to know that in this State the representatives of the American Legion have themselves withheld activity on behalf of the bonus bill for the reason that after the "careful scrutiny" that you hold in such contempt they feel that the burden that would thereby be placed upon the State would be unjust and unwarranted at this time.

No, Mr. Randall, if you have in mind a rallying of ex-service men to your cause you must put on a different front. This ought to be an easy task, judging from the chameleon-like course that you have pursued in the past, wherein you have, with amazing deftness, appeared at every election with a veritable Jacob's cloak of party affiliations as the audience or occasion required.

Maj. Lineberger stands four square upon a known platform; he comes without the necessity of complicated explanation for his coming or blandishing sophistries to make up for past breaks. If among American officers there were those that failed in this or that, kindly turn the pages and see if here and there an occasional Congressman has not ben hauled up for infractions of the legal and ethical code.

TO BE REPUDIATED.

Your whole attack is one deserving of public repudiation and it will be so received. I am speaking not only as a citizen, but as a veteran of the war. It is my privilege to hold office in the American Legion also, and I venture to say that I have almost as good an opportunity to sound out the attitude of returned veterans as you have, inasmuch as I spend many hours each week in furthering their interests.

Believing that your appeal to class hatred and discontent will be held in just contempt by the ex-service men and citizens of this district, and assuring you that I shall use every effort possible to secure for you a second and, it is hoped, final defeat, I am, an American.

[Signed] H. S. RYERSON.
The Ryerson Company, Los Angeles.

DODGED ARMY; BARRED.

Germans Who Would not Serve Told They may not be Citizens.

Several subjects of Germany, who offered the excuse that as they were aliens they should not serve in the Army, were refused American citizenship papers by U. S. District Judge Trippet Friday.

Another subject of Germany, who had received his questionnaire, but failed to fill it out and return it to the draft board, was told that he would have to square his record with the War Department before being admitted as a citizen.

Thirty-three applicants were successful in passing the test, as follows: Subjects of Great Britain, twelve; Germany, nine; Austria, five; Russia, two; Sweden, two, and Portugal, Norway and Rumania, one each.

ARBITRATION STANDS.

San Diego Man Gets Large Sum; Had to Fight Appeal of Case.

William Hoyt Colgate of San Diego won an award of $16,307.02, made by a court of three arbitrators, according to a judgment just rendered by the State Supreme Court.

The Superior Court of San Diego county found for Mr. Colgate in the appeal of J. H. Shreve from the report of the arbitrators, and the decision has been affirmed.

Mr. Colgate and Mr. Shreve had a financial disagreement, and decided to submit the matter to arbitration. The Bank of Coronado was made a party to the action. There is nothing in the record to show what the disagreement was about.

SCORE APATHY AS DANGEROUS.

Legislative Members of Ninth District Urge Heavy Vote Tuesday.

Pointing out the danger of allowing apathy to creep into the campaign, all of the Republican Senators and Assemblymen from the Ninth Congress District have sent out a communication to voters urging them to co-operate in a special effort to get the entire Republican vote out on Tuesday in order to elect Maj. Walter F. Lineberger, who stands for a protective tariff as well as for enforcement of the Volstead Act.

The communication is signed by John Robert White, Jr., Sixty-first Assembly District; Joseph Pedrotti, Sixty-fifth Assembly; Richmond P. Benton, Sixty-sixth Assembly; Frank Mather, Sixty-seventh Assembly; Ira Lee, Sixty-eighth Assembly; Henry W. Wright, Sixty-ninth Assembly; Frank F. Merriam, Seventieth Assembly; W. J. Carr, Thirty-first Senatorial; Joseph A. Rominger, Thirty-third Senatorial; Dwight Hart, Twenty-ninth Senatorial, and Egbert J. Gates, Thirty-fifth Senatorial District.

PICK LINEBERGER TO WIN.

Only Apathy Can Defeat Him Tuesday, Say Ninth District Republicans.

dry organization have been in Los Angeles for the better part of a month, bending every effort to re-elect Randall to Congress.

"These men," he asserts, "are not here to work for Randall because he accomplished great things in the cause of prohibition. They know as well as do the voters of the Ninth district that he failed to get his bills acted upon by Congress. These men are not fools, for they occupy high positions in the national dry organization, and they know full well who succeeded in getting dry legislation and who did not succeed.

"But Randall is the only Prohibitionist so designated in the House of Representatives. Republicans and Democrats from the North and South, from the East and West were responsible for introducing, fighting for and obtaining prohibition measures, but because they are Republicans and Democrats they do not serve the purpose in the minds of these spellbinders.

"The purpose of these men is to maintain in Congress a man known as a Prohibitionist, in order that they may go out and collect money to carry on campaigns every two years to elect him. In raising money to defray the expenses of Randall's campaigns they incidentally raise enough to also take care of their salaries. You can easily see why it is necessary to the dry associations to elect Randall, regardless of whether he has ever accomplished anything for prohibition or not.

"Every good Republican and Democrat, who has become weary of this sort of thing should register his or her protest at the polls Tuesday. Get out the biggest vote possible for Maj. Walter F. Lineberger, a dry Republican, a soldier of the World War, a man who will accomplish something in Congress, not only in the interests of prohibition, but for the prosperity of his district and the nation."

According to reports from Washington a few days ago, Randall headquarters took on a dejected air there after his departure for Southern California, where he is now engaged in repairing his political fences. For some time from ten to twenty extra girls were busy flooding the Ninth District with pro-Randall propaganda, carried under government frank instead of paid postage.

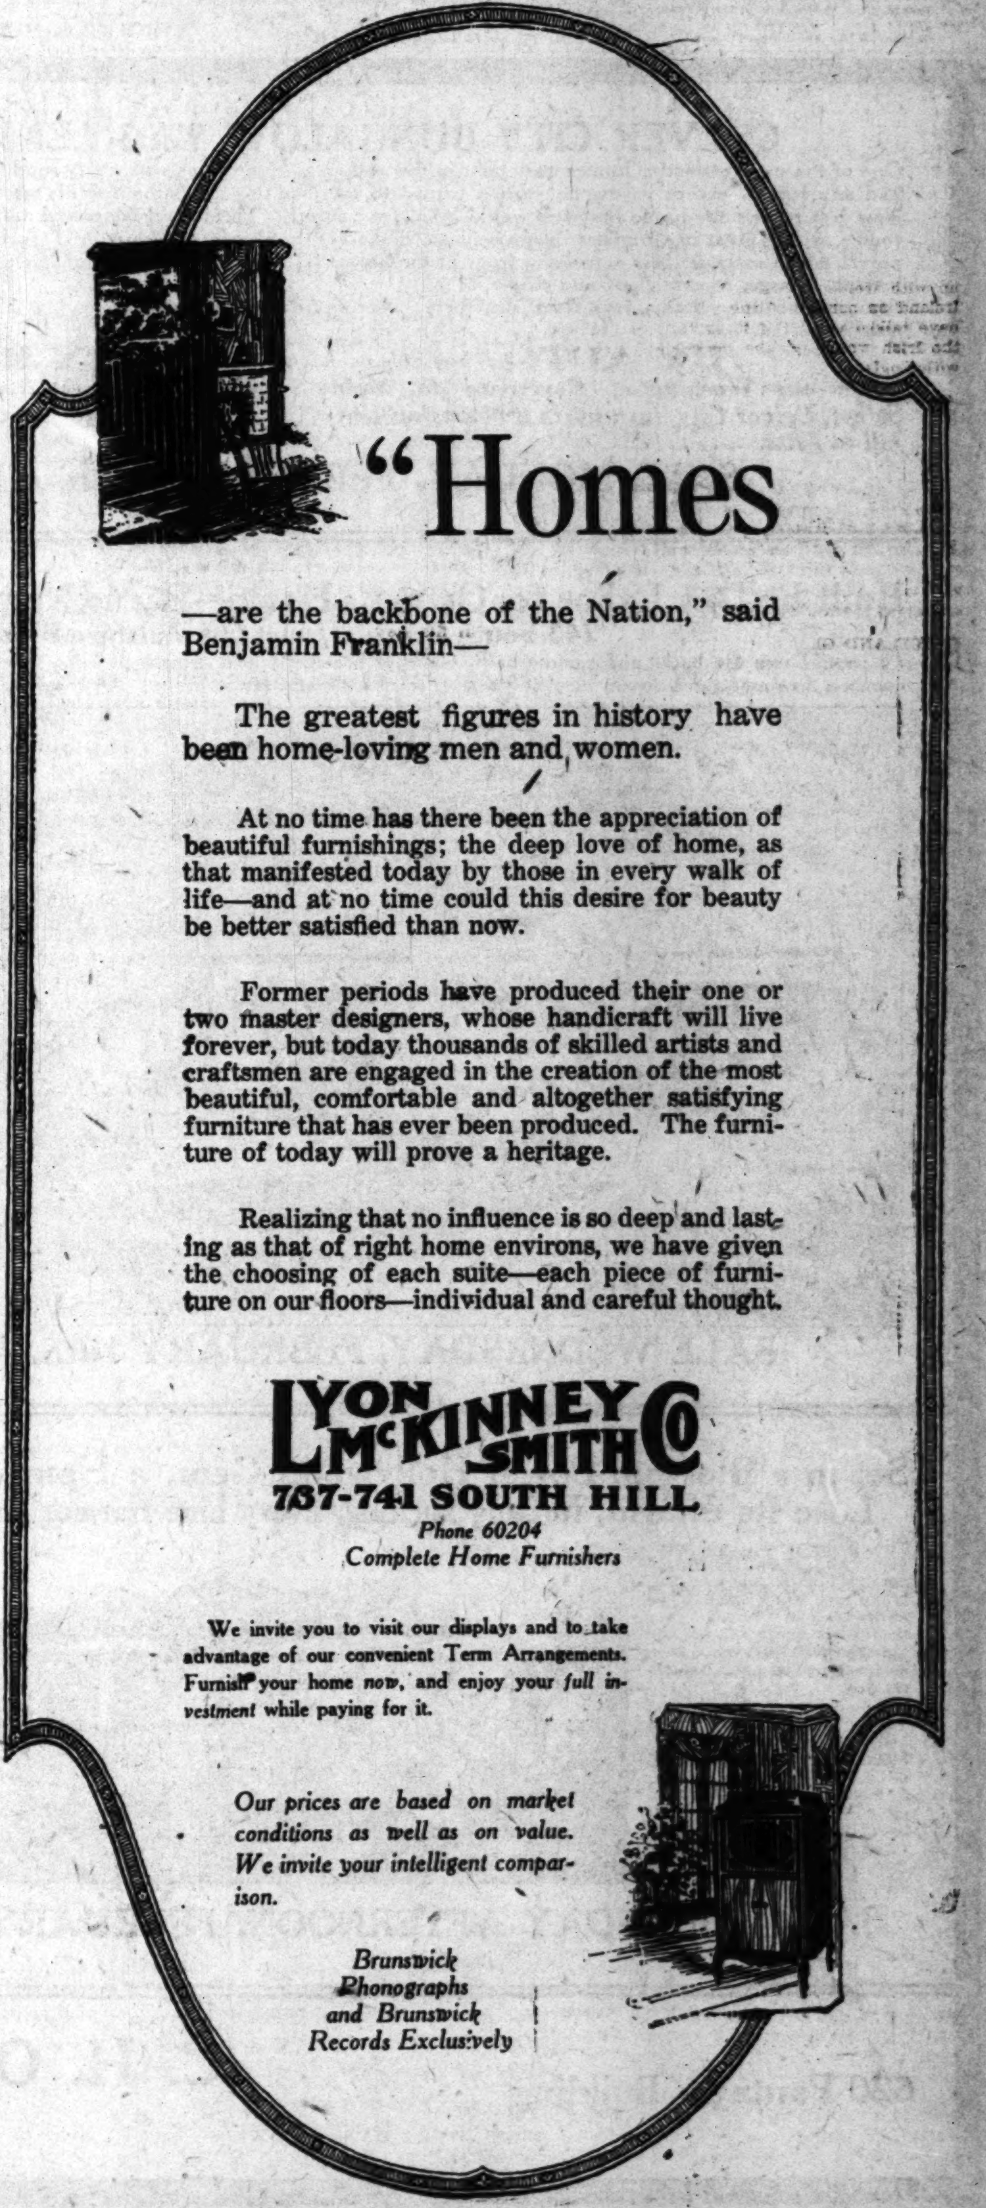
"Up almost to the hour of his leaving for California Randall was trying to get testimonials from other members and particularly from the chairmen of important committees," the report said. "Whenever he could get some fragmentary commendation he would wire it to his managers in the district. In view of the necessity for a straightout Republican victory all of the Republican members from the west are doing all possible for the election of Maj. Lineberger."

YALE CLUB DINNER.

The Yale Club of Southern California will hold its annual dinner next Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the University Club, the arrangements being in charge of Kempton Ellis, Washington Building. The speakers will be James W. Foley, Rupert Hughes and Will Rogers and the music will be in charge of Hugo Kirchhoffer. A silver loving cup will be presented to the member traveling the longest distance to attend the meeting.

New Location for Paint Store.

Walter's wall paper and paint store will be at 814 South Main street after March 1.



"Homes

—are the backbone of the Nation," said Benjamin Franklin—

The greatest figures in history have been home-loving men and women.

At no time has there been the appreciation of beautiful furnishings; the deep love of home, as that manifested today by those in every walk of life—and at no time could this desire for beauty be better satisfied than now.

Former periods have produced their one or two master designers, whose handicraft will live forever, but today thousands of skilled artists and craftsmen are engaged in the creation of the most beautiful, comfortable and altogether satisfying furniture that has ever been produced. The furniture of today will prove a heritage.

Realizing that no influence is so deep and lasting as that of right home environs, we have given the choosing of each suite—each piece of furniture on our floors—individual and careful thought.

FIRST SLAV REVOLUTION AND BLOODY SUNDAY.

Witte Tells Behind-the-Scenes Story of Hideous Tragedy That Ushered in Downfall of Czar's Power.

BY COUNT SERGIUS WITTE,
Minister of Finance and Premier of Russia Under Czar Nicholas II.

[Following is the twelfth of a series of extracts from the private memoirs of Count Witte. It deals with the beginnings of the Russian revolution of 1905-1906, which led to the formation of the first soviet and was the prophecy of the revolution of 1917, as both arose from remarkably similar circumstances.—Editor, The Times.]

Shortly after my arrival from my peace mission in the United States, I had a heart-to-heart talk with Count Dimitry Solski, president of the Imperial Council, about Russian home affairs. "Count," he repeated, "you alone can save the situation." When I declared that it was my intention to keep aloof by all means, and to go abroad for a few months' rest, he burst into tears and reproached me for my egotism and lack of patriotism. "Go abroad!" he exclaimed. "In the meantime we shall all perish here!"

Unwilling to shirk the duty I owed to my monarch and country, I did not go abroad. Although I had no illusions about the difficulty and thanklessness of the task, I assumed the burden of power and bore it for six months. My appointment as president took place immediately upon the publication of the historical manifesto of October 17, which granted the Russian people civic liberties and a parliamentary regime.

In October, 1905, the government had neither troops nor funds with which to fight the revolution. I soon perceived that only two things could save the dynasty and enable Russia to weather the revolutionary storm, namely, a large foreign loan and the return of the army from Transbaikalia and Manchuria to the European part of the country. These two measures, coupled with a determination on the part of the government to carry out in good faith the promises of the constitutional manifesto, I was certain, would pacify the country.

In the early days of the Russo-Japanese War, Gen. Kuropatkin on one occasion reproached Plehve, I recollect, with having been the only minister to desire the Russo-Japanese War and make common cause with the clique of powerful adventurers who had dragged the country into it. "Alexey Nikolayevich (i.e. Kuropatkin,)" retorted Plehve, "you are not familiar wtih Russia's internal situation. We need a little victorious war to stem the tide of revolution."

History made a mockery of the calculations of Plehve and his like. Instead of enhancing the prestige and increasing the physical resources of the regime, the war, with its endless misery and disgrace, completely sapped the system's vitality and laid bare its utter rottenness before the eyes of Russia and of the world generally, so that the population, whose needs had been neglected for many years by a corrupt and inefficient government, finally lost its patience and fell into a state of indescribable confusion.

I shall begin my narrative of the revolutionary upheaval of 1905-1906 with my reminiscences relating to the events of January 9, 1905, a day which, in the annals of the Russian revolution, is known as "Bloody Sunday."

POLICE SOCIALISM.

A certain Sergey Zubatov, a notorious agent-provocateur, is responsible for the idea of combatting the revolution by applying the principle of "knock out the wedge with another." He inaugurated a system which aimed at fighting the revolution with its own weapons and tactics, which might be described as police Socialism. The revolutionists are winning over the workmen to their side by preaching the doctrine of the Socialistic millennium to them, he argued—let us, therefore, imitate the methods and the language of the Socialistic agitators and we shall have the masses with us. And Zubatov proceeded to organize a veritable "labor movement," with trades unions, workers' meetings, lecture clubs, etc., all under the auspices of the secret service. The city of Moscow, with its large industrial population, was Zubatov's headquarters, and his activities had the co-operation and unqualified approval of both Grand Duke Sergey Alexandrovich, Governor-General, and Gen. Trepov, Governor of Moscow. Both the department of factory inspection and myself, in my official capacity, were strenuously opposed to Zubatov's scheme, but we could do nothing against the all-powerful Grand Duke. Sipyagin, Minister of the Interior, merely succeeded in restricting Zubatov's efforts to Moscow.

When Sipyagin was assassinated (in 1902,) his successor Plehve extended the experiment with police socialism to St. Petersburg, began to organize there workmen societies of a counter-revolutionary nature, on the model of the Moscow organizations, in order to keep the laboring masses under the influence of the department of police. The task of organizataion was intrusted to Father Gapon, who soon succeeded in gaining the entire confidence of the Governor of St. Petersburg. Then, of course, the inevitable happened. The preaching of the Socialists and anarchists gradually demoralized the workmen, and they began instinctively to strive to carry into effect the extreme program of Socialism. Not only was Gapon unable to stem this movement, but gradually he, too, became infected with the revolutionary spirit. A storm was brewing, while neither Prince Mirski, nor I, in my capacity of president of the committee of ministers, nor the government, knew anything about the matter.

On January 8, I was told by the Minister of Justice that in the evening there would be a conference at Prince Mirski's for the purpose of deciding what to do with the workmen who intended the next day to march to the Palace Square and present a petition to His Majesty. The Minister assured me that I would be invited to the conference because of my familiarity with the labor problem, but, as a matter of fact, owing to the opposition of the Minister of Finance, I was not invited to the conference. In the evening a deputation of public-spirited citizens came to see me. I received the committee and recognized among the delegates the academician Shakhmatov, the author Arsenyev, and Maxim Gorki. The spokesman of the delegation begged me to see to it that the Emperor should appear before the workmen and receive their

POCKET LOSS OF EIGHT MILLIONS.

How Our Merchants Kept Pace with Lowering Prices.

Think Bottom Has Now Been Hit in Various Lines.

Quotations for Shoes, Silks are Stiffening Again.

In order to keep pace with the downward trend of prices, the merchants of this city have pocketed a loss of between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 since last September, according to estimates made yesterday by some of the leading business men. Deflation has been accomplished, in practically all lines, they say, and to such an extent that the public has been buying [illegible] In some lines, notably shoes and silks, the bottom has been reached and quotations are stiffening again, the merchants say. [illegible] blankets and a wide variety of other articles of general merchandise have been coming down the toboggan ever since the wave of extravagance in this country began to recede last fall. Yesterday a galaxy of big business men stated that for weeks they have been marking down the retail cost of everything in their stores to meet the [illegible]

The story of cheaper shoes is told by Roy Baker of the C. H. Baker Shoe Company, in a few brief words which set forth the fact [illegible] special [illegible] that they have lately sold 10,000 pairs at exactly half price. Striking an average for all lines carried by the company, he opines that the last ninety days [illegible] 20 per cent.

W. A. Innes of the Innes Shoe Company asserts that the average reduction in shoe costs at his store [illegible] three months ranges between [illegible] per cent, with a [illegible] In some [illegible]

Both Mr. Innes and Mr. Baker contend that the shoe market is stiffening and that probably the low mark in shoe prices has been [illegible]

[illegible] Nagel, [illegible] Silverwood's, points [illegible] that Silverwood's has been offering a standard brand of shirts at prices far below what they were actually bought for, and that practically everything in stock has been marked down to conform to the prices [illegible] bought for replacement.

"I think the public ought to be told that there is such a thing as carrying a 'buyers' strike' too far," said Mr. Nagel yesterday. "I'm fairly certain that a lot of people have put off buying shoes until the low mark in shoe prices has been passed, and consequently they will probably have to pay more for shoes during the coming months. [illegible] must sell goods if factories [illegible] kept busy. Otherwise production will stop and the goods on hand will be marked higher because of scarcity."

BATTLE WOMAN, CAT AND GIRL.

Officers Spend Forty-eight Hours in Odd Siege.

Brave Gun, Paper Weight and Animal's Sharp Claws.

Insanity Complaint Served After Rushing House.

A man-eating cat, a girl, aged 10, armed with a glass paper weight, and Mrs. Monica Seide, fortified with a revolver, held deputy sheriffs at bay at 318 Stowe street for forty-eight hours, ending yesterday with the woman's arrest on an insanity charge.

Mrs. Seide, who weighs 110 pounds and is 5 feet tall, had intrenched herself in her home when Deputy Sheriffs Bright and Hotz called to arrest her on a complaint of a neighbor that she was suffering from a delusion that some one was trying to take her daughter from her. The deputies tried several times to get into the house, but were threatened with the revolver and were deterred by the fact that they would have to tear down a screen door, a wooden door and a canvas placed over the entrance. After waiting some time, they departed and yesterday Deputies Couts and Johnson called with Policewoman Strong of the County Hospital.

While the woman was off her guard for a moment, they broke in the door and then took her outside. Deputy Couts entered, only to be struck on the knee with a paper weight, thrown by Eva, the woman's daughter. He had no sooner recovered from this attack than a cat jumped from under some sticks on the floor and sprang at him, sinking its claws into his legs. Having overcome all the obstacles, the deputies took Mrs. Seide to the psychopathic ward of the County Hospital, took charge of the girl, put the cat out and locked the door.

petition. Otherwise, they said, a great disaster was inevitable. I refused to do anything, for the reason that I had no knowledge whatever of the matter and that it was not within my province. The men left, indignant at the fact that at such a critical time I stood on formalities. As soon as they were gone I informed Prince Mirski over the telephone about the delegation. The next morning, from my balcony I could see a large crowd moving along the Kamennolostrovski Prospect. There were among it many intellectuals, women and children. Before ten minutes were over, shots resounded in the direction of the Troitsky bridge. One bullet whizzed past me, another one killed the porter of the Alexander Lyceum. The next thing I saw was a number of wounded being carried away from the scene in cabs, and then a crowd running in disorder with crying women here and there. I learned afterward that it was decided at the above-mentioned conference not to allow the marchers to reach the square, but apparently instructions were not issued in time to the military authorities. There was no one present to speak to the workmen and make an attempt to bring them to reason. I do not know whether the same thing happened everywhere, but on the Troitsky bridge the troops fired rashly and without rime or reason. There were hundreds of casualties in killed and wounded, among them many innocent people. Gapon fled and the revolutionists triumphed; the workmen were completely alienated from the Czar and his government.

BRIDGE LABORATORY IS RISING RAPIDLY.

FINE PROGRESS REPORTED AT TECHNOLOGY INSTITUTE TRUSTEES' MEETING.

Rapid work in the construction of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of Physics, a four-story building to cost $300,000, was reported Friday at the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Extension of the department of physics and aeronautics was made possible last year by a $250,000 gift from Dr. Norman Bridge of this city, and the donor later added another $100,000 to the sum, in order that the laboratory might be erected and equipped without delay. Two stories of the structure are already up.

It is the present plan of the trustees to establish a four-year course in physics and engineering. The Bridge laboratory will contain eighteen research rooms, five laboratories, a lecture room of 300 capacity, five recitation rooms, nine offices and a library. Julius Pearson, former chief mechanician of the Ryerson Laboratory at the University of Chicago, has been made head of the shop department.

Dr. Walter T. Whitney is now devoting a great deal of attention to seismological studies. Dr. R. A. Millikan of the University of Chicago is co-operating with other scientists in upper-air work at the Arcadia Balloon School.

Officers for the Institute during the ensuing year have been elected as follows: Arthur H. Fleming, president; Henry M. Robinson, first vice-president; William C. Baker, second vice-president; John Wadsworth, third vice-president. Trustees re-elected for five years are Henry M. Robinson, Tod Ford and John D. Spreckels.

During 1920 eleven gifts, totaling $693,500, were received by the institution, which now has an enrollment of 406.

WANT CRIMINAL INSANE HOUSED.

Psychopathic Experts Urge Finishing Building.

Bill Put Before Lawmakers to Make Appropriation.

Dangerous Cases Scattered in Many Places Now.

The Psychopathic Society of Southern California is sponsor for a bill before the present Legislature asking for an appropriation for $100,000 to complete a building near Folsom State prison to be used as a hospital for the confinement and treatment of the criminal insane. At present there are 152 insane criminals in our State hospitals and a number of others in San Quentin.

Obviously a prison is not equipped for properly caring for the insane and their presence is a constant menace to themselves and to other inmates of the institution. It is equally true that the hospitals to which are committed innocent sufferers from the dread malady of insanity are not the places for criminals of any character. Their presence in these hospitals entails a large burden which the institutions are not prepared to meet. Such patients must be doubly guarded and should be entirely segregated from other patients—a condition not possible in the present crowded state of these institutions. An insane criminal is most cunning and dangerous, as a rule, and needs special provisions which cannot, and ought not, be provided in an asylum where ordinary patients are committed.

The building for this purpose was first requested in 1902 by both the board of prison directors and the Lunacy Commission, the latter body suggesting that it be located at Folsom and requesting an appropriation of $25,000 for this purpose. The Legislature granted this request; but it was found that it had failed to make the necessary provision for its construction by prison labor. When this was remedied by the next Legislature, work was begun, the building being located more than a mile from the prison grounds and constructed of the gray granite from the prison quarry by convict labor.

Appropriations for carrying on this building were made in 1905 and 1907. The gray granite which was used in the foundations and lower stories gave out and this compelled the purchase of material, still further delaying construction. The walls were almost completed in 1910, since which time nothing has been done. This building of solid granite, 91 by 186 feet, with outer walls three feet thick and inner walls two feet through, practically three stories high, with a total capacity for 184 inmates, cells in blocks, corridors, dining-room, etc., though practically complete, has stood untouched for years.

A careful estimate, made by an architect and a member of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, places the cost of completing the building, installing plumbing, heating and lighting fixtures, furniture and equipment at $100,000. In no other way could a building suitable for the purpose and providing for a like number of inmates, be secured at so low a cost.

Austrian Proteges of Hoover Relief Council and Players Who Will Entertain.

The children in this picture have but one meal a day, and they would not have that were American money not given to buy for them. The cinema stars shown in the insets will assist at a monster entertainment here Thursday, which is expected to net $50,000 for the Hoover fund.

FOR HUNGERING CHILDREN.

Fifty Thousand People Expected to See Mammoth Benefit Show Thursday.

Fifty thousand people are expected to witness a benefit performance which will be in progress for twelve hours at Philharmonic Auditorium next Thursday and which is expected to net $50,000 for the Hoover fund for the starving children of Europe. The doors of the theater will open at noon and until midnight, stage and screen stars, headline acts from the vaudeville houses and other attractions will entertain continuously.

Perhaps no other entertainment ever arranged in Los Angeles has included so many prominent artists. Though it is announced that the list is not yet complete, it already embraces some two-score names.

Attractions from the current theater bills will also be seen in numbers. In addition to acts from the vaudeville houses, the Burbank company of fifty girls and half a dozen comedians will hold the stage for an hour and various ones of the cinema theaters will furnish numbers for the program.

Charlie Murray, who has been stage manager for many notable benefit shows here, will be at his usual post. With him will be David Butler, who will keep things going throughout the afternoon.

Stars who will be seen include Anita Stewart, Priscilla Dean, Wallie Reid, Katherine MacDonald, Carter De Haven, Harold Lloyd, Wesley Barry, Mildred Harris, Fred Niblo, Rupert Hughes, Bebe Daniels, William Desmond, Ora Carew, Betty Francisco, Marta Golden, Ben Turpin, Truly Shattuck, Margaret Loomis, May Allison, Enid Bennett, Helen Jerome Eddy, Mary Miles Minter, Doris May, Josephine McLain, Shannon Day, Jacqueline Logan, Walter Hires, Roscoe Karns, David Butler, Jr., Grace Darmond, Carmel Myers, Kalla Pasha and Shorty Christdensen, Eddie Gribbon, Polly Moran, the Campbell sisters, Bobby Vernon and others of equal note.

HOOVER FUND AIDED BY EXPRESS COMPANY.

"Invisible guest" certificates, which may be purchased for any amount from $1 up and each of which certifies that the purchaser has salvaged the life of one or more little war victims, were placed on sale yesterday at the Los Angeles office of the American Railway Express Company, which is co-operating with Herbert Hoover, chairman of the European Relief Council, in his effort to raise $33,000,000 for the relief of 3,500,000 starving children in Europe.

The certificates are on sale at American Railway Express and American Express Company offices throughout the country. The cost of saving one child until the present food crisis in Europe shall be past is $10, while under the economical administration of the council, $1 will keep life in a little body for a month.

OPENS LUNCH ROOM.

Y. W. C. A. Has Attractive Place at Figueroa Headquarters.

Under the direction of Mrs. William J. Chichester the Y.W.C.A. has opened an attractive luncheon room at 941 South Figueroa street, the site recently purchased by the association for its future new structure. Mrs. Chichester heads the association's luncheon committee as well as the committee responsible for the launching of the new Women's Exchange. The luncheon room is expected to become popular, not only with members of the Y.W.C.A. employed in the vicinity, but with shoppers, club women and with men who appreciate home-cooked foods.

Designated as "tray luncheons," the noon service consists of a special meat dish, vegetable, salad, French rolls and desert, for which a charge of 40 cents is made. Tea, coffee and milk are 10 cents extra, but are served in liberal quantity. The menu is varied each day.

The most individual cigar

ROBT. BURNS' reputation as an individual cigar is national—reaching into every nook and corner of the country. What other full-Havana-filled cigar, selling at Robt. Burns prices, is smoked to the same extent as Robt. Burns?

Like the Robt. Burns cigar, Robt. Burns smokers, too, are individual. Robt. Burns conforms to their ideas of what a fine cigar should be. They like Robt. Burns' full Havana filler. They appreciate the May-mildness which special curing and the mild Sumatra wrapper give to this Havana.

Robt. Burns smokers always ask for Robt. Burns by name. It is next to impossible, cigar dealers declare, to sell Robt. Burns smokers anything but Robt. Burns cigars.

OUR MOTTO—"Always the BEST—at Economical Prices"

There is a difference for this is COW BEEF

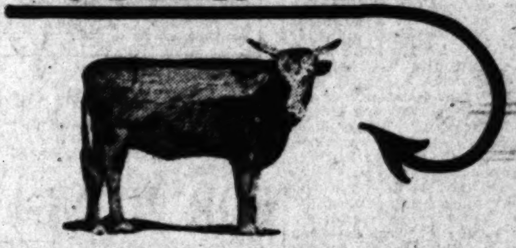
and this is
STEER BEEF



—whose best years have been used in reproducing and milking and sold for Beef at the age of 5 to 9 years.

—The green food on which the cow has lived creates watery tissues instead of fatty tissues, making fat that is soft—hard to cut—and has a poor flavor—when the water is cooked away the meat shrinks and curls. This applies to all poorly fed meats.

—COW BEEF is 70% to 75% Meat and 25% to 30% Bone.

→—COW BEEF should be sold for one-third less than STEER BEEF.

—which has been raised especially for food —scientifically fed on the richest and best foods only, making Steer Beef ready for the market in from 2 to 3 years.

—The rich dry food on which the Steer is fed produces oils and fats which are distributed evenly throughout the Steer's tissues, making its meat Tender, Juicy and finely flavored.

—STEER BEEF is 85% Meat and only 15% Bone.

→—STEER BEEF has one-third more value to you than Cow Beef and costs the packer about that much more per pound alive.

—Now that you know the difference between COW BEEF and STEER BEEF —we want you to know that all our stores sell STEER BEEF.

We are offering at present at all our Markets

IOWA CORN FED STEER BEEF
that was shipped alive to California

Steer Beef is from young, healthy animals, is more tender, always better flavored and has less bone.

Cow Beef is from older animals, has one-third less value, shrinks in cooking, is not so tender and never has as good flavor.

ALWAYS BUY STEER BEEF—IT COSTS MORE BUT IS ALWAYS MORE ECONOMICAL

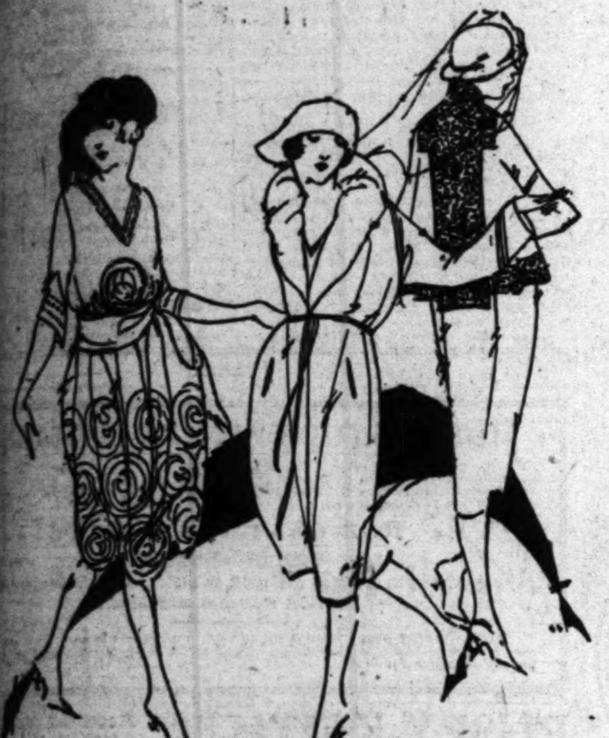
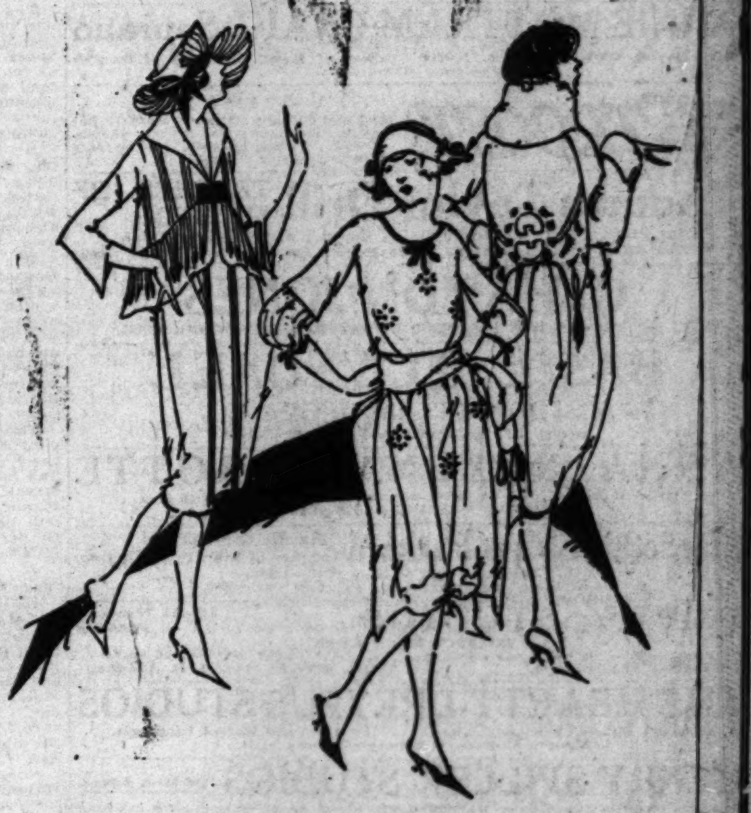
The Broadway Department Store Closes at One o'Clock Every Saturday in the Year

A Delightful Enterprise, Indeed, is The Shopping Tour Which Concerns Itself With

The Choosing of New Spring Apparel!





—There's no gainsaying the fact that our Winter clothes have long since assumed a decidedly season-worn look!

—Wherefore the need of some new ones.

—Now, we of The Broadway offer a suggestion which we think will prove mutually pleasant—that you should plan to come, Monday, to the Ready-to-Wear Section on the Third Floor, just to let us show you some of the charming new coats, suits and dresses that there await your approval.

Rarely, so we think, have we assembled so altogether likeable an array of garments —and the self-evident fact that their pricing is decidedly lower than that which has lately ruled for models of such a desirable order will attract all who appreciate the importance of careful expenditure.

—We are particularly well pleased with

The Dresses at $39.75 to $89.75

—these being made in numerous charming ways of Canton crepe, taffeta, satin and Georgette. Embroidered, ruffled, puffed, beaded, straight line and panel effects are shown; the colors most in evidence are tan, taupe, gray, brown and navy; black, too.

There are sizes 14 to 44.

The Suits at $39.75 to $89.75

—These so-important additions to spring wardrobes show delightful variety in their fashioning. You'll find Eton coats, flared and rippled models and the jaunty box coat effects. Some of them are beaded and braided; there's a choice of plain and semi-tailored models. Tan, gray, brown and navy seem to be the most highly favored colors, with black, as well. Sizes 14 to 44.

The Coats at $39.75 to $89.75

—Included are the wrappy cape models that Miladi wears with such grace. There are embroidered and braided coats in loose-back or belted styles; the materials are fine velours, Bolivia, Chamoistyne, Marvella, Covert and camel's hair cloth; the colors tan, blue, brown, taupe, covert and gray. Size 14 to 44.

—The Broadway—Third Floor

Odds and Ends of

Ivory Grain Toilet Articles at Greatly Lowered Markings

—If you have part of a toilet set of this attractive ivory grain, here is a chance to add to it at a great saving.

—Or now is a good time to start a set for yourself or for someone else. There is not a complete line, but there are some beautiful pieces in this assortment. Below we quote prices on some of the pieces.

Mirrors at $2.25, $2.65, $2.85, $3.15, $4.20 and $6.75.
Hair Brushes at $2.50, $3.40, $3.98, $4.20, $4.70, $5.00, $6.50, $6.75.
Trays at 85c and $1.25.
Puff Boxes at 98c and $2.75.
Hair Receivers at 98c.
Picture Frames at 50c, 65c, $1.00, $1.65, $1.85.
Combs at 35c, 45c, 50c, 90c, $1.10.
Clothes Brushes at $3.50, $4.15, $4.20.
Hat Brushes at $1.65, $2.35.
Files at 25c and 50c.
Buttonhooks at 25c and 50c.

The Broadway—Aisle Eight.

Don't Forget That the Fifth Annual February Sale of Furniture

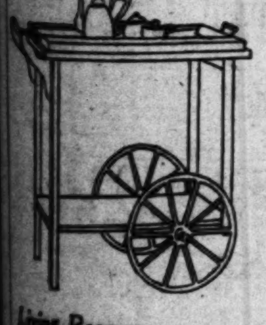
—means the saving of many dollars on fine merchandise if you take advantage of its lowered prices. Perhaps the very pieces that you have seen and admired are included in this list of underpricings below. For Monday, we call your attention in particular to:



Tea Wagons at $18.75

—In mahogany or Jacobean oak finish. Fitted with removable glass trays. Priced almost a third less at $18.75.

Gate Leg Tables at $31.00

—Of brown mahogany; 36-in. oval tops. Much less at $31.

Living Room Rockers at $7.95

—In golden oak finish with saddle seats. Well constructed and finished. Over a third less at $7.95.

Mahogany Library Tables at $34.75

In William and Mary pattern, antique brown mahogany finish, with two drawers. Size 26x42 inch tops. A third less.

Mahogany End Tables $8.95

—Finished in Colonial turned pattern. Underpriced a third.

Gate Leg Tables of Oak at $19.75

—In fumed finish, with 36-inch round tops. Much less at $19.75.

Drop Leaf Breakfast Tables at $6.95

—Unfinished, with 36-inch round or square tops. Over a third less.

Drop Leaf Breakfast Tables at $7.95

—In fumed finish, with pedestal bases and 36-inch round tops. A third less at $7.95.

Fiber Rockers and Chairs at One-Third Less

—These are in a large variety of styles, some with plain seats; others with upholstered seats and back, and finished in a rich brown. Prices range from $9.95 to $26.50.

Overstuffed Fireside Rockers $29.95

—Covered with genuine leather. Wing backs and spring filled loose cushion seats. Underpriced a third.

Living Room Rockers at $9.65

—Of solid oak in fumed finish. Saddle seats. A third less.

Sewing Cabinets at $16.95

—In brown mahogany, Martha Washington pattern. Less at $16.95.

—The Broadway—Sixth Floor.

In Beauteous Array, there are many

New Spring Hats

—at The Broadway, awaiting Miladi's selection from among their ranks. She'll note, first of all, that cellophane braid is given much prominence among the materials upon which Dame Fashion has, this season, set her seal of approval and that gay flower-garlands are much in evidence.

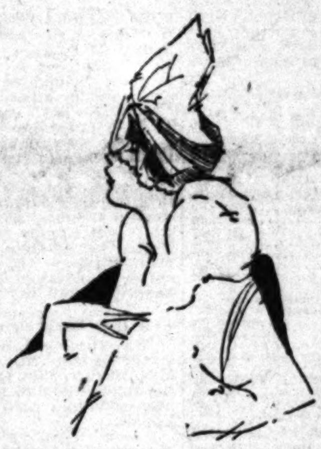
In Models Large and Small

—one may see this attractive combination, in close-fitting beflowered turbans, in novel shapes softly veiled with Chantilly lace, in dress hats with transparent brims.

Iridescent Hair Braid

—has been used in making gracefully drooping portrait models on which jet, spangles, long streamers and lace effects are featured.

—The smart pattern hat illustrated is of beautifully fine Milan hemp, in a stunning off-face novelty shape featuring a front-trimming of exceedingly rich, heavy taffeta ribbon. It is dark brown in color and priced at $38.00.



Untrimmed Shapes of Batavia Cloth at $6.75

—Just a wreath of flowers or a little ribbon is all that is needed to transform any of these dreary shapes into charming chapeaux. There are many different models from which to choose; small, close-fitting turbans, hats with narrow, medium and wide brims and prettily crushed crowns, being obtainable in practically all the new Spring shades.

—If you are intending to trim your own hat this season, you'll be delighted with these of Batavia cloth offered at the 'way low price of $6.75.

Flower, Fruit and Foliage Trimming

—may be had in charming variety.

—The Broadway—Third Floor.

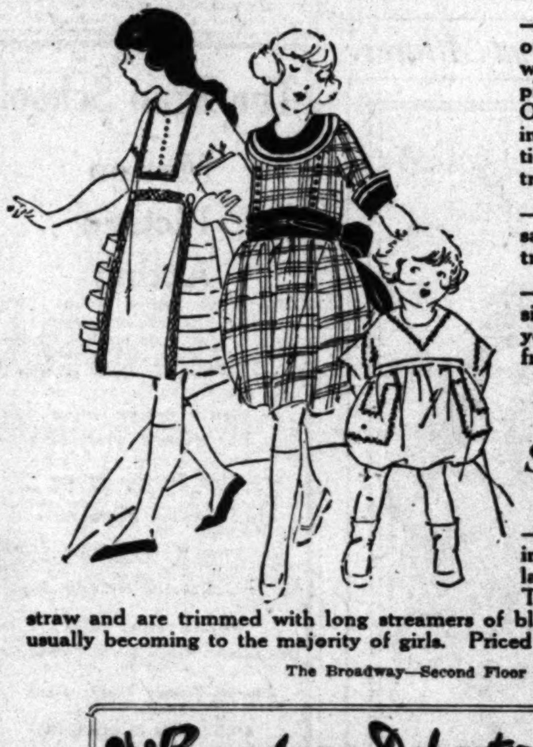
New Gingham Frocks

For School Girls

Prices $3.25 to $9.50

—It would seem, from these models, that gingham frocks are to be prettier and more original than ever this spring.

—Now ready for the critical inspection of Mistress School Maid are many new frocks that we feel sure will meet with strong approval.



—Some of the dresses are of plain gingham trimmed with bands and pipings of plaid in harmonizing colors. Others are in smart plaids in beautiful color combinations. Many of these are trimmed with plain colors.

—Most of them have sashes and many have attractive touches of white.

—They are in styles and sizes for girls of 8 to 14 years. The prices range from $3.25 to $9.50.

Black Milan Sailors for Girls $3.95 to $10.50

—These are smart sailors in black, and are particularly nice for school wear. They are of fine Milan straw and are trimmed with long streamers of black ribbon. They are unusually becoming to the majority of girls. Priced from $3.95 to $10.50.

The Broadway—Second Floor

The Broadway Department Store
Broadway—Fourth and Hill. Arthur Letts, President

Now is the time to buy

Blankets

—because they are underpriced—and incidentally, because the nights are cool. On Monday we will offer two styles of blankets at lowered markings that will be well worth your consideration.

72x84 Wool Plaid Blankets Underpriced at $16.50 a pair

—These beautiful all wool blankets are bound with silk and are in 5-inch block plaids. There's a choice of pink, blue, tan, heliotrope and old rose.

—They are considerably underpriced at $16.50 a pair.

66x80 Part Wool Blankets Less at $7.50 a Pair

Imported

French Kid Gloves

at the Remarkably Low Price of

$2.45 a pair

—Not long ago we sold gloves similar to these at a low figure and they met with great enthusiasm. We are able to offer another assortment of beautiful kid gloves at $2.45, which should meet with even greater response now that spring outfits are in the minds of most women who are particular about their appearance.

They are in P. K. and Overseam Styles.

—Either plain or with attractive embroidery on the backs.

—They are in two-clasp style and there's a choice of white, brown, gray, mode and beaver.

—Monday's price is at least a third less than their regular markings. You'll probably want several pairs when you see them. We advise you to come early.

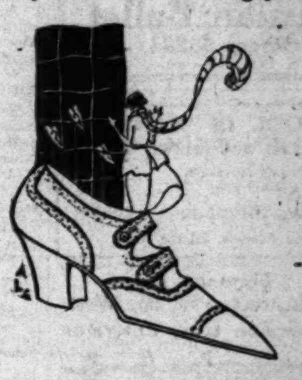
—The Broadway—Aisle Three

Stop in the Shoe Section on Monday and let us show you our New Spring Styles in

"Queen Quality" Footwear At $10.00

—for they will be on display then and you can see how very charming they are.

—There is an unusually large range of styles this spring—many very attractive models in strap slippers being featured. You will see some of these "Queen Quality" models in the windows; many others are awaiting your approval in the department.



Walking Oxfords

—as well as strap pumps are here in smart new styles.

—There are models of white kid, of white buck, of brown kid, of black kid and in clever combinations of these leathers. You will find both welt and turned soles.

The Low Price of $10.00

—should be an added attraction, for it has been some time since we have been able to offer shoes of this character at such a moderate marking.

—The sizes are complete.

The Broadway—Aisle Eight

The Price of the

"Belfort" Pattern of Haviland China

Has been lowered more than one-fourth.

—which will doubtless be of great interest to a number of people who are among the many admirers of this pattern. Soft tans and browns form the dominant color notes, and they are supplemented by tiny garlands in pastel tints.

—This is one of the loveliest of the Theodore Haviland patterns. A very complete service for 12 persons is now priced at $152.75.

—From the Johnson factories in England comes the beautiful pattern known as

The "Chatterton"

—which is in spray design in gorgeous flame color and rich blue. A service for six in this fine pattern is priced at $40.70.

We will be glad to show you both the "Belfort" and the "Chatterton" patterns. They are but two of many beautiful ones to be found at The Broadway

MUSICAL.

FIESTA OF ENSEMBLE.

GROUP OF CONCERTS DURING THE COMING WEEK.

The quest of the finest in musical art has led Los Angeles into a season of chamber music concerts. There will be three such soirees during the coming two weeks, and all given by permanent associations of Los Angeles.

The concluding concert of the Zoellner Quartet is to take place on the 21st instant at the Ebell clubhouse. This is the last of a series of ten. The Zoellners have endeavored to advance new compositions, playing one at every concert, and many of these are by American composers.

At their next concert they will play for the first time Sarah Bragdon's "Humming Bird," a work dedicated to the quartet. Another work which bears the same dedication, also on the program, is "The Hymnus," by Arthur Hartmann.

The Los Angeles Trio—May MacDonald Hope, pianist; Leon Goldwasser, violinist, and Ilya Bronson, 'cellist—will play tomorrow evening at the Ebell clubhouse. The trios will be the romantic work by Robert Schumann in D Minor and the Saint-Saens Trio in E Minor. Goldwasser and Mrs. Hope will be heard in the great Cesar Franck Sonata for piano and violin.

The Saslavsky Chamber Music Society will give the second concert of their series Friday evening at the Ted Shawn Theater. Alexander Saslavsky, violinist, Katie Winter Hall, pianist, and Robert Alter, 'cellist, will play three works of Brahms—the Trio in C Minor, the Sonata in D Minor and the Trio in D Major.

May Peterson, Soloist.

May Peterson, the soprano from the Metropolitan Opera, will appear as soloist with the Philharmonic Orchestra at its next pair of symphony concerts Friday afternoon and Saturday evening. She will sing Mozart's aria, "Deh vieni non tardar," from the "Marriage of Figaro," and "Depuis le jour," from the opera of "Louise" by Charpentier.

For the balance of the program, Walter Henry Rothwell, conductor of the orchestra, has chosen the "Impressions of Italy" by Charpentier, a tone poem after Rabindranath Tagore by Harold Morris, an American composer, the overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart and the overture to "Rienzi" by Wagner.

The popular concert program this afternoon will include Scheherazade's Suite by Rimsky-Korsakow, the sections including "The Sea and Sindbad's Ship," "The Story of the Kalandar-Prince," "The Young Prince and the Young Princess" and "The Festival at Bagdad."

On the same program will be Siegfried's Death from "The Twilight of the Gods" by Wagner and the "Oberon" overture by Weber.

Soloist will be Winifred Hooke, who will perform with the orchestra the "Variations Symphoniques" by Cesar Franck.

Joint Recital.

A recital will be given next Friday evening at the Ebell clubhouse by Bertha McCray Sharp, pianiste, and Frank Gerard Sharp. The program will include classical and modern composers, and a number written for strings by Mrs. Sharp.

Danish Singer and Trio.

There will be a concert by Mme. Jorgina, Danish soprano, the 24th inst. at Trinity. Immediately after Mme. Jorgina is to leave for Paris to fill an engagement with the Paris Opera.

The Trio Intime will also appear on the program, including Alfred Kastner, harpist; Jay Plowe, flutist, and Ilya Bronson, 'cellist, all members of the Philharmonic Orchestra. Gertrude Ross, pianiste, will assist the singer as accompaniste.

English Organist Here.

Eugene Bayliss, recently arrived in Los Angeles from London, is to open a studio for organ and composition in this city. Bayliss is a Fellow of the Royal Academy of Music, an M. A. of Oxford, an A. R.C.M. and a B. Mus. He made his studies under Sir Hugh Allen and Sir Walter Parrott. He is at present assisting Father Neil Dodd at the Church of Mary of the Angels at Hollywood Boulevard and New Hampshire avenue.

Students' Program.

Anna Ruzena Sprotte will give a students' recital at the Friday Morning Club Auditorium this evening.

All-American Program.

The all-Wagner program last week has encouraged Sid Grauman and Misha Guterson to plan an all-American concert for this Sunday. Miss Florence Ringo, dramatic soprano, a California girl, will be the soloist.

The program follows:

Southern Rhapsody ....Lucius Hosmer
(a) Waltz of the "Wild Flowers"..........
Carrie Jacobs Bond
(b) "Narcissus" ....Ethelbert Nevin
"O Promise Me" ....De Koven
Miss Florence Ringo.
Selection, "Mlle. Modiste".......Victor Herbert
(a) "Poem Erotique"......Edward A. MacDowell
(b) "The Heart of Her"...................Cadman
"American Patrol."

Paul Althouse Recital.

Paul Althouse, the American tenor, will be heard at the Ambassador auditorium, the 24th inst. He will be assisted at the piano by Rudolph Gruen.

Althouse will be best remembered as having been selected to create the leading tenor role in "Boris Godounoff" on its production in this country and also as soloist for the New York Symphony and the Metropolitan Opera.

The program for the Althouse concert is as follows:

"Dimmi Perche" ....Scontrino
"Il Mandolino" ....Burgmein
"Manoir De Rosemonde" ....Duparc
"Le Sais-Tu?" ....Massenet
"Chevauchee Cosaque" ....Fourdrain
Mr. Althouse.
Aria, "Celeste Aide," from "Aida"........Verdi
Mr. Althouse.
Ballade in G Minor.......................Chopin
Juba Dance ....Dett
Valse Caprice ....Rubinstein
Mr. Gruen.

"The Blind Ploughman" ....Clarke
"Rose Petals" ....Vanderpool
"Vale" ....Russell
"Lassie O' Mine"...........................Walt
"The Living God" ....O'Hara
Mr. Althouse.

Lyric Club Concert.

The Lyric Club, the women's choral organization, will give their second concert of the season Wednesday evening at Philharmonic Auditorium. The club will be assisted by the Trio Intime.

Organist Here.

Henry Spiller, the English organist, has been engaged to play at the Ambassador Hotel Theater during his residence here in the winter and spring season. He has also announced his intention of receiving advanced pupils for coaching in opera, oratorio and concert.

Mr. Spiller studied piano and later organ, choir training and conducting in England and on the continent. He came to New York about fifteen years ago, and since then has returned several times for concert work, but has made this country his home.

His first work on this Coast was a series of recitals at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915.

Gardner-Jordan Recital.

Samuel Gardner, violinist, and Mary Jordan, contralto, will be heard in joint recital Tuesday night at Philharmonic Auditorium. Both are new to this city, and their appearance is awaited with considerable interest. The program is as follows:

Suite, E Major (for violin and piano)..Goldmark
Mr. Gardner.
Aria, "O Don Fatale," from "Don Carlos"..Verdi
Miss Jordan.
Romance, Prelude C Major, Prelude G Minor, from "The Canebrake" ....Gardner
Mr. Gardner.

"My Love is a Muleteer"....Francesco di Nogero
Miss Jordan.
"Ye Who Have Yearned Alone"....Tschaikowsky
"Le Nil" ....Leroux
(With violin obbligato.)
Miss Jordan and Mr. Gardner.

Samuel Gardner is of Russian parentage. He was born not far from Odessa in 1892. When he was but a few years old, one of the periodical persecutions of the Jews made itself felt to the already sadly downtrodden people, and many were forced out of the country in order to save their lives. Among those who came to America was the family of Sameal Gardner. They settled in Providence, R. I., and here the young violinist received his first instruction on the violin, under Felix Wendelschaefer.

Later he studied with Franz Kneisel. He was for a short time first violin with the Kneisel Quartet, while Mr. Letz was in service. In 1918 he was awarded the $1500 Pulitzer prize and the James Loeb $500 prize as "the most talented and deserving student of music in America."

Miss Jordan was the first among the prominent singers to introduce negro spirituals on the concert stage. She paid high tribute to the work of Harry T. Burleigh, the negro composer, whose "Deep Rivers" was dedicated to herself, and whose interpretation of negro melodies has brought delighted and favorable comment in musical circles.

Miss Jordan contends that the English language is just as beautiful, just as full of melody, as any of the foreign languages. "The great trouble has been that English singers do not give the same attention to fine diction as they do to foreign languages," she said: "Many American singers know French and Italian better than they know their own language. Spoken and sung correctly, there is no language more beautiful than the English."

Van Den Berg Daughter.

Announcement has just been received of the birth of a daughter to Mrs. Brahm Van Den Berg, wife of the noted Belgian pianist. The tiny accompanying card reads Katherine Louise.

Interpretive Lecturer Here.

Ethel Graham Lynde, interpretive lecturer on music and drama, has returned to this city after a three months' sojourn in New York, where she took a post-graduate lecture course at Columbia University, and gave a number of recitals before prominent musical organizations. She intends to resume her lecture activities here in the near future.

Her New York appearances included an interpretation of Stavinsky's "Nightingale," before the MacDowell Club; "Thais" before the National Oepra Club at the Waldorf-Astoria during the French festival, and a second reading of "The Nightingale" for the benefit of the Stravinsky fund at the Cosmopolitan Club, besides an interpretation of George Bernard Shaw's "Heart Break House" at the Public Library, and an operatic series at the same institution.

SPAIN'S ART NOW SEEKS FREEDOM.

Estelle Heart-Dreyfus Tells of Interesting New Music Progress.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

Estelle Heartt-Dreyfus, always avidly seeking knowledge in the realm of the intellect, has returned from her trip of seven months around the world.

"I went seeking a bigger point of view," she said, "and a new sight of the world, which I hope I have found, but, also, I am sure I have a new view of the situation here in my own home.

"People in other cities have come to expect us to drop our last vestige of resemblance to a village, and the resident musician must work hard to keep up with the newcomers, considerable in number and in gifts, or he must go under. For my part, I am going to try to keep afloat."

July 8, last year, Mr. and Mrs. Dreyfus sailed from Vancouver to Honolulu, where they spent a day renewing old acquaintances. Then they went on to the Fiji Islands, New Zealand and Sydney, Australia.

They spent six weeks in a hotel overlooking the bay on which Sydney is situated, singing only for friends, informally, and resting a great deal. Mrs. Dreyfus had planned to return the way she went, but a sudden temptation overcame her and she canceled engagements in the Northwest and set sail, as the table guest of John McCormack, for Spain.

It took ten days for the boat to coast Australia. Then they touched Ceylon, Bombay, went through the Arabian Sea and the Suez Canal, the wonders of which Mrs. Dreyfus delights in telling, and through the Mediterranean to Marseilles. They visited the fortifications at Gibraltar and then spent a month in Spain. Later they had two weeks in London and then came home via New York.

"In Spain we went as far north as Madrid. We had a 'castle' in Granada, and there we met Angel Barrios, the young composer; Pedrell, who has some recent books of musical reference, and whose composing makes me think of him as the Wagner of Spain; De Fallo and La Parra. The father of Barrios, an old man, keeps a little inn at Granada. In his son's study we found the works of the new Russian composers, and the French.

The young man is the most wonderful guitarist in Spain, and his old father gave the gypsy songs to his accompaniment. I also sang for him.

It was in talks with these young composers and in hearing the programs of the Symphony Orchestra at Madrid that I formed the opinion that the music of Spain has been inarticulate because of the Teutonic harmonic structure, which is antipathetic to Spain. Now, however, with the new French and Russian idioms, Spain will come into its own with music as it has with art, and the vast wealth of material in the folk-songs will have development.

While in Spain Mrs. Dreyfus walked long distances; in order to verify her intuitions regarding the interpretation of the Spanish songs which she loves, she sang to muleteers and wheat carriers, and in small villages she would stand talking on a street corner and before long she would find herself bursting into song, to the intense satisfaction of the people.

The Andalusians would hear only the songs of their people, and so it was with the north of Spain. It was at just such informal occasions that Mrs. Dreyfus sang.

On Armistice Day she was in mid-ocean; the King had given orders that every engine was to stop for three minutes; Mrs. Dreyfus and John McCormack sang a program together, with Edwin Schneider as accompanist. Schneider's songs, by the way, Mrs. Dreyfus finds very well worth while.

En route home she sang some programs with [illegible] whose voice has [illegible] to her. Of Marie T[illegible] fus also speaks highly.

is to become the bride of Clarence Dobson during the month. The [illegible] arrived following the dinner [illegible] and while they were busied with their fancy work, little Wendell [illegible] entered the living-room, drawing an express wagon piled high with gifts for the bride-elect. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mr. Wilson's mother.

Miss Nina Barber, another bride-elect, was honored with a similar affair Tuesday evening, at her home, 1123 Eldorado street, Miss [illegible] Pentecost and Mrs. Addie [illegible] being sponsors of the surprise shower. Entering Miss Barber's home, twenty girl friends set about the decoration of the rooms with cupids and red hearts. Refreshments served later in the evening carried out the same color idea.

Crimson hearts and dainty valentines formed the decoration for the occasion of the regular monthly meeting of the Pythian Sisters' Thimble Club, held at the home of Mrs. C. J. Carlson on South Orange street, Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Carlson was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. [illegible] Carlson. A pleasant feature of the gathering as a token of the club's appreciation for her services as club secretary, a position she relinquishes because of her removal from the city.

BRAWLEY.

Fourteen friends of little Bobby Pound were guests at a Valentine-birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Pound recently on the occasion of their son's seventh anniversary. Decorations of red and white were attractively arranged and a big birthday cake and pretty valentines added to the pleasure of the youngsters.

John P. Carter, internal revenue collector from Los Angeles, and his deputy, Maj. McReynolds, were guests at a social gathering and informal dinner at the home of the latter's brother here recently while they were in the city on a business visit.

The first peach blossoms of the season were used in decorations for an afternoon bridge party given by Mrs. T. B. Edgar at her home at Fifth and A, which was attended by a number of well known women of the Brawley social set. The attractive decorations elicited many expressions of surprise and admiration from the guests.

SIERRA MADRE.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carter of Big Bear Valley are spending the winter here.

Mrs. Stella Dennisan entertained the Eleven and One Club last Thursday evening at her home on West Central avenue. Mrs. Clinton Hawkins of Cleveland, O., and Mrs. Merrick Hayes, former members of the organization, were the guests of honor. Mrs. Hawkins is spending the winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Caley. Mrs. Hayes is the guest of Mrs. M. D. Welsher.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brooks entertained with a cabin party at Swilliken Den or Sturtevant Trail last week-end. Guests were Misses Mattie Seeley, Yerda Appleby, Helen Williams of this place and Miss Cleona Brooks of Los Angeles; Messrs. Victor Hill, Roland Adams, Earl Topping, of this place, and Ted Lynch of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lynch of Chino, and Dr. and Mrs. Merrick Hayes of New York.

Mrs. Jessica H. Wright, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, arrived home from Oakland on Wednesday evening, after a week's visit where she attended the State convention of Chambers of Commerce.

Mrs. P. W. Stecker of Ogden, Utah, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Howard Hill.

Dr. and Mrs. Selden Sperry left last week for several days' visit in San Diego, after which they will go to their home in Milwaukee, via San Francisco.

Mrs. H. W. Topping and son Earl, have returned from a ten days' trip in the Yosemite.

GLENDALE.

The regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club was held Tuesday in the club rooms at the Masonic Temple. Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, the president, introduced as the speaker for the day, Capt. Paul Perigord, who spoke of his own beloved country, France. The unusually large attendance sang ensemble, "La Marseillaise" and "America." Miss Gertrude Champlain was the accompanist.

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant, 1635 South San Fernando Road entertained Tuesday evening with a musical party. There were twenty guests and each one was called upon to give a musical number. At midnight a buffet supper was served.

Complimenting Mrs. Dora Neville, who has recently returned from Japan, Mrs. Louise Purnell, entertained with a luncheon Thursday, at her home, 353 Ivy street. The luncheon table was centered with a cut glass basket filled with violets. Valentines marked the places for the nine guests.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Graham of Pittsburg, Pa., arrived Saturday, and will be the house guests of Mr. Graham's sister, Mrs. J. H. Orth, 153 South Central avenue.

Mrs. Peter L. Ferry was hostess at a bridge luncheon last Thursday at her home on East Acacia avenue. Covers were laid for thirty guests. The house was decorated with red carnations, ferns and Valentines. Mrs. Carrie Smith and Mrs. Charles Rudel made high scores.

EAST WHITTIER.

Members of the East Whittier Woman's Improvement Club were at home to the ladies of the Whittier Woman's Club Wednesday afternoon and the affair was largely attended. Mrs. A. W. Swain is president of the club and after a brief business session turned the meeting over to Mrs. Sada George Wilson, who presented Mrs. C. B. Sebastian of Columbia, Mo., who sang a group of songs, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Trigg Garner. She sang "Reveries" and "Minnetonka," and for an encore, "All For You." Antonio Corci, one of the best-known artists' models in both Europe and the United States, gave interesting detail of his work and of his experiences when posing for such eminent artists as Bourne-Jones, Sargeant and others. He passed prints and pictures to illustrate his posing. He has specialized in religious figures, having posed as Hosea, Elijah, Joshua, Moses and other religious subjects. One of his best-known subjects is a piece of statuary, "The Scout," which was shown at the San Francisco Exposition in 1915. After the address the ladies served afternoon tea.

MONTEBELLO.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Schaack of Spruce street, entertained at dinner Sunday, their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Schaack and son, Jack, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. John Magnus, also from the Illinois metropolis, and Mrs. Weber and daughter, Miss Margie, of Fergus Falls, Minn. In the afternoon the guests were taken for a delightful drive, and stopping at the ranch home of Maj. and Mrs. Truman Cole, those who had not already plucked their first golden orange were given the opportunity to perform that very interesting feat.

The Fortnightly Bridge Club was entertained recently by Mrs. L. T. Williams, covers at the charmingly appointed luncheon, over which she presided, being laid for Mrs. Fred H. Howard, Mrs. N. J. Brown, Mrs. F. H. Olds, Mrs. E. L. Cash, Mrs. C. W. Schaack, Miss Mary Kinnaird, Mrs. S. W. Burrows of Los Angeles, and the hostess.

ATASCADERO.

The birthday of Mrs. Helen Lamson Elwell was delightfully celebrated on Monday by the ladies of her ensemble class, who escorted her over the mountains to the neighboring city of San Luis Obispo, entertained her at luncheon in the spacious dining-room of the Hotel Andrews, bestowed various gifts upon her, useful as well as ornamental, guided her about the shop, assisting her in several purchases with their judgment and advice, and finally driving her back over the grade to Atascadero. The celebration was such an unqualified success that the class is now planning the birthdays of all the members.

A triple birthday celebration took place on Wednesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ewalt and Miss Henrietta Montgomery enjoyed a little gathering of friends and neighbors at the Ewalt home. It was a source of pleasure to all that Mrs. Ewalt, who has been ill so long, was able to be up and about and enjoy her party.

Mrs. Francilia Bronson Winters and her sister, Mrs. L. M. Goodsell, have moved into the Pixley house on Santa Lucia avenue, which they have recently purchased. They are having it decorated in the most artistic fashion, so that it will soon be known as one of the most charming homes in the community.

LA HABRA.

Mrs. W. L. York and Mrs. F. E. Proud were hostesses at a prenuptial miscellaneous shower given at the York home Saturday, the complimented guest being Miss Wanda Davis, formerly of La Habra, but re-

millinery from Paris

Les chapeaux—à la nouvelle mode—très chic—pour la jeune fille et madam sa mere. Our millinery manager has just returned from Paris with an interesting selection of hats. These were chosen for the women of Los Angeles from the shops of the most famous modistes. They are both original and charmant.

Third floor

ANNOUNCING THE ARRIVAL OF NEW GLOVE SILK UNDERWEAR IN ORCHID, CORN, CIEL, NILE AND FLESH. VESTS AT $2.95; BLOOMERS TO MATCH AT $4.95.

FOURTH FLOOR

Tricotine, $3.95

700 Yards of Tricotine of fine quality in blues and browns will be offered at $3.95 a yard for Monday.

With the full season ahead for this fabric, the announcement of so low a price is especially timely.

The width—54 inches—will allow for cutting the new circular skirts.

This tricotine is pure wool, with a close twill. For Monday, 700 yards of this desirable material will be offered at $3.95 a yard.

SECOND FLOOR

Lining, 95c

900 Yards of mixed silk-and-cotton Linings will be offered Monday at 95c a yard.

These are the pretty, durable Linings that ordinarily sell for considerably more.

The 900 yards include a wide range of color combinations.

SECOND FLOOR

Flouncings and All-Overs, $1.95

500 Yards of Novelty materials for spring frocks are in this grouping.

Organdie and Voiles, in widths suitable for skirt lengths, are attractively embroidered for use as flouncings.

All-over Crepes are embroidered in dainty colorings and small designs.

The entire assortment at one price for Monday, $1.95.

FIRST FLOOR

Street, Afternoon and Evening Frocks

Unfolding beauties new to the season of 1921, they are diverse as a bouquet of South American orchids.

For daytime frocks, Canton, Morocco and other silk crepes have a deeply entrenched place in Milady's affections. And if she has one frock that softly clings, she will wish another that is crisp and bouffant, interpreted in taffeta. Some of these taffeta dresses have tight bodices and the new puff sleeves. Others have over-skirts of solid eyelet embroidery in self-color.

Poiret twill and tricotine frocks, particularly in white, are ushering in Spring in the southland.

An afternoon frock with which one may or may not wear a hat is of beige georgette, with drapes of wide, heavy filet lace. Wooden beads are used to emphasize slenderness of line.

Inexpensive frocks are also featured in varied styles and fabrics. Prices begin at $49.50.

THIRD FLOOR

Silks and Spring Arrive Together

On tour in the Silk Section, Spring has scattered her treasures broadcast.

Myriad frocks, as yet untouched by scissors, lie waiting in these silken lengths of loveliness.

Bordered Pussy Willow Taffeta has a checkerboard design with blocks which become detached from the lower border and grow smaller to the vanishing point. A pattern in navy pussy willow has a border in beige and henna. 40 inches wide. At $5.00 a yard.

Bonnet's Taffetas are in navy and black, with figures in self color. A two-inch stripe, a large fern pattern, coin dots of taffeta on a satin background and indistinct groupings which might be a merging of Arabic characters, are some of the distinctive designs by which one may know these Silks from Lyons. 36 inches wide. At $5.00 a yard.

Chiffon Taffetas are in shepherd's plaid and checks ranging from pin checks to half-inch size. Blue, black and tan grounds have white hair-lines making small bars. 36 inches wide. At $3.75.

Sport Cantons are single-tone white or delicate pink. Large rings and flock effects in diagonal and basket weaves are patterns particularly smart in these Canton Crepes. 40 inches wide. $7.50.

Plaid Surahs for skirtings have the fine twills which give the appearance of softest woolen fabrics. Plaids of beige and blue with a thread of forge red, gray and rose with narrow lines of blue and other patterns adaptable to pleatings are shown. These new Surahs are 40 inches wide and priced at $4.50.

SECOND FLOOR

Spring Corseting

The silhouette in vogue for spring continues to be slender with low bust and long hips.

Correct lines are attained by careful corseting that gives both support and restraint.

A staff of expert corsetieres are at the convenience of Robinson patrons without charge.

Varied high-grade lines of Corsets are carried in stock for choice.

FOURTH FLOOR

Entire Stock of Women's Woolen Hosiery ¼ Off Regular Prices

The entire line of Woolen Hose for Women will be given a straight reduction of 25% for One Week beginning Monday.

Scotland and England have contributed finest grade Woolen Hose in novelty designs.

Heather, black, white, green and brown Woolen Hose of American manufacture may be had in plain and fancy ribbed.

Regular prices range from $1.50 to $12.00 a pair.

All now subject to a discount of 25%.

FIRST FLOOR

New Wash Fabrics

Wash Fabrics carried to the 'nth degree of beauty make up the showing for spring. Many of the imported materials are exclusive to Robinson's in this city.

Tropical English Prints in batiste weight have grounds of henna, orange, cool green and tints suggestive of early summer. The figures are indeed tiny, often with a touch of black like the calicoes of the early seventies. 32 inches wide. At 95c a yard.

Stamped Swiss Organdies combine transparency with a silken sheen. They are in barred and Jacquard weaves. A pattern in platinum gray in barred effect offers delightful possibilities. A wide range of colors is available. 44 inches wide. At $2.50 a yard.

English Prints in calico weight have dots and the quaintest of small figures in as many as 50 patterns. 32 inches wide. At 95c a yard.

Figured English Sateens have small squares and irregular blocks, as well as the diminutive patterns similar to the Prints. This is of firm quality that keeps its freshness the season through. For both street and afternoon frocks. 36 inches wide. $1.35 a yard.

Genuine Drop Stitch Voiles, also imported, are in stripes and small checks. In a good range of pastel and dark colors. 36 inches wide. At $2.25 a yard.

David and John Anderson Ginghams are in 1921 plaids and colors. Among these are canary, pink, Delft and turquoise grounds. These fine Scotch Ginghams are of luxurious quality, but moderately priced. 32 inches wide. At $1.25 a yard.

SECOND FLOOR

Imported Blouses

French taste and originality are in unmistakable evidence in the Blouses just over from Paris.

The inset of accordion pleating in a sleeve, the cut of a sash in an overblouse, the repetition of crystals on tiny buttons; every detail tells of French craftsmanship.

A georgette model in deep rose is cleverly embroidered in round silver beads. This is the type of Blouse especially liked for the restaurant and informal dinners.

A second slip-over model is of Delft blue ornamented with bronze beads. Distinction in design is also characteristic of this Blouse.

Prices for the imported models range from $35.00 to $42.50.

THIRD FLOOR

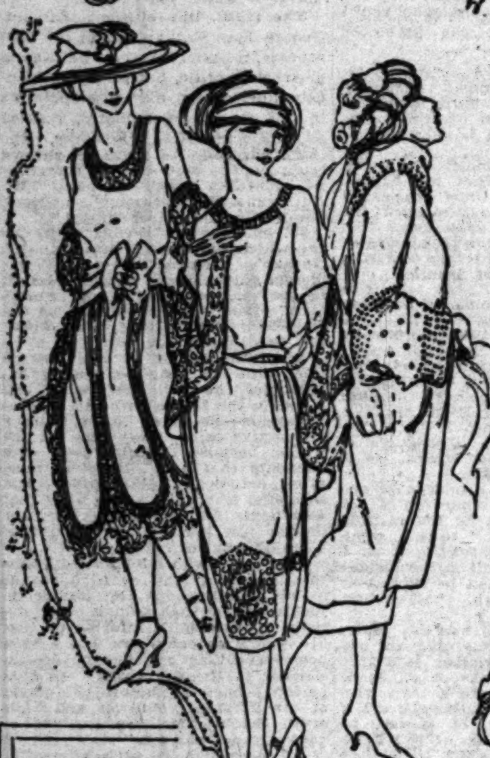
Fashion's Valentine is Brilliant

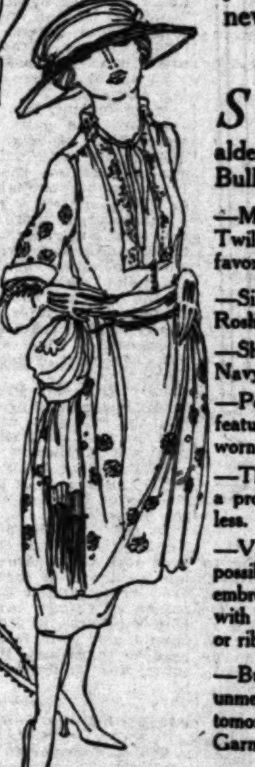
—Originality has taken carte blanche in a whirling mood for dissimilarity—in New Suits—New Coats—New Dresses—to the high pleasure of Misses and Women with thoughts upon

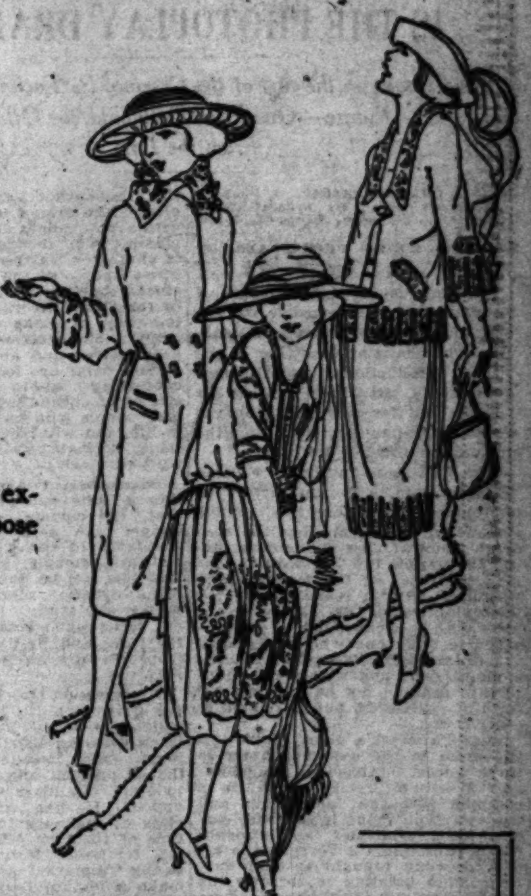
Apparel for Spring---Now Ready---at Bullock's

—What characterized a mode of yesterday doesn't matter a jot—And yet, to be fascinatingly inconsistent, occasionally a long-forgotten period idea is borrowed—

—No attempt has been made to state the trend of mode in these notes—there is no trend—except it be the trend of difference—You should know of the readiness of Bullock's with the newest, however—you should know that the New Fashions at Bullock's are beautiful—that Bullock interpretations of Style are Correct—and that energy has been centered upon making Bullock Suits, Coats and Dresses for Spring much less expensive than they look—a Valentine greeting for you and an invitation to be present—and choose new garments—Tomorrow at Bullock's.







SUITS — that women will wear for Spring—are heralded in many smart models at Bullock's.

—Materials that are popular include Twill Cord, Piquetine; and Flannel is favored for Sports Suits.

—Silk Suits have chosen Canton and Roshanara Crepe.

—Shades of Gray, Pewter, Wren and Navy hold the lead.

—Perhaps the most interesting new feature is the collar, which may be worn high or low as one fancies.

—The Mandarin or Box Coats hold a prominent place—some being collarless.

—Varied trimming treatments are impossible of description—all over hand embroidery, steel nail heads combined with tinsel—French knots of chenille or ribbon are used extensively.

—But there are many whims of style unmentioned—which you should see tomorrow — at Bullock's Women's Garment Section—Third Floor, CAPES AND WRAPS call for adjectives of superlative degree in the theme of richness and beauty.

—One hardly knows whether to say "capey Wraps" or "Wrappy capes" in describing their silhouettes—one only knows they are tantalizingly pretty.

—Long tassels, French knots, form fascinating trims—the tassels sometimes being the result of throw collars.

—Tuxedo shawl fronts on both capes and wraps are many times in contrasting colors—which reminds one of the new shades.

—Here they are—Sorrento, Amalfi blue, Hindustan, Ostrich, Silverpine, Caravan (shades of tan and taupe), Fez red.

—The materials include Florzella, Ramona, Marvella, Duvetyne, Velvura, Covert cloth, Oursine, Delphine.

—You should make haste to meet these new wraps—tomorrow—at Bullock's Women's Garment Section, Third Floor.

DRESSES—in Bullock's Women's Garment Sections are fully aware of their importance in the wardrobe this Spring.

—Silhouettes vary between straight outline, tight fitting waist and full skirt.

—New Piquetine and Tricotine Dresses are mostly of the latter type.

—Some Wool Dresses are elaborately beaded, while others pin their faith to embroidery.

—The Taffetas have a love of tunics embroidered — some straight lines, others bouffant.

—Afternoon Frocks of light colored Georgette are beaded—some are made with ruffles forming skirt, others with large tucks—others are trimmed with lace dyed to match the color of the Georgette.

—Dinner Gowns of Canton Crepe in pink, orchid, flame, apricot as well as pastel shades, are more than usually beautiful.

IS THE PHOTOPLAY DRAMA?

Two Books on the Art of the Cinema, Its Technique and Its Future—One From Columbia, the Other From the Lot.

CINEMA CRAFTSMANSHIP. A Book for Photoplaywrights. By Frances Taylor Patterson. Harcourt, Brace & Howe, New York.

HOW TO WRITE PHOTOPLAYS. By John Emerson and Anita Loos. The James A. McCann Company, New York.

The interest in the technique of the photoplay is responsible for the numerous books written on that subject. The changing character of the cinema productions and the new ideas of the men in control of the business call for new books on the subject at frequent intervals, for the cinema is nothing if not timely.

Miss Patterson, author of "Cinema Craftsmanship," is instructor of photoplay composition in Columbia University. While she has the academic point of view she is nevertheless thoroughly familiar with the inner workings of the machine and with the newer tendencies in the photoplay world. She has written a book with a background, as is to be expected from one who has studied the drama and the novel from the technical side and sees the motion-picture drama not as an isolated form of expression, but as related to other forms.

Miss Patterson's point of view is expressed in the second chapter in these words: "Although the photoplay is a new art it has much in common with the older arts, and borrows from them, if you will, certain laws, principles, and appeals. From pantomime it borrows the art of expressing thought through motion; from painting it borrows the art of pictorial composition; from sculpture it takes the graceful lines and groupings of human figures, and from the drama it borrows the element of plot and the revelation of character through action."

In the chapter on plot construction the author applies the principles of the drama to the photoplay, with such changes as the subject demands. The increasing importance of character in the cinema play is dwelt upon, as the author is convinced that the photoplay is moving in the right direction in its recent tendency to make character paramount. She declares that "the more progressive and ambitious motion-picture firms are looking for stories containing noble thoughts and sparks of enthusiasm, with real human people who have real purposes in life, and with the dramatic situations springing from the clash of wills or ideals."

But with all her optimism the author is quite well aware of the fact that the cinema composer "must temper the sails of his artistic standards to the wind of commercialism," though she is convinced that this can be done without sacrificing artistic merit if only the writer will study his medium and not insist upon totally disregarding the rules and limitations that arise from the very nature of the cinema play.

A suggestion that holds forth hope for that "uplift in the movies" which has been so long promised has to do with the distributing of photoplays. Miss Patterson points out that at present each producer strives to send out plays with a universal appeal. He has no audience nor class of audience in mind; no one type of theater. "Each for all and all for each" is his slogan. She sagely remarks that in order to make a picture that will appeal to everybody, either the intelligence of the educated people must be insulted or the capacity of the lesser mentalities must be slighted while the meaning of the picture passes over their heads. The solution offered is a simple one. It is to have different types of pictures to suit different types of theaters.

While it might happen that a photoplay designed to tickle the fancy of the hoi-polloi would attract only the supposedly discriminating or high-brow part of the public, the idea has possibilities. As it it now there seems to be little difference in the class of plays the different theaters present, although the higher-priced houses have the first run.

Recently in discussing with a reader for a motion-picture company the well-worn topic of why photoplays are in general so sensational, so melodramatic, so cheap and so saturated with sex, the one on the inside stoutly maintained that they, from the producer down to the gateman, knew better, but were obliged to "play down" to the public, which demands a happy ending, great clashes, vibrant scenes, melodrama, sex. And so, perforce, the producer must give them what they want.

In the gala days of the legitimate stage, even though melodrama flourished, there were at the same time, as there are now, excellent plays presenting life sanely, which played at the better-class houses and drew capacity audiences. In Robert Mantell's recent engagement here in Shakespearean reportoire the Mason was sold out performance after performance, which surely proves that there is no inconsiderable number of people who want the best and patronize it when they have the chance.

But cinema patrons have little choice. Many producers realize that there is a demand for the best and are endeavoring to raise the standard of their product, but the question of placing high-class plays only in selected high-class houses is one that seems to have been given little attention.

As for the future of the photoplay, it will always have its limitations and be in quite another class from the spoken drama, substituting as it does shadow for substance, the shell for the core, seeming for being, mechanics for life, but even so it may become something vastly better than it is now.

It may be a step in the right direction to inveigle eminent authors into the studio, as Goldwyn has done. These authors, caged and milk-fed, may be able to write drama to order so well suited to the camera as to lose nothing in the process of production. As to the quality of inspiration that will visit them when they are under contract

by
WALLACE IRWIN

A great romance of the California fruitlands by a Californian. Of interest to every American and especially to every Californian because it discusses with the utmost frankness the Japanese problem.

Gertrude Atherton
says of this novel:

"The book is an extremely important one. It has the charm of the born, not made, writer of fiction, and above all it has that integral humor which alone gives proportion. Although I should like to see 'Main Street' . . . scattered by the million . . . 'Seed of the Sun' is a far bigger book and of equal importance to the United States."

IRVIN S. COBB OF PADUCAH, KY.

Sketch of America's Genial Philosopher by a Brother of the Great Craft.

BY ELLIS PARKER BUTLER.
(From Obitat Dictum.)

[Mr. Cobb, of whom it has been said: "He depersonalizes humor; impales things instead of people and squeezes fun out of a situation instead of out of the heart of a friend," will speak in Los Angeles Monday, February 14.]

Up and down Main street, New York, and around the corner where the boys get together for lunch once a week, and all through the chain of clubs where the fellows think more of a good joke than of the club constitution, they have called this dahk-hai'ed gemman from Paducah (Kentucky) "Old Irv Cobb" so long and so affectionately that a lot of folks think he was christened that way. I had a notion myself that the "old" was a sort of affectionate diminutive for Old-Bourbon-bottled-at-the-still. Come to find out, his name is a regular three-jointed affair—Irvin Shrewsbury Cobb—and he had the label pasted on him along in the seventies. He came along as a sort of centennial souvenir, with the miniature liberty bells that the Paducahns keep on their what-nots.

But there is nothing miniature about Old Irv. He's the only real four-dimensioned humorist now in captivity, and any way you look at him you can observe that he has length, breadth, thickness and joviality. He is a great, big, juicy southerner, with a chuckle. And an appetite. He has written more good plain, wholesome food, and more rich, gravied, hard-to-digest food than any man living—and has eaten more. Just when our humor was getting thin and anemic, and heartless and sophisticated, Old Irv slid up from Paducah and brought along his appetite and his heart, and things looked more cheerful. The general run of us are "in New York," but Cobb is always "from Paducah." He knows every corner of New York, but sees it with the freshness of vision of a cub reporter of the Paducah Daily News. After hearing some 500 of his 7000 or more happy stories you get an idea that Paducah is a place where people go around with their human nature peeled, and where anyone could pick up chunks of humor and wads of character without trouble. The fact is that Cobb has the surest insight and the quickest perception of salient characteristics of any man since Mark Twain. If other people did not enjoy Cobb's stories more than he enjoys them it would be safe to say that Cobb enjoys them more than other people do. He has a chuckle at them before he passes them on.

There is no use trying to hide the fact that Cobb is not a parlor pet. I doubt if he ever wore a pair of lavender gloves in his life, and if he did he probably wore them to a funeral, in consort with a pink shirt with detachable cuffs, and then rode home with the driver of the hearse. If he did ride home with the driver he got a good story out of him between the cemetery and the livery stable. Cobb is a man's man. He has the subfoundation of the old-style southern—not New York Main street southern—chivalry, and knows how to be a gentleman in his shirt-sleeves. He does not have to trot the pink tea circuit for popularity. If he attended a tea he would spoil the tea and everybody would have a good time.

For six years Cobb chucked his collar and tie and pounded out special stuff for the New York Evening Sun and the Evening and Sunday World. It was hard, continuous work, and wore him down until he was hardly the size of two ordinary men, and the strain on his reservoir of humor was so great that some nights his dab of stuff was only twice as funny as anything else published that day. Since then he hasn't done anything but write a lot of the best stories ever written. Cobb himself doesn't know how good they are.

And proud! And reserved! And haughty! He's as proud and reserved and haughty as a traveling salesman trying to sell a bill of goods.

The first of Cobb's serious stories—before we read it—seemed a big mistake. Here was this man, in a land where the written laugh is worth more to many of us than three square meals, stepping aside from the sort of work that he was born

G. K. Chesterton, Master of Paradox.

CHESTERTON, MASTER OF PARADOX.

BY MYRON ZOBEL.

[Mr. Chesterton recently arrived in New York from London. He will tour the United States lecturing on art, literature and kindred subjects.]

It is a tribute to Mr. Chesterton's own skill at the business that I am dragging him in here in a discussion of English dramatists. For, by rights, Chesterton is not a dramatist at all, having only one single dramatic effort to his credit.

But Mr. Chesterton is the greatest dragger the world has ever encountered. And it is only due and fitting that he should in his turn be dragged in.

Of course nothing that I say about Chesterton will do you any good. There is an overflow of literary criticism, so-called as it is, when what people really need is not to read the critics of great authors, but to read the authors themselves.

Still, the temptation to get information at second hand, to have our thinking done for us and receive our intellectual doles of predigested reading is a powerful temptation.

Also the temptation to cater to this popular weakness by feeding a lazy public on literary pabulum is also a powerful temptation—and I yield to it.

If only in the hopes that digging thus into the literary remains of G.K.C. with my pen may cause somebody who has not done so before to read "Magic," that fantastic comedy in three acts without which G.K.C. might remain the essayist, the philosopher, the biographer, the critic of earth and heaven, but dramatist he would not be.

"Magic" is one of those curious examples of the one-play author. We have all seen men who could step up in a shooting gallery and hit the bullseye once—on the first shot. After that, if they had discretion they retired. If they were merely mortal, as they probably were, they shot, again and again, and missed the mark wide every time.

"Magic" is Chesterton's first shot in the dramatic bullseye. It is not a perfect shot—from a dramatic standpoint, it is full of technical flaws that to a skilled stage writer would seem intolerable, but it has hit the mark.

Now Chesterton's mark in "Magic" as in everything else he has ever written is first to confuse his reader to such a degree that he will set aside all standards of conventional reason and then to impose upon him quite naturally what he would call a sane view of life.

A sane view of life, according to G.K.C., implies the naive and primitive attitude. We are to be surprised at everything that happens. When we wake up in the morning and see that it is light we are to burst forth into paens of mirthful delight, for having the sane view of life we were willing to accept anything and would not have been at all surprised if the day had turned out a perfect lavender, or orange, or pale heliotrope instead of the prosaic mixture of colors that we call white.

Now this attitude of mind is most favorable to the practice of magic. Not magic as a set of tricks, of faked cards, false bottoms and finger strings, but magic as a sort of elemental mystery. In short, Mr. Chesterton is seeking to denude us of our ultramodern spirit of investigation, of our science, our skepticism, our heresy. "Magic" is a plea for the return of the faith in miracles.

If Mr. Chesterton had his way about it we would none of us ever get anything at all accomplished, we would forever be occupying our time with glancing down in wonderment at our own feet and exclaiming in the words of G.K.C.: "What are those two beautiful and industrious beings whom I see everywhere serving me I know not why? What fairy godmother bade them come trotting out of elfland when I was born? What god of the borderland, what barbaric god of legs, must I propitiate with fire and wine, lest they run away with me?"

This attitude of mind is not the sort likely to prove popular with an age that has practically abandoned the use of its legs entirely. It is even conceivable that an age eventually will come when these appendages will be dispensed with altogether. That, however, will not feaze Mr. Chesterton. As he himself says, there is an element of wonder to be found in everything. It is his duty, as it appears to me to appear to him, to keep this element of wonder alive and kicking in a skeptical and incredulous age.

And what I wonder at most, in reading "Magic" and the rest of G.K.C.'s delightful but baffling paradoxes, is that he does not some day convince himself that he is not a being at all—but merely a state of mind.

When once Chesterton has resolved himself into that the rest will be simple. As a state of mind he will be always an aristocratic state, his only popular or democratic tendencies will be those which tend to the love of simple-minded amusement.

His worshipers should always be children, for he appeals best to their unbridled fancies. We will call the last of him, therefore, an infantile state of mind, much spoiled by his elders.

OLD MADRIGALS.

ENGLISH MADRIGAL VERSE, 1588 TO 1632. Edited from the Original Song Books by E. H. Fellows. Oxford University Press, New York.

As a storehouse of lyric poetry of the greatest age of English literature very special consideration must be given the song books of that remarkable group of English musical composers who spread far the fame of English music during the brief half-century in the reign of Elizabeth and the first of the Stuarts.

Much of this poetry, Mr. Fellows tells us in his admirable preface, is forgotten except by the few students of the song books themselves. While various collections have been compiled at different times, this is the first complete collection made. This collection is not only complete, but is based solely on the originals. While the book is the result of long and scholarly research, the author has wisely adopted modern spelling and punctuation and has thus greatly widened its appeal and its usefulness.

Since the Elizabethan song books belong to two distinct classes, those of the madrigal composers and those of the lutenists, the lyrics are so arranged in this book, which thus naturally falls into two parts, the Madrigals and the Lutenists.

In Part I are the Madrigals of John Wilbye and many lesser poets, while in Part II we find much of John Bennet, William Boyd, Orlando Gibbons, Francis Pilkington, Thomas Campian, John Cooper, William Corkine, John and Robert Dowland, Thomas Ford, Philip Rosseter and others.

A full table of contents, index to first lines and copious notes for each part are features of this book that help to make it one of rare interest to all lovers of English music and English poetry who are not superficially inclined.

HIGH ROMANCE.

"PRINCESS PIRLIPATINE AND THE NUTCRACKER," by Alexandre Dumas. Translated and continued by O. Eliphaz Keat and illustrated in color by Violet Dale; Brentanos, New York.

Sh! want a really, truly story of the land that never was, of the machinations of the Mouse Queen against the Princess, all set forth in Rabelaisian style, but not in the vein of the great French master? Then read this book. He who wrote "The Three Musketeers" is responsible for this venture into the land of the fairy folk, but Mr. Keat has rounded it out and made a completed whole of what was but a fragment. Princess Pirlipatine, only daughter of the king of a land that was neither Polish nor Austrian nor Hungarian nor Italian nor Swiss, was the sweetest little girl that ever was seen, and the idol of the kingdom. Then came the Mouse Queen and set a mouse's head atop her pretty little body. But at last the Mouse Queen gets her just deserts and Princess Pirlipatine gets back her pretty little head and the Nutcracker—but why spoil the story for you?

HEAR "BETTY"—SOME SONG.

RECENT FICTION.

"POOR WHITE." By Sherwood Anderson. B. W. Huebsch, New York.

Let us consign the great American novel and the fictionist who rediscovers America to the limbo of myths.

There is no great American novel; there can be no great American novel, because the country is too big, because our interests are too many. In other words, this is not a homogeneous nation.

Now for the fictionist who rediscovers America. When Mr. Anderson's "Wineburg, Ohio" appeared certain critics said it marked the point of our literary adolescence. The same critics are hailing "Poor White" as testifying to our literary majority, as the rediscovery of America.

Now the hero of this tale is a "poor white," the son of a drunken river man. The son has inventive genius, which is put to work by others at about the time that America is finding itself after the lethargy that followed the Civil War. It is a time of mighty industrial impulse and the creations of Hugh McVey's mind are turned into fortunes for himself and others. But Hugh is timid, dreamy, rather stupid. He is used, then tossed aside.

In this book there are large sweeping canvases. Mr. Anderson is not a word master, but he knows how "to sling the paint," to use some words that he might have used. I believe the book will attract widespread attention, then be forgotten. It is not big enough, vital enough to live.

Moreover, if there was any rediscovery of America, any pregnant use of the newer industrialism as a precursor of other books of its kind, the palm belongs to a man who stands head and shoulders above Mr. Anderson. I refer, of course, to Henry B. Fuller, author of "With the Procession," "The Cliff Dwellers," "The Chevalier of Pensieri-Vani" and other books.

In "With the Procession," Mr. Fuller has made the newer industrialism, the mad pant after gold, power and the flesh pots, vital in no uncertain way against a Chicago background. This book was issued in 1895, and is still to be found on the shelves of some of the older bookstores.

As for "The Chevalier of Pensieri-Vani," it is one of the finest things ever done by an American. It is as fine as anything that Henry James ever wrote, and it has more of the smack of things American. "The Cliff-Dwellers" is a novel that you should ask your father about. He read it years ago, if he read anything, and doubtless he remembers it.

PASSENGER. By Helen Dircks. George H. Doran Company, New York.

Frank Swinnerton writes in the preface:—"Two years ago, when she was barely out of her teens, Miss Dircks published in England a small book of verses called "Finding," and it was because of my admiration for that book that I first made acquaintance with the author. While the book was obviously the work of a young girl, its contents showed what is to me the greatest and most priceless quality any writing can have—the quality of a beautiful candor. You may go far among books of verses, and you still may seek in vain for such a thing. Miss Dircks is not 'in the movement;' she is seeing the world for herself. Each of her poems is the natural, spontaneous crystallization of a mood. Her first aim is to record very candidly something warmly felt, or seen, or thought—something personal and true—which has come to her like a little flash of feeling from the unknown. She is speaking very clearly from her heart; and if her emotion is ever too difficult for the medium she has chosen the obscurity is always due to fear of overemphasis, and is never the obscurity of a dealer in verbal conceits. Her poems are not as imposing as some other poems, and they are not as a rule highly polished gems; but they have a reality which to me is worth all the accomplishment in the world. They are the expression of a nature still beautifully fresh, still responding sensitively and individually to all sorts of impulses and impressions which the duller minds and hearts of other have ceased to feel. That is to say, the artlessness of the poems is the art of simplicity, which springs happily from the delicate and tender freshness of their inspiration, and one must not think to have explored this book's beauty in a single reading of its pages."

Since Mr. Swinnerton wrote the preface to this book he has married its author.

PIGS TO MARKET. By George Agnew Chamberlain. The Bobbs Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

Three tales, all in lighter vein, bordering on the farcical. The first is an amusing account of the troubles of Mr. Pim and Mrs. Pim, beginning with the declaration of freedom and independence pronounced by Mrs. Pim, who desires her husband to so conduct himself as to give her cause for divorce, assuring him that this does not mean any lack of affection on her part, but is merely a reaching out after freedom.

The request sets Mr. Pim in action, lifts him out of his well-worn rut, releases his inhibitions, and turns him into a whirlwind that blows even Mrs. Pim off her feet.

Mr. Blurt returns to New York after ten years of fortune making. Like Mrs. Pim, he, too, wants to be free, not from his wife, for he has none, but from his past. Mr. Blurt sets out to find the door to freedom—illimitable freedom. What follows makes the story. The third story is of Simple Simon.

NIGHT AND DAY. By Virginia Woolf. George H. Doran Company, New York.

Mrs. Woolf is already known in this country through her much discussed and vitally individual book "The Voyage Out." "Night and Day" is in a lighter vein, a comedy of life and manners, witty, occasionally bitingly satirical, revealing unusual insight.

Katharine, sensitive, lonely in spirit, descendant of a brilliant family, and Ralph, rebellious, introspective, of no family at all, and their curious relationship, are the center of the story about whom cluster a group of well-drawn characters: Sally Seal, Joan, and best of all, Mrs. Hilberry, who had known all the great personalities of her time.

Virginia Woolf, author of "The Voyage Out" (Doran,) is the daughter of Sir Leslie Stephen. She was educated at home chiefly by her father. Even before the publication of "Night and Day" and "The Voyage Out," she attracted much attention in English literary circles by her articles which appear regularly in The Times literary supplement and the Athenaeum.

DESTRUCTIVE CRITICISM.

THE THEATER, THE DRAMA, THE GIRLS. By George Jean Nathan. Alfred A. Knopf, New York.

The truth, like murder, will out. George Jean Nathan has in the past repeatedly asserted that he was a destructive critic, but for some unaccountable reason his contemporaries in this country steadfastly refused to admit it. Now, however, the truth has come to light. A shrewd critic on the staff of the Manchester Guardian says so, and Mr. Nathan, with becoming modesty, admits the soft impeachment.

If you have any doubts as to the joy which this charge brings to Mr. Nathan's tortured soul, read his plea of guilt on page 63 of his latest, to use one of his own pet words, "confection" which comes to us under the intriguing title, "The Theater, the Drama, the Girls."

In admitting that he is a destructive critic we may confidently expect that he will preface all his books in the future with this modest admission—he says: "First I am a destructive critic, taking me on the whole, because I deal chiefly with elements that are themselves most often artistically destructive. And secondly, if I have taken little that was noble out of the theater, the theater has taken much more that was noble out of me."

Lest those who read his criticisms of the drama may be in doubt as to his qualifications for sitting in judgment on that vehicle of artistic expression he informs us that "It is now sixteen years that I have been depositing my person professionally in theater seats. In that period I have sat before the stages of ten different countries and have given the studious eye to 4000 or 5000 diverse exhibits."

All of which is very interesting if true, but admitting [illegible] true, I still question its [illegible] ity as an argument which [illegible] analysis as to why Mr. Nathan's judgments should be accepted [illegible] those say of Brander Matthews [illegible] William Winter totally [illegible] I might even make so bold as to [illegible] agree with some of Mr. Nathan's findings though I claim no [illegible] libility either as constructive [illegible] destructive critic.

In fact, I strongly suspect that Mr. Nathan, like his confrere, Henry L. Mencken, delights in taking a position that is "[illegible]" [illegible] ognized and authoritative [illegible]. These two worthies, who unquestionably show sparks of cleverness [illegible] is akin to genius in spots, have determined to make for themselves a position that will raise them above what they so scornfully designate the "mob." They would be the aristocrats of American literary and dramatic criticism, occupying as it were a tall mountain from which like two bald eagles, they look down upon the rest of the world and brood over the lack of artistic appreciation shown by the "[illegible]" who constitute the vast majority of this America of ours.

The book is, however, readable, more so, unfortunately, than the books of saner men who [illegible] write on the subject of the drama. Its readableness consists in [illegible] while you want to take the [illegible] by the scruff of the neck and shake him thoroughly one minute, the very next paragraph will charm away your quills and the gorge that was rising and threatening to choke you will assume its normal place in your system and be replaced by a series of chuckles. It is a book that may be taken in large or small doses and at frequent intervals, if not taken seriously.

FOR THE ANGLER.

"TROUT FISHING; MEMORIES AND MORALS." By H. T. Sheringham. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston and New York.

I am a fisherman more in the breach than the observance, in that I have never cast a fly but like fishing books. Long, long ago I started to make a collection of Walton's "Compleat Angler," with the result that I now have [illegible] am angling for more.

Mr. Sheringham is the [illegible] editor of the London Field and [illegible] of the best-known fly fishermen [illegible] angling writers in the world. He has fished the streams that were fished by Walton and his collaborator, Cotton, and others of whom they knew naught. Moreover, he makes a readable book out of his experiences, though for the [illegible] reader he runs somewhat to technical terms. However, Mr. Sheringham is writing for enthusiasts, not for the mere crass Waltonian. The book is illustrated.

SOCIETY.

Malcomb of Long Beach, Maj. Copp of Los Angeles, E. H. Calkins of Los Angeles, and J. H. Logie, William Hartmann, Harry Horne and C. H. Clock of this city.

The boys of the university had their annual "stag" night last night and it was a great success. Colin Ogden was in charge. Burr Belden gave a talk, Clyde Cook presented boxers and wrestlers, Bill Troyer and Jot Troyer gave a skit, Prof. M. M. Merrill spoke, and talks by Coach Cunningham, Fred Flower and Clyde Reid.

Mrs. John Allen entertained sixteen friends with bridge at her home on Walnut avenue. Those present were Mmes. H. M. Wirs of Philadelphia, Ray Fairchild, G. F. Humphrey, H. A. Hargraves, E. P. Whitney, C. F. Cochran, J. M. Cole, Joe Taylor, C. B. Stone, H. H Lineau, Harry Kennedy, L. A. Cartlidge, M. A. Cavanaugh and Charles Sauer.

In honor of Miss Susan Henry, who is to be married next month, and her house guest, Miss Helen Buck of Cleveland, O., Mrs. Charles Ary entertained. The guests were Mrs. Edward Henry, Mrs. A. B. Ogden, Mrs. Thomas Goodman, Mrs. Vernelle Lloyd, Mrs. Walter Chace and Florence Lloyd, Lorena Workman, Mildred Howell, Dayle Gregg and Ruth McIver.

Mrs. J. S. Crepe of East Highland entertained a number of her Redlands friends with a luncheon during the week.

Mrs. Jonathan Brooks and Mrs. E. J. Eytinge were joint hostesses at the Eytinge home with a buffet luncheon and bridge party. The guests were Mrs. W. M. Kerr, Mrs. Raymond Hornby, Mrs. J. J. Suess, Mrs. H. A. Cherrier, Mrs. J. O. Riddel, Mrs. F. P. Morrison, Mrs. Robert Herold, Mrs. C. F. Smith, Mrs. John Scott Burns, Mrs. J. Morrison Colwell, Mrs. W. D. Bethel, Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. H. A. Bates, Mrs. C. F. Cochran, Mrs. E. M. Buffum, Mrs. Charles Marsh, Mrs. H. Tyler and the Misses Campbell and Bates.

The girls of the University of Redlands had a party at the chapel hall on Thursday night and it was a jolly affair. Those on the program were Clarice Nicholson, Ruth Cruickshank, Catherine Hockerlidge, Miriam Davis, Constance Dunham, Ruth Violett, Marian Boulette, Dorothy Pitts, Ruby Newman, Miss Ruth Murphy, Freda Heineman, Virginia Jones, Gladys Garstang, Kathleen Wilkes, Sallie Davis, Viola Peeler and Mildred Hunt.

EAGLE ROCK CITY.

The Junior Music Club's contest that was held at the Women's clubhouse on Saturday afternoon was a most interesting affair. There were fifteen contestants in the three different piano grades, and two on the violin. Charles Wakefield Cadman, Mrs. Gertrude Ross, and Miss Anna P. Wisher, presided as judges, and the prizes were won by Margaret Johnson, playing Godard's "Vales Chromatique," Aria Knoche, Cadman's "Love Song," and little Frances Baily, grade two, Cadman's "Among Northern Pines." The honors on the violin were won by Harry Gallagher, an 8-year-old member of the club. This contest promises to be a yearly affair.

Mrs. Archibald Fisk of 203 North Castle avenue tendered a reception on Saturday from 3 to 5 o'clock p.m. in honor of Mrs. O. H. Harshbarger, of San Francisco, State Regent of the D.A.R. Mrs. Lyman Stookey of Oakland, State Vice-Regent, and Mrs. George W. Patterson, State chairman of conservation and thrift. officers and members of the local chapter filled the prettily decorated rooms. After the refreshments, Mrs. Lida Hood Talbot, a writer of note and a house guest of Mrs. Fisk, told humorous stories and recited the poem of Richard Realf's, "Indirection." As there was an Eagle Rock chapter before this chapter's entrance, to the D.A.R. they have been given the name of San Rafael Hills chapter. Invitations have been issued to Masons, their families, and friends, with the Eastern Star members, to attend a colonial dance and card party at the Woman's clubhouse on Tuesday evening, February 22, at 8:30 o'clock. There will be a splendid orchestra to furnish the music for dancing, and those not wishing to dance, can either play cards or enjoy themselves in other ways.

The Thursday Morning Musical Club will meet at the home of Miss Ethel Congdon on North Hartwick on February 17, at which time the study of the life and compositions of Richard Wagner will be continued.

Invitations were issued by the San Rafael Hills chapter of the D.A.R. for a reception to be given at the home of the Misses Baily on Grand View avenue in honor of all the ex-service men of the valley, their wives, mothers or sweethearts, on Saturday evening, from 8 to 11 p.m. There was a pleasing program of music and readings, and light refreshments were served.

On Thursday evening, February 17, the Woman's Club will inaugurate a community evening, at which time all the new residents of Eagle Rock, as well as the old are invited to come and have a good time and get acquainted. A nominal fee of 25 cents will be charged to cover expenses of refreshments, etc.

The next meeting of the Junior Music Club will be held on February 19 at 3 o'clock at the clubhouse. Quite a number of new members will be added to their numbers, and the club members are urged to be on hand as their pictures are to be taken at that time, and work is to be started on the entertainment to be given in April.

OLINDA.

A very delightful Valentine party was given on Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. J. Travers, by the Woman's Association. The affair was in the form of a tea. Artistic and unique decorations commemorative of the little love god, beautified the spacious rooms. Wee Ruth Emery as cupid gave each guest a Valentine favor. Dr. Harriet M. Bingham of Anaheim gave a splendid talk, and Miss Helen Wishard of the Fullerton Union High School pleased, by her rendition of a group of songs. Mrs. Travers presided at the tea table where delicious tea and cakes were served. There were forty-five ladies present at this enjoyable afternoon.

An open meeting of the Foreign Missionary Society was held at the Travers home on Friday. Mrs. L. Shaffer of Los Angeles was very interesting in her knowledge of the American Indians, among which she has done much good work. Light refreshments were served by the ladies.

Olinda was well represented at the Pasadena Pilgrim Convention, Sunday. Among those to attend were Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Duel, Mrs. S. D. Peck, Mrs. MacQuarrie and daughters, James Stives and family, Mabel and Gladys Junker and Miss Helen Johnson.

Mrs. T. Ryan has as house guests Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Smith of Ohio, and Saturday Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith of Hollywood were dinner guests.

PLACENTIA.

The Silver Memorial tea given in honor of the memory of Miss Frances Willard, at the home of Mrs. A. Pierotti on Thursday was a most enjoyable affair. The beautifully appointed tea table was presided over by Mrs. Pierotti, assisted by Mrs. C. J. Tuffree, Mrs. Ora Lilly, and Mrs. Fay Dunham. An interesting program was led by Mrs. R. F. Coyle, and several musical numbers were given. There were forty guests present.

An informal family dinner party was given at the Louis Jacopson home on Carolina street, Saturday. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. Jacopson, and the M. C. Jacopsons of Los Angeles.

Wednesday was guest day with the members of the Round Table at the Woman's clubhouse. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Charles Fuller, Mrs. A. Bradford, Mrs. N. Robertson, and Mrs. M. Miller. A merry skit was presented by Mrs. L. Sammis. Refreshments of cake and tea were served by the several hostesses. Guests numbered a half hundred.

MONROVIA.

A very enjoyable affair was held recently at the home of Mrs. W. F. Loucks on East White Oak avenue, when the members of Section One of the Pastor's Aid Society of the Methodist Church gathered there for a regular meeting. About twenty were present for the afternoon, which proved very pleasant. Especially interesting was the "dollar social" part of the session, when each member told of how she had earned the money, which was later turned in for the missionary fund. Dainty refreshments and a social were enjoyed later. Hostesses for the afternoon with Mrs. Loucks, were Mrs. Negus, Mrs. James Day and Mrs. Laura Miller.

In compliment to Mrs. Theo Gibson (Miss Frances Tate) a recent bride, Mrs. Orval Emley entertained on Thursday evening with an informal card party. The affair was exceptionally charming. There were three tables, five hundred was the diversion of the evening, and when the scores were counted it was found that the guest of honor, Mrs. Gibson, had won the prize for high score. The consolation was awarded to Miss Frances Bellinger. Later in the evening a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess.

After a stay in this city of three months, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Owens left for their home in Oak Park, a well-known suburb of Chicago. Dr. and Mrs. Owens have been domiciled at the Swiss chalet and during their sojourn here made many friends. Their visit in this State extended over a period of five months.

Mrs. S. O. Peckham had as her luncheon guests on Tuesday, Miss Jane Pressley and niece, Miss Martha Moore, both of Erie, Pa. Miss Pressley is an old-time friend of the Beckman family, while Miss Moore was a classmate of Miss Anne Beckman at Mills College. Miss Pressley and Miss Moore are at the present time enjoying a short stay in Pasadena before going on to Oakland, where they will spend the remainder of the winter.

Mrs. W. M. Fouts of Panora, Iowa, is visiting at the home of her brother, Rev. Hohanshelt, this week. She is delighted with Southern California.

Preceding the dancing party of the Junior Foothill Dancing Club on Saturday evening, Miss Frances Wheeler entertained a number of the younger set at a delightful little dinner party at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. N. Wheeler of South Myrtle avenue. Guests were seated at one large table made attractive by its exquisite center piece of sweet peas. Glowing pink candles added to the beauty of the lovely appointments. Miss Wheeler's guests included members of the Beta Chi Nu Club, of which she is a member, and their escorts.

Dr. Anna Hohanshelt, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Hohanshelt of West Lime avenue of this city, spent Sunday at home here. She is an interne at the Los Angeles County Hospital.

A quiet wedding took place on Sunday afternoon at the home of the Misses Shrom on South Canyon Boulevard, when their cousin, Mrs. L. S. Charters of Portland, Or., became the bride of Robert D. Cooper of Richmond, Va. The ceremony occurred just following a daintily appointed dinner, the couple taking their places in the midst of floral decorations attractively arranged by intimate friends. Rev. H. A. Fisk of the Presbyterian Church officiated, using the ring service. Mrs. Cooper for several years past has been superintendent of a department of work carried on by the Fruit and Flower Mission of Portland. Mr. Cooper is a veteran of the Spanish-American War, having served under Admiral Dewey and participated in the destruction of the Spanish fleet and the capture of Manila. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will be at home in Los Angeles after February 10 on Oak street.

Miss Beatrice Deming spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deming of East Lemon avenue. Miss Deming is a student at Redlands University.

Mrs. W. H. Morrow of Winnetka, Ill., arrived in this city on Saturday and is the guest of her sister, Miss Buckley of the Two B's tea and craft shop. Mrs. Morrow will probably be a Monrovia resident for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Coburn of Laurel, Neb., James Coburn, Mrs. Minnie Smith and Miss Allie Gid-

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach —and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—[Advertisement.

ARE "THUMBS DOWN" ON YOUR SUCCESS?

Are "Hard Times" Causing You Worry or Distress?

How you may make money and "get ahead" in spite of "hard times" and business depression

In the days of the old Roman Arena "THUMBS DOWN" from the audience meant death to the wounded and fallen gladiator; Thumbs up was the signal to let him live.

Today "THUMBS DOWN" on your BODILY and MENTAL VIGOR may mean FAILURE AND FINANCIAL RUIN to you. It is the strong keen red blooded man who is the most certain to win and come home with the "CASH"—many of the others are going to fall under the terrible spell of "thumbs down" just like the weak, unnerved man in this picture. This poor man is trying hard to get up but he hasn't the bodily and mental vigor and the necessary iron in his blood to give him the strength, force and "will power" to overcome the obstacles caused by "HARD TIMES."

YOUR BRAIN CANNOT WORK RIGHT—think the thoughts that are most certain to bring success—when you lack bodily and mental vigor—A great business man has said that genius is nothing but a capacity for hard work—A wizard is generally a man who thinks longer and harder than the other fellow—That "INDEFINABLE SOMETHING" that wins is often nothing more than an "iron-will" supported by IRON BLOOD—With these two things nothing can stop you—without them, everything is uncertain.

IRON IS THE MASTER PRINCIPLE OF THE BLOOD and BLOOD IS LIFE. It is the iron in your blood that carries oxygen to your brain. Without iron your brain gets no oxygen. Without oxygen and plenty of rich red blood, your brain becomes dull and heavy; YOUR INTELLECT IS POOR; YOU MAKE BAD DECISIONS; DO FOOLISH THINGS; your memory often fails—no matter how smart you may be by nature, in your weakened physical and mental condition, you are certainly no match for the strong, keen, clear headed man with plenty of iron in his blood. Although you may give two men the same firearms or swords in a battle, the strong vigorous fellow always has a decided advantage over a weak tired-out opponent.

WITHOUT IRON YOUR BLOOD ALSO LOSES ITS POWER TO CHANGE FOOD INTO LIVING CELLS AND TISSUE and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it. In fact sometimes the more you eat the more you starve, as your digestive organs are unable to handle much food when your blood lacks iron and you often think you have stomach trouble, when it isn't that at all. Simply eat less and take iron. There are 30,000,000,000,000 Red Blood Corpuscles in your blood and each one must have iron. DON'T TRY TO "FOOL YOURSELF" into thinking you are a man of "blood and iron when" you have good reason to suspect that you are not—CONSIDER THE SIZE OF YOUR BANK BALANCE what success you have had in life—A MAN IS ONLY PART OF A MAN WHEN HIS BLOOD LACKS IRON.

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Has the Greater Influence?

BY DOROTHY DIX.

Adam started it with his "The woman me, she did persuade me" stuff, and such a good alibi for whatever man wants and leave undone that he has pushed it for worth ever since. The man who succeeds who fails, the one who runs straight who goes crooked, the strong man and one, each shelters himself behind a petti- says "The woman did it."

isn't true. All that a wom- for a man, either of good is to be an accelerator. She his speed up and down- but she can't set him going. is a self-starter.

matter of fact, man's in- over woman is a million greater than woman's influ- man, and if men would trouble to study women study them, and to use knowledge in working woman use theirs in work- they could truly mould sex individually, as well tively, to their heart's de-curious to note, in this con- that while we prate of wom- over man, and how it is, man's influence over is not only greater, but far lasting than her's over him. has never been able to to any high moral level, set her feet in the straight way, and kept them there are just as many with a taste for liquor, and for dallying along the path, as there are men, but influence over woman has enough to keep women, sober and virtuous.

speaking, every woman's is in trying to please dresses to try to catch eye. Because men are to admire curly locks, mil- women sleep with their hair in steel knobs that render possible. Because no man fat woman, thousands upon of women starve them- and put themselves through exercises. Because men to fancy little feet, feminine sex hobbles agony, in shoes two sizes for them and on jay-bird make every step discount of the early Christian man's influence over man enough to make him risk by the way he dresses, deny himself a single he likes to eat, in order may present a pulchritudinous appearance to her, and find favor with her.

Such influence as the individual woman may have over the individual man, she attains by long and patient study of his character. By means of that, a few women find out the combination that works their husbands, but you seldom find a husband who thinks it worth while to take the trouble to study his wife and ascertain how to influence her to do the things he wishes her to do.

When you do find such a man, you observe that his dominance is complete. His wife is as wax in his hands, and she lives, and breathes, and has her being through him, and would consider it almost sacriligious to have a thought or opinion of her own.

Men have made women what they wanted them to be. Women have even been chameleon enough to change to meet the need of the passing hour with men, as we all witnessed in the great war, when, at a moment's notice, girls who appeared to be nothing but silly, useless, painted butterflies, became stern heroines, as fit to fight with men as they had been to dance with men.

But women have no such power over men. When a woman influences a man, it is along the lines he was already going. She seldom changes his course by a hair's breadth.

An evil woman can drag a weak man down, because he just naturally follows the line of least resistance. She can turn him into a thief and a grafter. She can kill his ambition and make him a loafer and a tramp, but the best woman in the world cannot change a crook into an honest man, nor can she supply a spineless man with a backbone.

The most cruel lie in the world is the fiction about the power of woman's influence over man. It has wrecked the happiness of untold number of generous-hearted women, who had been taught to believe that they could take any sort of clay of a man and make him over into fine porcelain that would be a fit vessel to hold the incense of their love.

It has made ambitious girls marry ne'er-do-wells under the illusion that they infuse their own energy into them. It has made pious women marry drunkards, and rogues, and gamblers, under the fatuous faith that all they needed was a wife's sacred influence to make them lead the higher life.

And they found that a woman's influence only helps the man to do the thing he was going to do anyway. If he is ambitious it speeds him up, but it doesn't inspire the lazy man with the desire to work. If he is sober and upright, it keeps him that way, but it doesn't prevent the drunkard from thirsting for a highball, nor the philanderer from chasing a petticoat, nor take away the lure of chance from the gambler. For the thing a man will not do for the sake of his own manhood, he never does for a woman.

Undeniably the two sexes have great influence over each other, but man's influence is far greater over woman than woman's over man.

Making More Money.

Woman Makes Steady Income by Watching for Unsuccessful Bidders at Auction Sales.

In the smaller type of city, where most everybody knows everybody else, there is one easy and profitable way of adding to one's income which is almost entirely overlooked—as one woman discovered somewhat less than a year ago.

This woman, who must be nameless because she does not care for her friends to know the manner in which she adds to her "pin-money," chanced to attend an auction sale one day and, glancing around at those present, noted that the crowd included a number of women whom she knew, at least by sight.

Virtually every piece of furniture or household equipment was bid upon by one or more of these women, but most of them did not bid high enough. "At any rate," thought the Woman Who Used Her Eyes, "they would all be excellent prospects for a furniture store. I wonder that establishments of that kind don't send a man to auction houses to secure the names of unsuccessful bidders on furniture—and then approach them for orders on new pieces."

Then, on the heels of this thought, came the idea: Why not make a list of the women who had bid, take it to one of the larger stores in town, and request a commission upon all sales which were the direct result of this information? No sooner thought than done and about ten days later, the Woman Who Used Her Eyes, found a check for $12 in her morning's mail—a five per cent commission on the first sale made from her suggested "prospect list." Since then she has received a number of other and larger checks and she maintains that browsing around auction rooms is one of the most profitable of spare-time occupations.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

"Ain't" Such a Animal.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] California grape juice ferments from 10 to 20 per cent alcohol, and that is not light wine. Be not deceived: there is no light wine, except water wine.

Not content with drunken wine obtained by fermentation, more alcohol is obtained by distillation from part of the fermented wine, and added to the other part, increasing the alcohol content to twenty-five per cent, and called sweet wine. Fermented wine is a mocker, and in the language of one of the Los Angeles pioneer wine makers, Matthew Keller, is "Hell's Broth."

Wine and beer have caused more immorality and murders than all of the other poison drinks; and woe unto the licensed voter who putteth the bottle to his neighbor's lips and maketh him drunken also. Wine and beer have been the curse of the ages, and are now outlaws in the United States.

Every county in Southern and Central California voted dry at last election. The entire State voted dry by 11,000 majority outside of San Francisco, and San Francisco has no vineyards. Every State voting on enforcement of the law, except California, went dry at the last election, and New Jersey is now returning to loyalty.

Grapes are worth more for food than for drink. And the men who in their madness snatched themselves baldheaded and tore up their vines are now repenting of their folly. The vineyards are producing more wealth for food than ever for drink, and a better citizenship is assured.

The infinite law of cause and effect abides forever. Alcoholic wine is a mocker, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. The fruit of the vine is a blessing, but hell's broth is always a mocker and a curse. The Bible has not been repealed.

Speak to the government at the ballot box. The star-spangled banner still waves. Sustain the Eighteenth Amendment and the enforcement laws without fear or favor, with malice toward none and charity for all.

WILL D. GOULD.

Treat 'Em Rough.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I wish to congratulate The Times for the moral courage shown in its article on "Criminal Impropriety."

In that article are many "Gospel truths."

What a great blessing to humanity it would be, if the public press in general, would show the same moral courage in exposing our national tendency toward human degeneracy.

The city of Paris is accredited with being the most indecent and immoral city on earth. Its 85,000 licensed female degenerates establish and display the seminude costumes that are becoming so prevalent in America.

"Oh, would some power, the gift, give women
To see themselves as men folks see 'em."

"Oh, you women, are you void of shame?" If you are not, then prove it by discarding Paris styles.

Come on Times, hit 'em hard, and treat 'em rough! That's the boy!

G. W. BUTTS.

No Creed or Color.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The City Council has passed an ordinance making it unlawful for "aliens ineligible to become citizens of the United States" to use the municipal tennis courts or golf course.

Let us consider for a moment. Griffith Park was donated to the city of Los Angeles as a "people's recreation ground."

According to the donor, in a communication adressed to the City Council in December, 1912, "Public parks are a safety valve of great cities and should be made accessible and attractive, where neither race, creed nor color could be excluded."

Truly Los Angeles is a great city and the legislation enacted in its behalf should be as broad as the city is large.

Let us not overlook the fact that all men are equal on two fields: in the field of sports and the battlefield.

The Secret of Charm Never Changes

Throughout the ages it exerts its power—this charm to which the world bows, changing history and making queens—of nations as well as hearts.

Few can describe it, for charm doesn't depend upon beauty alone. The woman who wields it may be dark or fair, of any race or type.

Only this is certain—she has a perfect skin, fresh, youthful, free from blemishes—the irresistible attraction which all understand and admire.

Begin today to give your complexion the care it needs and this charm will also be yours. It's a beauty secret of ancient Egypt and the beautiful Cleopatra.

Before you sleep, cleanse with Palm and Olive oils

Bad complexions are largely due to lack of proper cleansing. The pores become clogged, then enlarged, then irritated. Blackheads and blotches follow.

Soft and flabby skins often show the lack of a cold water tonic. Rough skins are often caused by using harsh, irritating soaps.

The best preventive is a daily cleansing with Palmolive soap. It makes a balmy, creamy lather, for the base is palm and olive oils. A gentle massage makes it penetrate. A rinsing takes it out, and with it come all accumulations which have clogged the skin.

Finish with a dash of cold water. Then your skin will be fresh and rosy, clear, soft, smooth.

Done at night, with a finishing touch of cold cream, this means that all night long your skin will have a needed chance to rest and breathe.

A lesson from stage women

All women can learn something from the women of the stage, who use much rouge, much powder.

But they remove them before they sleep. And with them the oil, the dirt and perspiration which clog up the pores of the skin.

Their complexions will show you that they do no harm when skins are treated the right way.

Only 10c, yet supreme

Palmolive soap costs little, yet it forms the best skin soap the world ever knew. It employs palm oil from Africa, olive oil from Spain. It combines them in a perfect emollient.

It soothes while it cleanses, softens while it cleans. No price can buy anything better.

The Palmolive price is due to the fact that millions have come to employ it. And we have worked for years to bring it within the reach of all.

On dry skins it is well to apply cold cream, both before and after washing.

Ancient beauties knew the way

Roman beauties, in their famous baths, used palm and olive oils. Egyptian beauties used them in Cleopatra's time.

Now modern science finds no better way to beauty than by scientific blending of these oils.

REBUILD OLD GRIFFITH STUDIOS IS PROJECT.

The old studios at Sunset and Hollywood boulevards, where many of D. W. Griffith's pictures were made, including "The Clansman," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World" and many others, have been taken over by the Independent Films Association of Chicago, and according to Eddy Eckles, president and general manager of the organization, will be partially rebuilt.

Four companies are already engaged in the actual filming of stories for the screen at the old studios, which will henceforth be known as the Independence City studios. The companies are the Pinnacle Productions of which Neal Hart is the star, the Pinnacle comedies, featuring Max Roberts; the Arthur Gooden Productions starring Ray Gallagher and the Tattenham Productions of which Pete Morrison is star. The directors of these units are Webster Cullison for the Neal Hart company; James Clements, Max Roberts; Charles Roberts, Ray Gallagher, and George Beranger, Pete Morrison.

The personnel of the Independent Films Association is announced as follows: Eddy Eckles, president and general manager; Harry Rice, vice-president and business manager; N. A. Woody, treasurer; Howard Robertson, auditor, and H. E. Belford, sales manager. Other officers include Arthur Gooden, Sam Cline and Hugh Woody.

SOCIETY GIRL IN FILMS.

Miss Kathleen Myers, young society girl from New York and daughter of G. M. Myers, head of the Chrome Steel Works of New Jersey, has been engaged to play opposite Lloyd "Ham" Hamilton in a comedy just started at the Glendale studio. Miss Myers has had only a few months' experience in shadowland, having played opposite Chester Conklin in two pictures for special.

HEAR "BETTY"—SOME SONG.

Peg o' Los Angeles goes buying

Skin of ostrich is used for making shoes, gloves and hand bags.

Imagine my joy on my recent return from Paris to find so charming a bit of that lovely city transplanted into our very midst! At this clever Patisserie et Confiserie of the celebrated Maurice I can order my favorite "Chateaubriand aux Pommes Souffles" and a "Gateau Saint Honore" with "Nougatine" with perfect safety, knowing that they will be prepared in the wonderful French way and delicious beyond words! At 715 W. Seventh you will be delighted with the atmosphere of pleasant camaraderie and perfect French cuisine at luncheon, tea or dinner.

Canton crepe—that smartest of new material for frocks—can be bought for only $3.60 a yard, in blue, gray and brown, at that busiest of little silk shops in the lobby of the busy Brack-Shops! And that wonderful Gros de Londres is sold at $2.45 a yard! Their prices are simply marvelous and are the same at their branch shop, 224 Pine ave., Long Beach.

Mrs. Lux has her own special way of making a permanent wave on her Nestle machine and she surely does wonders with all kinds of hair. She curls the finest hair without kinks and waves white hair without yellowing it; makes permanent marcels and gives a hair dress after the wave. Eighth floor, Brack-Shops. Phone 63332.

Individual hand-painted china breakfast sets are newest.

Maybe you would rather have a fur coat than those diamonds, since you never wear them? Well, take them to Fergusson, 206 Haas Bldg., he will offer you the present high prices for them and you will be so surprised when you learn the real value of the gems that you will gladly sell them to him and use the money for something you want.

Most anyone can have an aquarium or a fish pond in his yard or grounds, and they will add much beauty, too. They make a specialty of putting these in—the Allen Water Garden folks—and they can also furnish the goldfish and water plants at 1020 N. Vermont. Take South Hollywood car. Phone Wilshire 991.

Have you seen the alligator-calf hand bags?

A permanent wave is almost a necessity these days of bobbed hair and wonderful hair-dresses. Emma Atkin, who is an expert Nestle operator, makes most charming natural waves and also makes permanent marcels. She curls white hair without discoloring, also. Her new location is 822 West Seventh at L. M. Smidt's Hairdressing Parlors. Phones Main 647, Main 1203.

You cannot derive much pleasure from those diamonds you never wear, can you? If I were in your place, I would sell them and buy something really useful—say an automobile or a player piano! Hambright will gladly buy them and he'll pay top prices, too. You can see him at 811 Story Bldg., Broadway at Sixth.

Angofleece yarns, both for knitting and crocheting can be found at the Yarn Shops, 716 S. Grand ave., and in Pasadena at 388 E. Colorado. Instructions given.

Circular skirts seem to be awfully popular this spring.

I must urge you as usual to hurry up and have your furs remodeled while you can get those special prices before the rush! At the Bogue Fur Shop, 746 S. Hill. Some unusual clever work is being done in making over old furs into up-to-the-minute styles. They also have a lot of splendid bargains in smart chokers. Evelyn Myers, formerly of Colburn's, is manager.

Odds and ends of English porcelain and of Pope Gosser China will be on sale at Robinson's this week in their basement department—and it will behoove you to look into this if you are interested in picking up beautiful, as well as useful things for the dining-room. I noticed some English pottery which will be offered at a special discount.

Soft lines which do not disguise the figure are very popular for dressy gowns.

Eyelashes and eyebrows dyed permanently by a harmless process at Mrs. L. M. Smidt's Hairdressing Parlors, 822 W. Seventh. Regular price $5, with this notice a special price of $2. Phones Main 647 and Main 1203.

Beeman & Hendee are showing some fascinating new models of their famous Polly Primrose Frocks for little girls at 948 S. Hill. You will be charmed with those exclusive designs in beruffled taffetas.

The M. Frederickson Hair Company of 359 S. Hill st. has recently opened another shop at 723 S. Grand ave. This is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful salons of its kind in this country, complete in every detail pertaining to grooming and beautifying of miladi, from manicuring to baths and reducing treatments. Phones 61796, Main 6150.

Say, that chicken dinner can't be beat—it's real country cooking—and the gravy! Oh, my! I had it at the Breakers' Hotel on the Strand at Hermosa Beach. Why don't you run down some Sunday—there is a special week-end rate, too. Phone Hermosa 1474.

Gay chapeaux in high, bright colors are seen on every side, especially lovely are they with the somber black dinner gowns. You will not be surprised to know that Jack Lane's are showing many of these direct from Paris—in fact they say that never since the war have they been able to procure so many imported models as are now displayed in their clever shop, tenth floor, Brack-Shops. Their hats are always different and are unusually clever this year, enhanced with fruit, vegetables or willow plumes in draped effects.

Nothing is smarter for sports wear than those lovely knitted capes.

Superfluous hair, moles and warts removed by the electric needle. Located in business in Los Angeles twenty years. Anna M. Bergeron, top floor, Haas Bldg., corner 7th and Broadway. 12337.

Too fat? Too thin? Not exactly well? You can be brought to normal weight and measurements and be vastly improved in health by the Reiss system—without drugs or starvation. It's intensely interesting, too. 802 Title Guarantee Bldg., 220 W. Fifth. Phone 67815.

When freshening up the house this spring, don't overlook the "bit" which new pictures and new frames for old ones can do in this work! Such clever and artistic framing is done at the Phil S. Bernays Art Shop at 315 W. Third, and they have lovely pictures. Did you ever try coloring draperies with oil paints and gasoline—they have the paints!

A good, permanent wave is like naturally curly hair and the Hudgens Permanent Wave Shop always guarantees satisfaction! Some really quite wonderful work is being done here for children's hair and for bobbed hair. This is the oldest wave shop on the Coast and the largest west of New York, fourth floor, Brack-Shops. Phone 62863.

Theater De Luxe, today Priscilla Dean and Lon Chaney in "Outside the Law." Added attractions.

Ostrich feathers will be very popular for hats again this year.

Shall I tell you what I had for dinner at the Elite? I'll begin with dessert—'cause I would always rather, wouldn't you? Well, it was Boston cream pie—words can't describe it! There was Pate de Foi Gras, lobster cocktail, a most wonderful planked steak surrounded by mounds of snowy potatoes and other good things—and there was pear and Neufchatel cheese salad and delicious coffee and I guess that's all—wouldn't you like to try an a la carte dinner at 641 S. Flower?

Keep sweet, use "Ever-Dry" for perspiration! It has a dainty perfume and will not injure most delicate fabrics. Sold at best stores.

For tiny lads and lassies are those wee frocks and rompers designed at the Vanity Fair, 631 W. Seventh st. In many colors are taffeta frocks with cunning knickers to match—some delightfully decorated with hand embroidery.

Aggravating, isn't it—to have your string of pearls break and the pearls rolling in every direction? They couldn't do it if strung the "Howes Way" at the exclusive pearl shop of B. D. Howes & Son, fifth floor, Brack-Shops.

Such good service and generous portions and an unusual atmosphere at Helene's, 516 S. Western. Lunches 50 and 75 cents. Chicken dinners daily and turkey dinners Thursday and Sunday $1.

Cotton embroideries interwoven with tinsel threads embellish silken gowns.

Yes, they're capes—but yet so different! Such an air they have—as if they guessed their own importance in miladi's wardrobe! For to be entirely de rigeur one must possess one if not more of these clever wrappy affairs, which one sees in all their glory at that cleverest of toggeries, Seymour's, 617-619 S. Broadway. You would love that one of black cashmere duvetyn trimmed with black chenille and threads of gold, or that smart one of blue marvella enhanced with silver embroidery.

For miladi's chapeau grapes and cherries vie with each other for trimming.

Tourists often ask if they may visit the Pacific Coast School of Lip Reading. All interested in the deaf are welcome at Tuesday morning class. 608 Citizens' Bank Bldg.

The newest dress can be transformed in a jiffy from a street garment to a dinner gown or dance frock.

Have you seen the beautiful soft gray ostrich bands cascading over the hat brims? Your own feathers can be made into such a band. Take them to Vallely & Vatcher, 640 S. Broadway, sixth floor, opposite Bullock's. They can remodel your old marabout or can make one of those marvelous ostrich fans or the new glycerined effects. Get in before the Easter rush!

The very last word in up-to-the-moment handbags are shown at the Indestructo Luggage Shop, 224 W Fifth st. Those of alligator calf and beaver calf are just too smart for words—and there are such nifty bags of morocco, vachette and seal, too. There are a few vanities which will be sold this week at half price. You'll be delighted with all of them!

Plain black band rings of ebony are very chic for miladi's finger.

Every woman adores beautiful hand-decorated china, and it gives the home such a cheery atmosphere. Why not learn to do your own decorating and beautify your home at a nominal cost. You cannot help but learn under the instructions of the Markwell Art Studio, even though you think you are not talented; and their designs are most unusual. China decorated to order. 414 Severance Bldg., 105 West 6th st. Phone Main 1316.

Eyelet embroidery is cleverly used on both silk and serge dresses.

For slender purses was Everywoman's Shop ordained. Here you will find wonderful gowns and suits sold for a song! Just now there is a showing of imported models—a fetching little evening frock of blue and silver, a smart coat of jersey, coat of homespun and a clever street suit of Oxford gray and many others you will rave about at 448 S. Alvarado, one door north of Sixth. 558983. Open daily, also Monday and Thursday evenings.

Why allow your few gray hairs to show when Lois Hardin can so expertly tint them to match the rest? See her, at 306 Haas Bldg.

Those ebony bracelets are worn in pairs on miladi's bare arm.

How can I describe that delicious French taffy, except to say it will melt in your mouth? And the gods themselves would surely leave Olympus for ambrosia chocolate, such as I tasted at Paulais's today! All of their French chocolates are most delightfully concocted—pistachio and vanilla cordials, marron and orange bouchettes, divas and maccaroon cones. Stop in at 741 S. Broadway and try them yourself.

Dora Dean, formerly with Zan, now at 727½ S. Olive—is giving a dry shampoo with scalp treatment for 75 cents this week.

The Williams-Wear Hoover dress is a wonderful tub dress for house wear—but, it must be for your special figure. You will find what you need at 734 S. Hill, Williams-Wear department.

You can have lots of hats, if you learn to make them yourself. At the Camillus School of Millinery, sixth floor, Brack-Shops, fifty hours of training is given for $10, and you are expertly taught.

The old-fashioned silver-shot necklace is now worn 'round and 'round the arm for a bracelet.

Well, perhaps you can write a better scenario—why don't you try? Of course you must have ideas, and imagination, but you must know the little "ins" and "outs" of this interesting game in order to have your scenario efforts commercially valuable! A splendid course in scenario and continuity writing is given at the Pacific Secretarial School under the direction of James Dayton, a noted authority on these subjects. If you want to know just what the lessons are like, why don't you attend one of the lectures which are given Monday and Thursday afternoons at 224 W. Fourth, I. W. Hellman Bldg. Special rates for opening classes. Broadway 1775.

Taffeta, with softest chiffon, makes a youthful combination.

It is always a joy to lunch, tea or partake of the old-fashioned "homey" dinner at the Assembly Tea Rooms, whether it be the charming one in the Brack-Shops or its delightful sister at 7016 Hollywood Blvd. Phones 13857 and 578443.

Superfluous hair permanently and painlessly destroyed—entirely different from depilatory or electrolysis. Now, after more than twelve years' success, it is recognized a most effective, satisfactory and complete treatment of doing away with unsightly hair growths. Thousands of women are now using the Follicide Method, which can be used at home. Bring this notice for free demonstration. Best of references furnished. Mrs. L. M. Smidt's Follicide Beauty Parlor, 822 West Seventh street. Main 647, Main 1203.

Hoop ear-rings of ivory, jade, ebony or blue are the smartest ever.

Even as I write I am enjoying the most delightful concert—it seems the singer must surely be right here. But no, they tell 'tis that marvelous phonograph, the Brunswick, which is famed for its perfect reproduction! Wouldn't it be joy for you to possess one for yourself? They will demonstrate them for you at Lyon-McKinney-Smith's, 737 S. Hill.

Ornaments of cellophane and raffia are smartly worn on spring's chapeaux.

A spring showing of clever hats will be the offering this week at the Camillus Millinery, sixth floor, Brack-Shops. These unusually smart hats for street, dinner and evening wear will be sold at the very low price of $5 and $10.

Danderine is "Beauty-Tonic"

Immediately after a "Danderine" massage, your hair takes on new life, luster and wondrous beauty, appearing twice as heavy and plentiful, because each hair seems to fluff and thicken.

Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, plain or scraggly. You, too, want lots of long, strong hair, glistening with beauty.

A 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" freshens your scalp, checks dandruff and falling hair. This stimulating "beauty-tonic" gives to thin, dull fading hair that youthful brightness and abundant thickness. All drug counters sell "Danderine."—[Advertisement.

present her plan at the convention. She began in the home. Those plays which exert the best influence upon children as manifested in their homes are being tabulated. They are announced from club platforms and recommended to the mothers as the plays worth seeing. Avoiding condemnation of dangerous plays the club women ignore them and constructively further interest in the clean play.

HEALTH AND HOMES.

Public health, with Dr. Agusta Zuber as chairman, seems from its name to be apart from the home. But the public health cannot be good unless there is first of all proper sanitation in the individual home. The group cannot be free from infection unless the individual is safeguarded. Thus this department has its inception in the home and, going out from the home, returns there again in the results of its work.

Home economics, with Mrs. Evan Lewis as chairman, seems to have all to do with the home, yet it reaches out to national affairs in many instances. The government, for instance, is still sending out trained speakers to preach thrift in the home. The home budget system is recommended. In turn a national budget becomes popular, at least in thought.

Social service touches the home intimately as its chairman, Mrs Mary Ooman, has so often pointed out. No mother can be quite satisfied with the luster of little Lucy's perk taffeta if the grimy Griselda east of the river is shoeless and without proper bloomers. When she sees Griselda her satisfaction becomes satiety unless she does something to relieve Griselda's squalor. Each of the clubs of the district is doing something for many Griseldas.

Laws and Home.

Legislation—that department deserves a story to itself but legal, formidable as it may sound there is scarcely a bill indorsed by the legislation department, with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt as chairman, that does not have something directly to do with the home.

In conservation work Mrs. A. X. Wimos and Miss Helen S. Pratt are planning a program to show how reforestation, fire control, flood control and appreciation of beauty, value and the proper value of natural scenery and parks all have to have their origin in home training.

Country life Mrs. T. J. Walker will relate to the home. A back-to-the-home movement will run parallel with a back-to-the-country movement.

Miss Florence E. Ringle, as chairman of education, has wide scope in relating her department to the home. Mrs. Lillian M. Stephens in the drama department, has an intriguing subject with limitless, though not obvious possibilities. Mrs. L. A. Beebe, as chairman of industrial and social conditions, will emphasize the fact that the home cannot exist economically without proper industrial and economic conditions. Mrs. G. M. Swindell in her talks before clubs has already related political science remotely to the home and is planning to do so more intimately at the convention.

D. A. R.

Cabrillo Chapter, D.A.R., will meet at the Ambassador tomorrow at 2 p.m. Mrs. Julia M. Powell will speak on "The Life of Lincoln," and Mrs. Frederick Dow's subject will be "Thrift." A chorus of fifty voices will sing "America the Beautiful." Miss Welsh of Denishawn will appear in period dances.

P.-T. A.

Fathers' night will open the State convention of the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations to be held in Oakland May 24 to 28. The mothers' quartet and the fathers' quartet will sing groups of songs. There will be addresses by Gov. Stephens and Will C. Wood. Wednesday will be a busy day with the report of presidents representing 40,000 members of associations throughout the State. One thousand delegates are expected to attend the sessions. Mrs. Harry J. Ewing is president of the State organization and Mrs. Charles F. Gray of Los Angeles is vice-president. She will preside at many of the sessions.

Catholic Woman's Club.

On Wednesday Mrs. Harry Grady will take charge of or present a Spanish number through the courtesy of John McGroarty, who is allowing some of his mission players to perform for the Catholic Woman's Club as a special favor to Mrs. Grady.

The program will begin promptly at 2:30 p.m. to enable the performers to return to San Gabriel in time. Dr. John A. Constock of the Southwest Museum will complete the program of the afternoon by an address on "The Mission Indians."

Friday Morning Club.

At the public affairs section meeting of the Friday Morning Club last Tuesday C. W. Sirch, a consulting engineer, presented the arguments for saving the sewage in the proposed new sewer system to use as fertilizer.

"The plan of the City Engineer for an outfall sewer at Hyperion commits the city to an average expenditure per day of $1500 for chlorine gas and for handling screenings, in addition to the sum of $600,000 for a plant that is known to be both unnecessary and inefficient," Mr. Sirch stated.

Continuing, Mr. Sirch pointed out that, while the chlorine gas is meant to kill the bacteria of the sewage before it is wasted into Santa Monica Bay, it will not reach the bacteria because it will be consumed by the organic matter. But he says it will destroy the organic matter's value as a fertilizer. This contains the nitrogen, potash and phosphates so desirable ir commercial fertilizer and so difficult to obtain in as high per cent as the sewage contains.

These elements can be recovered and by their commercial value in an abundant market they can be made a source of large profit, in addition to the fact that such procedure would save the city the cost of gasing the sewage, he said. For these reasons, in his talk Mr. Sirch strongly advocated the recovery of the 132 tons now daily wasted into the ocean in Santa Monica Bay, which causes so many complaints from the beach cities. He emphasized further that in no place in the country is there a better market for this fertilizer than in Southern California.

Los Angeles Federation.

A president's council of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's Clubs is called for tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at the Shakespeare clubhouse with the Shakespeare Club of Pasadena as hostess. There will be discussion of revision of the constitution and plans for the convention at Pomona. The call is issued by the president of the district, Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley.

An important legislative conference is called for next Saturday at 2 p.m. in parlor D. Chamber of Commerce Building. A bill presented to the January session of the State Legislature will be discussed. Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, chairman of legislation for the district, will preside.

Because of a conflict of dates last Friday, the all-day program of the home economics department will be presented on the 25th inst. The session will be held at the Wednesday Morning Clubhouse and all the various departments that touch the home most intimately will be represented in this program. The hostess club will give the musical program and luncheon will be served at noon. Reservations may be made with Mrs. F. A. Hamilton, 1902 West Twentieth street, not later than the 21st inst. Mrs. Evan Lewis will preside. She is urging each club woman to feel it her special privilege to make the day a success, as it is the one big event of the year for this department of the district.

The Sisterhood.

"Great Messages in Prose and Poetry" will be presented in lecture-recital by Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith at the meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple B'nai B'rith Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Sylvain L. Lazard will preside. After a group of piano solos by Mrs. Joseph Levy an informal reception will be held.

Echo Park Mothers.

A reciprocity day program will be given by the Echo Park Mothers' Club on Friday, to which all the presidents in the district, or their representatives, have been invited, and all the members of the district executive board with Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, president, as chief guest of honor.

Professional Women.

Tomorrow night in the Assembly Tea Rooms of the Brack-Shops the Professional Woman's Club will give a dinner at 6:30 o'clock when Dr. Lulu Peters, a member of the club who recently returned from Red Cross work in Europe, will tell of her experiences in Albania and Serbia. There will be the regular business meeting at which Dr. Nannie C. Dunsmoor will preside.

Audubon Society.

The postponed lecture on the hawk family by L. E. Wyman, ornithologist, will be given before the Los Angeles Audubon Society on Thursday at 1:45 p.m. in the State Building at Exposition Park. The meeting will be open to the public.

The hawk is the king of flight with power to fly 200 miles an hour. Its eye is strong enough to spy an object twenty times the distance of the human eye and its muscular power will enable it to lift and carry off a large rabbit.

An old hawk and wife will consume twelve mice each in a day and a colony of hawks will kill 10,000 rodents in three months' time, while one marsh hawk, in its destruction of rodents, saves the farmer annually $58.40 worth of grain. Hawks mate for life.

Protective Association.

Every club president knows the trying experience of having a speaker on her program fail her at the last minute. An emergency speaker, for either short talks or programs, can always be secured from the Speakers' Bureau of the Juvenile Protective Association by telephoning the office, 62867. This bureau is composed of Mrs. M. H. Pehr, Mrs. E. K. Foster, Mrs. E. T. Lawler, Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, Mrs. B. A. Davis, Mrs. Viola M. Waddle, Miss Constance Leitch, Mrs. W. C. Tyler, Mrs. Virginia Rice, Mrs. E. Werner and Mrs. L. Briggs. Talks or programs have been given during the past year before the Friday Morning Club, the Ebell Club, the Philanthropy and Civics Club, the Highland Park Ebell Club, the Matinee Musical Club, the Professional Women's Club, the Gardner-street Parent-Teacher Association, the Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church, the Hollywood School for Girls, and the Council of Jewish Women. These women are prepared to speak on short notice on the various phases of child welfare work.

Los Angeles Travel Club.

Tomorrow at 2 p.m., Mrs. Ellen French Aldrich, chairman of public affairs, will discuss public events and at 3 o'clock Mrs. Ella Cooper Keith will talk on "Causes of Old Age" and "Color" before the Los Angeles Travel Club.

An instructive and entertaining trip through the Southwest Museum was greatly enjoyed by a group from the club last Monday, with Prof. John R. Comstock as guide.

Woman's Press Club.

On Tuesday afternoon a program was presented by the Southern California Press Club with Mrs. Georgina S. Townsend, president, and Mrs. Clara V. Winlow, shop talk chairman, presiding.

The program, which was devoted chiefly to musical composition, was opened by Mrs. Kathryn Alphin Dyer, who gave a delightful group of three original poems, which she had arranged for the piano. Miss Kathleen Shippen played a group of her own compositions, two of which were colorful impressions of Egypt and Rome, woven into melody.

Miss Neeta Marquis read Victor Morgan's "Deep Calls to Deep," accompanied on the piano by Miss Shippen, who has given the poem a musical setting.

By force of both precept and example, Adelaide Minola Hughes not only converted to the cause of vers libre many of her hearers who had hitherto been heretics, but strengthened the convictions of those who were already believers. Mrs. Hughes told of her first poems. By reading her manuscript poem, "Beholden," and "The Spotted Pony," from her recently published volume, "Diantha Goes the Primrose Path," she furnished her most convincing argument for the beauty and dignity of her chosen form of expression.

Mrs. Hughes was followed by her distinguished husband, Rupert Hughes, whose talk was one more demonstration of his versatility. The dominant note of Mr. Hughes's address was a plea for individuality of thought and freedom of expression.

"If you don't like a rule, kick it over," counseled Mr. Hughes, sturdily. "Who made it? Just some other man, no better than yourself and perhaps not so good." In closing, the author and musician demonstrated the charm of the forbidden and the value of broken rules by giving his audience some fragments of his poem, "Cain," which he has set to music and which has been recently produced in Chicago.

Miss Grace Bissel, a member of the Illinois Press Association, was among the guests. At the business session preceding the regular meeting, Mrs. Dessa Fultz was admitted to membership.

Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club.

Under the direction of Miss Mae Armstrong, art chairman of the Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club, miniatures and paintings by Southern California artists will be featured tomorrow, with a lecture in the afternoon by Mrs. Randall Hutchinson, art curator of the Friday Morning Club.

At night club members in colonial costume will hold a reception for the public, to be followed by a musical play, "Memories," composed and directed by Mrs. W. H. Cornett, with Arthur Meng, Mildred Chandler and a number of small dancing girls, pupils of Margaret Middlekauf in the cast.

An all-day meeting of the landmark section will be held Tuesday with luncheon at noon. The section is sewing on layettes, which are to be given to expectant mothers in need.

Pilgrimage Club.

Because of the fact that the meeting of the Pilgrimage Club at 8 p.m. tomorrow will be given over entirely to rehearsals, the Normal Hill Center Auditorium will be used in place of the Ebell clubhouse.

Los Angeles Federation.

At an all-day meeting of the executive board of the Los Angeles Federation on Thursday committees were appointed to arrange for the annual convention to be held in Pomona, April 19 to 22 inclusive. The committee on credentials is headed by Mrs. Charles A. Wiley of Long Beach, with Mrs. E. Summerville of Pomona Ebell, Mrs. Harriet Williams Meyers of Highland Park Ebell, Mrs. Charles Forbush of the Catholic Woman's Club, and Mrs. Warren J. Holden of South Side Ebell serving with her.

Mrs. E. S. Bartlett of Glendale will be judge of election, with Mrs. Edward Higgins of the Catholic Woman's Club serving as her alternate. The further personnel of the committee will be: Mrs. Julia Endelman of the Wa-Wan Club, Mrs. Leo G. McLaughlin of the Pasadena Shakespeare Club, Mrs. W. L. Peck of Compton, Mrs. F. Wagner of Santa Monica, and Mrs. S. Seymore of Monrovia.

Mrs. Charles Toll, president of Ebell, will be chairman of resolutions. Mrs. H. J. Wurdeman of the Badger Club, Mrs. C. B. McClure of the Boyle Heights Club, Mrs. Force Maynard of Pasadena, and Mrs. Albert Tappeiner will comprise the committee.

Revision work is in the hands of Mrs. J. R. Dudley, district parliamentarian, with Mrs. V. Day, Mrs. Henry T. Wright, president of the Hollywood Woman's Club, and Mrs. Charles McKelvey, parliamentarian of Los Angeles Ebell.

Plans are so far perfected as to promise a reception for the first evening with the local club as hostess, a concert the second night, and the banquet the third evening. The clubwomen will pay tribute to Shakespeare on his birthday anniversary.

Federation of Music Clubs.

Mrs. Cecil Frankel, president of the State Federation of Music Clubs, has been in San Francisco during the past week attending an executive board meeting. She was accompanied by Mrs. Clifford Payson of San Diego, recording secretary of the federation. Besides presiding at the sessions, Mrs. Frankel gave addresses at the State meeting of the public school music supervisors at Sacramento.

Channel Club.

With Miss Helen Brooks presiding, the Channel Club will meet Saturday at Cumnock Hall, 200 South Vermont avenue. The program is in charge of Mrs. Marion L. Davidson, who will read an original play. Following the program the play will be discussed. Mrs. Blanche Hardy Morgan will be the hostess.

HAMILTON CLUB.

Hon. Frank P. Flint will address the Hamilton Club on "The Relation of the People to Congress and Congress to the People," Wednesday, at 2:30 p.m. at the Dean Mason home, 340 La Fayette Park Place. The Hamilton Club is composed of women engaged in the study of the Constitution of the United States and the fundamentals underlying the organization of the republic as related to the present day. Mrs. Harriet W. R. Strong is the president.

Intercollegiate Club.

At the Valentine party and dance to be held by the Intercollegiate Club tomorrow evening in the ballroom of the Navarre there will be many additions to the membership roll.

The organization, the object of which is to promote good fellowship among young university people, extends an invitation to college men and women who are requested to communicate with the secretary, Henry E. Miele, 5746 Aldama street, or telephone 39426. The officers are: Russell Danforth, Miss Vivian Monier, Henry Miele, L. N. Clinton Susan George.

South Side Ebell Club.

"The Burglar," a polite farce comedy by Margaret Cameron, will be presented by the South Side Ebell Club on their reciprocity day program on Thursday at 2 p.m. Mmes. Elsie Carter, Jay Thornton, Robert Daniels, C. W. Kunze, and Warren Holden are in the cast. The play will be under the direction of Marion Tracy Whiting.

The musical part of the program will include duets by Mrs. Kate Thwigar and Mrs. Florence Minott: "Where My Caravan Has Rested," and "One Fleeting Hour." There will be a whistling solo by Mrs. W. H. Gunther and pianologues by Mrs. Whiting. In the series of world-famous pictures given every week "Mona Lisa," taken by Mrs. Charles Yount, will be presented for this program.

Mrs. Grace Mee will be the hostess at the regular monthly party to be held at Slauson Playground next Saturday. The guests will be in gypsy costume and in the "mystery tent" Mrs. Whiting will tell fortunes. The old "well in the woods" will be attended by Mrs. Minta Spafford and Mrs. George Hammon. There will be dancing and games.

Boyle Heights Club.

On Wednesday at the library, Mrs. Walter Taylor English will speak on "The Making of the Constitution," and current events will be discussed by Mrs. Adelia C. Beers, followed by music and the social hour, when tea and wafers will be served.

The following day a colonial dinner will be served at the Boyle Heights Methodist Church at 6 o'clock. Mrs. Sue Reynolds will be toastmistress, and the toasts will comprise the following: "The Women of Colonial Times," Mrs. J. A. Smith; "Our President and Guests," Mrs. A. W. Lee, and "Our Hostesses." Rev. William M. Jeffers.

After the toasts, Mrs. Albert L. Cheap will sing Rossini's "Stabat Mater" (Cujas Animam,) accompanied with violin obbligato by her daughter, Virginia; Miss Anna Poyas will read, and "Selections from Martha" (Von Flotow,) by Virginia Cheap will be played on the violin.

Members in colonial costumes will be in evidence. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the club.

West Ebell.

After the Parliamentary Drill conducted by Mrs. J. M. Matthews the West Ebell Club enjoyed the program, given by Mrs. Myrtle Decker Abbott and Mrs. Maybelle Place in "Song and Verse." Mrs. Abbott delighted her audience with a pianologue entitled "The Cook Lady;" Mrs. Place responded with "June Rain" and "Mammy's Lullaby." Mrs. Abbott sang "Ashes" in French and gave another pianologue, "Sorcery;" all of this interspersed with comments by the entertainers. After this Mrs. Place read a condensed story of "Madame Butterfly," arranged by her husband. "Barefoot Trail," given as a duet, concluded the program.

Next Tuesday the public affairs section will present Mr. David Endstrom speaking on "Has Los Angeles a Soul?"

Philanthropy and Civics.

Louis Martin, "The Poet of the Seven Seas," will be the luncheon speaker before the Philanthropy and Civics Club Tuesday in the Elks' clubhouse at Third and Olive streets. His subject will be "My Gold at the End of the Rainbow."

In the afternoon Gertrude Darlow of the Public Library will talk on current fiction.

Virgil Junor High School Parent-Teacher Association will give a musical and fashion show pantemime in the ballroom of the Ambassador at 2:15 p.m. on the afternoon of the 25th inst. The proceeds from the concert will be used for the various activities and charities of the Virgil P.T.A.

The Virgil branch of the P.T.A. of which Mrs. Charles S. Crail is president, is the largest in the State, having a membership of 845. A permanent scholarship fund has been established, having for its nucleus two Liberty Bonds purchased during the war. Four children, unable otherwise to attend school, have been aided during the past year; two sewing machines were given to the Americanization cottage for foreign mothers on Lemon street; nearly $100 has been turned over to the babies milk fund; bedding and clothes to the federation emergency work, and $25 to the same fund for toys at Christmas time. Through the Virgil branch 150 children were given candy at Christmas time from the Americanization cottage; $60 went to the free clinic at which over 2000 cases were handled last year; $50 was given to the starving European children; $100 to the Children's Hospital; $100 to the Utah-Street Maternity Home, and a display case was bought for the articles made to sell by the girls at El Retiro. For the Virgil Junior High School itself, the P.T.A. bought several loads of gravel to cover the mud on the playgrounds and furnished the gymnasium stage with curtains and lights. Before the year there will be a spot light for the same stage, extra needed equipment for the kitchen, and a statue for the school library.

Printed year books have been issued by the Virgil P.T.A. and splendid programs given. At Thanksgiving the oral English class gave a Thanksgiving pageant in honor of the Pilgrims, which was unusually good, and at various times the pupils give piano, violin or vocal solos. The chorouses of the different classes give numbers, and pupils read original papers.

Drama League.

With Olive C. D. Reily, one of the founders of the Drama League of America as the guest of honor, the Los Angeles branch will give an elaborate luncheon in the palm room of the Ambassador Saturday. "The Art of the Theater" will be the theme of the after-lunch program, when those who appear will be Rupert Hughes, Beulah Marie Dix, Mary P. Saunders, John Davidson, Arthur Farwell, Ruth St. Denis and Cecil De Mille. Further information regarding this function may be obtained at the league's headquarters in the Brack-Shops.

Whittier Woman's Club.

"Mental Development of the Child" was the subject which Dr. Maude Wilde of the Mothers' Educational Bureau of Los Angeles presented to the Whittier Child Welfare Circle Tuesday. The circle has taken up hospital sewing under the direction of the president, Mrs. A. H. Gregg.

The social section of the Whittier Woman's Club, which has stood sponsor for many dancing parties during the winter will give up dancing and card playing during Lent and is holding kensington parties instead. The first of these was given Thursday with Mrs. C. A. Carden at the head of receiving line. Mrs. W. G. Sawyer was in charge of decorations and Mrs. W. D. Earl at the refreshment table.

"The High Cost of Living" was the subject of Mrs. Kate Lindley, speaking before the household economics section of the club Monday. Mrs. John De Land, chairman of the section, gave a talk on "Home Life in Southern Mexico."

TO TELL OF SIGHTS VIEWED IN WAR ZONE.

Dr. George Davidson, who was a delegate to the Lambeth Conference in London and visited scenes of the World War recently, will speak on "Americanization" before the Wednesday Morning Club at its next meeting. Bernadette Condley will give the musical setting to the program.

It is what you are today that counts was the theme of Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith in her address before a capacity house at the last meeting, presenting the subject "American Ideals and Literature." Little Dolly Lorraine Simons was charming in a Pavlowa Gavotte and in a Russian ballet. Mrs. Robert G. Stanton was the luncheon hostess.

WILL VIEW OPPOSITE GOVERNMENT TRENDS.

"Reactionary and Progressive Government" will be discussed by Mrs. Walter Sohier, at the meeting of the Business Woman's Civic Club tomorrow evening in the rose room in the Chapman Building, at Broadway and Eighth street. The department of public affairs, Miss Alice Church, commissioner, will have charge of the program.

Robert W. Hodgson, Los Angeles county farm adviser, and W. A. Reeder, a former Kansas Congressman and one of the framers of the national irrigation laws, were recent speakers before the club.

During the past year in Los Angeles county the farm adviser and assistants held 561 meetings, consisting of lectures, practical demonstrations and interchange of ideas. In one section of the county a new method of pruning deciduous trees prevails and gives better results, the speaker stated.

"Control of Forest Fires and Reforestation" has a supporter in Mr. Reeder, who advocates that of a standing army of 175,000 soldiers, 50,000 of the men be allotted to reforestation and irrigation of government lands.

CIVIC PATRIOTISM CHOSEN FOR THEME.

Next Wednesday the Woman's Club of Hollywood will devote the entire afternoon to civic patriotism. The program will be devoted to community interests and will be given under the auspices of the public affairs department. Hugo Kirchhofer, director of the Hollywood Community Sing, will lead the assembly in chorus singing. Miss Neely Dickinson, director of the Community Theater, will speak concerning her work. Jay Plowe will discuss the community orchestra movement and Miss Virginia Graef will speak on community art. These talks will be short and time will be given for questions and open discussion. Miss Margaret Higgens will speak on "Traditional Names of Spanish Origin in Southern California."

In the morning at 10:30, the music section will have a miscellaneous program arranged by Mrs. Suzanne Joyce Spear. This program is to be followed at 12 o'clock by the first music luncheon of the club year. Arthur Farwell will be the principal speaker and guest of honor. Other guests will include Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, Charles Wakefield Cadman and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henry Rothwell.

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock the board of directors and the hospitality committee are inviting the club members and their escorts to attend a reception and dancing party to be given at the clubhouse.

HIGHLAND PARK CLUB HEARS THRIFT TALK.

The Highland Park Ebell Club members were honored Tuesday when Mrs. Frederick A. Dow, government representative of the Seventh Federal Reserve District and ex-president of the Federation of Clubs of Illinois, spoke on "Thrift." Mrs. Dow said real thrift consisted of wise earning, purchasing, saving and security through retention of Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps. She spoke of the budget system in the home as being a great economic help and stated that a national budget system had been asked for. Mrs. Dow said the children in one of the public schools were asked to give a definition of thrift and a boy 13 years of age gave the following: "Thrift means individual success and leads to national strength."

Tuesday will be a day of books and music. "Twelve Hundred a Year," by Edna Ferber and Newman Levy, will be reviewed by Mrs. Helen Bator Behymer. Zoe Mary McClure, soprano, will sing "The Lass with the Delicate Air," Old English, and "Rain," by Pearl Curran. Mrs. Merle Smith will be the accompanist.

NATIONAL LEADER OF CLUB TO BE GUEST.

In honor of Mrs. Lena Lake Forrest, the new leader of the business and professional women in America, who is now visiting in Los Angeles, a banquet will be given by the Los Angeles County Federation Tuesday evening at the Fremont Cafe at Fourth and Olive streets. The event was first announced to occur in the Assembly tea rooms, but the management notified the entertainment committee of their inability to serve.

Plans for an elaborate function are perfected. The entire dining-room will be used for the occasion. Miss Helen Gatch will have charge of the decorating. Miss Florence Shindler, president of the local federation, will preside.

Mrs. Forrest, the guest of honor, has served two terms as president of the Detroit Federation of Clubs and is now serving her third term as president of the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, besides devoting much of her time to the work of the national federation. She is one of the most successful women underwriters in the country, a woman of affairs in civic, national and philanthropic life, as well as a keen business woman. She will address thousands of women throughout the country before the annual convention in July, when she will preside.

The New Day
Without corns

The invention of Blue-jay offered the world a way to escape corn troubles.

Millions now employ it. At least 20 million corns a year are being ended by it.

To suffer corns now is a folly. One test will prove them needless.

Blue-jay comes in liquid form or plaster. You apply it by a touch. The pain ends then and you forget the corn.

In a little while it loosens and comes out.

The way is easy, gentle, sure. It is the modern way, the right way.

Blue-jay is scientific. It is made by a surgical dressing house of world-wide repute.

It is fast displacing treatments which were harsh and wrong.

One test will convince you. Try it tonight.

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." It is sold in this city by all good druggists.—[Advertisement.]

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Luster at once.

Common garden sage boiled into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—[Advertisement.

Beauty Secret

KEEP the system clean. Eliminate the poisons. If nature will not do it for you, help nature with a natural medicine like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take a teaspoonful for a few nights and watch the results. There will be a feeling of lightness, the eyes will be bright and sparkling, the lips red, the cheeks pink.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the recognized, standard remedy for constipation, and it is constipation that gives women headaches, dullness, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath and bad complexion. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will relieve you over night, and do it gently but thoroughly. It is just a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, so safe that it is given to infants. A sixty-cent bottle will last for months, and last year eight million bottles were bought at drug stores—in itself a guarantee of merit.

TRY IT FREE

Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 513 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Everybody now and then needs a laxative, and it is well to know the best. Write me today.

Girls, Don't Wash Your Face

Use Liska cold cream instead (you have never used anything like it). Just try it once, and you will never be without it. Soap and water has a tendency to make the skin rough, and does not cleanse the skin as thoroughly as Liska cold cream. To prove it make this test: Wash your face with soap and water, dry thoroughly, then apply Liska cold cream, massage it well into the skin, then wipe off the superfluous cream with a soft white cloth: examine the cloth and see how much dirt has accumulated thereon. Liska cold cream cleanses, softens and beautifies the skin. For sunburn or after a dusty auto trip there is nothing like it. It's fine after shaving, too. Let hubby or brother try it. Just compare Liska cold cream with any other you have ever used, and you will need no further argument to convince you that it's the best. It's put up in tubes, the only sanitary way. Try it tonight. You will be delighted. At toilet counters everywhere, including the Owl Drug Stores.—[Advertisement.

Gift of the Snow-Kissed Pines of the North

Your nose will harbor cold germs. Do not allow them to waste your vitality. Use at once Mayr's Pine Needle Balm and check them at the beginning. Disregard of common colds is one of the causes for the appalling death rate from flu and pneumonia in the last few years. Colds are infectious and dangerous. Keep a tube of Mayr's Pine Needle Balm in the house and at the first suggestion of a cold apply it to the nose. Catarrh, that embarassing and troublesome condition, clears up quickly when Mayr's Pine Needle Balm is used. Sold in two sizes—30c and 60c tubes. Free trial by writing Geo. H. Mayr, 219 W. Austin Ave., Chicago. Mayr's Pine Needle Balm is for sale by druggists everywhere.—[Advertisement.

PHOTOPLAY VS. DRAMA.

to produce great photoplays, only time will tell.

At any rate such experiments, such honest endeavor to bring about improvement and such excellent books on the photoplay as Miss Patterson's are all hopeful signs and as such should be welcomed.

The book contains a complete scenario just as it was prepared for studio use, and will be found valuable as a handbook for those wishing to learn how to write photoplays.

How to Write Photoplays.

John Emerson and Anita Loos have, too, the utmost confidence in the future of the cinema. They likewise have confidence in themselves and do not hesitate to show it. Motion-picture writing, they assure us, is as "practical a profession as plumbing, only the plums are bigger."

They are not much concerned with Aristotle or Freytag nor with the technique of the classic drama in general, but are as full of enthusiasm as they are of knowledge in regard to scenario writing. They tell you breezily and clearly how to get the story across, reveal the importance of star sympathy, urge the need of action and more action, tell how to prepare a synopsis and a continuity, explain all about titles and subtitles, and reveal the inner secrets of marketing the story.

The importance of scenery for scenarios, the actor's angle, the need of a strong love interest—these and many other topics are handled with a sure hand—or a pair of them. Much attention is given in the book to the more technical or mechanical aspects, such as cutting the picture.

A book that is full of the atmosphere of the movies, that is written from the viewpoint of those on the inside, and that is calculated to make many an honest grocer, saleslady, clerk or reporter take up the pen and go to work.

IRVIN S. COBB OF PADUCAH, KY.

and bred to and taking up a field pretty fairly well cultivated by about 2000 authors of all varieties of race, creed and previous condition of servitude. I was going to write Cobb a letter about it, but before I got down to it my wife and my father, and two men I like and one that I don't like, told me I ought to read Cobb's story. So I did.

The first ten lines made me forget I was reading Cobb, or reading anybody. I was down there in Paducah myself. And that's all there is to Cobb. He has a stereoscopic pen. You can see around behind his people, and you know they are alive. He shows you the front of some one, and you can see that the man has one suspender button missing in the back, and that both loops of his suspenders are hitched onto the remaining button. Cobb may be telling a murder mystery, or he may be telling the fate of that suspender button. One is, in his hands, as interesting as the other. The reason is that Cobb writes what he knows and does not fake it, and he knows the things that he does know right down to their inmost details.

Cobb wrote a series of humorous articles on "Food" for the Post, but nowhere did he praise pate de fois gras. He set some 6,000,000 or 8,000,000 appetites on edge for turkey one week, and he could make millions water at the mouth for a slice of lemon pie if he liked it himself. And that's the great secret of why we all like Cobb. Anything he tries to make us like we know he likes, and he likes what American human nature likes — taking it by and large, Cobb knows what we like best in wholesome fiction, and he gives it to us, because that is what he likes best.

The big, noisy, good-natured Paducah genius! I dropped into the Dutch Treat Club last Tuesday, where some fifty or more magazinists were at lunch at the long table that seats them once a week. Another member came in and took his seat alongside of me.

"What's the matter?" he asked. "Nobody's laughing. Isn't Cobb here today?"

QUAINT POETRY.

MORE TRANSLATIONS FROM THE CHINESE. By Arthur Waley. Alfred A. Knopf, New York.

Following his very successful book, "A Hundred and Seventy Chinese Poems," comes Mr. Waley's "More Translations from the Chinese," containing sixty-eight selections, fifty-five of which we are assured have never before been translated into English.

In his introduction Mr. Waley explains: "This book is not intended to be representative of Chinese literature as a whole. I have chosen and arranged chronologically various pieces which have interested me and which it seemed possible to translate adequately.

"An account of the history and technique of Chinese poetry will be found in the introduction to my last book. Learned reviewers must not suppose that I do not appreciate the poets whom I do not translate . . .

"While many of the pieces in "A Hundred and Seventy Chinese Poems" aimed at literary form in English, others did no more than give the sense of the Chinese . . . It was possibly because of this inconsistency that no reviewer treated the book as an experiment in English unrhymed verse, though this was the aspect of it which most interested the writer.

"In the present book I have aimed more consistently at the poetic form, but have included on account of their biographical interest two or three rather unsuccessful versions of late poems by Po Chu-I."

The following is an example of the work just referred to, which is entitled "Resignation."

"Keep off your thoughts from things that are past and done;
For thinking of the past wakes regrets and pain.
Keep off your thoughts from thinking what will happen;
To think of the future fills one with dismay.
Better by day to sit like a sack in your chair;
Better by night to lie like a stone in your bed.
When food comes, then open your mouth;
When sleep comes then close your eyes."

HEAR "BETTY"—SOME SONG.

THE MAGAZINES.

BY CARROLL VAN COURT.

Scribner's Magazine.

After reading Lee Russell's article, "The Crisis in Education," in Scribner's, you feel like going back to school again. The writer makes plain the need of education, and also shames the whole nation for not paying our teachers more than we do. A humorous and instructive article by E. Alexander Powell, entitled, "Adventuring after Adventure," takes you to the hidden and unexplored parts of the world. It is well illustrated. A serial novel begins in this number. The title is "To Let," rather a poor title for such a fine writer as John Galsworthy, who by the way, is now in Phoenix, I believe, on the way out here to write scenarios. A short story, "The Wives of Xerxes" by Rebecca Porter, is entertaining, with the scene laid in Southern California. The final paper of the splendid series by Henry Van Dyke closes the list.

Harper's Magazine.

If you want to know what a brilliant Englishman really thinks of us Americans, read this month's Harper's. W. L. George, in his sketch, "Hail, Columbia," takes us apart to see what makes us tick. He clears up much of the mystery about why it seems so hard for Americans and Britons to understand each other, and he also shows the characteristic English mind that marvels at the Yankee's familiarity with persons on short acquaintance. He tells a good joke on the Elks, and gently kids us about our habit of using superlatives.

An article entitled, "Ought I to Leave the Church?" by an old member of the church, explains the weakness of many of our churches, and demonstrates that a minister should study more, should get his church out of the rut, should stop the petty jealousies in the congregation about who should play the organ, or who should lead the choir, etc., in other words, he blames the failure of the average church to petty jealousy, inside politics, the fault of the minister that knocks great men or great things ignorantly because he gets his information second hand, and to the lack of team work.

Another travel article and a breezy sketch by Clarence Day complete the list.

The Mentor Magazine.

If we may designate culture as intellectual and artistic self-improvement, then we can find no better representative of culture in the world of letters than the Mentor Magazine. This little gem is full of good material from cover to cover. The current number takes us to "Greece, Old and New," a well-written article with wonderful photographs is the first number on the list.

The second number is a sketch of Knut Hamsum, the leading Norwegian novelist, who could not run a street car, but won the Nobel prize for literature!

The story of that beloved song, "The Old Folks at Home," is told, and an article on Mona Lisa, which will interest the ladies, is in this issue.

The Mentor is truly an educational magazine of the highest type.

A DISTINGUISHED BRITON'S VIEW.

PEOPLE OF DESTINY. By Philip Gibbs. Harper & Bros., New York.

When Philip Gibbs, recognized as the greatest of English war correspondents, left the battle fronts at the signing of the armistice, he immediately came to America to seek a respite from the grim scenes which he had been witnessing during the mighty conflict.

In his book, "People of Destiny," he gives to the world his impressions of the people of the United States. These impressions, while fleeting at best, are nevertheless worth pondering over, for they represent the views of a thoughtful man, who, though an Englishman, seems to be able to view us, not from the conventional Englishman's point of view, but with wide-open eyes and a mind that is four-square to all the winds of frankness and receptivity.

Let me quote a passage from this remarkably clear and comprehensive book of impressions. He says: "The American people are not, I think, better educated than the English people in the actual storing-up of knowledge, but they are educated in better physical conditions, with a brighter atmosphere around them in their classrooms and in their playgrounds, and with keener appreciation in the social influences surrounding the schoolhouse of the inherent right of every boy and girl to have equal opportunities along the road to knowledge and success. It is this sense of opportunity, and the entire absence of snob privileges, which I liked best in these glimpses I gained of young America."

Contrasting another phase of American life with that of Europe, he says: "They are a middle-class empire, untainted by imperial ambitions or ancient traditions of overlordship. They are governed by middle-class sentiment. They put all problems of life to the test of that simplicity which is found in middle-class homes, where neither anarchy is welcome nor aristocratic privilege. America is the empire of the wage-earner, where even her plutocrats have little power over the independence of the people. It is a nation of nobodies great with the power of the common man and the plain sense that governs his way of life. Other nations are still ruled by their 'somebodies'—by their pomposities and High Panjandrums. But it is the nobodies whose turn is coming in history, and America is on their side."

He is convinced that the United States has a new standing, a new meaning in the world. It has become, he thinks, like "A rich uncle whose authority and temper must be respected by those who desire his influence in their family quarrels, difficulties and conditions of life." He is confident that in world affairs the United States is only "at the threshold of her supreme destiny" and that the leadership won will be retained so long as this nation remains true to the principles of justice and liberty which won the confidence of other nations during our participation in the war and during the early stages of the peace settlement.

Mr. Gibbs points out in his chapter "What England Thinks of America" that "England is irritated with the United States because of a sense of having been 'let down' over the peace treaty and the League of Nations action." He thinks, and it is only natural that he should, that the English people are justified to some extent in this feeling, in view of the fact that when President Wilson arrived in London and was accorded the greatest ovation ever given a foreign visitor, the people, of course, supposed he was speaking for America. It is not hard to understand their surprise, chagrin and disappointment when the facts proved to be otherwise and the treaty which he helped frame was rejected by the Senate.

Taken all in all "The People of Destiny" is a book that every good citizen of the United States, who is anxious to get a reasonable idea of how the people of Europe generally and England particularly view our after-the-war attitude on foreign affairs, should read. It is, I believe, a pretty accurate index to the British view, and allowing for the Briton's possible failure to fully comprehend the psychology of other European nations, a fairly good idea of the European point of view.

It is free from the fulsome praise of a propagandist on the one hand and of carping criticism on the other. It is, in fact, a sane, clear, fair estimate of America as a whole, far fairer than, under the circumstances, we have any right to expect. For, regardless of whether we feel that the treaty was a good thing or a bad thing, we cannot escape the fact that Europe, and particularly England was laboring under the impression that since our own President participated in its making, we would naturally accept it as having been satisfactory to our representative, or at least the man who Europe supposed was our representative.

No Pep.

A traveling man tells us he asked an old New Hampshire resident how he felt and received the reply, "Oh, pretty well, but kind o' gitless."—[Boston Transcript.

THAT'S the good news for Springtime, 1921. But there's more to that statement than appears on the surface. It's easy enough to offer new fashions at lower prices because wholesale prices are down a little. But when we can give newer, better and prettier fashions for less money—that's a REAL job.
Part of the significance of the Paris Store's new offerings lies in that point. We have not been satisfied with newness and better prices. We have sought and found beauty and quality, too, which is reason enough for saying Your Money Goes Farther at the Paris Store.

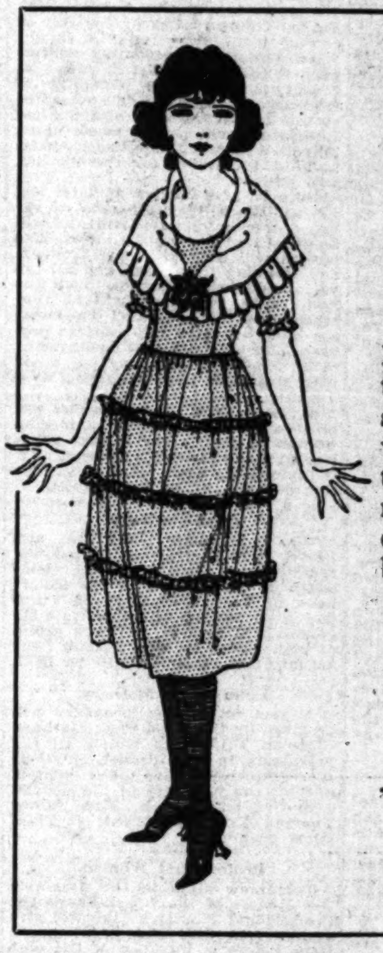
Canton Crepe Dresses, $49.75

Canton crepe leads the spring mode as the material for fashioning the smart afternoon frock. And if you choose gray, you'll gain still another point on fashion's side. These frocks at $49.75 look much more expensive—the material is of such a fine grade and the styles are so distinguished.

The Frock Sketched

is a zinc gray with a low waistline defined by a corrugated band of gray, silk floss which is repeated in a pyramid design in bodice and overskirt; the long overskirt is partially pleated front and back.



THE new full overskirt and the fitted bodice are stylish features of these

New Taffeta Dresses, $35

Both women and young women will love these dresses for their youthful, becoming styles. One of the best-liked, is a navy blue with three small rows of ruffles edged with tomato-red crepe encircling the skirt at regular intervals, and with a very generous cape collar of organdie fastened with a bright red posy.

Other Taffeta Dresses at $35

NAME SHOULD BE LIGHTNING.

That's the Kind of Striking Girl Winnie Is.

How She Wears Her Hair Off Stage and Other Things.

But She Declines to be Ornamented with Pies.

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT.

Winnie Lightner moistened her fingers with her tongue, smoothing her hair down over her ears, while she delivered a scathing rebuke about the petty jealousies among professional folk on the stage. "I never was that way myself when I wasn't a headliner," she said in conclusion, "but now I'm in a headline spot, I'm going to stay there just for meanness."

It wasn't anything special that had happened to bring on Miss Lightner's burst of disapproval as we sat in her dressing-room at the Orpheum. She's just begun to think about things in general as a result of a disagreement she's just had, and momentarily was registering a small and genial kick against the world. It showed her in a new light. And, I must confess, a very seductive one. Because there are few people who can deliver choice remarks of dissatisfaction and do it gracefully. But Winnie Lightner is one of them. Because she has a temperament like a saxophone, and everything she says is funny.

You may guess from the fact that I said she had her hair pulled down over her ears that she wasn't getting ready to go on the stage. No, that skintight hair dress — like most skintights—is just for the footlights. The rest of the time Winnie looks quite normal. And she's about three times as good-looking as you'd suppose seeing her in vaudeville.

The other day at the Athletic Club they dressed her up in a bathing suit, and—well, they had to get Bull Montana and Miller, the wrestlers, to keep the men back from the doors to the swimming pool.

That was a frolicky morning for Winnie, anyway. She was full of pep, of course—but, then more so than usual, and just to show that she's liberal with her jazz she made a merry-go-round of the circular doors, and kept three or four chorus girls on the jump for about fifteen minutes.

She has her dressing-room full of tiny ivory animals, and other dew-dads, and she's always playing around with them and doing juggling stunts, just to keep busy. I hate to think of her waiting around between scenes in the films.

NIX ON SLAPSTICK.

For the present she isn't going in the pictures, either. But she confided that the day will probably arrive when a certain starring contract will be financed for her.

"I don't go in for the slapstick, though. No pies in my face. I'd rather stay on the stage.

"Somebody asked me the other day why I didn't star in vaudeville—do a single. But I don't think I'd like it. I'd be too lonesome out on the stage. I've got to have somebody to punch when I get excited."

For this reason Newton Alexander and Winnie's sister, Theo, who is Mrs. Alexander, will probably continue together. What's more, they may stage a three-act music revue or comedy, instead of staying in the two-a-day.

Miss Lightner doesn't claim a thing but luck for her success in vaudeville. But everybody who sees her knows that her talent for acting natural and acting funny naturally is what counts in her act. That's the hardest kind of acting, anyway.

Winnie was born right in the theater district in New York. The back yard of her house backed up against the rear of a vaudeville theater.

"I sneaked into the show game through the back door," said Winnie. "I used to like to do stunts on the stage when the house was empty.

"There was a ginny—yes, a wop, if you prefer—who cleaned up, and one day I got a clout with a dustless mop, minus the stick, right side of the face, abaft the ear. He swore I had dirtied up his perfectly clean, newly mopped stage, and I'd have to get out. I told him I'd go, but some day he'd pay admission to see me on that stage. And he did, too.

"My sister was on the stage before I was, and so was Newt. Theo was in a sister act with another girl, and Newt was in the Exposition Four. These acts split up, and Newt and Theo were married, and went on in their own turn. I was excess baggage then, but Theo said:

"A FOIL FOR THEO."

"'Let's put Winnie in the act somewhere and make some use of her.'

"'What can she do?' asked Newt. 'She can't do anything but be a mugger'—make faces, he meant—'but then I guess she'll be a great foil for you.'

"So one day they took me to the theater to try out. I was skinny as a lead pencil, but I wanted to be grown up, so I wore a pair of big shoes and some spats around my pipestem ankles, and put my hair up, and say, I must have been a fright.

"I immediately forgot every line they had taught me, and there I was shoved out on that stage, with a lot of strangers in front of me, and I just had to do something.

"Did you ever get that feeling that the elevator had dropped out from under you, and left you hanging by your hopes, up in mid-atmosphere? It felt just that way. But I did know that I had to do something, or I'd never have another chance.

"So I started mugging, twisting up my face into awful shapes—a thing I'd often been spanked for — and talking nonsense in a high, squeeky voice.

"It got a laugh, so I kept it up.

"Theo and then Newt tried to get me off, but I had already learned the sweet recompense of applause, and I stuck to the old ship till I well nigh wrecked it."

Before I talked with Miss Lightner I was gently tipped off to the fact that she is not married. Nor is she engaged.

"I had a sweetheart once, but I

HOTEL DE BUNK AT BROADWAY PANTAGES

A disappointed heiress, an octogenarian bell hop and labor troubles that culminate in a walkout of the employees of the Hotel de Bunk, are combined in "'N Everything," which will be Henry Sherr's comedy medium at the Broadway Pantages for the coming week.

Frank Samuels will be the senile servitor, Henry Sherr the next of kin who inherits the famous old hotel, and "Jackie" Brunen, the niece who receives a mere trifle of $250,000 in lieu thereof.

Minor Reed has been busy painting marble pillars 'n everything for the hotel scenes, which are said to be "unparalleled magnificence."

"Oklahoma Bob" Albright has ordered new rubber mats for all the brass lobby ornaments, and these latter have been newly gold plated. Over a million dollars (stage money) will be expended in making the Hotel de Bunk the greatest bunk ever offered to a confiding and trustful public.

Dave Butler's latest comedy, "Girls, Don't Gamble," is the feature film special for the week.

HIPPODROME OFFERS GOODMAN PHOTOPLAY.

Edith Hallor, in a film adaption of Jules Eckert Goodman's, "Just Outside the Door," will be the photoplay attraction at the Hippodrome today. The cast includes Betty Blythe and J. Barney Sherry.

Berry and Nickerson offer a laughable darktown absurdity, "The Nicest Girl in Town." The Mystic Hanson trio, or the magic man and his magical maids, give something new in mystic novelties. The Three Beauties in an original novel comedy conception, Barlow, Banks and Gay in melodious moments, and Bell and Eva in a trampoline bounding act, complete the show.

THE SWEETHEART SHOP.

Bright New Musical Comedy Coming to the Mason.

"The Sweetheart Shop," the musical comedy which scored such a pronounced success in New York, Boston and Chicago for the last ten months, comes to the Mason tomorrow night, with Harry K. Morton and the original cast and chorus of fifty.

The book and lyrics are by Anne Caldwell, who has written the Fred Stone shows for the last five seasons. The music is by Hugo Felix, who composed the melodies in "Madam Sherry" and "Pom Pom."

There is an entertaining story disclosed in "The Sweetheart Shop," an establishment for the furtherance of matrimonial bliss, a short of marriage mart where would-be husbands can meet a "guaranteed" mate. The humorous and novel situations are enlivened with a liberal allotment of hilarious, refreshing and alluring melodies.

In the company are Esther Howard, Clay Hill, Zella Russell, Roy Gordon, Daniel Healy, Marion Saki, Mary Harper, Helen Ford and Teddy Hudson.

There are three silken scenes, the locale of which are The Sweetheart Shop, an artist's studio in Greenwich Village and a Fifth-avenue auction room.

"DADDIES" ATTRACTING CROWDS AT MOROSCO.

"Daddies" enters the fourth week with today's matinee at the Morosco.

To date this popular comedy has been playing to absolute capacity houses. Oliver Morosco certainly picked a play close to the hearts of local theatergoers when he decided upon "Daddies."

In the play the author, John Hobble, has deftly arranged a series of side-splitting situations in which half a dozen bachelor daddies try to mother a number of freshly adopted war orphans. There are a number of tiny kids in the play, as well as the usual number of grown-up favorites.

Bertha Mann and Henry Duffey play the leading roles. Helene Sullivan and Gayne Whitman are also cast in fine parts. This quartet do exceptionally good team work in "Daddies."

RETURNS TO NEW YORK.

Elsie Ferguson has returned to New York after making her first photoplay in Los Angeles. Although she has been on the Pacific Coast often with dramatic productions, she has heretofore always made her pictures in the East. The one exception which caused her to go West was the filming of Arnold Bennett's play, "Sacred and Profane Love," which had to be done in the Lasky studio in California because new equipment was being installed in the Paramount eastern studios.

CHARLIE AGAIN IS CHAMPION.

Chaplin Knocks Gothamites Out with "The Kid."

Clean Taste is Evidenced in East's Show Success.

"Ladies' Night" is Only Real Rough Spot.

BY HARRY CARR.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Charles Chaplin is still champion of the world.

His new comedy, "The Kid," has hit New York a solar plexus. The Strand Theater on Broadway, which houses it, is a perpetual riot.

The colored gent in livery who meets the autos at the curb pleads piteously with the throng that there aren't any seats, but it doesn't even check the rush.

The management has put on two extra performances a day, one beginning at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and the other, a midnight affair, beginning at 11 p.m.

To my mind "The Kid" is by long odds the best motion-picture comedy ever made. It has more than humor; it has tenderness and literary charm. It is in every way a work of art of the highest quality.

Incidentally it is the first child picture I ever saw that did not give me an acute pain in the bowels.

Even at that, I am not unduly excited about the new child genius that Chaplin has given to the world. Little Jack Coogan is undoubtedly a wonderful child; but do not worry, brethren, he will never be so wonderful again.

What we admire of little Jack on the screen is a solution consisting of about seven-eighths Chaplin. It is the subtle art and the fine brain of Charlie that has made the youthful Coogan.

When it comes to that, Chaplin need not lie awake at night shuddering for fear somebody else will make a picture like "The Kid" and steal his thunder. Olympian Jove was the only one who could thunder convincingly. There will never be another picture like "The Kid" until there is another Charlie Chaplin, and it has taken the world, according to the latest dope of the geologists, 500,000,000 years to produce the first.

A number of old maids of both sexes have gotten goose flesh and blushes, hot flushes and chilblains and other complications because there is a lot about "didies" and other intimacies of baby life in "The Kid."

But I yawn, brethren, I yawn!

CLEAN SHOWS WIN.

There is a lesson for producers in "The Kid."

Looking at the high water marks of the New York season no one can help remarking that every one of the big knockouts has a certain common quality — that is to say, a sweetness and simplicity and purity. There isn't a home run hit in New York that isn't clean and decent.

"Lightnin'," which has played a thousand performances on Broadway and is going just as strong as it did the first week and will probably last forever, is more than clean. It is so redolent of purity and so fragrant with sweetness that it is a veritable soul fumigator. You could almost feel friendly toward an income tax collector after seeing "Lightnin'."

"Irene," which stands next in point of long distance records, is a clean, jolly little musical comedy, with an amiable story and some agreeable music.

"The Gold Diggers" is a story about chorus girls, but strange to say, is wholesome and clean. It leaves you with the pleasant conviction that the young ladies of the merry-merry may smoke cigarettes, but that they are only making a bluff at being naughty for "purposes of revenue," and are privately all that a minister's daughter should be. Illusion.

The girl beside me in the car
Wore yellow flowers against her breast—
Chrysanthemums like woven gold
That breathed a subtle, pungent zest.

The tang of rain was in the air,
Tristful with winter's gray advance.
Blent with those oriental flowers
It stirred vague dreams of old romance.

Who was it sitting by me there?
A languid princess of Cathay.
Gold-broidered were the heavy flowers
That on her silken bosom lay.

The fingers in her silken lap
Were ivory-smooth, their tinted tips
Touched with the perfumed carmine stain
That warmed the oval of her lips.

An eastern olive tinged her cheek,
While all the poetry of skies
Shot through with unknown fiery stars
Made up the wonder of her eyes.

Aloof, mysterious, she leaned—
Her jet hair dressed with fragrant gums—
From her pavilion, set with
A pleasaunce of chrysanthemums.

How strange they smelt, those dim gold flowers
That breathed the soul of old Cathay—
A wizard-scent, transforming thus
A street-car on a rainy day!

NEETA MARQUIS.

The Vysekals Hold an Exhibition.

Those two jocund manipulators of paint, Edouard Vysekal and Luvena Buchanan Vysekal, give us an exhibition every now and again, that we may discover how busy they are all the year round. They are doing it now at the Friday Morning Club.

The fifteen or sixteen pictures, oils, water colors, with one solitary pastel from L. B. V., that enliven the by no means generally lively walls of the club, are all happy ones—even though one or two are serious almost to sadness. What I mean to say is, they were painted in a spirit of joy in the work for its own sake.

After all, art is not quite such a ponderously serious thing as those kill-joys, the professional critics of pictures, would have us believe. Sometimes, indeed, artists—like the rest of us—work "with a sad sincerity," as Emerson says. But not always, and not even most of the time, for art is an outward and tangible expression of the pleasure the artist finds in beauty, and beauty is not a sad thing, though it may sometimes be so exquisite, so poignant and so perfect that in the ecstasy of contemplation we are reduced to tears. But one may weep without sadness.

The Vysekals have discovered the true function of the artist. It is to be happy—so they say in a hundred different ways—and to scatter his felicity broadcast. They themselves do it with paint, having chosen that instead of the book or the violin. Can we doubt that their declaration is true? Not if we go to their exhibitions with open eyes, minds—and hearts. Appreciation of a painter and his point of view is more a matter of heart than you might, at first blush, suppose. For art and life are pretty close of kin. Some authorities even go so far as to say they are one and the same. William Dean Howells did, though he referred more particularly to literature.

Our friends, the Vysekals, have become intensely modern in the past year or two, though they have so far kept away from the grotesque, the bizarre and the impossible. They will probably always do so, no matter into what strange and untrod fields their excursions may lead them, for the Vysekals, like all people who see the fun in life and its labors, are pre-eminently sane. "If this be madness, there's method in it."

Painting, then, is a joyous way of covering a canvas, and the Vysekals, as I said, are excellent exemplars of the mood in which an artist should sit down to his easel. Or rather, stand up to his easel, for I don't believe either of them has much use for a chair. Painting, with them, as with other wide-awake artists, is a sudden advance upon the canvas, then a slow, cautious and observant retreat, the weapon of attack being a brush reeking red—or blue—or green. Finally—eureka, victory! The picture is done. Not finished. No picture is ever finished.

I found no catalogue of these paintings at the Friday Morning Club, so I am fortunately excused from any boresome detailed account of what I saw. But I must aver that I enjoyed myself almost as much as the painters enjoyed themselves when they made the pictures, and I must call your particular attention to the very beautifully painted still lives and flower studies from the brushes of both painters, to the two small and exceedingly lively water colors by Mr. Vysekal, and to the smiling portrait of himself by himself.

Here are color, life, happiness. "The world is so full of a number of things"—things that have color, life and joy in them—that our artists are not likely to fall short of subjects. Here's a blue vase, there's a yellow sunset, yon's a green meadow, and the purpling mountains of Southern California are wherever you may chance to look.

If only art were not so long and time so fleeting!

Only Photographs.

Another art partnership at the Friday Morning Club this month is the exhibition of photographs from the cameras—or is it the lenses?—of Edward Weston and Margarethe Mather.

Cameras? Lenses? Say, rather, souls, for if ever photographs were "artistic expressions" we have them here. These two photographers, I am almost ready to swear, took as much thought, exercised as much care, gave as much feeling to the production of one of the photographs on the walls as ever painter thought, cared or felt for his picture. Perhaps I exaggerate, but when one studies the photographs one almost believes the statement to be true. At all events, you will admit that if photography may be called at any time one of the "fine arts," it is here.

We have form, composition, values, refined and subtle "arrangements" that yet seem inevitable and have none of the look of studied manipulation. This is art, is it not? This is also fine, is it not? Very well, then!

However, let us not press the purists too hard. Let photography stand on its own feet, which are surely "fine" enough to give us exceedingly lovely impressions on prepared paper. The sun, of course, helps the photographer a lot—but never so much as when he happens to be an artist by grace. And each of these exhibitors at the Friday Morning Club is that.

For your special study and pleasure I would suggest a few prints that took me mightily, though I willingly permit you to choose your own. The great, the necessary thing is to get you to look at them for yourselves.

You will like (I am sure) Edward Weston's "Polly," for its distinction and beauty; his fine "Ramiel in His Attic," with its cubistic composition; his lovely "Prologue to a Sad Spring;" his "Alfred Kreymborg," "Portrait of Mrs. Charles L. Lewin," "The Donaldsons at Home." And you will like Margrethe Mather's "Moon Quan, Chinese Poet," "The Grav Vase," "Edward Weston," "Eugenia Buyke," "Claire"—for all are exceptionally beautiful.

A photograph may be a "poem in print," you will discover.

Austin's Capistrano Studies.

For the past six months Charles Percy Austin has been having the time of his life. Dame Fortune has granted him leave of absence from her hard school of daily duty in Los Angeles, and has even dangled before him a writ of perpetual immunity, and therefore he has loafed and invited his soul and painted, at one of the most paintable places in all paintable Southern California, the Mission at Capistrano.

Apparently the artist did not do much loafing, for he covered many canvases, some big, some little, a few of each sort now being on view in the handsome new and well lighted galleries of Stendahl, at the Ambassador Hotel. The most of them are from Capistrano and vicinity, though one or two have the atmosphere and color of Mexico. At any rate, one is called "Mexican Milkman," though the man might have peddled his lacteal cargo from some white horse of Capristrano and placed the beast against a yellow adobe whose interior was purplish red. He makes a very effective study, and he, his horse and their background are bright with color and bathed in light.

No place would be apt to please Austin more than Capistrano, with its decaying beauty, its sanctified repose, its dreams and its memories. He has that sort of temperament. He feels the poetry of places, he falls easily under the spell of their glamour. Their dreams become his, and he proceeds to translate them into warm and seductive pigments. Sometimes into cool and quieting ones. (At least, so one is led to believe from these canvases of his, and from others that have been shown in previous years—those from Mexico, ten years ago, for instance.)

At Capistrano he stayed outside the cloisters, which, as he knows, have been "done to death" by a thousand of his painting predecessors, though he went into some houses, giving us, among other things, "Old California Interior," a girl in pink standing near a wall of adobe gray near an open window through which we glimpse a garden green and red. The picture is charming. So is "At the Fountain," a quite unusual scheme of color and a distinguished one, a girl in a yellow gown and black shawl, the arms and head beautifully painted.

We are also shown "A Wedding," bride and groom coming out of the mission, a crowd of friends on either hand among crowds of red geraniums as tall as themselves. We see the flying confetti, and we are steeped in the brilliance and warmth of the sunlight. Tenderly poetic is "Memories of Bygone Days," ruined arches seen at early

The "California" Was Quick to Meet the Popular Demand for Lower Prices

DEDICATED TO BETTER HOMES

It is an inexorable law of success that any business institution to succeed must render a superior service or offer values or qualities or assortment or some or several factors which will be to the definite advantage of the buyer.

The "California" is recognized as a successful home furnishing institution. We find there are still some people who, without having made value comparisons, think that the "California" is high priced, basing their conclusions undoubtedly on the fact that the "California's" window displays reflect quality and elegance.

If such conclusions were true the "California" could not have achieved the success that is accorded to it. As a matter of fact there are hundreds of people in Southern California who will tell you that they were very much surprised to find that they could actually save money by buying at the "California." We believe that you too will find this the case if you will do yourself and us the justice of value comparison.

Evidencing the "California's" sincere inclination to give superior values this institution was one of the first of the important home furnishing houses of America to take its loss and revise all its prices to the new replacement levels.

As a matter of fact the general price reduction of 20% which the "California" made effective several weeks ago brought the selling prices of many lines down below the prices for which the same merchandise can be sold at today's replacement costs.

The "California" invites value comparisons.

A Gentleman's Watch

The cultural influence of modern ideas has expressed itself in a very pronounced way in the evolution of the man's watch, from an article of mere utility to the combination of utility and refined smartness.

Ultra thin watches, in unusual shapes, some of them in cases of platinum, others in cases of real enamels in contrasting colors, others again in cases of platinum and enamel combined, some of them set with diamonds or other precious stones, and of course many of them in gold cases with new refined features, have superseded the thick, cumbersome models of our forefathers.

Feagans & Co. show many unusual specimens of the modern idea in fine watch making—square, octagonal, hexagonal, horseshoe and other new shapes.

The Feagans & Co. display of watches is one of the most important in all America. The prices range from $15.00 up to several thousands.

We are sole representatives for Los Angeles for the renowned "JULES JURGENSEN" watches.

CHARLIE AGAIN IS CHAMPION.

and discreet heaven knows whether or not the chorus young ladies are really just like that, but it is pleasant to believe so at any rate.

There are two pictures that have been so released that they are running neck and neck with the big stage attractions. These are "Way Down East" and "Over the Hill." Opening within a week of each other, both are still going at top speed in New York theaters. I do not know how well "Over the Hill" has done on the road, but "Way Down East" has broken all records for any kind of show in Pittsburg, ran twenty-three weeks in Boston, where it is still playing to capacity, and in Providence, a city of [illegible] people, it has played to [illegible] spectators. The picture has already taken in $2,500,000 since September.

It is notable that both these pictures have the same fundamental [illegible] of simplicity and rock-ribbed decency that has put the big hits over.

PURITANS ALL.

There is something in the American people that revolts from too much sophistication. The fetid air of Broadway can't be sold at much [illegible]. We may know better, but we like to believe that our heroines have never been kissed.

Although I have mentioned the record-breakers, whose runs are without precedent, you could go over most of the other plays that are now doing big business and find in them the same elements.

"The Broken Wing" is a mushy melodrama, but it is hideously moral. "Spanish Love" does not live up to its name. Kind Providence only knows why it has permitted the thing to live on, but whatever success it has is not due to any immorality.

Perhaps people go in the hope that "Spanish Love" will be very [illegible]—I never have been able to find anybody who knew what it is about, but it is not about to-[illegible]

Then "Rollo's Wild Oats" isn't wild but is a quaint, merry, clean little comedy that sparkles like a diamond necklace, and which could be shown with propriety to a Bible class.

The biggest individual hit made in New York this season is by Marilyn Miller in "Sally." This little girl is just about the sweetest child that ever breathed the breath of life. The impression she gives on the stage is of winsome charm. She is youth and light—the breath of springtime and blossoms. And she has knocked New York dead. Incidentally she gets $3500 a week for knocking them so. This is an unprecedented salary outside of the movies.

The only really rotten show I know of doing good business in New York is "Ladies' Night," which is an [illegible] of cheap smut about some [illegible] husbands who take refuge in a Turkish bath, where their wives [illegible] among the unclothed ladies. It is one of those things which tries to be tough and only succeeds in being tiresome.

I suppose there are enough hicks coming into New York every week from Newton Center with an appetite for a wicked city to keep the thing alive. If anybody could stay awake through the exhibition perhaps they would get the required [illegible]

To most people it is about as entertaining as the drummer who sits in the smoking car and bores you with stories about the bridal couple on a Fall River boat.

Heaven has doubtless to provide some outlet for such junk, so there is one evil-smelling show that is going.

Art and Artists.

light against a golden sky and mountains. The "merories" are those of a man in the foreground watching a flight of swallows. [illegible] movement, color are found in "Beginning the Dance," a girl in sunlight who is flourishing a pair of castanets and whose lithe young body is already in the swing of rhythmic movement. There is fine drawing in this picture, notably good [illegible], great truth to actuality, in the modeling of face, hands and arms, the veracity of the gown and the clear-cut shadows. Perhaps the note of realism is struck almost too heavily, a more idealistic elegance might have been given to the body of the dancer. But the picture is a splendid piece of work, one that interests and attracts.

[illegible] exhibition closes February 15. It was given only a week in this gallery, unavoidably so, since other exhibitions were scheduled for rigidly definite dates. Go out to see it before it is taken away.

Marines by Colman.

About a score of recent marine pictures from the brush of Roi Clarkson Colman are on view through February at the Battery gallery, 294 East Colorado street, Pasadena. For the past few years Colman, who formerly painted landscapes, has made the sea his own, building a permanent studio at Laguna Beach where he might study the Pacific Ocean all the year through in its changing seasons. He has pursued his quest with faithfulness, as shown by the canvases in the present exhibition. Perhaps he has been almost too faithful; for sometimes—not often, indeed—he is inclined to be tight and conscientious. He has not learned how to play enough with his materials. He has thought too much of his picture.

The finest thing in his exhibition is "Night Magic," a scheme of cold greenish blues, pines blown by the wind on a desolate shore. There is fine movement in this magic of the night. Good, too, is "The Torrey Pine," painted in yellow-gray tones of color, the pine seen on a high embankment. Another good thing is "Moonlight Off Cypress Point," [illegible] in effect, a distorted tree by a [illegible] ocean under a crescent moon with a sprinkling of stars.

Among the attractive smaller pictures are "Incoming Fog," "La Jolla," and "Lure of the Sea," both characterized by clean, pure color.

Hollywood Art Association.

The exhibition of illustrations for children's books sent out by the American Federation of Art is open to the public at the Hollywood Woman's Club House, February 8 to 22, inclusive, except Friday, from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m.

There will be shown some of the best work of such well-known artists as Maxfield Parrish, Edwin A. Abbey, John W. Alexander, Elizabeth Shippen Green, Jessie Wilcox Smith and others. The exhibit also includes some specially fine examples of illustrated books for children and interesting hand-made toys in both [illegible] and wood.

Miss Virginia E. Graeff, educational director of the association, will tell picture stories to children on Thursday afternoon from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Important Briefs.

Twenty of Benjamin Brown's recent landscapes of California are being exhibited through February at the gallery of Leroy Ely, 335 East Colorado street, Pasadena.

An exhibition of portraits, figures and landscapes by Christian Von Schneidau will be held in the Kanst galleries from February 15 for about three weeks.

Landscapes from the brush of Orrin White will be shown at the galleries of Cannell and Chaffin, beginning tomorrow, the exhibition to close in two weeks.

An exhibition of modern art, water colors and batiks, is being held by Caroline Hutchinson Bowles in Riverside. Paintings by Stanton Macdonald Wright and Edouard Vysekal, and batiks by Milton Monroe, are also shown.

Thirty paintings from the late exhibition of the California Art Club held in Los Angeles, are now shown at the Public Library, Union and Raymond streets, Pasadena.

Paintings from the members of the Art Association of Laguna Beach are on exhibition at the Public Library of Long Beach.

An exhibition of portraits by Herbert Acker, of Pasadena, will be held in the Waldorf Astoria, New York, from February 26 to March 25.

A complete and permanent exhibition of the beautiful Indian photographs by Edward A. Curtis is held by the artist at 668 South Rampart boulevard, every day from 10 to 5.

Pictures by Edgar Payne will be shown at the Stendahl galleries, Ambassador Hotel, from February 16 to the end of the month.

The Laguna Beach Art Association held a bazaar for the benefit of foreign artists on February 3, 4 and 5, netting $300.

Four of Benjamin Brown's color etchings have been purchased by the British Museum.

Paintings by Alice Blair Thomas are shown at the Hollywood Art Shop, 6802 Hollywood boulevard, being until February 22.

The California Art Club held an important meeting last night, proposed plans for the enlargement of the association being under discussion.

ARBUCKLE MAROONED.

Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle is working on an island "Somewhere in the Pacific Ocean," under the direction of James Cruze on Frank Condon's story, "Crazy to Marry." Mr. Arbuckle is reported to have written that his one objection was that he couldn't drive his automobile to the mainland. However, they will be back shortly to make interior scenes.

HEAR "BETTY"—SOME SONG.

THE RODEZNO COLLECTION.

BY RANDOLPH LEIGH.

The movement to secure all or a large part of the magnificent furniture, tapestries, brocades and paintings of the Rodezno collection of French, Spanish and Italian antiques now on display here should appeal to Los Angeles as to no other city in the country.

Essentially the great Spanish city of the New World, and of the whole world, too, for that matter, Los Angeles could make of such a collection the nucleus for a gathering of works of art dealing particularly with the Romance nations, which would give to the city a powerful impetus toward the cultural primacy of the Americas.

It takes no heightening of the imagination to see that this will some day be one of the leading textile centers of the world. That day will be hastened if we have here a museum to which manufacturers can turn to study the finest textile products of the various centuries.

In touch as we are with the hardwood supply sources of the Orient, of Mexico, of South America and of our own land, there is every reason to believe that Los Angeles must be a leading furniture manufacturing city. It would be another inducement, added to the many we already have, if we could show to discriminating manufacturers that we had here a museum with the finest specimens of furniture of all periods.

By building up such a museum we would stimulate the demand for artistic things, and in creating or adding to that demand we could encourage large concerns to come here to cater to it. Los Angeles would profit by becoming more intimate with the best in art, and would at the same time grow in commercial importance while enjoying beautiful things.

Cultural leadership is a tremendous commercial asset. In the past cities have taken tribute from the whole world, because men turned to them as to the mothers of beauty. Paris, Athens, Byzantium, Venice, all these built their greatest fame on their reputation for being cultural centers, as well as upon other important resources.

The Old World, war-weary and in debt, is compelled for the time being to relinquish its treasures of art. Petrograd, until a few years ago one of the supreme centers of art, has almost gone back to barbarism. Moscow's matchless collections have been pillaged and scattered, most of the works of art which remain there being treated like old sacks to stop the cracks in a barn. London, Paris and Berlin, the latter once rich in works of art snatched from other lands, are giving up their treasures.

Americans are securing large numbers of these once priceless possessions. Others are going to South America. To an alarming degree they are passing into private hands and out of the reach of the general public.

In such a situation, what a splendid opportunity this is to push Los Angeles to the front in art. The center of industrial supremacy is shifting westward, and art, child of leisure and of wealth, is following it. Some city on this continent must be within a decade or so become the art capital of the entire world. Why should not that city be Los Angeles?

NO SUBTITLES IN "OLD SWIMMIN' HOLE."

The dream of motion-picture producers has at last been realized. A feature-length film production has been made without subtitles. Of course, it probably isn't the first ever, but it is the initial one in 1921, a year that is expected to reveal revolutionary changes in the art of the photo-drama.

To Charles Ray falls the honor of producing a story on the screen without subtitles, it is stated. The vehicle which he has used to accomplish this remarkable result is "The Old Swimmin' Hole," a picturization of the James Whitcomb Riley classic. In the entire 6000 feet of film, where ordinarily there would be at least from sixty to ninety subtitles of an explanatory nature, there is not one, it is announced.

All well-made pictures for some time past have sought to eliminate unnecessary subtitles, but heretofore mostly it has been deemed impossible to make screen continuity intelligent without them.

Compare Them With Any Other Women's Suits to be Found Elsewhere in Los Angeles at the Prices Quoted Above!

—The New York Store does not just place an order for so many suits to be delivered at such and such a time. With only the women's clothing market to claim its attention this great store is able to take the time to get the kind of suits it wants—and the kind you want.

—Our fabric experts go direct to the manufacturer's warehouse and select the materials that go into New York Store suits. And from there on the suits are under our supervision until artistic and skilled hands take the last stitch or apply the last bit of rich embroidery which adorns so many.

—There's not a chance in the world for inferior workmanship or poor quality to find their way into New York Store suits. There's never such a thing as an undesirable style, or a style unsuitable to Los Angeles women, included in The New York Store's stocks. New York Store suits invariably reflect the newest ideas of the fashion centers of the world.

—And the best part of all is our suits are every bit as low priced, and often lower, than the suits in other stores that have not been given this special attention.

Here are the Descriptions of the Suits Illustrated Above

THE NEW.

IN STORES AND HOMES.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.

Up-to-Datest:

The redingote of black taffeta worn above a frock of white batiste, organdy or other diaphanous material, the underfrock allowed to show as a vest and in the form of undersleeves.

The tunic, overskirt or topskirt made very full and sometimes having scalloped edges, and the subskirt barely attested below, where its soft, slim lines cling closely to the knees, falling slightly below them.

To consider quality in selecting one's garb. Never before has quality been so prime a requisition in the choice of dress. If it be crepe de chine that one selects, it must be of a heavy, luxurious weave; the same is true of satin and of taffeta, the latter especially affording economy of wear only when of best quality.

Now is the Time to Buy:

Lighting fixtures to give to the home a touch of springtime freshness.

Blouses from among the Los Angeles-made garments, a sale of which is heralded as a leading event on Broadway.

Neckwear which lends to the interseason garb a seasonal freshness. In ecru or cream-colored net, of eyletted batiste in ecru or cream, or crisp white organdy, the collar and vestee and sometimes the cuffs, add inexpressibly to the charm of any costume for street or sports.

The Choice of Gray.

Gray, finding itself in the limelight of favor, and aware that the blonde may not find its shade becoming, because it detracts from her personal emphasis, and that the brunette may hesitate for the reason that certain shades of the silvery tone minimize her brilliance of complexion—for these reasons, gray has diplomatically chosen as consorts such colors as henna or rust, French blue or coral. Those sharp contrasts enable gray to be accepted by any and all complexions and at the same time render garments more attractive than when gray is used singly.

Do You Know Low Prices?

Do you recognize low prices when you see them? Or have you so long protested against the "high cost" that you are unable to acknowledge a low price when you see it? I think this is the case with some of us. When first a special price comes under observation, we begin to think backward to prewar times and it is difficult to recall the prices then prevailing.

I heard a discussion recently, between two women pausing before a downtown window wherein were displayed some really remarkable values. "Is that cheap, do you think?" asked one. "I don't know; let's see—last year similar merchandise was about double that price and before that—well, yes, I believe that is a real bargain, let's go in and look the offerings over." I wondered if they would be certain at closer range and I hoped so, for, in my judgment, genuine bargains were offered there.

Sacque-ing of Fashion.

The sacking of Rome or some other historic city may have been exciting, but at present we are giving our undivided attention to the sacque-ing, which relates to the top garment of the sports or street suit. Quaint and interesting, fraught with youthful charm, are the newest sacques, whether they be of the material like the skirt, which they accompany, or in vivid contrast thereto, in both color and material. There is something so jaunty, not to say positively saucy, about the outward sweep of the sacque-like top garments! Alluring in the extreme are they. When, as in the instance of one shown for wear with an accordeoned and striped sports skirt, the sacque is of Persian tinted and palm leaf patterned fabric. Oh, it is to adore!

The Retrieved Redingote.

Fashion has swung backward to time's earlier flight in the selection of many of the season's favorites and in none more noticeably than in retrieving the redingote.

This garment which, with its dignified sweep of skirt, recalls pictures of those royal periods in France, when the study of la mode's moods was deemed worthy of the leaders at court, comes to us this season with modernizing touches, rendering it even more fascinating and far more useful than in those days of old. I predict that the redingote will find favor as a separate top garment, to wear with various frocks and gowns. In black and in taffeta, especially, is it likely to be adopted, because of its convenience and facility of use for many occasions. The lines in themselves, too, are becoming, the fullness of the skirt lending itself well to the incoming silhouette.

Gingham Again.

Gingham is again in favor for dainty frocks and for the accessories of frocks. In nothing is the use of this interesting material more striking than in the new vestees which employ fine checkered gingham in blue and white, red and white, lavender and white. Freshly youthful are these accessories, some of which show the rounded collar to be worn with a black tie, carelessly looped or crossed, some having cuffs and others depending wholly for their chic upon the colorful charm of the vestees.

The Dotlet on the Veil.

Long ago there was a light opera air, expressive of the importance relating to the dotting of the "I." Now every woman knows the importance of proper dotting of the veil and with what acclaim will the news be greeted that one may have one's veil dotted according to one's whim! A brotherly arrangement, I declare this. You and I both know well how becoming or decidedly the reverse may be the dotting of the veil. The coquetry of the veil may be inestimably enhanced by its alluring dottery, or it may give to the wearer an air of coarseness, of vulgarity. Now that one may dot according to one's dotting, there can be no excuse that one could not discover a becoming veil. It rests with you as to the kind of veil through which you behold the world and are by the world beheld.

With Fashion's Approval.

Applied braids and glazed ribbons will be widely used for spring.

Grosgrain ribbon and milan straw combine to make charming hats.

The circular skirt, worn over a closely fitted underskirts, is here to stay.

The snugly fitted bodice and slightly panniered skirts are being worn.

On evening slippers one sees tortoise-shell heels, twinkling with brilliants.

A dress of mauve crepe de chine has the edges bound in French blue ribbon.

Many smart bathing suits are of the fashionable new "pineapple weave."

A hat of brown tulle is trimmed with a wreath of golden oats and grasses.

The wide Moyen age neck and deep armhole are used for some afternoon frocks.

An evening headdress may be a bandeau of jade velvet sparking with diamonds.

One interesting frock has a long-pointed bodice, a petal apron and well-shaped sleeves.

The skirt of a gorgeous evening gown ends in trousers which fit over the slippers like gaiters.

Gauntlet gloves of white kid are stitched in tan and have inserts of tan kid around the cuffs.

APPENDICITIS

Appendicitis attacks at any moment, even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by stomach trouble or constipation. Many people have a bowel movement every day, but it is not a COMPLETE movement and much old, stale matter stays in the system to ferment and cause trouble. Often there is only a small passage in the center of the bowels while the sides are covered with old, hard matter which sticks to the bowels and often poisons the system for months, making you feel tired all the time and "half-sick." Even if your bowels move slightly each day, that is not enough. There must be an occasional THOROUGH, complete cleansing to bring out all the accumulated poisonous waste matter.

Appendicitis is an intestinal infection spreading to the appendix, and it can be guarded against in the same manner in which you guard against the spread of throat infection (sore throat.) When you have sore throat, you can often prevent further trouble by using an antiseptic wash or gargle to destroy the germs, and a laxative to carry off the poisons from the body. Very similar treatment is necessary to guard against appendicitis. But instead of an antiseptic wash for the throat, an INTESTINAL antiseptic is necessary and a COMPLETE drainage of the bowel system.

INTESTINAL ANTISEPTIC.

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleaner. This preparation, known as Adler-I-Ka, acts as follows:

It tends to destroy or remove harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here. It is the most COMPLETE system cleaner ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and bringing out foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart and other vital organs. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adler-I-Ka draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much MORE foul matter is brought out which was poisoning your system. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headaches, one spoonful Adler-I-Ka ALWAYS brings relief. Adler-I-Ka is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary stomach and bowel medicines and the various oils and waters, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action.

REPORTS FROM PHYSICIANS.

"I have used Adler-I-Ka in my practice and have found nothing to excel it." (Signed) Dr. W. A. Line.

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adler-I-Ka." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I use Adler-I-Ka in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. Prettyman.

"After taking Adler-I-Ka I feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

"Thanks to Adler-I-Ka I can sleep all night now, something I could not do for years." (Signed) Cora E. Noblett.

Adler-I-Ka is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

By Mrs. McLaughlin.

Mrs. Edward McLaughlin of 402 South Western avenue was yesterday hostess at a very attractive affair—a tea planned as a courtesy to her mother, Mrs. Harry Young of San Francisco, who is visiting her. The table was beautifully adorned with early spring blooms.

By Mrs. Doheny.

The luncheon presided over by Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny at her Chester Place home on Thursday was one of the important and handsome affairs of the week. It was planned as a courtesy to Mrs. Cordenio A. Severance of St. Paul, Minn., who has taken the Pasadena mansion of Mrs. A. C. Bilicke for the winter. Mrs. Estelle Heartt Dreyfus entertained with a group of songs. The luncheon was served in the famous Pompeiian room and guests were seated at the mirror table which was springlike in its beauty, with masses of daffodils, violets and lilies of the valley. Plates were set for Mmes. Severance, Franklin K. Lane, Hancock Banning, Fred L. Baker, A. C. Bilicke, Fred Babcock, O. F. Brant, William Bishop, J. E. Betzold, Michael J. Connell, J. S. Wedding Anniversary.

One of the charming affairs of the week was given Thursday evening when Mr. and Mrs. William Metcalf Armstrong celebrated their second wedding anniversary with a supper-dance for seventy-five guests in the palm room at the Ambassador. The favors were handsome little dice sets in silver boxes for the men and perfume bottles in cloisonne holders for the women.

Preceding the dance, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Braly entertained a dinner party in honor of Mr. Armstrong's sister, Mrs. Paul Henderson of Cambridge, Mass., and for Mrs. Alfred May of New York, who has been visiting Mrs. Herman Janss.

Guests for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones, Messrs. and Mmes. Everett H. Seaver, Lee Karns, Howard Schoder, J. Benton Van Nuys, James Rathwell Page, Morgan O. Adams, L. J. Dennison, Herman Henneberger, Robert I. Rogers, Charles H. Palmer, Harold Braly, Howard Armstrong, George Malcolm, W. J. By Mrs. Fisher.

Mrs. J. J. Fisher gave a dinner party Wednesday at the Beverly Hills Hotel. Her guests included only relatives, who are at that hostelry this winter and were: Mrs. John L. Porter of Pittsburg, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fisher and Miss Natalia Fisher and Henry Fisher of Redlands, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Mitchell and John F. Mitchell of Pittsburg, Miss Josephine D. Fisher of Oil City, Pa., and Miss Alice Walsh.

Bridge Tea.

Miss Frances Ackley of 112 South Hoover street was yesterday hostess at a bridge tea at which there were twenty-four guests. It was a valentine affair and red roses, carnations and sweet peas decked the table and the rest of the house. Favors in little red satin boxes were given. From out of town there were Mrs. Wayne Clarke of Santa Barbara, Miss Dorothy Lafferty of Davenport, Iowa, and Miss Gertrude Spanner of Toronto, Can.

—o—

By Mr. and Mrs. Mead.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mead, who make their home at the Beverly Hills Hotel, were hosts at a delightful dinner party on Friday evening.

Sweet peas and Scotch heather were arranged in a mound as a centerpiece. Seated at the table were: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gustavus Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Callender, Mr. and Mrs. Boyle Workman, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Charles T. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Bishop and Mrs. Davies.

For Two Matrons.

As a courtesy to Mrs. Albert Miller Stephens, who has recently returned from East Orange, N. J., and for Mrs. H. H. Barber, of San Francisco, who is visiting Mrs. Frederick Klamp, Mrs. C. Q. Stanton entertainded at a luncheon on Thursday at the Wilshire Country Club. Plates were set for fourteen.

—o—

Honored by Governor's Wife.

Miss Conchita Chavez of 3932 Marathon street, Los Angeles, is being much feted during her visit in Santa Fe, N. M. On Friday evening a week ago she was honor guest at a brilliant reception and dance given by Mrs. M. C. Mechem, wife of the Governor, who entertained in the executive mansion. Miss Chavez is an accomplished pianist and singer and one of the enjoyable features of the dance was her singing of operatic selections.

—o—

Revealed at Luncheon.

At a lovely luncheon at which her mother, Mrs. Champ Vance, was hostess on Thursday, announcement was made of the betrothal of Miss Adele Vance and Mark Barrett Cosby, son of Mrs. May Barret Cosby of 672 Crenshaw Boulevard. Mr. Vance, father of the engaged girl, is vice-president of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. Miss Vance is a graduate of Westlake School for Girls and of Miss Hammond's School in San Francisco. Mr. Cosby, who is in the construction business, was educated abroad and at Stanford. At the table, which was beautifully adorned with sweet peas, plates were set for eighteen guests.

—o—

At Beverly Hills Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Smith of Oyster Bay, N. Y., have arrived in Los Angeles and are domiciled in their sunny bungalow at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

By Mrs. Klamp.

Mrs. Frederick Klamp presided over a luncheon of elaborate appointments on Friday in compliment to her sister, Mrs. H. H. Barber of San Francisco, who is her house guest. The table was beautiful in its floral dress of pink roses and early spring blossoms.

New Printed Georgettes at 2.75

All new designs in pretty color combinations. Such a wealth of possibility is always embodied in the printed georgette that this item of the Sale will be particularly welcomed. Width 40 inches.

Heavy Georgette Crepe, 1.95

An assortment of some seventy or more shades, so you see choosing to "match" or for contrast is an easy matter. A guaranteed quality which we recommend without hesitation. Width 40 inches.

New Dress Satins, 1.95

A very desirable quality that will appeal for formal and informal frock making. Not too heavy for underslips either. A beautiful assortment of the new and wanted shades. Widths 36 inches.

Two-Tone Gros de Londre at 2.75

One of the choicest of modern silks for dance and evening dresses or equally correct for outdoors sports wear! Nothing is more alluring and practical than these pretty two-tones. Width 36 inches.

Hickson Plaid Sports Silks at 3.95

Paris and New York have given these new Hickson plaids the stamp of approval! You will not wonder when you see the charmingly different and smart effects conceived for this Spring. Width 36 inches.

Swiss Finished Taffetas at 2.95

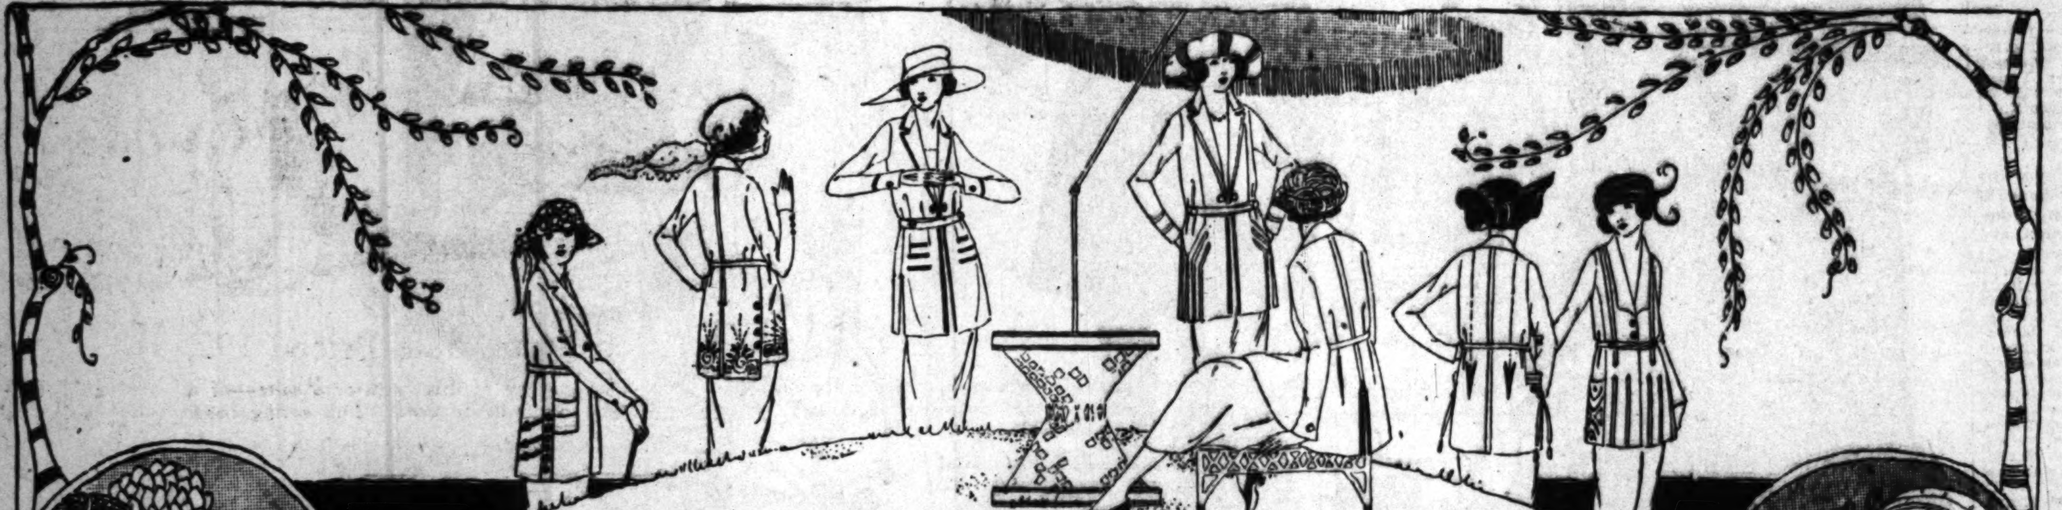
In all the realm of taffetas nothing is prettier than these soft, yet crisp, Swiss finished taffetas. In great demand this Spring, these will soon find happy owners. Many colors with plenty of brown and navy. Width 36 inches.

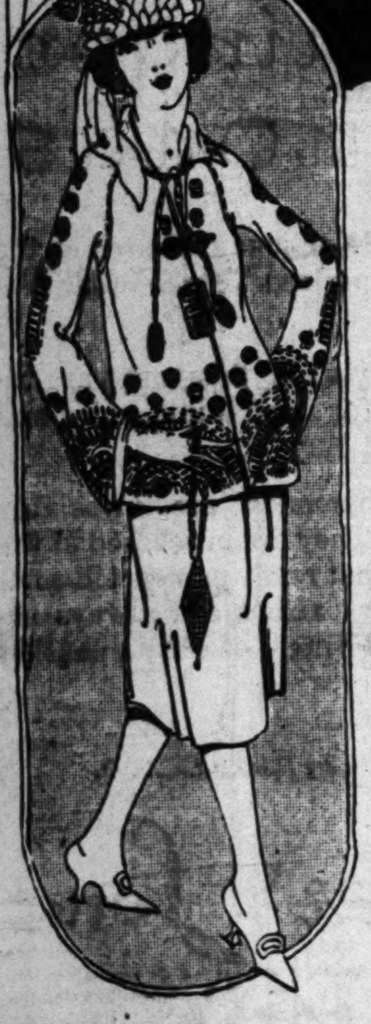
Chiffon Taffetas, 1.95

The quality is NOT to be judged by the price, but rather the unusualness of the price by the superiority of the quality! You just can't imagine how really fine they are! Good color assortment. Width 36 inches.

Extra Salespeople and Every Accommodation to Aid You in a Happy Selection of Your Spring Silks!

(Hamburger's—Main Floor—Monday)





In the Face of a "To Order Only" Market We Are Able to Announce for Monday a Master Sale of

Women's New Spring Suits 49.50

A sale unusual from every angle! There are practically no suits in the better makers' hands to be bought at price concessions!

To avoid cancellations, they have resorted to making suits ONLY upon order from samples!

But—determined to culminate negotiations that would make for a masterful sale of Spring suits AT THE VERY THRESHOLD OF THE SEASON, we combed the market, gathering a few here and a few there from makers whose tailoring meets the Hamburger standard—and Monday morning present them at a price amazingly below their intended markings.

The Best of the Spring Fabrics and Fashions Combine to Make It a Stirring Sale

Tailored modes with narrow belts—glorified box effects—blouse tendencies—beaded and braided styles—all silk lined throughout. Twenty-five styles in all and a color assortment that offers you the full complement of Spring's favorites.

Not wishing to appear to overstress the importance of this sale, we can say, in all earnestness that we believe it is doubtful if the Spring CAN offer more such values as these! Women's sizes only 34 to 46.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

SOCIETY.

taining by Misses Harriet Williams, Johnson and Miss Loraine Elder. An interesting feature of the afternoon was a Burton Holmes travelogue on China and Siam given in the ballroom, which was hung with Chinese tapestries and banners. In this room were groups of curios gathered by Dr. and Mrs. Huntington in the Orient. The birthday cake was cut in the dining-room, which was aglow with pink roses and lighted tapers. Favors in the form of full-blown candy roses were shaped as bonbon holders.

By Mrs. Banning.

A handsome luncheon, arranged as a courtesy to Mrs. Cordenio A. Severance of St. Paul, Minn., was presided over on Friday by Mrs. Hancock Banning.

For Miss Hancock and Miss Eaton.

Miss Elizabeth Hancock of Montreal, Can., and Miss Marjorie Eaton of Illinois were hostesses at a jolly dinner and dancing party at the Ambassador on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Charles Jeffras was the chaperon. Others in the group were Misses Margarita, Camille and Rowena Schneider and Messrs. Lisgar Grier, Brown, Nat Jeffras and Blakey.

For Mrs. Barr.

Mrs. Lawrence Barr of Denver was honor guest at a beautiful luncheon that Mrs. John Newton Russell gave at the California Club on Friday. There were plates for eighteen. Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Russell gave a dinner and theater party for Mrs. Barr and on Wednesday evening entertained at dinner and at a box party to see Pavlowa's Russian ballet.

By Mrs. Lane.

Mrs. Franklin K. Lane was hostess yesterday at a handsomely-arranged luncheon in honor of Mrs. Edward Lawrence Doheny, whose house guest she is.

Mrs. Long Here.

Mrs. Joseph B. Long, society leader of Chicago, who for years has spent her winters in Los Angeles, has returned, coming in time for the bachelors' ball Monday evening and for the big dinner given by Reese Llewellyn preceding it.

She is a member of a party that Mr. and Mrs. John Milner are entertaining over the week-end at the Crags Country Club. Mrs. Long is a guest at the Ambassador and plans to do much entertaining during the six weeks she will be here.

Miss Emeleen Childs.

Friends of Miss Emeleen Childs will be interested to learn that she is being widely feted just now in Washington, D. C., while visiting her aunt, Mrs. William D. Dwight. Her Parisian wardrobe is attracting much attention and two frocks have been especially admired the past week. One is a contrasting blouse of white satin worn with a black satin skirt smartly draped, rather short, but not narrow. She wore this at a tea at the Peruvian Embassy. Another smart gown showing the latest departure in line is a black tulle creation in dancing length with twelve separate tiers, each pointed and picoted, gathered at a normal waist line. The shortest of these flounces come to the knee, giving a new and becoming silhouette. The top is the conventional draped bodice with low back cut in straight, rather than pointed lines. Miss Childs has not been home since she left for Paris during the war as a nurse in the French Red Cross, but she and her mother, Mrs. William Osro Childs, who joined her in France more than a year ago, have been in New York some time and have been planning to return to Los Angeles this spring. Miss Childs will be in Washington six weeks.

At Vista del Arroyo.

Mrs. Edwin Francis Holmes was guest of honor at a beautiful dinner party on Tuesday evening at which Mrs. O. W. Powers of Salt Lake City entertained at the formal opening of the Vista del Arroyo at Pasadena. Mrs. Holmes looked marvelous in her gown of rich ivory-colored satin embroidered in gold and silver and combined with black velvet which formed a quaint train. Wide bands of brilliant were over the shoulders and fell down the right side below the knee. Others in the company were Col. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cosgriff, Miss Greta Cosgriff, Mode Wineman, Dr. Fitch Mattison and Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Powers.

Mr. and Mrs. Browning.

Mr. and Mrs. John Browning and daughter, Miss Barbara Browning of Ogden, Utah, are here for the winter, having come down from Santa Barbara, where they have been several months.

A Young Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bayly are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter. Mrs. Bayly was formerly Miss Helen Brant.

By Mrs. Bilicke.

Mrs. A. C. Bilicke on Tuesday was hostess at a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, Mrs. Cordenio A. Severance and Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny.

Mrs. Clopton.

Mrs. Virginia Marshall Clopton of this city and her daughter, Mrs. Leland D. Webb of Honolulu, arrived in San Francisco last week from the Hawaiian Islands and are visiting Mrs. Josephine Marshall Fernald in Palo Alto. They are on their way to Washington and New York.

By Mr. and Mrs. Anton.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis L. Anton were hosts at a smart dinner party on Tuesday evening in honor of Ciro Molino, Consul from Colombia, and his fiancee, Miss Isabella Eoracol of Havana, Cuba. Other guests were Miss Rebeca Marquiz of Havana, Mrs. Simpson, Miss Lillian Simpson, Col. and Mrs. Frank Greene, James Yeager (of Zamboango, P. I.,) and several others.

Music-Tea.

Hostesses at the music-tea given at the Little Theater on Tuesday were Mmes. Michael J. Connell, L. S. Montgomery, William S. Hook, Jr., Cecil De Mille, Lee Allen Phillips, Philip Wiseman, Edward Laurence Doheny, Jr., Edwin T. Earl, Edwin Jessup Marshall, Eugene O. McLaughlin, Secondo Guasti, Frederick Kimball Stearns, Robert I. Rogers, Robert D. Clarke, Henry C. Lee, Rufus P. Spaulding, Russell McDonnell Taylor, Harold Wrenn, J. M. Danziger, William L. Valentine, W. E. Dunn, Granville MacGowan, Kate S. Vosberg and Miss Mira Hershey.

Pretty Wedding.

Miss Elizabeth Miller and Clarence D. Coulter were married Monday evening in the study of Rev. Herbert Booth Smith. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Miller of 726 South Harvard Boulevard and a sister of Mrs. C. F. Blakesley. She was dressed in gray Georgette over coral satin and wore a corsage bouquet of orchids and Ophelia roses. A buffet supper followed the ceremony. It was given at the home of the bride's parents, which was adorned with acacia, sweet peas and heather. Mr. Coulter is the son of Mrs. Olive Coulter of Virgil avenue. The couple have gone on a motor trip and later will be at home in Berkeley.

SOCIETY.

—o—

At Coronado.

Mrs. Thomas Scovell Jewett, wife of Capt. Jewett, U.S.N., who is stationed at the naval air station, North Island, entertained with a delightfully planned bridge tea Monday afternoon, her guests including Capt. and Mrs. Taylor Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Dieterich, Mrs. Tom L. Johnson, Mrs. Ernest A. Jansob, Mrs. Victor Carringer and Mrs. Lillie E. Allen.

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Martin Lathrop of Los Angeles are passing their honeymoon at Hotel del Coronado. Mrs. Lathrop was formerly Miss Marion Smith, daughter of John Smith of 602 Kingsley Drive.

—o—

By Mrs. Choate.

Mrs. Rufus Choate of B avenue, Coronado, entertained with a bridge and tea at her home Monday afternoon, the house being decorated with a profusion of spring flowers and foliage. Four tables were arranged for the bridge games and afterward forty guests dropped in for tea.

—o—

Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Hopping entertained with a dinner party in the Silver Grill of Hotel del Coronado Wednesday evening preceding the midweek dance, their guests including Mr. and Mrs. Julius Fleischman, Mr. and Mrs. Raymund V. Morris, Mrs. Nathias Evans Manly, Mrs. Calvin Bertolette, Mrs. Edward Hersch, B. K. Gatins and G. F. Dempsey. The men of the party are all enthusiastic polo players, who are scheduled for the various games at the Coronado Country Club this season.

—o—

Valentine Party.

In one party at the Valentine dance at the Ambassador tomorrow evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Buchanan, Mrs. James Soutter Porter, Mrs. Roberts Kamm, Mrs. Edwin T. Earl, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jeffras, Miss Emily Warner, Miss Virginia Woods, Col. R. S. Stevens of Washington, D. C., E. Trowbridge Hall of New York, Lee Blackmore, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wright, Mrs. Dutton, and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Finnucane and Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Anthony are also to entertain parties at the Valentine dance.

This dance is an invitation affair and it is the plan of Mrs. Charles Jeffras, hostess, to make these dances attractive enough that grandfathers and grandmothers and parents may mingle there with the youngsters.

On Friday night in the grill were Mr. and Mrs. Finnucane, Mrs. Nathaniel Twining, Mrs. Jotham Bixby, Jr., Mrs. Roberts Kamm, Mrs. James Soutter Porter, Mrs. Irving Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, Mrs. Dutton, E. H. Harrison, Dr. De Gerin, E. T. Hall, Mr. Steadman, Mr. Van Ranssaelaer, and others.

By Mrs. Moon.

Mrs. Frank Hall Moon of Orange avenue, Coronado, is entertaining as house guest Mrs. Charlotte Cameron of London, who is on her way to the South Seas. Mrs. Moon will accompany her on her trip. They are planning to leave about March 1. Many delightfully arranged affairs have been given in honor of the visitor who is an author of note and is going out to the South Seas to study the natives and surroundings before writing her new book.

—o—

Mrs. Spreckels.

Mrs. John D. Spreckels was one of the hostesses at the matinee tea dansant given at Hotel del Coronado Monday to see Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn in their second performance. Her guests were Mrs. Jan Van Houten, Miss Minnie Siebein, Mrs. A. L. Consmiller and Mrs. Frank Von Tesmar.

—o—

Weds in Alhambra.

Of interest to a large circle of college and musical friends in this city and suburban communities, was the marriage last Thursday at Alhambra of Miss Florence Chase and Frank Beckett McMillian. The wedding was a pretty home affair at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Chase, 320 North Garfield avenue, performed in the presencse of about fifty friends and relatives. The ceremony was performed beneath a huge bell of sweet peas in the living-room of the home, which was decorated in the same flower. Rev. Holland Burr, assistant pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city, of which the bride is a member, officiated. Rev. Burr was formerly a college mate of Mrs. McMillian. Her father gave away the bride, who was charming in a gown of white, trimmed with old lace. Mrs. McMillian is a former Pomona College girl and is a talented musician, having acted as organist at several Los Angeles churches. The marriage is the culmination of a romance begun in the Alhambra high school. Mr. McMillian is an extensive citrus grower of North Whittier Heights and has erected on his ranch there a beautiful bungalow, which is to be the future home of the couple. They will be at home there after March 1, following a brief honeymoon.

By Mrs. Marshall.

Mrs. John Murray Marshall is to be a luncheon hostess this week.

—o—

At Temple Baptist Church.

The marriage of Mrs. Selma Heineman and Edgar M. Stevens took place at Temple Baptist Church on February 8, with Rev. Henry Miles Cook officiating. The bride, who is a daughter of Dr. R. T. Hasselrus of Chicago and sister of E. R. Hasselrus of Brownwood, Tex., has been the secretary at the Page School for Girls at Highland Park for the past two years and is much beloved there. The groom is the son of Dr. E. F. Stevens, formerly of Medford, Mass., and is connected with the Pacific Pipe and Supply Company of this city. He has a record for foreign service in the late war.

Miss Emma E. Page, principal of the Page School for Girls gave a beautifully appointed dinner on Monday evening in honor of the bride, when members of the faculty presented her with handsome gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will be at home at 4943 Pasadena Avenue Terrace after February 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Vescei.

Desider Josef Vescei, brilliant young pianist, and his bride, formerly Miss Nina Jones, who are being lionized by the New York four hundred, are planning to return to Los Angeles shortly for a month's visit. They have been entertained by Miss Vincent Astor, Mrs. Charles Seuff, the Duke and Duchess de Richelieu and others, many of whom have also been entertained by Dr. Alexis Kall of this city who is also in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Vescei have postponed their trip to Europe.

—o—

Dr. and Mrs. Burkelman.

Dr. and Mrs. Arnold Burkelman, of 938 Beacon street, entertained informally last Monday evening in honbr of Mrs. Hettie E. Wyatt of Kansas City and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burkelman and Martin Burkelman of New York, who are spending the winter here. Mrs.

The Heppelwhite Pattern of sterling silverware is carried in Los Angeles exclusively by Brock and Company. This beautiful pattern is characterized by a charming dignity and grace that has made an epoch in the history of silverware. Rarely has a pattern ever attained so much popularity, had so much influence on the designs of its period, or been so widely imitated.

A set of genuine Heppelwhite Sterling Silverware will still have the value of the original, when all the copies and imitations of it are known as such, or quite forgotten. We believe a visit to our silverware department will prove of real pleasure to you. There is, of course, no obligation to purchase.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.—[Advertisement.

FIX STOMACH RIGHT UP

"Pape's Diapepsin" at once ends Indigestion, Gases, Sourness, Acidity

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

When your meals don't fit and you feel uncomfortable, when you belch gases, acids or raise sour, undigested food. When you feel lumps of indigestion pain, heartburn or headache, from acidity, just eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and the stomach distress is gone.

Millions of people know the magic of Pape's Diapepsin as an antacid. They know that indigestion and disordered stomach are so needless. The relief comes quickly, no disappointment, and they cost so little too.—[Advertisement.

Red carnations and hearts were used effectively in the decorations. Those present were Misses Martha Hoegee, Kendra Hamilton, Jessie Herron, Lillian and Sadie Windhurst, Adelaide Simpson, Elma Brunty and Mary Thompson.

Silver Wedding.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl A. Wickland celebrated their silver wedding anniversary with a dancing party, of which a mock marriage, with Dr. J. M. Peebles officiating, was a feature. The couple stood in a bower of acacia blooms, white sweet peas, carnations, palms and ferns. The bride's dress was of ivory charmeuse and silver lace and was made en train. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Florence Dorn, Mrs. Herbert Speth, Mrs. Lillian Steeb, Mrs. Harold Heacock, Mrs. Helen Barker, Mrs. Corinne Heacock and Mrs. Gertrude Gunn. The ushers included Herbert Speth, Arthur Timmons, Harold Heacock, Edward Martindale, E. W. Knowles, Howard Martindale and Theodore Loretz. Harrold Bensinger was best man and the matrons of honor were Mmes. Anna Campbell, Anna Bensinger and Nelle Watts. There were ninety guests.

Quiet Wedding.

Before a bower of carnations and ferns Miss Laural Harriette Bridgham of Portland, Or., and John W. Ivey of this city were married by Rev. W. H. Rogers at the home of the bride's brother, Emery Bridgham of Hyland Flats.

The bride's gown was of beaded net over white silk. Her tulle veil was fastened with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a shower of white sweet peas, hyacinths, lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern. A dinner followed the ceremony, covers being laid for fourteen guests.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. Mary Norfleet of 1423 South Gramercy street announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Norfleet, to Henry M. Willis, Jr., son of Henry M. Willis of 2102 West Twenty-fourth street, Los Angeles. The wedding is to take place April 2. The announcement was made at a card party and tea given by the bride-elect's mother for a group of fifteen girls. The tea table was centered with a bowl of pink and white carnations.

SOCIETY.

day anniversary of Miss Albrechtson. It was held at he home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hautschel of 1146 Ardmore avenue, with whom Mrs. Albrechtson and her daughter have been visiting all winter. There were thirty guests. The visitors will leave shortly for their home in Baltimore and the wedding date will be told later. Mr. Graham is the son of Benjamin F. Graham, prominent oil broker of this city and Fort Worth, Tex. He resides with his mother, Mrs. Sarah A. Graham, on their ranch in Van Nuys.

Out-of-Town Society.

PASADENA.

Despite the advent of Lent, there are many social events being scheduled in Pasadena. The past week was a gay one. On Tuesday night local and visiting society turned out in large numbers to the formal opening dinner and ball at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo.

Two big balls were held in Pasadena last night. A St. Valentine's ball was held at the Hotel Maryland, preceded by a dinner-dance. There were mnay large dinner parties, including one at which Mrs. A. Foster of Toronto, who is spending the winter here, entertained forty guests. The affair was in honor of her daughter Miss Isabel Foster. Stanley Robinson also entertained at a large dinner party. At the Vista del Arroyo last night a Lincoln Day dinner-dance and ball was held.

A pretty home wedding of the week was that of Miss Mildred Lydia Reiter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Reiter, and George Pink, formerly of Butte, Mont., which took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's brother, Willmer Reiter, 694 Elmira street. The ceremony was performed by Dr. W. E. Tilroe, pastor of the Lake-avenue Methodist Church, in the presence of fifty friends of the young couple. Miss Esther Olson was bridesmaid and Chester Mathews best man.

The first of a new series of fortnightly dinner-dances was held Friday evening at the Pasadena Golf Club, at which many members of the club entertained at dinner parties. The dinner dances at the club will be held on Friday evenings hereafter.

The Annandale Golf Club held a dinner-dance last evening, attended by many members.

Miss Geraldine Shipley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Shipley of Altadena, and Robert Kahl were married Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, 448 Wappelo road. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Cornell. The bridegroom is a son of E. S. Kahl of Pasadena.

Mrs. W. R. Brown, 642 Galena street, entertained Tuesday afternoon in honor of the first birthday anniversary of her son, Richard.

Former Gov. and Mrs. Edward C. Smith of Vermont, who are spending the winter at the Huntington here, entertained twelve guests at a dinner party at the hotel Thursday evening, preceding the Thursday evening dance. Mrs. F. R. Babcock, who is here from New York for the season, entertained at a dinner party for twenty-one guests.

Mrs. V. Bernard Herbst entertained at luncheon and bridge at the Annandale Golf Club Thursday.

Mrs. William J. Doran of Los Angeles entertained at a luncheon, followed by bridge, at the Vista del Arroyo, Friday. Mrs. Stuart W. Logan of Chicago also entertained at a large bridge luncheon there that day.

Two short plays, "Mistaken Identity" and "Partners in Spain," were presented in the Romanesque room of the Green several evenings the past week by a group of New York actresses spending the winter here. The plays were produced for the entertainment of the guests. Taking part were Nettie Peck Saunders, Lento Fulwell, Marie Biarney, Katherine Drake, Eva Victor and Lutie McKee Rose. The plays made such a hit at the Green that the players took them to the Huntington one night.

One of the large social events of the past week was the ball held by the Order of Amaranth of Pasadena Wednesday night at the Vista del Arroyo. There were many members of the Masonic orders present from near-by cities. The committee in charge comprised Adelaide Ticknor, Aydle Aydelotte, Florence Medway and John L. Breiner.

The Women's Civic League held its regular luncheon and meeting Tuesday at the Maryland, with Gov. W. D. Stephens and A. L. Garford as the special guests of the occasion.

Thomas J. Walsh, the eastern financier, and Mrs. Walsh were among the new arrivals in the winter colony at the Green this week. They will remain until late spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ladd Gifford of Oak Knoll entertained at a dancing party at the Flintridge Country Club Monday evening for their son, Brooks Gifford, who is a student at Occidental College.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. G. Billings and Mr. and Mrs. George O. Knapp of Santa Barbara motored down this week and are staying at the Huntington for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heinz of Pittsburg arrived from the East this week and are at the Vista del Arroyo for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baird of Buffalo are at the Maryland for the season. Mrs. Thomas W. Mann, four times women's golf champion of Buffalo, also is here for the season.

Many prominent golfers, here for the visitors' tournament at the Pasadena Golf Club the past week, attended the golfers' dinner at the Maryland Friday night.

Mrs. E. L. Ellingwood, 614 South Lake avenue, entertained the Pasadena Music Study Club Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. W. L. Moffit of Albany street entertained at a bridge party Wednesday afternoon.

FULLERTON.

C. C. Chapman was a guest at the tea given by Judge Crail of Los Angeles in honor of Gov. Stephens recently.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Compton had the following as week-end guests last week: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pyle, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Compton and son, C. Bell of Pasadena, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Pyle from Marion, O.

Dr. and Mrs. Fred Wood of Alhambra spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Gurman Hoppe.

Cards are out announcing the engagement of J. C. Harris, prominent business man of Fullerton, and Miss Dorcas Swartz of Pasadena. While no date has been announced for the wedding, it is understood it will be in the near future.

Congressman Swing was a Fullerton visitor on Wednesday afternoon.

L. E. Plummer, principal of the Fullerton Union High School, is in Oakland attending a convention of high school principals.

On Wednesday evening the Ebell Club entertained at dinner Mr. and

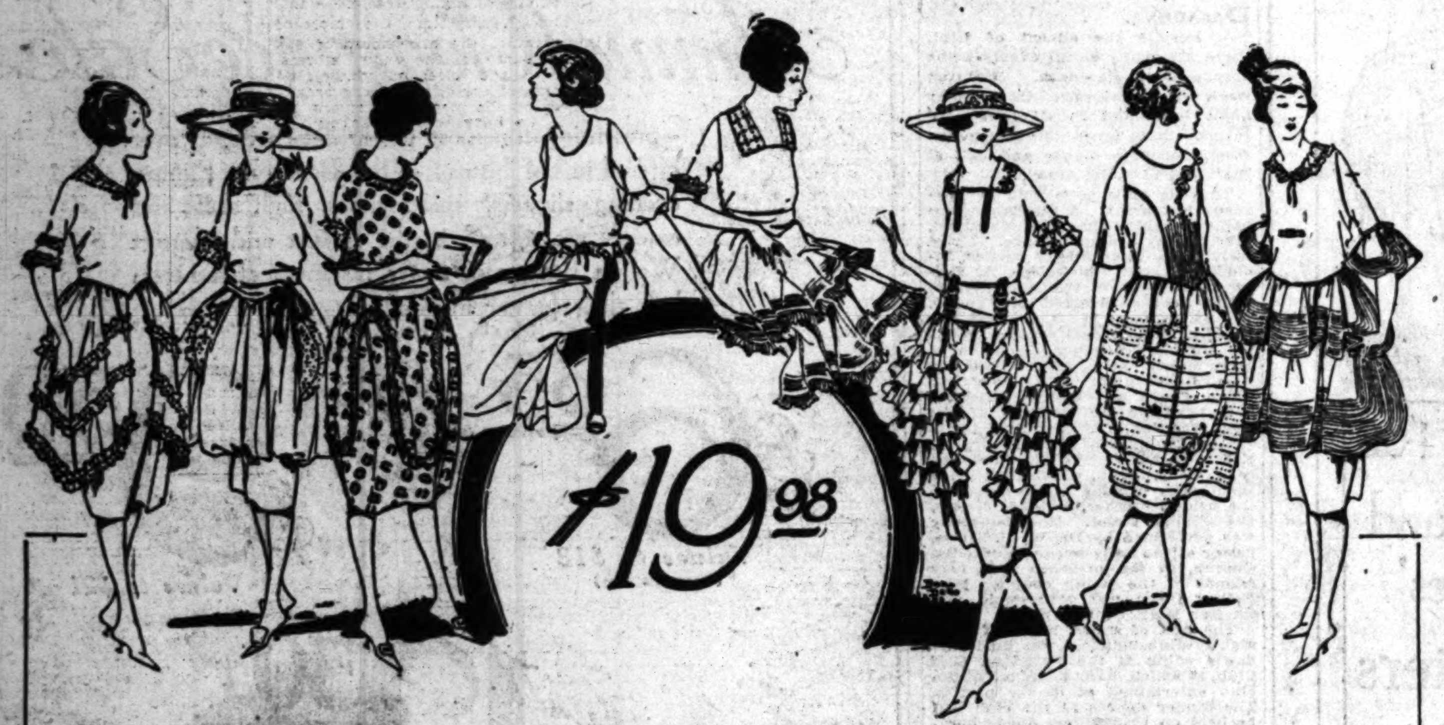
Our FEBRUARY SILK SALE of $50,000 worth of high-grade Silks!

2350 Yards SILKS for Monday at $1.00!



A Remarkable Purchase Brings 150

New Spring Dresses

for a Monday Sale at about Half Price

$19.98

—The eight dresses that are pictured above give you a good idea of what to expect in the way of styles—and one of the best things about this sale is the fact that there are practically all sizes from misses' 14's to women's 42's in each of the different styles.

—For the most part these dresses are of Taffeta—and it's a Taffeta such as you would never in the world dream of buying in dresses for as little as $19.98.

—When word first came from our New York office that they were sending dresses from a certain high-grade dress manufacturer so that we could sell them for $19.98, we thought there must be a mistake, for this manufacturer seldom makes dresses to cost as little as this selling price.

—But the dresses themselves are here now, and ready, and in spite of all our doubts, they have been billed to us so that we can sell them for $19.98.

—And how they will sell! Those which have been on display in one of our windows have caused a perfect furore. Hundreds of women have been asking for them, but not one has been sold, and not one will be sold until Monday morning, so if you are here at 9 o'clock you'll have an opportunity to select just the one that you like best.

—The color range includes Navy, Brown, Black, Copenhagen and Gray. As we said above, there are all sizes from misses' 14's to women's 42's.

Third Floor—South Building—Jacoby's.

—Our Silk Buyer has been in the Eastern Markets for several weeks past, gathering Silks for this February Silk Sale.

—In spite of the advancing Silk Market, he has accomplished what we had never dared hope that he would, and now $50,000 worth of brand new Silks are here and they are to be sold at prices that will be of intense interest to every woman.

—First among all these Silks are 2350 Yds. of Silks to be sold at $1.00 Yd. Among them are Silk Shirtings in a wonderful range of patterns and colors. There are Georgettes and Crepe de Chines in quite a wide range of colorings, including plenty of Pinks and Whites, and also some splendid BLACK TAFFETAS and SATINS.

Another Sensational Group of SILKS will be featured Monday at . . $1.98

—Nearly all of the Silks that are to go at this price are half price, or close to half price—and of even greater importance is the fact that they are all new Silks—the Silks that are most wanted right now. Among them are——36-inch Chiffon Taffeta in a full range of colors with plenty of Navys and Browns.

—36-inch Black Satin Duchesse—just about 75 yards.
—36-inch Satin stripe Taffeta—one of the newest Silks for Sports Skirts. Comes in Navy, Brown and Plum.
—40-inch Printed Georgettes in a wide range of exquisitely colored scroll and flowered patterns.

—If women know Silks as we think they know them, there will be little of this silk left by store-closing time, Monday.

Imported Silk Pongee, 87c Yd.

—An imported, all silk Pongee in a good weight for dresses, shirts and children's wear.

Satin Messaline, $1.39 Yd.

—36-in. Satin Messaline at about half the regular price. Colors, Navy, Copen, Pekin and Block.

36-in. Charmeuse, $1.49 Yd.

—A fine Charmeuse for dresses. Colors Navy, Black, King Blue and Copenhagen,—just one piece of each color.

Crepe de Chine, $1.79 Yd.

IT'S THE FEW WHO ARE FUNNY

Long-Distancing a Top-Notch Comedienne.

She Got Her Job on Her Face in "Sweetheart Shop."

Then They Shut the Door on Any More Like Her.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

Why is being funny hard for a woman? That, is being funny in an original way, without imitating anybody else? Why are there so few really funny women of the stage?

That's what I wanted to talk about to Esther Howard, face-card comedienne of "The Sweetheart Shop," who has been taking New York and Chicago by storm. Perhaps our old friend Freud could give us an explanation, founded on feminine "suppressions," etc., but I wanted an explanation right from a girl who has just stolen all the bases.

Why, you ca fairly count the real comediennes of our day on the fingers of one hand. I don't mean the high-brow comediennes like Mrs. Fiske and Mrs. Patrick Campbell; I refer to those that cause your diaphragm to do a shimmie.

Trixie Friganza, Charlotte Greenwood, Florence Moore, May Robson, Nora Bayes—these are real comediennes, and they have a host of imitators. By the way, the same holds true of the screen, with only Dorothy Gish, Mabel Normand, Mary Pickford, Polly Moran occurring to me at this moment as real feminine fun makers.

So a real comedienne is a gem of ray serene, worth her weight in gold to any manager.

Back in Butte, Mont., twenty-six years ago, was born a little girl who hadn't any suspicion, until a few months ago, that she was funny. That is, not funny professionally. She kidded around enough to make the home folks laugh, but her stage aspirations may be judged when it's known her favorite "piece" for public recitation was "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight." Now the rippling laughter has followed her all the way across the country.

"I never took my joking seriously, so to speak, in my 'teen days," explained Miss Howard, in course of the long-distance interview I had with her over the phone from Denver, the other night.

For, while no doubt if ever there's a case in which silence may be said to be golden it's certainly in connection with a long-distance telephone conversation, still, really funny women being so scarce, and Esther Howard's being reported to be so very, very funny in "The Sweetheart Shop," it did seem a pity not to give the more or less eager public something of an idea as to what this famous funmaker, who visits the Coast for the first time, is like. So they romped around for me, over in Denver, until they finally located Miss Howard in her dressing-room.

PLAYED YOUTH.

"Hello!" she exclaimed from the other end of the wire. "Even if it takes ten dollars' worth of language, I'm going to explain that I'm purely an accident in the fun field. I started out playing Youth in 'Everywoman' back in a St. Louis stock company, and you know what a swell chance a girl has to be funny in that solemn old Gloomy Gus play.

"The only reason I got my New York job in 'The Sweetheart Shop,' that time I ran over there to see if somebody didn't want to put a new face on Broadway, was because Edgar J. MacGregor, the producer, said that I 'looked funny.' Told me that right to my face.

"I felt bad a minute when he said that. Then I said, 'Funny enough for a hit?' and grinned at him.

"I guess the grin got him. Anyway he engaged me. And nobody could have been more surprised than I was myself at the way people laughed at my antics. I was afraid they were simply making fun of me, but no, they really liked me.

"Really, though, I don't look so funny," she explained in an injured sort of tone. "Right this minute, if you could see me, I do, because I'm all made up as a Greenwich Village vampire, and you know they have to look funny or no one would notice them with so many other funny looking people about.

"And—well, I think maybe I am a queer sort of looking girl, at that, but otherwise I'm all right. When I was young people used to stop and look at me, but now I stop and look at them.

"All the eccentric things I do on the stage I've copied from persons I've seen on the street. I guess you'd call me a nut comedienne."

"Why are so few women of the stage funny?" I demanded.

"Vanity," answered Miss Howard, instantly, so that we didn't waste a golden second of time. "They prefer being bromides to being original, for fear somebody will laugh at, not with them. Also, you know very well women like to make people cry.

"Oh, if some girls I know can just hear the sniffling clear across the footlights, and look down and see all the dear matinee girls of 40 and upwards bathed in tears, they feel their day has not been wasted.

"Then too, girls like to look pretty all the time. They don't want to have people see them with their hats tipped over one ear and the make-up off their noses.

"But there's another thing. Women are afraid of the truth, and the truth is so often comic."

Then I asked my sacred, if rubber-stamp-y, question.

"Would you marry a Los Angeles man?" waiting breathlessly for her answer.

"Yes—that is, if he weren't a movie actor," she came right back at me. "Motion-picture actors seem not to take marriage seriously enough. Marriage is serious to me because I'm not serious, if you get me. I mean I require a staid, reliable sort of husband as a proper balance."

LINE 'EM UP FOR ME.

I could almost see her grin as she added, "Anyhow line up the prospective bridegrooms at the station when I get in. I'd like to look them over. And please be on hand to help me make a choice. But I warn you, I never use make-up, except on the stage.

"And speaking of make-up and husbands, our chorus girls never use make-up on the street; yet they've all had from three to ten proposals of marriage since we opened in New York. Doesn't that speak well for the paintless girl?"

Maybe it does, but probably it isn't necessary for them to use make-up. I happen to know the length of their Paris street dresses.

At any rate "The Sweetheart Shop" seems to be well named. Two girls married and left the show just before the end of the Chicago run of the piece, and two more are shortly to be married.

And as the show opens appropriately on St. Valentine's Day, who knows what may not happen right here in our fair city?

Especially as the girls are going to give the men in the audience a treat tomorrow night by coming right down into the audience and distributing valentines autographed with their own fair hands, while still other fair maids will toss candy hearts from the stage.

"Oh, one thing more—" began Miss Howard. "Does Los Angeles really look like the picture post cards? And—"

But a rude, rough voice interrupted us: "Can the sap! We gotta get that there pork market report in some time tonight!"

"After all, what's art?" sighed Miss Howard, ringing off.

BLUE GRASS REALITIES.

A remarkable insight into the lives of mountaineers and backwoods folk is had in "The Kentuckians," which Charles Maigne filmed in the Blue Grass State.

Footlight and Film

Constance Talmadge in "Dangerous Business," Alhambra.

Helen Raymond in "Dear Brutus," Hollywood Community.

Elaine Hammerstein in "The Daughter Pays," Clune's Broadway.

Edith Hallor in "Just Outside the Door," Hippodrome.

"The Inside of the Cup," Grauman's Rialto.

Otis Skinner in "Kismet," Tally's Broadway.

Fatty Arbuckle in "Brewster's Millions," Garrick.

Mildred Harris Chaplin in "The Woman in His House," Ambassador.

"WAY DOWN EAST" IS TO HAVE SECOND SHOWING

"Way Down East" will show for a return engagement, beginning the 21st inst. at Philharmonic Auditorium. This is positively the only week to be given over to this showing, it is stated. There will be the same setting, and atmosphere, besides a large orchestra.

This picture recently played a long run at the Auditorium. There have been but few pictures which possess its appeal. The scenic beauties of the changing seasons—summer, the haying time, the colors of the autumn, the drowsiness of the Indian summer, the snow storms, the ice and sleet of winter, the blossoms of spring time, the breaking up of the ice-gorged rivers, all create an impression of beauty.

THEATER DEAL IS COMPLETED.

Associated Producers to Run Films at Symphony.

Redecorating of House is Part of the Plans.

Special Programs and Music Are Announced.

Final arrangements have been consummated between Dr. Breckwedel, managing director of the Symphony Theater, and Thomas H. Ince, president of the Associated Producers, Inc., giving the local film impresario exclusive first-run privilege in Los Angeles on all photoplays produced and distributed by the group of directors, including Mr. Ince, J. Parker Read, Jr., Mack Sennett, Maurice Tourneur, C. Gardner Sullivan, Allen Dwan, George Loane Tucker and Marshall Neilan.

The Symphony Theater is undergoing a complete physical change. On completion of the remodeling this photoplay house will be essentially attractive. It will be known as the New Symphony Theater.

A Hope-Jones organ is being installed and the orchestra is to be enlarged. The decorations are in the hands of a famous Boston interior decorator, who is personally responsible for hundreds of America's most beautiful picture theaters.

The initial Associated Producers' presentation which is scheduled to open February 20 will be Thomas H. Ince's "Lying Lips." This picture is creating nothing short of a sensation in the East and is being hailed as a superior to Mr. Ince's "Civilization."

House Peters and Florence Vidor play the leading roles and are supported by a typical all-star Ince cast. "Lying Lips" was directed largely by Mr. Ince himself.

The Navy played a part in the making of the picture. The entire crew of the battlecruiser Minneapolis were used in some of the scenes.

Dr. Breckwedel stated yesterday that he had arranged for a series of special programs to accompany the pictures of the Associated Producers. The acquisition of the A. P. product is recognized as a big coup, as the eminent directors are planning a season of bigger and better photoplays.

EUROPEAN PICTURE SHOWS AT THE KINEMA.

"Passion," the spectacular European picture, presented as the opening attraction of the Ambassador Theater last week, is to continue at the Kinema Theater. The program will include the S. Barret McCormick symbol prelude, "Clay," in which are introduced "contortionable" masks of Alex Hall. This prelude, in pantomime, is shown in a setting by Mario Larrinago; the various dancers were trained under the personal supervision of Marion Morgan.

The film "Passion" tells the love story of the little French milliner whom the world came to know as Du Barry, and who, by her power, ruled a king and an entire country. It is the romance of the world's most daring adventuress.

Rene Williams has augmented his orchestra and set "Passion" to a special score.

OUTFOLLYING THE FOLLIES AT BURBANK.

Ed Armstrong has upset tradition, according to those who have witnessed rehearsals of his latest revue, "Go Get It," by outfollying the Follies. In other words Armstrong's new musical show to play at the Burbank, beginning today, is the last word in travesty.

The thirty-six baby dolls will introduce the new crystal gowns. These costumes, from an original design by the producer, are said to be startling in design. Another novelty will be a number of rapid costume changes in full view of the audience.

"YANKEE" CONTINUES THRILLING AT MILLER'S

"A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" is now in the eighth consecutive week at Miller's. The crowds of Mark Twain's admirers have been filling the theater.

The spectacle, for such it is in every sense of the word, has some sensational climaxes. There is, however, so much laughter in the Twain story that there is no time for tears.

The Fox production has now had more than 360 showings at Miller's.

HAYAKAWA VACATIONS.

Until he is ready to start his next feature, Sessue Hayakawa has planned a program of rides for his main recreation. The all-steel plane will serve him in the air, while his favorite mount and fast car will be used for covering the ground. His next Robertson-Cole picture will be started in about two weeks.

DANCING GIRL.

Pretty Frances Pritchard Will Top the Orpheum Bill.

Another pretty dancing girl is to top the Orpheum bill the week beginning with the matinee of February 14—Valentine's Day—and she will be a valentine to everyone in the audience. She is Frances Pritchard, unknown here, but famed in the East a stepper of unusual grace and skill. With her are Edward Tierney and James Donnelly, who participate in the clever little skit that links their act together and makes it unusual—"The Dance Duel."

The other headline act is proffered by James F. Conlin and Myrtle Glass, a couple well known in vaudeville, who bring a new act called "The Four Seasons and the Four Reasons." Miss Glass, as all recall, is a beauty, while Conlin is a master of grimace and clownery, and the combination is admirable. Their new act is different from anything they have proffered before.

The middle of the bill is featured by two clever boys. One is Joe Laurie, Jr., the "pint size" comedian, who brings a nondescript affair called "What I Care." Jimmy Lucas, the other, has with him a lovely damosel, Francene, and they portray "Vampires and Fools."

The Herbert loup-the-loup canines, roosters, cats and the like, will be a fascinating offering; Selbini and Grovini offer in the follies of vaudeville a varied series; Healy and Cross will present some smart songs, and the Lightner Sisters and Newton Alexander, with "Little Miss Vamp"—and ten of 'em—will be retained another week.

"IN SIDE OF THE CUP" REMAINS AT RIALTO.

The second week of "The Inside of the Cup" begins at Grauman's Rialto today.

This photoplay is meeting with greater success than Winston Churchill's novel of the same name achieved. The tense emotional parts are interpreted by a capable cast including William P. Carleton, David Torrence, Edith Hallor, Jack Bohn and Marguerite Clayton.

The musical score accompanying "The Inside of the Cup" is contributing, in a great measure, to the success of the photoplay.

LOIS WEBER PICTURE.

Lois Weber's third Paramount special "What's Worth While," an unusual photoplay, of the transition of a rugged miner into a polished society man, will show at Grauman's Theater next week. The cast includes Claire Windsor, Arthur Stuart Hull, Mona Lisa, Louis Calhern, Edwin Stevens and others. Sid Grauman promises a prologue and several surprise acts, as well as a special music score.

LOIS WEBER STORY.

"What's Worth While" Seen at Grauman's Tomorrow.

"What's Worth While," Lois Weber's third special Paramount production and the most unique of her creations, opens at Grauman's Monday.

Louis Calhern portrays a hardy western mining man who becomes a social lion in order to win the love of an eastern butterfly, played by Claire Windsor the star.

Mona Lisa as a divorcee, Arthur Stuart Hull, Edwin Stevens and other favorites form an unusually strong cast.

Another gorgeous prologue and several original acts will be presented to accompany "What's Worth While." An interpretative musical program has been arranged by Misha Guterson, and Henry Murtagh, at the Wurlitzer, will render the best popular pieces.

"Paying the Piper" appears at Grauman's for the last time today.

MUSIC SURVEY SOON.

Community Service Committee to Determine Resources.

The music committee of Community Service, F. W. Blanchard, chairman, is to make a survey of the musical resources and conditions of Los Angeles, it is announced.

The data to be gathered will cover practically every phase of music in the community. Information will be asked regarding music in industry, in the churches, in the schools, among the foreign population, the attendance at symphony, choral and artists' concerts, and, in fact, concerning the musical life throughout the city.

Members of the Community Music School at the University of Southern California will have charge of the gathering of most of this data, under the supervision of the community music committee.

The information secured will be used as the basis for future plans for community music development in Los Angeles.

"THE DAUGHTER PAYS."

New Angle to External Theme at Clune's Broadway.

Elaine Hammerstein's winsome personality will again be in evidence in "The Daughter Pays," her latest photoplay, which comes to Clune's Broadway today for the week's chief attraction there.

The story was written by Mrs. Baillie Reynolds, and in novel form created a sensation on two continents when it was first published.

The adaptation of Mrs. Reynolds's story provides Miss Hammerstein with a role that allows full play for her capabilities as an emotional artiste and also offers her greater dramatic opportunities than any in which she has yet appeared.

In the screen version the star reveals two striking domestic questions that cannot but retain the interest of audiences. The first question is whether a woman dare risk her future happiness by marrying for money. Miss Hammerstein appears in the role of a serious, refined and sensitive girl, daughter of a worldly foolish and selfish mother.

A fine supporting cast, which includes Norman Trevor, Theresa Maxwell Conover and Robert Ellis, enact the principal characters of this domestic drama. Mr. Ellis, who plays an important role in the picture, also officiated in the capacity of director.

"UP IN MARY'S ATTIC."

Eva Novak in Amusing Comedy at the Symphony.

"Up in Mary's Attic," starts at the Symphony today.

It is a logical comedy consistently carried out, which only goes to show that comedy to be funny need not be far-fetched, and the very humanness of the picture contributes to make it stand out as a production of merit.

Bathing girls and college girls are used in the picture to form a background.

Eva Novak gets her laughs through legitimate means and without resort to grotesque makeup. Harry Gribbon plays opposite Miss Novak as an instructor of physical culture. Minnehaha, the rotund Indian squaw whose corn-cob pipe will be remembered by every one who saw "Mickey," plays an important role in the picture.

Bathing girls on the stage of the Symphony will serve to secure the proper atmosphere.

Another feature on the bill is Al St. John in "The Slicker," a Fox Sunshine comedy.

CONNIE TALMADGE TWINKLES MERRILY.

Constance Talmadge, in her comedy, "Dangerous Business," is the attraction at the Alhambra Theater. "Connie" plays the role of Nancy Flavell, who, not wanting to marry, seeks to avoid the fate by telling her parents and friends that she is already wed. Then, when the alleged groom appears on the scene and calls her bluff.

In the supporting cast are George Ramond, Kenneth Harlan, Florida Kingsley and Nina Cassavant.

VAUDEVILLE LURES MURRAY.

Film Comedian is to Make Countrywide Tour.

First He'll Take Vacation in Hula Land.

Scintillations from the Stage and Cinema.

It appears to be the open season among the movie folk for long vacations spent at the ends of the earth, the latest aspirant for honors being Charlie Murray, the comedian.

Mr. Murray is working on the closing scenes of the romantic comedy, "Heartbalm," in which he is playing one of the leading roles. When he finishes, which will be in course of a week or two, he and Mrs. Murray will take a trip to the Hawaiian Islands, where they will spend several weeks.

On their return, the Celtic comedian will assume an important role in the Sennett production of "Molly-O," in which Mabel Normand is to star.

Mr. Murray has a lively schedule laid out for himself. When he finishes "Molly-O" he proposes to make a tour of one of the big vaudeville circuits. Anticipating such an extended leave of absence from the pictures in general and Mack Sennett studio in particular, the Murray home on Westmoreland Drive has been put on the market.

"For," explained Mr. Murray, "I certainly am going a-touring, and that isn't because I am tired of the screen, but I believe thirty weeks of vaudeville will give me a fresh viewpoint, new ideas and a new zeal to resume the quiet life of picturedom.

"That I can make the tour over the big time is pretty well settled, since I have but to accept one of the several offers already made me. I shall do a single, as they call it in vaudeville, but I will not forget that audiences pay to be entertained."

While in Honolulu, Mr. and Mrs. Murray will be entertained by some theatrical folk, friends of the Murrays, now sojourning in Honolulu. They will also take trips over the entire islands, visiting the volcanos and other points of interest. A special lauau, or native feast, is to be provided for the Murrays, and if Charlie Murray doesn't give us a good comedy travesty of the hula when he gets back, we're going to feel as though we had been cheated.

T. Roy Barnes with Realart.

Some of our very best stars, nowadays, are putting their dimmers on for the time being, and accepting leading roles in support of other stars. Such a one is T. Roy Barnes, acknowledged to be one of the best light comedians of both stage and screen.

Mr. Barnes Friday last signed with Realart to play a lead in support of Wanda Hawley.

Bereavement Note.

Not content with conquering the world by long-distance treatment through the medium of motion pictures, Wallace Reid is contemplating nothing less than a trip around the world. This trip has, in fact, been offered him by Famous Players-Lasky, and he expects to undertake it some time within the next few months.

Of course, it will be a motion picture trip, and he will be expected to work a few hours every day before the camera; but otherwise nothing seems to stand between Mr. Reid and the time of his young life.

"Penrod" Sends Valentines.

A new record for sending out valentines will be established Monday by Wesley Barry, the diminutive Marshall Neilan star. He will remember more than 10,000 school children of Los Angeles with heart-shaped red cards bearing his picture and carrying a St. Valentine greeting.

The picture on the valentine will show Wesley Barry in the role of Penrod, in which he is to make his stage debut at the Little Theater Monday night. And, by the way, if you hope to see "Penrod" during its first week's run, you'd better be romping down there to get your tickets, as it looks like a complete sell-out before the first performance.

Devil's Gate Location.

Richard Jones, director for Mack Sennett, had his feature company out on location at Devil's Gate yesterday, where they filmed some exciting scenes in a house perched high on a rock. The picture is being made under the title of "Heartbalm."

Fred W. Jackman is in the snow district around Truckee and Tahoe filming some scenes where Noah Beery is suppose to have an adventure with wolves, as part of the same picture. The Sennett bathing girls are on the Truckee location, and in bathing suits, too.

Vitagraph Head Here.

With a portfolio of production plans and an enthusiastic outlook for the year in the motion picture industry Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, arrived Tuesday night from New York. With him came George Randolph Chester, who will go various prominent authors one better by directing his own story for the screen. Mrs. Smith (formerly Jean Paige) and Mrs. Chester accompanied their husbands. Frank Heath, assistant director for Mr. Chester, also was a member of the party.

"The Son of Wallingford," Mr. Chester's latest story, will be the first special production in Mr. Smith's plans. The author, who has for two years been production editor of Vitagraph, will personally direct the scenes. Casting will be started immediately.

Mr. Smith has been in New York during the crucial months of the industry, but is apparently optimistic. His production plans include not only "The Son of Wallingford," but the James Oliver Curwood story, "Flower of the North," which will be made as a special. David Smith will direct this.

Mr. Smith maintains his interest in Los Angeles as the logical producing center and plans, gradually, as he has done in the instance of Mr. Chester, to transfer administrative and production units from his eastern studio.

EDUCATIONAL HEAD HERE.

E. W. Hammons, president of the Educational Film Corporation of New York, through which the Hamilton-White Mermaid Comedies, Christie and Chester "Outings" and comedies are released, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday to visit and confer with the various producers who release through Educational.

HEAR "BETTY"—SOME SONG.

Gladys Walton,
Starred in "Rich Girl, Poor Girl," at the Superba.

BATHTUB HER NEMESIS.

But Gladys Walton Solves Riddle By Ostracizing Men.

The bath tub can readily be hailed as one of America's most democratic institutions. For rich and poor it holds the same appeal and significance. In the realms of art it occupies an important psychological niche, for what singer does not start to vocalize as soon as he enters the room of the enameled walls? It even has a chaise longue and literary value, which is proven in the instance of those people who never rest or read until they drop into the bath.

In the case of Gladys Walton, star of "Rich Girl, Poor Girl," showing at the Superba, however, it was almost the cause for her going on strike. During the filming she was informed that some of the most humorous and important scenes in the production would show her in a bath tub.

In the story, the poor girl, little Nora of the slums, takes a full course in soap and water as a part of transition into the silken-clad rich girl, Beatrice. Miss Walton plays the role of the poor girl, as well as the daughter of the millionaire.

She was finally persuaded by Director Henry B. Harris to realize the importance of the "Saturday night" scenes and at last consented to pose for them, but specified that only women be allowed on the set. This ultimatum caused the director considerable consternation. Who would direct the picture? Who would crank the camera?

Harris finally conceived the idea of rehearsing the action with the star enveloped in a bathrobe and seated in an empty bath tub. Miss Walton's maid was coached to turn the crank of the camera, the tub was filled with water. The male contingent was then shooed out, and Miss Walton and her maid completed the scene.

MUSIC WEEK IN LOS ANGELES END OF MAY.

Music week in Los Angeles is to fall May 29 to June 5, patterned after the very successful music week held in New York City last February. The attention of the entire community will be attracted in every way possible to music. The organizations of the city, the social and civic clubs, the churches and every group in the community will be requested to devote programs to music.

The purpose is to reveal to the community its present musical resources and stimulate interest in good music.

Tentative plans were decided upon at a meeting held in the office of the Los Angeles Community Service Wednesday afternoon of this week. F. W. Blanchard, chairman of the music committee of Los Angeles Community Service, presided and there were present representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, the Lion's Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Recreation Commission of Los Angeles, the Music Trades Association, the One Hundred Per Cent Club and the Music Teachers' Association. Several other organizations, whose representatives were not able to attend the meeting, have also indorsed the project.

Chairman Blanchard was authorized to appoint a special committee to work out plans for music week, this committee to represent various organizations and groups. In the working out of the plans the local committee will have the assistance of Alexander Stewart, special representative for community music in California, for Community Service, Inc., who has been assigned to Los Angeles by the national organization to assist in plans for the development of community music on a permanent basis.

GASNIER PREPARES.

With the continuity finished for his latest picture, Louis J. Gasnier is awaiting the completion of his sets to start filming for Robertson-Cole. The prominent French director has a dramatic story. Mark Strong and Arthur Edeson are still the mainstays of Gasnier's working organization. Wayne Harmon, illuminating engineer, will handle the lightings.

Art Director Heywood at the Robertson-Cole studios may well be proud of the gorgeous sets he recently built at the new studios for Pauline Fredericks's latest picture. On one of the large stages he has a set containing nice spacious rooms, all connected. They are an exact duplicate of the main floor in one of England's costliest and most beautiful homes outside of London.

Since a number of people at the Robertson-Cole studios claim New York as their native city they are kept from ever getting homesick by the typical New York street recently built for one of the companies on the lot. Anyone seized with a desire for slumming can get all the true atmosphere on the New York street set.

WILL GIVE "STABAT MATER."

A presentation of Rossini's "Stabat Mater" will be given by a chorus composed of members of the Catholic Woman's Club, under the direction of Thomas Taylor Drill, March 21 at the Ambassador Theater. An excerpt from Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" and the Gloria from Mozart's Twelfth Mass will be sung. The orchestra will be in charge of Alexander Saslavsky, violinist, who will render a solo number, the Good Friday music from "Parsifal."

COSMO HAMILTON STORY

William D. Taylor will begin work next Monday on Cosmo Hamilton's story, "The Almighty Dollar," in which Ethel Clayton will star for Paramount. Julia Crawford Ivers has adapted the story for the screen.

HEAR "BETTY"—SOME SONG.

CHARLEY PYKE WRITES MISSION PLAY SONG.

The musical program of the Mission play has been augmented this season by a new song, written especially by C. E. Pyke, who has directed the staging and dancing since the first season. The song, "Li Dia Festivo," is arranged for an ensemble and beautifully blends the solo parts with a quartet. It is particularly adapted to the voices of the native Spanish singers, who add such a touch of realism to the play.

The fiesta scene, the chief musical episode, is one of the most vivid bits of natural joyousness that has ever been staged. It is characteristic of the spirit of the Latin people.

Throughout the play the music is sweet and quaint with the tinkle of stringed instruments. It fits into the atmosphere and one feels it to be an expression of the historic and picturesque time.

GARETH HUGHES AS STAR IN METRO FILM.

Gareth Hughes, soon will be seen in the first special production to be made under his new contract with Metro. "Barber John's Boy," a swiftly moving tale from the pen of Ben Ames Williams, has been selected by Bayard Veiller, Metro's chief of productions, as the vehicle in which the young player will make his bow.

The story revolves about a boy whose father went to prison for a twenty-year sentence for killing the doctor who, through carelessness, had caused the death of his wife. With his return to his home town he is received with open arms, by everyone but his own son, Mike. The son is ashamed of the fact that his father is a "jail bird" and, feeling that he can never outlive the disgrace, makes up his mind to leave town and start life anew. His experiences help to make the plot.

MAKING COMEDIES.

Four important comedies are in the course of production at Universal City. William Beaudine is directing "The Bug House," a one-reel laughograph featuring Dorothea Wolbert. Ward Hayes is making "His Acting Wife," a travesty on fake dramatic schools, with Billy Fletcher in the featured role. Lyons and Moran are busy on "Roman Romeos," a two-reel burlesque on tragedies, and Harry Burns is directing Joe Martin, the human ape, in an animal comedy in two reels.

TITLE CHANGES.

Universal announces several changes in the titles of features recently completed. "Blood Brother to the Pines," in which Frank Mayo is starred, is to be known as "The Magnificent Brute," Harry Carey's recent production, "Everybody for Himself," will be released under the title of "The Freeze Out." "The Bobbed Squab," in which Gladys Walton is playing, will hereafter be known as "All Dolled Up." "Opals of Evil," the serial featuring Art Accord, now being produced under the direction of Albert Russell, is to be known as "The White Horseman."

RETURN FROM BAHAMAS.

Seena Owen and members of the cast of "The Woman God Changed" have returned to New York from the Bahama Islands, where scenes were shot under the direction of Robert Vignola. The picture is practically completed. Miss Owen may remain in New York for another picture before returning to Los Angeles.

CLARY AT UNIVERSAL.

Charles Clary, who recently scored such tremendous success in the role of King Arthur in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," has been engaged by Universal to play an important character role in "The Opened Shutters," starring Edith Roberts. This is Clary's first engagement at Universal City since he had the role of the merchant prince in "The Day She Paid," more than a year ago.

HEAR "BETTY"—SOME SONG.

Alice Elliot,
Playing an important role in "Clarence," at the Majestic.

MISS VARDEN CLOSING STOCK ENGAGEMENT.

Booth Tarkington's "Clarence," will start on the fourteenth week of the run this afternoon at the Majestic Theater.

The interest will be greater than usual for this marks the termination of Evelyn Varden's engagement as leading lady for the Wilkes forces. She has resigned her position to go to England.

In the role of Clarence, Edward Everett Horton will continue to delight his audience with this humorous character, and he will be aided by those clever juveniles, Sara Sothern and Stanley Taylor. Supporting the principals are Forrest Seabury, Vivian Moore, Alice Elliot, Franklin Pangborn, Harry J. Leland and Marie Curtis.

MORE CHRISTIE COMEDIES.

Two directors are this week working on pictures for release through Educational and two more pictures are in preparation at the Christie studios. The new pictures include another Christie two-reeler, in which Neal Burns and Dorothy Devore are featured, and a new single reel picture directed by Scott Sidney. The pictures are a part of the regular schedule, which has been adhered to since last February. E. W. Hammons, president of Educational, and Charles H. Christie have been in conference all the past week and during their trip here from the East by way of New Orleans with reference to planned productions.

EGAN PUPILS IN PROGRAM.

A recital was given by the pupils of the various departments of the Egan School last Wednesday in the Little Theater. The program consisted of music, drama and comedy presented by the more advanced students. Beside numerous other attractions Miss Alvina Soffel-Green, a pupil of Homer Grunn; Miss Ethelyn Davis, a pupil of Mrs. Stetzler, and Miss Annette Hughes, a student of Mrs. Bertha Vaughn, will be heard in special numbers for the first time in public. Pupils of Mlle Prager, dancer, will stage a visualization of a waltz theme.

PROCURE DEAN STORY.

"Conflict," a story by Clarence Buddington Kelland, which has been attracting wide attention in the Red Book, where it is appearing in serial form, has been obtained as a forthcoming feature for the use of Priscilla Dean. Miss Dean is now filming final scenes of "False Colors" and then intends to rest for a few weeks. George C. Hull is engaged on the continuity of "Conflict," and Stuart Paton, who is now directing the Universal star, will probably guide her in her next feature.

TORY INTEREST LAWRENCE FILM.

are better than one. seems to be the opinion H. Kern, the producer, lately started a starring with Florence Lawrence, a Biograph luminary. He forces of dramatic in his picture, "The Un-," which should contribute to make a picture alive with action.

An important secondary plot is introduced in the story. The object of this is a denunciation of an atheist, who is one of the principal characters. This is said to represent a colorful and dramatic episode in itself.

Florence Lawrence is supported by Albert Prisco, William Conklin and Lydia Knott in a mother role. The picture emphasizes psychological values, and affords the principals opportunity for strongly conflicting emotion.

Miss Lawrence has had the unique experience of returning to the screen after three or four years absence, part of which time she spent on her estate in New York, quite apart from theatrical activities.

"It is curious how little the methods of taking pictures have changed in that time," she declared. "Of course, there has been a great improvement in settings and photograph, but the principles of acting and the general direction seem quite the same to me."

Miss Lawrence appeared with Mary Pickford, Mack Sennett and others in the old days at the Biograph studios. Her principal roles at that time were dramtic, although she occasionally did light comedy.

"KISMET" CLOSING LOCAL ENGAGEMENT.

"Kismet," starring that superlative artist, Otis Skinner, is in the sixth and final week of its engagement at Tally's Theater.

Mr. Tally is presenting a prologue of considerable beauty, with Geraldine Karma, premiere danseuse of "Kismet," and Baby Bernice Radom, dancers, and Rae Tonielli and Clementine Palmese, sopranos. A musical score of superior character accompanies the feature.

AMBASSADOR PROGRAM.

"Woman in His House" Second Attraction at Theater.

A unique program has been arranged by S. Barret McCormick, to accompany the picture, "The Woman in His House," which is showing at the Ambassador Theater.

"The Valentine," presented by Leona Christensen and Dorothy Brown, with the dances arranged by Ernest Belcher, will usher in the program. This novelty will be followed by the Ambassador of News, and the Screen Snapshots, showing scenes of the formal opening of the unique little art theater.

Norma Gregg will then present a group of individual songs. The Ambassador Theater Wanderings are to take the audience into the land of the Dykes, Canals and the Zuyder Sea.

The intermission will follow and the program is again linked into its completeness by the Overture to "The Beautiful Galatea" rendered by the Orchestra Intime under the baton of Max Weil. This will be followed by the feature picture.

"The Woman in His House" is said to exemplify the divine force of mother love. A materialistic husband who scales the heights of fame, finds himself powerless to save his own child.

The players are Mildred Harris, Ramsey Wallace, Thomas Holding, George Fisher, Gareth Hughes, Winter Hall, Richard Hedrick, Catherine Van Buren and Bob Walker.

"BREWSTER'S MILLIONS" AT GARRICK THEATER.

Joy will reign at the Garrick Theater beginning today. Fatty Arbuckle will head the bill in "Brewsters Millions," his latest Paramount picture.

"Brewsters Millions" is a filmization of the stage play, and shows the corpulent comedian as the man who had money to burn. Imagine, if you can, the fun that will prevail when Fatty appears in baby clothes during the pictures of his childhood life. This is just one of the ludicrous events.

Capable players support the noted funster.

An interesting bill of short features will be shown.

BUSY ON GLYN ORIGINAL.

Gloria Swanson has started work on Elinor Glyn's original story for Paramount, "The Great Moment," scenarioized by Monte Katterjohn. It is being directed by Sam Wood. The first scenes were taken in Burlingame, a lovely suburb of San Francisco, on one of the magnificent estates in which the locality abounds. This is to represent an English home where a sequence of scenes is enacted.

STILL BUSINESS PARTNERS.

Miriam Wills and Jack Clifford, who played "At Jasper Junction" at the Orpheum, are no longer man and wife, because a local court said so last week. They are, oddly enough, still business partners, so the skit will not perish through their domestic difficulties.

MANILA MOVIE MAD.

Wallace Reid is a Popular Star With Islanders.

Louis J. Palmett owner of several motion-picture theaters in Manila, was a visitor at the Lasky studio, recently. Mr. Palmett was very enthusiastic over picture making.

"Manila is motion-picture crazy," said Mr. Palmett, "and I have been anticipating coming to California to see just how they are produced. The boys at Manila College are ardent fans and copy the style and dress of their favorite star, Wallace Reid.

"Gloria Swanson and Elsie Ferguson are also very popular with Manila fans, but Wally is the biggest card and every time one of his Paramount pictures shows at a theater, the crowd lines up for blocks, to see their idol."

JEROME STORM RETURNS.

Jerome Storm, who had to his directorial credit fourteen consecutive pictures in which Charles Ray was starred, has returned to Los Angeles. Storm has concluded arrangements with B. P. Fineman, vice-president of the Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corporation, whereby he will direct Miss MacDonald in her next production. The story is not yet titled.

DE MILLE CUTTING FILM.

Cecil B. De Mille is still busily engaged in cutting his production, "The Affairs of Anatol." It is understood that about March 21, he will begin work on a new picture, but no details are as yet forthcoming.

IMPERSONATOR HAS MANY TROUBLES.

FREDDRIC KOVERT DRAWS CROWD DURING HIS TOURS OF SHOPS.

Having just finished his engagement with Louise Glaum in "The Attorney for the Defense" in which he plays a dual sex role, Freddric KoVert, dance artist and impersonator, is in receipt of an offer for a similar double character part from Mary Savage, former musical comedy star, and now at the head of her own picture corporation. And at the same time he is in demand as an impressionistic or futurist dance artist, for Mme. Nazimova will claim his services for a prominent role in her screen version of "Aphrodite," work upon which will be begun early in March.

KoVert loves his work as a dance artiste, but he declares it takes a brave man to be a feminine impersonator. One of the important attributes of feminine stardom is a costly and extensive wardrobe, and to acquire a flock of gowns and things one must shop for them—in department stores and women's specialty shops.

And imagine a mere man, alone and unaccompanied by a feminine companion, invading milady's special domain in quest of the dainty frills and fripperies. Imagine the consternation such an act on his part would create among the feminine shoppers, and imagine being that man—the cynosure of dozens of astounded, critical eyes.

Having a keen sense of humor, however, KoVert "gets away with it," and enjoys his many amusing experiences.

Recently he needed a pair of long white gloves for the feminine half of the dual role he was playing with Miss Glaum. Seating himself at the glove counter in one of the large department stores, he asked to fit a sixteen-inch glove. Obviously astounded at the request, the saleswoman manager, however, consented to perform the operation of trying on the gloves, but not before a throng of feminine shoppers had gathered about the counter, their wonderment plainly imprinted on their contenances.

"They couldn't figure out whether I was a crank husband fitting gloves for my wife, or whether I was the leader in a masculine invasion, preparing to launch a new fashion among men—elbow length gloves with dress suits," laughed KoVert in recounting the incident.

Buying boots offers a situation equally as rich in humor. But when it comes to fitting a gown—well there, according to KoVert is where his nerve falters.

"However," he says, "I just let the clerks think what they want to—but I'll bet that if I have to take many more feminine roles in picture plays, every saleswoman in town, meeting me on the street, will be pointing me out as the 'nut,' who, not only buys the clothes for his wife, but tries them on for her."

FILM FLICKERS.

Bang! Biff!!! Carrie Clark Ward hit the wall with a smash, and five bill collectors shouldered their way past to where Ethel Clayton stood for a scene in "Sham," the Elmer Harris-Geraldine Bonner comedy now being made at Realart Studio.

"The poor woman surely must be hurt," compassionately remarked Director Thomas Heffron as he stopped the camera and hastened to her.

"Hurt, me eye!" returned the elderly but agile character woman. "After four years in slapstick! Huh!"

George H. Kern, producer of the Kern features, has just received a letter from an elderly rancher in San Luis Obispo, who wants to play the role of screen lover to Florence Lawrence. The aged Lothario states he is only 69 years of age, but is full of pep and is going to have a plastic operation to remove the wrinkles and will be ready for the camera within a week. "I was made to act in the cinema," he says, "and want to play in two pictures before I quit."

"Nope—I'm not going to Europe—not soon any way," Monte Blue was telling his friends.

"A fellow, who is just back, tells me of a passenger who went the rest of the trip without eating because she couldn't get her false teeth loose in time.

"And while my grinders are still solidly imbedded—I'm not taking any chances."

A very green reporter was interviewing Lionel Barrymore at the Whitman Bennet studio between the filming of scenes for "Jim, the Penman" The star helped her along as best he could until the young scribbler repeated questions several times.

Finally she said: "Now, Mr. Barrymore, tell me about your youthful struggles."

"There isn't much to tell," replied Mr. Barrymore, "the more I struggled the harder father laid it on."

While George H. Kern was in San Quentin prison, making arrangements to film scenes for "The Unfoldment," starring Florence Lawrence and William Conklin, one of the prisoners wanted to know when he could see the picture.

"I'll bring it up here and show it in your prison picture theater when that is completed," promised Kern.

"Fine," replied the prisoner, "but don't hurry on my account. I'll be here twelve years."

In preparation for the opening of the 1921 baseball season, Colleen Moore is urging a law for the muzzling of curious feminine spectators who persist in asking questions.

Last season, Miss Moore attended a game, accompanied by a feminine friend who claimed to be a fan. As they found their seats, the friend opened her attack.

"I always have been an enthusiastic baseball fan," she assured the young screen star, "but I need to brush up on a few of the rules. Tell me, what are they all trying to do—those fellows in the white uniforms out there on the field?"

James Neill, veteran stage and screen actor, now a member of the Goldwyn stock company, was arguing the other day for a "five-foot shelf" of books about the theater, so that young and ambitious students could learn the history of their art.

"They know nithing, absolutely nothing, of the traditions of the theater," he complained.

One of the group hastened to the defense of the younger generation, but Mr. Neill was unconvinced.

"Say," he called to a young actor standing nearby, "who was Edwin Booth?" "Why, he used to run a big oyster-packing plant in Baltimore," was the prompt reply.

Whereupon, Mr. Neill smiled a small, sad, but triumphant smile.

In Frank Mayo's current Universal feature, "Blood Brother to the Pines," being directed by Robert Thornby, the plot hinges on a girl making a wager that she can cause a man to propose. Mayo and his leading lady, Dorothy DeVore, were discussing this point the other day.

"Would you marry a man who had proposed to you on a wager?" asked Frank of his pretty leading lady.

"It all depends on how much he had bet," replied dainty Dorothy.

One of the studio wags has indited the following:

ODE TO BULL MONTANA.

Like some modern Collossus, primitive, he stands,
Power and might expressed in every line;
He holds the bridled lightning in his gnarled hands,
Denoting greatness e'en in pose supine.
Out of the chaos of old earth's natal day
They fashioned him for purpose undefined
Gave to him mighty limbs and to the senseless clay,
Breathed life and energy—implanted mind
Then sent him forth to mark a great deed done
Taurus! Montana! Haut et bon!

When Bull, who plays a part in Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle's new picture, "Crazy to Marry," directed by James Cruze, saw this verse, he smiled:

"That fellow is all right," he observed, "but I think he is calling me names!"

MARION WARDE TO STAGE "STOP THIEF."

A benefit production of "Stop Thief" will be given Friday evening at the Gamut Theater. Marion Warde, whose players have an enviable reputation, is presenting the program.

The money raised from this production will be used to help build a clubhouse for District No. 5, California State Nurses' Association. The leading role will be played by Nell Fletcher, and others in the cast are Hugh Griffin in the leading male role, the Misses Ruth Tweedy, Sara Cooley, Dorothy Keeler, Ruth Ward Phillips, Messrs. Winthrope Gardner, Leonard Zellers, John Allison, Lawrence Bub, G. Newton Thompson, Murray Elwood, Capt. John Snider, Walter Farnum, Jr., Jack Williams, Albert Browne and Edward Saunders.

A children's ballet will be a feature of the new dancing department of the Marion Warde studios. The kiddies will appear at a local theater in the near future.

Pauline Frederick,

In the O. Henry romance, "Roads of Destiny," which is to show on the screen at the California Theater.

"ROADS OF DESTINY."

Pauline Frederick in Episode Photoplay at California.

Channing Pollock's adaptation of O. Henry's story "Roads of Destiny," with Pauline Frederick starred, is the Goldwyn feature heading the program at the California Theater today. Miss Frederick is famous for her dramatic ability, and this story is said to give her many opportunities.

The three episodes in which the star plays entirely different roles, give ample opportunity for picturesque scenic variations. The austre beauty of the Alaskan and the formal splendor of the Long Island settings contrast to enchant the eye.

Frank Lloyd directed and surrounded his star with John Bowers, Jane Novak, Willard Louis, Hardee Kirkland, Maud George and Richard Tucker.

On the program is also the new "Edgar" comedy, "Get Rich Quick Edgar" by Booth Tarkington. Twenty-five persons take part in a singing and dancing feature enacted in a woodland setting. Carli D. Elinor has arranged the musical program and Milton Charles will be heard in new organ selections.

POWELL HAS BALLET.

Engages Hotel Dancers for His First English Film.

In staging a big cafe scene—they don't yet say "cabaret" in London—for his production of E. Phillips Oppenheim's "The Mystery Road" at the London Famous Players studio, Paul Powell, who recently went to London from Los Angeles, has engaged one of the foremost ballets in Europe, headed by the famous Phyllis Bedells, who is recognized as the most brilliant English dancer the London stage has ever seen.

Although it was fourteen years ago that she made her debut in London at the Prince of Wales Theater, Miss Bedells is still quite young. She was only a tiny child when she embarked on her professional carrer.

In the ballet in "The Mystery Road," Miss Bedells will have the support of another distinguished dancer, M. Espinosa, who, although bearing a foreign name, has long been before the British public. He comes of a family famous in dancing history.

These principals will be surrounded by the celebrated Tiller troupe of girls from London Palace.

READER SETTLES HERE.

Miss Dora Zimmerman, dramatic reader and teacher, until recently a resident of Pittsburg, Pa., has locatcated in Los Angeles in the Music Arts Building. She is a graduate of Kin's School of Oratory, Pittsburg, and has made a thorough study of expression and dramatic art and a specialty of Shakespearean plays. Miss Zimmerman is also a gifted contralto and many pianologues appear on her recital programs, two of which are to be given in the near future.

DIRECTORS TO BUILD THEIR OWN CLUBHOUSE

Plans for a $200,000 motion picture directors' lodge of modern Spanish architecture, to be erected in Hollywood this year, became known when articles of incorporation were filed in Sacramento by George Clark, attorney, for the Motion Picture Directors' Building Corporation.

The corporation grew out of the Motion Picture Directors' Association, which is headed by Reginald Barker. The charter names the seven trustees of the association as corporation directors. These are Reginald Barker, William D. Taylor, Frank Lloyd, William Duncan, Ben Wilson, Joseph De Grasse and Thomas Ricketts.

The structure will be of stone and cement and will stand four stories high. The site is on Highland avenue, and is owned by the directors. An elegantly appointed cafe will be maintained on the ground floor.

Sixteen offices, a banquet hall and ballroom will occupy the second floor, which opens on a roof garden. The third floor will contain lodge rooms available to such motion picture organizations as the cinematographers, the assistant directors, the art directors, the screen writers and the advertising men. A fourth floor will be devoted to affairs of the motion picture directors' lodge.

According to members of the board, the building will be financed by two $100,000 bond issues, subscribed by members and bankers.

CONSIDERING OFFER.

Slyvia Breamer's term contract with Sidney Franklin, under which she was to be featured, has expired and Miss Breamer is now considering several inviting offers from other directors. During her engagement under Franklin's direction she appeared first in the leading role of "Unseen Forces," a Mayflower picture soon to be released, and later in "Not Guilty," an adaptation of Harold McGrath's novel, "Parrot and Company," produced by Albert A. Kaufman. Franklin's second independent feature from Andrew Soutar's drama, "Courage," will have Naomi Childers in the leading feminine role.

BOOSTS BOBBED HAIR.

Bobbed hair has an advocate in Justine Johnston. "I most assuredly believe in bobbed hair," declares the Realart star. "It is clean, comfortable and very becoming to many people. I believe in dressing the hair to express your personality. Bobbed hair looks charming on the young girl provided her hair is not too thin and wispy or her face too stout. For the matron bobbed hair is entirely out of place. There are innumerable ways of dressing the hair—and the bobbed style is just the proper thing for lots of people."

COMEDIAN IS FATHER.

Eddie Baker, the popular comedian, is passing out the cigars at the Special Pictures Corporation studio as the result of the birth of a baby daughter. She is to be named Charlotte Craig Baker; the first name being in honor of Charlotte Merriam, the little comedienne, and the Craig in compliment to general manager C. C. Craig of Special Pictures Corporation.

OH YOU KENTUCKY!

An entire producing unit has mysteriously disappeared from Universal City and with it a perfectly good star and director. The company is Gladys Walton's and the director is Harry Harris, who is producing "Li'l Miss Merridew," a Universal screen version of "A Kentucky Cinderella." The company has gone on location and the rumor around the film capital is that they are en route to Kentucky. This is made plausible by the fact that Harry Harris is an ardent admirer of Man o' War, the famous blue-grass racer.

PLEASURE TRIP FOR STARS.

On the completion of her present production Rosemary Theby will be the guest of Eileen Percy, Fox star, and Mrs. Rob Dillon on a motor trip to San Francisco, the journey is to be made in Miss Percy's car. Miss Percy, who in private life is Mrs. Ulric Busch, and her guests are scheduled to be honorees at several functions in the northern city, and will remain there a week. Miss Theby is completing her work in the Fox special, "Clung," under the direction of Emmett Flynn. She plays a Chinese vampire in the sequence.

ACTOR PASSES AWAY.

Rudolphe Christians, stage and screen actor, died of pneumonia last week at a Pasadena hospital. He had just finished one of the most important character roles in "Foolish Wives," Erich Von Stroheim's forthcoming Universal photodrama. His death was particularly regretted among the workers at Universal City, where he was exceedingly popular.

Community to Present New Barrie Play.

In announcing "Dear Brutus," by Sir James M. Barrie, to open Monday, February 14, the Hollywood Community Theater gained the immediate attention of theatrical Los Angeles. We have learned to expect big things from the little theater, but this newest exploit causes delighted amazement, even though we thought we had been rendered immune from surprise by past achievements.

That "Dear Brutus," which had its premiere in London three years ago, was then produced in New York and is yet so exclusively the property of the theatrical managers that it has not been released for publication or production, should have been secured personally from the great author for its first western production by the Community Theater seems almost too good to be true.

But true it is, as anyone who has looked in on the Hollywood playhouse during the past week can testify. Rehearsals have been in progress for some time, and the members of the cast are busy working under Neely Dickson's direction, or in more informal groups on the porches going over "bits," while carpenters, painters and stage hands are equally busy with the sets and other technical aspects of a big production. The little green building is fairly bursting with activity, and now everything is in readiness for an auspicious opening tomorrow night.

The sets to be used in "Dear Brutus" will attract much attention, for they have been designed by George Hopkins of the Lasky studios. Mr. Hopkins is an artist of wide reputation and has designed for Oliver Morosco, Morris Gest, the Ziegfeld Follies and Valeska Surratt, and in pictures has been art director for "The Furnace," "The Witching Hour" and "Sacred and Profane Love."

Among the players chosen for the cast one of the best known is Helen Raymond, who will have the part of Mrs. Dearth. Miss Raymond has recently appeared in pictures with Carter De Haven and Mary Pickford, and her career upon the legitimate stage includes a successful London season. Wedgwood Nowell, who will play Purdie, the philanderer, has appeared with Henrietta Crossman, Blanche Bates, Amelia Bingham and William Faversham, and is now being featured in a picturization of the Maurice Le Blanc detective stories. John Prince, who has had a long career upon the legitimate stage and has worked in pictures with Pauline Frederick, will play Dearth, the artist.

Alice Clare is cast as Mrs. Coade, John Macfarlane as Mr. Coade and Rosalind Gardner as Mrs. Purdie.

Joyce Percey, gratefully remembered as Maggie in "What Every Woman Knows," and for many other characterizations at the Community Theater, will play Dearth's "might-have-been" daughter. Barbara Gurney, who will appear as Joanna, is now playing in William De Mille productions and has just finished work in the new Elsie Ferguson picture. Mary Jepp, who has played in Arthur Hopkins productions in New York, will portray Lady Caroline, and Boyd Irwin, now playing leads in Nell Shipman features, has the part of Matey, the profiteering butler. Thomas Ricketts, who has been on the American stage since the early 80's and is now in pictures, will play Lob, the mischievous character about whose whims the action of "Dear Brutus" is centered.

Such a cast for such a play is bound to mean a successful production.

POLYGLOT BILL.

Many Countries Are Represented at New Pantages.

With Italy, Ireland, Russia, America and Japan represented, the New Pantages bill looms up like another League of Nations.

The Imperial Quintet, five of Italia's sweet singers, headline with selections from famous operas, and Rowland and Meehan, who title their offering "A Bit of the Ould Sod," are tuneful "diligates reprisinting" and presenting the melodies of Erin.

Dorothy Lewis, a stately brunette, wears the American colors and sings the latest song hits of the U.S.A., while Chase and La Tour come to the fore with a series of side-splitting topical ditties from Yankeeland. Their bit is billed as "Pink Stockings," and the lady who wears the socks is reputed to rival Annette Kellerman in pulchritude.

Two shapely Russian misses are "The Girls of the Altitude," whose athletic prowess is remarkable, and the Mo-Moe Japanese, star jiu-jitsu experts, demonstrate the wrestling tricks of the Nipponese.

Metro's special, "Clothes," is booked as the feature picture, and a comic classic, featuring Neely Edwards, finishes the bill.

You'll never forget the dimpled, smiling baby, nor the mess he almost caused poor Mary and the fat, old squaw, Minnehaha, who is a feature comedy herself.

The physical instructor married his prettiest pupil, and the trouble they had hiding the baby and keeping the secret goes to make one of the cleanest, cleverest, consistent comedies ever shown on the silver sheet.

A story of unadulterated hilarity, pretty bathing girls, and "pep." Five thousand feet of concentrated laughter and thrills.

SOCIETY.

Mrs. Henricus, Mr. and Mrs. Whitbey, speakers at the American Legion rally; also Mr. and Mrs. Breuckner and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Marks. The dinner was given at the home of Mrs. James Green.

The benefit given at the High School auditorium on Wednesday evening for the disabled veterans of the World War was presented to a full house and proved to be one of the most enjoyable programs ever given in Fullerton.

BREA.

Mrs. E. J. Munger, Mrs. Elmer Curley, Mrs. Guy Hatfield, Mrs. J. Reynolds, Mrs. M. Anderson, Mrs. J. F. Sweitzer and Mrs. Henigan were among the pleasant party of Brea ladies that motored over to Fullerton Friday. They were members of the program committee for the Ebell Club. Mrs. Henigan gave a pleasing rendition of modern Russian music, and a number of vocal solos were given by the visiting members.

Volony Siebenthal was pleasantly surprised by his mother on the occasion of his fifteenth birthday by a gathering of his school friends. Many amusing games were played and refreshments dear to the heart of a boy were served. Those to help celebrate the joyous afternoon were the Misses Dellie Bowie, Clarenda Honey, Mae Rhone, Florence Brown, Alma Moorefield, Messrs. R. Morris, W. Bergman, E. Edwards, W. Wheeler, J. Hopkins and Francis Siebenthal.

Miss Mabel McGee combined business with pleasure and while in Alhambra Saturday enjoyed dinner with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Car and family of Brea Canyon were guests at the home of Mrs. Arminta Junker of Olinda for a social evening, on Thursday.

YORBA LINDA.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Bridge entertained with a dancing party on Tuesday evening. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, light refreshments were served the guests late in the evening. Those to enjoy the hospitality at the Bridge home were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paine, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Anderson, the Harry Kendricks, J. A. Thies and wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. Yerrington, the Misses Anna and Mildred Cole, Edith Kaub, Mrs. Angie Bosworth, Mrs. Myrta Stott, Dr. L. Cochran, W. Kenworthy, L. Singleton H. H. Marsh and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Garrett of Fullerton.

Mrs. Loyde Buckmaster was the surprisee at a pleasant gathering at the home of Mrs. Ben Selover, on Saturday. Mrs. Buckmaster was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Those composing the party were: Mrs. Ralph Shook, Mrs. Gladys Taylor, Mrs. Howard Brown, Mrs. Ben Selover, Mrs. Loyde Buckmaster and Miss Edith Bemis.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Richards of Indiana and Mr. and Mrs. W. Conkles of Arcadia were over Sunday guests at the Roy DeWitt home. Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt also entertained for Sunday dinner Mr. and Mrs. William Schuler and H. E. Carnes and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Gage of Huntington Beach, were guests of Mrs. Gage's sister, Mrs. L. Bosworth, on Tuesday.

SOUTH PASADENA.

Mrs. C. A. Severance of St. Paul, Minn., who is spending the winter in South Pasadena, where she is domiciled at the Billicke home on Monterey Road, was the hostess at a handsomely appointed luncheon on Sunday, given in compliment to former Gov. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and ex-Gov. and Mrs. Edward Smith of Vermont. Among the guests were many prominent folk of this section, as well as from eastern cities.

For Canadian friends Mrs. O. C. Chalk and Miss Mearns of Toronto, who have been her house guests for several weeks, Mrs. Marian Keith of 1916 Huntington Drive has been entertaining quite extensively in a variety of ways. Motor parties and sightseeing have occupied a goodly portion of the time, while during the past week Mrs. Keith was hostess at three parties given at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles. On Sunday evening a number of guests have been invited in for an informal tea, when they will have the pleasure of meeting these charming ladies from the north.

Mrs. A. B. Culver of 1704 Wayne avenue delightfully entertained the members of the Wayne Avenue Bridge Club at her home on Wednesday evening. Again on Saturday night Mrs. Culver was hostess, this time at an enjoyable dinner party honoring Mrs. C. M. Wood of Palisades, Colo., and Mrs. Baltis Allen of Portland, who is the house guest of friends in this city. Covers were arranged for eight.

For Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McGregor of Moro, Wash., who are sojourning for a time in the Southland, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Wheeler of 1836 Monterey Road entertained at dinner on Saturday evening. Besides the honor guests and the host and hostess places were indicated at the beautifully decorated table for Mr. and Mrs. Albert Monroe of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. George Hall of Pasadena, Miss May Jouvette and Mr. George Wheeler of South Pasadena. Visiting at the Wheeler home for several days has been Mr. R. L. Rice of Boston, Mass.

The members and friends of the Live Oaks Tennis Club enjoyed a most delightful dancing party on Friday night at the Woman's clubhouse. The rooms were decorated

Dinnerware Headquarters Offers Real Advantages to Dinnerware Buyers

AT any price you may care to pay you will find a very much wider range of selection in open stock dinnerware patterns at Dinnerware headquarters than any place else in Los Angeles. And it stands to reason that a house which is recognized as such an important factor in the markets of Europe and America should be able to command every advantage and should be able to give you the best values the markets afford. A visit to our Dinnerware Department will involve no obligation.

The "Belmar" Open Stock Pattern

A very unusual fluted design in the charming Victorian shape from Josiah Wedgewood Potteries. Salad Sets, Tea Sets, Dinner Sets, Coffee Sets, Chocolate Sets—or any type of service of any desired size or composition may be made up from this beautiful pattern.

"Ming" Pattern—"Lenox" China

The yellow and blue plumage of the birds in the border is contrasted by the delicate gray background, in the center of the plates, on a creamy background, are rose pink apple blossom branches. The "Ming" is an open stock pattern from which may be had Chocolate Sets, Salad Sets, complete Dinner Sets or perhaps just some one individual piece.

Unusual "Dresden" China

The effective colorings and unusual designs characteristic of Dresden China make it especially desirable to supplement the dinner service. Comports, Cake Plates, Bon Bon Dishes, Service Plates and other Dishes are shown in a wide variety of interesting designs and colorings.

The "Weimar" Pattern

This very pretty pattern has a dainty border of trailing pink roses with green foliage. The finish of this pattern is very good and it will give excellent service. The complete service for six people consists of 49 pieces.

49 Piece Set

$49.75

The "Werthein" Pattern

A fine body of imported china decorated in under glaze blue, makes a very serviceable pattern suitable for every-day use, especially for the breakfast service—there are 49 pieces in the complete service for six—

$67.45

The "Harrowby" Pattern

From the famous Mintons Potteries and is one of their most attractive enameled patterns. Shades of blue and green predominating. The 49-piece set makes an excellent service for six people.

$161.00

The "Barbara" Pattern

A rich production of the Homer-Laughlin China Co., decorated with 18-karat gold band on the Empress shape. The service for six people—50-piece set,

$26.35

Many other open stock patterns are shown—priced down to as low as $11.85 for a complete 49-piece service for six people.

The "Ashbourne" Pattern

Eats Candy But Loses Her Fat

Here's joyful news for every fleshy person who loves good things to eat, especially those who are denying themselves the things they like most because of their desire to keep down their weight or to reduce the fat with which they are already burdened.

The famous Marmola Prescription has been put up in convenient tablet form and is now sold by druggists everywhere at only one dollar per large case. To get rid of fat at the rate of two to four pounds a week, simply take one of these little tablets after each meal and at bedtime until you have reduced your weight to where you want it. No wrinkles or flabbiness will remain to show where the fat came off.

Simply use Marmola Prescription Tablets according to directions; they are harmless, free from poisonous or injurious drugs and can be used with perfect safety. Try them for just a few weeks and get results without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet. Get them at any good drug store or send price direct to Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., and a full size package will be mailed to you direct in plain wrapper and postpaid.—[Advertisement.

SOCIETY.

throughout with acacia branches. A delicious supper was served when the dancing was over.

Mrs. Z. L. Parmelee of 919 Fair Oaks avenue was a recent hostess at a luncheon given for several missionaries of the Methodist church who are doing work in foreign lands. Mrs. Parmelee is a prominent member of the missionary social of the local M. E. Church. Around a table beautiful in its decoration of pink and lavender blossoms sat Miss Ruth Partridge of India, Miss Netella Loy of Peru, Mrs. A. Lacey of Chona, Dr. Margaret Lewis of Bombay, Miss Gertrude Gilman of Peking, China, Mrs. S. F. Corbin of Pasadena, and the hostess, Mrs. Z. L. Parmelee.

BAKERSFIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fraser were honored by a large group of friends in celebration of their thirty-third wedding anniversary. Guests were members of the G.I.A. to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the honorees were presented with a handsome gift. An informal afternoon with refreshments was enjoyed by the following: Messrs. and Mmes. F. L. Gilbreath, Fred Pimpell, Morris Spier, J. Fitzgerald, A. B. Cavins, K. C. Lee, R. E. Hobson, W. V. Davidson, C. C. Alford, W. R. Topham, M. Normanly, H. R. Bailey, Ed Krausse, A. H. Ross, J. H. Burton, H. W. Williams, J. H. Kirk, C. M. Gunter, J. L. Sullivan, R. O. Quackenbush, William Hall, H. P. Krickmer, I. D. Iler, P. C. Mills, A. J. Browne, D. J. Purcell, A. H. Hoffman and N. Baker.

Mrs. M. J. Clayton, recently of Silver City, N. M., has arrived in Bakersfield, and expects to make her home here permanently. Mrs. Clayton will visit in the homes of her daughters, Mrs. A. C. Mack, Mrs. E. C. Gilbert and Mrs. C. A. Holson until she acquires her own home here.

Mrs. A. D. M. Osborne gave the use of her home for a card party given by the Emerson Parent-Teacher Association, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Funds raised will be donated to the day nursery, which the association is assisting this year. Miss Margaret McGiffen was in charge of arrangements. Whist was the game of the afternoon.

The dramatic club of the high school, known as the Cap and Bells, entertained at a party at the gym, when more than thirty new members were the guests of the club. It was just a regular old-fashioned party, with games, music, stunts and dancing. Miss Ethelynne Smith of the dramatics department directed the affair, assisted by Bertha Coombs, Margaret Morris and other members of the club. The young people used the school colors, blue and white, in carrying out a decorative scheme.

Mrs. E. J. Booth, chairman of the hospitality committee of the Woman's Club for February, has announced the social events of the month. The third Friday afternoon of the month will be hospitality Friday, when club members will be entertained at a whist and five hundred party at Castle Hall, followed by an hour over the tea cups. The next evening, Saturday, February 19, there will be a dance at the Bakersfield Garage ballroom. The hospitality committee will also assist on California Day, which comes Monday, February 28. With Mrs Booth on this month's committee are: Mmes. G. H. Grahain, Jack Nelson, A. C. Dimon, Nettie Smith, A. L. Small, H. A. Spindt, F. C. St. Clair, H. H. Smith, L. C. Ross, D. A. Quarles, Warren Rankin, Frank Rosendahl, E. J. Sharland, Elizabeth Sherger and L. N. Slater.

Miss Della McCray was hostess to a number of friends at a rose-valentine luncheon at her home, 2029 Twenty-first street, being assisted by her mother, Mrs. John McCray, and her sister, Mrs. C. H. Hanning. The table was graced with a centerpiece of roses and dainty valentine favors were at each place. The afternoon hours were spent informally with music and conversation. Miss McCray's guests were: Misses Clara Petterson, Margaret Chase, Laura Elwood, Nettie Means, Ann Anderson, Yvonne Smith, Annette Pritzkau, Francis Payne, Leota Show, Bessie Bonham, Ruth Hanning, Clophine Bender, Elsie Beckman; Mmes. George Brundage, D. L. Kofahl and Clinton McCray.

SANTA MONICA.

Mrs. Mary Joslyn of 1138 Third street, Santa Monica, was "at home" to her friends last Thursday, nine guests coming in during the afternoon. Her rooms were bright with pink and white sweetpeas, and refreshments were served.

Miss Mae Armstrong, assisted by Mrs. James Hickson, is the chairman of the Fine Arts day program, which the Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club will present Monday, February 14. Some of the work of the leading artists of the State of California is to be on display. On the afternoon of the affair an artist will throw light on the pictures in a short talk. "Memories," a little production of Mrs. W. H. Cornett, will be presented.

The regular monthly luncheon of Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club was held Monday, Mr. Frank J. Wagner, president, presiding. Prof. Charles Hill-Tout spoke. The afternoon program consisted of a concert by Marian Woodley, contralto, and her accompanist, Mrs. Hennion Robinson.

Judge W. T. Thomas spoke at the public affairs section of Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club. His address was on the "Challenge of the Future." The section chairman, Mrs. Joseph Braun, presided.

Mrs. H. LaSalle Aldrich, chairman of the book and travel section of Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club, presented Ira Remsen, playwright, at the meeting of her organization Friday. Mr. Remsen attracted one of the largest audiences of the year, among the visitors numbering distinguished students, writers and actors.

VENICE.

Mrs. Edna Jacobs and her mother, Mrs. C. H. Jacobs of Seattle are the house guests this week of Mrs. Frank J. Langley of 125 Wavecrest avenue, Venice.

Clarence and Margaret Michel, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Michel of 3014 Third street, Santa Monica, were hosts recently to nearly 100 members of the younger set when they entertained with a dance at the Del Rey Gun Club. Pink carnations were used as decoration and refreshments were served. Patrons of the affair were Messrs. and Mmes. W. T. Nolan, A. A. Genneraux, Leo Flinn, and the parents of the hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Castro of the Windward Apartments, Venice, left recently on a trip to Big Bear Lake, where they will visit for some time.

Friends in Santa Monica and Venice were recently grieved to learn of the serious illness of Mrs. Frances Wallace-Holmes, a prominent society woman of the bay.

Society on the bay was pleased to learn that Ned Prather, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Prather of Charnock Road, is to play one of the principal parts in a drama to be presented by the Ram's Head Club of Stanford University.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Holly Green, attractive winter guests, who are leaving shortly for Denver, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rogers of 259 Adebaran Canal entertained with a card party Friday evening.

TAFT.

Mrs. J. W. Snyder was hostess at a delightful birthday surprise party to her mother, Mrs. D. Duncan, at her Kerfo home on the occasion of her seventy-seventh anniversary. Among those present were Mmes. Grant Adkisson, Spahr, Moodie, Duthie, Lovejoy, Denny, Lamb, Walters, Flemming, Tilley, Duncan and the hostess.

Honoring her guest, Mrs. James Blair Baker, Jr., of Porterville, Mrs. Russell E. Havenstrite entertained a number of friends at bridge. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Edmund W. Callander and Miss Mary Daly.

Music and needlework helped to while away the afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. Wonsley on Eastern avenue, when the Needle Art Club met Friday afternoon. Among those present were Mmes. H. B. Linscott, C. A. Sowles, F. M. Fishell, Ray Johnson, C. M. Sowles, Hattie Ellis, J. H. McBride, Charles Urban, M. C. Johnson, Roscoe Penrod, A. E. Thomas, R. H. Juhnke, F. J. Holding, D. T. Wonsley, L. C. Bouchard, L. W. Grigsby and Edward McDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Callaghan and their daughter, Dorothy, of Dayton, O., have arrived in Fellows from Los Angeles to visit at the Holmes home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Izard of Tonopah, Nev., were recent visitors to Taft on their way to Los Angeles.

The Rebekkah Social Club gave a whist party Friday night in Odd Fellows Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Redding and Mrs. C. Suring and her daughter, Peggy, have returned from a visit to Carrissa plains.

Miss Cecil Moon of Clovis has returned home after a brief visit with friends here. She recently came to California from Fort Alleghany, Pa.

CALEXICO.

Miss Vina Elizabeth Sherier and Jean Roysden surprised their many friends here Tuesday by quietly leaving town and getting married in El Centro by Superior Judge Cole.

After the ceremony they were the guests of honor at a wedding dinner at the home of the bride's sister in the Highline district, near Holtville, which was followed by a reception and dance at the Highline schoolhouse.

Both of the young people are well known, both in this city and Holtville, where the bride lived with her parents before coming to this city.

Another recent wedding which occasioned surprise among the younger set of this city was that of James Yglesias of this city to Miss Marguerite Arostegui of Alhambra, which was solemnized at a church ceremony at Alhambra February 5.

While the bride is not known in this city, the bridegroom has a wide circle of friends to whom the marriage has just become known. He is of one of the leading Spanish families of the valley, and is assistant manager of the Pioneer Transfer Company, and a member of the American Legion and several fraternal orders.

After the church ceremony a wedding dinner was given at the bride's home, which was attended by only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Yglesias will make their home in Calexico following an automobile wedding trip up the State as far as San Francisco.

Father came into his own at Wedensday's meeting of the local Parent-Teacher Association, being the honored guest on the occasion. A fine musical program and dancing were the principal diversions and the high school auditorium was comfortably filled for the affair.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Berry entertained informally at the parsonage of the Congregational Church Monday in honor of the birthday anniversary of Miss Cora Johnson. A few intimate friends spent a very pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Buck entertain recently at an informal dinner party at which a number of relatives and intimate friends were present, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Karl J. Caldwell, who were married a week ago. The bride is the daughter of the host and hostess.

Mrs. Frank D. Hevener has been seated as president of the Woman's Improvement Club here following a period of acting in that capacity following the resignation of Mrs. Walter F. Boyle.

RIALTO.

Mrs. H. E. Winslow's class of the United Bible School were most delightfully entertained by one of their number, Miss Phyllis Bash on Friday night at her attractive ranch home in the Fontana district.

Jolly games in pleasing variety furnished the amusement features of the affair, while many a merry quip added to the merriment, which ran like a golden thread through the sociability that prevailed from the opening to the closing time when delicious little luncheon of dainty appointments was served by the young hostess.

Double birthday function of exceptional happiness took place on Friday when honorees were Mrs. W. McKinley and Mrs. J. T. Canaday. Quite informal was the jolly event and it was given at the home of Mrs. Canaday on North Olive street, the beautiful setting being decorated for the occasion with fragrant carnations in shades of dainty pink. Sumptuous dinner was served at the noon hour when a birthday cake of purest white marked the natal anniversary of the two sisters, which it has become the happy custom to celebrate annually together. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Wiloughby McKinley, Randolph and Pauline McKinley, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Canaday, Miss Lavare and Nelva Canaday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Milligan have as house guest, Miss Mary Chaffee of the Angel City. Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Roberts and Miss Eleanor Roberts of Rahway, N. J., and house guests of the Pendletons have gone to San Diego for a few days, where Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Pendleton, Misses Florence and Mary Pendleton will join them on Sunday. Last week the Pendletons entertained their guests with a week-end trip to Los Angeles and near-by points of interest.

Mrs. J. E. Weller and Mrs. Wayne Weller delightfully entertained the W.M.S. women at the former's home on North Palm street, the occasion proving most happy. Informality was the prevailing note. Mrs. Thompson being present from Los Angeles gave a short address providing the program feature and light refreshments were served by the hostesses. About forty guests were present.

SANTA BARBARA.

Mr. and Mrs. David Gray entertained with a luncheon at their Montecito home on Friday afternoon.

Miss Ethel Ayscough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ayscough of

The serving of Afterdinner Coffee marks the close of a function. What an important part good SILVERWARE plays in making delightful the entire Dinner.

How subtile has been its influence in giving both Hostess and Guests a sense of satisfaction in the Evening's event.

Old Silver is valued in great part for the vision it brings of "Old-Time Hospitality." Let your selection of Knives, Forks and Serving Pieces be in such patterns as VIRGINIA CARVEL, LANSDOWNE, ST. DUNSTAN CHASED, or LADY MARY,—any of these will worthily reflect you in the years to come.

at new price levels
50% less than last year!

Rock bottom has been reached in fur prices. Today $375 will buy an exclusive Colburn creation that one year ago would have cost $750. This same ratio of reduction in prices prevails throughout the stocks of our four establishments.

While prices have been cut in half, Colburn quality remains the same—the highest standards by which desirable fur garments can be judged.

this city, and J. Wayne Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith of Los Angeles, were married here the forepart of the week at the Church of Our Lady of Sorrows. Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Clenard, relatives of the bride, were here from Los Angeles for the wedding. After a honeymoon trip through the north the young couple will be home to their friends at Hollister, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. William Norman Campbell entertained with a dinner Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lowe.

Maj. and Mrs. Max C. Fleischmann have opened their new home at Montecito for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ilsley entertained with a Lincoln dinner at the Santa Barbara Country Club last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip E. Bowles of Piedmont are spending the winter at the Ambassador.

Miss Dorothy Fithian and Miss Agatha Farrington have returned from a visit at San Francisco.

Mrs. John Baker Swift entertained with a dinner of sixteen covers at Samarkand on Wednesday night, for Mrs. W. B. Weeden, who is a guest at the Arlington. Those invited to meet Mrs. Weeden were: Mrs. E. H. Rathbun, Mrs. Frederick Carey, Mrs. George E. Brainard, Mrs. Frank C. Welch, Mrs. G. A. Collier, Mrs. William Gray Park, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Miss Kohlsaat, Miss Clements Craft; Miss Peters, Miss Rhett, Miss Kate Carey, Miss Julia Weil.

WHITTIER.

To announce the betrothal of her stepsister, Miss Claire Laurance, Miss Edna Essley entertained at the Essley home, 549 East Bailey street, Saturday evening. The engagement and time set for the wedding were cleverly announced as the collation was served; place cards bore on the reverse side the names "Claire Laurance and Ivanhoe Pleas, Feb. 20, 1921." Miss Laurance has lived in Whittier about three years and was formerly a student at Whittier College. Mr. Pleas comes from Florida and after the wedding the young couple plan to return to Chipley, Fla., where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Burcham entertained with an attractively appointed dinner at their home, 142 South Washington avenue, in compliment to Mrs. Burcham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Minterspaugh, who are spending the winter on the Coast from Indiana. Covers were laid for six and the additional guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Irvine from Fullerton, who were formerly neighbors of the Minterspaughs in the East.

An attractive dinner was that given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Knight of North Painter avenue when they entertained for Mrs. Knight's sister, Mrs. Virginia Jones, in celebration of her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Jones, who is well known in social and club circles in the Quaker City, came to the Coast about a year ago from Marshalltown, Iowa. Covers were laid for ten and the dinner served in four courses. Other guests who are spending some time at the Knight home are Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Peek from East Aurora, N. Y., and Mrs. Emily Swift from Buffalo, N. Y.

LONG BEACH.

Mrs. Bert C. Kennedy and Mrs. J. M. Eaton chaperoned a party of Long Beach young folks to Lynds' cabin, Mt. Baldy, over the weekend. Included among those making the outing journey were Pauline Eaton, Ruth Kennedy, Esther Walker, Richard Loynes, Carlyn Johnson and Paul Perkins.

More than a hundred were present at the beautifully appointed luncheon and reception held at Hotel Virginia Tuesday noon by the Long Beach and Gaviota chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in honor of charter regents, Mrs. A. A. Polley and Mrs. Townsend; State regent, Mrs. H. H. Harshburger, and Mrs. L. B. Storkey, Mrs. I. P. Cerkel, Mrs. E. K. Roberts, Mrs. W. P. Nye and Mrs. C. C. Cottle.

Members were received and introduced to the guests by Mrs. H. L. Pilsbury and Mrs. Alice S. Kemp. Places were marked by red, white and blue baskets, with smilax and violets forming the table decorations. Mrs. Harriet Shirk was mistress of ceremonies.

As a farewell to Mrs. M. J. Dunn, a party was given at the Ferndale Apartments by Mrs. Della O'Neal of Waterloo, Iowa, Tuesday. The Valentine motif was used.

—o—

POMONA.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Spooner, 412 East Center street, was the scene of a pleasant affair Wednesday evening, when a company of Upland, Claremont and Pomona friends of the hosts assembled there at the invitation of John Jacobs of Upland, to enjoy a game of five hundred and an informal social time.

Mrs. I. L. Noggle, 382 Lincoln avenue, was hostess at the regular monthly meeting of the Ebell music and art section Wednesday afternoon and the program for the day was on American music. Mr. H. B. Davis was leader of the program.

Mrs. Fred M. Woods, 683 North Garey avenue, had as guests Thursday afternoon members of the home economics division of the Ebell Club.

One of the delightful informal affairs of the week was that with which Mrs. Bert L. Cooper entertained at her home on Columbia avenue Thursday afternoon for a group of her young women friends.

Miss Ruth Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Moss, 473 Columbia avenue, entertained a group of her girl and women friends Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Beulah Scovel, who, on Saturday, February 19, is to become the bride of Russell Garrett. The party was in the nature of a miscellaneous shower for Miss Scovel.

Mrs. J. T. Ashcroft, 975 Huntington Boulevard, was hostess at a Valentine party Friday afternoon, the occasion being the monthly meeting of the Pacific Electric Social Club. Mrs. H. E. Finney was a special guest.

EL CENTRO.

The Elks' Ladies' Social Club spent Tuesday afternoon at various social diversions, the occasion being the regular meeting of the club.

Mrs. H. B. Hollingsworth and daughter, Miss Faith, former residents of Imperial Valley, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Hollingsworth. They expect to remain for a month.

Mrs. C. E. Fox and Mrs. Orla B. Kenah were hostesses at a "get-acquainted" affair at the latter's studio Monday night at which many musicians of the valley spent a very pleasant evening. Many pleasing musical selections were rendered during the evening. Several celebrities of more than usual prominence in musical circles dropped in during the vening and added to the pleasure of the affair by rendering vocal and instrumental selections.

Mrs. George Anderson delightfully entertained the twice-told tales section of the Woman's Ten Thousand Club Monday afternoon at her home here. Mrs. J. F. Baker was the story-teller of the day, taking as her subject Alphonse Daudet's story "Old Folks." The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Forrest Kutz, with Mrs. Clarence Connat giving the story.

—o—

SANTA PAULA.

Gentlemen's night, an annual institution of the Ebell Club, was observed on Monday evening at the clubhouse when the members of the club entertained the men of their families and friends, the entertainment being presented by the drama section, which gave Zona Gale's one-act play, "The Neighbors," with successful interpretation and artistic finish. All of the roles were taken by the women who are studying the contemporary drama in this section of the club. A short musical program preceded the play and at its conclusion the floor was cleared for dancing. About 300 were present.

To celebrate the birthday anniversary of the Boy Scout movement in America, the troops of Boy Scouts in Santa Paula entertained their parents with a supper in the dining-rooms of the Methodist church on Tuesday evening, serving them with a substantial meal and then giving a demonstration of scoutcraft and scout work.

—o—

HOLTVILLE.

Miss Catherine Wise was declared to be the prettiest girl at the box social at the civic center in a voting contest in which a large number participated. A pleasing musical program was given during the evening, which, with the auction of lunch boxes, provided a very pleasing evening's entertainment for a large crowd of young people.

Mrs. R. M. Anderson had as her guest this week Miss Grace Fowler of Stockton.

This week's meeting of the local branch of the W.C.T.U. was in the nature of a farewell to Mrs. Ethel Ferguson, who for the past two years has been president of the organization, and who soon will leave the city. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Isabelle Hadley on

All Prices at the "California" Have Been Revised to the New Levels

DEDICATED TO BETTER HOMES

Consistent with its constantly proclaimed one-price policy the "California" anticipated and promptly met the new market conditions by

A General 20% Revision of all Prices

Certain lines were not singled out and varying reductions effected, but every article of merchandise, regardless of how narrow the margin on which it had been priced, was at once included in the general 20% price reduction.

Had the "California's" prices been marked with the anticipation of conducting so-called special sales it would undoubtedly have been possible to have made a much greater price reduction than 20%. In other words, the percentage of price reduction in itself means nothing. It is the relation of the reduction percentage to the original price that determines the attractiveness of the selling price.

The "California" is not conducting a special sale. But the "California" has revised all its prices to the lowest level for which home furnishings of like character can possibly be sold today: or for which such home furnishings can be sold for a long time to come. It is true that many of the lines offered now at 20% less than regular marked prices cannot now be replaced to sell at the same prices.

You will find value comparisons very interesting and possibly surprising. The "California" will be very glad to leave the decision entirely in your hands. If we cannot serve you to your economic advantage we know we cannot expect your patronage, and if we can do so we believe you will be glad to know it.

ONTARIO.

Marking the final event of the Cotillion Club season before society dons its figurative sack cloth and ashes during Lent was the smart supper-dance Tuesday evening at the Hotpoint Club. Dainty peach blossoms and beautiful roses used in decoration heralded the approach of spring, while a number of handsomely shaded lamps cast a soft glow over the ballroom. Inspiring music was furnished by Forsman's Orchestra and a tempting buffet supper was served shortly before midnight. Those who enjoyed the final pre-Lenten event of the Cotillion Club numbered Mr. and Mrs. Jesse W. Heinecke, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Webber, Mr. and Mrs. Welles Thompson Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Holmes Richardson, Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Hill Titus, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Scott Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Darwin DuVall, Mr. and Mrs. William Starbuck Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. George Bryan Ford, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Julian Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Baugh Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Graettinger, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hatcher Granger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eugene Grier, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson Howe, Mr. and Mrs. George Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ray Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Montrose Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edson Swan, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lincoln Pettit, Mr. and Mrs. George Koester, Mr. and Mrs. Corry Benson White, Mrs. Amy M. Huntoon, Mrs. Elizabeth George Taylor, Mrs. Frances Cleave, Miss Daisy Latimer, Miss Jean Waite, Miss Charlotte Hamm, Crombie Allen, Allan Barr, Gilbert Purcell, Maj. Foster, Parker Toms, Fred W. Nichols, Leonard J. Frank- and others.

Mrs. William Laidlaw was hostess Thursday afternoon at her ranch home in West A street at a musical and tea of charming appointments. Contributing to the program of the afternoon were Mrs. John Barron Conway, Mrs. Charles W. Walker, Mrs. Paul Reeder and Miss Alice Laidlaw. Mrs. Laidlaw was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. James C. Reeder, Mrs. M. E. Powell and Mrs. Paul Reeder. About forty enjoyed the afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Chamberlain, who are spending the winter at Hotel Casa Blanca, were hosts at dinner Sunday evening at the delightful hostelry. Dinner was announced at 7 o'clock and was served in the blue and gold room. Covers were indicated for Judge and Mrs. Benjamin F. Bledsoe, Mr. and Mrs. S. SAN LUIS OBISPO.

One of the most interesting events of the week was the wedding which occurred at high noon on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Greenfield, when Miss Malmgren became the bride of Nathan S. Lewin. The Rev. Earl W. Haney performed the ceremony, and Mrs. E. A. Malmgren of Watsonville was matron of honor, Bernhard Lewin, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man. A number of relatives and friends attended the wedding. The Greenfield home was beautifully decorated with greenery and cut flowers for the occasion. After the ceremony the bridal party went to the Hotel where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice R. Van Wormer at an elaborate wedding breakfast. At the conclusion of the breakfast the couple left for the southern part of the State, where they will spend their honeymoon.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Malmgren to Mr. Lewin was made at a pretty affair given by Mrs. M. R. Van Wormer on Monday afternoon. Miss Malmgren is a popular young woman, who enlisted in the Red Cross at the outbreak of the war, and served for some time overseas as a nurse. Mr. Lewin is the son of M. Lewin and is associated with his father in business. Mr. Lewin was in the balloon service during the war and saw much service in France.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. H. W. Greenfield, a sister of Mr. Lewin, entertained at a pretty shower for the bride-to-be. Yellow was the color scheme, and a delightful afternoon was enjoyed by the guests. On Friday evening Mrs. D. F. Mahoney entertained at a dinner for Miss Malmgren.

Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Stevens entertained a number of friends at whist Friday evening at their home in street. The prizes were captured by W. F. Pitts, Mrs. O. E. and Mrs. L. Todd. Dainty refreshments were served.

RIVERSIDE.

The anniversary of Charles Dickens's birthday was celebrated by members of the College Corona Club with a Dickens party, Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Barrett on the grounds of the Citrus Experiment Station. The guests made the most of the occasion by appearing attired in hoop skirts and saucy pantalettes, their kerchiefs and bobbing curls giving the desired finishing touches. Supper was served the seventy club members and their friends at small decked tables. A desert of plum pudding further developed the Dickens motif. Miss Nino Brown, chairman of the committee, who arranged the affair and its program, which included the presentation of a group of old English songs and ballads by Mrs. Brown, and a mirth-provoking sketch from the "Child Wife," the characters of which were impersonated by Mrs. Roberts Leinau, Miss Lily Lowe, Miss Mary Dunlap and Mrs. P. Wayne Coons.

Completely surprising the honoree, Mrs. Raymond Wilson of 922 Fifth street, was the hostess at a delightful affair Tuesday evening, complimenting Miss Nettie Milliken, who

Mrs. Kapp to Lecture on "Color"

On Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Henrietta Horton Kapp of Barker Bros. will talk on the principles of "Color" in interior decoration, at the Permanent Home Economics Exposition of the Los Angeles Evening Express, through the courtesy of the Express.

Home-makers who appreciate the value of "knowing how" will not only want to hear this lecture, but they will want to follow this WHOLE COURSE of Mrs. Kapp's talks.

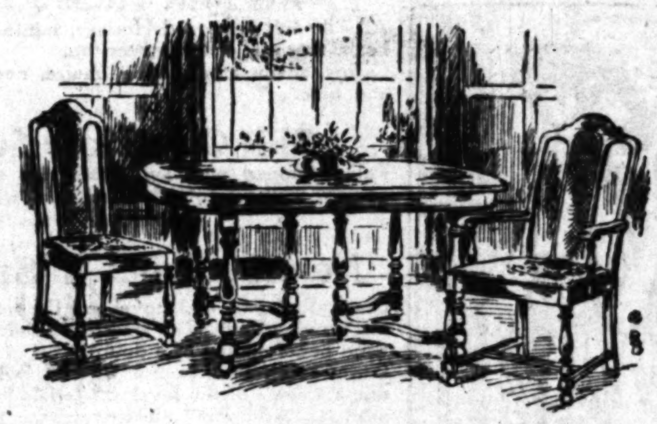
TRUE FABLES
I

A YOUNG COUPLE WITH A LITTLE HOUSE paused upon the brink of going to look for furnishings.

They were afraid the prices at the Store-with-the-Beautiful-Windows would be higher than those where were displayed less attractive window settings.

However, the Young Couple strolled by one day and, as they lingered near the door they felt a sense of warmth, like a welcome, so they came into the Store-with-the-Beautiful-Windows and bought everything for the Little House, here.

This story teaches that beautiful things are often easily obtainable, and that it is unwise to use beauty as a barometer of extravagance.



7-Piece Carolean Dining Room Set
$189.00

This set, designed especially for Barker Bros., consists of an oblong extension table, measuring 45x54 inches; five side chairs and an arm-chair.

EXPERT ELECTROLYSIS WILL HASTEN YOUR SUCCESS.
Prepare yourself for success and popularity on the stage, on the screen, in your profession or business, or in society, by having your moles, warts and superfluous hair removed.
Pulling out a few hairs may develop serious growths, both painful and expensive to eradicate. My multiple needle process guarantees satisfaction.
I take a deeply personal interest in all my cases, giving all the treatments myself in order to insure expert professional service.
Thousands of persons in public life have become successful since the removal of their blemishes. Your appearance is the first step toward success, and my treatments will prove your greatest help.
PROF. J. O. GISSLEN,
808 Baker-Detwiler Bldg.,
412 W. 6th st.
Telephone 67990.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS
WARTS AND MOLES.
Pulling a few stiff hairs from the face may start a serious growth. Let me demonstrate free of charge how pulling, cutting, using wax depilatories and the so-called hair removers promote growth of hair on the face. My electric machine is the only known method of killing superfluous hair, fuzz, warts and moles, without destroying the surrounding tissue. This machine destroys 300 hairs an hour. I have had 19 years' experience and devote all my time to the work. A binding guarantee that any hairs or moles I treat will never return. Many L. A. satisfied customers will testify to my skill as an expert.
MRS. F. A. SCOTT,
Suite 407 Bumiller Bldg.
430 S. Broadway.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR—
HUMILIATING AND UNSIGHTLY.
There is only one method known today of permanently removing superfluous hair, and that is Electrolysis (electric needle.) This success in the hands of reliable and expert operator insures absolute satisfaction. I stand back of my work and guarantee any hair treated by me will be permanently destroyed, leaving no scars.
MABEL BRENTWOOD SMITH,
With Weaver-Jackson Co.,
450 South Broadway.

MAKE ME PROVE IT!
I will tell you what and where your trouble is without asking a question.
C. C. PETERSON, CHIROPRACTOR,
507-9 Homer Laughlin Bldg.
Hours 10 to 5.
Also Mon., Wed., Fri., 7 to 8.
Phone 67842.

M. ELLA HARRIS

A PROMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS:

June 14, 1920.

When in New York the best-known skin specialist said to me: "I have had in my employ some of the best known in this line of work, but none obtained the results I have seen gotten by M. Ella Harris. Her skill in her work is UNSURPASSED. Her knowledge of the anatomy of the face and her skill obtained by her work on thousands of faces in the course of many years GUARANTEE the wonderful results I have seen in the restoring of PUFFED AND WRINKLED EYES as one of her special achievements. Her gift of scientific tissue building in restoring perfect contour and complexion is beyond belief."

HELEN HUNT, M. D.
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The above splendid letter after an interview with Mr. McCargo, manager for John Woodbury, New York. They know the best. You want the best. See M. ELLA HARRIS.

Do not let the surrounding skin and tissue of the eyes to become flabby, wrinkled or be allowed to accumulate in overhanging lids, bags or pouches. As soon as eyes or neck become loose or flabby, give EXPERT ATTENTION.

I am in Hollywood for a few months treating several professional ladies and gentlemen. Will be pleased to talk to you about my work and show the beautiful results on living faces. Come and see me, or phone Hollywood 4458 for confidential appointment.

Excellent accommodations for out-of-town patrons and others.

PERSONAL—The Harbell Hair Remover is positively harmless. It does not leave the skin rough, irritated or inflamed. The most delicate skin is adapted to its applications. The heat opens the pores so that the depilatory elements in the stick loosens the hair roots. Made with care and skill only from vegetable ingredients; does its work at once, and is absolutely free from ingredients now used in liquid and powder depilatories.
Harbell method of permanently removing superfluous hair is the latest scientific and harmless process which finally and painlessly destroys the hair roots and hair bulb. Mail orders. Price $3.00 box, plus war tax.

30 HEAD OF HOLSTEIN DAIRY COWS.
TUBERCULIN TESTED.

At the Rhoades & Rhoades Sale Pavilion, at HYNES,
Monday, February 14, at 10 a.m.

On this date the owner is offering a herd of young dairy Holsteins that would be hard to beat. Practically the entire offering is either just fresh or very heavy springers, and an individual tuberculin test certificate furnished with each animal. The cows themselves are out of the ordinary. They are all big, vigorous young cattle, nicely marked, with plenty of size and they are producers in every sense of the word. You are cordially invited to inspect them prior to the sale.

TERMS—$100 and under, cash, over $100, one-third cash, balance in monthly payments with approved note. Liberal discount for cash.

19 HEAD OF REGISTERED HOLSTEIN COWS.
40 HEAD OF GRADE HOLSTEINS.
At the Rhoades & Rhoades Sale Pavilion at HYNES,
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, at 10 a.m.

The offering in the 40 grade cows, all Holsteins, is above the average, they are all well marked, in perfect condition and from a standpoint of production they are in a class by themselves; practically the entire offering is either just fresh or heavy springers. The registered Holstein females include daughters of such famous sires as COLANTHA SIR AAGGIE, KING PONTIAC TOPSY, KING SEGIS DE KOL MEAD, TIDY ABBEKERK, PRINCE, SIR ORMSBY HENGERVELD, FINDERNE SOLDENE VALDESSA, TOYON SEGIS FERNDALE, and all out of well-bred and record dams. A large number of these cows have a very creditable ARO records both in the 7 and 365 day divisions. A son of PRINCE GELSCHE WALKER out of a granddaughter of ARALIA DE KOL will be sold.

SENSATIONAL—King Paul Korndyke Vale will also be sold. He is out of a 31.42-lb. cow whose sire, Sir Sadie Cornucopia, is out of the first 30-lb. cow, Sadie Vale Concordia. The sire, King Korndyke Sadie Vale, is one of the most noted sires of the breed, having a 40-lb. daughter, a 40-lb. sister, and a 41-lb. dam, who in turn is out of Sadie Vale Concordia. This is one of the highest record bulls in the West, and is fit to head any herd anywhere. Regular sale terms. Cattle will be on inspection Sunday.

Pittsburg Boasts of Twelve-Year-Old Marvel.

Girl Can Speak Four Languages with Ease.

Has Also Had a Proposal of Marriage; Refuses.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PITTSBURG, Feb. 12.—This city boasts of a 12-year-old girl, Yvonne Weber, who has had an offer of marriage, who has just graduated from public school as the valedictorian of her class, speaks four languages, teachers dancing and physical culture, and is as tall and weighty as her mother. Her music and public school-teachers have told her parents that she has the intellect of a woman of 21 and is a genius.

Yvonne has a splendid record, having passed through the first eight grades in six years. During the election campaign last fall she started a debate on the League of Nations in her class in the Liberty school. She took the Cox end of the argument because she is of French descent and believes thoroughly in the Wilsonian doctrine of democracy.

IDOL OF CLASSMATES.

Although she did not win the debate, she says it was the only fight she ever lost, and she lost that battle because the opposition had stipulated that the debate should be decided by a vote of the classmates. Political feeling won over popular esteem, for Yvonne is the leader and idol of her classmates, especially among the boys. The girl possesses a striking beauty, and can compose and deliver and deliver a speech with the sangfroid of a trained platform speaker.

In school she was chosen by the physical culture instructor, who visits the school once a week, as a leader to instruct the others in calisthenics and in dancing, and has made this branch of the curriculum the most popular in her class.

SPEAKS FOUR LANGUAGES.

She plays the piano, checkers, dominos, basketball, poker, volley ball, pinochle and baseball. She speaks French, English, German and Flemish, and, she adds, American. Her elder sister, Marguerite, 16 years old, is a senior in Peabody High School, and admits that Yvonne is more than a match for her in mental or physical tests. "She never lost a debate at home yet," says her mother.

One day last summer, while traveling on a street car with her mother, a man near her was so struck by her dark beauty that he asked the mother's permission to have her photograph taken, introduced himself, asked permission to call on her, and finally proposed marriage. Yvonne, who has all the politeness of her French ancestors, wrote him a letter of sympathetic refusal, which her mother says was a "classic." It is predicted that by the time she is through high school she will be the cleverest woman that Pittsburg has ever turned out.

FARMERS' CREDIT AID APPROVED BY SENATE.

BILL RIDER ORDERING PURCHASING OF FEDERAL FARM LOAN BONDS ADOPTED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The appropriation bill rider authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase $100,000,000 of Federal Farm Loan bonds to provide credits for farmers pending decision by the Supreme Court in the litigation testing constitutionality of the farm loan law was adopted yesterday by the Senate. It now awaits approval by the House.

A substitute by Chairman McLean of the Banking Committee, to limit purchase of farm loan securities to $3,000,000 annually for ten years was defeated. The Senator said his proposal had the support of Secretary Houston. The Farm Loan Board was said to have indorsed the amendment adopted.

Senator Smoot, (Rep.) Utah, declared the legislation would put a great strain on the treasury, the conditions of which, he said, "frankly distressed" him. He warned that government receipts would fall $500,000,000 short of requirements the next fiscal year, not counting the $100,000,000 proposed to be expended for the farm bonds.

ARIZONA GOOD ROADS BODY HAS ELECTION.

ALSO FAVORS CREATION OF STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION AS PER BILL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Feb. 12.—The Arizona Good Roads Association adjourned today after election of the following officers: President, O. C. Parker, Tucson; vice-presidents, Gus Becker, Springerville; A. J. Eddy, Yuma, and T. G. Norris, Prescott.

Nogales will be the next meeting place. Resolutions were passed favoring creation of a State highway commission, on the lines of a bill defeated in the last election, but with lessened call for money. There also was a recommendation of appropriation by the Legislature of $1,000,000 or such sum as will complete through highways. Support was given Gov. Campbell's suggestion that there be amendment of the State bonded debt limitation that highway bond issues may be made. The afternoon was spent by the delegates in viewing the cement highway construction near Phoenix.

INVESTIGATE REPORT OF ATTACKS ON GOBS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Secretary Daniels cabled today to Admiral Strauss, commanding the Asiatic fleet, to investigate reports that five American sailors had been fired upon in Vladivostok, presumably by Russian officers, and one of them wounded.

The Navy Department has received no advices regarding the incident and Secretary Daniels incorporated in his message to Admiral Strauss press dispatches telling of the attack.

The State Department also cabled the American Consul at Vladivostok for a report on the shooting. The embassy at Tokio forwarded to the department a press account published there which said that two former Russian officers had been arrested.

DISABLED MEN TO HAVE RIDE.

Will Lunch at Elks' Club at Pasadena and Then See "Mission Play."

On Friday of next week another outing for disabled soldiers in local hospitals has been planned by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, co-operating with the Better-America Federation.

Automobiles are greatly in demand. Those desiring to lend their aid can do so by donating the use of a car for that day by communicating with Mrs. M. M. Brennaman, telephone Main 4387.

Plans for the day include a trip to the Elks' Club in Pasadena, where an elaborate luncheon will be served, after which the soldiers will be taken to San Gabriel to witness John Steven McGroarty's "Mission Play." After the performance they will be taken to their respective hospitals.

Doctors Baffled by Talking Child; All Efforts Fail.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WAUKEGAN (Ill.) Feb. 12.—The baffling case of little Miriam Rubin, 8 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rubin, of Waukegan, today attracted the attention of noted specialists as the child began her eighth day of talking without cessation. A week ago yesterday the girl complained of pains about her arms and shoulders. The following night she began talking. She has been talking constantly ever since, all efforts by medical specialists and others having failed.

Propped up in bed, the child talks rationally, and, although of usually serious disposition, occasionally smiles or laughs when anything is said or a situation develops that ordinarily arouses mirth.

With the exception of two hours' slumber last Monday night, she has had no sleep with the exception of a few occasional moments of drowsiness, during which she continued to talk. Her dolls, doll clothes, her studies in school, her teacher and dancing lessons are among the many topics about which the child talks. She eats heartily, her appetite being as good as ever.

Specialists advanced the theory to the child's parents that her condition might be a forerunner to sleeping sickness, but so far there have been no manifestations of unusual drowsiness; in fact, Miriam has been very much wideawake.

CONCESSIONS NEEDED IN INDUSTRIAL LIFE.

SPEAKER SAYS UNIONS DISCRIMINATE MORE AGAINST WORKERS THAN EMPLOYERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Concessions by labor, employers and the public are necessary to bring about satisfactory industrial relations, W. R. Bassett, a New York industrial engineer, declared in an address before the Industrial Relations Association of America here yesterday.

"One hears a good deal about the iron heel of capitalistic despotism squeezing blood profit out of the poor," Basset added, "but I have yet to discover a company that became really prosperous when operated on the lemon squeezer principle."

Speaking of labor legislation, Walter Gordon Merritt, associate counsel of the League of Industrial Rights said twenty-six States had laws preventing employers from refusing work to a man solely because he belonged to a labor union. On the other hand, he added, he knew of no State having any law to prohibit employees from discriminating against nonunion men. Organized labor, he declared, had discriminated more against nonunion men than had employers against union work.

Sherman Rogers, labor writer and strike adjuster, predicted early elimination of the business agent in organized labor. He expressed the belief that the American Federation of Labor would drop the business agent and permit the men in the shops to settle directly with their employers. This could be done, he added, if employers were willing to "go fifty-fifty" in discussing matters with the men without affecting their union standing.

GEORGIAN DEFENDS SMITH-TOWNER BILL.

SAYS CATHOLIC OPPOSITION PASED ON UTTER IGNORANCE OF MEASURE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Opposition by Catholic organizations to the Smith-Towner educational bill was said by Senator Hoke Smith, Democrat, Georgia, in the Senate today to be based "on utter ignorance of the measure." This was true, he said, of the charge that "the measure was directed against the religion of Jesus Christ."

"If a parent wished to send his child to a Catholic parochial school he could do so. That right is not denied," the Senator said.

Senator King, Democrat, Utah, said he found himself in complete sympathy with the opposition of Catholic church organizations to "a bill which would further cripple the States of the Union, and destroy their capacity of self-government."

SENATORS WOULD BOMB OBSOLETE WARSHIPS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Resolutions proposing an actual bombing of naval vessels by aircraft were introduced today by Senator New (Republican,) Indiana, and Representative Anthony (Republican,) Kansas. They direct the Secretary of the Navy to turn over to the army air service one obsolete battleship, two obsolete destroyers and two auxiliary ships for experimental bombing.

The resolutions said the future policy of development of aircraft and sea craft might be changed as a result of the proposed experiments.

ALASKAN ROAD NEAR FINISHED.

Only Eighty-four Miles Left to Span with Tracks.

Engineers Completing Big Engineering Feat.

Bridges Built to Cross Rivers and Gorges.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12.—Ends of steel being pushed north and south by United States government engineers building the Alaska Railroad 410 miles across the continental divide are now only eighty-four miles apart, according to the report of the 1920 work on the road, received here recently from Anchorage, Alaska, the headquarters railroad town.

"With an abundant supply of labor and good weather conditions there seems no reason why the tracks should not be connected this year," William Gerig, assistant chief engineer, was quoted as saying. By 1922, the engineers hope, trains will be running between Seward and Anchorage, seaport towns on the "ocean end" of the road, and Fairbanks and Nenana, interior points on the great Alaska River highway system.

MUST BRIDGE RIVER.

Trains will not run through to Fairbanks, however, until a bridge is built across the Tanana River at Nenana. When the line between Nenana and the coast is completed the road will be used to carry north the material for the bridge. During the winter, when the Tanana freezes, tracks are built across on the ice.

On the coast end of the line trains operated this winter between Seward and Anchorage, snowsheds having been built last summer. Already, reports said, the sheds have stood several heavy slides which under conditions which existed a year ago would have blocked the road.

Short Alaska winter days, temperatures ranging as low as 20 deg. below zero and two to four feet of snow are not stopping work on the road this winter. Grading, bridge building and cut work is progressing at practically the same rate of speed as in summer.

ELEMENTS BRAVED.

The engineers garb themselves in the native "parka" and brave the elements. An Anchorage newspaper man who recently visited the advance gangs at Hurricane, a point on the road, said the commission is giving one of the most remarkable examples of overcoming nature ever witnessed in railroad building.

One of the achievements last year was erection of a steel bridge, having a span of 504 feet, across the Susitna River, north of Anchorage. The bridge parts were made in the States, numbered and sent north by rail and steamer. At Susitna they were put together and by spring trains will be operating on the crossing.

Across the eighty-four-mile gap, dogs and horses are used to carry mail and passengers. Passengers from the coast, can make connections to Mile 275, the end of the road, where they take the stages across Broad Pass to Mile 374, the southern end of the northern section. In the past, mail during the winter has always reached the interior by way of another route.

CHIGNON ONCE MORE USED IN GAY PAREE.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Paris has launched a new style of hair dressing, or rather revived an old trick of adornment, by bringing out the chignon again. Being in fashion again the chignons are considered very graceful and have the advantage of offering a field for adornment to the jeweler as well as the milliner.

As worn at recent fashionable gatherings the chignon consisted of a large, smooth roll of hair set high at the back of the head and kept in place by a comb just below it. Some of the women wore two rolls set either one above the other or one to the right and one to the left, the effect being heightened by two jewelled combs set fanwise on either side toward the ears. The jewels in the combs worn ranged all the way from rhinestones to diamonds and emeralds.

CHINESE TO HONOR LATE DR. WRIGHT.

WILL DEDICATE UNIVERSITY HALL IN HIS MEMORY FOR SERVICES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The Chinese government has sanctioned a proposal of Dr. Wellington Koo, former Chinese Minister to the United States, to dedicate a hall in Tsing-Hua College at Peking to the memory of the late Dr. Hamilton Wright, it was learned today, in recognition of his services to the Chinese government in its efforts to suppress the opium traffic.

Dr. Wright represented the United States on the special international commission which met at Shanghai in 1909 to devise measures for blotting out the trade and in the international opium conference at The Hague in 1909-1911, when an agreement was reached for co-operation in checking the traffic.

E. R. Kemp III Launched.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WILMINGTON (Del.) Feb. 12. The E. R. Kemp III of the tank ship fleet built for the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company was launched at the Harlan plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation today.

Funds go to Receivership.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

JACKSON (Miss.) Feb. 12.—Funds of all fire insurance companies involved in the billion-dollar antitrust suit brought by the revenue agent of Mississippi, were today placed in receivership by Chancellor S. V. J. Stricker in Hinds county chancery court.

Spain Honors War Hero.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MADRID Feb. 12. — One of Spain's new naval vessels has been named Casaldau after a petty officer. It was explained this was done in recognition of heroism displayed at Santiago, Cuba, during the Spanish-American War.

MUST WAIT THREE DAYS FOR SAFE.

Yeggs Escape With Bank's Strong Box Equipped With Time Clock.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TOLEDO (O.) Feb. 12.—Thieves broke into the Bank of Temperance, Temperance, Mich., about twenty miles north of here, early today, loaded a heavy safe containing $11,000 into a waiting truck and escaped.

F. L. Wallace, president of the bank, said the safe was equipped with a three-day time lock and that it could not be opened through the combination until Monday morning.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN MEXICO PROBLEM.

LAW FOR PROTECTION OF NATIVE LABOR TO BE PROPOSED TO CONGRESS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—Solution of present labor problems growing out of the influx of foreign workmen and the consequent unemployment of many natives will be sought in a bill soon to be sent to Congress. Rafael Zubaran Capmany, Minister of Industry and Commerce, declared the proposed law was being modeled largely after similar laws in the United States.

The bill, he said, would require that in some cases companies employ from 75 to 80 per cent native labor.

Discussion of proposed petroleum legislation may be delayed in the Mexican Congress owing to opposition to bills governing banking activities, which will be submitted to Congress Monday.

Congress has before it an old oil project which dates from the Carranza regime. If this is discarded, the administration will submit its new project. The nature of this bill has not been divulged.

A letter congratulating Pascual Ortiz Rubio upon his decision to resign as Minister of Communications and Public Works was sent to him by 136 members of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. The letter upheld him in taking exception to the ruling of President Obregon removing from the jurisdiction of the department all details of railroad administration with the exception of the more operation of the lines.

SAYS CHICAGO BOYS ADMIT CHECK FRAUD.

DETECTIVE CATCHES YOUTHS WHEN THEY SEEK LOAN OF PROTECTOR.

Nabbed by Detective Sergeant Harris when they borrowed a check protector from a pawnbroker at Fifth and Main streets last night, J. W. Hawley, aged 18, and his brother, E. R. Hawley, aged 20, were lodged in the City Jail on charges of issuing fictitious checks.

The two boys told the police that they came from Chicago and had formerly worked for an insurance company's agency in that city. The wanderlust hit them and they migrated to San Diego. Coincident with their arrival in that city a number of spurious checks purporting to have been issued by various well-known insurance companies in payment of claims made their appearance. The checks were used to buy merchandize, which was later pawned.

Detective Harris has followed the trail of the checks for the past month and only by chance ran onto the lads last night when his suspicions were aroused by their request for the loan of the check protector.

The Chicago youths confessed that they were the perpetrators of the bogus check game charged against them, according to Detective Harris. The detective added that the number of checks floated in Southern California by the two brothers would total several hundred dollars. The Hawleys said that they had been in this vicinity about six weeks and were living in a hotel at Eighth and Flower streets.

CONDUCTING REVIVAL.

Noted Salvation Army Worker in Charge of Meetings Here.

Col. S. L. Brengle, D.D., the international revivalist of the Salvation Army, is holding a series of evangelistic meetings in Symphony Hall on South Hill street. Maj. Walter Mabee, the singer, has charge of the music.

Col. Brengle has been connected with the Salvation Army more than twenty years, and has conducted meetings in nearly every civilized country. His writings have been translated into German, Swedish, Finnish, Japanese, French and other languages. He was specially commissioned to evangelical work by Gen. Bramwell Booth.

This series of meetings is a part of the Great Call campaign inaugurated by Gen. Booth to cover the world.

Gen. Booth will visit Los Angeles on March 4 and will speak at Trinity Auditorium on that date.

CHIEF TO FIRE 500 LOAFERS.

Chicago Police Head Will Weed Out Shirkers on Windy City Force.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 12. — Five hundred loafers on the police force are going to be fired, Chief of Police Fitzmorris announced today. Three months as superintendent of police had convinced him, the Chief said, that 4100 police were doing their duty and the other 500 were simply loafing. He instructed captains to set a watch on the men to discover the loafers.

ADDRESS BY O. G. VILLARD STARTS RIOT.

Pacifist Editor's Invitation to Speak Stirs Service Men and Relatives.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI, Feb. 12.—Scenes of turbulence that necessitated the sending of a riot call to police headquarters marked an address delivered today by Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the Nation and former editor of the New York Evening Post. The address was given under the auspices of the City Club and the Women's City Club.

During the week there had been many resignations from both clubs on the ground Villard was an admitted pacifist and that he opposed the draft. Prominent women, members of the Women's City Club, circulated petitions protesting against the meeting and the use of several halls was used.

Villard was in the midst of his address when about fifty men rushed up to the stair to the auditorium. A closed door containing a glass panel opened into an anteroom. The glass was broken and several defenders were slightly cut. The crowd poured into the anteroom and there was a wild melee. Women members threw themselves against the main door to bar the invaders, who were yelling, "Let's go!" Villard halted as a result of the noise, but continued when the police had cleared the place.

Villard was escorted from the hall to an automobile by the police after the streets had been cleared for a block.

Phelan Sees Trouble Over Jap Problem.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12.—Ultimate conflict between the United States and Japan over the Japanese problem on the Pacific Coast unless a remedy for the present condition is found was predicted tonight by Senator Phelan of California in an address here.

"The alien invasion is threatening the life of California as a white commonwealth," he said, "and the only protests by white Californians being made against California's efforts to rid herself of the Japanese immigrant are made through selfish cupidity and not by patriotism."

FEAR TO CURTAIL NAVY.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Feb. 12.—Commenting on the defeat in the House of the resolution by Y. Ozaki, proposing curtailment of naval armaments, Viscount Kato, leader of the opposition, declared in a statement today no practical statesman dares propose restrictions of the defensive scheme that meets the minimum naval requirements of the empire. The opposition party, he said, considered the eight-battleship and eight-cruiser program vital to the country's defense.

Ozaki's proposal that Japan take the initiative lost value, according to the Viscount, because Japan was not in a position to take the initiative.

Cuban Sugar Crop Control is Placed With Commission

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HAVANA, Feb. 12. — Control of Cuba's 1920-1921 sugar crop has been placed in the hands of a governmental organization known as the Sugar Finance Commission, appointed by President Menocal, of seven members, who will receive no compensation.

The decree appointing the commission directs sugar buyers or sellers to file before February 20 sworn statements covering all foreign sales contracts. The agreements must stipulate that the product they cover is to be refined or used by the buyer, and not sold or offered for sale as crude sugar. Infractions of rules will result in refusal to issue permits for further shipments.

R. B. Hawley, president of the American Sugar Company, and one of the members of the commission, declared that the Cuban government had adopted the plan "to save the sugar industry of the island."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Representation of the consuming public and the Cuban government on the Sugar Financing Commission to be organized in Cuba has been recommended by the State Department. It was explained today that officials here hoped such representation would minimize the possibility of the committee resorting to high-price fixing.

Attorney Asserts Stanley Girl Told Him She Lied.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12.—Asst. Dist.-Atty. Henry Heidelberg resigned today on the ground that he felt he could no longer keep to himself the fact that Miss Jean Stanley, complaining witness against Thomas Brady in the last of the so-called gangster trials, had told him she lied on the stand to protect the character of Miss Jessie Montgomery, complaining witness against the other gangster defendants.

After his resignation and his public statement, Heidelberg prepared an affidavit for submission by Brady's attorney in support of a motion for a new trial, which will be heard before Superior Judge Louis Ward Tuesday. His statement was largely a confirmation of the affidavit of Mrs. Anita Larrieu filed in court Thursday.

"I could be put in the penitentiary for the things I said on the stand," Heidelberg asserted Miss Stanley told him.

He declared he had told Dist.-Atty. Matthew Brady and Asst. Dist.-Atty. Stanislaus Riley, who prosecuted the gangster cases, that he felt he ought to make a statement to the court, but that Matthew Brady advised him not to say anything, less Thomas Brady's attorney heard about it and quizzed him on the witness stand.

EXHAUST-PIPE END USED AS A HOME.

Jobless Man Lived Three Years in Odd Abode in New York Street.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—The open end of an exhaust pipe, four feet in diameter, connecting two buildings in Lower New York, served as home for Antonio Bolakoruf, aged 50, for more than three years, it was disclosed today. Unable to obtain employment and too proud to beg, he subsisted on morsels taken from restaurant garbage cans.

He began a third day sojourn in the workhouse today, where, he was assured, the beds were softer and the food more palatable.

EASY TO DETERMINE CHILD'S PARENTAGE.

DOCTOR FINDS BLOOD BEATS IN UNISON; BAY CITY CASE SETS PRECEDENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12. — Medical jurisprudence as practiced in San Francisco has outdone Solomon's renowned test to establish the parentage of a child.

Recently Mrs. Rose Vittori brought an action to compel her former husband, Paul Vittori, to pay for the maintenance of her child. Vittori denied his paternity.

Counsel agreed in court to subject the disputed matter to science, in the form of a blood test of Vittori and of the child, and Judge Thomas F. Graham announced he would abide by the decision.

Dr. Albert Abrams was named to make the tests. Today he announced his investigation determined absolutely that Vittori was the father of the child.

Blood vibrations of Vittori and the baby conclusively proved parentage, according to the scientist. They beat in unison, he said.

"We have found," Dr. Abrams said, "that the blood of a child and its parents vibrate with identical rhythm. The blood of some one outside the family would not be in unison."

Dr. Abrams further said that the tests showed that Vittori was Italian, of Italian parents; that Mrs. Vittori was one part French and three parts Spanish.

Judge Graham said tonight he would enter an order that Vittori pay for the child's support as soon as the report of Dr. Abrams was brought before him in open court. "I consider this one of the biggest things established by medical science in years," he said, and added that the case constituted an important legal precedent.

CLUBWOMEN INSPECT GREAT HARBOR PLANT.

LEARN OF SHIPBUILDING AT FIRST HAND DURING VISIT TO PORT.

A party of eleven prominent Southern California club women, members of the Legislative Committee of the civic department of the Los Angeles Federation of Women's Clubs, paid an official visit to the plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Company at the harbor yesterday.

Arriving at the shipyard at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, the party was met by President Fred L. Baker, James Reed, the assistant general manager, and S. P. Trood, the publicity agent. Mr. Reed conducted the party through the yard, shops and lofts, after which a thorough inspection was made of the steamer Yale.

The progress of the reconditioning of the Yale from an army transport into a passenger liner was explained in detail. The Yale is scheduled to be placed in service between Los Angeles Harbor and San Francisco in the latter part of April.

When the work at the shipyard is completed, the Yale and her sister ship, the Harvard, which is undergoing similar alterations at the Ralph J. Chandler Shipbuilding Company's plant here, will be the two finest passenger vessels engaging in coastwise trade on the Pacific. They will be operated by the Los Angeles Steamship Company, of which Fred L. Baker is president.

Mrs. Charles A. Holland, chairman of the Legislative Committee, stated that each member of the committee inspecting the shipyard will make a report to her respective club on the extent of the industry.

Accompanying Mrs. Holland were Mrs. Fred B. Kuck, West Ebell Club; Mrs. George Salm, South Side Ebell Club; Miss McGovern and Mrs. H. B. Wurdeman, Badger Club; Mrs. Lydia E. Valler, president of the Woman's Club of Wilmington; Mrs. S. B. Welcome, West Ebell Club; Mrs. H. W. Hitchcock and Mrs. Claude Wilson, Wednesday Morning Club; Mrs. F. W. Thatcher, Cosmos Club, and Miss Sadie Winslow, Wilmington Woman's Club.

CONSUMER GETS STUNG.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA, Feb. 12. — Wholesale price of bread dropped from 13 to 12 and 8½ to 8 cents here yesterday. Retailers say the reduction will not be passed on to the consumer.

CHURCHILL PLEADS FOR FAIR PLAY.

New British Secretary for Colonies Wants America as England's Friend.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—A plea for making the dominant note in Anglo-American relations one of friendship and understanding, rather than of sensationalist and inaccurate representation, was made tonight by Winston Spencer Churchill, new Secretary for the Colonies, and Earl Reading, Viceroy of India, at a farewell dinner to Lord Reading.

The guests included Mrs. John W. Davis, representing the American Ambassador, and Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland.

Both Mr. Churchill and Lord Reading alluded to the co-operation between Great Britain and the United States in the war, and the need of preserving in peace what had been gained at such cost. The Viceroy said it was essential that the two nations understand each other, because misunderstanding bred suspicion and suspicion bred mistrust; but with a common understanding of each other's ideals and aims, Anglo-American unity was guaranteed.

Lord Reading gave what he declared to be the first public utterance concerning one wartime evidence of American friendship to England, saying that at a moment during the war when silver was unavailable and England urgently needed it, the American Congress passed legislation opening the treasury reserves and silver was forwarded to India.

"So far as I know," he added, "America has since made no claim regarding the matter."

DE MOTTE DEFENDS STATE EXPENSES.

CHALLENGES GAS COMPANY HEAD TO SHOW WHERE REDUCTION CAN BE MADE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12.—Marshall De Motte, chairman of the State Board of Control, has challenged Wigginton E. Creed, president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, to show where the State expense can justifiably be cut down, or show where the strictest economy has not been exercised. De Motte issued the challenge to Creed today in the following letter:

"Our attention has been called to a page advertisement appearing in this morning's newspapers in which you and other corportaion officials state, among other things, that important economies in the State government can be affected so as to avoid the proposed tax increase on the corporations.

"We invite you gentlemen who signed this advertisement to come to Sacramento and make a detailed examination of the budget as presented to the Legislature.

"We challenge you to indicate where State expense can justifiably be cut down or to show where the strictest economy has not been exercised.

"If you cannot all come to Sacramento, we would suggest that a committee be named. You gentlemen must personally participate. We prefer not to deal with the tax experts and others you have employed. We desire to submit personally to you the full details of the State's governmental cost.

"The taxation issue is wholly one of equalization of taxes as between the corporations and the general property owner, but you make the grave allegation of State extravagance and as a budget board we strongly feel that in fairness to ourselves and to the government of the State you should either substantiate the statement you have made, or on the other hand allow us to prove to you that you have made allegations under a complete misapprehension of the facts."

WOMAN REPLIES TO DEBATE CHALLENGE.

Dr. Mae Parsons, whose husband, a chiropractor, was recently acquitted at a trial on a charge of practising a method of healing in violation of the requirements of the State Medical Act, yesterday called upon Leonard Wilson, prosecuting attorney for the State Medical Board, and accepted Mr. Wilson's challenge to debate upon the question of the standing of chiropractors under the State law. Mr. Wilson's challenge was made during the Parsons trial.

Ask Commission to Resign.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BISMARCK (N. D.) Feb. 12. Resolutions were adopted by the Independent Voters' Association of North Dakota today, calling upon the State Industrial Commission to resign. The commission also was called on to make arrangements for release of "frozen assets of Bank of North Dakota."

Unveil Memorial to Mitchel.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Unveiling of a memorial tablet to Maj. John Purroy Mitchel, a former Mayor of New York, who was killed when his airplane fell at Gerstner Field, Louisana, July 6, 1918, was included in Columbia University alumni day exercises here today. He was a member of the class of 1899.

MISS MONTGOMERY HERE.

Affidavits filed in San Francisco by attorneys for Thomas Brady, the last defendant in the gangster cases of that city, in an effort to obtain a new trial for him were attacked here yesterday by counter affidavits of Miss Jean Stanley and Miss Jessie Montgomery, two of the convicted gangsters' victims who have been in seclusion in Los Angeles in the past few weeks.

This was learned by The Times last night when it was admitted by the District Attorney's office that both Miss Stanley and Miss Montgomery were questioned here in accordance with the instructions from San Francisco, and later signed affidavits denying the allegations of the witnesses who signed their names to the San Francisco affidavits. The documents were mailed to San Francisco yesterday, for use in the arguments before Judge Louis Ward Thursday.

No details were given out by the Los Angeles officials who prepared the affidavits. William C. Doran, chief deputy District Attorney, refused to comment on the affidavits other than to admit that they were signed and mailed from his office yesterday.

In a general way, it was learned by The Times, the affidavits of Miss Stanley and Miss Montgomery contradict the so-called O'Connor and Larrieu affidavits in so far as they referred to statements alleged to have been made by Miss Stanley that she did not tell the truth on the stand during Brady's trial in order to protect the character of Miss Montgomery, complaining witness against the other gangsters.

The fact that Miss Montgomery is also in Los Angeles was not known until it was learned by The Times that she signed an affidavit corroborating that of Miss Stanley.

MORE LINCOLN RELICS FOUND.

Chicago Historical Society Acquires Church Pew.

Rough Bench Typical of the Great Commoner.

Other Belongings Bear Out His Simple Tastes.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO (Ill.) Feb. 12.—Abraham Lincoln is shown again as one of the plain people at the Chicago Historical Society this week.

To its already fine Lincoln collection, the society has added on this anniversary, for the first time, some remarkable bits of Lincoln's environment that give glimpses of his life.

Most illuminating, perhaps, among these is the pew that Lincoln occupied in the Presbyterian Church at Springfield, before he left the Illinois capital to go to the White House. The rough bench looks as if it might have been made from the rails that he split in youth. No plainer, commoner, more substantial bench could be built for a church.

NEVER PAINTED.

The pew probably was never painted. At any rate it shows no sign of paint today, but stands like a product of the carpenter that had gone straight to the church. It is a bench that without regard to looks, could be doing its duty for several more half centuries.

Near by is a chair that Lincoln used while he was reading law. It is one of those bleak office chairs of long ago, a sure enough companion piece to the pew, simple, worn and still good for a long term of hard service.

Close at hand stands a bookcase made abroad for Jefferson Davis, the president of the Confederacy. Rather ornately carved, it seems quite unlike Lincoln's home bookcase, which also is on display here today. This is another of the plain pieces common in the day, and now sought after. But that there was comfort and elegance of a quiet nature in the Lincoln household may be attested by the handsome mahogany and haircloth couch from Springfield.

Robert T. Lincoln, the President's only living son, pays the Chicago Historical Society a visit from time to time. He has pronounced the best likeness of his father a little known portrait that has recently come into possession of the society and is hanging there, this Lincoln's Birthday, for the first time. The scene is a ship's cabin, where Lincoln is listening to Gen. Sherman tell of his march to the sea. The painting is by C. P. A. Healy, one of the noted artists of the day. Robert T. Lincoln has had a copy of his father's figure made for his home in Washington.

The bed on which Lincoln breathed his last, together with hundreds of bits intimately associated with his life, have recently come into the hands of the society. These all are from the collection of the late Charles F. Gunther, the Chicago candy man.

For years and years Mr. Gunther worked with unflagging energy until he has gathered what Miss Caroline M. McIlhaine, librarian of the Chicago Historical Society, terms the most remarkable private collection in the country relating to American history.

Between Chicago and Springfield Illinois has the fullest collection reminiscent of its greatest "favorite son."

AMERICAN AGENTS APPEAR FORSAKEN.

MEN WHO TRIED TO RECAPTURE SLACKER BERGDOLL SUFFER IN JAIL.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MOSBACH (Baden) Feb. 12.—Apparently forgotten or forsaken by the country they served, Charles Neaf and Frank Zimmer, American operatives who tried to bring Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, to justice, were pacing their cells in the jail here today, frequently going to the little window and tugging at the bars that cover it. Sometimes they tried rapping on the walls, but there is no answer because the Germans separated them by two cells.

Suddenly Neaf's wife entered, accompanied by an austere prison official. Zimmer's sweetheart, Miss Bernardina Bayer, also accompanied the official. The visit was no little adventure for them. They had been trying to visit the two for a week but had been hindered. Mrs. Neaf came to Eberbach a day or two after her husband attempted to get Bergdoll, but the neighborhood was so wrought up by the affair that they were intimidated. Judge Schlim of Eberbach had taken charge of the situation and advised Mrs. Neaf to leave town because the police were powerless to control the populace. Mrs. Neaf, accordingly, went to Heidelberg and only returned today to see her husband when she heard he had been removed to the Mosbach jail.

So strict is the German rule at the jail that neither Mrs. Neaf nor Miss Bayer was permitted to ask about the injuries the men sustained when the mob attacked them. Both women are studying in Heidelberg.

MECHANICS IN PANAMA ON STRIKE FOR BONUS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PANAMA, Feb. 12. — Operating mechanics employed on the Panama Canal have resigned because of the withholding of bonus payments, and the situation threatens a tie-up of the canal by the time the Atlantic and Pacific fleets return here from the joint maneuvers in progress on the west coats of South America.

Col. Chester Harding, Governor of the Canal Zone, sailed for the United States Thursday and will not return to the isthmus. His resignation and departure leave Col. Jay J. Morrow as acting Governor.

WHEAT GROWERS TO DISPOSE OF CROPS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 12. — Plans for the disposal of 500,000,000 bushels of wheat annually were discussed yesterday by the executive board of the National Association of Wheat Growers in session here.

No definite action was taken, but a plan calling for the erection of warehouses by the farmers, the storing of the crops in these warehouses and the sale of the wheat to the mills by agents of the farmers was outlined.

BURLINGTON RAILROAD AGAIN TO CUT FORCES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Feb. 12.—General Superintendent Flynn yesterday announced a further forthcoming reduction in the operating forces of the Burlington Railroad in practically all the Nebraska divisions.

The reduction, it was announced, affects supervisory officials and employees. It reaches from trainmasters to foremen and consolidates a number of positions.

FIND MORE POISONED SPINACH IN MICHIGAN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LANSING (Mich.) Feb. 12.—Another quantity of preserved spinach containing the botulinus germ has been found by agents of the food and drug department, who are inspecting all grocery, hotel, hospital and restaurant stocks in the State, Health Commissioner Woodworth announced yesterday. The shipments, Woodworth said, were traced to half a dozen cities through Chicago jobbers, who are assisting in destroying all of the food found to be contaminated.

NATURE HEALS MARS' DAMAGE.

Birth Rate in England and France Increases.

Actual Number of New Born Highest on Record.

Marriages Also Show Decided Gain in Past Year.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The astonishing improvement in the birth and death rate in England and France for 1920 prove conclusively that these nations contrary to what some authorities have been saying about degeneracy, have reason to rejoice over a triumph of motherhood which has lifted them to a remarkably vigorous and healthy state of development.

Especially is this true of England, where the death rate fell to 12.4 per 1000, the lowest ever recorded. The infant mortality also is the lowest ever recorded having fallen from 149 per 1000 in 1880 to 80 in 1920. Right in line with these encouraging records is the birth rate which was the highest of the decade, having reached between 25 to 26 per 1000.

HIGHEST RECORDED.

The actual number of births is the highest ever recorded, while the number of deaths is the lowest since 1862, when the population was only 20,000,000.

In France while detailed figures are available only for the first six months of the year, the result shows that for the first time in many years births exceeded deaths by a wide margin.

In the whole country, including Alsace-Lorraine and the liberated departments, the figures show that there were 68,000 more births than deaths, the exact figures being 424,668 births and 356,722 deaths. Just how remarkable is this improvement is shown by the figures for the same period in 1919, when outside of the liberated departments there were 120,000 more deaths than births.

MARRIAGES INCREASE.

Another encouraging thing is the increase in the marriage rate. In the Department of the Seine, which includes Paris, for instance, there were 11,800 more marriages during the first six months of 1920 than during the corresponding period of 1919. Also there were 11,000 more births.

To return to the situation in England, it is interesting to note the improvement since 1871 as shown by the following table which does not take war losses into consideration:

	Death rate.	Infant mortality.
1871-1880	24.4	149
1881-1890	19.1	142
1891-1900	18.2	153
1901-1910	15.4	129
1911-1915	14.3	110
1916	14.4	91
1917	14.4	96
1918	17.6	97
1919	13.8	89
1920	12.4	80

British newspapers in quoting these figures give the credit for the improvement to the mothers and family doctors of the nation, and declare that this proof should discourage the political practice of creating panics about national degeneracy and then attempting to still them by elaborate schemes of state controlled healing.

HISTORICAL NECKLACE WILL GO ON MARKET.

LOUVRE ANNOUNCES IT WILL SELL EXQUISITE JEWELRY OF MME. THIERS.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Here is an opportunity for the wife of some wealthy American to acquire a pearl necklace which has the advantage of historical value as well as beauty. This exquisite bit of jewelry is the necklace which Mme. Thiers, widow of the famous President of France, bequeathed to the Louvre. Now the curators of the museum have announced that they do not believe the necklace to be of sufficient historical interest to warrant keeping such a large potential sum of money idle, and so it is to be sold.

From this it may be gathered that only persons of ample means need to worry themselves about possessing this treasure. As a matter of fact one expert has valued the necklace at about $1,000,000, or nearer $1,250,000 at the normal exchange rate.

The entire necklace weighs 524 carats. It consists of 154 large pearls made into three strings.

Women's Dress Hotly Attacked by Legislator.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JEFFERSON CITY (Mo.) Feb. 12.—Assertion that "half-clad women are running about the halls of the Capitol Building" was made before the House Judiciary Committee of the Legislature here last night by Representative John C. Dyott of Howell county during a hearing on an injunction bill aimed at resorts.

"I believe the mothers are helping to send their daughters to hell by permitting them to walk the streets almost in a state of nakedness," Representative Dyott declared in denouncing what he termed immodesty in dress.

Miss Varina Jackson, representing the Women's Commercial Club of Kansas City, declared that "what we need is more fatherhood and more motherhood. I believe it would be a lot better if father would tell his daughter he did not think the dress she is wearing is proper, but father is too busy playing golf."

HURRY MAY COST LIFE.

Aged Man Hurt When Attempting to Board Moving Street Car.

James Clark 60 years of age, of 115 South Olive street, was probably fatally injured yesterday when he fell from the step of a moving street car near Sixth and Olive streets. At the Receiving Hospital the aged man was treated for a fracture of the skull and other injuries. According to the police, who made an investigation of the accident, Mr. Clark attempted to board a moving street car.

VALENTINE BALL DRAWS THOUSANDS.

Celebrities Galore Enjoy Ball Given by Los Angeles Theaters' Association.

The Mardi Gras and Valentine ball given under the auspices of the Los Angeles Theaters' Association at the Ambassador last night, was attended by more than 5000 people, among the merrymakers being the film favorites of the world.

The carnival which preceded the ball was enjoyed by other thousands who did not dance. Dancing began at 9 o'clock, with all dancers masked and gaily costumed. The costumes were of great beauty and wide variety, from those of colonial dames to chanticleers and from styles of the French court to cowboy outfits. Masks were removed shortly before midnight at the conclusion of the grand march, led by Charlie Murray.

Members of the association in charge of the entertainment were: Sid Grauman, chairman; Alexander Pantages, L. E. Behymer, F. A. Miller, W. H. Clune, W. T. Wyatt, Sol Lesser, Harry David, H. D. McBride and W. R. Payne.

Celebrities of the film world and stage, authors, society folk and the general public mingled in one of the most successful entertainments of the winter.

Salesman Held for Bold Theft from Bar Safe.

Charged with having stolen $338 from the safe of Fred Heim's soft drink bar at 516 South Main street, Jack Carrillo, a salesman about 40 years old, was arrested in his room in a hotel at Eighth and Hope streets last night by Detective Sergeants O'Brien and Cline. He is held in the City Jail on a charge of grand larceny.

The detectives said that a man whose name they withheld saw a man believed to be Carrillo take the money from the safe while he was pretending to be using the telephone. The safe door was closed, but the combination had not been thrown, the detectives learned.

The detectives further said they found the missing $338 lying on the roof of the hotel where Carillo lives.

WILL GIVE DINNERS FOR WORK LEADERS.

Y.M.C.A. INVITES HUNDREDS TO MEET DIRECTORS OF GREAT ACTIVITIES.

Dinners in honor of two prominent leaders in the Y.M.C.A. movement in America will be given Thursday and Friday nights in the central association auditorium on South Hope street under the auspices of Los Angeles secretaries and officials. George Irving, director of religious work for the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A., who was a speaker at the State convention of association workers held recently in Riverside, will be guest of honor and principal speaker at an evening dinner Thursday. He will discuss "The Present Day Need for Christ."

Invitations have been issued to 1000 residents of Los Angeles to attend the dinner and program. The meeting also will be open to all members of the Y.M.C.A.

Dr. John Brown, Jr., director of physical work for the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A., will be guest of honor and principal speaker on Friday evening at a dinner given by the physical department of the central Y.M.C.A. More than 700 invitations have been issued by the committee. Dr. Brown will speak on the present trend in physical education and its application to commercial and industrial purposes.

HONORED FOR LABORS.

Los Angeles Man Made Member of National Relief Body.

Louis M. Cole of this city has been unanimously elected a member of the American Jewish Relief Committee in recognition of his long service and leadership in raising funds to relieve the Jewish war sufferers in Eastern and Central Europe, according to word from the committee headquarters in New York. Mr. Cole will be associated with Louis Marshall, chairman of the committee; Felix M. Warburg, Julius Rosenwald, Nathan and Oscar Straus, Judge Julian W. Mack, Henry Morgenthau, Judge Abram I. Elkus and other prominent American Jews, including Louis Isaacs of Los Angeles, in carrying on the work of the committee, particularly a reconstruction program, medical relief and the present emergency relief in Poland.

The American Jewish Relief Committee has raised more than $35,000,000 throughout the United States and Canada for the relief of Jewish war sufferers since the outbreak of the World War. Mr. Cole has had a large part in the raising of this money through his activity for the committee in its appeals in this State.

POLICEMAN HELD UP.

Detectives after Man Who Walked Away with Officer's Gun.

Police detectives are searching diligently for the daring bandit who, early yesterday morning, held up and robbed Patrolman C. Trainer of central police division at Sixth and Alvarado streets as the officer was going to work. The bandit secured the policeman's revolver after getting the "drop" on him and then forced him to walk away with his hands in the air. Patrolman Trainer supplied the detectives with a good description of the bandit and officers will continue the search until he is taken into custody.

WASHINGTON NEWS IN BRIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Senate Foreign Relations Committee members made it known today that they have information to the effect that President Wilson promised the Allies at the Peace Conference that he would use his influence to have their war debts to this government canceled.

German commonwealth, according to information received here, is preparing to address the American government on the subject of immediate peace as soon as the Harding administration is inaugurated.

Secretary of State Colby, in a letter to Senator Spencer of Missouri, declared that agitation regarding atrocities committed by French black troops in the occupied European area is the result of organized German propaganda against the French.

E. N. Hurley of Chicago, former chairman of the Shipping Board, defended its war-time activities before the Walsh committee of the House. He said the cost of wooden ships should be charged off as a war loss and the steel ships sold at greatly reduced prices.

A duty of 5 cents a pound on mutton and lamb was asked by sheep raisers before the House Ways and Means Committee as a protection against imports of the New Zealand product. It was declared that retail meat dealers are selling the frozen New Zealand meat at the same price as the domestic meat.

Provisions for the relief of the farmer, including an item of $5,000,000 for advances to farmers for seed grain, are included in the annual agricultural appropriation bill as reported from the Senate Committee on Agriculture.

MILLIONS IN WAR CLAIMS.

Vast Sum Totaled in Damages Sought by Citizens Against Government.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Millions of dollars—and promises of billions—are represented in the great tide of lawsuits which is beginning to pour into the United States Court of Claims as one of the results of the World War. The court was expressly created to determine legal controversies between private citizens and the government.

The Attorney-General says the amount of war claims is enormous and that indications are the influx of cases has only begun. Actions upon claims involving aproximately $124,000,000 have already been filed. The ultimate aggregate of claims, it is estimated, will reach between two and three billion dollars. The personnel of the Department of Justice having charge of the defense of these actions has been doubled to enable it to cope with the flood of new litigation.

CLAIMS ARE VARIED.

These war claims are brought into the court by plaintiffs having claims against all departments of the government. The War Department has claims involving aproximately $5,000,000,000. The Bureau of Internal Revenue now has pending claims for refunds and rebates aggregating $650,000,000. The Shipping Board has cancellations of contracts involving over $850,000,000. Claims for patent infringement are estimated by the Attorney-General at $100,000,000. The Railroad Administration has differences with the railroads amounting to approximately $750,000,000.

There are also claims proportionately large in amount arising from the Housing Corporation, the War Risk Bureau, and the Food and Fuel Administrations, and it is known that there is a large amount of other claims of miscellaneous character which have not yet been filed.

In preparation for the disposition of this new business the court of claims has so cleared its dockets that not only pending suits, but actions based upon these war claims are receiving immediate action and all cases are disposed of as rapidly as they are presented. One of the first and most important cases, affecting claims estimated at $100,000,000, was begun on May 15, 1920. Judgment was rendered June 28, 1920, and an appeal was argued in the United States Supreme Court on January 7.

"The volume of important adjudications in the court of claims during the past fiscal year," says the Attorney-General, "if equalled, has certainly never been exceeded. Since the original act of Feb. 24, 1855, providing a forum in which citizens of the United States might have their claims against the government adjudicated, the duties of the court of claims have steadily increased under legislation enacted from time to time enlarging its scope, until today it is recognized that its importance is not exceeded by any other tribunal.

Every conceivable issue between the citizens and their sovereign founded upon contract, express or implied, is presented to that court, and in addition under the so-called Dent Act of March 2, 1919, agreements entered into during the war of an informal nature may be brought to the court of claims for award of fair and just compensation. The small percentage of the decisions of the court of claims reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States testifies to the character of the decisions rendered."

Among the claims already filed in the court are $60,000,000 for shipping; $20,000,000 for railroad requisition; $26,000,000 for patent infringement; $2,200,000 for aircraft engines and guns; $2,000,000 for transportation of troops and supplies; and $2,500,000 in suits commenced by the packing companies.

WOMEN WILL FIGHT ON.

Women's Party to Hold National Meet in Washington This Week.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Efforts to reach an agreement on widely different plans to remove what are described as inequalities and discriminations still existing in many States against women, possibly through the creation of an entirely new national organization, will be made by the Woman's party at its annual convention, which begins here Wednesday.

Delegates declare that while the main object for which the party was organized — national woman suffrage—has been attained, the victory is not yet complete. Some leaders propose to continue to depend upon obtaining national legislation favorable to their cause by "holding the party in power responsible" and arousing interest in women's legislation among the constituents of members of Congress. Others propose more clearly defined political activities in the States, while still others would enter the political arena direct with a full-fledged women's party.

HAVE RESOLUTIONS.

The executive committee, the advisory council and the committee of State chairmen will submit the following resolutions concerning the future program:

"Resolved, that the women here assembled now consecrate themselves, the political freedom of women having been won in the United States, to see that this freedom is not lost in any international government that is established, and to work for the removal of all remaining forms of the subjection of women.

"Resolved, that in order to carry out this program the National Woman's party disband and a new organization be created.

"Resolved, that in order to promote the object of this organization, it maintain an official magazine.

"Resolved, that the immediate work of the organization shall be the removal of the legal disabilities of women."

REFER TO LEAGUE.

The "international government" referred to, it is explained, is the League of Nations, the covenant of which, it is claimed, would deprive women of rights they have won in individual countries. The Woman's party objects particularly, leaders declare, to the clause of the League covenant which provides that where a people are voting to determine their future nationality "option by husband will cover his wife."

An official statement issued by the woman's party says that in certain States of the United States married women have no control over their children.

"The children's place of abode," the statement says, "can be fixed by their husbands and the women must vote where their husbands live—a common law rule of domicile that is at the bottom of the statute forcing upon American women who marry foreigners the nationality of their husbands."

PLAN TWO-DAY CONGRESS.

Americanization work among foreign-born residents of Los Angeles will be furthered on the 21st and 22nd inst. when a congress of nations and a demonstration of racial characteristics and abilities is to be staged in the auditorium and gymnasium of the Central Y.M.C.A. under the auspices of the Americanization department of the city association. More than a dozen different nationalities are to be represented in the program, according to its promoters, and the benefits are expected to be mutually helpful to both natives and foreign-born.

An exhibit by various foreign groups of their handiwork will be held in the boys' gymnasium, third floor of the central branch. Included in the exhibit will be rugs, woven goods, sewing, pottery, jewelry and many other articles of daily use.

Both at noon and at night on the two days of the congress, demonstrations of artistic skill will be given in the auditorium. Each nationality represented in the congress will be given an opportunity to sing its own folk songs and conduct a characteristic program.

Boys of foreign parents also will participate in the exhibitions and demonstrations and the Sons of America, a juvenile patriotic organization, will demonstrate "The Making of an American" ritual.

All exhibitions and entertainments will be free to the public.

BEAUTIFUL HOLLY. FOOTHILL HOME.

We have just listed a beautiful Spanish stucco home, located on a high terraced lot north of Hollywood Boulevard, commanding a wonderful view of both mountain and sea. This is a very unusual place and contains besides the extra large living and dining rooms, four bedrooms—two up and two down—two large tile baths with showers. All rooms are Tiffany decorated in oil. Fixtures are wrought iron and all screens of copper on rollers. From the spacious roof garden the beauties and wonders of this home are indescribable. Owner going to Europe and will sell at a great sacrifice.

BEAUTIFUL NINE-ROOM RESIDENCE.

On South Serrano, between Fourth and Fifth streets (in highly restricted Francesca Park Tract.) Finished in finest selected hardwoods. Maid's room and bath on first floor. All modern conveniences and equipment, including electric washing machine in laundry, gas furnace, automatic water heater, etc. Price for a quick sale, $20,000.

OPPOSITE BERKELEY SQUARE.
ON 100-FT. LOT, 2400 WESTERN AVE.

This exceedingly well built home of ten rooms, four master bedrooms, with three baths and sleeping porch on second floor; also servants' quarters. Very large cellar with Ruud heater, furnace and storeroom. Two-story, two-car garage, with chauffeur's room and bath on second floor. Price $32,000.

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL.
AMIDST TROPICAL GARDENS.

This magnificent white plaster colonial home was built several years ago by its present owner, who spared no expense in its construction, and spent many thousands of dollars in beautifying the large park surrounding the home. He succeeded in building one of the most charming and complete homes in California and the several acres of grounds have been so highly improved as to form a park of unequaled beauty and restfulness. Price $125,000.

NEW PRE-WAR PRICES.
TWENTY BEAUTIFUL HOMES.
ON NORTH KENMORE AVENUE, BETWEEN SANTA MONICA BLVD. AND MELROSE.
PRE-WAR PRICES FROM $8250.

Prospective purchasers will do well to inspect these splendidly constructed homes. The owner and builder bought the land as raw acreage and has converted it into what is undoubtedly one of the finest residence streets in Los Angeles, reached by both red and yellow car lines, a stone's throw from new State University, and immediately adjacent to and midway between Hollywood and Wilshire.

Some of these beautiful places are of brick construction, some of stucco, some hollow tile and others of frame and plaster. All were designed by skilled architects, specializing in fine residential work, and every detail of construction was executed by careful mechanics, who know their work and are proud of a good job.

The houses are situated in the 800 and 900 blocks on North Kenmore, just west of the Branch State University, and are open for inspection every day to anyone interested in fine construction work.

The owner has deliberately reduced the prices in every case. Some as much as $1500, and the new prices are guaranteed against further reductions.

$85,000.
COMPLETELY FURNISHED WILSHIRE HOME.

House and furnishings practically new. The house and lot alone are worth $50,000 and the owner says he can show invoices for over $30,000 in furnishings—and at prices considerably under today's market. [illegible] construction, white cement plaster exterior, tiled roof, with mahogany and oak finish downstairs. The furnishings are undoubtedly the finest quality and the taste displayed is wonderfully artistic. No advertisement could begin to describe the wonders of this beautiful home, but if you will call at our office we can show you a complete set of interior photographs which will be of great help to you. The owner has gone east and you can depend on his willingness to make you a very good deal. This is a remarkable opportunity to save over $15,000, also six months' time and work which it would take to collect the art treasures and furniture to be found here.

BEAUTIFUL HOLLY. FOOTHILL HOME.

We have just listed a beautiful Spanish stucco home, located on a high terraced lot north of Hollywood Boulevard, commanding a wonderful view of both mountain and sea. This is a very unusual place and contains besides the extra large living and dining rooms, four bedrooms—two up and two down—two large tile baths with showers. All rooms are Tiffany decorated in oil. Fixtures are wrought iron and all screens of copper on rollers. From the spacious roof garden the beauties and wonders of this home are indescribable. Owner going to Europe and will sell at a great sacrifice.

BEAUTIFUL NINE-ROOM RESIDENCE.

On South Serrano, between Fourth and Fifth streets (in highly restricted Francesca Park Tract.) Finished in finest selected hardwoods. Maid's room and bath on first floor. All modern conveniences and equipment, including electric washing machine in laundry, gas furnace, automatic water heater, etc.
Price for a quick sale. $20,000.

OPPOSITE BERKELEY SQUARE.
ON 100-FT. LOT, 2400 WESTERN AVE.

This exceedingly well built home of ten rooms, four master bedrooms, with three baths and sleeping porch on second floor; also servants' quarters. Very large cellar with Ruud heater, furnace and storeroom. Two-story, two-car garage, with chauffeur's room and bath on second floor. Price $32,000.

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL.
AMIDST TROPICAL GARDENS.

This magnificent white plaster colonial home was built several years ago by its present owner, who spared no expense in its construction, and spent many thousands of dollars in beautifying the large park surrounding the home. He succeeded in building one of the most charming and complete homes in California and the several acres of grounds have been so highly improved as to form a park of unequaled beauty and restfulness. FOR SALE—
BY OWNER AND BUILDER.
NEW PRE-WAR PRICES.
TWENTY BEAUTIFUL HOMES.
ON NORTH KENMORE AVENUE,
BETWEEN SANTA MONICA BLVD. AND MELROSE.
PRE-WAR PRICES FROM $8250.

Prospective purchasers will do well to inspect these splendidly constructed homes. The owner and builder bought the land as raw acreage and has converted it into what is undoubtedly one of the finest residence streets in Los Angeles, reached by both red and yellow car lines, a stone's throw from new State University, and immediately adjacent to and midway between Hollywood and Wilshire.

Some of these beautiful places are of brick construction, some of stucco, some hollow tile and others of frame and plaster. All were designed by skilled architects, specializing in fine residential work, and every detail of construction was executed by careful mechanics, who know their work and are proud of a good job.

The houses are situated in the 800 and 900 blocks on North Kenmore, just west of the Branch State University, and are open for inspection every day to anyone interested in fine construction work.

The owner has deliberately reduced the prices in every case. Some as much as $1500, and the new prices are guaranteed against further reductions.

FOR SALE—

MOST ATTRACTIVE SMALL ESTATE IN HOLLYWOOD.

It is only once in a lifetime you have an opportunity to secure a buy like this one. Almost 2 acres, artistically landscaped. Money simply could not duplicate these beautiful grounds. Entering a beautiful canopied drive, you circle to the steps leading to a very artistic, rambling bungalow, consisting of reception hall, large living-room, exceptional dining-room, 3 bedrooms, sleeping porch, 2 baths, kitchen, etc., the residence being built on a knoll from which you have a magnificent view down the valley to the city. Garage and quarters for servants. Tennis court. The grounds have almost every kind of fruit and ornamental trees and shrubbery. Is located only 2 blocks north of Hollywood, on one of the best residential streets, has all the advantages of a secluded country home and yet it is only 20 minutes by motor to heart of Los Angeles. The owner has decided to re-establish her home in Paris and is anxious to receive a reasonable offer. It can be bought right. Shown by appointment only.

649 N. Western. Holly 4690.

FOR SALE—

GRIFFITH PARK ENTRANCE TRACT.

The ONLY RESIDENCE LOTS THAT CAN EVER FACE THE ONE BROAD ENTRANCE TO GRIFFITH PARK.

Beginning at the Corner of Western and Los Feliz avenues, thirty large lots front the park entrance.

Faces a running stream lined with sycamores, oaks and ferns, rustic bridges and winding park drives, maintained in perpetuity by the city.

There is not now and never can be any other residence lots similarly situated with reference to the park entrance.

Seven lots have been sold the past week to parties who will at once build elegant and artistic homes that will be in keeping with the character of the tract.

Only twenty minutes from Broadway.

A wonderful view of ocean and city.

Street improvements, including walks, drives, sewers, city water, gas, light and telephone wires, are all being installed and paid for by seller.

For maps, prices and restrictions apply to

WILLIAM MEAD, owner,
606 S. Hill st. Tel. 13464. or to Tract Agent's Office,
Los Feliz Blvd., near Western.

FOR SALE—

FOR SALE—BY OWNER—

NEW ARTISTIC ITALIAN VILLA SITUATED ON BROAD BOULEVARD NEAR FOOTHILLS ON HIGH CORNER LOT 86x190 FEET.

This exclusive place is a combination of MANSION and REAL HOME, characterized by the solid imposing appearance of the exterior and general air of coziness and comfort of the interior. It will appeal to your sense of beauty and artistic taste, with its cream tinted plaster walls, quaint chimneys, red clay tile roof, wrought iron grills, paved patio, lotus pool, massive pergolas, terraced rose garden and flower plots, beautiful expensive landscaping and every requisite to please the eye.

The 9 sunshiny, airy rooms are tastefully decorated in harmonious colorings, finished in mahogany, natural birch and old ivory.

Three bath rooms and kitchen wainscoted in white tile, large basement equipped with complete laundry plant, Rudd water heater, thermostatically controlled heating plant, especially designed, hand wrought electric light fixtures, copper disappearing window screens and doors, handsome garage accommodating three cars, automatic sprinkling plant throughout grounds.

I built this wonderfully complete place at a cost of approximately $50,000. Am sacrificing for $39,000.

Apply on PREMISES, N.E. corner Crescent Heights Boulevard and Fountain ave. PHONE 578730.

FOR SALE—

An estate consisting of 4 50-ft. lots fronting on Santa Monica Blvd. and 2 50-ft. lots on Norton ave., one of which has a modern 5-room newly furnished bungalow, recently painted and decorated; workmanship and material much superior than used in new houses today. There is a garage, chicken house with yards, 25 fruit trees, choice grapes, berries, roses and ornamental shrubbery. The location is ideal in S. W. Hollywood, two blocks from bank and stores, with frequent car service on two lines. Price much less than market value; easy terms, deferred payments running 3 years, when the vacant lots will have increased in value to a sufficient amount to practically pay for bungalow.

This is an opportunity worth while. If you want a home ready to occupy and an opportunity to make good returns on your investment, come and investigate, daily, from 9 to 12 a.m. 8008 NORTON AVE., near Crescent Junction.

FOR SALE—

BURBANK, THE CITY OF SUCCESS.

Schools full to overflowing and increasing daily.

New Garden Spot Open Soon.

It will pay you to investigate Burbank—the City of Success—the fastest-growing spot in Southern California.

Burbank's big new school, occupied for the first time last september, with seemingly ample room, is full to overflowing already. The factories now in operation and contemplated, should raise Burbank from the present 4000 to a city of 25,000 in the next few years. Burbank must have several thousands of new homes soon to take care of its people.

All this growth and development means just one thing—mean increase in property valuations. Your share of that increase can make you rich if you do your part.

BURBANK'S NEW GARDEN SPOT.

In the next few days we will have ready for the market, one of the choicest subdivisions in all Burbank. It has a long frontage to the Dark Canyon Road, the paved boulevard from Hollywood to Burbank, known locally as Olive avenue. The soil is an easily worked, fertile sandy loam, ideal for gardens. Water, gas and electricity will be available, shade trees are in, streets being prepared. The views from the property are fine.

Lots average half an acre each—wide frontages and generous depths—plenty of room for garden, flowers and fruit, perfect sites for real homes. Race and building restrictions will be imposed. Buyers will be hand picked, desirable people, such as you will like for neighbors—such as naturally live in a "white man's town" like Burbank.

Prices range from $850. Terms and assistance to home builders.

There is very real advantage in getting the pick of such property. The number of lots is limited, only 43 in the 25 acres. Early action is necessary to get the best. Arrange to have us show you the property right away.

COMBINATION STOCK RANCH

Practical stockmen consider the time ripe to get into the cattle business. Here is a real opportunity for you. Owner refused cash offer last August of $140,000—NOW forced to sell to protect large interests in Mississippi and Illinois. I can accept clear house or income, local or eastern to $75,000 and $25,000 in cash for equity subject to bank mortgage of $35,000.

3000 acres choice grazing and farming land ideally located in Southern California. Approximately 500 acres no under plow raising good crops of grain and corn. About 500 acres more tillable. Much of land adapted to citrus and walnuts—also Lima beans and grapes. Only 8 miles from the ocean, of which beautiful view is had from the ranch. Also has pasture-right on 440 acres additional free of expense. Rainfall favors this section and abundant forage results. Exceptional water supply for cattle in various parts of ranch; also good indications for obtaining water in irrigation quantities, as several surface wells and springs prove abundant water-bearing land. Ranch completely fenced and cross-fenced into several fields, having about 22 miles of barb wire fence. Lake Hodges lies on the north, furnishing fine duck shooting and fishing, while quail and doves abound on the ranch. County road crosses land, also only short distance to new paved highway.

CLIMATIC CONDITIONS UNEXCELLED.

Improvements are excellent—largely new and cost approximately $12,000. Include ranch house with 7 bedrooms, large living-room, kitchen, bath, and large screened porches; foreman's house of 5 rooms and bath; blacksmith shop fully equipped; two seed houses; hay shed, cow shed, implement shed; oil house; large barn; pump house with engine and pump for domestic use and stock supply. Water piped to buildings and grounds; 3000-gal. tank—also 210-ton silo on concrete foundation. A full equipment of implements, wagons, etc., including tractor, tools, harness and saddles. 2000 acres in eucalyptus trees, furnishing shade and free fence posts.

As to live stock going with ranch, there are about 150 head of white-face (Herefords) of high grade, including 2 fine registered bulls and several young bulls. This is considered one of the finest herds in Southern California. The ranch will carry at least 500 head, and now is an opportune time to stock up. About a dozen fine draft and saddle horses and an extra choice young Percheron stallion. The feed on this ranch is mighty fine and conditions are ideal for cattle. Still much farming can be done if one chooses. The property would not be for sale at any price if it were not for the need expressed above. Anyone wanting a good ranch and delightful country home place will do well to see this. Aside from its other desirable qualities, OIL WELLS are now being drilled on the south and west of this ranch. I am thoroughly familiar with the property and strongly recommend it.

"CARLSBAD-BY-THE-SEA"

$500 an acre profit is easily made at Carlsbad.

If you want to make real money under the most pleasant living conditions, buy your ranch at "Carlsbad-By-The-Sea."

"WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD
On production of Green Peas during the winter months. A pretty large statement, but, read on: one rancher harvested 66,000 pounds of peas from 10 acres. Another harvested 7500 pounds per acre. Another averaged nearly 6000 pounds per acre on a 50-acre tract. We have shipped nearly 100 cars of peas to eastern markets this season. Prices have been as high as 32c per pound by the car. "Cull Peas" have brought us 12c per pound.

All these statements may be verified by the Association Packing-house at Carlsbad.

Planting of spring crops is now under way. Better go out with us soon and select a parcel of this rich irrigated land for your home and income.

HEALTH, WEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

Is available to you. READ CAREFULLY: Paso Robles, Cal., midway between Los Angeles and San Francisco on S.P.R.R. and famous State Highway, is world's famous for its hot springs, bath houses and exceptional climate. That produces health.

Paso Robles district is nationally known as the home of the ALMOND. Finest orchards in State. ALMONDS, PRUNES, PEARS, GRAPES AND APRICOTS are grown without irrigation or fertilizing, this saves three-fourths cost of production. Fine soil with wonderful SEA MARL subsoil that experts say could not be duplicated for $2000 per acre. That produces WEALTH.

With Health and Wealth provided for, HAPPINESS is sure to follow. Won't you come and be your own judge, or write for full details. Nearly 1500 persons have bought and planted in small tracts 27,000 acres to orchards in past four years. Ten or twenty acres in production makes you independent.

Buy the land on long terms. Orchards planted and cared for by experts on annual payments. This provides large income without your labor or residence here. Better investigate NOW, instead of wishing you had later on. We have dairy ranches, chicken ranches and cattle ranches for sale also. Whatever you desire, we can supply at lowest prices.

Come and LIVE in a REAL HOME TOWN. Hunting, fishing, bathing, boating. Paved roads, fine schools, climate. AMERICAN CITIZENS. Everything for your business and pleasure.

FOR SALE—
CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY LANDS.
YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY—In Central Alberta and Saskatchewan are rich park lands—open prairie ready for the plow, interspersed with trees, which afford excellent shelter for stock. Here grain growing, dairying and live stock raising are being carried on successfully. The country is ideal for mixed farming. The Canadian Pacific Railway is offering a large area of these fertile lands in Lloydminster and Battleford districts. This fertile land will become the home of thousands of prosperous farmers. On similar land Seager Wheeler grows the world's prize wheat. Near Lloydminster the world's prize oats have been grown, and butter of the highest quality is made. A man can soon become independent on a farm in this district.
These lands can be bought now at an average price of about $18.00 per acre. You pay down 10 per cent. If land is purchased under settlement conditions, no further payment of principal until end of fourth year, then sixteen annual payments. Interest is 6 per cent. M. E. THORNTON, Supt. of Colonization, Canadian Pacific Railway, 101 Ninth Ave., E. Calgary, Alberta.

FOR SALE—At once, 1000 acres of best farm land in Northwestern Canada. Located in Central Saskatchewan. All tillable soil, well improved, crop failure unknown. Close to school. Five miles to market. FOR EXCHANGE—Mother willed me her Idaho ranch, on Snake River, 14 miles from American Falls, on Lincoln Highway, consisting of 160 acres deeded land and 160 acres long time U. S. government lease carrying with it abundance of free water, right onto the land from Snake River, at practically no cost. About 220 acres of this 320-acre ranch is beautiful, level land, the rest is grazing land. Soil decomposed lava ash sand loam. Good for alfalfa, wheat, barley, rye, beans, apples, pears, peaches, plums, grapes—famous potato land. Do you know of a safer investment than this good land? Think of it—only 14 miles from American Falls, where the big U. S. Government irrigation project is now under way that will also put water on this wonderful soil soon. It will surely be worth $150 per acre. My price now only $65 per acre. Cash or trade for Southern California. $10,400. You get the lease on the 160 acres government land gratis. Please read this ad again, thoughtfully. Where can you duplicate this for safety of investment and sure, positively certain profit? Owner, FRED MURDOCK, 630 Black Bldg. Res. 333 Clay st. Please phone me about it. 62257.

GOVERNMENT LANDS—

FOR SALE—NEVADA VALLEYS' AGRICULTURAL LANDS.
Young folks! You live in times offering greater opportunities on government land than your ancestors ever had. These favorable conditions the government will be physically unable to extend to your offspring because there will be no more desirable acreage left. Perhaps today you are enjoying luxuries which may be traced back to your forefathers' pioneering. Government land since sold at a fat price. Perhaps you owe it to those to follow you to do a little "pioneering." The Pittman Act is the most liberal law ever passed by Congress relating to public lands. It applies in Nevada only. 640 acres, (one mile square, double what your parents could get,) for every United States citizen, male or female, no residence or other requirements except you must clear 20 acres only, dig or drill a well sufficient to irrigate it, grow but one crop, then you may get a government deed or patent. If you can't do this, there is not much of the old blood in you. If you have used your homestead or desert entry rights, you may still file a Pittman application and get 640 acres. In Southern Nevada, opp[illegible] California and Arizona, you have much the same climate, and grow the same crops, as in Southern California, however we locate everywhere in the State, where desirable land is not yet taken. Over 7,000,000 (seven million) acres have been applied for to date; this should tell you when to act if you seek a location near railroads, towns, schools, R.F.D., telephone, National Auto Highways, etc. Extra choice land, deep, rich soil, favorable water conditions, now covered with heavy native grasses for range stock such as you never saw elsewhere, will grow alfalfa, all grains, cotton, all fruits except citrus, nuts, (see long complete list our offices,) no alkali, adobe nor boulders, level, everything favorable, still to be had. To find these locations, obtain legal descriptions, know what is not taken etc., has cost thousands of dollars. Relinquishment sellers, free information seekers please do not take our time. This is government land, go find it, you can file yourself, but you'll spend more than we charge before you locate what you want. "Talk it over," please do this before you call, know that you want to obtain a good location before you come in, be ready to do business. Then we will show you acreage that needs no persuasion for you to take. No locations shown without a deposit in escrow and the record is that so far no one has returned and asked for a refund after seeing the land. We have no time to bother with land not worth while. Practically all of our clients are Californians; they know good land when they see it. We are not looking for easterners who "don't know." Samples of soils, crops, photographs, full information at

OIL PROPERTY—Miscel.

NO CATCH IN THIS.
Would you invest in an oil syndicate owning 10,000 acres of well selected oil leases, and actively drilling a well under contract at the present time, if you could make your check to the Title Insurance and Trust Company of Los Angeles, to be held by it in escrow, and to be returned to you in cash if oil is not produced in quantity to satisfy YOU? THIS IS OUR PROPOSITION. The Title Insurance and Trust Company would not accept the escrow if the proposition were not straight and clean, or if there were any catch in it. If you are interested, write or phone to A. P. CAMPBELL, 300 Investment Bldg. Phone 61010.

FOR SALE—We have a 12-acre property which is located in one of the new oil field districts near Whittier, which we can sell at a price of $1000 per acre. It is very good orchard land property and is reasonably worth the price asked for orchard purposes. It is in close proximity to a newly developed oil field, which produces one of the best gravity oils found in the State. Officials of producing oil company, who have interest in the district, think the chance of this property being oil land is very good. If you are in the market for some orchard land in which you will also have a good oil gamble see, phone or write RUSSEL & MAPLE, 108 N. Greenleaf, Whittier. Whittier 11.

Houses.

FOR EXCHANGE— BY OWNER.

BEAUTIFUL HALF-ACRE HOME PLACE.

In an established neighborhood of fine homes.

Situated on one-half acre of ground, in beautiful Ramona Park, I am offering the homeseeker an opportunity rarely found in that locality, only 24 minutes from Sixth and Broadway, near the MIDWICK COUNTRY CLUB, Ramona Convent, high and grammar schools, this place should be a joy to the owner; the home contains 9 rooms and has every convenience known to modern times; a brief description could not do this place justice, hence I will say there are hardwood floors throughout; Ruud heater, large patio porte cochere, and cement driveway to a garage for 2 large automobiles; the grounds are improved with choice shrubbery, large expanse of lawn, flowers and roses of every variety and many fruit and ornamental trees. THE LOCATION AND SURROUNDINGS ARE IDEAL. Will take residence West Adams, Wilshire or Hollywood equal payment.

PRICE ONLY $18,000.

MINES AND MINING.

OIL SHORTAGE IS INCREASING—

No better investment can be made now than test holes in new territory. The country needs all the oil you can find, and you have a safe and sure market.

Don't resort to old-fashioned methods of drilling, with large and expensive machinery. Never forget the cost of a hole increases in the approximate proportion to the "square of its diameter."

So drill small diameter holes with the latest and most efficient portable machines ever built for territories from 800 to 2300 feet deep. Write for particulars and circulars.

Los Angeles, Cal.

TO SELL QUICKLY.
UNUSUAL INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY.
Two improved lots adjoining new home at a price cheaper than unimproved lots can usually be purchased anywhere else in country.
These lots will permit business buildings inside of five years and are on a main boulevard.
Similar lots but half as wide sold for nearly twice as much.
See or write A. E. LOW, 1120 North Kenmore Ave.

A LEGITIMATE proposition is offered you. We have a client with four good lots near Vermont and North Westmoreland, which owner is willing to sacrifice on account of needing cash. We are the agents for the sale of four cottages, of three, four and five rooms, which can be moved on these lots very reasonably. If you have about four to five thousand cash, you can put this deal over and then borrow almost enough to get your money out. See us for details. RELIANCE REALTY AND INVESTMENT CO., 730 Sunset Blvd.

HAVE lease on 320 acres gold and platinum land in California, where values average about $5 per ton. Need $5000 to install proven equipment which will handle 50 tons a day and make saving of 90 per cent at cost of 50c per ton. This is more of a manufacturing than mining venture. We know the values and the net results and can obtain engineer reports on practically whole amount of tonnage. For the needed amount will make most attractive offer. For further information, Address W, box 589, TIMES BRANCH.

FIRST-CLASS INVESTMENT. MAIL ORDER LINE. $500 will put you on the directorate of a new corporation of local high-class business men. BUSINESS CHANCES.

"THE Pies that Mother used to Make"

Do you remember the pies that mother used to make, those old-fashioned ones that topped off your dinner and made you feel like a million dollars? The reason they tasted so good was because mother gave them her personal attention; she put the best ingredients into them; everything was clean, and the entire operation was personally taken care of by herself until they were put before you. Of course you know all about that, but you ask what has that to do with a brokerage business. It has just this much to do with it, that every deal we take hold of has the same personal attention and care that mother gave her pies. The head of this concern personally inspects every business advertised by us. His many years' experience handling all kinds of business propositions has fitted him for that particular work. He is just as careful about the final result as mother was with her pies. We are as pleased as the buyer when we hear from his own lips that he is satisfied with his purchase. No amount of commission will induce us to misrepresent the facts. We believe there are enough men in the city of Los Angeles and surrounding territory, who want to buy or have something to sell, to keep us busy, when they know that we are conducting a business along clean, legitimate lines. The kind we particularly solicit are those that run from $10,000 to $50,000. One of the largest concerns in this city puts it this way: "If Rattray & Co. cannot sell your business, it can't be sold."

HIGH-CLASS FACTORY
OPENINGS.
As we specialize in placing men with their money in manufacturing plants we are constantly in touch with manufacturers of various lines. It gives us much pleasure to find, in spite of the readjustment period which has been quite severe over most of the United States, that the Los Angeles manufacturers are unusually fortunate. Many of the plants in Southern California are doing a larger volume of business than a year ago. We now have several good openings in established plants where men with their money can be active. Investments required from $5000 to $100,000. Parties interested are invited to call.

ONE GOOD BUY IN A CONFECTIONERY.
You will look a long, long way before you run across as nice a store as this one. For a man and his wife we can truthfully say it is the best one we have on our list. It's worth a whole lot more money than we are going to ask you for it, because the present owner is just tired running it and wants a rest. Beautiful fixtures, candy making equipment complete if you want it, but not necessary to make your own candy unless you prefer to do so. Eighteen-foot marble fountain new one year ago, electric carbonator, fine showcases, booths, etc., everything in the very best of condition. Price should be $7000, but we will take $5500, with about $3500 cash, balance out of the business. Please don't come in for any information on this unless you mean business.
W. S. RATTRAY & CO.,

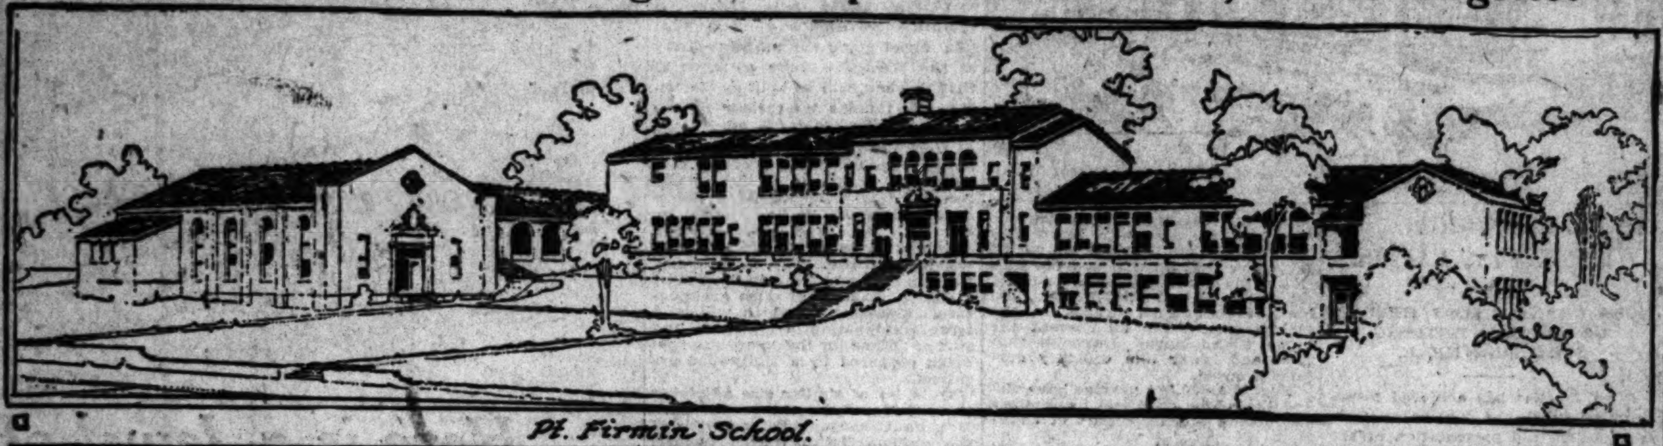
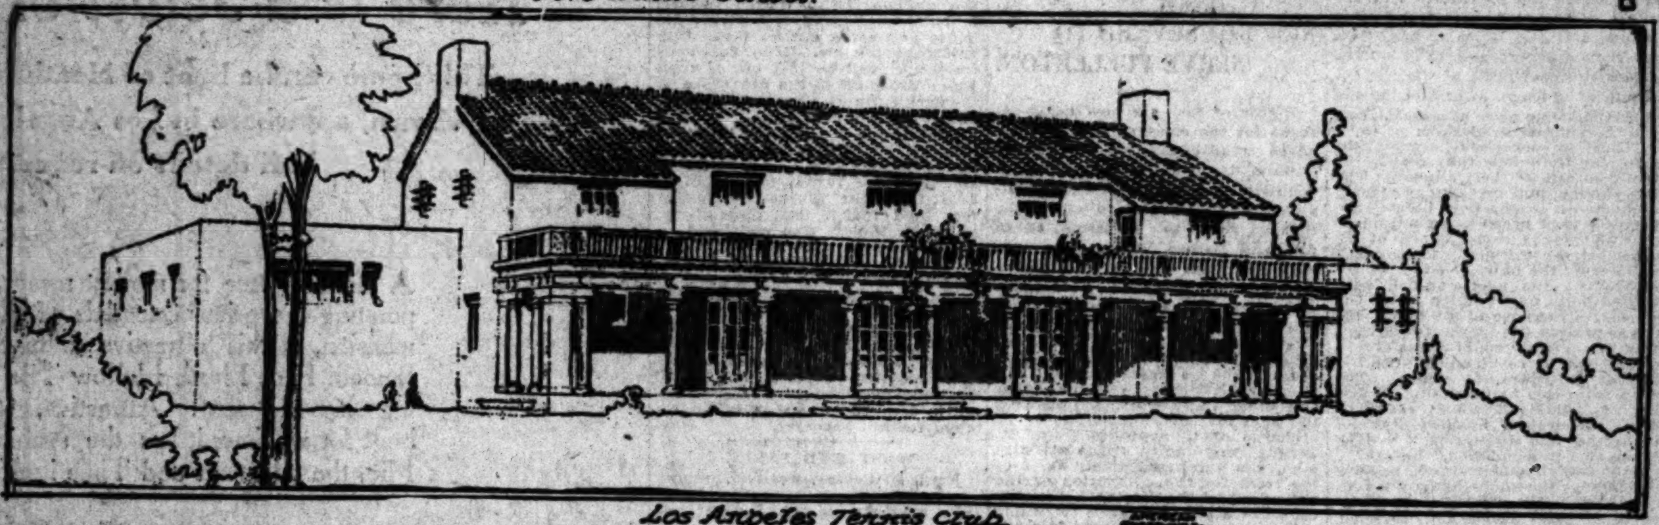
Fine Educational Building and Proposed Clubhouse for Los Angeles.



Pt. Firmin School.



Los Angeles Tennis Club

Grade school containing ten classrooms, auditorium and special rooms to be built at Point Firmin. Attractive structure to be erected at Vine street and Melrose avenue by the Los Angeles Tennis Club; Hunt & Burns, architects.

NEW STORES FOR SIXTH AND GRAND

San Francisco Firm Takes Lease on Seventh-Street Building Now Under Way.

Alterations are now under way on the Hauser Building at the southwest corner of Sixth street and Grand avenue, which was recently purchased through the agency of Wright-Callender-Andrews Company by Fred E. Keeler, prominent oil operator and manufacturer of drain tile. This building, to be thoroughly renovated, will be arranged for modern retail stores. To conform with the widening of Sixth street, the building will be set back five feet, and the entire structure will be rebuilt, using only the framework of the present building. Three new stores will be built on the Grand-avenue frontage, and an additional store will be built on Sixth street, in the open space which now exists between the old Hauser Building and the Pacific Finance Building. The stores will be served by an alley at the rear, which will also serve the Pacific Finance Building. The finish of the new building will be of pressed brick, with artificial stone trimmings, and plate glass and marble store fronts.

Meyer & Holler (Milwaukee Building Company) have also designed and will build a new warehouse on East Seventh street, near Alameda, for Henry W. O'Melveny. The property has a frontage of 125 feet on Seventh street, running back to a depth of 150 feet to a spur track in the rear.

Through J. Frank Nelson, realty broker, a ten-year lease on this property has been taken by the Republic Supply Company, distributors of oil-well supplies, which now maintains its offices in San Francisco. The company also maintains distributing stores at Coalinga, Taft, Placentia and Fresno. As soon as the building is completed, the main office of the oil-well supply division will be transferred from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

Buys Site for Big Building on Santee Street.

The transfer of the property at the southwest corner of Tenth and Santee streets by the Guaranty Trust and Savings Bank to Mrs. Louise A. Denker was reported yesterday by R. A. Rowan & Co., through whom the transaction was handled. The property has a frontage of 153 feet on Tenth street and 120 feet on Santee. Mrs. Denker also owns the property at Tenth and Los Angeles streets, and the entire site, extending through from Santee to Los Angeles street will be used for the erection of a large commercial structure, tentative plans for which are now being made. The purchase price of the property was reported at $60,000.

The sale of the three-story and basement brick building at the southwest corner of Temple and Olive streets is also reported by the Rowan company. A. J. Cunnie of San Francisco, the purchaser, bought the property as an investment, the consideration being reported at $75,000. The building contains stores on the first floor, while the two upper floors are used as a hotel.

COTTON MILLS FOR LOCAL SITE WILL BE PUSHED.

Requirements for the Establishment Here of Textile Industries Have Been Met.

The officials of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce express gratification over the progress that has been made in shaping the local situation as related to cotton, toward the successful conclusion of long negotiations for the erection of cotton textile mills here. Fragmentary news has been published from time to time, noting various activities or angles of the cotton mill problem, which are of interest now in the light of what looks like approaching success.

Negotiations for the locating of cotton textile mills at this point have been in progress for several years, or ever since it was satisfactorily demonstrated that cotton of best grades and in large volume could be grown in Southern California, Arizona and Northern Mexico. The rapid increase of the acreage in these sections planted to both long staple or Pima and staple white short cotton, under the stimulus of war prices, has created a new natural cotton market here, with an abundant assured crop to keep the spindles busy in a mill of large capacity.

The point of economy in locating the textile mills at the seat of production has in this way been established in favor of Los Angeles. At the same time an ample labor supply has become assured by the influx of population during the same period and the power problem has been solved through the present and projected hydroelectric developments, that will centralize at Los Angeles the greatest electric horsepower in the United States, and possibly in the world.

SPOT MARKET.

Cotton mill interests have urged as a necessary condition precedent to establishment of textile mills at a new point in the West, that it be a spot market where graded and certified cotton in any quantity is available on demand. The Chamber of Commerce in collaboration with Plans for New School Completed.

Plans for the Point Fermin grade school, a portion of which is now under construction, have been completed by Architects Hunt and Burns, and the contracts for the remainder of the building will be let in the near future. The part of the building now under way consists of an auditorium, with a seating capacity for 450 people, which will also be used for a kindergarten, and a part of the main building. Additional contracts for the new wings, to contain four classrooms, the sloyd and domestic science departments will be awarded soon.

The new school will cost about $175,000 to complete. It will be of brick construction, with plastered exterior and tile roof. When completed it will contain ten classrooms in addition to the auditorium, sloyd and domestic science departments.

AT OAKROSE PLACE.

More than 75 per cent of the Oakrose Place subdivision in the Wilshire district has been sold out on the bungalette plan, according to E. W. Weber, sales manager of the W. I. Hollingsworth Company. The total sales figure since the tract was opened a few weeks ago amounts to more than $62,000. Construction of new bungalettes is being pushed by the Hollingsworth company as rapidly as possible.

TENNIS CLUB TO BUILD SOON.

Five-Acre Site on Melrose Avenue Leased.

Twenty-five Courts and Fine Clubhouse Planned.

Championship Tournaments to be Held Here.

Announcement of plans for the erection here of a fine clubhouse, twenty-five tennis courts, and one of the finest tennis championship courts in the country on a five-acre site at Melrose avenue and Vine street was made yesterday by Thomas C. Bundy, president of the recently organized Los Angeles Tennis Club. The property to be used by the club has been obtained on a ten-year lease from Allan Hancock, with an option to purchase the property outright at any time during the life of the lease at the rate of $2000 per acre. A nominal rental, amounting to $25 per month, will be paid by the club until the property is purchased.

The plan of the clubhouse which is to be erected in the near future has been prepared by Architects Hunt and Burns, who are now making the working drawings for the structure. The clubhouse, which will face on Melrose avenue, will be two stories in height, and of Spanish design, centering around a large patio at the rear of the building, this patio to contain a swimming pool 20 by 45 feet. The main feature of the building will be the large assembly room, occupying the entire central portion of the first floor, and with a fireplace at each end. One wing of the building will be devoted to ladies showers, dressing-rooms, and lockers, while the other wing will contain the men's accommodations.

CHAMPIONSHIP COURTS.

The championship courts will be built on the Melrose-avenue frontage of the property, occupying the space between the building and the street. The second-story balcony of the clubhouse will serve as a gallery for spectators, and grand stands will be erected on each side of the courts. Additional space for temporary bleachers on the Melrose avenue side will also be afforded.

At the rear of the clubhouse twenty-five courts of concrete, asphalt and clay surface will be built for use of the members of the club. To serve as a spectators' gallery for these courts, a large balcony will also run across the entire rear portion of the building. Contracts for the first eight courts, to be of concrete construction with a two-inch sand cushion have already been awarded and the construction of the other courts will be started immediately. The courts now being built will be of four-inch concrete construction, with special wire reinforcement, and with a dark glazed surface finish to minimize the glare.

Among those who are actively interested in the project are Lee A. Phillips, vice-president of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, while officers of the club are Thomas C. Bundy, president; S. M. Sinsabaugh, vice-president; Chester S. Lyday, secretary, Claude A. Wayne, treasurer, and Nat B. Browne, T. W. Hendrick and Roland Reinke, directors. Members of the club will be limited to 300, with 100 life members, fifty women memberships, and 100 junior memberships.

Special effort will be exerted by the club toward making Los Angeles a center for national championship tennis tournaments, said Mr. Bundy, and it is felt that Los Angeles is in a position to be a strong bidder for these tournaments in view of the favorable climatic conditions, which permit playing throughout the year. The new club will also serve as a gathering place for tennis enthusiasts of Southern California, who have heretofore had no central meeting place. It is felt that with these facilities available, Los Angeles will be in a position to develop contenders for the national and international tournaments.

FLYING MACHINE GOES TO MEXICO.

Los Angeles Airship Makers Have First Contract.

New Idea of Vertical Rise to be Tested.

Device Proposes Ship Remain Stationary in Air.

C. S. Hall, president of the Hall Airplane Company of Los Angeles, announced yesterday that his company has progressed to the production point, through a definite contract for a trial Hall plane, to be made for P. M. Snyder, president of the Mexico Lands and Engineering Company, with headquarters in the Merchants' Bank Building, and operating pipe lines in the Tampico oil fields district.

The capital has been provided, the engineering problems are being worked out by E. B. Latham, and construction will begin at once under the superintendence of W. D. Waterman, construction engineer of Venice. It is expected to have the new plane ready for her first trial within ninety days, and there is considerable interest in flying circles over the new departure involved in the vertical lift and slow-speed claims for the Hall inventions.

The Hall airplane is built on standard lines in so far as shape, engine and spread are concerned, but has a second engine and horizontal propeller, with which it rises at an angle of 45 deg., and which acts as a stabilizer at slow speeds, enabling the plane to hover and remain almost stationary in the air, whereas the present minimum speed to remain aloft is about forty-five miles per hour.

The plane under contract for delivery to the Mexican property of the purchasers, is to be thoroughly tested under observation of Mexican government officials, and if it fulfills its promises an order for fifty of this type is contemplated for the southern republic, where they will be specially adapted to bandit chasing operations, by reason of their vertical lift, their hovering abilities and slow speeds, which will enable them to follow the bandits to their mountain retreats and bomb them out or destroy them with machine-gun fire.

The factory of the Hall Airplane Company is at 811 North Spring street, but it is possible that this first plane will be built in a specially-equipped plant at Venice.

AT CARLSBAD.

Recent sales at Carlsbad-by-the-Sea are reported by E. M. Clausen, sales manager for the South Coast Land Company, as follows: To Frank Young, who previously purchased a six-acre tract from which he is now shipping peas, six acres; M. S. Gunn, seven acres at $750 per acre; L. L. Brown, lot in Carlsbad for a modern store building to be occupied by a restaurant, soda fountain, and ice cream parlor. The Growers' Association reports that nearly 100 cars of peas have been shipped East this season, one car selling in New York on February 3 for 23 cents per pound. About 300 acres are now being prepared for the planting of spring crops.

OLIVE DAY OBSERVANCE IS URGED.

Realtors Should Actively Support Growing Industry, Says State President.

Active co-operation of realtors throughout the State in bringing about a wide observance of Ripe Olive Day, to be held on February 21, is asked by Fred E. Reed, president of the California Real Estate Association, in a recent statement. The movement to further the development of the ripe olive industry in California by the general observance of Ripe Olive Day is strongly indorsed by Mr. Reed.

"I am for every agency in the State co-operating to make California Ripe Olive Day a tremendous success," declares Mr. Reed, "first, because the culture of the olive is a feature California industry, and an industry that has proved a magnet in attracting tourists and bringing settlers to California.

"Secondly, I am for the day for the selfish reason that the expansion of the olive industry will mean the sale and the conversion to productive use of thousands of acres of land now used largely for pasture purposes.

"Developed to its maximum the olive industry should bring into the State millions of dollars every year. Scattered as the industry is up and down the whole State, the distribution of this money would be as wide and broad as the State itself.

"The demand for olives is shown by the huge sums sent abroad for olive oil and green olives. Hardly a beginning has been made in the development of the market for California ripe olives. If the average consumption of ripe olives in New York City equaled the consumption of any of our California cities, New York City alone would take the entire pack of California.

"Every realty dealer in California as well as every other citizen is directly interested in the development of the ripe olive industry. A good way to celebrate Ripe Olive Day is not only to buy a can of ripe olives on that day, but to write postals or letters to eastern friends telling them that not only is California ripe olive nutritious food, but it is one of the earth's choicest delicacies."

ADOBE ELECTRICAL HOME WINS EXPERTS.

ROSS CRANE LAUDS RESULTS OBTAINED IN ARTISTIC STRUCTURE HERE.

"Los Angeles has achieved something of which she may be genuinely proud in the presentation of the adobe electrical home idea to the populace," said Ross Crane, better homes expert and head of the extension department of the Art Institute of Chicago, after viewing the charming home place at Second street and Larchmont boulevard.

"Only by successful accomplishment can the public fully realize the real comforts of better homes. The constructing and furnishings of such a home—a realization before the people's very eyes—is an argument that outweighs every ounce of all other home-betterment propaganda."

Entering the hallway from the seclusion of the adobe-walled, sun-bathed patio porch which forms the attractive entrance to the home, Mr. Crane praised the interior decorator. "Only a genius could transform a mere house into such a delightful haven of quietude and charm. The vista from this hallway into the living and dining-rooms is exquisite. Your modernized Spanish style of furnishing and decoration is worthy of much commendation," he said.

The many touches of artistry throughout the adobe home are contributory to the completeness of its success. The Kenestone walls in the entrance hall and its quaint barrel vault ceiling blend into the scheme effectively.

"How thoughtful of the decorator to place that floor lamp so as to make it shed light both upon the keys of the piano and over the left shoulder of the reader occupant of that big easy chair," exclaimed Mr. Crane, when ushered into the spacious living-room.

"And what wonderfully restful over-upholstered furniture! It is such a pleasing departure from the old Spanish style which was boresomely hard. Barker Bros., whose decorators had charge of the furnishing and decorating, are to be congratulated upon the excellence of their accomplishment."

Upstairs the adobe home is just as emphatically a success as downstairs. Where old ivory, brown and old red and green Spanish leather colors prevail in the living and dining-rooms, the French furnishings of the boudoir and the Italian predominence in the owner's sleeping-room are refreshingly acceptable.

Barker Bros. have adroitly introduced oriental rugs in the various rooms of the home to blend into the setting, but it is the draperies, daringly executed, that are the subject of much comment. Silk velours are employed in the living-room, and hand-blocked linen drapes in the dining-room, while all about the home silken gauze draperies that raise and lower like ordinary curtains aroused.

More than 30,000 persons have visited the adobe electrical home since its opening the latter part of January.

NEW BOULEVARD TO SERVE FULLERTON.

Rights of way are now being secured for the construction of a new paved road connecting the Valley Boulevard near Puente with the Whittier Boulevard. When completed the new boulevard will be the shortest route to Fullerton, Santa Ana and Balboa Beach. The new road will run through La Habra Heights, the tract of 3600 acres which is now being marketed by Edwin G. Hart, developer and exclusive sales agent for North Whittier Heights. About $250,000 has been spent by the La Habra Heights Company in irrigation systems, roads and other improvements, preparing the land for development to citrus orchards or to avocados. R. M. Teague, well-known citrus nurseryman, has purchased ninety acres of the tract for the cultivation of the avocado, and the Hacienda Country Club has bought 150 acres for a fine golf course, which has been laid out under the supervision of Charles Mayo, one of the best-known golf experts in the country.

NEW CLUBHOUSE IS NEARING COMPLETION.

Building activity at the Palms annex continues at a greater rate than has been known for the past ten years. The list of important improvements in this district includes the new $100,000 clubhouse of the California Country Club, located on the hill overlooking Palms and Ballona Valley. The building is nearing completion, and will be ready for dedication in the near future. A paved roadway leading from National Boulevard to the top of the hill has also been constructed. J. L. Glover is erecting a bungalow court to cost $10,000, at Palms, and Mrs. V. R. Day is building a bungalow on National Boulevard at a cost of $7000.

PLAN FINE HOMES IN NEW TRACT.

Famous Dancer and Motion Picture Star to Build at Entrance to Griffith Park.

The first residence to be started in the attractive new Hollywood foothill subdivision laid out by William Mead along the parkway drive at the Western-avenue entrance to Griffith Park, will be built by Marian Morgan, famous interpreter of the dance and one of the leading lights of Hollywood's artistic circles. Mrs. Morgan has purchased a site of seventy feet frontage by nearly 400 feet in depth facing on a newly dedicated street to be known as Live Oak Lane and commanding a sweeping view of the city and the wooded entrance way to the park. On this property she will soon start a sightly place of Spanish architecture, a feature of which will be a large combination living-room and studio. Plans for the house are now being prepared by a Hollywood architect.

On a lot of similar size adjoining that of Mrs. Morgan on the east, Mrs. Paul Scardon (Betty Blythe of the motion-picture world) expects to build an attractive Spanish type house and carry out an interesting landscape scheme. Mrs. Scardon's residence will be set on a knoll which drops off to the oak grove at the park entrance proper on one side and to the south in front.

Other sales in the same tract are reported by Mr. Mead as follows: Two adjoining lots, one 60x178 feet and the other 70x230 feet, to E. G. Leaf; three lots, 70x336 feet, 70x210 feet and 70x227 feet, respectively, to H. M. Finley, who will build a home of an English type of architecture on one of the sites overlooking the entrance to the park.

Mr. Mead announces his intention of beginning the street work and the installation of utilities in the tract within the next two or three weeks. He has just opened a tract office on the property and states that advance inquiries indicate an active demand for high-class Hollywood foothill property.

WEST END SALES.

Ford & Becker, realtors, report sales aggregating in value more than $300,000 during January, as follows: Harry H. Belden to Charles D. Rockwood, residence at 220 South El Centro, $20,000; C. L. Chester to Charles D. Smith, residence at Franklin and Highland avenues, $24,000; J. H. Robinson to R. A. Henley, residence at 333 South Victoria, $23,500; for L. A. McCray, residence and seven acres of ground at 2140 Canyon Drive, $77,000; W. L. Morrow to J. H. Robinson, residence at 876 South Norton avenue, $15,000; to Annette Aiken, store building at the southwest corner of Sixth and Western, $100,000; R. A. Ratledge to F. J. Ray, residence at 1058 South Gramercy Place, $15,500; J. S. Leonard to D. R. Cohen, residence at 666 South Westmoreland, $26,000.

RECORD OF TWO YEARS TRACED.

Building Activity of 1920 is Disappointing.

Money Not Available Owing to Uncertain Returns.

Slump Partially Caused by Attitude of Labor.

Statistics compiled by the American Contractor establish the fact that 1920 building activity was a retrogression from the forward movement started in 1919. In January of 1919, there was practically no building, permits from 152 cities showing a valuation of only $24,000,000. But along with an announcement of a reduction in steel prices came a revival in building and activity was resumed rapidly. In August, of that year the widely-heralded peak was reached with operations in 153 cities running to $161,000,000, or nearly seven times the volume of January.

But from August till November there was constant retrogression and then a slight increase in December which led to the belief that 1920 would see a heavy volume of operation.

The prediction was fulfilled, in the early part of 1920, the high records of 1919 being exceeded in the first months. March permits from 203 cities totaled $159,085,909 and April permits from 200 cities totaled $199,165,821. From April on, however, came a decline in progress and permits issued showed decreases from month to month. In September permits from 203 cities amounted only to $101,834,729 and, in November permits issued dropped to a valuation of $74,098,500. December brought a slight rally, permits from 194 cities amounting to $78,245,108. Out of thirty-one important cities December was the lowest month of the eleven.

Permits issued in 1920, however, exceeded 1919 valuations. The total valuation of permits for the year from 194 cities was $1,511,489,459, while 417,287 permits were issued.

Los Angeles' record for the year 1920 is given, in the following table by the American Contractor, with other cities of California:

	—12 mos., 1920—		—12 mos., 1919—
	No. of bldgs.	Estimated cost.	No. of bldgs.	Estimated cost.
Alameda	514	807,888	475	468,154
Berkeley	1,287	2,119,564	1,080	1,785,389
Fresno	2,324	6,784,639	1,771	4,131,277
Long Beach	4,880	10,201,662	3,936	7,217,849
Los Angeles	25,555	60,023,600	12,844	28,253,610
Oakland	4,007	9,480,886	4,059	7,184,643
Pasadena	2,437	3,619,886	1,836	1,831,726
Sacramento	1,450	3,449,386	1,229	2,054,843
San Diego	2,001	5,191,198	1,551	2,858,658
San Francisco	5,025	28,729,892	5,965	15,173,242
San Jose	696	1,743,411	482	1,069,051
Stockton	861	2,617,527	776	1,479,690

Briefly, according to the American Contractor, the cause for the discontinuance of a start which would have meant a record was the lack of money for financial building. This was not due to the fact that there was not plenty of money in the country, for there was a great volume of credit imposed by a partial letting down of the gold basis on the part of all important nations. There was also a big issue of Federal Reserve notes and Liberty Bonds were circulating as cash. We were pyramiding credit on a flat basis and credit was pyramided until it was top-heavy.

RETURNS NOT ASSURED.

This money could not be drawn to construction because the assurance of future returns for money invested, in building, at the constantly increasing costs was not great enough. The channels of money to building were blocked, and money flowed to attractive bonds, rather than to construction.

There was, however, appreciable construction of some types throughout the year. Not until late in 1920 did there appear a surplus of building laborers, and it must be considered, says the review, that if men had shown more efficiency before the break came, the surplus would have made itself apparent sooner.

The history of the caustic friction and lessened efficiency due to striving for higher wages is too recent to need review. Sufficient to say the laborers' part in bringing building activities to a standstill was considerable.

PRICE ADVANCES.

Prices on building materials did in no wise follow the predictions at the start of 1919 when steel prices were lowered. A history of prices during the post-war period shows remarkable advances to unheard-of peaks.

During the early part of 1919 it became apparent that prewar levels could never be expected and an era of production under the expanded credits commenced. Higher peaks were attained in other industries than in the building industry.

With high prices came increased rentals, but the equilibrium of rents and building costs had not been reached, particularly in the case of dwellings of middle class where there is a limit of amount which can be spent for rent by the occupants. For these reasons money was not invested in building and 1920 was a reversal of the ascending activity of 1919.

URGE ECONOMY IN GOVERNMENT

Realtors Take Stand Opposing Tax Increases.

State Commissions Should be Consolidated.

Motor Trucks Must Pay More for Road Upkeep.

"Taxpayers of California are not going on a hunger strike, but they are determined to stand up for their rights—let the chips fall where they may. The California Real Estate Association is alive to the situation and welcomes the opportunity now presented in this connection, to be of service to the real estate agents and land owners of the State.

"We are conducting our own investigations and will be heard from at the proper time."

This was the statement made yesterday by O. A. Vickery, chairman of the association's committee on taxation.

In discussion of the matter Mr. Vickrey said:

"The sentiment throughout the State is that economy in conducting the business of the State is imperative. The facts being brought out by the agitation and campaigns resulting from the recent defeat of the King bill by the Legislature will give the voters of the State information which has been sadly needed in the past. We all want to promote State development and we do not want to prevent State institutions from being supported properly, but extravagance is not to be indulged in. The consolidation of many State commissions to promote efficiency and economy must be arranged. Such a policy has been found satisfactory and beneficial in other States and like results will follow in California.

"It is recognized that by the adoption of certain constitutional amendments at the last election, a heavy increase in State expenditures has been made necessary. If drastic reductions of expenses cannot be made to cover such increase then additional revenues must be provided.

NO AD VALOREM TAX.

"Our association will oppose to the last ditch the imposition of any general, ad valorem tax for State purposes. Real property now carries an unjust proportion of tax burdens. It is believed that new sources of revenue can be provided and unfortunately action was not taken during the past year to dig into this feature of the situation. Business men of the State are to blame for this.

Now during the closing session of the Legislature hundreds of bills must be considered; the apportionment fight will probably take up a great deal of time and, as usual, the session will close with a jam. Members will not be fully advised concerning many important measures. Trading of votes will be necessary between members from different sections and when the Legislature finishes its work, we, the dear people, will indulge in the usual criticism.

FAIR TREATMENT.

"The corporations should be treated fairly. Electric lines, in particular, have been hit hard during the past few years. The owners of motor trucks must pay a greater proportion of the expense of maintaining the State highways and should be regulated as to weight of loads carried.

"Trucks heavily loaded, or other vehicles, should not be permitted to operate with loads or frames wider than that prescribed for the standard automobile, until the highways throughout the State are increased to a greater width.

"Reconstruction of many highways will be necesary in the near future and the expense for this work will be heavy.

"The State's plans for assessment and taxation need a general overhauling. Voters and taxpayers must take more interest in this matter, which is vital and cannot be neglected further without serious loss to themselves."

The taxation committee of the California Real Estate Association is composed of Chairman O. A. Vickrey, W. I. Hollingsworth of Los Angeles, Frederick Magee and Albert E. Kern of San Francisco, and J. J. McElroy, Oakland.

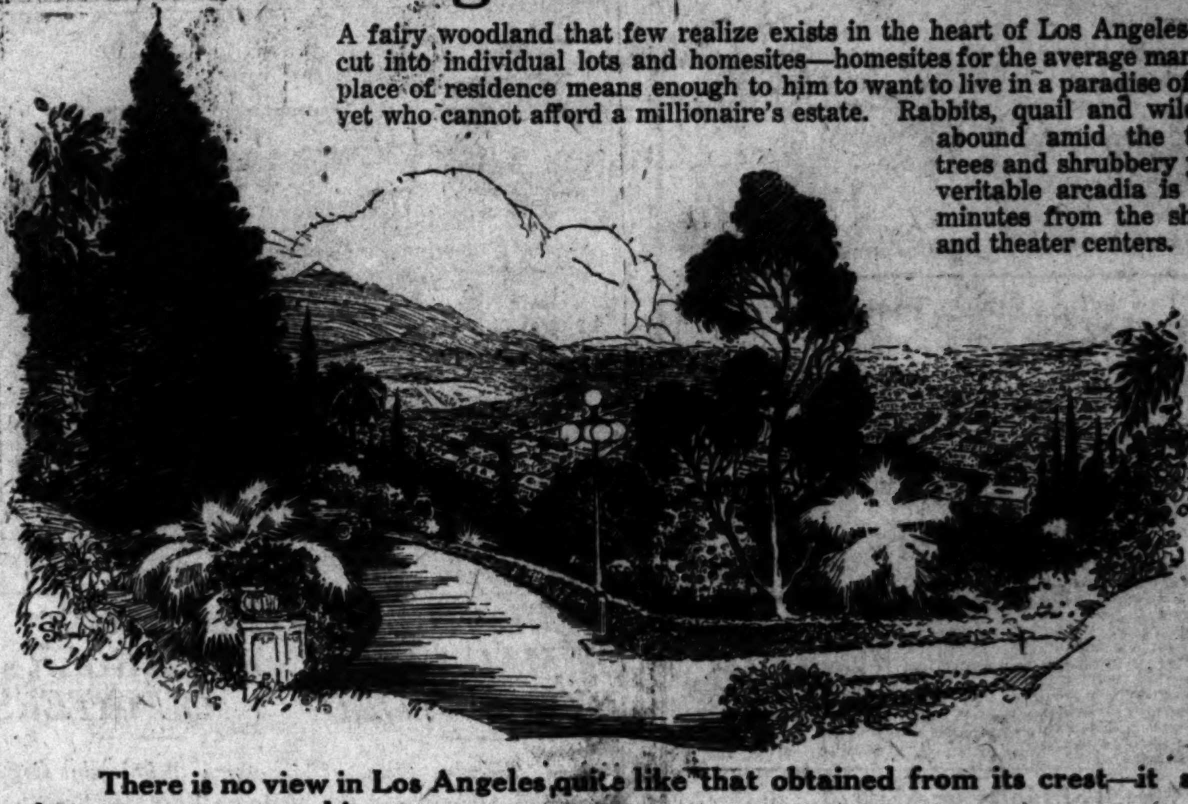
Fine Residence Sold.

Home of Miss Helen Mathewson, in Fremont Place, sold to Robert H. Henderson through the Shelby Investment Company.

—Laughlin Park Now Available

A fairy woodland that few realize exists in the heart of Los Angeles—to be cut into individual lots and homesites—homesites for the average man whose place of residence means enough to him to want to live in a paradise of nature yet who cannot afford a millionaire's estate. Rabbits, quail and wild birds abound amid the tropical trees and shrubbery yet this veritable arcadia is but 20 minutes from the shopping and theater centers.



There is no view in Los Angeles quite like that obtained from its crest—it sweeps from snow caps to white caps.

There is no property so ideally landscaped, so beautifully laid out and so near the heart of a city anywhere in America—at any price.

Wooded lots, 60x 237 feet deep can be had for $3600, ideally restricted, all public utilities installed, including underground wiring.

Here is the place on dreams of—the place where, your business day done, you can leave all behind, and in less than fifteen minutes be resting under your own shade trees, inhaling the fragrance of your own orange blossoms, gazing out over the enchanted landscape from mile-high peaks to froth-fringed crescent beaches or beyond, where the purple island and blue sea meet the bluer sky; and after the soft twilight has faded, see from your own patio the city lights sparkle below like a cluster of gems ever widening and brightening; and finally to lie down in your own chamber or sleeping porch to become slumbrous 'mid the balmy quiet of the country and murmur, "This is California."

Individual knoll and hill sites from one-half to three acres, $6000 and higher.

The price?

Here is said to be the greatest real estate achievement of the year.

Frank Meline has obtained this property at prices the same as it was offered for as a whole in 1916—actually less than one-half the price of lots less desirably located in Wilshire and Hollywood without the landscape gardening that half a million dollars could not reproduce.

LAUGHLIN PARK is situated between Western and Normandie Avenue, fronting both Franklin and Los Feliz Boulevards—overlooking Hollywood's most beautiful homes.

CIRCULATION OF MAGAZINE BY BOATLOAD

Unload Twenty Tons of Eastern Publications at the Harbor; Beat Rail Time.

Circulation by boat, from New York to Los Angeles, became an accomplished fact when the steamer Steel Worker of the Isthmian Line arrived at Los Angeles Harbor last Wednesday night, having, among a miscellaneous cargo of 3000 tons for this port, a shipment from the Butterick Publishing Company of 41,923 pounds of Delineators and Designers of the March issue, for distribution to Southern California points.

This was an experimental or trial shipment, to make comparison of time as between rail freight and water transportation. The water rate being $2.15 per hundred pounds as compared with $3.42 by the overland freight route, the saving on shipping cost, of $532.45 each month is an item for consideration, provided the ships can make the run in equal or nearly equal time, which has been demonstrated as fact in the present case.

The Steel Worker left New York January 21 and docked here on the evening of February 9, showing nineteen days elapsed time, which is about the same as the time for through freight. Her cargo consisted largely of plates and shapes for the Southwestern Shipbuilding Company, also a heavy inclusion of nails for the local hardware trade.

Norton, Lilly & Co., Los Angeles agents for the Isthmian Line, also report the landing here of 1990 tons of cotton piece goods the past week, via the steamer Steel Maker, the scheduling of four sailings for this port during February, and the establishment of a ten-day schedule via the Isthmian Line, with prospect of plenty of passengers and freight. As a result of the success in making delivery, the water route is likely to be adopted by other publishers of eastern magazines.

NEW LAND COMPANY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LINDSAY, Feb. 12.—Articles of incorporation have been filed by the American Land and Development Company, composed entirely of Lindsay residents. The corporation has purchased 160 acres of oil and farming land on the west side. The incorporators are W. A. Bohland, C. A. Gaines, R. E. Wolf, E. E. Page, and Frank Hostetter. Marley Fisher is attorney for the corporation.

R. Rogers of Los Angeles has purchased forty acres of vines and alfalfa from Hiram Becraft. The tract is located five miles west of Strathmore. Mr. Rogers will move his family here in the near future and make a home on the property.

TO EXPAND IN LARGER QUARTERS.

Eastern Wholesale Coffee House Will Open Branch on South Broadway.

The Golden State Electric Company has just leased the new building at 1414-16 West Seventh street from the J. Wiseman MacDonald and Boland estate for a period of nine years at a total rental of $43,200. The lease was handled through the W. Ross Campbell Company by Mr. Wayt of its sales and leasing department. The building contains a salesroom, offices and a large workshop. On account of the rapid growth of this concern it has become necessary for them to secure larger quarters. They have recently installed the electrical equipment in the Pantages Theater and they are now completing the electric installation in the new Pacific Mutual, Pacific Finance and the W. Ross Campbell buildings.

Temple of Jazz is the name by which the dancing academy at 755 South Spring street is to be known in the future. Carl F. Horn has just negotiated a five-year lease on the second and third floors of this property, which is at the northwest corner of Eighth and Spring streets. Mr. Horn has been conducting a dancing academy at this location for five years. After extensive alterations have been made the place, under the new name will be conducted by a new management. George A. Hart of the Rosslyn Hotel is the lessor. The transaction was made through the W. Ross Campbell Company, by Mr. Foehl of its sales and leasing department.

The Osgood Coffee Company of Kansas City and Minneapolis is the most recent addition to the city's growing list of wholesale houses. The headquarters of the company have been established at 1051 Broadway, where a lease for a term of years has just been secured from E. M. Nutting through the W. Ross Campbell Company by Mr. Whitney of its sales and leasing department. The Osgood company will deal exclusively in wholesale coffees and teas. Modern coffee roasting equipment is now being installed under the direction of Franklin C. Osgood, formerly of Idaho Falls, Idaho, who has recently removed to this city to manage the local branch.

The Pacific Handkerchief Manufacturing Company and Albert M. Treister, manufacturer of khaki and corduroy garments, have jointly secured from the Strauss Seamless Shoe Company, a long-term lease on the factory and office building at 105-115 East Tenth street. Mr. Treister is president of the handkerchief company and has been forced to make this move by the increasing demand for the products of his companies. The transfer to the new location will be made about February 20, when the Strauss company will move into its new factory, now nearing completion. The O. T. Johnson Company are the owners of the property into which the Treister companies are moving. The lease was negotiated by the Campbell company, through Mr. Brown of its sales and leasing department.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

Terra Bella Realty Firm Establishes Large Sales Record.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TERRA BELLA, Feb. 12.—That the year of 1920 was the most successful in the history of sale and development of lands in Southern Tulare county is shown by annual report of F. C. Ensign Company, general agents for the Terra Bella Development Company and the Richgrove Land Company.

Total of raw land sold by this agency in the twelve months was 1424 acres, the largest part of which was ten-acre tracts in the Terra Bella irrigation district, having a a total selling price of $221,320. Many of these buyers have become actual settlers, now living on the land, some have made improvements under the supervision of local orchardists, and the balance are practically all planning to develop and make their homes on the small tracts in the near future.

Total number of highly improved orchards, orange groves and farming lands sold during the year by this agency, all of which are within the boundaries of Terra Bella irrigation district, was 303 acres, with a cash selling price of $120,650. Sales continued through the month of December, which is usually a dull month for real estate business because of the holiday season, a total of nine being reported for the month.

FLOWER-STREET SALE.

W. W. Mines & Co. reports the sale of 90 by 155 feet on Flower street, just north of Eleventh street to Klein Norton Company for $90,000. As part payment the owner of the Flower-street property accepted a three-story apartment-house located at Ocean Park. Seymour B. Goodman represented the purchasers in the transaction.

LEGISLATORS TO BE GUESTS.

Will Lunch at Van Nuys and San Valley Farms.

to Show Need of Junior Agricultural College;

San Fernando Declared Ideal Location for ranch.

and members of the Assembly who are in Southern California tomorrow will be the guests of the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce in the San Fernando Valley and will be shown all the many favorable points of this thriving locality.

The legislators are to be entertained for a twofold purpose. The Van Nuys chamber is asking that the lawmakers see the territory and to explain why an agricultural junior college is needed in the San Fernando Valley.

A bill is to be presented to both houses asking the appropriation of for the establishment and maintenance of an agricultural junior college, run in conjunction with the University of California, southern branch, and Van Nuys business men will tell the legislators why the college should be located in the valley.

CHAMBERS BACK PLAN.

"Practically every chamber of commerce in the immediate vicinity of the San Fernando Valley has indorsed the project," John Dillon, secretary of the Van Nuys chamber, said yesterday. "There is a great need for the agricultural junior college in this section," Mr. Dillon declared, "and the best place for it to be located is in the San Fernando Valley." He says that Van Nuys does not necessarily ask that the college be established near to that city.

Mr. Dillon stated that about four-fifths of the students at the agricultural College of the University of California at Berkeley come from south of the Tehachepi, and it is believed, therefore, that a college located in the central section of the Southland would accommodate a majority of the agricultural students of the State and at the same time entail little or no added expense. Most of the students now who desire an advanced agricultural training are compelled to leave the State, Mr. Dillon says.

SHORT RIDE TO CITY.

If the bill is approved the State would secure the land, erect buildings and supply the necessary farming implements. It is contended by the advocates of the agricultural junior college that no additional teachers except agriculturalists would be needed as the students could attend the southern branch in this city, and in twenty minutes by Electric car or auto be on the agricultural reserve.

Residents of San Fernando Valley declare that the soil, water supply, climate and nearness to the college by trolley and paved highway is unequaled by any other proposed site for the college, which all residents of the Southland, familiar with conditions declare is badly needed.

SEMINOLE APARTMENTS ARE TRANSFERRED.

H. E. Dominy & Co. report the sale of the Seminole Apartments, 620 South Flower street, to E. W. Merchant. The Seminole is one of the leading apartment-hotels of the city, containing about 200 rooms. J. S. Thoma retains his interest in the Seminole and will continue as manager, while Mr. Merchant will take an active interest in the business and will act as secretary and treasurer of the corporation. Mr. Merchant just recently sold the Alco Hotel, Figueroa at Tenth, through the Dominy company. The same firm also reports the sale of the Hackel Apartments, 1142 West Tenth street, to Joseph and Bertha Martin. C. H. Ruhl, formerly of New York City, was the seller in the deal. H. G. Pangborn of the Dominy company represented the buyers and sellers in these transactions.

TO EXHIBIT WINNERS OF PRIZES HERE.

Results of Small House Competition to be Shown in Los Angeles.

Arrangements have been made by Victor Girard, local realtor and subdivider of Walnut Park, to obtain from the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects the prize-winning designs in the national "small house competition," which has recently been concluded under the auspices of the institute. Th s competiton was held for the purpose of developing through the country's best architectural skill the most suitable designs for small house construction. It engaged the attention of architects in all parts of the United States. More than 1000 designs were submitted to the jury of awards of the Institute of Architects, and $15,000 in cash prizes will be distributed for the thirty-six designs judged most suitable for dwellings for persons of moderate means. The primary object of the competition was to encourage leading architects to contribute their skill toward relieving the nation-wide house shortage.

Mr. Girard's intention, when the prize designs become available, is to give them to the Los Angeles public without cost and provide facilities for further home construction. He wil have them explained as to construction details and costs, to intending home-builders by a competent architect associated with his Walnut Park and West Adams Square organizations. His purpose is also to make the most suitable of these designs available for adobe construction, this material having ben shown by his experience at Walnut Park to be superior in many ways to less durable materials.

NEW TRACT ENLARGED.

Hills Adjoining Whitley Heights Bought for Development.

H. J. Whitley has purchased from Emma L. Hambleton the property known as Araby on the summit of the hills adjoining Whitley Heights on the north in Hollywood and bounded by Cahuenga avenue, Curlew street and Whitley Terrace, for a consideration of $55,000. The property was sold originally by Mr. Whitley in 1903 for less than $2000. Mrs. Hambleton has owned the property for several years and has improved it as a private park with a remarkable collection of tropical and semi-tropical shrubs, fruits and flowers. This is the fifth purchase Mr. Whitley has made in connection with his development of Whitley Heights and extends his operations in that locality from Cahuenga avenue to Emmet Terrace and makes his total investment, including his extensive improvements there, over $500,000.

Twenty-six new houses are now under construction on Whitley Heights and North Whitley Heights. The new addition will be known as Whitley Heights Park, and will be subdivided, improved, lighted and restricted to dwellings of general Spanish and Italian type, similar to Whitley Heights.

One-Day Sale of Lots in New West End Tract.

A special one-day sale of lots in the recently developed Plymouth Square tract, in the West Wilshire district, is scheduled by the subdividers of the property, Peoples & Thomas, for February 20. This action was taken, it is stated, in order to comply with instructions by the trustees of Plymouth Square to close out their interest in the tract immediately. Improvements in the tract, including street work, installation of gas, electricity, water and sewer are therefore being rushed to completion as rapidly as possible in order to have the tract in readiness for the sale. Tractors, ditch diggers, drags and a large number of men are now employed in completing the installation of improvements, which will be made at a cost of about $65,000.

The tract, situated a short distance east of the new Los Angeles High School, forms a portion of one of the last of the old Spanish grants to be subdivided for residence purposes. The grant, originally made by the Mexican government to Francisco Abilla, was confirmed by the United States District Court in 1857. Originally the rancho consisted of 4439 acres. The portion of the rancho now known as Plymouth Square was acquired in 1892 by the late British Consul, C. White Mortimer, who later sold it to Judge E. C. Bowers, who intended to devote the property to a private estate. Owing to ill health, however, he abandoned these plans, and the property was sold to the present owners in November of last year.

BUILDING ACTIVITY AT CATALINA CONTINUES.

PLAN NEW FOUR-STORY APARTMENT; FORESTERS TO MAKE ADDITIONS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AVALON, Feb. 12.—Rapid progress has been made in the construction of new residences at Catalina during the past few months, and vacant lots which were deemed inaccessible for building purposes are now the sites of substantial residences. Among new homes now nearing completion are a $5000 dwelling on Marrilla avenue for Mrs. Grace Wilkinson, a $4000 home on Whittley avenue for Fred Ashbridge, a two-story colonial on Olive street for Charles Hammond of Pasadena and a $6000 home on Beacon street for Margarete Merrilles.

Contractor Charles Fairchild has started construction work on a second apartment-house building for A. I. McKelvey. The first structure on Whittley avenue, to be known as the McKelvey Apartments, will be ready for occupancy on February 15. All of the apartments in this building have been rented. The second apartment building for Mr. McKelvey will be four stories in height.

Plans for a two-story building to be used as a recreation hall and club rooms were approved yesterday by Frank E. Hand, secretary of the Independent Order of Foresters. The structure will be financed by local members of the organization and will be a notable addition of the group of Foresters' Vacation Inn buildings, which now occupy a site of several blocks on Clemente avenue. The new building will be 30x60 feet and two stories in height.

Fifteen one-room bungalows in the rear of the main building have been completed. These bungalows are twelve feet square and completely equipped for housekeeping. A board walk connects the bungalows in a semicircle bordering a tropical garden containing a small pond. The Foresters' Inn now has accommodations with housekeeping facilities for 128 guests.

BUILDING LEASED FOR SALE OF FIXTURES.

The California Desk Company, dealers in new and renewed equipment for stores, offices and restaurants, has taken a long-term lease on the building at 849-53 South Los Angeles street. After extensive alterations on the property, the company will open a store to handle these fixtures under the name of the California Store Fixture Company. A large daylight showroom will be a special feature of the new location. Present quarters of the company at 421 South Los Angeles street will be maintained. The lease was negotiated for the Harris Newmark Company, owners of the property, by Max Elsner of the J. W Lewis Company.

Other leases reported by Mr. Elsner are as follows: For Henderson and Marshall to L. M. Railsback Company, three-story and basement building at 115-119 South Los Angeles street; Eliza Bonner Estate to the Holt Manufacturing Company, three-story and basement building at 106-110 South Los Angeles street; Bozzni Motor Car Company to J. G. Wilson Corporation, warehouse at 621 North Broadway; Kellow & Brown to the A. A. Draft Company, fifth floor of building at 428 Boyd street; John F. Haizlip to the Crown Paint Shop, one-story building at 633 South San Pedro street; Belle C. Thom to A. W. Brode, storeroom and basement at 116 East Third street; L. A. Canning Company to Hubbard Auto Sales Company, warehouse at 723 Decatur street; Oliver Chilled Plow Works to Andross Motor Draying Company, two-story warehouse at 1321 Palmetto street; Holabird Electric Company to William Volker & Co., loft at 451 East Third street.

SUBURBAN TRACTS SELLING RAPIDLY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Feb. 12.—Rapid progress is reported in the sale of the Visalia Garden Farms, small suburban tracts placed on the market as a part of the campaign being conducted by the Visalia Realty Board with a bigger and better Visalia as their goal. C. C. Leslie of Strathmore has purchased two of the tracts, and will erect a home immediately on one of them. So far eight of these plots have been sold and the entire eighteen are expected to move soon.

According to announcement made by Rev. R. W. McPherson, pastor of the old South Church of Visalia, affairs are now in such shape that building plans are about to be started. Financing arrangements have been completed for the structure, which is to be one of the best in the valley, representing an expenditure of about $40,000. It is expected to have the edifice ready for use late in the fall or by the first of next year at the latest.

COTTON MILLS FOR LOS ANGELES

the Los Angeles Clearinghouse Association, has undertaken to establish this as a spot cotton market, by insisting that loans and advances on cotton be conditioned on its storage in the government bonded warehouses at the harbor, under supervision of government graders and inspectors, with the result that the warehouse capacity of 60,000 bales is now reported to be fully stored with this season's cotton, and that filled warehouses are assured as a permanent condition.

All the conditions necessary to official recognition of Los Angeles as a spot cotton market having been established, the Chamber of Commerce, the clearinghouse association and the Pacific Cotton Exchange are uniting in a petition to the United States Department of Agriculture to issue official notice designating this as a spot market, with every assurance that such an order will soon be promulgated. But, regardless of officials, the spot market is an established institution, and graded cotton in any quantity is here for immediate use or for shipment by rail or water to any destination.

Furthermore, the cotton in the harbor warehouses is California and southwestern cotton of superior quality in that it is clean and free from foreign substances, is free from bolly cotton and free from parasites or weevils to a greater extent than is true of any of the older cotton markets.

TO RENEW CAMPAIGN.

All the conditions having been thus fully met and all the objections entirely overcome; and with eastern conditions such as to encourage capital to look for more favorable sites for production and distribution of cotton textiles; with the further immense increase of western population and parallel increase of demand in the West for cotton goods, the Chamber of Commerce announces that renewed energy is to be put into the campaign to secure the building of textile mills in this city.

It is no secret that past negotiations had reached very satisfactory status, and that there is genuine interest among eastern cotton goods manufacturers in the Pacific Coast as the logical center of production for the Western States and the rapidly growing Asiatic market for American cottons. It is believed that the war alone stood in the way of pending negotiations, and that resumption of trade would inevitably settle them in Los Angeles' favor.

With the growing optimism expressed on the outlook for restoration of better business conditions and the facts as outlined, there is every reason to believe that this year will see a start made in the building of cotton mills, under the energetic campaign to be co-ordinated by the industrial, commercial and financial organizations of Los Angeles.

Fact and Comment.

national trade; who are thinking in terms of mills and factories, of ships and cargoes, of Latin and oriental commerce, of mechanical production from the underground riches of Southern California, as an adjunct to the riches gathered from agriculture and climate, as a world metropolis instead of a local leader.

As the annual convocation of the men who "do things;" of the men who have done the work on which Los Angeles has thrived; the men who are doing the work of the present and the men who have set themselves the task of building the future, this is a meeting of real importance, of first importance, to the city. The work of the past will be reviewed and the work of the future forecast.

New meaning attaches to this gathering with the new faces and new forces representing industrial and maritime development alongside of and parallel with the older agricultural and recreational activities; because it is on these new lines that the future depends for the greater work that is to create and maintain the Greater Los Angeles which will, in effect, if not in legal boundaries, cover the entire region from Tehachepi to Mexico and from the sea to the desert; where nature has concentrated, "in the heavens above, the earth beneath, and the waters and minerals under the earth," a great store of all the things needed for the support and the happiness of man.

Building Model Trucking Plant for Big Fleet.

The Advance Truck Company has plans drawn and will start immediately, the erection of additions to their present plant at the northwest corner of Yale and Alpine streets, which will involve the expenditure of not les sthan $25,000 and will increase their present haulage capacity by 150 per cent.

The Advance Company started a year and a half ago in the general trucking business, with a fleet of twelve motor trucks, which were housed in individual fireproof stalls specially designed by H. G. Appleton, the head of the concern, at the present location. These stalls were an innovation at the time, but they have since been widely copied and have come to be regarded as standard.

The new buildings will be 200 by 107 feet and will contain a total of thirty-two stalls, with repair shops, tool shops, washing-rooms, etc. The buildings will extend through from Yale to Spencer street, where ingress to the second floor will be from the street level. Benjamin J. Bioser is the architect.

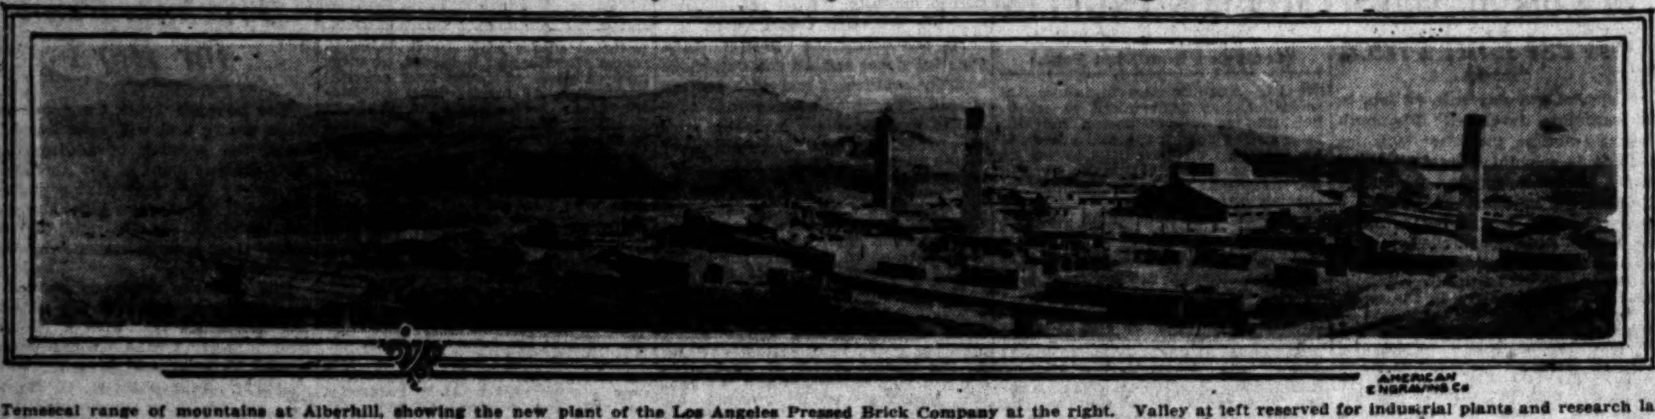
Great Riverside Clay Deposits Upon Which Big Industry is Based.



Temescal range of mountains at Alberhill, showing the new plant of the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Company at the right. Valley at left reserved for industrial plants and research laboratory. Entire range of hills consists of clay deposits over 300 feet in depth.

CLAY PRODUCTS INDUSTRY PLANNING BIG MOVES.

Model Community, Operating Group of Allied Pottery Plants, to be Big Production Center.

Construction has begun on the half-million-dollar chinaware plant of the Empire China Company at Burbank. The Standard Pottery Company has begun the manufacture of china and art pottery at its plant in this city. Eastern potters are here investigating the opportunities for large-scale manufacture of sanitary wares and one of our local concerns is figuring on entering that field also. Los Angeles has made great progress in the development of high-resistance refractories within recent months. The chemical industries are asking for needed pottery. Local industries are refusing offered orders for terra cotta structural shapes because of inadequate manufacturing facilities. These are some of the outstanding facts and conditions that are focusing attention on the need of immediate development of the clay industries of Los Angeles, from the abundance of raw materials available in Southern California.

Active negotiations are being conducted at the present time, both by the Chamber of Commerce and by individuals, for the location here, this year, of a number of new factories for the manufacture of lines of clay products thus far not made in Los Angeles. Several existing plants are considering enlargements, others are contemplating the addition of new lines to tehir present products, and research work is going on continually to prove the values of the available local clays. Within a few miles of Los Angeles are located almost inexhaustible deposits of clays, easily accessible, of every known grade for every purpose, from the cheapest bricks to the finest translucent china and from the matrix or body to the finished glaze.

NEW INDUSTRIES.

Confidence is expressed that the present year will witness clay developments that will add millions of dollars to the total of factory output, and other millions to the more than $3,000,000 capital already invested in clay working industries here. Among the new ones considered certain will be a factory for making sanitary pottery, i.e., bathtubs, lavatories, toilets, hospital wares, etc., for which superior clays in abundance are available; a factory for making the full lines of insulators required for power lines, for industrial plants, for heating and lighting in all forms; a factory for making conduits of every size and capacity; one for making architectural terra cotta on a large scale and another for producing chemical stoneware to parallel the tremendously growing chemical industries of this region.

Chinawares are already being made and will be heavily increased. Other clay products now being manufactured here include: Common, face and fancy brick, fire brick, building and roofing tile, enameled tiles and shapes, some architectural terra cotta, floor tile, faience decorative tiles, garden and art pottery, domestic and commercial stoneware and chemical stoneware, drain and irrigation tile and pipe electrical conduits, sewer pipe, flue linings, sewer brick and the famous vitrifrax forge and furnace linings. In practically all of these industries there is difficulty in keeping up with orders and in a number orders of large volume have been refused, simply because they exceeded producing capacity.

WAR RESEARCH WORK.

Important reactions from the United States government's research work during the war are about to accrue to the Los Angeles clay industries, through the investigations and discoveries made during that period. James H. Hill of this city was made business manager of the department of clays, in a survey for the government of the resources of the Pacific Coast, and transference of the industry from a peace to a war basis. Engineers, chemists and mechanical experts were mobilised and experiments were pushed, so that at the time of the armistice all was ready for big production, including the so-called "floating bricks" which entered into the making of the concrete ships Many other discoveries of permanent value were made. A laboratory was established in this city, and this laboratory has continued to function ever since the armistice.

In this laboratory the electric furnace proved the Curtis theories for the vitrifrax manufacture. At the present time research is going on in the same laboratory to prove the insulator values of the local clays. Clays from all over Southern California are being constantly subjected to scrutiny and scientific tests, with satisfactory results. A solid foundation has been laid for the safe and profitable investment of capital in a great development of the clay products industries, and reasonable certainty assures the speedy realization of the plans under consideration.

A MOUNTAIN OF CLAY.

A mountain of clays, among the most remarkable deposits of clays in the known world, has been uncovered in the progress of this research work, in which is embraced a variety of clays, in different strata, for every known clay product. This is at Alberhill, Riverside county, and is owned and operated by the Alberhill Coal and Clay Company of Los Angeles, of which James H. Hill is the general manager. The war research work and that which has been continuously pursued since the war has made it clear that clays, in sufficient volume and variety to cover all possible developments for generations, are piled up in a little range of mountains that rises from the Temescal Valley and extends for a distance of ten miles, between Elsinore and Corona.

Alberhill, seventy-four miles southeast of Los Angeles, is in about the center of the range, and here have been made discoveries that have great significance to the clay products industries. First operated for coal, whose outcroppings were discovered in the hillside in 1880 by Madison Chaney, some sort of operation has been carried on continuously ever since. James Hill, father of James H. Hill, with William Collier and his sister, Mrs. Margaret Collier Graham, acquired an interest in the property in 1893.

Since 1890 the 2000 acres comprised in this holding has been under the direction of James H. Hill and has been worked for both clay and coal on a small scale, but the discoveries made under the spur of the war researches has made this a most promising source of wealth and it is the purpose now to develop the entire property along the most modern lines of model community building and the most economical methods of production at the source of the raw material—at minimum cost of labor and haulage, which means at less cost than any competition.

PLAN CLAY CITY.

A spur of the Santa Fe Railroad has been built to Alberhill from Elsinore Junction and Los Angeles freight rates apply to out shipments. The face of the clay workings on the northwest corner of the property reveals successive strata of brick and tile clay, fire clay, plastic ball clay, lignite, refractory clay and blue clay, with variations that include a large body of fine china clay. Fourteen distinct varieties have been proved and a total of twenty varieties has been found, with much of the tract still unexplored.

In the valley circling this hill is a level 100-acre tract reserved for manufacturing plants, which will be so located that they will be fed their raw material by gravity, direct from the pits, saving all haulage charges. On a gentle slope across the valley and tracks a residential section has been reserved, where workmen's homes, all built of brick and tile, will be grouped about a civic center, with a view to harmony and beauty. A dozen of these pretty homes have already been built.

One factory for each form of clay product will be located at Alberhill, so that eventually it will be the seat of manufacture of every commodity made of clay. Every building and every home will be built of clay products and it will be, in fact, as well as in name, a clay city, where every activity will be concentrated on the development of clays to their ultimate possibilities.

BRICK AND TILE.

Under spur of the government's war needs the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Company built its latest and most modern plant for making brick and hollow tile at Alberhill, using the gravity system for supplying the plant direct from the pits, and has demonstrated that economical and profitable production results from this plan. With the connection of the rail spur from Elsinore Junction to the Santa Fe main line at Corona and the accession of a variety of clay manufactures, these practical economy features will be further enhanced. This single plant turned 54,000 tons of clay into brick and tile during 1920, and the addition of a late model continuous kiln is proposed, which will double the present capacity.

Clays from Alberhill have also been shipped to Los Angeles for the other local industries needing clays superior to the common brick variety, for specific product. Total clay tonnage mined and used in 1920 was 120,000 tons and samples of the clays have been sent to various parts of the United States, where tests are being made in connection with negotiations for the erection of new plants at this point, independently of the local research bureau.

VISITOR AMAZED.

Charles J. Kirk of Newcastle, Pa., president of the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Company, visited these clay deposits during the past week and carefully went over the various workings and shafts. To a Times representative, also in the party, Mr. Kirk made a statement in substance as follows:

"I have heard many stories in my time, about the existence of mountains of clay, and have investigated them in the interests of my manufacturing business, but the mountains have invariably turned out to be comparative mole hills, and I have grown skeptical. But I never dreamed that there could exist a genuine and veritable mountain that would combine in a single group of connected deposits, so vast and varied a supply of high-grade clays. To me, and I have made many investigations, this mountain is a revelation. It is difficult to grasp its potentialities, for it might almost be said to hold a national supply for an indefinite period."

Mr. Kirk, as a clay products manufacturer, is also the inventor of the Oilgas compensating furnace or tunnel kiln, for burning all forms of clay products by a continuous process, instead of the age-old method of successive heating and cooling of detached kilns, which keeps them out of production for more than half the time. With the new continuous compensating kilns production never stops. The load is fed into the kilns on cars and each day completes a discharge of finished product, of more uniform and exact grade than by the former method. These furnaces mark the first radical improvement in clay-burning since primitive times, and promise to effect a revolution in productive capacity and economy. Agents for the Pacific Coast will be appointed during Mr. Kirk's present visit, with headquarters in Los Angeles.

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN.

As head of the Alberhill Coal and Clay Company and of the war research work in clays for the United States government, James H. Hill is recognized as one of the best-informed men in the country on clays and their products. In substance, the following is his view and an elucidation of his plans:

"In the first place, it must be understood we have neither lands nor stock for sale. The war and our research work have uncovered tremendous potentialities for the raw materials in the Southern California hills, and so far as they concern clays, we propose to proceed in an orderly way, on broad lines, to turn these potentialities to commercial and industrial facts.

"We have a tract two and a half miles long and a mile wide, with proven clay deposits almost inexhaustible, including coal for producer gas, glazing compounds and adjacent deposits of silica and feldspar for china and magnesite for refractories; including also an abundance of water for industrial and domestic supply. Nature has been kind with her deposits and has made them easily available.

"We propose to center here a group of allied clay industries, covering the field, with one producer in each line, to be carefully selected on established merit. All of these are to be built on a homogeneous plan, so they will get their supplies direct from the pits, by gravity at minimum haulage expense, the deposits in the hills being a natural storehouse, obviating the need of storage facilities and saving such space for productive plant.

"We propose the maintenance of a community research laboratory for working out all problems of treatment and improvements; the segregation of the residential from the industrial sections; the building of none but clay-products buildings, public or private, and special technical clay instruction in the local schools. We propose to make Los Angeles, through Alberhill, the scientific, economic and informatory center of the clay industries.

"Concentration of the clay industries at the source of supply, as it will be accomplished here, will secure the greatest economy and efficiency for all the allied trades, in the following ways:

(1.) Economy: No freight charge for shipment of raw material, no labor charge for rehandling. The materials move from the pits to the plants by gravity.

(2.) Los Angeles freight rates for the finished products.

(3.) Elimination of storage expense.

(4.) Reduction of waste by breakage.

(5.) Favorable natural air drying conditions.

(6.) Immediate accessibility to any kind of clay for any emergency.

(7.) A trained community of workers.

"While no accurate data have been compiled, conservative estimates indicate that the value of Los Angeles clay products in 1920 was not less than $15,000,000 from twenty-seven plants. Within ten years the number of plants should be doubled, existing plants should be materially enlarged and the value of the annual output increased to $100,000,000."

PRESENT CLAY PLANTS.

Of the twenty-seven clay working plants now operating in Los Angeles, the quantity production in volume and value comes from the several large and successful brick, tile and pipe manufacturers. Besides these, some idea of the variety and scope of the industry may be gathered from mention of such outstanding concerns as the Batchelder-Wilson Company, specializing in art tiles, and grown from small beginnings in Pasadena to an international reputation for design and detail; the J. A. Bauer Pottery Company, makers of statuary, garden pottery and commercial pottery; the American Encaustic Tile Company, whose floor, wall and faience tiles are shipped all over the world; the Italian Pottery Company, confining itself to art wares made from local clays; the Vernon Pottery Company, making hotel china; Kalnar & Myers, producers of acid pots and stoneware for chemical manufacture; George Tomasek, who caters exclusively to the needs of assayers, and the chemical stoneware of the Western Pottery Company.

Among those mentioned, several have under consideration material enlargements of plants and increase of production.

NEW REALTY FIRM OPENS OFFICE HERE.

A new realty, rental and insurance firm, the Frank S. Black Company, has established offices in the Union Oil Building. Members of the company are Frank S. Black, formerly the manager of the rental information department of Barker Brothers, and Merrill M. Grigg, who was until recently the manager of the Mabery Realty Company of Los Angeles. The new firm will specialize in the sale and rental of local properties. Mr. Black will have charge of the rental department, while the sales department will be under the management of Mr. Grigg. The company reports the sale of an apartment on Rampant Boulevard and a bungalow at 645 North Vine street to H. A. Tolerton of Salem, O.

LONG TERM LEASE ON WEST PICO STREET.

R. A. Rowan & Co. reports the leasing of the building at the southeast corner of Pico and Figueroa streets for a long term of years by H. and J. Shraeder to R. E. Loop, a hardware merchant of New York, for a total consideration of $125,000. Mr. Loop contemplates the opening of a big hardware store in the building, which will be entirely remodeled and renovated. The first floor of the building now contains five stores, two of which will probably be occupied by Mr. Loop.

NEW PLANT FOR MAKING BRIQUETTES.

Forty-Ton Presses Turn Sawdust and Shavings to Three-Inch Fuel Logs.

A factory for the making of fuel briquettes from wood waste has been established in Los Angeles on what appears to be a basis promising of success to another infant industry. The All-Wood Bricket Fuel Company has started operations with a battery of four Coleman machines at 2251 East Fifteenth street, and is finding a ready market for the new fuel for domestic heating and cooking purposes and expects to invade the industrial fuel market as facilities are expanded.

These briquettes are made from sawdust, shavings and other wood waste. They can also be made from straw and other vegetable waste, but wood is the only material now used, there being a plentiful supply from the waste accumulating in local wood-working establishments, to whom it is a relief in solving the problem of disposing of these accumulations.

The Coleman machines are also a local product. These are automatic machines into which the waste is fed by gravity to cylinders three inches in diameter, and under pressure of forty tons is compressed into the consistency of grate logs, which are then automatically bound in six-inch lengths with baling wire and ejected into sacks ready for delivery. They burn like wood, leave little or no ash, taking about three hours for complete combustion. Their heating value is the same as wood.

The All-Wood Bricket Fuel Company has exclusive Los Angeles rights in the Coleman machines and is organized to push energetically the manufacture and use of this fuel, as a partial solution of the problem of fuel shortage, a complete solution of the problem of wood-waste disposal, at the same time providing a cheap, clean, sanitary and satisfactory fuel.

The plant, located at 2251 East Fifteenth street, has a capacity of twenty-five tons daily, with space for expansion to a daily capacity of 150 tons as the product comes into more general use. It is capitalized at $100,000 and the officers are Charles A. Fay, president; A. B. Glass, secretary-treasurer. The Coleman machines can be easily installed wherever there are sawmills, and promise to become a part of all sawmill equipment, for the profitable turning of waste into a useful and profitable commodity.

COMPLETE TENTH MILE OF IRRIGATION PIPE.

The tenth mile of cement water pipe, which is being laid to provide irrigation for a thousand acres of fruit and farm land recently opened by the South Elsinore Development Company, was placed during the past week. Eight and twelve-inch conduits are being laid throughout the tract, and during the week the total reached 52,800 feet. Several miles of trenches have also been dug for further extensions of irrigation pipe.

J. B. Stearns and Uede Jacobs, who are developing the South Elsinore tract in Elsinore Valley, report an active interest in this acreage, many sales having been completed recently to practical fruit growers and orchardists. The new tract will be fully developed to deciduous and citrus fruit trees this spring, it is stated. This tract is one of the last to be developed, the greater part of the 15,000 acres of available land in the valley being already under cultivation.

DISCUSS CONDITIONS.

Whittier Builders and Contractors Talk Over Housing Situation.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Feb. 12.—"Southern California has been the bright spot in the national building campaign," declared C. W. Pinkerton, manager of the Whittier Lumber Company, at a meeting of the master builders, master plumbers, master painters and building material and supply men, held last week in the committee rooms of the Whittier Chamber of Commerce.

"Whittier has done more than her quota of building and we are still building. It might help to realize how acute is the demand for houses, when reminded of the fact that rents are the only living expenses that have not been lowered in the general decline from war-time prices. Lumber has dropped 25 per cent. According to government figures it requires about 400,000 new houses each year to supply normal demands in the United States. During 1918, only 20,000 new houses were built, 70,000 in 1919 and 125,000 during 1920. This leaves a shortage of nearly 1,000,000 houses throughout the country."

Evert Hinshaw, a prominent contractor at Whittier, presided at the meeting and Mr. Pinkerton was chosen secretary. Others who entered into the discussion of the general situation and suggested remedies for furthering building operations were O. H. Barr, president of the Barr Lumber Company; L. Schofield, manager of the San Pedro Lumber Company; L. A. Smith, manager of the Whittier Hardware Company; master painters, L. E. Houser and John L. Snavely; contractors, A. Blakeboro, Earl Gire and W. C. Kemp. J. C. Staats represented the master plumbers.

COSTLY PLANT READY BY MAY.

Buttonwillow Steam Power Unit Being Rushed.

Natural Gas to Come from Wells in Elk Hills.

State Official Says Camp is Sanitary Marvel.

Construction of the first 17,000-horsepower unit of the Midway natural gas-burning steam plant of the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation, at Buttonwillow, near the Elk Hills gas fields, is progressing rapidly, and the plant will be placed in operation early next May, it was stated at Bakersfield last week by E. A. Quinn, general superintendent of the corporation.

The steel structure of the power plant building is now completed, and fourteen five-room permanent cottages, the mess hall, dormitories and other camp buildings have also been erected. About 450 carloads of materials, now being unloaded in carload lots daily, is going into construction of the plant. On a recent visit to the property for official inspection, a member of the State Housing Commission expressed his opinion that the camp established on the power-house property is the best laid out and most sanitary of any he has inspected in California. The cottages which have been built for the permanent employees are equipped with all modern home conveniences, such as natural gas cooking and heating appliances and electric lights.

The Buttonwillow steam plant project, in its entirety, comprehends the construction of four complete units similar to the one now under construction, for the ultimate production of from 60,000 to 75,000 horsepower of electric energy. The first unit building, being constructed of steel and concrete, measures 140 by 128 feet ground area. The steam plant tract embraces 120 acres, fronting on the paved highway connecting Bakersfield with McKittrick, and is to be surrounded by a sixty-foot street.

COMES AT PRESSURE.

The natural gas fuel will be pumped through an eight-inch pipe line from the Elk Hills field. The gas will come to the plant under a well head pressure of approximately 350 pounds per square inch, which will be reduced to two and one-half pounds through reducing regulators for consumption in the burners under the boilers.

The water supply for the plant will be pumped from wells. Tests which have been made indicate an unlimited supply of pure water for steam purposes, requiring no water-purifying plant at the power-house under present conditions.

Practically all of the water converted into steam in the boilers, after developing power, will be returned to the boilers from a condenser through which cool water will be circulated continually. The water will be cooled in a pond 289 feet square and four feet deep. To thoroughly condense the steam, 24,000 gallons of water must be circulated through the condenser per minute. About 180,000 pounds, or 22,500 gallons of water, per hour will be evaporated by the boilers.

In the cooling system the water is to be sprayed six or eight feet in the air, through 360 brass nozzles connected by laterals to a thirty-inch main, cooling it five or ten degrees below the air temperature during the warm weather. The spray pond will serve as a reservoir in case of fire. The water will be pumped through the condenser by a thirty-inch centrifugal pump driven by a fifteen-horsepower steam turbine. Domestic water for the power-house camp is stored in a 20,000-gallon steel tank elevated on stilts fifty feet.

POWER-HOUSE PLAN.

The power-house consists of a boiler room, turbine room and electrical operating room. In the boiler room there are installed eight 822-horsepower water tube boilers designed to generate steam at 250 pounds pressure and equipped with superheaters to superheat the steam. The turbine is of 12,500 kilowatt capacity, to generate electricity at 11,000 volts. The transformers will step the voltage up to 115,000 volts, and are connected with the highline at Corcoran by sixty miles of 110,000 volt line. One hundred and fifty men are now employed in the building of the plant.

The estimated cost of the Midway steam plant is $2,000,000. It is located twenty-eight miles north of Bakersfield, where the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation operates another natural gas-burning steam plant with a capacity of 37,000 horsepower, recently increased through the addition of a new unit, from 14,000 horsepower, its former generating capacity.

They Appeal to Our Sympathies.

The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. Many such, however, have been completely restored to health by the use of Chamberlain's Tablets. These tablets strengthen the stomach, invigorate the liver and improve the digestion. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels. When you have any trouble with your stomach give them a trial. —[Advertisement.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

General Petroleum Is in Strong Position; Week in Review; Picture Finances.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

The General Petroleum Corporation completed the best half-year in its history, Dec. 31, 1920, according to the income statement made public by President John Barneson last night, which shows six months' net income, after setting aside approximately $1,800,000 for exhaustion of property and depreciation of equipment, but before excess profit taxes, of $3,797,613. After deduction of $800,000 for estimated excess taxes the statement shows a net income of $2,997,613, for the half year, or more than double the $1,449,223 required to pay the 7 per cent dividend on the preferred stock and the 12 per cent on the common.

While this computation was based on all the stock outstanding, $10,000,000 of the money in the business did not contribute anything to the company's earnings as yet, because in the process of expenditure for improvements and betterments some $4,100,000 was expended on tankers, the first of which was recently delivered to the company and has just left San Francisco on her maiden voyage. The second vessel is to be delivered toward the end of the month. Both have been paid for. Another $1,000,000 was expended in Wyoming, where the company now has a production of 500 barrels daily, an income just starting from that source of $1000 a day.

The balance is being expended in Mexico, where the General Petroleum Company, is almost ready to begin operations of its new refineries.

BIG GAIN IN PRODUCTION.

One of the best features of the company's operations in the second half of 1920 was the large increase brought about in its California production. The company's production from its California properties during the last six months of 1920 was 2,482,000 barrels, as compared with an output of 1,950,000 barrels during the first half year, or an increase of more than 27 per cent.

Consolidated statement General Petroleum Corporation profit and loss for six months ending Dec. 1, 1920:

Gross		$7,172,556.02
Deducted from income:
Interest	$ 105,686.59
Depletion	1,229,960.46
Depreciation	592,078.39
Drilling labor and incidental expenses	879,594.78
Miscellaneous, including unproductive drilling, abandoned leases, amortization bond discount and loss on Liberty bond sales	567,723.79
		3,375,044.01
Net after taxes, except Federal excess profit tax		$3,797,612.01
Provision for Federal excess profit tax		800,000.00
		$2,997,612.01

TURN SLUG FOR ADD

WEEK IN REVIEW.

Stock market dull and lacking stimulation. Bond market active; good absorption for new issues; outlook promising. Retail trade slightly under last year's gross sales, but volume of purchases sustained. Collections fair. Unemployment slightly above normal. Credit situation unchanged. Commercial failures few and unimportant. Bank resources growing. Prices for foods declining; for commodities stationary. General condition excellent.

Los Angeles is in a class by itself. J. A. Graves, president of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank, in his monthly financial letter out this week says that on this coast we have not realized how bad conditions have really been.

"When one stops to think," he says, "that, after the Napoleonic wars prices were thirty years, and after our Civil War, twelve years in getting back to normal, one can realize what tremendous progress has been made in that direction in America in twelve months, when such staples as coffee, rice, sugar, hides, cotton, corn, beef and hogs virtually dropped from war-time prices to pre-war prices."

Financial writers throughout the country predict that the worst is over, and the very fact that nearly everyone is talking and writing optimistically is having its psychological effect.

BROKERS WORRIED.

Stock and bond brokers are concerned over the question of sales tax as applied to their transactions. The sales tax idea is gaining ground and the special session of Congress to be called by the new President is likely to adopt it in some form. There is no doubt that the requirement to pay 1 per cent of the selling price as a tax would have a limiting effect on the speculative market and the traders are hopeful of securing an exception in this regard.

MORE POWER NEEDED.

Seventy per cent of the motive force in California is said to be carried by petroleum and its products, and these figures alone should furnish ample argument for the imperative necessity to develop our hydroelectric possibilities. In fact, our very business life is dependent upon such development, and as soon as the people are aroused to the situation and get solidly behind the projects just so soon will the great economic and commercial problems be in process of solution.

A.B.I. CONVENTION.

The convention of the American Bankers' Institute will be held this year in Minneapolis on July 19. As usual a large delegation will represent the Los Angeles chapter.

NO QUOTATIONS TODAY.

Yesterday was generally observed throughout the country as a legal holiday. Exchanges were closed and no market quotations were established.

AN INTERESTING ISSUE.

It is understood that an interesting financial operation involving the purchase of first mortgage farm loan bonds by Bond & Goodwin, and Blyth, Witter & Co., is nearing consummation. The bonds will comprise an issue of $600,000 secured by land appraised at $2,539,000. This property is owned by the Arlington Heights Fruit Company, which is entirely owned by British interests.

The favorable rate of exchange existing between the United States and England makes it possible for the corporation to pay off present indebtedness in England at a very decided financial advantage to themselves. Also owing to the exchange situation, the bonds will constitute a debt of less than 25 per cent of the value of the property.

FOREIGN TRADE SURPRISES.

The manner and, in some degree, the cause of the surprises of our foreign trade in the calendar year 1920 can now be determined or, at least, closely approximated, says a statement by the National City Bank of New York. The enormous increase in imports, which jumped from $3,904,000,000 in 1919 to $5,280,000,000 in 1920, occurred in each of the three great groups: manufacturing materials, foodstuffs and manufactures.

Manufacturing materials advanced from $1,675,000,000 in 1919 to $1,750,000,000 in 1920; foodstuffs, from $1,100,000,000 to $1,816,000,000, while manufactures imported jumped from $1,100,000,000 in 1919 to $1,680,000,000. The increases of the three great groups over 1919 were in manufacturing material, $75,000,000; foodstuffs, $716,000,000, and manufactures, $580,000,000.

The reasons for these phenomenal increases are largely due to the extremely high prices in the early part of 1920, and to the persistent importation in large quantities irrespective of prices.

A TRADE WIND.

National advertising mediums have come to be recognized as one of the best business barometers available.

Probably the leading publication of this character increased its pages in one week from 112 to 148, due entirely to increased demand for advertising space.

Most of the advertising is for useful and needful commodities.

In line with this observation the following from the Philadelphia Public Ledger is apropos:

Col. Edward L. Munson, Chief of Morale, General Staff, United States Army, is of the opinion that the battle cry, "Let's go," used by the American soldiers in the World War, was the most effective slogan of the great conflict. Others were popular, but the determined "'Let's go,'" the colonel says, "stood foremost; none other seemed so typically American, so broad and satisfying."

To the strengthening of business morale, "Let's go" might be equally as useful. The words typify action, a purpose to get results, not procrastination and depression.

"Let's go."

YELLOW TAXI DIVIDEND.

The 3 per cent quarterly dividend promised the stockholders by the majority faction of the board of directors of the Yellow Taxicab Company, was declared Friday at a special meeting, presided over by President Dick Ferris.

NEW PERIODICAL.

A monthly magazine, said to be unique in its field, has been brought to Los Angeles by Frank Wilson, advertising expert, and will be published from temporary offices at 1203 Hibernian Building.

Financial Advertising, it is called, first made its appearance in a northern city six months ago and has attained a success which Mr. Wilson says warrants him in moving the editorial and publishing offices to Los Angeles where the field is larger and talent easier to secure.

The magazine contains articles, advertising copy, instructions and proven business-getting methods. The publishers claim an international circulation and assert that the periodical will be a valuable asset to the financial and commercial interests of the city.

ONE PRICE TICKETS.

Since railroad rates were advanced several months ago that portion of the public which travels only semi-occasionally has made necessary a lot of explaining on the part of ticket agents, and in many instances they go so far as to argue with the sellers that they must be mistaken because the last time the customer rode on the cars it only cost him steen instead of umpsteen dollars.

To meet this situation the Pennsylvania road is adopting a system of printing the price of the ticket and the war tax plainly at the bottom of the cardboard, thus: Fare, $6.08; war tax, $0.49. If it works it is said to be probable that the western roads will follow suit.

SHIPPING.

The Panama Canal is at last coming into its own. Los Angeles shippers and consignees say that in the past year the all-water route to the East has gained constantly in popularity. Originally, there were only two intercoastal services. Now there are nine lines giving frequent and good service, the time required being only a few days longer than the average by rail. Many of these boats carry passengers and for those who do not have to hurry the journey is making an increasingly wide appeal. At present there is a surplus of ships, but the intercoastal traffic appears to be in a fair way to obtain substantial recognition.

KNOCKING.

A business review of Pacific Coast conditions under a San Francisco date line, and prominently displayed in the business section of a big eastern newspaper tells of Los Angeles' rent ordinance, carrying, of course, the implication that the high cost of living is out of proportion here, and concluding: "The only beggars in Los Angeles are tourists with plenty of money begging for a room to sleep in." This sort of propaganda probably has its effect, and it is up to every Los Angeles organization and business man to see that it is counteracted as far as possible. Housing conditions in this city are very much better than they were a year ago; prices are somewhat lower, and accommodations are at least plentiful enough to care for those who seek our hospitality.

ORANGES.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—The market on California navel oranges shows a little improvement.

The volume of fruit selling daily is heavier than ever before at this period of the year. Prices cover a wide range, depending on sizes and condition of fruit. A great deal of trouble is being experienced this season in many districts by the activity of a small borer known as the tortrix worm. The work of this borer makes heavy culling of the fruit necessary when detected. Brown rot is also causing touble and the fuit that is showing up in off condition is pulling down the general average price in eastern markets considerably. The late rains are expected to bring sizes up and reports from many of the foothill districts state that the fruit is still growing, and fear that it might not size up well is a thing of the past.

The heavy wind that prevailed throughout the Southland February 6 and 7 knocked considerable fruit from the trees and caused some damage to fruit remaining on the trees in exposed districts.

F.o.b. quotations continue on a basis of $2.50 to $3.25 per box.

Cash brokers report little business being booked at quotations ranging from $1.85 to $2.85 per box, according to sizes.

Some growers and shippers are now of the opinion that the crop of navels in Southern California districts will check out fully 20 to 30 per cent short of early estimates. Many groves show very little fruit on the inside of the trees, it is claimed, and are not picking out one box to the tree.

It is expected that the Valencia crop will hold up to early estimates as there is a heavier crop and more fruit on the inside of the trees.

Florida shippers are rushing their fruit to market on a consignment as a result of a falling off in f.o.b. buying. Producers of oranges are higher in their ideas. Most growers are demanding $1.85 to $1.65 a field box on the tree. Packers are buying only as they need stock and their ideas as to values are on a basis of $1 a field box in the grove. The f.o.b. movement is slow. Shippers are asking $2.35 to $2.65 a packed box, according to size.

LEMONS.

The market on California lemons is lifeless.

F.o.b. quotations are on a basis of $2.25 to $2.75 per box.

There are 16,000 boxes of foreign lemons in port unsold and three cargoes afloat, the quantity of which is unknown.

The Time to Invest in Industrials

You have heard the remark "Now is no time to invest in industrials," but reason the situation out in this light.

In times of prosperity, all companies are prosperous, and there is little to differentiate the sound from the unsound. But in periods of industrial depression, in testing times, such as those occasioned by shrinking inventories, from which we are now emerging, only the sound, the strong, the efficient, make money.

This is a time when an investor can put his money into industrial concerns of this character and know that he has made a safe choice.

The Portland Flouring Mills Company is a sound, strong, efficiently ma company. Its property value is more th ample to secure the $3,000,000 Fi Mortgage 8% 15-Year Gold Bo which we offer and recommend as a s investment for your funds.

The company is an old and establi one. It has been in continuous and su cessful operation since 1884, and is firm rooted in the territory which it serves.

The earnings are large and steady and the ownership is the very strong and most experienced in this line. Th character of the business is exceedin stable. You should invest your funds in bonds of this character.

Call at our office today for a personal conferen write or phone for full information.

The price of these bonds is 100 and interest, yieldin you 8% on your investment.

To Many it May Seem an Old Story —Buy Long Term Bonds Now

During the year just passed, the prices at which sound long-term bonds could be purchased have been lower than at any period since 1890, and undoubtedly for a much longer period. These prices, in many instances, are still in existence and the most favorable opportunities for investment are in a large measure still available.

However, the conditions which have resulted in these favorable investment opportunities are rapidly being readjusted—industry has slowed down—commodity prices are declining. It is believed that this cannot but affect bond prices so that the future is not likely to have in store the opportunities which exist today.

I CAN OFFER

a few men a "PRE-ORGANIZATION opportunity" to acquire an interest in an oil company whose properties are the largest of any independent company in the Huntington Beach Gusher Field! YOU can come in on the same basis as the well-known and successful oil men who organized the corporation. This is a straightforward proposition—it is clean-cut and on-the-square. But

ONLY $10,000 WORTH of PRE-ORGANIZATION stock is included in this deal. It is stock which gives you FOUR-FOR-ONE—which permits profits far greater than are possible through ordinary stock purchase—which admits you on an INSIDE basis, to a progressive company with a well about ready to spud in and backed by practical oil men who have made—and are now making—money in oil! Response to this offering has been quick and fast. There is now considerably less than the original $10,000 worth of four-for-one, PRE-ORGANIZATION stock remaining open. I want you to know all the facts—properties, location, names of the Company and the men who are making you this offer. Ask me for details. Ask me without delay, for the deal will be closed in a very few days. Just a line of inquiry is enough. If you are really interested in the practical certainty of gain which accompanies PRE-ORGANIZATION deals, send a latter or postal RIGHT AWAY.

OF PRE-ORGANIZATION STOCK

TRADE ACCEPTANCES.

[This is the third and last of a series of articles on "Trade Acceptances," written for The Times by W. T. S. Hammond, vice-president and cashier of the First National Bank.]

The advantages of the trade acceptance are so great that the natural inquiry is "Why was their use abandoned in the United States at the time of the Civil War?"

During the Civil War and reconstruction periods the country operated on a paper-money basis. This money was not redeemable in gold, and circulated at a depreciated price. Business was harassed with multitudinous and vexing taxes. The American merchant marine was rapidly disappearing. Financial problems were centered around internal development. Credit was, at best, unstable.

The merchants and manufacturers were compelled to adopt expedients which would bring in money as quickly as possible. Sale of goods with provisions for large discounts for cash settlements and the practice of selling goods on the basis of accounts receivable, or "open book account," were two of the expedients which were adopted during this trying period.

Because the trade acceptance had fallen out of general use many of the States in passing banking laws failed to recognize them, and so a buisiness expedient became the established business custom. The "open book account" custom had many bad features, but it was easier to go along in the old way than for any individual or group of individuals to attempt to change it.

SCIENTIFIC BANKING.

The Federal Reserve Act was passed to eliminate many of the unsound principles existent in American banking. It recognized trade acceptances and made provision for their rediscounting by Federal reserve banks. With the inauguration of the Federal reserve system and the adoption of more scientific banking principles; with the participation of the United States in the World War and the consequent tightening of credit; and with the competition which the United States must face in the attempt to hold and develop her foreign markets, the trade acceptance has again become important in any discussion of commercial credits.

America owes much of its preeminence to the rapidity with which it has accepted labor-saving devices and junked the older and more cumbersome methods of manufacture.

In credit, as in manufacture, the same policy must be followed. The trade acceptance is recognized as the most scientific and economical means of granting commercial credit. It must be generally adopted. The start has been made.

During the past few years there has been a discussion of acceptance at practically every convention of credit men. The American Acceptance Council, with headquarters in New York City, has been formed. Its membership consists of banks and business firms in every section of the United States. The chairman of its Executive Committee is Paul M. Warburg, a former member of the Federal Reserve Board, and prominent financier. This organization is distributing information concerning trade acceptance.

A WIDE APPEAL.

The firms which have adopted trade acceptances are reporting them vastly superior to the old method of granting credit on the basis of accounts receivable.

Among those who have tried trade acceptances and found them worthy of continued use are firms engaged in the following lines of business:

All products of the soil, builders' supplies, lumber, coal cement, stone, clothing, hats, hosiery, gloves, dry goods, drugs, electrical goods, farm and dairy implements, flour, feed, etc., groceries, furniture, hardware, machinery, motor vehicles, optical goods, paint, varnish, etc., paper, petroleum products, pianos, printing, shoes, rubber goods and jewelry.

The one great obstacle to the continued development of the trade acceptance in the United States is lack of knowledge as to what an acceptance is and what benefits result from its use.

The business man, who has not time to investigate this revived method of handling commercial credit, and who, consequently, refuses to sign his name to a piece of paper upon which he acknowledges his contract and agrees to pay for goods bought on a certain date, not only prevents the adoption of the best business methods in his trade, but makes it harder for the United States to handle business in an economical and scientific manner in competition with the rest of the world.

Lawler Advises No Delay Testing Rent Ordinance.

At a special meeting of the Los Angeles Apartment-House Owners' Association, held in the Union League Club auditorium Friday night, 500 people heard Attorney Oscar Lawler discuss the rent ordinance passed by the City Council January 15, which the speaker declared to be unconstitutional. The new law provides fines for landlords charging in excess of certain fixed rentals on different classes of buildings.

Attorney Lawler urged that a test case should be started as soon as the ordinance becomes effective Tuesday. He stated that as long as the ordinance is in operation, and until action has been taken by the courts, it must, of course, be obeyed. For this reason, he asserted, no delay should be allowed to interfere with the progress of the proposed test suit.

Officers of the association spoke, and nearly 100 members joined at the close of the meeting.

CIVIL WAR OFFICERS TELL ABOUT LINCOLN.

MEMBERS OF LOYAL LEGION RECOUNT MEMORIES OF GREAT MARTYR.

Many distinguished Civil War veterans attended the luncheon of the Southern California Association, Companions of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, at the new Apollo Cafe yesterday at noon. The association's membership is restricted to veteran commissioned officers of the Civil War or sons of deceased officers of that war. Capt. James S. France is president of the Southern California Association.

The luncheon yesterday was in commemoration of the birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln. Many of the veterans present had seen Lincoln during the most trying days of the great man's life and many stories, some humorous, others tragic, were told about the martyred President in memory of whom they were assembled.

Maj. W. H. Hubbard, the chaplain, pronounced the opening invocation, giving thanks for the happy outcome of the most terrible war America ever had and praised the Christian character of Lincoln, whose idealism has done so much to inspire this nation.

Brig.-Gen. U. S. Hollister of Hollywood spoke on "The Black Hawk War." More men who later became famous in the military annals of the United States were in the Black Hawk War campaign, Gen. Hollister said, than in any other in which the military forces of this country were engaged. Winfield Scott and Zachariah Taylor of Union Army fame and Albert S. and Joseph E. Johnston of Confederate renown were first heard of throughout the nation in connection with the achievements during the Black Hawk War, declared Gen. Hollister.

Capt. W. P. Powers spoke of his Civil War experiences and former Gov. H. H. Markham eulogized Lincoln.

About sixty officers or sons of Civil War officers attended the luncheon yesterday.

RENEW PENCIL SALE TO AID DAY NURSERY.

CAMPAIGN NEXT MONTH WILL BE TWO-DAY AFFAIR, AS NEEDS ARE MANY.

Directors of the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery announce that their annual pencil sale will be held March 15 and 16.

The campaign this year will be made a two-day event, and the goal set will be larger than heretofore owing to the fact that there has been no public solicitation for funds for three years and the needs of the institution are many and urgent.

The St. Elizabeth Day Nursery, which is nonsectarian, is located in a dwelling at 135 North Anderson street. From seventy-five to 100 children are cared for in the nursery daily, supplied with nourishing food, baths and necessary garments.

Relieved from the responsibility of their little ones during the day, the mothers are enabled to seek employment and earn a livelihood. Funds for the support of the nursery are derived from the annual pencil sale.

Officers of the institution are: Mrs. Joseph P. Farrell, president; Mrs. Lucien N. Brunswig, first vice-president; Miss Marie Rose Mullen, second vice-president; Mrs. Daniel Murphy, third vice-president; Miss A. E. Ward, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. C. G. Bullis, assistant secretary.

Besides the officers, others on the directorate are: Mrs. Louis M. Cole, Mrs. H. W. O'Melveny, Mrs. Granville MacGowan, Mrs. W. H. Holliday, Mrs. M. S. Hellman, Mrs. John F. Francis, Mrs. W. H. Brophy, Miss Sue Sinnot, Mrs. H. W. Frank, Mrs. T. L. Duque, Mrs. D. G. Grant, Mrs. T. J. Murphy, Mrs. Mary Longstreet, Miss Suzanne Lynch, Mrs. Elsie Kerckhoff, Mrs. E. C. Moore, Mrs. T. W. Phillips, Mrs. A. W. Redman, Mrs. William R. Rowland, Mrs. Shirley Ward, Mrs. C. E. Toland, Mrs. L. C. Scheller and Miss Eunice Ward.

SECOND WHISKY CASE COMES UP TOMORROW.

DEMURRER ARGUMENT WILL BE HEARD BY FEDERAL COURT JUDGE.

One of the whisky cases, that of the government against Julius Sloto, and about twenty others, charged with violation of the national prohibition law and the Volstead Act, will be up in U. S. District Judge Trippet's court tomorrow, when the demurrer to the pending indictment will be argued by Paul W. Schenck, in behalf of all of the defendants. The objections to the indictment are technical, but sufficient upon which to base an argument, with points and authorities.

The other case, involving the three Groves brothers, F. Ray, Edward and Ralph, is still with U. S. District Judge Bledsoe, who is considering the demurrer to that indictment. Upon a decision of either judge dismissing the demurrer, the defendants will be asked to plead. Then will come the setting of the trial dates.

An effort was made by Asst. U. S. Atty. Dickson to have an agreement made that the trial of the Groves case should begin on the 23rd inst., but Attorney Schenck said it would be impossible for him to be ready.

SIX MILES

From Richfield, near Orange County Park, the National Security Oil Company is opening up

A New Oil Field

This property, consisting of 590 acres, was located by our own expert, and according to his survey, 400 acres out of the 590 is underlaid by oil, thus giving the company room for from 50 to 100 wells on the pool.

Drilling

We are running with three crews, drilling day and night on our first well, which already has good indications.

Two Oil Fields

Besides this valuable Orange County property, our company also owns a lease on 1920 acres in Fremont Valley, Kern County, where our expert has defined an oil streak three miles in length with an average width of 1500 feet, giving us room for 150 wells.

Important

National Security shares gives you an interest in both these fields, which will be developed under the personal direction of our expert who is also president of the company.

Shares Now 75c

National Security Oil stock is now selling at 75 cents per share, par value $1.00.

What is the Oil Industry Facing?

The answer to this question is of extreme importance, in view of the present cutting of crude oil prices, and its possible effect on the securities of petroleum companies, so we have prepared a circular covering the entire oil situation, which will be sent free to anyone upon request.

Huntington Central No. 1 Speeding to the Oil Sand

A Report yesterday from Edens and Miller, the Contractors drilling our Well No. 1 at Huntington Beach, stated that TODAY, the well would be down about 500 feet—everything moving along smoothly. With three shifts working 24 hours a day, you can see that the Oil Sand is not MANY DAYS away.

The Contractors further report that they have put their Star Crew at work on our well No. 1. They want to make a drilling record on this well, and are exerting every effort to accomplish it. The shorter the time between today and OIL, the quicker the profits for Huntington Central stockholders.

How's this for ACTION? Just a few days after starting well No. 1, the contractors are moving a rotary drilling outfit to well No. 2 on our Heaston Lease, which is just a few blocks east of Standard Oil Company's big producers A-1, A-2, A-3, A-4 and B-1. Our well No. 2 is to be spudded in by March 1st.

What does it all mean, men and women investors? Simply this—if you get your subscription and remittance to us in time to buy Huntington Central at par, 10c a share, you will be in on the best speculative investment before the public TODAY. With two wells drilling by March 1st, and with a capitalization of only $300,000; with plenty of money for development purposes, it is child's play to figure the enormous potential earnings and tremendous profit possibilities of this stock, to say NOTHING of advances in the market price of shares.

We have stated several times in our recent advertisements that the time for securing Huntington Central at 10c a share was growing short. We NOW tell you that it is a matter of getting in AT ONCE if you want to make sure of becoming a stockholder before the price advances.

A Good Safe Investment

The Klatawa Oil Co. has six producing wells in Ventura County, Cal. Drillers are working on its seventh well at a depth of 700 feet, and we expect to make a good producer of this well within 30 days. Our tanks are being filled and pipe line will soon be in shape to run oil to R. R. The last allotment of stock was oversubscribed many thousand dollars. The Company decided to sell some more stock at 25 cents per share, in order to increase its production on this 480 acres of proven oil land, situated between and adjoining the oil lands of the Modelo on the east and the Dutch Shell on the west. If you wish to make some real money secure your stock before the books of the Company close, as the allotment will no doubt be largely oversubscribed and the price advanced.

ENGLAND BUSY BUILDING SHIPS.

Great Britain No Longer Worried by Our Activity.

Liner Construction Slackens; Cargo Vessels Boom.

Labor Troubles Place Industry in Jeopardy.

BY YORK GUILE.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—What is happening to the American challenge to the British merchant marine? Where does the United States now stand in the shipbuilding race, started with such enthusiasm during the war? How are we progressing toward realization of Senator Harding's demand for the greatest merchant marine in the world?

The American Chamber of Commerce in London, in an analysis of the shipbuilding returns for the last quarter, says that a larger volume of merchant shipping is under construction in Great Britain than at any previous period in history; the tonnage is more than twice as large as before the war.

The figures relating to American shipbuilding show a substantial decrease. There is at present under construction in the United States, 1,750,000 tons, as against 3,500,000 tons a year ago. In the March quarter of last year more than 4,500,000 tons were actually under construction; in the quarter between July and September this had been reduced by 58 per cent, while in Great Britain during the same period there was an increase of more than 65 per cent.

Out of a world total of 2105 vessels, of 7,500,000 gross tons during the period under review, the British had under construction 961 vessels, of nearly 4,000,000 tons. The tonnage in hand in Great Britain increased 150,000 tons, while that building abroad decreased by 309,000 tons. This reduction is attributed almost entirely to the falling off in the shipbuilding yards of the United States.

GOES ON BUILDING SHIPS.

Launchings in Great Britain during the nine months of last year totaled 440 vessels, of 1,460,304 gross tons; this was made up of 415 steam and twenty-four sailing vessels. In September, twenty-eight vessels, of 50,000 tons, were launched in Scottish yards alone; of these twenty-three vessels were from the shipyards on the Clyde.

For some time, great activity has prevailed in Great Britain in the construction of oil tankers, this construction being in line with the ever-increasing interest of the empire in developing its oil supplies throughout the world. A number of tankers for use in connection with the new Anglo-French oil combination are at present being constructed in British yards. At present there are twenty-five tankers, totaling 182,000 tons, under construction, and twenty-six under contract.

But, in spite of the shipbuilding boom, danger signals are seen ahead in a tendency that is developing into alarming proportions for British concerns to turn to the yards on the continent for much of the work that's to be done. For building itself, the British yards are maintaining their old-time prestige, but for repair work—and there are enormous contracts for repairs—the owners are letting the contracts almost exclusively to Dutch, Belgian and German shipyards.

It is not only the higher cost of repairs that is militating against the British yards, but the length of time it takes to have the repairs made. The Dutch, Belgian and German yards usually require only about half the time that it takes for the British.

FEAR OF AMERICA LESSENED.

In spite of this, shipbuilding records continue to be made, and British fear of American rivalry has been considerably lessened. Almost all the work now being done, however, concerns itself with cargo vessels. The building of big passenger liners has slackened tremendously, due partly to their high cost, but mainly to the fact that shipping companies wishing to increase their fleets are finding it cheaper to buy tonnage ready for service. The fact that 200 ex-enemy vessels, both passenger and cargo, have recently been put up for sale by the government, and that they are fetching extremely low prices, is likely to accentuate the situation.

British shipyard men are now becoming convinced, however, that the shipbuilding boom is over. It lasted longer than the American boom, but labor difficulties are proving too much for its continuance.

These difficulties are largely due to an effort to reduce wages. This effort has already led to a big strike of the joiners in the shipyards. The strike started when notice was given that the bonus of 12 shillings a week granted in the spring, when there was competition in the building trade to obtain joiners, would be discontinued. If the strike lasts long the shipbuilding industry will be seriously affected. Employers state that orders have been canceled representing more than $75,000,000 in wages.

CADETS MUST DANCE.

Terpsichorean Art a Requirement for Cadets; None Object.

Dancing, say army authorities, is an accomplishment that no man should fail to possess and for that reason every young man that enters West Point to take the course preparatory to becoming an army officer is required to become proficient in dancing and must go to dancing school until he qualifies as an expert at terpsichore.

This was brought out in the hearings on the army bill, which have just been made public, when Brig.-Gen. Douglas MacArthur appeared before the Appropriations Committee of the House with a recommendation that the government, instead of the cadets, pay the salary of the dancing master at the academy.

"What is the object of instructing them in dancing?" asked Representative Anthony of Kansas, chairman of the subcommittee. "Is it to make them more graceful and to give them greater ability in handling themselves?"

"Yes, sir," replied MacArthur. "It is regarded as one of the accomplishments that no man should fail to possess."

"What would you do with a boy who came from a good Methodist family that would object to dancing?" asked Representative Anthony.

"We have never found him yet," replied MacArthur.—New York Sun.

Adobe Electric House Will be Closed Tonight.

At 10 o'clock this evening the doors of the adobe electrical home at Larchmont Boulevard and Second street in New Windsor Square will be closed to the public. Since the house was opened three weeks ago, it has attracted considerable attention and comment, more than 48,000 people, according to an accurate count which has been kept, having visited the house since it was thrown open to public inspection. This attendance was drawn from territory within a radius of 150 miles from Los Angeles, and the character of the attendance is evidenced by the fact that on one occasion 101 automobiles with a value of $4000 or more each were parked in the vicinity of the house.

Visitors to the house have included artists, architects, club women, school children and many others interested not only in the numerous electric labor-saving devices, which were installed throughout the house, but also in the furnishings and scheme of interior decoration, which were carried out under the supervision of Barker Bros. The house, upon the completion of the exhibit, will be sold completely furnished and equipped.

SELLING CAMPAIGN PROVES SUCCESSFUL.

The Angeles Mesa Land Company, which recently opened a lot selling campaign in a portion of its Angeles Mesa tract, reports a number of sales and a large number of inquiries since the campaign was opened. The interest taken in this campaign by the buying public is attributed by officials of the company to the fact that there is in evidence a renewed inclination to build, together with the fact that lot prices have remained at pre-war prices. The Angeles Mesa Land Company will continue its extensive operations in home building in Angeles Mesa, having from thirty-five to fifty residences under construction.

OKLAHOMA MAN BUYS FINE ORANGE GROVE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ANAHEIM, Feb. 12.—The C. B. Berger Company of this city reports the sale of a twenty-acre Valencia orange grove for F. A. McFarren of Santa Ana to J. Roy William of McAllister, Okla. The property is located south of Anaheim and is improved with orange trees in bearing and with a modern irrigation system. Substantial improvements will be made by the new owner, who purchased the property for a home. Mr. Williams was one of the pioneers of Oklahoma, having served as a member of the Legislature the first year after the State was admitted to the Union. He was also the owner and editor of two daily newspapers in that State.

BUSINESS LEASES.

Los Angeles florists have formed a corporation, and they have taken a lease on the building at 246-48 Winston street from Frank B. Harbert for a term of years. Alterations will be made upon the building, after which the corporation will conduct a cut flower market under the name of American Florists Exchange of Los Angeles. Both parties in the leasing of this property was represented by H. L. Suydam. Other leases reported by Mr. Suydam are as follows: For Bozzanni Brothers, store at 619-21 North Broadway to H. Bennett for automobile tops; D. W. Ferguson to Jack Goldberg, stores at the southwest corner of Broadway and Ord streets, for automobile supplies; Julia Gonzalles to Ferdinando Dalinlso, store at 659 North Broadway, for restaurant; for 320 Market Company to Los Angeles Cat Club, loft at 318-22 South Broadway; E. C. Moore to M. Perlman, store and basement at 1826-28 East First street for furniture; L. M. Raisback & Co., to R. E. Blackwell, store and basement at Los Angeles and Commercial streets, for tailoring; Matt Chirotti to Buscaylia and Zucca, hotel at the corner of Commercial and San Pedro streets; Edith F. Strodthoff to E. A. Montgomery, store at 708 Mateo stret for metallurgical laboratory; Security Trust and Savings Bank to C. H. Whipple, loft at the northwest corner of Seventh and Grand strets, for sale of reed furniture.

REDLANDS SALES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Feb. 12.—B. S. Stephenson, well-known local business man, has bought the residence of Harriet C. Washburn at the northwest corner of Cajon and Home Place. J. H. Strait has sold a bungalow and several lots on Clifton avenue to E. H. Brennan for a consideration of about $6000. F. H. Clock has purchased a lot from the University of Redlands and A. N. Dike has bought a lot in Eureka street for the erection of a home. Simon Henry has sold his residence at San Jacinto and Cedar streets to R. H. Brownlee.

SALES REPORTED.

C. A. Peterson, local realty broker, reports the following recent sales: Guadalupe Laborda to Gus Peterson, bungalow at 1307 West Forty-ninth street, $7000; Harlan H. Peet to Eleanor A. White, bungalow court at Twenty-seventh and Trinity streets, $16,000; Z. D. Mathuss to Henry Leiboritz, two lots in the Sanchez tract, $16,500; E. M. White to H. C. Heck, bungalow at 334 North Compton street, $4500; E. Clelland to Chester L. Eldridge, lot in Vernon and Hooper avenue tract, $900.

VALLEY GROVE SOLD.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EXETER, Feb. 12.—Report of the sale of the forty-acre orange grove owned by C. F. Gash to Mr. Rusk of Pomona, for the sum of $60,000 has been made by the McNay Realty Company of this city. Mr. Gash will leave to make his home in Pomona at an early date.

SHIFT SEATS IN INAUGURAL.

Here's a bit of inaugural etiquette, interesting in view of the announcement that President Wilson and Senator Harding will ride up and down Pennsylvania avenue together on March 4. Leaving the White House, Mr. Wilson is President and Mr. Harding next President. Therefore, on the way to the Capitol Mr. Wilson will occupy the right-hand seat, facing forward, Mr. Harding sitting at his left. Returning from Capitol to the White House, Mr. Harding will be President and Mr. Wilson will be ex-President. Therefore, in the carriage Mr. Harding will occupy the seat of the "mighty" at the right and Mr. Wilson will be at his left.—[Gus J. Karger in Cincinnati Times-Star.

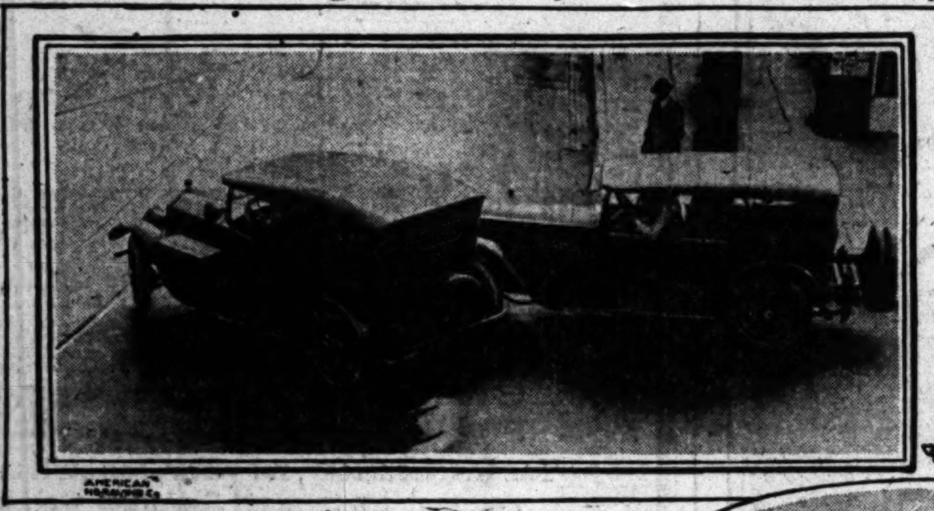
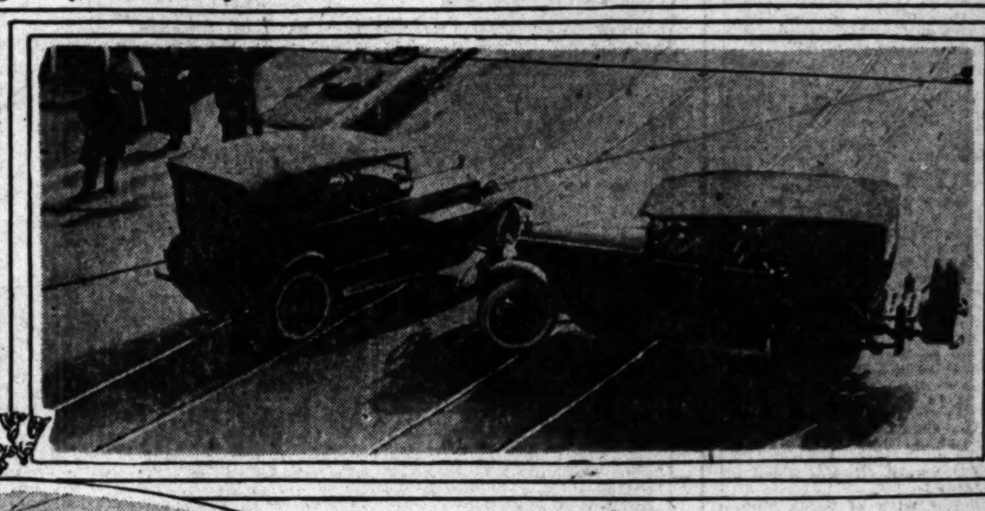
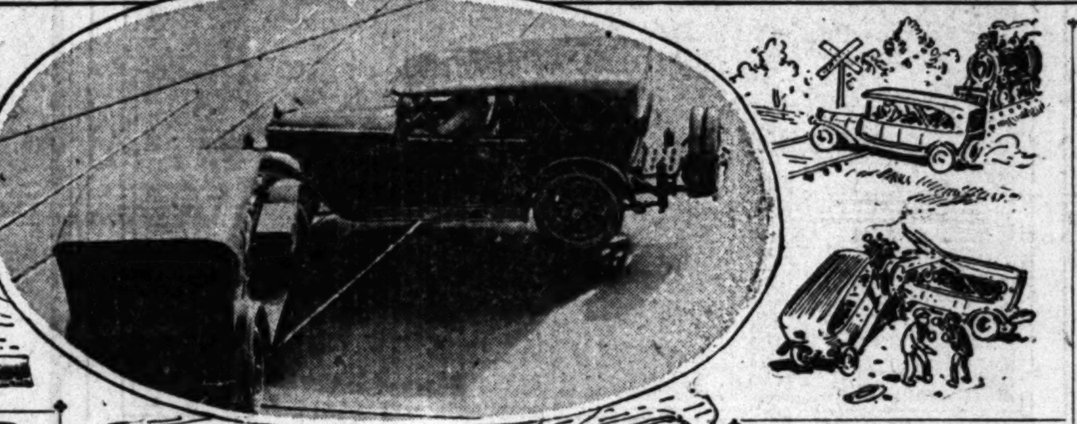
"Right-of-Way" Week is Coming Up—Prepare to Watch Your Step.

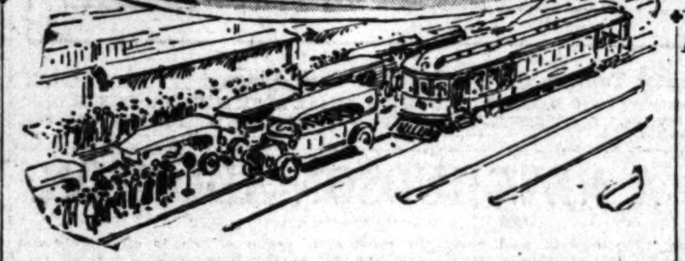


AMERICAN NEWSPAPER Co



RIGHT OF WAY WEEK





Launch Campaign to Stop Traffic Accidents.

The Automobile Club of Southern California has designated next week as the time for a special "Right-of-Way" celebration, warning, lesson or whatever you want to call it. Disputes over right of way are causing accidents every day in the year and the club hopes to stop some of 'em. Above, left, a car cutting in on another machine coming in the same direction without the proper hand signal—a smash frequently results. Right, an automobile cutting a corner in an effort to grab the right of way—more dangerous accidents. Below, the more common dispute as to who should go ahead, and in this way there are crashes every day. Forget the "first come, first served" idea and give the other fellow more than an even break. Also remember that street cars have some right of way, and stay off the tracks, say club officials. Photos posed by the Auto Club.

Married Men to Get Positions in Ford Plant.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Feb. 11. — Another shift, consisting mostly of married men, will start work Monday in the Ford Motor Company's Highland Park plant.

The new force of about 10,000 men will replace the 10,000 re-employed when production at the plant was resumed January 31. As the plant is operating five days a week, the present force will quit Friday evening and the new shift will start Monday morning.

It is understood that the new shift is to work for two weeks, then be replaced by the one now at work.

The reason for the replacement, it is said, is that the Ford company wants to provide work for as many of its married employees as possible. The money that the men in the present force have made since they went back January 31 will enable them to carry on for two weeks while the new shift is working.

The men in the new shift, the same as those now at work, will be paid at the same rate of wages they were receiving when the plant closed, December 31.

GENERAL OUTLOOK IS REALLY GOOD.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO (Ill.) Feb. 11. — One thousand workmen are to be added immediately to the force now employed at the plants of the Packard Motor Car Company, it was announced Thursday by Alvin McAuley, president of the company.

Mr. McAuley's statement, which at the same time announced the payment of the regular dividend on preferred stock, said that the additional men were being put to work because of orders that have been received for cars and because of the general outlook for business.

"In Columbia batteries you will find extra stamina, extra strength, extra long life, but we do not say 'extra price,'" was the remark of the Manager of Harold L. Arnold's battery service department.

"When your present storage battery is no longer fit for service you will want a Columbia. In the meantime let us help to prolong the life of the battery you now have."

If the speed fans can't get enough excitement for one day out of a program like that, they'd have rolled over and gone to sleep while San Francisco's three gunmen were being lynched at Santa Rosa.

AHA! RIVALRY.

Quite some rivalry has sprung up, not only between the various aviators and among the racing drivers, but between the two varieties of go-fast pilots. The aviators are anxious to outdo their brethren of the speedway for speed and thrills, while the long popular heroes of the track hope to rout these aerial interlopers by providing unusual thrills in the course of the races.

Chief interest among the racing fans and pilots seems to be centering on Fred Deusenberg's choice of pilots for Deusenbergs Nos. 9 and 11. The choice for No. 11 seems to have simmered down now to Eddie Miller, who is reported to have left for Los Angeles in company with the Deusenberg chieftain the other day. Miller drove a classic race in capturing second place in the Thanksgiving Day contest and is almost certain to drive the same car on Washington's Birthday.

The choice for a pilot to drive Eddie O'Donnel's car gives lots of latitude with class spread all the way across. Ira Vail, dirt track demon; Art Klein, hero of the last sprint program at Beverly; Ralph Mulford, fresh from laurels won on the beach at Dayton; Eddie Pullen, the most popular driver in Southern California road-racing history, and several other pilots of similar caliber are available and any one of them is plenty good enough to use up all the speed the little car has.

Some exceptionally sharp brushes in practice are expected this week as more and more of the pilots get out on the track to test their cars after their final inspection. Ralph De Palma, Tommy Milton and Eddie Hearne are among those who are certain to take the bit in their teeth any old time they get out on the well-known basin and when a couple of them get out and tangle the stop watches get an awful run for their money.

GOOD TIMES.

From the rapid time that has been made in practice so far, it seems evident that in the final fifty-mile dash, which winds up the five-race program, the time should be at least 106 miles an hour and that's plenty fast enough to give anybody a kick. The arrangement of the races and the division of the purse and the championship points is so cleverly done that drivers are certain to hold the throttle on the floor from the first waggle of the starter's flag to the last.

The tremendous rush for tickets at the B. H. Dyas Company and the Automobile Club of Southern California seems to indicate that the speed fans themselves believe that they are going to have one wild day and Secretary A. M. Young of the Speedway Association predicts that the record-breaking Thanksgiving Day crowd will be given a mighty close run if it isn't eclipsed by the Washington's Birthday aggregation.

NEW SCHEDULE IS GREATLY INCREASED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JACKSON, Feb. 11.—A high peak of optimism was reached by the Briscoe Motor Corporation of Jackson when it reported that its 1921 schedule would call for 18,000 cars, or three times the 1920 volume. By March 1 a full force will be employed. The factory has never fallen below a production of ten cars a day at any time during the depression, and at present thirty-five cars a day are being turned out. Seven hundred men are employed now.

"RIGHT-OF-WAY" CAMPAIGN.

Fatal Accidents Occuring Much Too Frequently; Auto Club Out to Stop 'Em.

Not only fatalities, but much annoyance resulting from ignorance of the right of way rules at street intersections and highway crossings, has led the Automobile Club of Southern California to announce a right-of-way campaign which will extend over a period of one week.

Right-of-way week will begin next Sunday, and for one week all motorists will be expected to observe the right-of-way rules as laid down in the State Motor Vehicle Act. Becoming accustomed to the rules, motorists are also expected to learn to like them.

WATCH YOUR STEP.

A policy of first come, first served at every street crossing is now in effect, say Auto Club officials, with no consideration of the rights of anybody at all. It has apparently become a custom for the man who can get across the crossing fastest to take the right of way, whether it belongs to him or not.

Motorists have disputed the right of way with several railroad trains lately and lost out in the argument, but it is to do away with fruitless disputes between motorists themselves that the Auto Club is going to take action. The club feels that it is needless to point out to auto drivers that they should not dispute the right of way with a steam engine.

ENFORCE RULES.

Strenuous methods for enforcing the right-of-way rules at street crossings have been suggested by club members, one of the most radical being the employment of 200 special deputies to stand at crossings and arrest all motorists who grab the right of way when they are not entitled to it. Club directors feel, however, that automobile owners will correct this trouble themselves if it is pointed out to them.

The campaign is to be State-wide, embracing particularly the thirteen southern counties where right-of-way violations are most flagrant.

Los Angeles and San Diego, probably because they have more autos, are named as the worst offenders, but San Diego is credited with being the most careless in this respect.

CURB RECKLESSNESS.

However, Auto Club representatives in Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, Riverside and Pasadena will co-operate with the officials at headquarters, and with the other branch managers in efforts to curb the growing carelessness in crossing street intersections.

Special attention will be called to the fact that boulevard traffic, from common usage, at least, has the right of way. Motorists approaching a boulevard from a cross street should stop and see if the way is clear before pulling onto the boulevard, according to Auto Club officers.

The majority of traffic accidents occur at street intersections, point out the authorities.

MUCH INTEREST IN NEW DURANT MOTOR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Much interest is being shown in the new Durant Motors, Inc., by automobile circles. By some it is thought the company will bring out something out of the ordinary in designs, others point out that Mr. Durant has always been identified with manufacture along conservative lines. Guessing as to the price of the car is lively. There are those who are confident that the cost will be within the reach of anybody wishing an automobile. Some go so far as to predict that Mr. Durant is planning to compete with the Ford Motor Car Company. Considering the present market prices of material and labor, impression on the trade is, that the Durant is likely to be marketed between $650 and $800. Mr. Durant himself is silent as to details.

"The new company will be in active operation by Aug. 1, 1921. Its purpose will be to bring out as good a car as can be possibly made for the money and the price of it will be less than $1000," he said. "It will not be a freak or anything in the idea of it being low in price."

PINK SHEET NEWS SUMMARY

AUTOMOBILES. Motor-car manufacturers and the automobile chamber of commerce favor a reduction of at least 15 per cent on duty for cars of $2000 and over. They believe it would open a new foreign market for American machines due to the fact that some sort of reciprocal relations could be established.

"Right-of-Way" campaign is launched by the Auto Club in an effort to curb the increasing number of traffic accidents on Los Angeles streets. Scope of the campaign will be State wide.

Motorists who park their cars along highways without lights or who drive them in that condition are responsible for many fatal wrecks and strenuous measures are soon to be taken against them.

EXPECT TO PUT TEETH IN THE LAW.

New Motor Vehicle Act Will Make It Hot for Reckless and Speeders.

Putting teeth in the buzz-saw of the local courts for the judges to use will be the effect of the new motor vehicle law, which is to be drafted by the coming session of the Legislature opening February 24, so say officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Auto thieves, speeders, careless truck drivers and headlight glare offenders will receive special attention in the new law, say the officials.

MOST IMPORTANT.

One of the most important reasons why there must be a new motor vehicle bill is so that all provisions may be arranged under separate divisions, instead of being scattered throughout the act as at present. There were too many amendments to the old bill.

California's new law for the operation of motor vehicles will be patterned after that proposed to the National Safety Council at its meeting in Washington recently, which was, in turn, patterned on the old California law. In this way, California will actually lead all other States in adopting the most up-to-date form of vehicle legislation. It is the first practical adoption of the National Safety Council's proposals, which were largely influenced by the Southern California motorists, through their club.

AFTER AUTO THIEVES.

Among the principal changes will be the tightening up of the provisions making it hard for auto thieves to exist in this State. This will be done by following the Maryland plan, which provides for a certificate of ownership as well as a license registration slip. No car can be transferred without the presentation of the certificate. For the obliteration of identification marks, or for having a car in your possession with the marks obliterated, strict provision of punishment is made.

Stricter rules governing trucks on the highways will be drafted, according to David R. Faries, general legal council for the Auto Club. Provision will be made for the measuring of truck tires between the flanges, instead of at the point of contact with the ground. A tire five inches or less in width will be limited to carrying a load of 650 pounds or less, and so forth.

TO BE REDUCED.

The speed of trucks will be reduced. All trucks of five tons or over will be limited to fifteen miles per hour in speed. The lighter the truck is, the faster it will be allowed to go, but no truck will be allowed to go faster than twenty-five miles per hour.

No driver's license will be issued to anyone under 18 years of age, and no chauffeur's license to anyone under 21. Provision will also be made for the refusing by the State Department of a license to an applicant on account of mental disability, and also provision for the revoking of a license for special cause.

The general speed laws will not be altered, except in the penalties for the violation of those now existing. For instance, as pointed out by the Auto Club officials, a conviction of speeding at sixty miles or more will mean not less than ten days or more than sixty days in jail. Other strenuous provisions will be made.

LEFT SIDE.

Pedestrians will be required to walk on the left side of the road, where there are no sidewalks.

No vehicle will be allowed to stop on the road unless properly parked, except in the case of serious injury. Minor repairs will not be an excuse for stopping on the road.

More drastic tests will be provided for headlights, and special provisions made for the State to encourage compliance with the law.

PIERCE-ARROW IS IN PERFECT SHAPE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Reports of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company for 1920 show net profits after all charges and Federal taxes of $1,769,914, or $3.88 per share on the 250,000 shares of common stock after deducting $800,000 for preferred dividends.

In 1919 net profits were $2,491,070 or $6.75 a share on the common after preferred dividends.

The reduction in the 1920 net earnings is due, officials say, to reduced business during the last half of 1920 as well as to unusual expenses of reorganization and development of new models of passenger cars and trucks.

SEND RUSH ORDER FOR MORE MACHINES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Indications of improved conditions in the eastern automobile market are given in telegrams received by the Buick Motor Company from its New York distributors, who estimate their requirements up to April 1 at more than 1000 cars.

The distributors declare they have made delivery of the last of a particular model they have on hand and ask immediate shipment of several carloads to meet additional orders.

MOTOR NO STRONGER THAN WEAKEST BOLT.

There is an old adage that says, "A chain is no stronger than its weakest link," which applied to an automobile might be said this way, "An automobile is no better than its weakest bolt," says Mr. C. C. Colyear of the Colyear Motor Sales Company.

It is absolutely true and an excellent argument against the practice of permitting repair men to replace worn parts with cheap imitations instead of standard replacement parts.

In a Continental motor, for example, there are 1780 parts, counting all nuts, bolts and so forth.

If one particular nut does not perform its function, it starts a chain of troubles. Obviously then, if inferior replacement parts are put into a good motor, automatically the motor becomes a poor motor through the weakness of the weak parts thus installed. And, also automatically, there is a loss in value far greater than the amount saved on the imitation parts.

LIGHT UP! FOR SAFETY'S SAKE.

Automobiles Without Lights a Genuine Menace.

Carelessness in This Regard Apparently Growing.

Should be Strenuous Laws Against Every Offender.

BY LEEPSON BOWNES.

A menace to the public safety, which was emphasized when our Congressman-elect Charles F. Van de Water met an unfortunate fate, continues to exist, despite the publicity campaign directed against it. The unlighted automobile standing by the roadside or, still worse, traveling on the public highways, is potentially as murderous as an ax in the hands of a maniac.

WITHOUT LIGHTS.

It is almost impossible to take a trip into the suburbs of Los Angeles or down any Southern California highway at night without coming across several automobiles or trucks off at the side of the road without a sign of a light. Sometimes they are apparently abandoned by their drivers. On other and more frequent occasions they are occupied by spoony couples who would apparently as soon kill somebody as not for the opportunity of holding hands in the dark.

Even worse than the unlighted truck by the side of the road, is the unlighted truck or automobile rambling down the highway with no tail light or no lights at all. The worst feature of the accident caused by such vehicles is, that usually the driver with his lights on swerves suddenly to avoid the unlighted machine and runs into the ditch or another machine, while the unlighted vehicle which caused the accident rolls on entirely oblivious of the destruction it has wrought.

A REAL THRILL.

There is the thrill of your first skid on a wet street and the thrill of killing your first dog, but there is no thrill that provides such a permanent chilling sensation in the region of the spinal column as that resulting from a sudden realization that there, right in front of you and looming up as big as the Woolworth Building, is an enormous truck without a sign of a light. Whether you hit it or not, you'll never forget it, and the way to prevent accidents resulting from such a situation, is to provide a good stiff sentence for drivers who neglect to light up after dark.

AUTOMOBILE SHOWS DO VALIANT WORK.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—Reo Motor Car Company officials have much faith in the efficiency of automobile shows in bringing results. Company exhibits were staged at three shows the past week, the southern show at St. Louis, the northwestern show at Minneapolis, and the one at Rochester, N. Y. R. C. Rueschaw, sales manager, attended the St. Louis and Minneapolis shows, while P. L. Emerson was in charge at the Rochester exhibition. Complete lines were shown at all three places.

The national show at Chicago brought a good volume of business to the Reo company, according to Mr. Rueschaw. Pittsburg took one complete trainload of cars as did Harrisburg, Pa. Eastern business at the show was unprecedented.

As far back as 1910 the sleeve-valve motor was conceded by eminent engineers to be far superior to other types.

Today that conviction is so pronounced that many experimental sleeve-valve motors are rumored in the industry and predictions are made that in several years they will predominate.

The Stearns has used the sleeve-valve principle exclusively ten years.

LOWER MOUNTAIN BEAUTY.

Pacific Grove, Monterey, and Carmel-by-the-Sea Are Real Attractions.

The coast highway between Los Angeles and San Francisco is much more than a mere connecting link between the two cities. Not only are there points of unusual scenic interest along the way, but innumerable short stretches of highway or good roads branch out here and there, leading to sylvan canyons, old Franciscan missions, rocky and wave-swept headlands where the Pacific beats in its wrath against the cliffs, which no doubt could tell of visits by the ships of Drake, Viscaino or Cabrillo, or to sandy coves near Carmel or Monterey.

"The beauties of the Sierra Nevadas have been told time and again, and the vacationist more often seeks their heights than those of the Coast Range," said Clair R. Savage of J. W. Leavitt & Co., Oldsmobile distributors, last week. "But there are just as many points of interest in these lower mountains along the coast as there are in the interior, and in the majority of cases they are much easier to get at.

"How many motorists from Los Angeles visit Pacific Grove, Monterey or Carmel by the Sea? They are somewhat closer to San Francisco, it is true, but the motorist has not seen California until he has paid at least a brief visit to these places. Just as tourists visiting England almost invariably include Stratford-on-Avon in their itinerary because it is so closely associated in their minds with Shakespeare, so should the California tourist visit Monterey, where Robert Louis Stevenson lived for a time, and wrote a great deal. The Stevenson home is still standing.

"The old mission of Santa Ynez, just north of Santa Barbara, is another point of great scenic and historic interest, and it lies but a short distance off the main highway and is well worth a visit. Here almost a century ago the foot-weary 'tourist' passing by that way was welcomed by the padres, given food and lodging for the night and sent on his way rested in mind and body on the morrow. Perhaps some day there may be a modern hostelry erected near there for the tired motorist. It would be a good half-way resting place for the north-south motorist."

MARKED DEMAND FOR USED MOTOR TRUCKS.

MACK-INTERNATIONAL SETS UP A SPECIAL DEPARTMENT FOR THIS LINE.

There is such a marked demand for used and rebuilt motor trucks that a number of the Los Angeles firms who are distributors for new trucks have realized merchandising the used truck merits special recognition. This takes the form of a used truck department conducted in a manner that makes it easy to meet conditions that do not arise when sales of new trucks are involved.

One of the first firms in the city that has recognized the importance of the used truck sufficiently to establish a special department for the conduct of that business is the Mack-International Motor Truck Corporation. In charge of this department is H. M. Johnson, who has had a number of years' of experience in the motor truck sales business. Many purchasers of used or rebuilt trucks have made the statement that they prefer to do business with long-established firms that have a reputation for fair dealing. "It is our endeavor at all times to satisfy the requirements of our customers on a used truck the same as on a new Mack" said Mr. Johnson, because we realize the business of the used truck department is a valuable adjunct to the success of the new truck sales."

GIVE ATTENTION TO EVERY SINGLE PART.

ADVISED NOT TO NEGLECT OILING FOR TIRES OR VICE-VERSA.

In talking over the care some people give their cars, and touching on the neglect of others, Ralph Hamlin, the Quaker State Motor Oil distributor, said: "A good many motorists pay so much attention to their tires that they have little to spare for their motor until it dies of neglect and has to be overhauled. If they would only give the motor a part of the consideration they show their tires, they would be surprised at the results.

"The use of good oil is imperative if the motor is to function at its best. And it is real economy. More and more people are beginning to realize that the best is the cheapest in the long run. If you expect real service and economy from your motor you must treat it right. The best oil pays, for not only does it 'wear' longer, but, by virtue of its better lubricating properties, it minimizes the danger of excessive wear of vital parts.

"The indifference of many motorists on the subject of lubrication has cost them dearly, yet few realize their huge repair bills were the result of carelessness on their part. Oils that do not stand up under heat, and which burn readily, cannot be expected to keep a motor in first-class condition."

GRAPHITE'S USE IN MOTOR LUBRICATION.

"If it were not for friction, there would be no need for lubricants, and bearings would last forever," says J. L. Turner, Jr., of the Turner Motor Supply, 826 South Grand avenue, distributors for Dixon's graphite greases. "As a matter of fact, 25 per cent of the power your motor generates is lost in the car through friction, and this, in spite of the best plain greases and oil.

"The problem is simple, but perhaps you have never stopped to consider why lubrication is necessary and why some lubricants are better than others

"When Dixon's selected flake graphite is properly mixed with oil or grease, the result is a lubricant as much better than oil or grease alone as oil is better than water. Why? Because flake graphite gets directly at the cause of friction—no matter now highly polished a bearing may be, under the microscope it looks like the surface of a rasp file, covered with tiny 'teeth of friction.'"

A NEW HUDSON ADDITION.

"The newest and certainly most attractive addition to the Hudson line has just been received in Los Angeles, that is the announcement of Harold L. Arnold, distributor of Hudson cars in California, Nevada, Arizona and Mexico.

"This new inclosed two seater makes its particular appeal because of its special body beauty, smart finish and interior comfort. The lines of the Hudson cabriolet are beautiful in their simplicity and are relieved of all severity by the graceful curves of the rear deck and sweep of the fenders.

The body is finished in a deep rich green which is effectively set off by the long grained leather top, black fenders and black striping on the louvres; contrary to former models the top itself is stationary, the external bows adding to its regidity and lending distinction to its appearance. The seat cushions are unusually deep and comfortable and provide a surplus of room for two persons. The doors swing wide open, being carried on four heavy hinges. The door windows are so wide they insure clear and unobstructed vision from each side of the car.

In completeness of detail this model is unsurpassed.

A COMFORTABLE COUPE.

"The trouble with a great many coupes lies in the attempt of their designers to accommodate too many passengers in a limited space. As a result, they seldom achieve real comfort for the occupants. The auxiliary seat is never a comfortable one for a trip of any length; the driver's seat is frequently set at such an angle that there is a tendency to slide off all the while and the two passengers that are accommodated at the driver's right are apt to be too crowded for comfort," says H. J. Coger, manager of the Troy Motor Sales Company, Southern California distributors for the Lafayette.

According to Coger, the Lafayette coupe, which recently made its debut here, promises to set a new fashion in the design of cars of this type. Due to a design of generous proportions, it provides real comfort for four passengers on a trip of any length.

"Everyone who has seen the Lafayette design is enthusiastic over it," said Coger. "As for equipment, the car is unusually complete, even to a leather motoring trunk that fits in the inclosed compartment in the rear."

CHASSIS QUALITY FIRST.

Stanley W. Smith, head of Smith Bros., who have distributed Peerless motor cars in Southern California for the past eight years, is a diligent student of merchandising and his theories regarding the marketing of automobiles have always been considered sound.

Mr. Smith has for several months been studying the relation of the used car to the sale of new cars. "The European idea," said Mr. Smith, when asked for his opinion of the future of the automobile business, "will some day prevail in this country. It does exist to an extent now, but not as it will a few years hence.

"The European manufacturer subordinates appearance to quality of chassis. Some of the manufacturers do not even offer their product for sale with bodies. They endeavor to build a chassis which will last through years of use and give the minimum of depreciation.

"The American idea generally has been the purchase of an automobile for short-time use, say from one to three years, finally passing it on in trade for a new car. This idea has been to a large extent caused by manufacturers, the great majority of whom have devoted a great deal of their effort to body design and the sale of cars on looks—changing body designs with the season whether for the better or not, but with the sales value of the change foremost in mind.

"Such methods tend to cause great fluctuations in the value of used cars, which, in reality, is depreciation. When one buys a piano one does not change it for a new one in a year or two, just because the new one has a different case."

ADVISES TRUCKERS TO EXHIBIT SPEED.

"For those who are contemplating buying a one-ton truck, they had better get their order in before spring," says J. B. Fahy, of Fahy-Atterbury, authorized Ford dealers, "because the present supply of Ford trucks is fast being depleted, and this, together with the fact that the Ford plant has been closed, and has not been keeping a production of Ford one-ton trucks up to a maximum. It can be readily seen that anyone who needs a truck, had better get his order in at an early date."

TWO TIRE MISTAKES.

A mistake often made by car owners is to continue using rims that have been badly dented or even slightly bent. This causes rim cutting, which means the end of the casing's usefulness. Another error is to neglect to keep the valve stem and stay bolts tight. When this is not done water will get into the casing on wet roads or even when the car is washed.

BUICK

Motor Car Buyers Entitled to 1921 Improvements Now

The 1921 Buick is distinctively a 1921 car. It carries more improvements than have been shown in a model in the last five years. It is a remarkable embodiment of the best of today, the worthy product of twenty years' leadership in motor car manufacture.

The Buick factory, for years, has built more six-cylinder automobiles than all the other well known makes of sixes combined! More than 2,000,000 persons have driven nearly 700,000 Buicks hundreds of millions of miles. They have made Buick's reputation as the First-Choice car, the leader in America's sales.

Make a critical examination of the new 1921 Buick.

Talk to the owners.

Compare the car with others.

Then you will more fully appreciate why Buick is the world's largest builder of six-cylinder automobiles.

Takes the "Guess" Out of Repair Work

You know those guessing councils in some repair shops—those little parties where they gather around and guess what's the matter with your truck or auto—guess what ought to be done to fix it, what tools to use, how long it will take and how much it will cost?

Of course you do. We all do.

We have all felt the urge to wrath at such times, and in fact probably have all gotten real peevish when the bill came in.

A new idea which eliminates these time-killing guessing contests and makes positively certain the difficulty is diagnosed properly, the repair made properly, at a minimum expenditure of time and the least cost, has been developed at the service station of the Los Angeles Branch of the Moreland Motor Truck Co.

This is specialization. The mechanics are specialized on motors, clutches, transmissions, worm drives and other units. A clutch man handles clutches, an expert engine man handles motors and so on. Special tools and machines have been made to do this specialized work and to make it possible to know the job is done right before it goes out.

This specialization saves time—in some operations fully 50 per cent—and insures far more perfect work.

The truck owner is saved both money and time, which, in his business, is also money.

E-FIGHTING OTOR DE LUXE.

Truck in U. S. Bureau of Mines Activities.

All Over the State on Specialized Work.

Gas Masks that Have Equipment Licked.

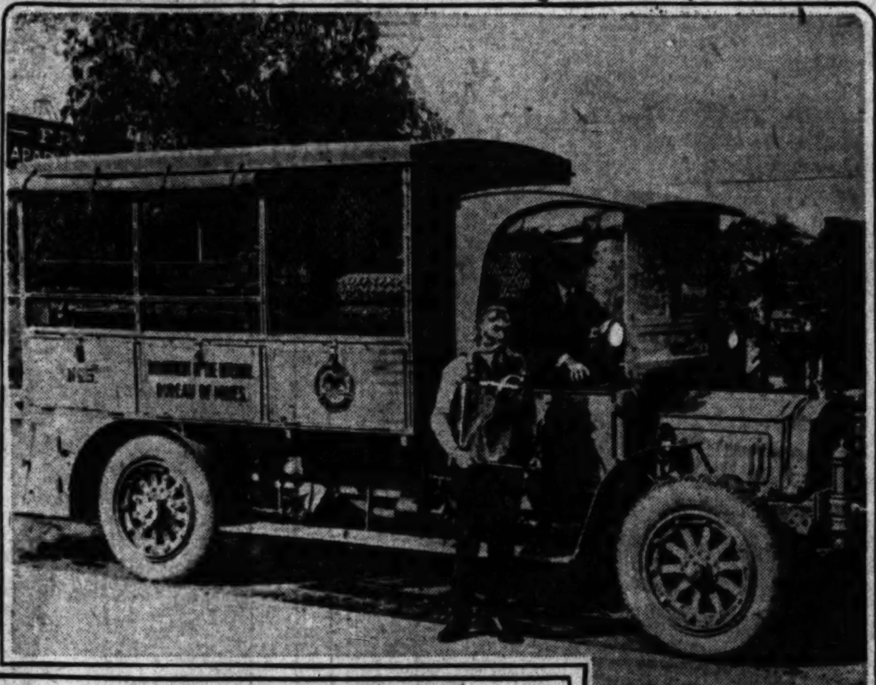
ever make the mistake of follow this firefighting out- a blaze. When the United States Bureau of Mines fire truck responds to a call it may be anywhere in the State of California. A 500-mile run to a fire is a common occurrence in the work of the crew and truck of the interesting Federal outfit which visited Los Angeles last week to give special instruction to the Los Angeles fire department in the use of the oxygen firefighting apparatus which permits men to work in the deadliest gases that fire can generate in mines or in the industrial plants.

In charge of R. B. Hecox, foreman miner, and D. W. Cooke, first aid miner, the big gray Packard truck is on call at all times to respond to mine fires, the most dangerous brand of firefighting known. Hundreds, or perhaps thousands of feet underground, the men who fight mine fires must work in an atmosphere laden with deadly carbon monoxide. The perfection of the oxygen apparatus has removed much of the danger from fighting mine fires, and it is the duty of the Bureau of Mines truck to give instructions in the use of the apparatus at all of the big mines of the State, and to hasten to the scene of any mine fires.

"The ordinary gas mask, such as was used in the war, is absolutely useless in fighting mine fires," said Mr. Hecox last week in describing the work of the truck. "The gas mask filters out the poison gases, but cannot supply the oxygen needed to sustain life. In many mine fires, the oxygen in the air is totally exhausted, and the ordinary gas mask is absolutely useless.

"We carry an outfit on the Packard that enables a crew of ten men to fight underground for twelve hours. Each man carries his own oxygen supply on his back that suffices him for two hours at a time.

"The Los Angeles Fire Department has purchased twelve of these sets, and our visit here was to train the local firemen in their use."



Can Go Anywhere—Even in Third Street Tunnel.

Here's the latest thing in motor equipment. With this outfit you can spend two hours in the Third-street tunnel and never even have a headache. It's the crew of the Department of Mines and their Packard truck equipped to fight mine fires. While they were in Los Angeles they ventured into the Third-street tunnel and took samples of the alleged air within for the benefit of the City Engineer. Below, one of the gas masks that are worn on such an expedition.

Mack TRUCKS

Experience Is Best Teacher

We do not expect the time ever to come when all motor truck owners will standardize on MACK trucks—that's beyond probability —but the time now is here when more and more of the shrewd buyers of trucks are choosing MACKS.

There must be a reason for this fact. We know this reason is the satisfactory service MACK trucks render in the hands of their owners. If you care to verify our statement consult the list of recent truck buyers and see the big percentage of them that have chosen MACKS. Then ask why the MACK was selected.

The answer will be that previous experience as a MACK owner had shown the MACK to be the best truck equipment on the market today or that the recommendations of other owners of MACKS had decided the question of what truck to buy.

The Car Complete
General Motor's Latest Quality Creation

Quality First
in All Sheridan Construction

The SHERIDAN—a car of smooth, velvety power—represents a combination of refinements that justify us in calling it the car complete.

Knowing that the trade wants cars that are better built, better trimmed, more complete in the details of equipment, we have held to certain ideals.

This policy of quality first applies to all parts which bring operation, upkeep, appearance and comfort as near as possible to perfection.

The entire equipment and mechanism of the SHERIDAN insure extra years of satisfying service.

Genuine attractiveness is achieved in sweeping lines, the proper blending of all parts and the exercise of good taste throughout.

Every item of SHERIDAN equipment, every refinement, every addition designed to make the word "COMPLETE" an accurate descriptive, has back of it the purpose of insuring unchallenged quality, maximum operating efficiency and an appearance that will command the pride of any owner.

A car of character is the SHERIDAN—developed out of experience covering all the years of the motor car industry—WITHOUT EXCESSIVE COST.

STILL TALKING OF HORSE-SHOE TRAIN.

MINATURE AUTOMOTIVE AFFAIR MADE DECIDED HIT ON ITS LONG TRAVELS.

The automotive freight train that the Pacific Rubber Company, Coast distributors of Horseshoe tires, sent over the highways of the State last summer, made an impression on the public that is still strong, according to Roy R. Meads, president and general manager of this enterprising concern, who has recently made a trip over a large part of the territory that it covered.

"It was the first time anything of the kind had ever been seen on our highways, and because of this it was but natural that it was at once linked up with Horseshoe tires," he declared. "In a number of the cities where it appeared, I have since met tire and automobile dealers and merchants in other lines, and almost the very instant my name was linked up with our tires, the subject of the original automotive freight train was brought up.

"Frequently the subject led to talk on our highways—better paving to stand up under heavy freight loads, and further extensions to our already admirable system. While the train was advertising the product we handle, it was also doing good work in the interest of highway improvement and boosting the shipment of merchandise over short hauls by truck."

BUICK LECTURE DRAWS A CROWD.

SIX HUNDRED PEOPLE TURN OUT TO HEAR ROY DOUGLAS EXPLAIN THINGS.

The initial Buick lecture at the Howard Automobile Company's salesroom proved to be even a greater success than even the most sanguine official of the firm had anticipated. Fully 600 people occupied seats when Roy C. Douglas, the service expert of the San Francisco district for Buick cars, who made a special trip to Los Angeles for the purpose of explaining the functioning of the various working parts of the car, began his talk.

The parts board is in plain view of the spectators and as Douglas goes along explaining how each part should be operated and how to properly care for it, one can grasp quickly just what should be done to keep the car in fine working condition.

Many women motorists were present and displayed the keenest interest in the little talk which did a lot toward smoothing away imaginary troubles under the hood, as Douglas pointed out just what to do and what not to do to keep the car operating like a well regulated clock.

Progress Marks Year for Makers of Motor Trucks.

The past year has been one of marked progress in the field of motor transportation. Hence it goes without saying that it has been a busy twelvemonth in the industry whose business it is to supply the demand for motor carriers.

Like the substitute who, in fiction, jumps from the obscurity of the bench to the spotlight of the playing field in the tensest moment of the big game, the motor truck was given a decided impetus as a carrier during the year when the strike of railroad yardmen threatened to strangle industry by choking its transportation arteries. Motor transports demonstrated most convincingly their supremacy up to 150 miles, with the reserve endurance to accomplish several-thousand-mile trips in emergencies.

The impetus thus given highway transportation is reflected in the White Company's annual tabulation of owners whose White trucks have gone 100,000 miles and more in work-a-day service. The 1920 list shows 533 Whites have traveled 100,000 miles and are still going; 106 have exceeded 150,000 miles; ninety-four are somewhere on the 200,000-300,000-mile lap, while twenty-five trucks have forged well beyond the 300,000-mile mark. The figures in each group are approximately double those revealed by the 1919 taubulation.

SHERIDAN ATTRACTS ATTENTION AT SHOW.

MOTOR-WISE FOLKS OF CHICAGO PASS OUT FAVORABLE COMMENT.

The Commercial Motor Company, exclusive distributors of the Sheridan line in Southern California, have just received a telegram from Mr. George Goodrum, their president, who is in the East attending the Chicago Automobile Show and paying the Sheridan factory at Muncie Ind., a visit.

In the telegram Mr. Goodrum says the Sheridan is the sensation of the show and that the closed jobs as well as the eights are creating much favorable comment among the motor-wise Chicago folks, who declare it is the smartest looking job on the market.

This praise is of unusual interest coming as it does from a show of national importance where the acme of perfection has been reached in motor car construction by the country's foremost automotive engineers.

Immediately following the show Mr. Goodrum visited the Sheridan factory at Muncie, Ind., and says in his telegram that the factory is running full blast and far behind with their orders, due to the fact the recent eastern automobile shows have stimulated buying to a high degree.

CHARLES P. MOONEY ON LINCOLN STAFF.

Charles P. Mooney, who was formerly sales manager for Jefferies in Chicago and held the same position in the Chalmers organization in New York City, has joined the progressive organization of Walter M. Murphy. This is just one of the new steps of that company's aggressive service planned for the coming year.

CONSERVING CHAINS.

It is a very good plan to shift the cross links of the tire chains from time to time. That is, move them so that they do not depend on the same link of the main chain all the time. The wear and tear on the tire chain centers at the links to which the cross chains are attached, and for this reason moving these latter from time to time spreads the wear.

ORIGINAL COST

In making your original investment in this car, you receive the benefit of the manufacturing savings estimated at 20% to 25%, made possible by complete manufacture in the new modern $20,000,000 Studebaker plants at South Bend, Indiana, because—

(a) the price includes but one manufacturing profit on castings, forgings, stampings, motor, axles, transmission, frame, body, top, etc.
(b) the amount of overhead expenses included in the price is very small.
(c) excess weight is eliminated without sacrifice of durability or quality. The shipping weight of the car, 2500 pounds, is distributed equally over the four wheels.

OPERATING SAVINGS

In operating this car, you receive the benefit of the economic advantages arising from its superb design, skillful manufacture, excess safety factors, and high quality, because—

(a) it will go from 12 to 15 thousand miles on the standard 32 x 4 cord tires.
(b) it will go from 18 to 22 miles on a gallon of gasoline.
(c) it will render from 8 to 10 years of satisfactory service.

WILL EXPLAIN RENEWED IDEA.

"Mechanics" of the Process to Go on View.

New Conceptions of Buyers' Rights in a Purchase.

Whole Process Will be on Display for One Week.

An unusual exhibition that will be of interest to every automobile owner and prospective motorist is being planned this coming week by the Al G. Faulkner Company.

The salesroom floor will be cleared for the benefit of this unique display, which affords a practical demonstration of how a motor car is renewed and what the process of renewal as advertised by the Nordyke and Marmon Company really means.

A Marmon will be exhibited completely torn down, affording the visitors the opportunity of seeing the actual mechanics of the renewal process.

A renewed Marmon 34, stripped to the chassis, affords the curious an opportunity to see exactly what mechanical condition the motor car is in and shows precisely what parts are replaced and what work is done in the process of putting the car into such shape that it carries a certificate of renewal.

The Faulkner company's demonstration this week and their entire plan for the merchandising of renewed Marmons is based on an entirely new conception of the buyers' rights in regard to so-called used cars.

The new theory inaugurated by the Nordyke and Marmon Company through Al G. Faulkner, their distributor here, is based on the right of the prospective buyer to know to a bearing or a needle valve the exact condition of the car that he is buying.

It is expected that the local display of the renewed car, torn down to show its innermost mechanical condition, will excite as much interest in trade circles as it will among motorists.

GIVE BATTERIES A CHANCE IN WINTER.

The unusually cold spells we have been having here in Southern California this winter have caused a greater amount of battery trouble among motor car owners than is usual in this part of the country. Of course, there is never the trouble of a run-down battery freezing, nor does the motor get quite so cold here as in the East, and it requires much less time to warm up than it does where zero weather is the common thing in winter. However, starting on a cold morning places quite a strain on the battery, and that part of the power plant should be given more than usual attention in cold weather.

In discussing this trouble last week, W. B. Conditt, distributor of the R. & V. Knight, made the following suggestions, which will apply to the use of any make of car:

"Remember that a storage battery is always slightly less efficient in cold weather than in warm.

"Because of the fact that the film of oil in the cylinders becomes sticky and heavier when the motor stands idle for a few hours in cold weather, the motor is much harder to turn over. Add to that the fact that gasoline vaporizes less easily under these conditions, and you have more reasons why starting is sometimes difficult. Keep your battery well charged, and, if necessary, prime your engine before trying to turn it over with the starter."

Careful in Selection of Tires for Their Taxicabs.

When a taxicab owner steps out to buy tires he usually figures pretty closely on every phase of the tire's value. Black and White taxis have all been equipped with U. S. Royal Cords after a careful inspection of practically all makes. From left to right are A. J. Robinson, manager tire department of the local branch; J. B. Magee, manager of the Southern California and Arizona branches of the U. S. Rubber Company; Frank Owens and Harry Owens of Owens Bros. and Wells, who operate the Black and Whites. One reason for the selection of the Royal Cords was their non-skid qualities.

FAVOR A DROP TO HELP TRADE.

readily compete in the foreign market. Then there is the fact that the automobile industry in this country ranks second in size. It employs 300,000 persons, or approximately 50,000 more than does the United States Steel Corporation. In the United States there are about 8,000,000 cars in use, 90 per cent of those used in the entire world, which indicates the extent of the foreign market and the limitations in the United States. It is said motor car producton as far as domestic consumption is concerned, need not be curtailed until 12,000,000 cars are used in this country.

Touching upon exchange and foreign resentment, the brief says:

LOTS OF 'EM.

"During 1920 the exports of American motor vehicles to all countries, including noncontiguous United States territories, amounted to close to 180,000 in number, at a value of approximately $200,000,000. All possible efforts should be made to stimulate foreign trade, so as to enable American manufacturers to find markets for increased number of cars abroad, thus tending to stabilize the industry.

"At the present time, the export trade is considerably hampered by great depreciation in the foreign exchanges. To afford manufacturers in countries with the depreciation of currency an opportunity to sell their products in the United States will tend to right this condition. Although it is fully realized that the increased imports of automobiles, even if the duty on high-priced cars is reduced, will not be such as materially to improve the exchanges, still even minor influences of this kind if multiplied in other trades that will not be greatly affected thereby, are certain to bring about improvement in international finances.

"Besides the depreciation of money exchanges the geratest obstacle confronting American exporters of automobiles is the tariff wall being built up abroad in retaliation because of the high duty on foreign automobiles imported into into the United States. Resenting the American duty of 45 per cent on the high-priced cars certain interests in Great Britain have already urged the assessment of duty higher than 33 1-3 per cent on all kinds of motor vehicles, whereas up to now that duty is applied to passenger cars only. France has already imposed a duty of 45 per cent on the kind of automobiles exported by American firms; an action which is directly traceable to the belief that the United States automobile duty is discriminating against high-priced cars of French manufacture. Similar action has also been taken by Italy and Belgium. Spain is about to follow.

FAVORABLE RESULTS.

"That favorable results from a uniform United States duty may be expected is shown in the action of the French automobile manufacturers who informed their government that the English, Belgian, Italian and French syndicates had collectively voted for a uniform tariff of 33 1-3 per cent. This duty was to apply to all automobiles imported into and from any countries that entered into the agreement. The French ministry, however, cited the United States tariff on automobiles of over $2000 in value and fixed the French duty at that rate on automobiles of the type mostly exported from the United States.

"The establishment of a uniform rate on cars of all prices at the present minimum of 30 per cent ad valorem coupled with a reciprocal provision will stimulate the development of foreign trade in that the rate will apply to motor vehicles from such countries only as grant equality of treatment for American products.

"Against countries, which, however, despite the benefits accruing to them because of the establishment of this uniform lower rate continue to discriminate against American trade, there should be applied additional duties to be determined by law or warranted by the particular circumstances.

"With regard to the administration of a policy of reciprocal relations such as that outlined, the President of the United States should have the power to ascertain what countries discriminate against American trade and to take measures in accordance with this provision to protect United States interests."

LOOSE VIBRATOR.

In case the screws that hold the small brass jackets to the vibrator box become worn so that they do not grip any more, do not try to remedy the trouble by using longer screws, as this will probably injure the windings of the coil and ruin the vibrator. The better plan is to put a metal band clear around the box and attach it to the dash with small bolts.

CHAINS PREVENT WEAR.

Many motorists seem to believe that tire chains induce wear. Not if they are properly used. Without tire chains the drive wheels tend to spin around more or less on slippery surfaces. Sharp pieces of stone, cinders and other similar material in the road cut the rubber and scrape it deeply, a condition that does not arise when the chains are in place.

OIL FOR BEARINGS.

In ball bearings that move with great rapidity ordinary lubricating oil is best to use. On the other hand for slow moving bearings semihard graphite grease is most satisfactory.

RELIABLE TIRES ON ALL TAXI MACHINES.

VERY IMPORTANT DETAIL IS WELL TAKEN CARE OF BY THIS FIRM.

"Reliable taxi concerns that are so financed that they are operated upon a large scale have come to be public necessities in practically every large city," declared J. B. Magee, manager of the California and Arizona branches of the United States Rubber Company, manufacturer of U. S. Royal cords. "The traveling public and many in their home towns have become so used to this class of transportation, that it is relied upon more than is generally appreciated," he declared.

"'Reliable' covers proper financing and sound management, first-class equipment and honest and courteous drivers, in my opinion. Those in a strange city feel secure when they are driven from point to point in the taxies of a concern that comes under such a classification.

"Tires are a mighty important detail in the equipment of a taxi concern," declared the Owens Brothers, "from the standpoint of economy, safety and service. Our Black and White taxies and all our cars—sixty-five in number—carry U. S. Royal cords as standard equipment."

DRAW YOUR OWN CONCLUSIONS

When a motor car is running fifteen miles per hour and is brought to an abrupt stop the impact is equal to that of a body striking the earth from a height of thirteen feet. When a car is running fifty miles per hour and is stopped in its tracks the impact is equal to that of a 120-foot fall.

REPAIRING BALL BEARINGS.

The fact that ball bearings have become worn does not necessarily mean that they are a complete loss. Instead of installing a complete new set of balls, have the races trued up and put in a new set of oversize balls of the size needed.

COMPRESS.

Two blocks of hard wood about six inches square, held together with two small bolts with wing nuts, make a useful clamp to compress a dough patch in an inner tube. These have often proved invaluable in emergencies on the road.

FRANK ANSTED A VISITOR.

Coming directly from the two national automobile shows of New York and Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Ansted arrived in Los Angeles, which is their first stop on a trip that will cover practically the entire Coast.

Mr. Ansted is the president of the United States Automobile Corporation, a great corporation controlling vast holdings in the Middle West which includes the Lexington Motor Company, makers of the Minute Man six, distributed locally by Charles H. Kaar Company.

Mr. Ansted brings word that the outlook of business indicated by the automobile shows in the East signifies a definite turn for the better. The actual sales that were done there show to a degree that the motor industry for the year 1921 will be one of the most profitable years ever.

Mr. Ansted said, "I have not been here long enough to give definitely my impression of this city, neither have I had the opportunity to make a survey of general conditions of the automobile business, but I can tell you how the bankers in the East feel toward the automobile business.

"Since I have just returned from the New York show, I can testify advisedly. It is the sense of a number of able bankers, whom I have interviewed, that they now look on the automobile business, as a sane, healthful enterprise. Just a few months ago they were wondering if it was not just a "bubble.' Some ventured more than others, but pretty generally the prudent banker was prone to worry as to what would happen if there should be a cessation of the purchasing, inventories to adjust, etc. Everything has happened that could happen, and most of it overnight, with a few minor exceptions. The automobile industry has come through it all in splendid shape. They are satisfied with the versatality of the management of the automobile business, know that man for man, no given industry has more capable supervision and co-operation—and after this purging look upon it as a business deserving of every consideration and confidence."

Why not have one of these handy flashlights to have around the home or in the car? Worth its weight in gold when needed and needed very often. Auto prices mean a big saving. 85c to $2.00, complete with battery.

Counterbalances

The Hudson Motor Co. by the addition of the counterbalances increased the power of their motor 72% and made the Super Six. Why not put a set on your car? We have them for several makes of cars, including Fords. The price is very reasonable.

INDIA TIRES

"America's Best"

You hear the word "best" very often in regards to different makes of tires but there is a difference in calling a tire "best" and its really being so. The INDIA is hand built, from the very best material procurable and is manufactured to meet the demand for the "best tire regardless of price." In all stages of construction the best methods and materials are used. If there were any better, India would make use of them.

When a tire is made in this way it naturally carries a higher price, but as evidence of our buying power can supply you these super quality tires at you are usually asked to pay for ordinary and much inferior makes.

PROTECT THE FUEL LINE.

It often happens that the fuel line rests against some more or less sharp edge of the chassis. The vibration inevitable when the car is in motion causes a slight rubbing, which in time wears the piping through and a leak results. A break of this kind may be repaired by wrapping the pipe with soft wire for a couple of inches on each side of the leak and then thinning the whole over with solder. This not only cures the leak, but prevents further chafing.

PENNSYLVANIA CHECKERS.

[illegible] writes: "Erie [illegible] Banks had already given three exhibitions, when Jordan, Ginsberg, Reynolds and Ellis blew into the city. Ellis nearly captured the scalp of the Pennsylvania champion, Reynolds, by winning one side of the Switcher and drawing the other, but played some more games and lost his advantage. Jordan, Reynolds and Ginsberg played some simultaneous exhibitions at the Y.M.C.A., but the great event was a twenty-game match between Reynolds and Ginsberg, which was won by Reynolds by the score of 4 to 2 and 13 draws. Jordan also played a short six-game match with Ginsberg, winning 1 and drawing the other 5." The Jordan vs. Ginsberg games are given below.

PAIGE

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA

The Fastest Stock Car in the World

On January 21st the Paige Daytona Model 6-66 broke every stock car record for speed when it covered a measured mile in 35.01 seconds—a pace of 102.8 miles per hour.

This marvelous feat was accomplished on the sand beach at Daytona, Florida and both the time and chassis checking are officially attested by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

Today, therefore, Paige stands as the unquestioned stock car champion of the world. And, what is even more, the entire line of Paige 6-66 Models is revealed as the most important automotive development of the age.

Henceforth these cars must be recognized by the entire world as Speed Masters of the highway. There need never be humiliating dust for the 6-66 owner because he will drive with the serene confidence of the true champion—and his horn blast will be more than an idle boast.

If you would be convinced, take just one demonstration in a Paige 6-66 Model and judge it from the standpoints of power, speed, acceleration, spring suspension and general motor efficiency.

Get the facts—actual lapsed time of the tests—and make a record on the demonstration card furnished by our dealer.

Then, take a second demonstration in any other car—at any price—and compare the results. That is all we ask and it is all that any good sportsman could possibly desire.

And remember, please, when you ride in the 6-66 you are riding behind an exclusive Motor—a six cylinder power plant that you will find in the Paige and no other car in the world.

We repeat, take just one demonstration—and draw your own conclusions.

BILLY MARTIN SWINGS AGAIN.

Sets New Record for Putting Out Used Cars Fast.

Still Talking About Studebaker Round-Trip Run.

Eastern Optimism is Certainly Reflected Here.

Los Angeles motor car dealers returning from the New York and Chicago automobile shows have been unanimous in believing that the year 1921 will be a good one for the motor car industry, that 1922 will probably be better and that a steady, permanent growth is assured. All of them feel that the recent crisis in the automobile ranks was passed with flying colors and was an excellent and certain test of the permanency of the industry as a whole.

For many years there was a feeling that the motor car game, as it was then called, was just about what the name denoted and that it was a sort of mushroom growth that might soon pass away or explode. Now the biggest bankers and business men all over the country know that the motor car and truck industries are permanent, of tremendous and growing importance, and that they are to be considered as necessities and not luxuries.

UNITED FEELING.

This united feeling of optimism for the coming year in automobile ranks has already been justified in numerous instances along automobile row. January, usually supposed to be a dull month in automotive circles, has turned out to be a record breaker in several instances.

Billy Martin, used-car boss of the Paul G. Hoffman Company, apparently inspired by the coming speed classics at Beverly Hills, has stepped out and turned a few warm laps himself. January first Billy Martin had a heart-to-heart talk with the slaves out in his department, fed them up on some of his own special home brew probably, and then announced to the world that he was going to make used cars get down on the ground and crawl as they had never crawled before. On January 2nd several used cars were sold by the Paul G. Hoffman Company and at the end of the month it was discovered that Billy Martin had been indulging in no airy persiflage. Exactly eighty used automobiles had eased out of the Paul G. Hoffman portals during the month, smashing all records for the used-car department and giving the best of them a mark to shoot at.

STRANGLE HOLD.

All last week Billy Martin was reported to be studying Walter Miller and Bull Montana, the demon wrestlers, and it is believed that he is preparing to put a strangle hold or a head-scissors on the used-car situation for February.

"Our new car sales were remarkably good, also for the month of January," said Earl Carpenter of the Paul G. Hoffman Company last week. "While we did not smash any particular records we had a better January than ever before in the history of our business and indications point to a steadily increasing demand for Studebaker cars.

"The Studebaker light six is of course the center of interest on our salesroom floor," continued Mr. Carpenter. "The trip of the little Studebaker into the Yosemite Valley created all kinds of excitement and many people came in just to see one of the cars that bucked snow and mud and gained the honor of being first into the valley for the present year.

A FAST RUN.

"On top of this feat came the run of the same Studebaker from San Francisco to Los Angeles and return, carrying government mail and completing the round trip in twenty-one hours elapsed time. This fast run, which had never before been believed possible, certainly added to the interest in the light six. It demonstrated the fact that a light weight car can travel long distances in fast time, with absolute dependability. Formerly similar trips had been made by high-powered machines and it was generally believed that to do anything well you had to have hundreds and hundreds of cubic inches displacement under the hood. This run of the Studebaker, however, proved that light-weight automobiles are there in every respect of the word and that they are not behind any of them in performance.

"In Europe, of course, the light car has been the favorite for years. And now in America the tendency is growing—preference is being shown for a light, economical machine of proved excellence and with ability to do anything that the high-powered motors do and to do it many times cheaper. The Studebaker light six is such a car and the hundreds in the hands of owners are setting records every day that are just as satisfactory as the Yosemite trip or the fast round trip between San Francisco and Los Angeles."

Spend Eight Months Jumping Around the Continent.

D. Gerard Chessman of Chessman & Co., Haynes distributors in this territory, shaking hands with M. Sullivan, representative of the Scientific American of New York, on his arrival here after a journey lasting eight months and extending across the continent in a Haynes touring car. W. Sullivan, who accompanied his brother on the trip, is the figure in the middle.

SERVICE CHIEFS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION.

DISCOVERED THAT MODERN DUAL-VALVE ACCESSIBILITY CUTS TRUCK UPKEEP.

Owners and managers of big motor truck fleets were guests at the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company's factory at Buffalo last week when service managers of the factory's nation-wide chain of service stations held their annual convention. The fleet operators witnessed practical demonstrations of the manner in which the modern construction of Pierce-Arrow dual valve trucks has decreased maintenance costs.

"Our engineers have made Pierce-Arrow dual valve trucks so accessible that repairs are accomplished with an ease and facility heretofore unknown," said F. J. Wells, head of the Pierce-Arrow service organization. "Where hours or days are required to remove, tear down and rebuild units of other trucks, the same work is accomplished with almost unbelievable quickness in the case of Pierce-Arrow trucks.

"Proper design, quality materials and precise manufacture always have contributed to the reputation for economical maintenance which Pierce-Arrows have enjoyed from the first, but now, with the refinement of the chassis, an exclusive accessibility compels a downward revision of upkeep costs."

STEEL CAB SAVES 'EM IN PINCH.

Many Terrific Smashes but Driver Usually Manages to Survive.

Another incident wherein the all-steel cab with which Mack trucks are equipped was the means of saving the life of the driver has been reported to the Mack-International Motor Truck Corporation by W. J. C. Dundore, of the firm of Phillips & Dundore, general truckers. Mack trucks have gone off bridges, rolled down mountain grades and been struck by railroad trains and there are authentic records to prove that total destruction of the truck and the loss of lives of the drivers were prevented solely by the steel cab.

The accident in which Mr. Dondore was involved is the most recent to have happened in the vicinity of Los Angeles. Mr. Dundore was driving his two-ton truck loaded to capacity with cases of canned olives and pulling a trailer similarly loaded. When he was crossing the Pacific Electric right of way on Fries street, Wilmington, a Pacific Electric train bore down upon him so suddenly that collision could not be avoided. The train struck about midway between the truck and trailer with such impact that the trailer was torn loose and tossed aside. The heavy load on the truck was pushed forward against the steel cab of the Mack. The cab did not break nor come loose from its moorings, but was bent down and over Mr. Dundore, pinning him to the sterring wheel.

In telling about the accident Mr. Dundore said there is no question but that the steel cab of the truck saved his life. He was pinned so tightly against the wheel that it required the united strength of four men to bend the cab sufficiently to release him.

FULLEST MEANING OF WORD "SERVICE."

MORELAND MOTOR TRUCK COMPANY INSTALLS ABSOLUTELY NEW IDEA IN REPAIRS.

Automotive service in the fullest meaning of the term has two divisions, that of accessibility to, and speedy furnishing of necessary parts, and the actual mechanical replacement of the parts or repair work.

The Moreland Motor Truck Company has recently installed an idea in repairs which is absolutely new, so far as known, and is believed to be a distinct advance in repair service organization work.

"We have been constantly striving to perfect our service," says G. A. Dockery, superintendent of service for the company. "Through our new parts system we are enabled to cover our territory thoroughly and give to every owner any needed part with the least delay.

"In the matter of repair service we have installed a new idea in our Los Angeles branch shop which is working out splendidly along our aim to give customers the best work, in the least time and at a minimum price. This is both through the use of new machines and what we call the specializing of repairs. We have specialized both in men and machines. Our mechanics are specialized on units. They are not called upon to do every branch of repair work on a truck, but each is a specialist on certain units and attends to repairs on that particular unit."

IT'S EASY TO DO OWN OILING NOW.

Three out of every four automobile owners do at least a part of the necessary repair work and overhauling on their cars. Slight adjustments of the brakes, the carburetor or distributor are almost invariably made by the owner himself, and only a comparatively small number delegate the greasing of their cars to the garage man or the service station.

"One of the main reasons why more owners do not do a great deal of their own work, especially the filling of grease cups and the greasing of their springs, is because it is always more or less a dirty job and the old lubricant, with its content of finely ground up metal and dirt, grinds into the pores of the hands and is almost impossible to remove," says C. A. Roesch of the Alemite Lubricator Company.

"It was just that factor that led the Bassick Manufacturing Company to put their Alemite lubriating system on the market, for the system does away entirely with the messy grease cups, and besides it lubricates the wearing surfaces in much better shape, in a great deal less time and with less labor."

BOOK AGENT HAS LIFE OF EASE TODAY.

Motor Car Aids in Covering Territory with Extreme Ease and Dispatch.

Twenty years ago, when the automobile was more or less of a curiosity, the book or magazine publisher who wanted to extend the scope of his product, covering the entire United States perhaps, was compelled to rely entirely upon the agencies of the big cities, or the much maligned book agent, who traveled from place to place as best he may, oftentimes on foot, but usually by horse and buggy or bicycle. He reached a small percentage of the farmers, and if he devoted his entire energies to a single city, perhaps he might be able to cover the larger portion of its population within a year or two. The work required thousands of representatives and an office organization of great magnitude to care for their accounts and orders.

Today, with the automobile developed to a high degree of perfection, the same amount of territory can be covered much more rapidly and more thoroughly. As an instance of the wonderful development along these lines, two young men from New York City called on Chessman and Company, Haynes distributors, last week to report their experiences since leaving their home city last June in the interests of the Scientific American.

These two men, M. and W. Sullivan, brothers, are conducting an advertising and subscription campaign for their magazine, visiting the big industrial plants, universities and schools for that purpose. Driving a Haynes, model 34, six-cylinder, they left New York June 6 of last year, thence making brief stops at Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, back to Toledo, Dayton, Columbus, Indianapolis, Pittsburg, Terre Haute, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, El Dorado, Kan.; Oklahoma City, Amarillo, Tex., El Paso, Ft. Worth, Dallas, El Paso again, Deming, Douglas, Tucson, Nogales, Phoenix, Blythe, Mecca, Colton and Los Angeles. From the towns and cities mentioned they made a number of side trips to smaller towns.

TIRE PRODUCTION SIMPLY ENORMOUS.

ONE CASING TURNED OUT FOR EVERY FIFTH PERSON IN THE UNITED STATES.

One tire to every fifth person in the United States was made last year. In actual figures the number totaled over 23,400,000. Think of the enormous quantity of cotton and rubber that was consumed in the production of these tires.

"It would take an entire railroad and a fleet of steamers to haul the raw products that go into the manufacture of automobile tires," says C. J. Reynolds, sales manager for Nelson & Price, Hartford Tire distributors.

"The rubber-tire business, which was originally the outgrowth of the rubber goods industry, has assumed such proportions that the former activities of the makers have been lost sight of. Rubber companies besides making tires are turning out hot-water bottles, balloons, tubing, belting, shoe soles and a thousand other things, even to nursing bottle nipples.

"But the combined output on all these essentials has been put in the background by the greater volume of tire production."

WOLVERINE TRUCK REPRESENTED HERE.

The Braun-Stecker-Stevens, Inc., have recently been appointed western distributors for the Wolverine truck. This truck, which is manufactured in Detroit, is built in three sizes; one and a half, two and three and a half-ton models, and has a wide distribution throughout the United States. The following officers were elected: President, H. D. Braun; vice-president, W. G. Stecker; secretary, J. H. Stevens; treasurer, W. F. Johnson. Mr. Stecker, vice-president, formerly of Detroit, is well known in business circles as the founder of the Eureka vacuum cleaner. Mr. Stevens is an expert in truck transportation and is well versed in the science of truck cost and maintenance. The whole distribution is to be under the supervision of W. F. Johnson, and H. D. Braun will organize the retail sales staff in Los Angeles.

LICENSE BUG NOW BITING BIG CHIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 5.—Charles J. Chenu, superintendent of the State Motor Vehicle Department, has been bitten by the freak license bug. His hobby is to have his automobile license number correspond with the address of his home, which aids his friends in remembering where he resides.

Chenu's brother-in-law, C. C. DeMarais of Chico, got the fever from Chenu, and the other day his machine appeared with a 1921 license plate bearing a number corresponding to that of his home.

Steve Neal, inspector of the department, says Chenu chose the number to serve as a guide post in the event he suffers a lapse of memory during the license renewal rush.

In contrast to the scores of letters received by the department requesting special numbers, came one from a San Joaquin Valley motorists, which read as follows:

"I don't care whether it's seven-come-eleven, thirteen, twenty-three or three aces and a pair of kings. My mother-in-law won't die if I don't have the same number I had last year. But I would like to have the number as small as possible to save wear and tear on tires."

THE UNIVERSALS.

These are perhaps the most neglected parts of the mechanism, because they are generally the hardest to get at. The universals must be kept properly lubricated or they will develop intensive wear. When they have worn the universals emit a heavy thump each time the clutch is thrown in.

ESSEX

Holds this Double Advantage —Price and Quality

PERFORMANCE and quality establish comparisons. Thus it is natural that men rank the Essex with much costlier cars. But in addition we urge you to consider the Essex price, when you are measuring its ability and endurance against other cars.

It has shown speed up to 74 miles an hour. Its 3037 miles in 50 hours, averaging more than a mile a minute was never equalled. And think that four separate Essex cars broke the Trans-continental record, which scores of cars had attempted for five years in vain.

In appearance, detail, and reliability as well as price it commands preference of judicious buyers.

Pre-Heating Fuel Saves Money In Many Ways

Savings, direct and definite, are the result of the Chalmer's principle of pre-heating the fuel.

Much better combustion is secured, which saves gasoline. As the fuel is all consumed in the cylinders, none leaks by the pistons. This prevents crank case oil dilution.

Wear and tear on the motor is reduced. Replacement and repair costs are lessened. The Chalmers stays out of the repair shop. Maintenance bills are greatly lowered.

Endorsed by Experts

All these things have been definitely proven. The Chalmers pre-heating principle has been definitely endorsed by the United States Bureau of Standards and a committee of the Society of Automotive Engineers. These experts made exhaustive tests.

They found that pre-heating the fuel accomplished the things enumerated above.

Chalmers Owners Know

But they were only confirming what Chalmers owners have known for three years. These owners have learned for themselves that Chalmers upkeep is less and performance better because the fuel is heated before it enters the motor.

We welcome the opportunity to explain in person to motorists why the Chalmers is an exceptionally sound motor car investment.

ENAMELING PREVENTS RUST.

In order to do away with rusting of parts beneath the hood, black enameling may be resorted to with good effect. It is possible to get an enamel today which, when properly applied, looks little inferior to the baked variety. Ordinary enamels which dry quickly are of little use, as they chip and flake off quickly. Parts to be enameled [illegible] should be cleaned with a stiff wire brush. The [illegible] should be applied with a stiff varnish brush. FINDING TROUBLE.

A great many car owners in searching for trouble create more than they find. By that is meant that indiscriminate changing of adjustments often gets the operator further away from the seat of the trouble. The best piece of advice that can be offered the owner is first to be sure what the trouble is and then start to rectify it.

PAIGE UNCORKS ZIP IN TRIALS.

Sets New Stock-Car Record for a Mile Dash.

Literally Eats Up the Sand at Daytona Beach.

Fred Wagner Watches Buggy Burn the Breeze.

Following brief telegraphic report from the Paige factory to the [illegible] Evans Company, distributors of the car here, Frederick Wagner, official starter of the American Automobile Association, who arrived in Los Angeles last week in order to superintend the practice trials at Los Angeles Speedway, waxed eloquent in praise of the car and of Ralph Mulford's work in driving the new Paige 6-66 to a new world's stock-car record at Daytona Beach, Fla.

"[illegible] Wagner made a special trip to Florida in order to superintend the trials and took with him his electric timing device, which records automobile speeds in hundredths of a second and which was used in making the test, the time recorded being [illegible] seconds for the mile, or 102.8 miles an hour.

"The official trial was made on February 11 at 12:12 p.m., the car being a Paige 6-66 Daytona stock model with the famous racing driver, Ralph Mulford, at the wheel. The record made breaks all existing stock-car records regardless of piston displacement, and, checked, measured and timed by officials of the contest board of the A.A.A. is now the official stock car mark for the world. Wagner officiated as timer and F. E. Edwards as technical representative of the Three A.

The remarkable feature of the record made by the Paige is not alone the speed attained, although speeds of better than 100 miles an hour were undreamed of in the automobile world of ten years ago. The significant fact is that a car designed and built for the daily service of the average automobile owner should have in it, besides very desirable elements of dependability, the extra power and stamina to withstand, without any additional reinforcements, the tremendous additional strains attendant on a speed of almost two miles a minute.

BEARINGS AND OIL CLOSELY RELATED.

BOTH MUST BE FIRST CLASS IF MOTORIST IS TO GET BEST VALUE.

"Every motorist knows the importance of perfect bearings in his car. But not so many realize the importance of using good oil in their motors and yet in a way these two factions are very closely related in the long life and good performance of a car," is the opinion of A. A. Derry, manager of the Los Angeles Motor Supply House, Inc., distributors of Veedol products.

"The purpose of the roller or the ball bearing and the motor oil you use is to prevent friction between moving surfaces. The bearing must be of a quality of steel that is extremely wear-resisting, otherwise its life will be short and its efficiency quickly impaired.

"Poor grades of motor oil bear a resemblance to that of a bearing that wears rapidly. Such grades of oil, when exposed to the intense heat of the explosions of a gasoline motor, break down rapidly and quickly lose their lubricating qualities."

TO MAKE THEM ALL SATISFIED OWNERS.

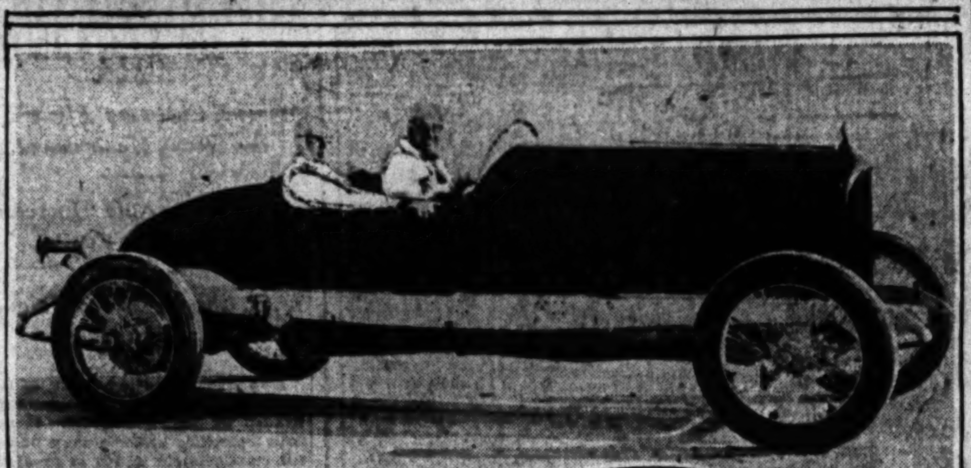
SERVICE DEPARTMENT TO SEE THAT ALL CARS ARE RUNNING IN GOOD STYLE.

In order to familiarize every Metz owner in Southern California with the policy of the Metz Motor Company, this concern is making a very broad and fair offer.

"We want every owner of a Metz car, pleased or dissatisfied, to come in and see us," says F. R. Howard, general manager of the Metz Motor Company, which concern has just secured the distribution for the Metz in all territory west of the Mississippi. "We are going to do something for them that has not been done by anyone before.

"Our service department will be at the disposal of Metz owners. Any and all reasonable adjustments will be made without any cost to the owner. We realize that a satisfied owner is the best booster and we want thousands of boosters to help us make the Metz the popular car that it deserves to be in this section of the country.

"We are confining our efforts to the upbuilding of the business in Los Angeles and Southern California. A complete sales and service organization has been formed, and we are out to make the Metz a winner. The factory at Waltham, Mass., is one of the soundest concerns in America. It has always made money. It has always turned out a good car. The buyer of a Metz is assured of a factory standing behind his car. It will never be an orphan. The New Englander is too careful of his reputation to allow poor quality and manufacturing competition to beat him out. There is pride in his works that makes the Yankee workmen more zealous over obtaining quality than the garnering of wealth alone."



Shattering World's Speed Records for Stock Motor Cars.

Here is the famous Paige 6-66, which burst suddenly into the limelight by breaking all stock-car records for speed at Daytona Beach recently. The car did a mile dash in considerably better than 100 miles per hour, which even our most reckless drivers will admit is rambling right along. Above, the Paige at Daytona Beach, and below, Ralph Mulford, who drove the machine on its speedy cruise.

Can You Call Motor Car a Luxury Now?

"The man who regards the automobile as a luxury cannot consistently ride in a Pullman car.

"People used to live without trains, doctors, telephones, electric lights or automobiles. Who says they are luxuries today. If by some trick of fate we were deprived of any one of those things the entire order of our lives would have to be changed. Business would be in a chaotic condition for years before people could become accustomed again to the old order." So said J. V. Baldwin, Saxon and Columbia distributor the other day in discussing the prospects for a good business year in 1921, and he illustrated his statement by pointing out the following pointed facts:

The automobile insures delivery of fresh food, free from harm by broiling sun and poisonous flies.

The nation's three great interdependent industries—steel, railroads and automobiles.

Fifty million citizens are made happier, healthier and better by the automobile.

The automobile does not promote waste, it reduces it.

Without automobiles city rents would quickly double.

Without automobiles many would have to abandon their suburban homes.

The automobile ceased to be a luxury and became a necessity fifteen years ago.

ALL-STATES' PICNIC AT ORANGE COUNTY.

Automobile tourists, that is, any tourists now in Southern California who own or can borrow an automobile, have been invited to participate in an all-States picnic next Saturday, Lincoln's birthday, at Orange County Park, near Orange. The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce is arranging the picnic and will provide free entertainment for all who come.

There will be State registration booths, plenty of tables and many cosy nooks among the oaks and sycamores for the picnic parties. Picnickers are asked to bring basket lunches, pails, cups and eating tools. Free coffee, milk and sugar will be furnished, and the entertainment program includes music, dancing, games, clowns, speeches, etc. The following Saturday, February 19, is set as the date for the picnic, if it should be raining on the 12th.

Hidden Values Seldom Thought of by Drivers.

"They say three generations make a gentleman," said "Lou" Warner, Southern California distributor for the Mitchell, adding, "a few generations are also necessary to make a good car."

"There are many unseen factors in the creation of quality, whether it is human quality or mechanical quality, whether it is in the rearing of a gentleman or in the building of a new Mitchell.

"Here let us point out some of our hidden values. For instance, the exceptional finish of crankshaft and camshaft, the accurate fitting of connecting rod, crankshaft, and camshaft bearings are accomplished by the expensive Martell reaming system developed during the war in the manufacture of Liberty engines and is famous for its accuracy.

"Mitchell was one of the first car manufacturers to install the expensive and famous Martell reaming system. It was a costly investment, but we realized that it was certain to replace old inaccurate ways.

"Few, if any, cars of the Mitchell price, offer such perfect bearings. The crankshaft and flywheel are balanced on the latest and most accurate balancing machines known, thereby reducing vibration to a minimum and prolonging the life of the bearings.

"These are merely some of the many fine-car practices found in Mitchell building. Many have been identified so far as exclusive on very high priced cars. But our policy and facilities make them possible on these lower priced Mitchells."

TRUCK DISTRIBUTORS GIVE REAL SERVICE.

MUST BE UP TO THE MINUTE IN THESE DAYS OF STRENUOUS COMPETITION.

As the motor truck efficiently and economically serves the merchant, manufacturer and contractor, so does the importance of service to the owner on the part of the truck distributor, have an important bearing. Accessibility to stocks of parts for replacements with a minimum of delay and availability of experts to care for any minor or major adjustments or overhauling which may be necessary from time to time, are vital factors in eliminating bothersome and expensive interruptions in service.

Such has been the lesson learned by the D. F. Poyer & Son Company, Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico distributors of Transport trucks, according to D. F. Poyer.

The establishment of a distributing plant in Los Angeles has been a decided factor in the rapid increase in the number of Transport truck owners and in the growth of fleets of these trucks. An ample supply of parts for the territory served by the local dealer means much to the truck operator in the way of keeping his equipment in perfect running order.

Supply and repair service has attained a high standard of efficiency under the management of Mr. Poyer and his son.

PISTON RINGS MUST BE EXACTLY RIGHT.

Fuel and oil economy in the operation of motor cars has become a vital question with the motoring public. Many motorists are becoming familiar with the importance of the improved piston ring, and its relation to the economical operation of their motor cars. Many a dollar has gone from the unfortunate motorist who drives a car equipped with poor piston rings, and this is in all probability the reason for the increase in the interest of the motoring public in piston rings of the proper type and design.

A specific case, and not an uncommon one, happened some few months ago, where a full set of Gill piston rings were installed in a motor which formerly had been very wasteful. Before the rings were installed the motor was producing only seventeen miles to the gallon of fuel, whereas, after the installation of Gill rings the motor produced twenty-six miles per gallon. Figuring on the present day cost of gasoline it would not take long for this motor to save the original cost of the Gill rings.

"Numerous cases just like the foregoing have been brought to my attention from time to time," said Mr. Monahan of the Gill Piston Ring and Sales Company, "and they simply bear out our desire to be of service to the motoring public."

Emerges from Obscurity in Record Style

The Essex is only two years old, but men have already paid $75,000,000 for it. This two years' campaign has been one of brilliant success. Nearly 50,000 Essex cars are in service.

Without a word to identify it as the product of the men who build the Hudson super-six, it emerged from the obscurity of an unknown car and thrust itself ahead by the force of unqualified merit, to the position of one of the most prominent cars in the world.

That these comments by Harold L. Arnold, distributor of Essex cars in California, are justified is indicated by the way Essex has held the public eye, as perhaps no other car ever has.

Mr. Arnold's further claim that Essex has the world's first year fine car selling record, is substantiated by the fact that 22,000 Essex cars were purchased by the public in the first twelve months, for which they paid $33,000,000. It is worth more than passing note to observe how many of these Essex owners formerly drove large and high-priced cars.

Select Master Carburetors as Standard Equipment.
A huge Moreland truck and trailer combination loaded to the guards with a twelve-ton load of flour. Insert shows Lyman P. Clark, sales manager of the Master Carburetor Company, and one of the instruments that is now regular equipment on this line of trucks.

MASTER CARBURETORS ON MORELAND TRUCKS.

HEAVY PER CENT OF GASOLINE WASTE IS SAVED IN THIS WAY.

The United States Bureau of Mines, working in co-operation with the New York and New Jersey Bridge and Tunnel Commission for the purpose of determining engineering facts in connection with the ventilation of tunnels, determined by exhaustive tests that for every gallon of gasoline used in motor cars 30 per cent is wasted through faulty carburetor adjustment, resulting in imperfect combustion.

"The bureau has given out the statement that fully 50 per cent of this amount could be saved by proper carburetor adjustment," said L. A. Hardie, secretary and treasurer of the Master Carburetor Company, with large distributing agencies throughout the East and Middle West.

"It is but a matter of time when large transportation companies will employ chemists to make tests of gasoline and exhaust gases, so that proper carburetor adjustment will be scientifically determined."

The Moreland Truck Company, after thorough tests and after submitting the matter to its distributors, decided upon the Master as the standard equipment for all its models. In making these tests, power and economy were fully considered, and particularly the latter quality, inasmuch as it was realized that through inefficient carburetion, a great deal of fuel is wasted. The Master is controlled from the dash.

TONNAGE AND SEATS BASIS FOR THIS TAX.

WOULD SOAK VEHICLES ACCORDING TO THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE CARRIED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 29.—All automobile busses and motor trucks used in the transportation of passengers and freight in California would be taxed according to their seating capacity or tonnage, under the terms of a bill introduced by Senator J. L. C. Irwin of Hanford.

The measure would provide a graduated tax worked out as follows:

For automobile busses with a seating capacity of less than six, $250 per year; less than ten, $500; less than fifteen, $750; not more than twenty, $1000; not more than twenty-five, $1250; not more than thirty, $1500; more than thirty, $2000.

For trucks of not more than two tons, $400 per year; not more than three tons, $600; not more than four tons, $800; not more than five tons, $1000; not more than six tons, $1200; not more than seven tons, $1400; not more than eight tons, $1600; eight tons or over, $2000.

FEBRUARY STARTS WITH BUYERS' RUSH.

H.C.S. DISTRIBUTOR EXPECTS A RECORD-BREAKING MONTH.

February has started out with somewhat of a buyers' rush, according to Harry E. Herndon, distributor for the H.C.S. Herndon states that he sold and delivered as many cars in the first five days of February as he did in all of January with one to spare.

"It looks like the buyers were coming to life at last," says Herndon. "Last week our show room was continuously filled with interested people. We were busy making many demonstrations and actual sales were made and cars delivered to a greater volume in the first five days of February than during all of January.

"The people have money and their old cars are wearing out. They want new cars and they are going to have them. Now that the H.C.L. is breathing its last the public is more confident of its bread and butter and they are ready to invest in a good motor car that has the possibilities of giving service and comfort.

"Eastern industrial centers are assuming normal working conditions. A review of the registrations of motor cars in California bares the information that sales during January were but slightly less than during the same month last year. This proves the opinion that business is here, but it is going to take harder work to get one's share of it. Good makes will make sales and the wildcats that sprung up over night will fall by the wayside."

It is possible to cut the little wooden separators used in the storage battery by means of one of the trimming boards that almost any office has. This board comprises a knife with a handle, the forward end of the knife being riveted to the board, so that it can be lifted and lowered. Absolute accuracy can be achieved in cutting the thin slivers of board with this device.

TRAP GUN AND ROD

TRAP GUN AND ROD

BY TOM MARSHALL

[This is the seventieth of a series of articles dealing with trapshooting, hunting and fishing by Capt. Tom Marshall, a noted authority on the great out-of-doors.]

Dean of the trapshooting world, Dan Bray of Columbus, Neb., is known to every trigger-tickling fan. He is a character met but once in a lifetime; has a personality of his own, directly foreign to the kid-gloved, high-browed genus homo of the present generation. His decided views on honesty and the conscientious manner in which he trails that belief is his one religion. Upon his arrival in Nebraska he was made welcome by herds of buffalo and assorted tribes of red men, the latter later became his fast friends. Contentedly remaining in Nebraska he has become wealthy, by extensive increase in land values. For the past half-century his diversion has been wing shooting, at the trap and afield. Educated to shoot at a time when live birds were the only targets; he has finally drifted over to the crushing of inanimate clays, consistently breaking those tar hawks at every meet he attends.

LIKES THE OPEN.

For the past forty years Dan has been my friend. In this interim we have divided some substantial trapshooting purses. Living in an excellent game country, he has ever been a devotee of the open; his greatest pleasure in life has been the entertainment of friends, who could be persuaded to "pull on his latch string," incidentally joining him in a Nebraska hunt. His home is three miles north of Columbus, Neb., one-half mile back from the Loupe River, a deep treacherous stream—the annual flyway for migratory birds from time immemorial. North, South and Middle Loupe rivers converge about forty miles above the home of Bray. Birds coming out of the North first aggregate in the Sand Hill country, following down the Loupe to its confluence with the Platte.

At the time of my first hunt with Dan, about thirty-five years since, fences were nonessential, wagon trails indistinctly marked, hunting parties few and far between—strictly a territory of ranches, range cattle having been driven in from western plains. On this trip we were in quest of prairie chicken. Immense flocks were located in every direction, specializing on bunch grass hides—a bunch could be jumped from almost any cover. The bag limit was regulated by the amount of ammunition, means of transportation, one's conscience, or number of obliging friends who would accept a brace as a gift when properly urged. We hunted in a "democrat wagon," with bed of unusual length to accommodate his dogs, Frank and Duck—as good a pair of pointers as ever covered a field or located a bird. Dan had devoted much time to their training and was especially proud of his success. They were excellent rangers, covering a great deal of ground in all directions. As locating and backing experts, they held the palm.

Question: In talking with an old-time hunter, he advised me that moose, elk and deer dropped their antlers every year, replacing same by a rapid growth during the summer season. I can't believe this to be true. Why don't cattle, goats and sheep shed their horns just the same? RONALD McGUIRE.

Answer: Moose, elk and deer annually shed their horns during the months of February and March. A new set is started and remain in the "velvet" for a period of about twelve weeks, during which interim they are continuously growing and taking shape. They then commence to gradually ossify, which is of about four weeks' duration. From the time the antlers are dropped to the ultimate ossification requires a period of about sixteen weeks. Horns are frequently found, but seldom together of pairs. The animal rubs them off against trees or rocks, several days intervening between the dropping of the antlers, at which time they rode a considerable distance, unless confined in parks or limited enclosures, when the pair of ossified decorations are sometimes secured. They are found in and around the national parks (Yellowstone) in such numbers that fences are constructed of elk horns. Several of them may be found in Livingston. Just why domestic animals do not specialize on shedding their horns, I am at a loss to say. You will have to consult Dame Nature along those lines.

Q.: What has become of Annie Oakley, who shot with the Buffalo Bill show? RANDOLPH KLINE.

A.: Annie is now teaching the art of shooting to guests who visit Pinehurst, N. C. She has an intensely interested class, and Annie is able to demonstrate her former prowess and skill with the scatter gun, which entertained millions during her extended engagement with the Buffalo Bill Wild West shows.

ELECTRIC TRUCKS FOR SHORT HAULS.

LARGEST COMPANIES ARE ADOPTING THIS SYSTEM OF TRANSPORTATION.

The delivering and transportation end of any business which is large enough to operate a fleet of trucks or horses, find that in any way they can save in this department means more profits and better satisfied customers. It is a fact transportation experts in the East, whose hauls do not exceed forty to fifty miles per day, have chosen the electric truck to do this work.

Mr. James J. Canavan, distributor of the Walker balanced drive electric truck in the West, has received a communication from Cushman Company of New York, in which they stated that after a long experience with horses and gasoline trucks, they placed an initial order for fourteen Walker electric trucks about eighteen months ago. Since then they have placed seven repeat orders, which brings their fleet to a total of 107 Walker trucks. They claim that two Walker one-ton trucks replace and do the work of five horse-drawn wagons.

The reorganization plan of the Maxwell - Chalmers Company, headed by W. P. Chrysler, is now fully operative under a very powerful management, and it is predicted for this new and strong organization with $15,000,000 additional capital, increased manufacturing and sales operations of a very great magnitude.

"During the process of rebuilding and strengthening the organization, which has been under Mr. Chrysler's direction since last fall, things have been accomplished that approach a manufacturing and merchandising miracle," said P. H. Greer of the Greer-Robbins Company, Chalmers distributors. "Plant improvement has been wrought in many directions. Additions have been made, also eliminations, and everything has been done that modern manufacturing experience points to as improving both the plant operations and the finished product.

"All of this has been the result of a long shrewd look into the future of the motor-car industry. Physical fundamentals and details have been placed on a basis adequate not only for the coming year's requirements, but for those of years to come.

"Under the immediate direction of Mr. Chrysler, recognized as one of the greatest leaders the automotive industry has ever known, Chalmers standards will be maintained on that high plane with which the car has ever been identified. This fact has been emphatically given out by Mr. Chrysler."

THE BEST WATER.

Do not forget that the very best water with which to fill up the cooling system is rain water or water made by melting snow. This is what is known as "soft water," which means that it is free from mineral constituents, which are deposited on the pipes and jackets from ordinary water.

HOT PLUGS.

In replacing spark plugs in hot cylinders they should not be screwed up too tightly or difficulty will later be experienced in attempting to remove them, due to contraction.

GEORGE CAMPE TAKES DANIELS.

Will Handle Distribution for Pacific Coast.

Plan to Make High-Grade Car One of the Most Popular.

Local Headquarters Expect Record-Breaking Season.

Increased interest has been manifested in the Daniels motor car since the distribution for the Pacific Coast was taken over by George Campe. For two years the Daniels has held a prominent place in the high-grade car line in Southern California, but with the new distributors in full swing it promises to take a position second to none.

For years Mr. George Campe has been identified with the automobile industry in California. Two years ago he took over the Daniels line in Northern California and since then the machine has become one of the best known in the north. Mr. Campe has long been connected with various enterprises in California and his entrance into the Southern California automobile field has been welcomed enthusastically.

The Daniels headquarters at Twenty-second and Figueroa street are complete in every respect, both as to sales and service departments. The display rooms are among the most attractive in the city and complete facilities for all repairs and service are contained in the rear of the building.

Already Mr. Campe has perfected plans for the distribution of the Daniels throughout the Pacific Coast. Main distributing points will be located at Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland. Agencies are being established in the principle cities of the Coast. Mr. Campe's headquarters will probably be in San Francisco.

The splendid chassis of the Daniels mtor car is already well known wherever automobiles are sold. But the feature of greatest interest in the machine is the fact that all bodies are custom-built. Special attention is paid to each owner's idea on body construction.

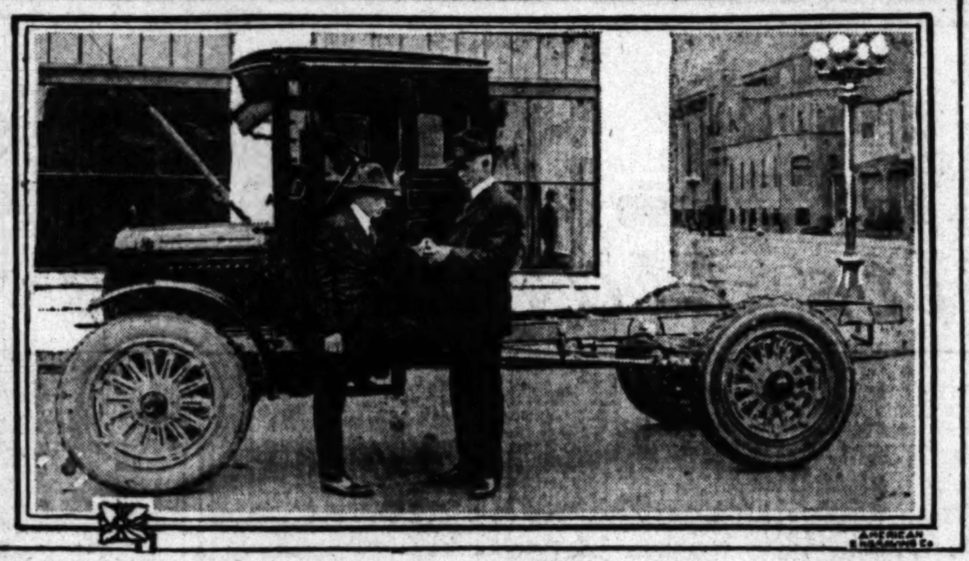
Mr. George E. Daniels, president of the Daniels Motor Company, has been identified with the automobile industry since its inception. For many years he was associated with the General Motors and was a member with Mr. Henry M. Leland, W. C. Durant and others of the manufacturing board of that firm, who outlined the general manufacturing policy of all its products. His experience has been most thorough.

Reo Statement Shows Things in Great Shape.

Not a little interest was created in the automobile and the financial world by the latest financial statement of the Reo Motor Car Company which showed a surplus in the treasury of almost ten million dollars, $9,747,309, to be exact, and a capitalization of $10,000,000 authorized, of which only $6,937,350 has been issued. A statement from R. H. Scott, general manager of the Reo Motor Car Company, revealed some of the reasons for this showing.

"The more than $9,000,000 surplus in the treasury is the accumulation of years, and not a single year's profits," said Mr. Scott in the course of a recent interview. "If you check the total volume of our last year's business against our profits, you will see that there is only a little over 10 per cent profit to the Reo company on the products it manufactures. Certainly that is not profiteering and it will come as a surprise to many buyers of motor cars that the margin of profit on Reo products is so small.

"Our surplus and our capital stock issue represent our idea of properly financing our business, making it safe against not only the ordinary demands of business, but against emergencies and unforeseen conditions such as we have recently passed through. Our last offering of Reo treasury stock was in 1904, when the Reo Motor Car Company was organized, and we have consistently withheld from the all-too-common practice in industry of increasing the capital stock after a period of apparent prosperity.



Transport Trucks Now Established in New Quarters.

D. F. Poyer and his son, L. P. Poyer, with one of the newest Transport models in front of the recently completed headquarters at Sixth and San Julian streets. Special care has been paid to the service and repair departments of the new building as well as sales and office rooms.

To Send Custom Built Cars for Northern Show

Three distinctively new Don Lee custom built models are now being completed in the shops of the Don Lee Coach and Body Works, and will be shipped within the next two days for exhibition in the annual San Francisco Automobile Show.

The new models are a two-passenger coupe, a two-passenger roadster and a four-passenger town car. Each model is of an exclusive design, incorporating many new features. The two-passenger coupe is built to fill the want of a small inclosed car of the roadster type. The roadster is a similar model to the coupe without the cab feature. The town car is characterized by the division between the driver's seat and the passenger compartment. The top is of the rounded design and is beautifully upholstered in broadcloth to harmonize with the exterior finish. In addition to these three models there will also be a Don Lee custom built club coupe and a Don Lee four-passenger open car on exhibition.

The Don Lee cars were the big sensation in the Oakland Automobile Show last week, four custom models being exhibited. Among these was the new seven-passenger sedan.

Don Lee custom built bodies were even a greater hit this year in the Milwaukee and Kansas City shows.

Simultaneously to the opening of the San Francisco Automobile Show Don Lee will move into his new building in San Francisco, which provides floor space of 216,000 square feet, exclusive of 24,000 available feet on the roof. This building will be devoted exclusively to motor car service.

GENUINE PARTS ARE ON DECK AT PRESENT.

NO REASON NOW FOR USING INFERIOR ARTICLES ON REPAIR JOBS.

In former years it was not always possible for the garage or repair man to obtain genuine parts for replacements, because there were very few branch service stations where they could go to obtain the standard. But nowadays they are always able to get the genuine. Take, for example, the Colyear Motor Sales Company, factory branch for Continental motors and parts. Here the repair man can always obtain standard units and without delay.

"It is a known fact that the automobile owner invariably blames the repair man when a job goes back on him. This is liable to lose the repair man the good will of the customer, which in turn means losing other customers, and if another part has to be installed, the extra cost of that part," says A. T. Neeley, sales manager of the Colyear Motor Sales Company, distributors of Continental motors and their parts.

Buick Clambers to the Top of Mt. Hamilton

Just as Mt. Baldy stands out in bold relief against the skyline in Southern California, with its snow-capped summit, so does Mt. Hamilton in Northern California, when the storm king sees fit to place a mantle of white upon the great dome of the Lick Observatory and the surrounding country. However, while it is a common sight to see Mt. Baldy topped with snow, it is a rare thing to have snow fall to any great depth on Mt. Hamilton.

And that is why the recent trip of a Buick touring car over muddy and snow-blocked roads to the summit of Mt. Hamilton once more stamps the new 1921 model as one of the most powerful and reliable automobiles in the market today.

In a raging snowstorm over the tortuous road which ascends from the floor of Santa Clara Valley to the top of the mountain, a 1921 Buick touring car blazed the trail for other machines. Under ordinary driving conditions this trip taxes the power and roadability of all automobiles, as there is a turn for every day in the year in the final climb to the summit, mostly of the hairpin variety. In making these 365 twists and turns through snow averaging two feet in depth and over roads which were deep with mud under the covering of snow, the Buick never faltered, but kept up its steady pulling and safely landed its load of five passengers at the door of Lick Observatory.

LEACH SURPRISE IS SOON TO BE SPRUNG.

FACTORY OFFICIALS CLAIM THAT HIGH-CLASS INFORMATION IS EN ROUTE.

The news has leaked out of the Leach factory that the big surprise promised some time ago, is fast assuming real proportions. Nothing can be gleaned directly from anyone in authority and the workmen have been pledged to silence.

However, the enthusiasm of some of those on the inside has caused a few remarks to be dropped at random and by picking up the shreds of these remarks the public is apprised of the information that the greatest announcement in Pacific Coast motor manufacturing circles will be sprung shortly.

"We have heard all sorts of things of late," says E. O. Holley, of the Holly Motor Sales Company, distributors for the Leach, "but we are not in a position to divulge the real secret at this time. We are sitting back waiting. There is sufficient interest in the popular Leach cars of today and the secret will only serve to focus more attention on the present models.

"I will say though that the surprise will be a real one and it is going to make the motor connisseur sit up and take notice."

"HOWDY" WILCOX IN FRENCH GRAND PRIX.

INTERNATIONAL STEPPER TO ENDEAVOR TO SNATCH FAMOUS OVERSEAS CLASSIC.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 12.—When the famous Grand Prix road race for the automobile supremacy of France is staged over the roads near Strasbourg in July there will be entered at least one driver who showed his tires to the crack pilots of two continents in an international 500-mile race over the famous Indianapolis Motor Speedway course.

He will be "Howdy" Wilcox of Indianapolis, who scampered across the finish line a winner in the Indianapolis race in 1919. "Howdy" was driving a Peugeot and he will pilot a Peugeot in hte Grand Prix.

Wilcox has also been named to drive a Peugeot in the 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 30. It is said he may captain the French Peugeot team in case Jules Goux decides to remain overseas to prepare the Peugeot cars for the French Grand Prix. According to Wilcox, two Peugeots will be entered in the Indianapolis classic and as soon as the race is over he will go immediately to France and prepare for the historic French race.

THINKS HE HOLDS A DRIVING RECORD.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12.—J. R. Jones, 86 years old, a Yolo county farmer, has driven his automobile 12,554 miles in the last twelve months, which would be some record for a youngster. He believes he is the oldest motor-car pilot in the country to have covered so much ground in a like period of time.

Buying his first machine in 1911 Jones has owned a car ever since and has been an enthusiastic motorist. He believes the good health he has enjoyed in the past few years is largely due to the automobile.

Jones resides on his ranch at Madison, but is interested in farming land in other parts of the county. His daily routine of business carries him to all parts of the county, and frequently to Sacramento.

Complete List of Officials in Dodge Plant.

Announcement of the election of Frederick J. Haynes as president and general manager of Dodge Brothers, which was made in New York last week, is now followed by a complete list of new directors and chief executives. Arthur T. Waterfall is made vice-president and assistant general manager, Harry Popeney secretary of the corporation, and Reginald J. Fry assistant secretary. Charles W. Matheson has been advanced to the position of general sales manager. Howard B. Bloomer is made chairman of the new board of directors. The other directors are Frederick J. Haynes, Arthur T. Waterfall and John Ballantyne.

Mr. Haynes's association with the two Dodge brothers covers a period of over twenty-one years. During this time he was not only chief executive of their great business, but was also a close personal friend. By reason of this long association there is no one more familiar with their aims and principles, or more admirably qualified to carry on their work. Immediately after the death of Mr. John Dodge, a year ago, Mr. Haynes was elected vice-president and general manager, and has been the active head of the business during the long illness of the late Horace E. Dodge. It was Mr. Dodge's request, just before his death, that Mr. Haynes be elected to the presidency of the institution. His election, therefore, comes as no surprise to those familiar with the implicit confidence which the two Dodge brothers placed in his ability as a manufacturer and chief executive.

Mr. Waterfall was for many years superintendent of the Russell Wheel and Foundry Company of Detroit, and later vice-president and director of traffic for the Detroit Board of Commerce. In the latter position he gained national prominence as an authority on transportation matters. While Mr. Waterfall is generally known as a traffic expert, he has had a long training in the more general executive duties required of a man in his present important position, with an intimate knowledge of all questions attending the operation of a great industry.

NEW DEVICE ADDS TO BATTERY LIFE.

LIGHT FLASHES WHEN THERE IS SLIGHTEST DANGER OF OVERCHARGING.

A small device known as the "Rescue" Battery Temperature Controller, has been invented which is designed to overcome battery troubles. It is located on the steering column under the wheel and immediately the battery reaches the danger point, it flashes a small red bulb. The driver then reaches forward, moves a small switch. The red light goes out, a green light comes on.

This operation relieves the battery charge by ten amperes, thereby eliminating all danger of damage from overcharging, all guess-work and the necessity of burning headlights in daytime. "Rescue" enables one to charge his battery up to a maximum at all times, thereby preventing an overcharge.

To get the best results from a battery, it should be kept at a normal charge and this can safely be done with "Rescue" in use as it is always "on the job" and will not fail to give instant warning of impending danger.

DISCOVERS A TOWN RIGHT IN AMERICA.

L. J. BURRUD FINDS A CITY IN UTAH THAT'S PRACTICALLY UNHEARD OF.

Christopher Columbus discovered this entire isolated continent in days when discoveries were the vogue. Since then our crews of discovery-bent adventurists have placed the flag on their respective countries in every part of our little world. Today a discovery is something more—it is a miracle.

"L. J. Burrud of scenic pictorial fame has just discovered the most isolated city in the United States. Traveling in his Leach he wandered far from the beaten paths in search of scenic film plunder," says E. O. Holly, distributor for the Leach.

"On one of his recent pilgrimages in the wilds he found the town of Kanab in Utah and Kanab is farther off the railroad and the beaten path of travel than any town in the country.

"Utah, with all her natural parks, is attracting the lover of the primeval. Some of the beauties of that State have not as yet been set as a feast for the eyes of man. Zion Canyon is now becoming nationally famous. Burrud and his faithful camera have done much to popularize it on the screen. The North Rim of the Grand Canyon, the Cedar Breaks and Bryce Canyon are places to which Burrud has piloted his Leach.

"Wherever Burrud goes you'll see his Leach and his camera. He swears by both of them. According to his remarks he had discovered many a spot upon which no motor car was ever driven until he piloted the Leach there."

TROUBLE COMES FROM BENEATH.

Engineers All Interested in State Highway Report.

Believe Future Roads Will be Built Correctly.

Poor Foundations Responsible for Much Damage.

Probably no report of equal importance to the taxpayers of California has been made public in recent years as the recent one revealing causes and conditions of the State highways. This report resulted from a survey of several months, being made by qualified engineers whose services were obtained through the automobile clubs of the State. Many who have read the report carefully were astounded by the revelations.

The present Legislature will consider the enactment of a new motor vehicle law. For that reason the results of this survey being made public at this time, no doubt, will have a marked influence. Operators of motor trucks have been particularly interested in the contents of the report for a number of reasons. Naturally, as taxpayers, they are desirous of seeing the State get the best type of highway for the money expended and because motor trucks so often have been accused falsely of being the sole cause of damage done the highways, the report will prove very enlightening to the general public.

"Dealers, owners, operators, shippers and all that part of the public that depends in any way upon motor freight transportation are impressed by the fair-minded attitude with which the relation between roads and motor trucks was viewed by the engineers who made the survey," said a representative of the Mack-International Motor Truck Corporation, distributors of Mack trucks.

"It has been contended by those who have given the subject an unbiased study that if necessary for California, because of financial conditions, in the past, it would have been better to have built more durable highways in preference to such extensive mileage. The four-inch roads of this State are known to be little more than a veneered surface bound to warp, break and disintegrate in time. Many miles of this type of highways have gone to pieces without there being even a normal traffic demand. When the report says subsoil conditions were not given proper study and analysis it puts the stamp of approval upon the contention of motor trucking interests, that in many instances road destruction emanates from sources below the surface of the highway rather than from above."

MAXWELL STANDS ON REAR SPRINGS.

Standing a Maxwell on it's rear springs is the way one young man of San Diego proved his claim that nothing is too steep for Maxwell prowess.

"It isn't a question of the gradient," said this young man," but rather a matter of holding the wheels down. Wherever the Maxwell can get traction there will it go. Nothing in my opinion equals the Maxwell as a hill-climbing champion."

BATTERY LIFTER.

An admirable lifter for use in raising the battery out of the car may be made by having what are known as harness snaps riveted on the ends of a leather strap, perhaps an inch wide and a little longer than the battery. When this is snapped into place it makes a convenient handle for juggling the battery around.

NEW MOTOR FUEL TO MAKE ITS BOW.

"ALCOLINE" HITS THE MARKET AFTER MANY MONTHS OF EXPERIMENTING.

Next to perpetual motion, probably nothing else has received more attention from cranks, inventors and get-rich-quick promoters than finding a substitute for gasoline, and most of the results have been just about as satisfactory as the mountain-high heap of discarded perpetual motion machines.

There is, many hold, one great substitute, and that is alcohol, though in reality alcohol is not a substitute, but is actually held to be a better motor fuel than gasoline. Public prejudice, government restrictions and taxes have kept alcohol out of the running, notwithstanding that government tests show it to be an excellent fuel.

One of the largest industries on the Pacific Coast, the Mason By-Products Company, has announced its success, after many months of experimenting, in developing an entirely new fuel, using denatured alcohol and ether, the latter being one of the greatest motor fuels known to science. This new fuel they have given the trade name "Alcoline," and are now preparing to market it in a large way, not as a substitute, but rather as an accelerator or booster. By adding a small amount to gasoline, this new fuel is held to increase the power and speed, to give greater mileage, prevent and remove carbon and to make starting very much easier.

Stop Guessing About the Condition of Your Battery
Install RESCUE and Know

HAVE you ever been told that you would have to buy a new battery for your car when you perhaps thought that your present one was in good condition? And no doubt it was rather a surprise when the battery man told you that overheating had caused the damage.

An overcharge—a rapid and steady charging of an undercharged or starved battery or neglect to keep your battery properly filled with distilled water, are some of the causes of Overheating—the one thing that causes 90% of all automobile storage batteries to become ruined before they have served their full intended life.

Without RESCUE attached to your car of course you had no way of actually knowing just what the condition of your battery was. It was purely guess work. Now you can stop guessing. RESCUE not only flashes a signal but allows you a chance to prevent the ruination of your battery from overheating—and it is the only device on the market that does these things.

Let your dealer, garageman or battery service man install RESCUE on your car today. The price is only $15.00.

You can see RESCUE demonstrated at our Los Angeles Branch, or if you prefer, write for our booklet "What Would You Do If This Happened To You?" giving name of your dealer.

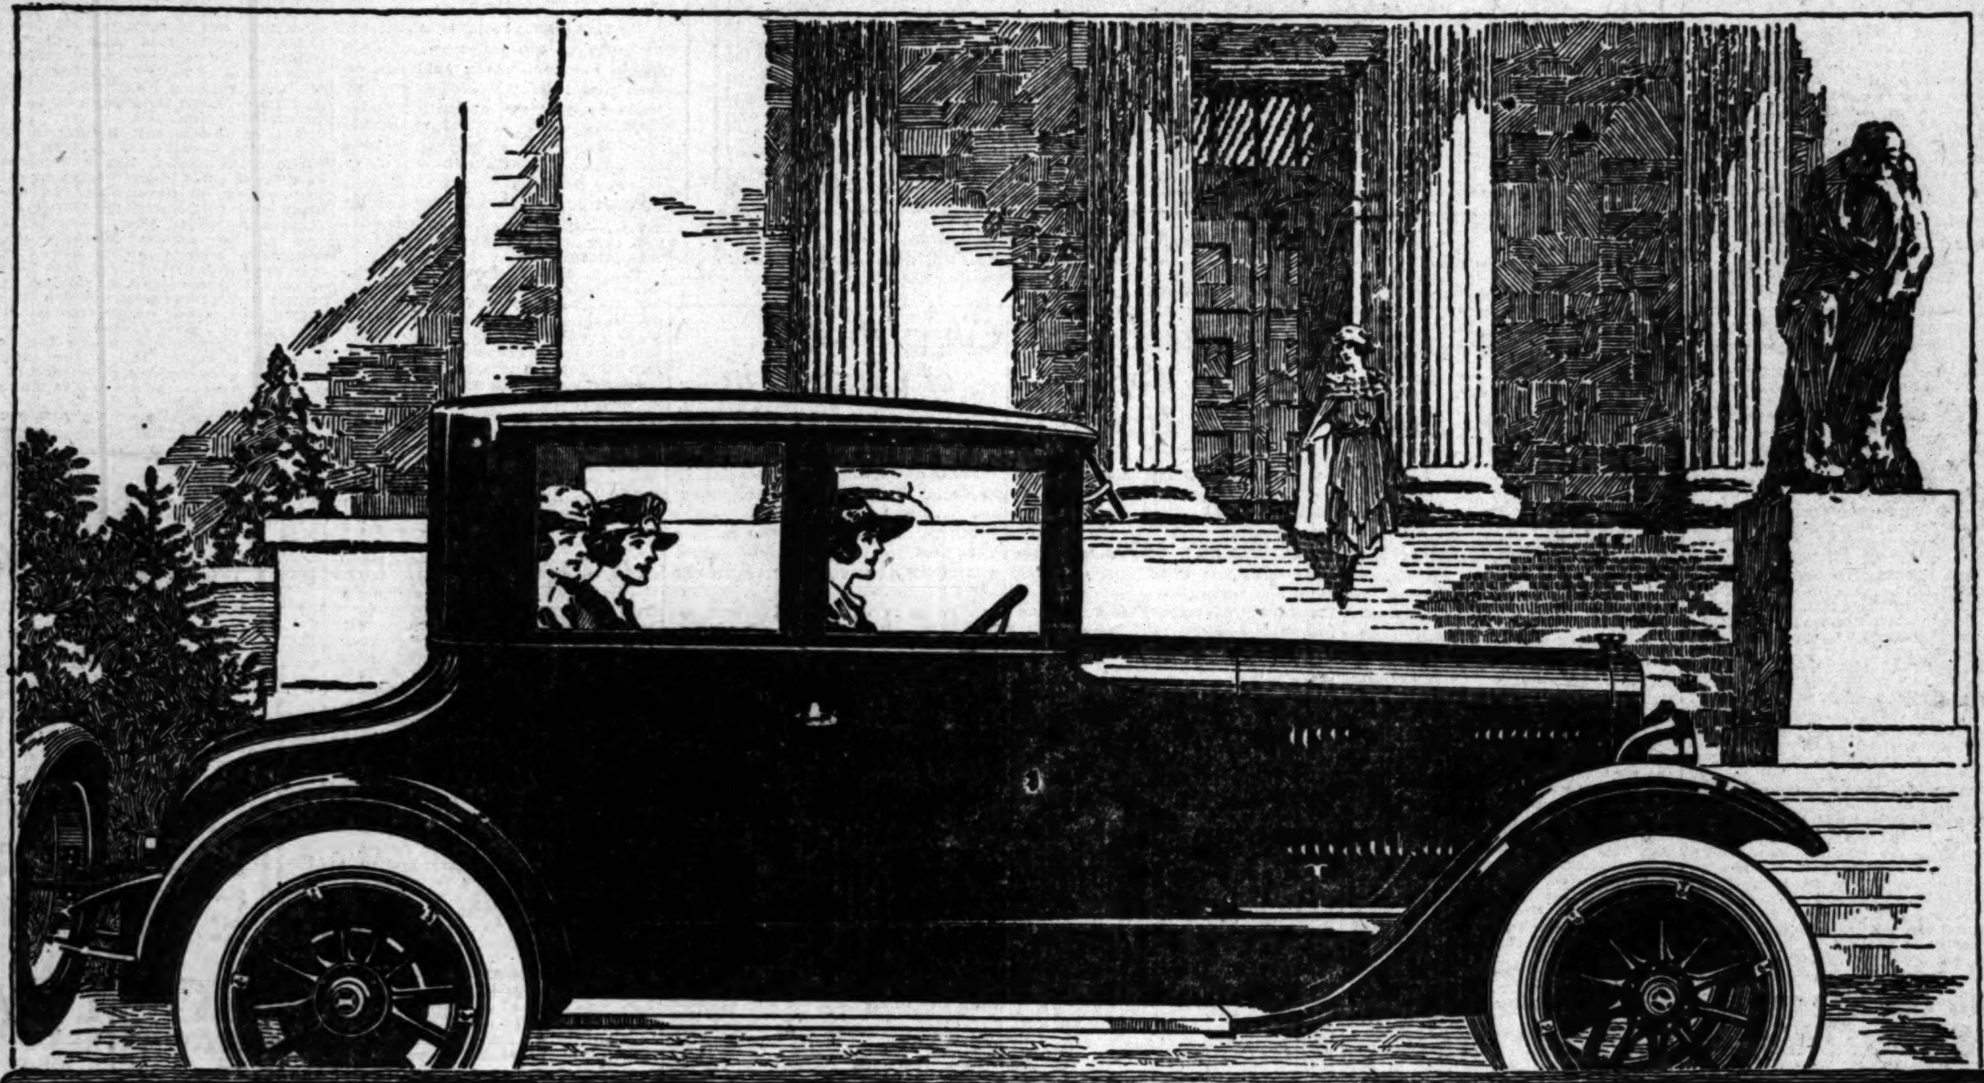
CHANDLER SIX

Famous For Its Marvelous Motor



The Chandler Still Leads for High Quality at Low Price

Entering the 1921 season, the Chandler Six holds its position of leadership just as distinctly as in the past, or even more distinctly. Eight years of service to Chandler owners, a hundred thousand of them now, have proved Chandler worthiness. The one Chandler motor, developed and refined throughout these eight years, stands out notably among sixes. And the known Chandler policy of best quality at lowest price is exemplified in the Chandler car of today.

A Car That Lives And Multiplies Its Friends

Standing back of this car, and responsible for its superiority, is one of the notably strong organizations of the motor car industry. An organization whose purpose has always been to build a car that shall live and multiply its friendships.

You will find an uncommon degree of satisfaction in the ownership of a Chandler car, a car that will take you wherever you want to go whenever you want to go, and take you comfortably.

You will feel an unusual sense of pleasure in the performance of the motor under your control, its quickly responsive power which conquers the hills on high, which takes you on the open roadway at such speed as you may wish and, in crowded city traffic, throttles down to a creeping pace. It has been justly called the marvelous motor.

Seven handsome types of body are mounted on the one standard Chandler chassis, all of them roomy and comfortable, splendidly upholstered and with lustrous finish. Some one of them will meet your requirements.

CHENEY SILKS

In terms of Cheney Twill and Crêpe Chenette, a smart party frock expresses the loveliness of a rose.

SMART FABRICS INSPIRE SPRING FROCKS

AN IDEA, no less charming in effect than it is novel in conception, appears in the smart frocks of newly-patterned Cheney Silks for Spring. The idea is to develop the design of the frock from the same motif which inspired the design of the silk. If, for instance, the silk be scattered with roses, the rose motif may be carried out in the frock with results quite as charming as in the model illustrated, where petal-shaped panels are arranged, over a foundation of Crêpe Chenette, pointed and picot-edged to simulate rose-leaves. An unusual effect is achieved in the girdle; and the tiny sleeves, too, suggest petals. The sash is of Crepe Chenette.

Stores with a reputation for fine merchandise will be quite sure to sell Cheney Silks, either by the yard or in garments ready to wear.

OH GEE! I CAN'T GO OUT— IT'S RAINING AND EVERYTHING— NOTHING TO DO—
YOU OUGHT TO BE GLAD THAT YOU DON'T HAVE TO GO OUT ON A DAY LIKE THIS— HAPPY THAT YOU'VE GOT A COMFY LITTLE HOME THAT YOU CAN SIT IN AND LISTEN TO THE RAIN PATTERING ON THE ROOF—
THERE ARE A LOT OF LITTLE CHILDREN WHO HAVE TO GO OUT ON A DAY LIKE THIS WHO WOULD LOVE TO STAY AT HOME— THEY HAVE TO WORK—
I KNOW— BUT I'VE GOT NOTHING TO PLAY WITH—
WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH YOUR BLOCKS? GET THEM AND BUILD HOUSES AND SPELL WORDS—
I'VE BUILT EVERYTHING I KNOW AND I'VE SPELLED EVERY WORD—
GET YOUR DICTIONARY THEN AND SEE HOW MANY WORDS YOU HAVEN'T SPELLED— WHERE'S YOUR ROCKING HORSE? PLAY WITH THAT A WHILE—
I'M TIRED OF THAT ROCKIN' HORSE ALL YOU CAN DO IS JUST ROCK UP AND DOWN—
WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH YOUR PAINTS THAT GRANDMA SENT YOU FOR CHRISTMAS?— WITH THOSE PICTURES OF HOUSES AND ANIMALS— WHY DON'T YOU COLOR THOSE UP?
I COLORED A LOT OF THOSE—
OH NOW CHESTER— DADDY'S TIRED— LET HIM READ AWHILE— YOU PLAY WITH YOUR ENGINE— GET OUT THAT TRAIN OF CARS—
WILL YOU READ MY ROBINSON CRUSOE FOR ME—
OH THEY'RE ALL BROKE UP— THEY RUN OFF THE TRACK— THE WHEELS ARE OFF THE ENGINE IT WON'T RUN ANY MORE—
YOU'VE GOT A LOT OF INTERESTING GAMES— GET THAT PIGS IN THE CLOVER THAT YOUR UNCLE EMIL GAVE YOU—
OH I CAN'T DO THAT— I'M TIRED OF TRYING— I WANT TO HEAR ABOUT ROBINSON CRUSOE—
NOW! CHESTER— BIG MEN NEVER SAY CAN'T— YOU HAVE TOO MANY THINGS— IT JUST BEWILDERS YOU— YOU'VE GOT TOO MANY TOYS TO APPRECIATE THEM—
DO YOU KNOW SOME POOR LITTLE CHILDREN JUST HAVE ONE TOY AND PLAY WITH IT ALL DAY LONG— I KNOW A LITTLE GIRL WHO HAD A RAG DOLL AND SHE NEVER TIRED OF IT— SHE CALLED IT RUTHIE AND USED TO NURSE IT— PLAY IT WAS SICK AND FEED IT LITTLE CANDY PILLS— PRETEND SHE TELEPHONED FOR THE DOCTOR— YOU DON'T TRY TO AMUSE YOURSELF— YOU'VE GOT ALL THESE THINGS AND YOU EXPECT YOUR POOR TIRED DADDY TO READ TO YOU— YOU'RE A SPOILED CHILD— THAT'S WHAT YOU ARE—
HARRY NYE'S FATHER READS TO HIM—
ALL RIGHT! ALL RIGHT! GO AND GET YOUR ROBINSON CRUSOE BOOK— I'LL READ IT TO YOU—
I HAD NOW NOT A MOMENT TO LOSE FOR NINETEEN OF THE DREADFUL WRETCHES SAT UPON THE GROUND ALL CLOSE HUDDLED UP TOGETHER AND HAD JUST SENT THE OTHER TWO TO BUTCHER THE POOR CHRISTIAN AND BRING HIM PERHAPS LIMB BY LIMB TO THEIR FIRE— AND THEY WERE STOOPING DOWN TO UNTIE THE BANDS AT HIS FEET— I TURNED TO FRIDAY AND SAID— "DO AS I BID THEE"— FRIDAY SAID THAT HE WOULD— SO I SET DOWN ONE OF THE MUSKETS AND THE FOWLING PIECE ON THE GROUND—
WELL LOOK WHO'S HERE— SOUND ASLEEP— POOR LITTLE TIRED-OUT BOY— THAT'S WHY YOU WERE SO CRANKY AND TIRED OF YOUR TOYS— YOU GAME LITTLE RASCAL— HE HAD HIS WAY THOUGH— HE FOUGHT FOR WHAT HE WANTED TILL HE GOT IT— TIRED AS HE WAS— THAT'S THE GUMP ALL OVER— HE'S PERSISTENT—

Betty Wales Dresses

BETTY WALES Dresses for Spring present graceful combinations of lines and colors that carry instant appeal. The Woman and Miss of discrimination will appreciate, too, that their intrinsic worth is fully as remarkable as their outward beauty.

Taffeta is the basis of the attractive model for Women and Misses pictured here. Narrow plaiting throughout and a girdle ending in a large bow and sash add to the effect. Cubist medallions in harmonizing shades add desired touches of color.

Our food, though plentiful and good, is often robbed of this vital element

Tables loaded with food, yet—

a vital element now known to be lacking in our meals

A simple food that builds health

Fleischmann's Yeast, a simple familiar food, increases appetite, and helps all the processes of digestion. To build up and maintain health, keeping the body resistant to disease, eat 1 to 3 cakes of yeast a day —a part of your regular diet.

Laxatives gradually replaced

It is recognised that laxatives bring only temporary relief—they cannot remove the cause of the trouble. Fleischmann's Yeast by its very nature as a wholesome food is better suited to the system than coarse substances, drugs or oils. It is a conditioner that tends to restore normal functions. And it cannot form a habit.

For constipation, eat from 1 to 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast a day.

THE vital tissues upon which their health and strength depend, starving for lack of one single element in food! That is the situation of thousands of men and women today.

Science has discovered that the mysterious life-giving vitamine is essential to health. Without it our food, no matter how good and plentiful, cannot give us the energy we need.

Yet our modern diet is often robbed of this vital element by manufacture and preparation! "We now know definitely," writes one of our greatest authorities, "that the regular diet of a large portion of the people of the United States is falling short of maintaining satisfactory nutrition."

The mysterious, almost magical "vitamine"— its richest source

Yeast is the richest known source of the vigor-making vitamine which is lacking is so many of our common foods. This is what has caused yeast to assume such a new and startling importance in our food. Physicians and food specialists have obtained almost magic results by adding it to diets.

Today, thousands of men and women are eating Fleischmann's Yeast to correct the vitamine deficiency in their ordinary meals. As a result, they are finding themselves free of minor ailments. They are building up increased resistance to disease, and are feeling an abounding sense of vigor and energy often unknown for years.

Eat yeast before or between meals. 1 to 3 cakes a day. Spread it on toast or crackers—dissolve it in milk or fruit-juices—or eat it plain. Those who are troubled with gas should first dissolve yeast in boiling water.

Place a standing order with your grocer for Fleischmann's Yeast and get it fresh daily.

To learn more about what this important discovery has done for others and what it can do for you, send for new booklet, "The New Importance of Yeast in Diet." Address THE FLEISCHMANN CO., Dept. 118-6 701 Washington Street, New York, N. Y.

PROGRESS IN IRRIGATION METHODS.

The Garden Beautiful in Southern California.

INFORMATION BOTH PRACTICAL AND SCIENTIFIC. BY ERNEST BRAUNTON.

Yucaipa Valley's orchards under a mantle of snow—an unusual and beautiful sight.

THE last annual report of the Porto Rico Agricultural Experiment Station states that the growing of avocados is steadily increasing and that the station has under trial a number of varieties which are well suited for shipping purposes. A great deal of this fruit is sold in Porto Rico, and it has been considered a mistake not to greatly increase the business of exporting it. To that end the station is working along two lines: First, to grow varieties that will stand shipping; and second, to develop shipping methods which will enable the fruit to reach the mainland markets in good condition. At present refrigeration methods are lacking on ships, and until this deficiency is remedied the station will be unable to ship avocados, even though they are of excellent quality. With improved shipping facilities and the development of better methods for preserving foods while in transit, it is thought that avocado growing is destined to become an industry of considerable importance. Mangos do not ship well and the Porto Rican climate appears to develop in the fruits an unusual amount of fiber. No mention is made of cherimoyas or other subtropical fruits of interest to Californians.

Away from the Soil.

The city is a magnet that draws the population from the country. Fewer farmers are needed from decade to decade because each farm worker can produce proportionately more than formerly. The enlarged percentage of population in the city and the lessened proportion of people on the farm is a result of economic and industrial changes, not of mere sentiment, as some philanthropists assume. It is far easier for the rural people to become city people than for city children to be educated to live and work in the country.

Children's Gardens.

When providing plants and seeds for the children's garden it should be remembered that the main point is to get them interested. For this reason the plants should be of many kinds, flowers, fruits and vegetables. Have a few of the curious things such as gourds, crookneck squash, etc. A splendid vine—a true morning glory—is the sweet potato plant, and the children will be delighted with a few of them. These do best in sandy soil. A few hills of peanuts will thrive with them and cannot fail to interest the kiddies.

Next to having the yard clean, the most important thing is to have it bright with flowers. Do not put in too many pampered exotics, but make use of old-fashioned annuals and perennials—those needing but little care. Sow broadcast seeds of all sorts of flowers, especially California wild flowers. Seeds of our native poppy may be sown any month in the year and if given one good watering they will come into flower at some time. Mixed colors of our native poppy are to be found in every seed store, and if sown with the rains of winter in a variety of situations, they furnish flowers of many shades over many months.

Mixed Vines.

Many persons will persist in growing tender vines that are each year injured by frost. Each spring these are cut back to live wood, make a fair growth, give some blossoms and are again more or less injured by frost. Experience has proven that if a hardy climbing vine be planted beside each tender subject and the two allowed to mingle together, the more tender companion is sufficiently protected by the hardier so no considerable amount of damage is done by quite severe frosts. Nothing but flowering tips will suffer harm, and each year vines so treated will become more vigorous, which if planted alone lose in vitality annually.

Grow Bamboos.

We grow altogether too few of the hardier bamboos. Throughout the year they present a greener, fresher, more tropical appearance than almost any vegetation found in our gardens. Added to their unusual grace and beauty is their great value for screening or hiding from view unsightly objects, buildings, etc.

Train Young Plants.

Do not neglect the proper training of young trees and shrubs, for in after years they are much harder to control and it will then be too late to bring them into desired form or size. The best pruning consists of the least possible at one time and a constant nipping throughout the year. While cutting is often a necessity with trees, our best gardeners, if time will permit, control shrubs and half-woody plants by pinching off the terminals as they project beyond the outline one has in mind. Such a method never interferes with vitality, vigor or natural process of development. Consequently the plant never suffers a shock or check that calls for interference with any of its functions.

Use More Genistas.

We do not use enough genistas or cytisus in local gardens. They flower in white and yellow in many species, varying but little in general appearance. All are hardy, tough and vigorous, withstanding much abuse and neglect, lack of water, poor soils and a host of other troubles. Why pamper tender shrubs of less garden value when such good material is common?

Clean House Plants.

Neglected house plants quickly show lack of care from many causes. Even dust allowed on the foliage will soon close the pores and retard circulation, just in proportion as it does with the human body. A few scale insects today means many times the number in a short time. Plants not turned around occasionally so that all parts receive equal light, soon become one-sided and unhealthy. Stir the top of the soil regularly. Put all plants out in the free air at least once every week, and allow the lawn sprinkler to wash them off and also thoroughly soak the soil. Give a little liquid or concentrated plant food once a month throughout the year.

Making Wild Gardens.

Get plants, shrubs and vines that are suited to the location and the amount of care these spots will get. If space will allow, by all means have a few shade trees. Some of our wild plants might be used in places most likely to be neglected. We have plenty of native plants equal to many in cultivation, and they will generally stand greater neglect. Place these in out-of-the-way nooks where they will surprise those who pass by the place. Vines can often be used more efficiently in beautifying wild spots. Their twining or pendulous habit of growth renders them free from the stiff appearance which the other plants and trees too often possess when improperly used. For rather extensive places the more vigorous growing vines should be used to climb over old trees, fences, stone piles or unsightly outbuildings. The English ivy is excellent for such purposes, as are the Boston, ivy and Virginia creeper, though the latter are deciduous. A variety of shrubs should be used and planted in clumps with the taller and larger ones in the rear—the lowest ground in front. A little thought and work will soon make a great change.

Preserve Roadside Trees.

In a land of little timber the occasional roadside tree has a most unusual value, quickly recognized and fully appreciated by all travelers. With the institution of nature study in our schools should come an added veneration for the patriarchs, with laws for their protection and preservation. Unfortunately trees in fields are regarded as a nuisance and those in the roadway as of greater value in the shape of fuel than as mere adornments of the highway. In this State, however, the ornamental value is more generally recognized than is the case east of the Rockies.

Oil-bearing Trees.

The best camphor oil is furnished by Dryobalanops Camphora, a lofty-growing tree of the island of Sumatra. The wood is tough and durable and is used for shipbuilding, its strong oil scent saving it from the attacks of ship worms. The oil is obtained by incision and flows as a pale, yellow liquid, called the liquid of camphor of Borneo and Sumatra. It consists of resin and a volatile oil, having a camphorated odor, and has been used in scenting soap and other perfumes. Solid camphor is also found in the wood, especially in old trees. It differs from ordinary camphor by its greater hardness and brittleness. It is much prized by the Chinese who ascribe many virtues to it. The camphor oil we get in the United States is from the camphor tree so common in California, native to China, Japan, Formosa and adjacent islands.

Tropical Plant Groups.

Bananas, gingers, shell-flower, ginger-lily, elephants' ear, cannas, callas and a host of such plants are available for tropical groups in the garden. All are hurt by ordinary frosts. Hardier material are the bamboos, giant reed striped or green, banded grass, pampas grass, umbrella grass or cyperus, iris, New Zealand flax, century plants, yuccas, aloes and others. There is no dearth of material for tropical effects, for this list is capable of considerable extension.

Since Byron Jackson

produced the first pump that virtually gave birth to irrigation in the West, pumps of many names have come and gone.

Time, however, has only served to better establish the Byron Jackson product and make it the standard for attainment in the pump industry.

When you buy a Byron Jackson deepwell turbine, Byron Jackson service is included. A service that begins at the factory testing department, and follows the pump through its installation and down through the years of operation.

Our state-wide service car system brings Byron Jackson expert engineering to your very door.

Selecting the Season's Breeding Stock.

APPEARANCES SOMETIMES DECEPTIVE. BY HENRY W. KRUCHEBERG.

LATE in the winter or early in the spring the poultry owner should select and mate his best hens to use for reproducing his flock. To do this he must choose the season's breeding stock with care.

Progress will be made most quickly by selecting and using the best individuals in the flock as breeders rather than by breeding the flock as a whole. Standard-bred roosters of the right type should be used with the selected birds; the chickens then will be of a much higher quality than the birds of this year's flock.

The selection of a male should be influenced largely by the character of the females used. Any general weakness in the hens should be offset, so far as possible, by strength in that particular in the male.

Only by continuous selection for health and vigor is it possible to build up a flock that will produce fertile eggs, strong chicks capable of making quick growth, and pullets with sufficient stamina to stand the strain of heavy egg production.

The appearance of a bird is not always a sure indication of its vigor, but appearance and action taken together are a fairly reliable guide, say Federal specialists. The comb, face, and wattles should be of a good bright color, the eyes bright and fairly prominent, and the head broad and short, having a fairly short well-curved back and showing no tendency to be long, "snaky" or "crow-headed."

The bird should be alert and have a strong, vigorous carriage; the legs set well apart and strongly supporting the body, with no indication of weakness or knock-knees. The bone in the shank should be strong and not too fine for the breed, with the toes strong, straight and not too long. Clean, smooth plumage is desirable, as a lack of condition often accompanies soiled, roughened plumage. Choose a bird in good flesh, as a very thin bird is usually in poor health. Sick fowls, or those apparently recovered from sickness, ought never to be used for breeding.

In selecting stock for mating, the purpose of the breeding must be kept clearly in mind. To produce table fowls, select a breed that has a standard type, or a body shape suitable for carrying an abundance of meat. This type has a broad, deep body, good length of back and keel, and especially a broad breast well coverd with meat.

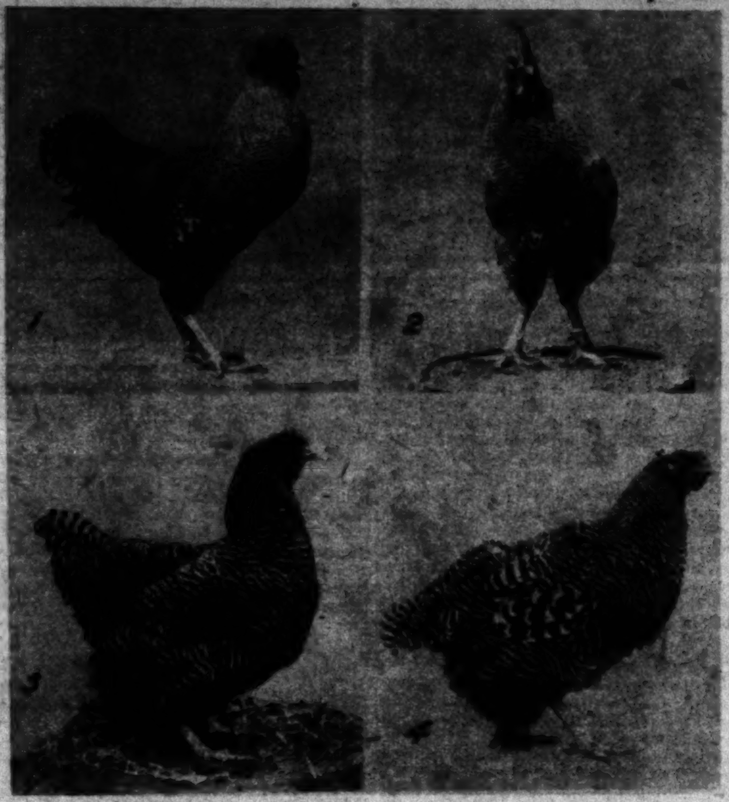
To breed for eggs, choose birds, as far as possible, that are good producers or are the offspring of such birds and that conform to the standard requirements of the breed. The best layers in the hens should have been banded or marked in some way in the fall, at which time their production is fairly well indicated by their appearance. The earliest maturing pullets should be banded when they start to lay in the fall and early winter, as these early maturing birds usually make the best producers and may be used for breeding this year if desired.

Mating should be made at least two weeks before beginning to save the eggs for hatching. It is often desirable to mate even further ahead, so that a few eggs can be incubated for five or six days to see whether they are fertile. If they are not fertile, there is still time to change the male bird.

The breed of birds influences the size of the matings. If the fowls are confined to a yard, it is usually desirable to run from twelve to fifteen females of a small breed with one male, while the females of the heavier breeds, only eight to ten are mated usually with one male. When the fowls have free range and the male is strong and vigorous, it is often possible to obtain fertile eggs with a much greater number of females to each male.

Type and Production.

In the discussion of a standard for defining the egg-laying type of hen, breeders should bear in mind that type defines the breed, and color markings the variety. Now, many a record laying hen is often "off" in type—as a matter of fact would have no place in the show room. If bred to a male bird, also off in type, the offspring of such would in no sense average an improvement on either parent, though there might be individuals that would pass muster. It is indeed a fine ambition to make the beautiful more bountiful, and we wish strength to every elbow that is working along that line. An "off type" Jersey cow might be a record producer, though we seriously question her value when it came to a sale, or a place in the show ring or for breeding purposes. Type, to our mind, is all important in the maintenance of pure breeds. Discussing the so-called utility standard, we take the following paragraph from an article by A. A. Dunnicliff in an Australian paper: "The utility standard must be taken in conjunction with the breed standard to gain a right understanding of the points, mainly in regard to type, which distinguish the breeds. The utility standard does not give undue weight to these points, but, if correctly interpreted, no bird that is not something more than a 'fair specimen' of the breed should be able to win in a utility class. The utility standard must, above all things, safeguard type, which is the foundation of the breeds. How can we maintain the identity of breeds if this essential is overlooked or ignored? In the laying competitions we still see hens entered as Leghorns and Orpingtons respectively, between which there is little or no distinction in the matter of type. Who can say that this is as it should be?" Obviously to discard or vitiate type is bad; likewise production is vital. Are we eventually to have a race of fowls that will gratify our sense of the beautiful, and afford maximum results in production?



Select the Right Type for Breeding Purposes.

(1) Standard bred Barred Rock cockerel of good type; (2) poor type of bird with knock knees; (3) hen possessing good appearance; (4) poor type and weak constitution.

Distinguishing Sex in Eggs.

How to get a superabundance of females, as compared to males, has been a moot question, not only among poultrymen, but also in other lines of live-stock farming. Certain it is that the hen is the producer of eggs, hence possesses an economic value peculiarly her own. Many devices and practices have been advocated and much observation and experimentation has been carried on to get at the mystery, but in the main, nothing has been accomplished that will enable the foretelling of the sex of eggs unnatched. Even the sexoplane fails to tell the story. The latest contribution to the subject is from a French scientist, M. Lienhard, who has recently published his observations, and here they are—take them for what they may be worth—as reported in a late issue of the Feathered World of London:

"As adult male birds are larger and heavier than females, he claims there is a difference between the two sexes of the chicks when hatched, varying from over ½ ounce to nearly 1 ounce in favor of the male. This led to the assumption that there must also be a relative difference in the weight of eggs from which they were hatched. To test this theory a flock of Leghorns was selected, the average weight of eggs being 62 grammes, slightly over 2 ounces. The variations in egg weight amounted to 16 grammes (over ½ ounce,) the smallest being 54 grammes and the largest 70 grammes, few laying eggs of less than 58 or more than 66 grammes. Sixty eggs from this flock were selected out of 350 laid, weighing between 59 and 70 grammes. Forty-eight chicks were produced, of which 37 were cockerels (or 77 per cent) and 11 pullets."

Here is an opportunity for some embryo Darwin or Mendal to try his hand at breeding a superabundance of females. To be sure, the French experiment covers only one test; upon so limited an experience it would be hazardous to base specific conclusions. If, however, the results were similar under a series of tests, we might conclude that "there is something in it." Those of our readers who are after results in the way of crops of hen fruit, might give the proposition a whirl or two, and if found encouraging, it would at least lessen the number of males. We take it for granted that size of eggs pertains to individual layers rather than those from a given pen or pens.

Dressing Poultry.

Poultry profits, from the meat end, often depend largely on the marketing, and the producer should study demands to learn how, where and when to dispose of his products to the best advantage. It often pays to dress the fowl at home for certain markets, the difference between the prices for live and dressed fowl making it worth while.

Attractive appearance is of much importance in selling poultry, therefore, the producer who plans to market his poultry dressed should study the details of killing dressing and packing, in order to prepare the products in the best possible manner. Requirements for dressing and packing vary somewhat in different markets and it will pay the producer to learn any special demands of the distributing point to which he intends shipping.

The birds should be kept without feed from eighteen to twenty-four hours before killing, unless they are to be drawn. In the latter case they should have no feed for at least ten hours before killing. When ready to kill, suspend fowl by the legs and, using a knife, cut the vein at the back of the throat through the mouth. As soon as this vein is cut run the point of the knife through the roof of the mouth into the brain, which causes the bird to lose all sense of feeling. The fowl can be paralysed also by a blow on the head instead of by piercing the brain.

In most markets dry-picked birds are preferred. Immediately after killing, while the bird is still bleeding, the picker removes the feathers, being careful not to tear the skin. If the picker waits until the bird is nearly cold, removing the feathers will be more difficult. As soon as picked the fowls should be hung in a cool place until thoroughly cold. If the weather is warm and fowls are to be packed in ice, they should be placed in a tank of ice water and left until all the animal heat has left the body.

When birds are scalded before removing the feathers, they are immersed in water slightly below the boiling point, as soon as they are through bleeding. The birds should be immersed three or four times and then picked clean, care being taken not to break the skin. Be careful not to overscald as this will cause the outer surface of the skin to rub off. Then it is placed in cold water, where it should remain for fifteen or twenty minutes. If the fowl is to be shipped dry it should be hung up until the skin becomes thoroughly dry. If it is to be packed in ice it may be left in the cold water until it is packed.

Poultry which is to be sold direct to the consumer should be drawn before it is cooled. Poultry which is to be sold to the market should not be drawn, as it will keep better not drawn than if drawn. A slit large enough to admit the fingers is made from near the end of the keel bone toward the vent. Then cut carefully around the vent and pull out the intestines, leaving in all the other organs, unless the consumer's requirements are otherwise.

When the birds have been thoroughly cooled they are ready for packing. Packages for dressed poultry vary, but they should be neat and small enough to be easily handled. Line the inside of the boxes or barrels with clean, unprinted paper, and pack the birds soudly, so they will not shift in the packages, but be careful not to bruise them. For delivery to retail customers, pasteboard boxes of sufficient size to hold one or two birds are very attractive. When poultry is to be packed in ice, barrels are generally used, packing them with alternate layers of ice.

Flocks on Farms.

Feeding the farm flock the right kind of food is important if it is to be a paying proposition. If hens do not get sufficient or proper feed they cannot be expected to give satisfactory and profitable results. A complicated ration is not necessary. The aim in feeding the hens should be to use, so far as possible, the grains that are grown on the farm, or that are available in the immediate neighborhood. One of the most successful methods of feeding is to give a light feed of grain or a mixture of grains in the morning, and a feed of the same material at night, the night feed consisting of about as much as the hens will clean up.

In addition a dry mash should be provided, where the hens can have access to it continuously. When considerable quantities of waste food are available for the hens to pick up from the fields, the amount of grain fed may be cut down. Oftentimes judgment in this respect is faulty, and but for the dry mash there would be danger that the hens would not receive enough feed. With the dry mash at their disposal they are able to make up any deficiency of feed due to faulty judgment as to the quantity they get in the fields.

One of the most common mistakes made in feeding farm poultry is failure to provide animal food in some form. Of course, when quantities of insects are available they may supply the hens' wants in this regard, but during those parts of the year when insects are not available, or are scarce, it becomes necessary to provide animal food. Milk, usually fed either as skim milk or buttermilk, provides an excellent source of animal food, but when milk is not available the hens should have beef scrap or meat scrap. While this product is high in price it is economical and should be included in the hens' ration because of the increased production that will result.

CALIFORNIA EGGS.

During the year 1920 some 875 cars containing 12,119,250 dozen eggs were shipped to eastern markets, it was declared by J. E. Dougherty of the poultry division of the University of California. This means that California is rapidly assuming lead in the production of large fancy white eggs, he asserted. California white extras sold as high as $1.08 per dozen wholesale on the New York market this winter, it was reported.

DUST VERSUS POWDERS.

While it is well to provide a good dust bath for chickens, it cannot be depended upon for louse and mite control. It is far better to eradicate the pests completely. The main difficulty about depending upon dust baths is that some fowls seldom dust themselves and those which dust freely never completely free themselves of lice. The dust bath should be kept under cover and may consist of fine road dust with coal ashes added.

FARM AND TRACTOR SECTION.

Devoted to the multiform agricultural interests of the great Southwest and issued every week with the world's biggest Sunday newspaper.

EDITED BY HAROLD M. FINLEY.

Communications from practical farmers, ranchers, stock raisers, poultrymen, gardeners and others engaged either in a large or small way in the vital work of food production are gladly received.

Good clear photographs of interesting farm and garden activities are always welcomed. The Los Angeles Times Farm and Tractor Section is the only farm journal in the west printing illustrations in the incomparable rotogravure process.

Make the Water Count.

THE orchardist, the hay grower and the field crop farmer are inclined to find satisfaction in the rainfall figures when they climb to normal or over and to forget the years of unsatisfactory precipitation that may have just passed. A study of the rainfall chart showing precipitation for the past generation, and a consideration of the increased use of water, caused chiefly by new orchards planted and new land under irrigation, should induce every water user to take up plans for the conversion of water supplies, underground and above terra firma. What proportion of the underground flow is lost to the water user?

A vast amount of water, it is certain, is allowed to run to waste in the ocean in winter and spring. There is waste of water, too, under certain varying conditions both through too heavy and too light applications. Large quantities of the life-giving fluid are evaporated in open ditches. It behooves all citizens of the State to join with the farmers in every feasible way in a comprehensive plan for the storage of storm waters and the search for unused underground water sources.

Protect the Hen.

THE great American business hen, manufacturer of the nation's leading breakfast food, is now up against the same kind of ruinous foreign competition as a lot of other unfortunate agricultural producers and is cackling wildly for help. Unless she gets it she is going to be forced to quit her job and yield her life to the butcher. The leading egg men of California say so and they have their representatives in Washington to see what can be done about it.

Chinese eggs are being dumped by the shipload in this country at around 25 cents a dozen and Australia and even Argentina are laying down hen fruit in this country at prices the American biddy cannot hope to meet and still return her owner a decent living. Thereby is an industry which last year was worth around $50,000,000 to California alone, threatened. To head off impending calamity to their interests the poultry associations of the State, backed by chambers of commerce and other business and civic organizations, are sending a flood of telegrams to Congressmen and Senators at the nation's capital urging them to work for a tariff of not less than 10 cents a dozen on imported eggs. Nothing less, they say, will wipe out the ruinous disadvantage under which the American poultrymen labor in trying to compete with cheap foreign egg production.

The oriental competition is probably the deadliest thus far on account of the almost inconceivably low standard of living and working conditions under which hen fruit, in common with other staples of the Far East, is produced. Even the following of the most scientific and efficient methods by Californian and other American poultrymen will not serve to offset the differential of production costs. The American simply must have more money to pay the costs of his business than the oriental requires and he must have a bigger return on top of it all to be able to live like civilized white men have become accustomed to live. Only protection in the form of a tariff stiff enough to eliminate the handicap will enable him from now on to keep in the poultry business, the leading egg producer say.

The Australian, of course, has vastly different standards of living from the oriental, but the very geography of this side of the globe favors him seasonably at the expense of the American egg men. When it is winter in this country and production has so dropped off that higher prices are necessary to the very life of the poultry business it is summer in Australia and the hens of the island continent are working overtime producing eggs to lay down at comparatively cheap prices on America's shores. The oriental hits our poultrymen all the time and the Australian clubs in with him, as it were, to bump our egg business at the time when it hurts the most.

The worst thing about it all is that this destructive outside competition has come all in a bunch, so to speak, and at a time when the American poultry industry is only getting fairly recovered from the losses caused by the war and the subsequent era of high feed, labor and operating costs. Vessels for the competitive commerce were the war, but the seas are black with them now and lowered shipping rates by water scarce during [illegible] immediately following of products by foreign countries. Vast quantities of agricultural products have been diverted to ocean commerce by oriental countries and laid down in defenseless America. The menace to the egg producers of this country has been increasing steadily for months.

The poultrymen, along with other agriculturists threatened by the unrestricted inroads of overseas production, are entitled to the utmost consideration at Washington and all pressure should be brought to bear to see that they get it.

FOR WALNUT MEN.

Farm Adviser Hodgson of Los Angeles county announces that as a result of the interest displayed by walnut growers, particularly those having seedling orchards, in the topworking of trees to improved varieties, two field demonstrations of this practice have been arranged, to be held on Tuesday, February 15, at 10 a.m. at the place of D. Taylor, East Central avenue, Lankershim, and in the afternoon at 2:30 at the Lang orchard, West Covina. The demonstration will be conducted by Dr. L. D. Batchelor, walnut specialist of the Citrus Experiment Station, and D. C. Wylie of the field department of the California Walnut Growers' Association.

DEPRECIATION ON FARMS.

One per cent depreciation might suffice as a charge against a very substantial brick or stone building. On some frame buildings the rate will run as high as 3 or 4 per cent. Against farm machinery the rate varies even more widely. It may run between 5 and 20 per cent, and depends principally upon the implement itself and in the way it is used. A rate somewhere between 7 and 12 per cent will be nearly correct for most farm machinery. It is largely a matter for individual observation, as no two farms are exactly alike in this respect.

CAUTION PEAR GROWERS.

Director Hecke of the California Department of Agriculture cautions pear growers to be on the lookout for blight this spring. In pruning he says growers should cut away wood that showed evidences of blight last fall.

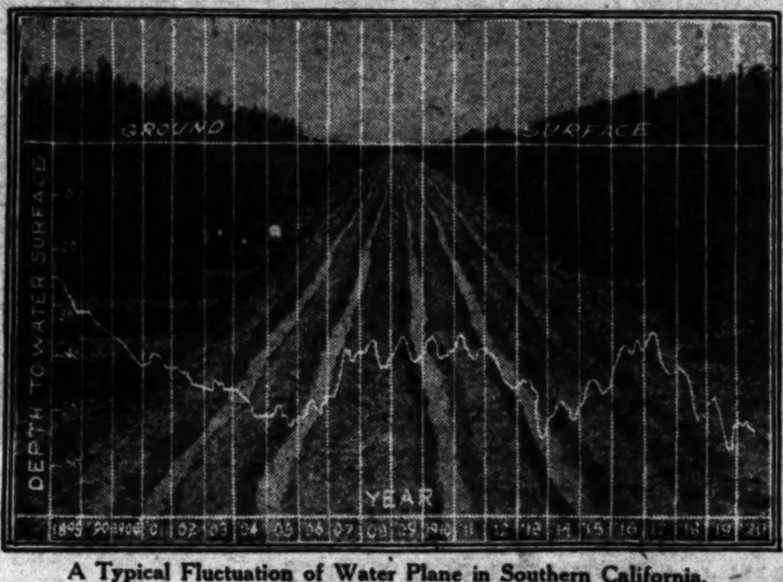
MODERN METHODS HELPING US TO MAKE MOST OF WATER RESOURCES.

BY J. B. LIPPINCOTT.

THE water resources of Southern California are more fully developed than those in the northern and central portions of the State. The belief that our water resourses are completely developed, however, is erroneous.

The water supply of Southern California is derived from the rain clouds off the Pacific Ocean, the greater number of which pass over the coastal plain and intervening valleys and foothills, being condensed farther up over the high crests of the Coast Range, which runs from 5000 to 11,000 feet in altitude.

The months of June, July, August and September are practically rainless, the rainy season extending from October to May, inclusive. The heaviest precipitation occurs from November to March. In the winter precipitation in the mountains is largely in the form of snow, which helps to maintain the surface flow of mountain streams until about May 1.



A Typical Fluctuation of Water Plane in Southern California.

The diagram represents the carefully kept records of an Anaheim district holding. In dry years there is a lowering of the water plane, while in wet years there is a tendency to return to normal.

The average annual rainfall near the Coast is approximately 12 inches, while along the foothills it increases to 18 inches, and on the crests of the range the annual precipitation is as great as 60 inches.

There are few good storage reservoir sites on our Southern California streams. A small portion of the flood waters passes on the detrital cones where some is absorbed, the balance continuing down stream and a large portion wasting into the ocean. In the future, better control of these floods will be provided for, and large volumes will be spread over absorbent areas for recharging the underground waters. At the present time surface water is being spread systematically on the Santa Ana River, San Antonio, Santiago and Lytle creeks and for short periods on the Arroyo Seco, San Dimas, San Gabriel, San Jacinto and San Gorgonio creeks.

The Water Conservation Association, incorporated with a membership from San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties, and representing all the large irrigation interests along the Santa Ana River, has been permitted to use 500 second feet of flood water for spreading purposes. The government has withdrawn from entry 1100 acres of land on the debris cone for their use and in addition to this the association owns approximately 2000 acres of land which is also available for spreading purposes. The work of spreading consists of diverting a large stream from the surface flow of the main channel and dividing it up into small streams until it is entirely absorbed by the area over which it is spread. Water sinks very rapidly vertically, but moves very slowly in a lateral direction.

UNDERGROUND RESERVOIRS.

While there is an absence of good surface reservoirs in Southern California, there are many large underground reservoirs, which have been caused by local geological conditions. These underground reservoirs are as valuable as surface reservoirs and sometimes more so, provided the annual draft by pumping is not in excess of the annual replenishment of underground water plane. Practically all of our artesian basins are diminishing in area, due to the large amount of pumping which is taking place. The systematic spreading of flood waters will greatly increase the annual draft that can be placed on our numerous underground reservoirs. However, the annual extraction must not be in excess of the annual replenishment over a period of years if this source of supply is to be used permanently.

In Southern California there are many instances where the surface runoff of a mountain stream is first used for developing electricity. The water is next used for irrigation of foothill areas. A large portion of the water applied, due to the porous nature of the soil, returns to the water plane and is again used by irrigators farther down the stream who derive their supply from surface water or pumping from underground sources. The water applied by the second user in part returns to build up the adjacent water plane. This use of the same water is repeated a number of times.

By far the greater portion of Southern California is irrigated from wells which depend on their source of supply from underground channels and reservoirs. The number of wells throughout Southern California has been steadily increased from year to year. The rapid increase in the number of pumping plants can be attributed to our cheap electrical pumping rates, our supply of natural gas and the development of engines for burning the heavier grades of fuel oil.

LOWERING WATER LEVELS

Measurements of water levels in [illegible] throughout Southern California for [illegible] tended period of years show that in [illegible] localities there has been a lowering [illegible] water plane. This, in part, is due to [illegible] fact that during the past four years [illegible] annual rainfall has been below normal. The delivery of water to irrigators varies every month in the year, the highest demand being during the months of May, June, July, August and September. These heavy drafts of water from underground sources cause similar fluctuations in the water plane.

The diagram accompanying this article shows the fluctuation of the water plane in a well one and one-half miles south of Anaheim over a period of twenty-two years and is typical of Southern California. It will be noted that during a period of dry years there is a lowering of the water plane but that when followed by a period of wet years the plane has a tendency to return to normal.

Practically all of the reclamation work in Southern California has been carried on by private enterprise. The bulk of the development has been through mutual water companies. These companies are organized by the land holders to provide water for their own use and not for sale or profit. This type of company has been very popular and has been a great aid in the development of the southern part of the State. Many of these companies derive their supply from surface sources and have built large storage reservoirs on mountain watersheds. However, the greater portion derive their supply from underground sources.

THE DUTY OF WATER.

The annual rainfall in Southern California on the coastal plain and along the foothills is not sufficient to grow commercially deciduous fruits, citrus fruits, garden truck or alfalfa. It is necessary to augment the supply by artificial means. The quantity of water required is spoken of as the duty of water, that is, the amount in depth which should be applied annually for successful cropping.

The duty of water for any crop is influenced by elevation and topography, which affect temperature, rainfall, wind and evaporation and the soil condition, which affects the retention of moisture and deep percolation. The duty of water for alfalfa averages from 3 to 7 acre feet per annum; for garden truck, from 1 to 3 acre feet per annum; for citrus fruits from 1 to 3½ acre feet per annum; for deciduous fruits, from ½ to 1½ acre feet per annum. (One acre foot equals one foot in depth over an acre.)

Careful duty of water studies have shown that generally with an increase in the depth

FARM PRODUCTION A BUSINESS; WHY NOT RUN IT LIKE ONE?

BY C. C. STAUNTON,
Farm Advisor, Ventura County.

WHAT would you think of a manufacturer who spent eleven months in making a machine which was absolutely necessary for the good of the human race, and then, upon its completion, turned it over to the first man who came along, for any price the buyer wanted to offer?

Or, what would you think of the merchant who sold his goods for about any price the buyer wanted to give, and did not know whether he was making money or losing it, until the end of the year came and he checked up his bank account to see if he had more money on hand than twelve months before? Many farmers place themselves in just such positions.

This income tax business has probably caused the farmer to scratch his head more than has any other one thing, and this has been the means of showing him whether his diversified crops are paying as much as he has expected. Some crops are like the star boarder in the dairy herd; they cause a lot of work and cost money, but do not pay their way, and the income tax is making a lot of farmers aware of the fact.

More facts and figures are needed as to the cost of raising crops, for upon farm costs is based the legitimate price the farmer can and should ask, in the open market for his products. If we do not know what it costs us to raise food, then we certainly are at the mercy of the speculator and the jobber, who are naturally out for all the traffic will bear, and who buy at as low a figure as possible and asking as much as they think they can, and still sell the goods. An educational campaign along cost lines will not only help the producer, but will do a lot toward reducing the heavy price the consumer has to pay.

Tariffs have been asked for a number of our farm products, yet when it comes to a Congressional investigation in order to learn what should be the import rates, few authentic figures are given legislators considering the number who are engaged in the business of farming.

Generally speaking, the farming business is just getting out of its swaddling clothes, and into short pants, as regards the keeping of books and cost accounts. This is a surprising condition in a business that has been established as long as farming. And the steel trust, the railroads, the coal business in all its branches, and any six other of the largest business in the United States, with their combined investments, do not begin to equal, in capital invested, the one

It not only pays to get started on keeping costs, but it is necessary to get started right. The extension service of the University of California is sending out a man to explain how to do it, and is furnshing the farmer free of charge with an account book through the farm adviser. Here is something worth looking into, as the book is the work of experts in according and incorporates the best methods known.

There are some items for every farmer who is keeping account to remember when he checks up in his income tax and a perusal of the following will show how important careful accounting really is.

The following farm expenses allowed in income tax returns:

(1.) Traveling expenses incurred in buying or selling supplies or produce, not rooms or board, but including charge per mile for auto or truck.

(2.) Advertising of farm products.

(3.) Expenses incurred in making an exhibit at a fair. (Not allowed if cash premiums are won.)

(4.) Cash expense of hired man's board. (Estimated from $18 to $30 per month.)

(5.) Part of hired girl's help, provided her entire time is not used in farm home for farm family only. Proportion it

(6.) Proportionate share of auto and telephone expense. If your auto is used 50 per cent in farm business, then figure 50 per cent of depreciation of cost, 50 per cent of insurance and 50 per cent of repairs, operation, etc.

(7.) Subscriptions to farm papers.

(8.) Farm bureau and co-operative association dues.

(9.) Donations to church, Y.M.C.A., Red Cross or any authorized recognized philanthropic organization.

(10.) Interest on money borrowed for farm business of any kind, includes farm home.

(11.) Cost of feed for live stock.

(12.) Fire and accident insurance on live stock.

(13.) Small repairs, as putting a few shingles on farm buildings, painting one side, replacement of fruit trees in the orchard.

(14.) Taxes.

(15.) Seeds and small plants for setting out in the garden.

The average depreciation rates on farm equipment allowed follows:

Tractors and autos, 20 to 33 1-3 per cent; farm machinery, 10 per cent;; buildings, such as barns, chicken houses, etc., 5 per cent; nothign on farm house; concrete irrigation pipe, 2 per cent; trees, such as oranges, lemons, apricots, etc., 3 per cent.

This is just a sample of the information a farmer must have in figuring out his income tax returns and it goes without saying that he can't have it unless he keeps accounts. And this is just one of the reasons why he should keep accurate records. Farm accounting should be investigated by every grower and the sooner the better.

CROP PRODUCTION IN NINETEEN-TWENTY.

Owing to the slump in prices toward the end of 1920, California farm products failed to measure up to the total of 1919, in dollars, but the total production of field crops was greater than in 1919, and the production of fruit crops was but little behind that of the year previous.

The total acreage of all field crops harvested in 1920 was 5,641,700, compared to 5,739,440 in 1919. The total farm value to the grower was $240,071,000, compared to $301,781,000 in 1919. Total production of fruit crops was 2,530,000 tons, valued at $236,955,000 to the grower in 1920, and 2,696,000 tons, valued at $233,910,000, in 1919.

The detailed production last year was as follows:

BUREAU STRENGTHENED.

SANTA ANA.—A new Farm Center will be established at El Toro for the bean and grain men of that district, and every other center in Orange county will be strengthened, it is exxpected, as a result of the Farm Bureau's county membership drive, final reports of which have not yet been completed. The goal was 2000 members, at the new dues of $5 a year. The dues were formerly only $3, and the membership 1000. H. B. Woodrough was membership director during the campaign, and was ably assisted by the newspapers and the valiant work of the local committeemen. It is expected the campaign will enable the bureau to enlarge the scope of its work greatly, and that it will hereafter be of more value to its members than ever before.

BUTTER NECESSARY FOR PROPER GROWTH.

A University of California course for mothers on the nutritive value of foods was announced by Dean Walter Mulford of the college of agriculture.

"There is no substitute for butter," Dean Mulford said, in explaining the meaning of vitamines, or value of food compounds. "Growing children must have the vitamin contained in butter for proper growth. Milk, eggs, vegetable greens, meat and nuts also supply the vitamines necessary for growth but many fats and oils are entirely lacking and should never be substituted for butter in feeding children.

Do not plant frost-tender vegetables, such as tomatoes, peppers, string beans and okra in the open field until about March 20.

Imperial county hog raisers have agreed to refrain from marketing their animals at present prices.

Conkey's
Buttermilk Starting Feed

prevents the big losses and gives your chicks the quick, snappy getaway that produces early broilers and layers. The buttermilk puts an edge to the appetite, while the lactic acid strengthens and tones up the sensitive digestive organs and helps prevent White Diarrhea.

Conkey's is an appetizing combination of pure, sweet grain and concentrated sanitary Buttermilk, dried on the grain by a special process. Conkey does not use dried buttermilk.

Conkey's is different—it is so clean, sweet and genuine. No mill ends, shriveled or unsound grain, weed seed or mill sweepings used—only the best and purest grain.

Farm News of the Great Southwest.

DOWN-TO-DATE REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS.

SANTA ANA.—February is a busy meeting month for members of the Orange County Farm Bureau. It started off with the big growers' conference at La Habra on February 2, with Congressman-elect Phil D. Swing. Farm center meetings for the remainder of the month are scheduled as follows: El Modena, February 14; Yorba Linda, February 15; San Juan Capistrano, February 17; Costa Mesa, February 18; Buena Park, February 21; West Orange, February 23; Villa Park, February 24; La Habra, February 25, and Garden Grove, February 28. All center meetings start at 7:30 p.m.

YUCAIPA FORMS CENTER.

YUCAIPA.—A Yucaipa center of the San Bernardino Farm Bureau was formed in a rousing meeting which was held here recently. There were farmers here from all sections of the valley, apple growers, cherry growers, peach and apricot men, grain and hay farmers. The interest shown indicates that the center will be one of the most active in the country. B. W. Shaper, who was former farm adviser, and who is now manager of Hollow Hill Farm, spoke and said that agriculture is now passing through one of the most critical periods in the history of the country and that close organization of farmers alone will pull the country through this difficult time. He spoke of the work that can be done by organization and quoted the recent decrease in freight rates that was secured. County Horticultural Commissioner John P. Coy told of the fine work that the Farm Bureau is doing in controlling diseases of fruit trees and especially in barring diseased trees from the State. R. B. Peters, the president of the county bureau, urged that Yucaipa fall in line with other sections and have a good strong center. There were about sixty at the meeting.

FIGHTING ORCHARD PESTS.

REDLANDS.—War has been declared on gophers and Argentine ants by the fruit growers of Redlands. Not until recently has the Argentine ant made his appearance in this district, but since arriving he has been quite industrious and has multiplied in the most approved Rooseveltian style. A. W. Hartwell, an expert on the most approved methods of murdering ants, has come from Pasadena, where the first work of the kind was done in this section, and is leading the work. He is being assisted in the work here by Horticultural Commissioner Walter B. Hadley. The gopher has been causing some damage here recently. As a result, Mr. Hadley has been showing the growers how to put out the traps and to set the poison. The poison has been found to be by far the best. P. D. Bates, one of the growers on Alhambra street, says he has not seen signs of a gopher since he put out poison.

LEASING FONTANA LANDS.

FONTANA.—Clarence A. Stone, who for the past year has been foreman of Camp One of the Fontana Farms Company's chain of administration camps, has recently leased 3000 acres of the company's land in the western section of the ranch, which he intends to use for hay farming. Mr. Stone plans to plant 1500 acres of this land in October and is now plowing the ground, using five gang plows, drawn by twelve head of stock. In the summer he plans to weed-knife the ground and pulverize it with a "Swede harrow." With this treatment he believes he can get three tons to an acre over the entire tract. The Fontana company has leased out 450 acres in small tracts for the raising of Spanish peanuts during the coming season. With the establishment of a modern peanut mill on the ranch it is believed that the district will rapidly become one of the leading peanut-growing sections of the State.

A Cluster of Avocados.

FEEDING COTTONSEED.

PHOENIX [illegible]—With cottonseed selling at arou[illegible]n and with alfalfa hay quoted at $30, cattle feeders are turning toward cottonseed as they never have before. Success has attended feeding of about twenty pounds of seed a day in connection with Johnson grass hay, mature animals gaining about eighty pounds in sixty days, according to report. The seed also has been used in connection with sorghum. U. H. Gammell reports that by the use of cottonseed fed to Holstein heifers he has raised his butter fat test from 2 per cent up to 4½ per cent.

TO VOTE ON BONDS.

MESA (Ariz.)—On February 19 the farmers under the line of the proposed auxiliary eastern canal already organized into an association will vote on an issue of $1,500,000 bonds for the purpose of constructing the canal, establishing a great pumping plant at the river for a lift to the canal and other pumping works elsewhere. Power is to be electrical, secured from the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association. Development is to be secured for 38,000 acres of rich land east of Mesa, above the Consolidated and Eastern canals.

CLEANING WORK ENDS.

WINTERSBURG.—After a continuous run since October 12, the bean-cleaning season at the Smeltzer warehouse came to an end a few days ago. A total of 39,000 sacks of limas were cleaned. Twenty-two carloads have been shipped and thirty remain in storage, pending price offers which will return the growers a profit. Sales have been slow on account of the extremely low price offered.

OPPOSE COMMISSARY.

LA HABRA.—Establishment of a cooperative store to sell groceries and other necessities at cost to members and employees of the La Habra Citrus Association "would tend to tear down, rather than build up, the best interests of all concerned," it was decared in a resolution passed by the local Chamber of Commerce. The action was taken after the citrus association had appointed a committee to investigate the commissary plan as a help in reducing wages.

EXTENSIVE PLANTING.

LINDSAY.—Frank R. Brann, local horticultural inspector, announces that an enormous acreage of grapevines and deciduous fruits, especially plums, prunes and apricots, is being planted in the Lindsay district. Mr. Brann warns growers against neglect of inspecting nursery stock, especially from outside districts. This is a protection not only to the grower but to the district at large.

BUREAU AUCTION.

TULARE.—Seven carloads of hogs were recently sold at auction here under the auspices of the California Farm Bureau Marketing Association. Prices varied around the $11 mark, the top price being $11.70. A total sum of $13,027.66 was received by the local ranchers.

TULARE'S CROPS.

VISALIA. — Complete report received from the county horticultural commissioner's office on production of various fruits grown in Tulare county during 1920 is as follows: Almonds, 45 tons; apples, 2500 tons; apricots, 950 tons; cherries, 5 tons; cantaloupes, 360 tons; dried figs, 2500 tons; fresh figs, 60 tons; raisin grapes, 24,000 tons; table grapes, 60,000 tons; wine grapes, 26,000 tons; lemons, 155,900 boxes; oranges, navel, 1,390,160 boxes; oranges, Valencias, 735,970 boxes; grapefruit, 142,758 boxes; mixed citrus, 25,410 boxes; olives, 2000 tons; canning peaches, 15,000 tons; drying peaches, 10,000 tons; shipping peaches, 500 tons; persimmons, 15 tons; pears, 65 tons; plums, 3220 tons; pomegranates, 800 tons; prunes, dried, 5500 tons; quinces, 150 tons; tomatoes, 150 tons.

ACCOMPLISHMENT REPORTED.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Big accomplishments in the Farm Bureau work in San Juan Capistrano and vicinity were reported at the annual center meeting recently, when much interesting information was given growers. H. B. Woodrough spoke on the bulk handling of grain and assistant Farm Adviser J. R. Waters on feeding of the dairy cow. New officers elected are: President, Aaron Buchheim; vice-president, H. C. Callis; secretary, H. H. Blee, and vice-director, C. R. Cook.

REPORT GOOD YEAR.

LA HABRA.—A successful year was reported at the annual meeting of the La Habra Walnut Growers' Association recently, 90 per cent of the crop having been sold and the remainder being in demand. The association's new officers are: President, R. W. George; vice-president, A. E. Harris; secretary-treasurer, George Eaby; directors, R. W. George, A. E. Harris, George Eaby, W. J. Gregory; H. E. Hart, I. Henry Johnson and A. M. Otis.

EXPECT BUMPER CROP.

OLIVE.—Preparing for a bumper Valencia orange crop in this district, the American Fruit Growers have purchased the old Growers' Fruit Company packing plant and are installing new and up-to-date machinery.

HOW TO SAVE BABY CHICKS

Head of International Baby Chick Association Gives Good Advice to Poultry Raisers.

Herbert H. Knapp, Tiro, Ohio, president of the International Baby Chick Association, writes:

"In our own plant we found Conkey's Buttermilk Starting Feed a life saver. Not a single case of White Diarrhea this season.

"Your chain of feeds was a happy thought. Three Buttermilk Mashes for Starting, Growing and Laying are complete and surely do bring results."

The same feed for baby chicks and for growing chicks never results satisfactorily, and feeding is the principal problem in chick-raising. Conkey has taught the poultry world a valuable lesson by making one feed for the first eight weeks and another feed to promote quick growth after that age.

For the first eight weeks feed Conkey's Buttermilk Starting Feed, and then follow with Conkeys Buttermilk Growing Mash. Try this system and you cannot fail to note greatly improved results.

Conkey's is different—the buttermilk is dried on the grain by a special process. No dried buttermilk is used. Its not the buttermilk or the grain—it's the Conkey process that produces such results as to make leading poultrymen all over the country endorse it so highly. Manufactured and guaranteed by the G. E. Conkey Co., 6557 Broadway, Cleveland, Ohio. Sold by Germain Seed & Plant Co., 6th and Main Sts., Los Angeles. Write for Conkey's FREE 64-page poultry book.—[Advertisement.

RIPE OLIVE PRAISED BY HIGH AUTHORITY.

Attention to the food value of the ripe olive is directed in a statement by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, formerly chief chemist of the United States and originator of the Pure Food Act. The statement gains in importance because of the plans for celebrating California Ripe Olive Day on Monday, February 21.

In discussing the value of the ripe olive, Dr. Wiley calls attention to the high percentage of pure olive oil that it contains, ranging from 40 to 60 per cent. He declares it to be far the most important of edible oils, and calls attention to the fact that it has been able to keep its place in popular favor against cheaper vegetable oils since the dawn of civilization, because of the fact that it possesses certain peculiar and superior qualities.

"The ripe olive," Dr. Wiley states, "containing as it does when ready for the market, from 40 to 60 per cent of pure olive oil, possesses great food value. The oil is in a state of natural emulsion, ready to be digested promptly without the possibility of interfering with the digestion of any other food. Because of the large percentage of proteids and albumen, the olive is almost a perfect substitution for meat."

TARIFF EXPECTED ON EGYPTIAN COTTON.

Long staple cotton growers of California and Arizona are apparently assured, by favorable action on the part of both Senate and House committees in charge of the emergency tariff legislation that the Fordney tariff bill, carrying a duty of 7 cents per pound on long staple cotton, will pass both houses, and that if not signed by the President, there is sufficient strength among its friends to pass it over the Executive's veto, according to reports from Washington.

This action will save the American-Egyptian cotton-growing industry of the Southwest, say growers and cotton buyers. It is reported by T. W. McDevitt of Los Angeles, president of the Pacific Cotton Exchange, that Egyptian growers, aided by the British government, are engaged in a deliberate attempt to kill the Pima cotton industry of the Southwest by selling cotton grown in Egypt at the port of Boston for 15 cents per pound less than it costs to produce the same grade of cotton in the Valley of the Nile. Once the price of the long staple is forced down, and the farmers of the Southwest have evinced a distaste for its culture, American manufacturers using the long staple would be forced to go into English markets for their supply, and pay the English price, it is asserted.

Cotton of equal fineness and length of staple can be raised cheaper under existing conditions in California and Arizona, it appears, than in Egypt. Statistics as to the cost of growing cotton in Egypt reaching the Arizona Cotton Growers' Association show that purchases of land for growing cotton in Egypt last year were on the basis of from $1500 to $2500 per "feddan" (approximately an acre.) Land rentals are as high as $250 per feddan per year, and the labor, wat r and seed cost of raising cotton about $75 per feddan per year. The yield averages better than in the Salt River Valley, 294 pounds per feddan, as against 218 pounds in Arizona. The interest charge averages $185 per feddan per year, and the growing cost $75, for a crop now selling in the Boston market at about $140. The British government, Mr. McDevitt says, has been appealed to by Egyptian growers for relief, the growers pointing out that the California and Arizona growers have spoiled their best market in the United States, and the British government is doing what it can to help them. Labor in the Nile cotton fields before the great war was 1" cents per day of twelve hours. Now the Egyptian charges from $1 to $1.25 per day of ten hours.

A good rule to follow in planting vegetables is to plant them to a depth of from three to five times their greatest diameter.

Something Good For a Chicken

Many poultrymen are "cashing in" on this wonderful discovery by "Old Iron Spoon" Hadley of Ontario, California. Thousands of laying hens have had Old Iron Spoon Balsam in their mash since they were 10 days old.

Long Distance Layers

You get lots of eggs in the flush of the lay, but will your hens keep it up? Old Iron Spoon Balsam hens are long distance layers.

Feed Old Iron Spoon Balsam in the mash. It costs less than one cent per hen per month. Feed it to baby chicks after the tenth day. It is chick insurance. It makes them grow.

The big trial size of Old Iron Spoon Balsam may be had for $1, postpaid, under an iron-clad guarantee of satisfaction. Send $1 TODAY to Old Iron Spoon, Dept. 12, Ontario, Cal.

SERVICEABLE PIPE AN IMPORTANT ITEM IN IRRIGATION SYSTEMS.

AT THIS time, when many new orchards are being planted and much new acreage is going under irrigation for various field crops, land owners are much interested in investigating various types of pumps, irrigation pipe, gates and other appliances used in the development and distribution of water. Growers are extremely desirous that the pipe they lay for their water systems and the irrigation appliances they use shall represent real value and service for the money expended. In any irrigation country, in fact, this is an important and ever-recurring question.

Irrigation pipe for underground and surface flow has been made of a variety of materials, wrought iron, galvanized iron, wood, concrete and vitrified clay all having entered into the construction of water systems. All are to be found in use in California, although wood, being least permanent, has been largely replaced by the other materials, the wood flume not being the common sight it once was.

During the war the imperative demand for iron in the mobilized industries, in combination with the consequent high price for all iron products, made iron irrigation pipe both scarce and high priced, and deliveries uncertain. Now, however, the plants making this pipe are again functioning normally, the prices have been reduced and deliveries, facilitated, a condition which is bound to bring about a heavy use of this desirable kind of irrigation equipment.

The use of concrete pipe, of course, has become more or less general wherever land is irrigated.

Vitrified clay pipe for irrigation purposes stands high in favor wherever it has been used, the durability and serviceability of this material having been demonstrated in many fields for generations.

Makers of wrought iron pipe claim for it that it makes a tighter joint than any other, reducing seepage and the possibility of the water-logging of land to a negligible quantity. It keeps out roots that might clog the flow, offers a minimum of friction for passing water and withstands high pressure, they assert.

Much wrought iron pipe is now used in orchards and fields in the San Fernando, Perris and Antelope valleys, notably in the first-named district. It is coated with California asphaltum, making it practically rustproof. By a new process such pipe is now made noncorrosive. It is especially desirable when the irrigator has a large head of water to deal with.

The weights used for wrought iron irrigation pipe laid underground are generally 16 or 14 gauge—in other words, pipe which is from 1-16th to 1-14th of an inch thick. The sizes generally used are 8 to 12 inches, though pipe as small as 4 inches and as large as 16 inches is used occasionally. A large amount of small sized pipe is used for connections between pumps and irrigation systems or reservoir above ground.

The cost of irrigation water mounts as the years go on, and the irrigator knows that he must use every means in his power to check water losses in the conduits between his supply ditch, or well, and his land. Investigations conducted by agriculturists have shown that losses from poorly laid or poorly made irrigation pipe mount up as high as 17 per cent of the water pumped. The rancher and orchardist wants to know that the maximum amount of water is being delivered to his crops or his trees. In the matter of insuring that there will be a minimum loss from seepage, the iron pipe has the advantage, its users claim, in that tighter joint can be secured, and the iron pipe is nonporous. When using the wrought iron pipe the irrigator is not worried over the possibility of roots finding their way into the joints and clogging the pipe. Eucalyptus trees have sent roots long distances to pipe lines, the roots filling the pipe completely, in some cases, where they can find entrance through a joint or stress crack.

When water is carried some distance from pump to point of delivery, friction losses are more important than one would think. The fewer the joints in the pipe and the smoother the material of which the pipe is made, the less the friction. This friction, expressed in acre feet, should be added in determining the total head against

City of Glendale Provided With Water Produced By Layne & Bowler Pumps

Several years ago the City of Glendale purchased its first L. & B. Pump. When the growth of the city demanded additional equipment, two more L. & B. Pumps were purchased. Engineer H. B. Lynch of the City of Glendale Water Department states—"Our Layne & Bowler Pumps have fully met the manufacturers' guarantee as to efficiency and amount of water delivered and have given satisfactory service in every way."

TO PRESENT FARMERS' SIDE OF QUESTION.

The California Farm Bureau Federation Utilities Department is busy preparing data with reference to various public service problems coming in from counties over the State. Recently notice was issued that electric power companies had applied to the State Railroad Commission for increased rates which would tend to make permanent the increases granted during the war period. Attempt is being made also to base the rates asked for on valuations which will be established during the hearings before the commission. These valuations, which are represented as "historical," take into consideration costs of construction and the value of watershed holdings, and rates requested contemplate provision for a reserve fund for lean years, and for a development program for the next twenty to twenty-five years.

In the matter of electric rates and other public utilities issues, individuals and single counties have been unable to make proper appearance and to present necessary agricultural data before the commission. The Public Utilities Department of the State Farm Bureau will, however, arrange and analyze all data relating to inventories, operation expenses, profits as applied to dividends or new improvements, and the cost of construction based on normal periods rather than on war-time prices, and will undertake to properly represent the counties in presenting and attending to issues and complaints.

Many problems are involved. Run off from the watersheds furnishing hydroelectric power is often later used for irrigation. The electric power generated is used for dredges, mines, for agriculture and many purposes. Agriculture is a very large user of electric power and the bureau hopes to analyze from agriculture's viewpoint the underlying data upon which rates are based.

COMMITTEE APPROVES JUNIOR COLLEGE PLAN.

At the last meeting of the legislative committee of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, composed of J. B. Valle, San Dimas; W. S. Rosecrans, Gardena; V. H. Craig, San Fernando; J. G. Biller, Spadra; Dr. George P. Clemeats, Los Angeles; Mark Grimes, Van Nuys, and W. A. Neibel, Downey, the bureau was placed on record as unanimously indorsing the movement launched some time ago to secure a branch of the State College of Agriculture in Los Angeles county and culminating in the introduction of a bill by Assemblyman White of Glendale, providing for the establishment of a Junior College of Agriculture in the San Fernando Valley. Action was also taken urging the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to lend its support to this bill, it being felt that an expensive duplication of equipment and buildings will be avoided by locating this institution in the San Fernando Valley in close to the Southern Branch of the University of California.

Other bills introduced at the recent session of the Legislature and receiving the indorsemene of the Farm Bureau include Assembly bills No. 38, providing for tse suppression, eradication and control of tuberculosis of cattle, and No. 81, providing for the prevention of adulteration or mislabeling of agricultural seed; Senate bills No. 8, providing for the organization and government of drainage districts; No. 11, amending the present act under which the Railroad Commission was organized; No. 98, providing for the prevention, control and eradication of tuberculosis in cattle; No. 119, making it a misdemeanor to allow sheep-killing dogs to run at large, and No. 153, establishing standards for grains and providing for grading and inspection. Several bills were disapproved and a number of bills brought up for consideration are being worked over by the committee with the view to suggesting suitable amendments.

URGES CONSERVATION OF FUEL RESOURCES.

Important economic questions affecting a wide range of industry were taken into consideration by Whittier when that community voted bonds to the amount of $362,000 for the construction of its modern water system, work on which is now being completed. Two separate projects, one calling for the setting up of a steam generating plant to create electricity for pumping wells and the other for electrically driven centrifugal pumps, were considered. The estimates were in favor of the electric plant as far as first cost was concerned and much the same for the two in so far as annual charges for operating expenses went. It is interesting to note, however, that the reasons for the decision in favor of the electric system went deeper than mere costs. To quote from the engineer's report:

"As the total charges on these two plants are so nearly the same, weight should be given to the broad economic questions involved. One reason for using hydroelectric energy for this plant is that there are a great number of industries and much machinery that are entirely dependent upon fuel oil and its products. With the rapid depletion of the fuel oil sources of this country, it is our belief that whenever there are other sources of power available that can be used without undue loss in economy, fuel oil should be used for the uses entirely dependent upon it."

These rains will make the garden grow.

WATER CONSERVATION.

water-log soils in this manner as its attendant evils usually are greater than the benefits derived.

"Observations in citrus orchards have shown that the trees wilted when there was available moisture within six feet of the surface and the upper layers had been exhausted of their supplies. These observations show the fallacy of depending upon moisture which has been 'put down deep,' as is so often advised.

"All orchardists are urged to examine the moisture conditions in their orchards, and attempt to regulate their irrigations in accordance with the need of their trees. Some localities may have been favored with sufficient rain this season, which will make it necessary to apply only a small amount of water."

THE INSTALLATION OF CENTRIFUGAL PUMPS.

Many irrigators are putting in pumping plants on their places this year, either to provide their primary supply of water, or to aid the flow from mountain storage or from the mutual pumping plants outside the boundaries of their ranches. There is a general desire, especially on the part of nut growers and deciduous fruit men, to supply more water for their lands.

In building a foundation for a centrifugal pump, a type that is in more general use than heretofore, it must be borne in mind that this type of pump does not require as heavy foundations as are required for reciprocating or other styles of pumps. But the foundations should be sufficiently heavy to hold against belt strain, vibration, weight of pipes, etc. In bolting the pump to the foundation, care must be taken not to spring the frame or base, and thus cramp the shaft bearings out of line, causing undue friction, heating, loss of power and other damage.

Place the pump as near the water supply as possible, not exceeding twenty feet from the supply for the larger pumps, and for the smaller, fifteen feet. Where the suction pipe is long, the pump should be placed not more than ten feet above the lowest point to which the water recedes when pumping.

The packing box should be packed full of well-greased soft packing. Do not screw the packing gland too tight. See that the bearings are clean and the cups and reservoirs full of good engine oil. See that the shaft is level and turns freely before starting the pump. The rim of the runner should work in the direction of the discharge.

DEEPER WELLS NEEDED IN MANY DISTRICTS.

Despite recent rains there is still a large deficiency of moisture in many Southwestern districts, caused by untimely or deficient rainfall in the past four years. This moisture deficiency has made itself known chiefly in the orchard districts, where the trees, reaching deep for moisture, find an insufficient supply and show signs of suffering.

In Los Angeles, Orange and Riverside counties many orchardists as well as general crop farmers are deepening their wells, or installing more powerful pumps. This remedy for the moisture deficiency has proved a solution of the water troubles for the rancher installing the new machinery.

Driven, or deep wells are sunk where the water stratum is at a considerable depth, but tilting strata may so cap the water zone that the water level will be near the surface when the well is completed, or it may form an artesian, or flowing well. Persons accustomed to a shallow well are often surprised at the quantity of water delivered by a deep well pump, of only a few inches in diameter.

Bored wells are usually cased to bedrock, with iron pipe, but frequently are cased to the entire depth. [illegible] the casing extends to the bottom of the well, the lower part that extends into the stratum of water is usually perforated to form a strainer. In large wells, which draw water from a wide horizon, the strainer or perforated portion of the pipe is sometimes as great as 100 feet in length, but is usually, in Southern California, at least from ten to eighteen feet in length.

USEFUL INFORMATION FOR WATER PUMPERS.

Before the pumping plant or the irrigation system is installed and working, it is well to become informed as to the various terms used to describe water volume, the pressure and suction limit of water and the computation of power necessary to raise a given quantity of water a given height.

When the word "head" is used in connection with a pumping plant, it means the distance from the level of the water in the well, ditch, etc., to a vertical line to the level of the water to be discharged. Friction head is a term meaning an additional head that takes place in all pipes, more or less due to the size and length of pipe and the amount of water passed through it in a given time.

A miner's inch of water is the amount that will flow through an opening one inch square in a plank two inches thick, under a head of four inches of water above the upper edge of the opening, and is equal to 9 U. S. gallons of water per minute. The main pressure of the atmosphere at sea level is usually estimated at 14.7 pounds per square inch, so that with a perfect vacuum, it will sustain a column of mercury 29.9 inches, or a column of water 33.9 feet high.

The practical working limit of suction is about twenty-five feet.

To find the pressure in pounds per square inch of a column of water, multiply the height of the column in feet, by .433. Approximately every foot of elevation is equal to one-half-pound pressure per square inch. This allows for ordinary friction.

Doubling the diameter of a pipe increases its capacity four times.

Friction of liquids in pipes increases as the square of the velocity. To compute the theoretical horsepower necessary to elevate water to a given height, multiply the total gallons pumped per minute by the total head in feet, and divide the product by 39.60. In practice, for standard centrifugal pumps, the engine should have approximately double this amount of power, depending on the size and design of the pump.

Making due allowances for evaporation, it requires 28,320 gallons of water to irrigate one acre one inch deep.

The Federal Horticultural Board is now admitting fruits from Cuba, the Bahamas, Jamaica and the Canal Zone only after fumigation.

Some of the most fruitful trees are also the most ornamental.

SOME DATA THE PUMP BUYER MUST HAVE.

The following suggestions as to information necessary for inquiries or when ordering pumps for irrigation are given by a leading pump manufacturing concern:

(1.) Number of pumps wanted; (2.) Gallons per minute or second feet wanted; (3.) Is service to be continuous or intermittent? (4.) What is the source of supply, lake, stream, ditch or well? (5.) If a well, give description, including depth and inside diameter of well; (6.) If well has been tested, give result, gallons per minute, distance from surface water recedes to when pumping, and distance when not pumping; (7.) Is water to be pumped clear, gritty, fresh, salt or acidulous? (8.) How close to the water can pump be set? (9.) Give shortest lateral and vertical length suction pipe can be; (10.) Give lateral distance and elevation in feet from the center of the pump to the point of discharge; (11.) If either or both suction and discharge pipes are in place, give accurate description, including length, diameter, number and radius of bends; (12.) Type of pump wanted, whether horizontal, vertical, single, series, turbine or deep-well; (13.) Kind of driving power. If steam or gasoline engine, give power engine will deliver to the belt. Face and diameter of pulley, revolutions per minute; (14.) If the pump is to be belted to an electric motor, give horsepower, diameter and face of pulley, revolutions per minute; (15.) If the pump is to be direct connected to electric motor, state same, and if current is to be direct current. If so, give voltage; (16.) If alternating current, state whether single, two or three phase, number of cycles and voltage; (17.) If transformers are required, give voltage of primary leads; (18.) Is automatic starting and stopping device required.

LABOR BUREAU TO. SERVE THE FARMERS.

SANTA ANA.—The Orange county farm bureau will soon have a labor bureau, operating for the interests of farmer members by supplying workers for farm jobs, according to plans now under way and which promise to be successful. The farm bureau itself, it is planned, shall set aside a portion of its funds for the labor bureau, and financial co-operation will also be asked of the county Board of Supervisors and the State Labor Commissioner. The move is in the hands of a committee consisting of James Smiley, Murray Horne and Farm Adviser H. E. Wahlberg.

All agriculturists have expressed a need for a central labor clearinghouse which will select the workers judiciously and work without charge to either employer or employee, and every effort is being put forward to put this new farm bureau undertaking across. Grain, bean and beet men especially are solicitous for the new department, which it is expected will route the working gangs expeditiously from ranch to ranch during the "rush" season, without waste of time, and prevent the ranchers bidding against each other for laborers.

KILLS LETTUCE PROFITS.

Reports from Imperial Valley say that much of the early lettuce is allowed to go to seed, and that a large quantity of the late lettuce will not be shipped owing to the high freight rates which, growers say, are killing lettuce profits. Carlot shipments are being made on consignment only.

SERVICEABLE PIPE.

which the pump must operate. If sixty gallons of water per minute is delivered through a pipe line 100 feet long, the loss is .8 of the foot nead, experts say. The friction loss varies with the length and diameter of the pipe and the amount of water carried.

The use of riveted galvanized iron pipe for surface irrigation both in fields and orchards is general throughout the State, especially in the alfalfa-growing districts. In using riveted metal pipe, in handy lengths, little attention is paid to water passing through joints, as the water thus escaping is used to good advantage. In the use of this portable pipe the irrigation of land which has not been exactly leveled is made easy, as the pipe line can be made to conform to any contour and reach the highest parts. Thousands of acres of alfalfa which have not been checked or bordered are irrigated by this method.

VITRIFIED CLAY PIPE.

It is only recently that vitrified clay pipe has come into what may be termed general use for irrigation conduits. This material has been in successful use for sewers and drains for many decades, and now many orchardists and field crop farmers are installing vitrified clay pipe irrigation lines. Vitrified pipe comes in 2½-foot lengths and the clay pipe makers point out that fewer joints are required than for concrete systems in pipe over 6 inches in diameter. This not only lowers the cost of installation, they say, but reduces the number of joints, reducing the chances of leaks and breaks. In vitrified pipe, also, Y and T connections are built into the pipe.

Vitrified pipe, being glassy and smooth, insures the maximum flow and friction is reduced to the minimum. This pipe, the makers state, resists every influence to break it down. It resists alkali, acid, sulphur and destructive gases. It has been used largely in the Coachella Valley and other parts of California where there is a large percentage of alkali in the soil. It is also extensively used at Santa Fe Springs, where a high percentage of sulphur in the water causes the accumulations of gases in irrigation lines.

A. Gregory, president of the Mutual Orange Growers Association of Redlands, a few years ago installed forty miles of vitrified clay pipe in his orange orchard and alfalfa fields, so arranged in ten-acre blocks with a stand pipe at the head of each row that he can irrigate any row in any block without wetting the other rows.

California, formerly reporting 79,000 square miles infested with cattle tick, is now released from Federal quarantine.

CATTLE MEN EXPECT AN EXCELLENT YEAR.

BY A. L. SPELLMEYER.

California has had the highest priced cattle market in the United States for the last two months. We lose but others lost more. We are feeling better, in fact there is talk among the old timers that is the essence of satisfaction, not with the present market but with the wonderful year that is guaranteed to the California range men, in grass and moisture, and the inevitable demand that must come for California beef.

This attitude, at a time when Denver cows and Kansas City steers are coming in, at first glance appears ill timed, but there are men who are now ready to buy cattle, and irrespective of the attitude of certain of the larger firms who adopt the pessimistic note, when money talks, there appears to be a confidence in the cattle business of California that has been lacking over a year.

California is the greatest country in this world, when it is normal, and such a mild wet winter as we are having has made grass grow in abundance on the vast majority of ranges. Some districts were slower than others, particularly the immediate Bakersfield country, but it is now catching up. Southeast of Bakersfield the season has been the best in twenty years. From Dinuba north and west on the Coast it has been a great year for stock. The cattle and sheep men are encouraged even though the market is not yet right. They say it will be.

The cattlemen claim there are less than 10,000 steers and cows on feed in this immediate vicinity, with Los Angeles killing 28,000 cattle monthly. They claim that the run of grass beef will start early and that the price will be on the 7 to 8-cent basis for cows and 9 to 10-cent basis for steers. The sheepmen, with due sympathy for their Arizona brethren who last year had a wonderful early year and flooded the California market with fat lambs and grass beef, know that the Phoenix desert has been dry, and slow. They know if Arizona gets rain there will be no early competition in lambs and no fat grass cattle. Fully 500,000 sheep are now in the Phoenix vicinity waiting for better rains and grass, and many of them feeding corn while lambing.

A month ago a man could not give cows away here on the range for $40; now, demand is opening up. A month ago many men would have lost their carrying expense for two years on mature steers, forgetting their first cost as yearlings, if forced to realize on the market. Today, with spring almost in the California air, feed made and cattle and sheep doing well, bargains can be had, but sacrifices are not considered.

The California banks have held strong with their regular customers and we have not felt the brunt of money shortage that forced so many stockmen to the wall. It would be hard to name a California outfit that was doing a sane, safe business that has not been upheld by our banks, and assisted to weather adversity.

The new figures of the Department of Agriculture show cattle shortage and decline in our national herds. The men who threw their herds into their unsalable corn and then sold the beef at anything anyone would give, are about through with the liquidation. Kansas is figuring now for more cattle, Texas runs are about done, Arizona has nothing for us in fat stock, Wyoming is short and Montana needs cattle. California is killing more than 500,000 cattle annually and increasing that number right along. Our prices have been higher by freight and shrink than Middle West prices. The handicap against us in shipping to the Middle West is turning as a protection for our own grass beef, and California has it, in the winter when no other State east or west is so favored.

SILO MAKES FRIENDS OF DAIRY FARMERS.

There are very few farmers who have once used a silo who are willing to do without one. A dairy authority says that no silo which has been properly built and filled with corn or other fodder at the right stage of maturity has ever been discarded.

In California, where irrigation water is available, corn can be raised as cheaply as in the Middle West, and the yield of silage is as great, it is asserted. Then there is sweet sorghum silage, one of the best feeds for cattle, which is ideal for most California conditions. Corn silage, properly made, contains twenty-two pounds of digestible crude protein and 354 pounds of digestible carbohydrates per ton. A farm in Iowa will produce an average of six to eight tons of silage per acre. In Southern California, ensilage corn has produced as high as twenty-two tons per acre, and sweet sorghums thirty-six tons per acre.

PURE-BRED BULLS ARE INCREASING ON RANGE.

The number of pure-bred bulls is increasing in the California "cow counties." During last year, three live stock associations using the ranges of the Sierra slopes adopted rules for the purchase of bulls, each association being required to place on the range a sufficient number of pure-bred Shorthorn, Hereford and Aberdeen-Angus bulls. Under this plan 105 Hereford, 97 Shorthorn and 6 Angus bulls were bought and placed upon the range. At the end of the 1920 grazing season the stockmen had not less than 200 registered bulls on their ranges, which is expected to result in a great improvement in the grade of steers turned out.

At a recent joint meeting of the Riverside and San Bernardino county farm bureaus, new rules governing cow testing as to milk qualities were sanctioned.

GETTING GOOD START.

gate might better use the common California variety than try to economise and use less of the more expensive varieties. The relative cost of different varieties is perhaps as much responsible for the varying amounts of seed used per acre as anything. Around twelve pounds per acre of good seed is about as little as is generally safe. Many use fifteen to twenty pounds per acre and some as low as six and eight. Twelve to fifteen pounds is perhaps used by the greater number of successful growers.

Where much of the surface soil has been removed by leveling, it is advisable to use a chisel tool in preparing the seed bed. Plowing such spots again brings to the surface soil that is not active or responsive enough to make a good seed bed. You cannot expect such spots to respond at once, though much depends on the character and texture of the soil.

Each legume—clover, cowpeas, alfalfa, beans, etc., has a distinct species of bacteria or at least bacteria with a distinct development, excepting that sweet clover (Melilotus alba) and bur clover (Medicag duriculata) develop the same species as does alfalfa. If no bur clover or sweet clover has been found growing on the soil it would be advisable to inoculate the soil. Where much leveling has been done the places that have been scraped down most would respond more quickly by inoculation. Adding a little gypsum to these places or scattering a little fertilizer from the barn yard will bring excellent additional results.

Alfalfa hay that is to be used for feeding work horses should be allowed to grow farther into blossom before cutting. They will do better on it and be able to work harder and need less grain.

Keeping Tabs on Health Pays

THE whole scheme of profitable dairying leads back to the subject of health. No way of escaping it. A cow is profitable or not, according to the degree of vigor of her milk-making organs.

Watch the milk-yield closely; it's the barometer of health. Reduced milk-flow means the presence or approach of disease.

Each year more thousands of dairy farmers are learning the value of the simple Kow-Kare home treatment—both as a preventive and reliable aid in relieving diseases of the genital and digestive organs. Barrenness, Abortion, Retained Afterbirth, Scouring, Lost Appetite, Bunches can be kept out of your dairy with the aid of this great cow medicine.

Give Kow-Kare a trial; feed dealers, druggists and general stores sell it—70c and $1.40 packages. Write for free book, "The Home Cow Doctor."

Hauser Packing Company Los Angeles

MUTUALS BELIEVE IN MODERN EQUIPMENT.

The Glendora Independent Water Company is a mutual water company supplying approximately 2000 acres of citrus groves in the famous Glendora citrus belt and is typical of such organizations in Southern California in so far as methods are concerned. The water supply up to the present time has been derived from the Little Dalton, Big Dalton and San Dimas washes. During the last year the company has drilled a 26-inch well water is raised with a three-stage, deep-well near Irwindale. From this well the turbine, belt-connected to a 160-horsepower duplex, two cylinder, natural gas engine. The water is first emptied into a regulating reservoir fifty feet in diameter and ten feet deep. From this point it is raised to a storage reservoir approximately 300 feet higher than the pumping plant. The booster equipment consists of a single stage, centrifugal pump direct connected through an increasing gear to a 320-horsepower twin duplex, four-cylinder natural gas engine. Both pumps have a capacity of 2025 gallons per minute.

Natural gas is used as the fuel for driving the engines, which are of the latest type. While the first cost of installation of natural gas engines is greater than that for electric motors, the annual fuel costs will be greatly reduced.

The entire plant is housed in a reinforced concrete building.

The force main from the pumping-plant to the storage reservoir consists of 18,000 feet of 18-inch double riveted, wrapped steel pipe and 5300 feet of 20-inch reinforced concrete pipe, the riveted steel pipe being used for heads greater than 100 feet.

The 2,000,000-gallon storage reservoir at the end of the force main is at such elevation that it will only serve by gravity approximately one-half the area under the Glendora Independent Water Company system. Therefore, from this reservoir it will be necessary to boost with a second booster plant of similar equipment to reach the higher portions of their area.

This plant is deemed up to date in every respect and it is interesting to note that the equipment used was manufactured within the State.

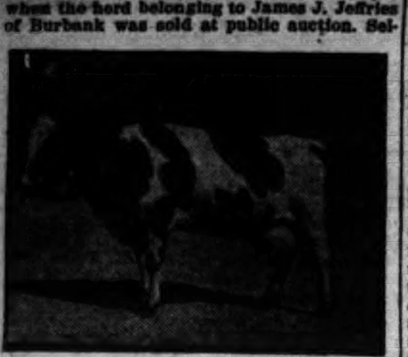
RECORD CROWD SEES BIG JEFFRIES SALE.

BY ROBERT T. LYANS.

Holstein history was made on February 2 when the herd belonging to James J. Jeffries of Burbank was sold at public auction. Seldom is one privileged to attend a sale where so many top-notch individuals go through the ring for public appraisal. The large crowd, which has been variously estimated at from fifteen to twenty-five hundred persons, that gathered to see this splendid offering go under the hammer, went with the expectation of seeing record prices made, and it was not disappointed. This sale was conducted by the California Breeders' Sale and Pedigree Company, Charles S. Hughes, manager. Col. Ben A. Rhoades of Los Angeles wielded the hammer.



Top Cow at Sale.

De Kol Pet Segis, bought by Fred Hartsook, of Lankershim, at Jeffries dispersion, for $4500.

Sixty-three head went to nineteen different buyers for a grand total of $55,190, or an average of $876 per head. This average is remarkable, to say the least, when it is considered that many of the individuals sold were young calves. Four bulls brought $7100, or an average of $1775 per head. Twenty females brought a total of $31,735, an average of $1568 per head. Ten cows made an average of $2352.50, with three of them bringing over $3000 each.

The top of the sale was made on De Kol Pet Segis, the wonderful daughter of Allenvail Cornucopia Paul. She went to Fred Hartsook of Lankershim for $4500, which established a new record for a Holstein cow in this section of the country. Her dam is an untested daughter of Mercedes Mechthilde, the sire of the world's new champion milk cow, Segis Pietertje Prospect. De Kol Pet Segis herself is the dam of K.S.P.J. Pet Segis, the grand champion at Los Angeles in 1920. K.S.P.J. Pet Segis sold to David G. Maxwell of Hollywood of $3800, being the second highest top cow of the sale. Mr. Maxwell also took the third highest priced cow of the sale, Maid Tuebie Segis, a sister of De Kol Pet Segis, at $3300.

King Segis Pontiac Jannek, the herd sire in this herd of outstanding individuals, was sold to H. Michel of Santa Monica, for $4300. He was unquestionably the biggest bargain of the sale, as he has everything that is desired in a good herd sire. His get are high producers with the correct type and conformation and have won high honors in the show ring. Few bulls in the country have the ability to stamp their good qualities on their offspring to such a remarkable extent as has Jannek. This wonderful son of King Segis Pontiac in Mr. Michel's herd will undoubtedly be heard from in the near future, for he is unquestionably one of the great bulls on the Coast. One of the interesting and gratifying facts of the sale is that the entire offering went into the hands of Southern California breeders. Mr. Maxwell took eleven head, making him the heaviest buyer; Fred Hartsook got eight head, Mr. Michel, six head, and T. L. Tally of Los Angeles bought seven. Below is a complete list of the purchasers and the individuals they purchased, together with the prices paid:

David G. Maxwell, Hollywood — Barron Annabel Lilith, $2100; K.S.P.J. Barron Annabel Lilith, $525; Maid Tuebie Segis, $3300; K.S.P.J. Pet Segis, $3800; Dolly Canary Segis, $850; K.S.P.J. Dolly, $600; Miss Floria Segis, $800; K.S.P.J. Floria Canary Segis, $200; Miss Ramona Segis, $700; Gerben Canary Belle DeKol, $1450; Juliana Elgin of Rock, $800.

Fred Hartsook, Lankershim—DeKol Pet Segis, $4500; Queen Canary Segis, $1800; Canary Pietertje Segis, $750; Miss Madrigal Cornucopia Segis, $1275; Belle Tuebie Segis, $2100; Viola Canary Segis, $1200; Maud De Kol Segis, $2000; Novelty Pauline, 2nd, $425.

best animals for both herd and range purposes. The sale will be limited to about seventy head. A complete list of consignors to this big sale was published in last week's Farm and Tractor Section.

An example of the type of animals entered is the offering of the Thomas B. Dibblee Estate, consisting of two young bulls that have won high honors in stock shows of the last two years. One of these is Silver Cup, by King Lear out of Village Blossom. This youngster was shown as a senior calf during 1920 and won second in his class at Sacramento and Los Angeles, first in his class at Ventura and Riverside and was junior and grand champion at Riverside. Silver Cup's dam—a straight Orange Blossom—is a daughter of the famous Village Beau sired by imported Villager. The sire, King Lear, is a richly bred Cumberland bull. The other Dibblee entry is the white bull, Baron Lancaster, by Hallwood Flash out of Baron's Delight. Baron Lancaster was shown as a senior calf in 1919, heading the first prize calf herd at San Francisco and taking first in the senior calf class at Los Angeles. In 1920 Baron Lancaster was shown as a senior yearling, winning second in his class at Sacramento and first at Los Angeles, Ventura and Riverside. Henry M. Elberg's Roselawn Farm has entered four, among them the splendid roan bull, Rosedale, by Crescent Dale, and three red bulls that were bred by Joseph Duncan & Son of Missouri. The Duncan-bred animals are by the noted Gentry bull, Clara's King. Ormondale Farm, as usual, will have a large consignment of richly bred stock, including Ormondale King, a full brother to the now famous Little Sweetheart, grand champion at Chicago in 1919. A number of half brothers to Little Sweetheart, sired by Golden Goods, Jr., are also in the consignment, among them Ormondale's Galaxy, Searchlight's Goods, Ormondale's Choice, Volumnia's Goods and Maplewood's Goods. The last-named's pedigree shows a splendid foundation of Cruickshank blood.

Breeders of Duroc-Jersey hogs and those contemplating becoming breeders of Durocs in California and surrounding States are reserving two days out of the coming week to attend the Diamond Bar and Falfadale ranch sales which are scheduled for February 16 and 17, respectively. Diamond Bar Ranch will offer a very choice selection of brood sows and gilts on Wednesday, while o Thursday Falfadale Farm will disperse its entire herd of brood sows and gilts, together with Great Orion Sensation JJunior, a boar that made history last year when he won the grand championship at Los Angeles, Riverside and Ventura. Opportunities to select top-notch stock will be afforded on these two dates and it is to be hoped that breeders in general will fully realize the importance of breeding only the good ones in the future and plan to attend these sales and get some of the choice sows that are to be sold. Many of the indiviruals to go into these offerings are prize winners at the big shows so, needless to say, the person who plans to be there will see a lot of quality go through the ring.

Agee Bros., of Rivera, are making some fine individual records with their Holsteins, adding to the laurels secured by winning the high record for a herd of under sixty cows in the County Cow-testing Association for November and December, when an average of 55 pounds and 54.5 pounds of butter per cow was made. The average for January is 53.21 pounds. Some of the individual records in this herd are as follows: Favorite Rowena Clothilde, a three-year-old, 19.8 pounds butter from 465.4 pounds milk in seven days; Sarcanda Candida, a four-year-old, 20 pounds butter from 453.7 pounds milk; Maid Mutual Beatrice D. K., a five-year-old, 20.2 pounds butter from 593.7 pounds milk; Aldermoor Grace, a five-year-old, 21 pounds butter from 497.6 pounds milk; Aldermoor Milk and Butter Botsford, a five-year-old, 21 pounds butter from 451 pounds milk. These records were made, it is stated, without any special preparation or feeding for high seven-day records, as these cows are to be run on full yearly test. It is interesting to note that one of these cows, Sarcanda Candida, is a daughter of Candida of Sleepy Hollow, the sixteen-year-old cow bought by Josoh Wilson, jr., of Lamanda Park, in the Clearwater sale last spring. This cow afterward made a record of 23.3 pounds butter from 604.3 pounds milk in seven days, which is truly remarkable for a cow at this advanced age. Ruby Queen Hengerveld, a nine-year-old cow in Agee Bros.' Paragon herd, with a seven-day record of 27 pounds butter and a thirty-day record of 109 pounds butter, is running on semiofficial test and has over 400 pounds butter in her first four months from 10,500 pounds milk. She is still milking around 80 pounds of milk daily in her fifth month and is expected to finish with a good record for the year.

TO TEST CEREALS.

Cereal varieties from the four quarters of the globe will be tested this season at the University of California Farm, Davis, Dean H. E. Van Norman has announced. An extensive collection of new hybrid wheats and barleys has been received from the Maple Grove Seed Breeding Farm in Saskatchewan, while eleven cereal varieties have been received from the Minnesota Experiment Station, sixteen new wheats from India, thirty-three wheats from the Washington State Experiment Station, six hybrid wheats from Western Australia, twenty wheats from Perth, Australia, thirteen wheats from the Longerenong Agriculture College, Dooen, Victoria, and numerous other lots of varieties from the various State experiment stations.

SOUTH'S USE OF WATER IMPRESSES KERN MEN.

The modern irrigation methods followed in Southern California were made the subject of careful study by a committee of five men from the Kern County Farm Bureau who made a three-day tour of Los Angeles county during the first week in February. The party included J. J. Duel, president of the Kern county bureau; Myron A. Rice, Kern County Farm Advisor; George Nance, director of the Arvin Farm Center; J. C. Working, director of the Pond Farm Center, and G. N. McClintock, editor of the Delano Record. The investigation was made primarily for the purpose of getting ideas for incorporation into the plans for the proposed storage dam for handling the flood waters of the Kern River, a project which is soon to be taken up by land owners of Kern county.

The visiting bureau men spent a day studying the irrigation facilities of the San Fernando Valley, the various details of which were explained to them by representatives of the Los Angeles Water Board. The second day was spent in the Pomona district, where H. J. Nichol, president of the Pomona Valley Protective Association; Willis S. Jones, manager and engineer for the same organization; Fred J. Smith, pioneer citrus orchardist, and Assemblyman Ira Lee of Pomona, took them over the irrigated section and gave them facts and figures in relation to the association's San Antonio Creek project. The Devil's Gate dam at Pasadena and the flood control channel extending down San Gabriel Wash to Long Beach were inspected on the third day, the visitors being conducted to these points of interest by Supervisor Jonathan S. Dodge of Los Angeles county.

Kern county, the visiting Farm Bureau men declared, is today in much the same position Los Angeles county was in before it began its present intensive utilization of its water resources. The lower lands, they stated, are fairly well taken care of, as were those of the El Monte, Downey and other districts in Los Angeles county before the development of water for the higher bench lands was seriously undertaken on a large scale.

The Kern county land owners who are urging the construction of the Kern River storage dam have had a survey made by the State engineering department to determine the possibilities of their plan and the report on this investigation was only recently completed. This report suggests the construction of a dam at Isabella, in Hot Springs Valley, designed to back up the waters of both the north and south forks of the Kern for a distance of approximately fifteen miles. This, it is said, would make available some 300,000-acre feet of water without reducing the present water supply available from the normal flow of the river. Under normal conditions, the bureau investigators stated, the Kern has a normal flow of from 700 to 800 second feet, while at flood the river has run as high as 20,000 second feet, with a flow of as much as 10,000 second feet over extended periods. It is with the view to capturing, impounding and using this flood surplus that the dam project is being advocated.

The experts of the State recommended an irrigation district of around 292,000 acres extending roughly from Arvin to a point between Delano and McFarland, and practically surrounding Bakersfield. This was figured on the basis of allowing something over three acre feet of water over the suggested district. Land owners affected, together with owners of land not included in the tentative irrigation district, then decided to make a thorough investigation of the use of water in Southern California with the view to determining whether an enlargement of the suggested district to include a larger area than that outlined would be feasible.

The Farm Bureau men who studied the various irrigation works of Los Angeles county expressed themselves as much impressed with the way in which the growers of this section have made use of the available water supply and declared that Kern county land owners would be able to accomplish much more in the way of producing better crops and using more acreage by putting into practice various economies and methods of efficiency prevailing in the Southland. After seeing how far the districts visited were making both pump and gravity water go in crop production, they declared, also, that they considered the possibilities of increasing the size of the district suggested for the Kern River project as a subject worthy of the most careful investigation.

They Came to Study Our Irrigation Methods.

LIVESTOCK BULLETIN.

BY ROBERT T. EVANS.

At the big sale of registered Berkshire hogs held on February 1 by the Italian Vineyard Company of Guasti, breeders in general were given an opportunity of finding out just what conditions exist in the hog breeding business at the present time. While there are quite a number of people who still carry a pessimistic attitude toward the hog market in general, the majority of those who attended this sale of high-class sows came away fully convinced that the market for good pure-bred individuals is on a firm basis. The thirty good brood sows and gilts that went through the sale ring brought an average of $146.83, which fact alone is proof that the faith of the breeder is unshaken, notwithstanding the somewhat sluggish conditions in all lines of business due to economic readjustments. The farmer is beginning to realize that the future market for good live stock bids fair to show a substantial profit to the producer, and we beg to repeat what has previously been said through these columns, that those who buy high-class pure-breds now will be ready for good prices when they do come.

Goes to the East.

Wilsonia Princess Laurel, Berkshire sow bought by A. J. Barker, of Thornton, Ind., at Italian Vineyard Company sale.

While the prices paid for this choice offering was not high they were satisfactory under the existing conditions. The consignment was taken by some eighteen different buyers, which fact in itself is particularly gratifying in that it shows there is coming to be a widespread interest in the Berkshire breed in this locality. While some prominent breeders of this and other States bought liberally, the majority of the animals went to build up—new and smaller herds. The top sow of the sale, Wilsonia Princess Laurel, brought $350 and went to E. J. Barker of Thorntown, Ind. This splendid individual is a daughter of Laurel Champion and a litter mate to Real Type, the boar that made a great record in Mr. Barker's herd.

L. E. Frost, of the Berkshire World, was on hand as ring man and ably demonstrated his ability as a great booster of the breed which he represents. In a few well-chosen remarks he told of how Alex Wilson, superintendent of the Italian Vineyard Company swine department, had made careful selections of seed stock in the East and how the results obtained were even greater than he had anticipated in such a short time. He was much impressed with the excellent type of the sows that sold, comparing them with the best in the country. Being well versed in pedigrees and Berkshire lore, his genial personality added much to the success of the sale. Col. Ben Rhodes did the selling in his own convincing style, being somewhat handicapped, however, by unfavorable weather conditions. Following is a complete list of the sows sold and the buyers, together with the prices paid:

Rel Type's Lady Goors to J. Francis O'Connor, Santa Rosa, $225; Wilsonia Princess Laurel, E. J. Barker, Thorntown, Ind., $350; Silbirfa Ames 2nd, A. R. White, Ontario, $210; Escalon Belle 4th, C. T. Johns, Cucamonga, $195; Natoma's Riverby Princess 3rd, Chas. Stern & Son, Wineville, $105; Natomas Symboleer Belle 2nd, Chaffee Union High School, Ontario, $140; Natomas Symboleer Belle 3rd, Chas. Stern & Son, $95; Natomas Rookwood Lady, Geo. A. Stingle, El Monte, $165; Champion Violet 4th, D. J. Bastanchury, La Habra, $110; Natomas Symboleer Laurel, Geo. A. Stingle, $135; Riverby Princess 2nd, R. S. Jones, Etiwanda, $170; Rival's Lady Duchess 3rd, J. R. Densmore, Las Vegas, Nevada, $80; Symboleer's Lady Harlan, R. S. Jones, $115; Superior May 3rd, W. C. Muddox, Sacramento, $120; Emblem's Lady Goods 11th, Chaffee Union High School, $170; Live Oak Princess 2nd, Chas. Stern & Son, $105; Rookwood Lady Double, Francis O'Connor, $125; Natomas Rookwood Duchess 3rd, F. B. Kealiher, Anaheim, $160; Rival Wilentha Lady 2nd, James Sharp, Cucamonga, $130; Natomas Lee Lady 6th, L. L. Clark, El Monte, $80; Rival B. Princess, F. L. Hall, Perris, $150; Emblem's Lady Goods 20th, F. B. Kealiher, $115; Natomas Duchess 10th, F. B. Kealiher, $100; Emblem's Lady Value 5th, F. B. Kealiher, $140; Live Oak Laurel, A. B. Humphrey, Escalon, $160; Natomas Rookwood, E. J. Barker, $200; Natomas Duchess 8th, F. B. Kealiher, $100; Del Paso Lady, Chas. M. Talmadge, Salem, Or., $150; Duke's Natomas Princess 2nd, F. B. Kealiher, $200; Duke's Natomas Belle 2nd, R. C. Anderson, Inglewood, $105.

The Mission Land and Cattle Company, owners of Revada Ranch of Yountville, sold its entire herd of Guernseys at public auction on January 20. The offering made an average of $268, the top animal of the sale going for $710, this price being paid for the aged cow, Imp Golden Wish of Revada.

A further evidence of the fact that just as good Rhode Island Reds are being raised in Southern California as elsewhere, we get the report that at the recent El Paso Poultry Show, which is an official A.P.A. event, two local men won high honors in the hen and cockerel classes of Single-comb Rhode Island Reds in very strong competition. A. G. Lyons of Los Angeles won first cockerel, shape and color special in a class of thirty-four entries, while F. X. Price of Moneta took the same awards on hen in a class of fourteen.

"Quality" will be the watchword of the Shorthorn sale to be held by the California Shorthorn Breeders' Association at the University Farm, Davis, Tuesday, February 22. The directors have appointed a selection committee consisting of Senator B. F. Rush, who is president of the association, and C. N. Hawkins, former president. This committee is inspecting each consignment offered and eliminating all except the WATER CONSERVATION FUND MENTAL PROBLEM.

Without doubt water conservation is the great fundamental problem in California today. So say the men who have studied the water resources of the State and who have duly considered the drain upon those resources by the increased use of water and the extension of the irrigated area.

Unfortunately, irrigation experts point out, there are many examples of waste of the valuable element, water, in many parts of Southern California, where especially it should be conserved. One of the great needs, they point out, is the reforestation of the burned area in the San Gabriel watershed. Farmers, they urge, should conserve every gallon of water they can, applying it wisely to their land at all times, making it do the most possible good, and lessening evaporation and seepage losses by every means available.

The bureau of irrigation investigations, University of California, has issued a report bearing on the economical use of water, excerpts from which follow:

"All vegetation growing in an orchard means a draft upon the soil mosture. The amount of moisture taken up by plants from the soil and transpired by them is very great. For every pound of dry matter produced by cover crops or weeds in the orchard, many more pounds of water are required, all of which is supplied from the soil. Many cover crop plants require as much as 1000 times as much water as there is dry matter produced. The amount of water lost in this way is very much greater than that lost by evaporation from the soil. This is of great importance as a conservation measure, when it is considered that there have been four seasons of subnormal rainfall. In many localities there has been suffering by orchard trees through lack of moisture, and much loss will result unless every effort is made to prevent it. Practice clean cultivation when the cover crops are turned under and keep the weed growth down.

"Any water which may be available for irrigation at present should be used immediately, and if there are mixed crops on the farm, orchards should receive the first consideration. While considerable difference of opinion exists among orchardists as to the effect of irrigation at different times upon the production of fruit and nuts, the success of the orchards grown without irrigation, or with only a small supply, indicates that fair crops can be made, if the soil is wet to a full depth of six feet. The soil is now in a receptive mood after the rains. This amount of moisture will prevent permanent injury. The root development of the trees, especially deciduous and nut trees, is influenced by the method of irrigation practiced, and orchards which have been given somewhat frequent light irrigations may have become shallow rooted.

"Careful preparation of the land to receive irrigation will prevent waste of water. If orchard and vineyard land is well opened up by cultivation and alfalfa land on the heavier soils is disced and renovated prior to irrigation, the penetration of water will be materially increased.

"For the usual loam soils of most of our orchard sections an application of at least six acre inches of water per acre is required to wet six feet of soil. This is equivalent to a flow of one-fourth of one cubic foot per second, or 112.5 gallons per minute, or 12½ miners' inches for twenty-four hours for each acre irrigated. The majority of the feeding roots of fruit trees are within the upper six feet of soil. Excessive applications of water, made with the idea of accumulating a supply of moisture at greater depths than this, which will subsequently rise by capillary action and replenish that removed from the first six feet of soil by the trees and other plants, has been water wasted. There is very little rise of moisture from this depth by this means, unless so much water has been added that the soil has become completely saturated. The rise of moisture in this case is considerable, but it is not desirable to

ORANGES AND SUGAR BEETS LEAD CROPS.

In a summary of the proportionate value of farm crops in the United States in 1920 it is noted that corn, cotton, wheat, hay, tobacco and oats declined in total value, while oranges, sugar beets, cabbage, cowpeas and sorghum syrup gained in value. The value of oranges gained $32,000,000 over the total of 1919, sugar beets $24,000,000, cabbage $11,000,000, cowpeas $10,000,000 and sorghum syrups $7,000,000. In the Federal summary nothing is said of the great gain in value of two more important California crops, grapes and hops. These jumped many millions over the value in 1919.

DEMAND NEW BARLEY SEED.

Grain farmers of the State have placed orders with the California College of Agriculture for all the seed of the new Four Thousand barley that can be supplied this year. This barley is not as drouth-resistant as the Mariout but yields better than the common barley and is adapted to average conditions.

MODERN METHODS.

of water applied there is an increase in crop tonnage per acre. Therefore, the more water applied within reasonable limits the greater the return and this is what interests the farmer as well as the banker. A striking example of what can be accomplished with plenty of water on our fertile soils in Southern California is illustrated by the use of Los Angeles aqueduct water in the San Fernando Valley. In Southern California we find the highest duties of water, the most efficient and costly systems of transmission and distribution and the most economical methods of application.

TUNING UP TRACTOR FOR SPRING CAMPAIGN.

BY F. A. DICKLEY.

Occasionally the tractor needs a "tuning up," a partial overhauling, to put it in good condition for the spring plowing, cultivating and seeding campaign.

The first operation in tuning up the tractor is to drain all the old oil out of the engine. Before doing this, start the motor, let it run five minutes at good speed, thereby warming up and circulating the oil. Stop the motor, take out the drain plug under the crank case and let the oil out. It is a good plan to save this oil. While worthless for lubricating purposes, it is fine to apply on plowshares, discs, harrows, etc., as a rust engine gets a thorough cleaning. Pour this kerosene in with the old oil.

Now, while the crank case is empty and clean, is a good time to look over the main bearings, connecting rods, etc. If no hand plate is provided inside of crank case, take off the bottom. This is usually a cast iron box, with the oil pump and sump, and oil troughs for the connecting rods to splash in. After this is removed, the bearings are all exposed for examination. Take an electric light on a cord and get under the engine. With the light, look carefully over each bearing. See that there is no undue play in them. The main bearings can best be preventive. Replace the drain plug and pour a gallon of kerosene in the crank case through oil filler pipe. Start the motor and let it run about five seconds. Stop it and drain off the kerosene. In this way the tested by a small pry bar. Get a purchase under crankshaft, near main bearing, and lift up on shaft, at the same time observing if the shaft moves up or down in bearing. Try each main bearing in turn, now the connecting rods. In trying connecting rods, turn the motor over with the crank till with each crank throw the connecting rod is down. It is not necessary to use the bar. Take the connecting rod bearing and shake sideways, also up and down. If not loose, they will be found apparently immovable. If all bearings are found tight, look carefully over each nut and see that all are tight and the cotter keys are in good shape. If cotter keys seem loose or badly bent, replace with new ones, being sure to spread them well.

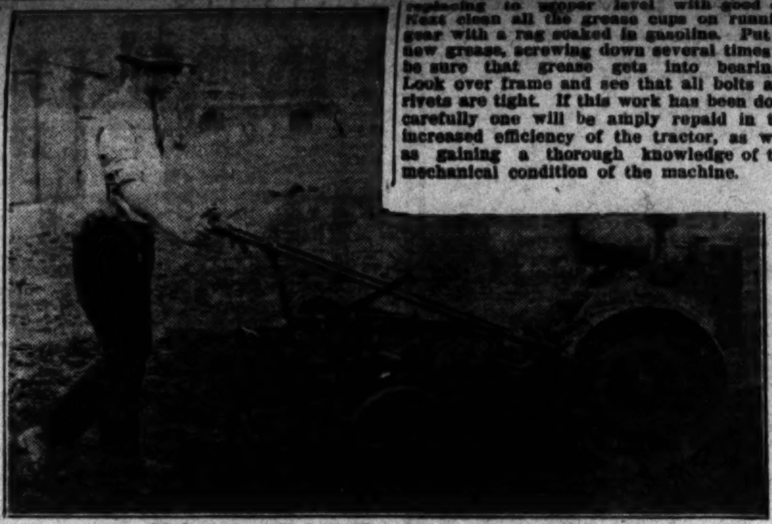
Now replace bottom of crank case. If gasket has been damaged in taking off, it is better to make a new one. This is usually made of paper. Take a sheet of heavy paper, about 1-32 of an inch thick, lay over bottom of crank case and with a hammer, mark the outlines of case on the paper. Next, with the ball side of hammer, mark each bolt hole, being careful not to hit too hard, so as not to damage edges of crank case. With a sharp knife cut out the gasket as outlined. With regular gasket shellac paint the edges of crank case and bottom where bolts go through. Put paper gasket in place on bottom part of crank case and replace it, being careful to get pump plunger in line with camshaft. Tighten all bolts down evenly so as to have an oil-tight joint. Fill crank case to proper level with good oil, using grade advised by maker of traotor.

The next operation is cleaning out carbon and grinding valves, if needed. Drain the radiator and test the motor for compression. Crank slowly and as each piston comes up, one can tell the compression in each cylinder. Listen close to the motor while cranking. If there are any leaks there will be a slight hiss as the leaking piston moves up. If compression seems good there is no need to grind the valves, but the carbon should be removed.

To remove carbon disconnect the wires from spark plugs and remove the plugs. Next take off the bolts or nuts from cylinder head, which is usually cast in one piece. Loosen stay rod on radiator and disconnect radiator hose from cylinder. With a heavy screwdriver wedge cylinder head loose, care being taken not to damage the copper gasket. When loose all around lift the head off. Turn engine over till two pistons are up to the top. Roll a piece of paper up into a ball and stuff into cylinders where pistons are down to keep chunks of carbon out of cylinders as it will scratch the walls. Scrape all carbon off tops of pistons, cylinder heads, valves and edges of copper gasket, with screwdriver or knife, being careful to keep carbon out of bolt holes, water spaces of cylinder block and from under valves.

After all carbon has been removed, shellac cylinder head and block, replace copper gasket and cylinder head, connect radiator hose, using shellac before tightening hose clamp to get water-tight joint. Replace the bolts or nuts on cylinder head, screwing down evenly, then lock them all down tight with a wrench, beginning in center of head first. Tighten radiator stay rod, clean and replace spark plugs, connect wires in proper firing order, refill radiator and the motor is ready to go.

Now clean out the transmission by draining out the oil and flushing with kerosene. Do this also to the differential and clutch, replacing to proper level with good oil. Next clean all the grease cups on running gear with a rag soaked in gasoline. Put in new grease, screwing down several times to be sure that grease gets into bearings. Look over frame and see that all bolts and rivets are tight. If this work has been done carefully one will be amply repaid in the increased efficiency of the tractor, as well as gaining a thorough knowledge of the mechanical condition of the machine.



Makes the "Baby" Tractor Easier to Operate.

Here is a new garden tractor implement attachment which carries the weight of the tools and is said to assure uniform depth in plowing and cultivating and to make possible short turns with little effort.

The Plow Bottom is the Factor that Decides

P&O IXL.
General Purpose
Bottom

ON any plow, the feature of greatest importance is the bottom. It is the bottom that comes in actual contact with the furrow slice. Whether the soil slides off smoothly, making life easy for the plowman, or whether it sticks and piles up in increasing loads depends upon three factors—the shape of the bottom, the material of which it is made, and the treatment of the material.

Now the determination of each of these factors and the combining of them in bottoms adapted to all soils and soil conditions has required limitless patience and a large expenditure of time and money. The result is the P&O line of steel bottoms and Chattanooga chilled bottoms.

P&O and Chattanooga

The P&O line includes walking, riding, and tractor plows, in sizes and types suited to all sections. You can have any of these plows, with a bottom suited to your soil. If you have had scouring trouble and are not sure what type of bottom you should use, tell us about it.

While a corps of men has been working on the solution of your scouring problems, others have been working out the features which, with P&O and Chattanooga bottom quality, make it possible for your International dealer to provide you with plows that are light in draft, easy to handle, and efficient and lasting in service.

Thousandth-of-an-inch Limits

Making the crankshaft of the "Caterpillar" Tractor is an exacting series of operations. The drop-forging of special composition steel is first machined, then carefully ground to size. The work must be exact as to diameter, roundness, length and parallelism to one-thousandth of an inch. This accuracy insures long life and perfect service.

GETTING A GOOD START A BIG FACTOR IN ALFALFA GROWING.

BY J. B. CORCORAN.

Most of the factors that enter into success or failure in raising alfalfa are determined at the very start with the preparing of the land, the seeding and the first irrigation. It would seem that "well begun is more than half done" when applied to raising alfalfa. The need of a wise preparation of the soil and the irrigation system so that optimum results may be easily and quickly obtained from the water used is becoming more and more to be recognized as a fundamental not only in alfalfa raising but also in all other lines of farming in the great Southwest.

Where much leveling is to be done, it should be preceded by a deep plowing. This will break up the "plough pan" in the low places that would otherwise be graded too deep. This pan would interfere later with root development and hinder the water getting down at subsequent irrigations. Uneven and spotted stands and poor yields may result from neglect in this particular.

The texture of the soil, in a large measure, will determine not only the distance between checks but also the length of same. The slope or grade is another factor that enters into determining the length because this has to do with the rate of flow of water. Good ditches and a good "head" of water are also factors.

Reservoirs should be located on the highest places to insure good pressure or a "good head' if open ditches are used and reservoirs should not be "scooped" out so that the last foot or eighteen inches of water cannot be advantageously utilized.

When raw land has been leveled for the first time, checked and irrigation water turned on many places settle down, due to squirrel or gopher burrows and the leaching away of certain minerals in solution. Lack of time to level a second time has been responsible for many poor, uneven or spotted stands. Where any great amount of leveling has to be done and maximum yield is desired the land should be carefully "dry leveled," then irrigated and leveled again. This requires time and labor, but it is necessary for profits and success. A good, even, vigorous stand of alfalfa goes a long way toward keeping out Bermuda grass.

Cutting a Heavy Stand of Alfalfa in Imperial County.

Many thousands of acres of this forage is being planted all over the State, It is important in planting alfalfa to get a good start, level the land properly, use the correct amount of good seed and apply water at the proper time in the correct quantity.

WHEN TO PLANT.

Alfalfa has been successfully started as early in the fall as October 1 and as late in the spring as April 15. An old successful alfalfa raiser in Kern county says that the right time to start alfalfa in California is when you have plenty of moisture in the soil. Keeping plenty of moisture in the soil in the early fall or late spring is more difficult than a little later in the fall or a little earlier in the spring. Frosts and drying winds are serious factors in getting a stand and different localities will necessitate different methods. Using a drill rather than broadcasting brings better results when drying winds, very late planting or very early planting are factors. There is plenty of heat in the soil in the early fall to germinate the seed quickly if it is planted a little deeper with the drill than it would be by broadcasting. Drying out in the fall or late spring is also likely to destroy many seeds if broadcasted. Later planting in the fall or earlier in the spring lessens the advantage of drilling over broadcasting. If the drill is used for planting in the spring, it should not be set so deep. Many farmers remove the seed tubes and allow the seed to be scattered ahead of the drill discs. The best results are obtained by planting the seed about one-half-inch deep in heavy soils and about one and one-half inches in light soils, but the amount of heat in the soil has a great deal to do with how deep seed should be planted.

Moisture, heat and oxygen are the factors that enter into rapid germination. These factors can be more or less controlled by good methods, but are also controlled by seasons. Working with the seasonal advantages, together with good methods, makes for better and surer success. The most critical as well as the most important period in the life of a plant or animal is the start. A good, vigorous germination and the first month of growth mean much to the success of alfalfa.

GET A GOOD START.

Although all irrigations are important, none is more important than the first. There should be enough moisture in the soil at the time of planting to keep the plant growing until it is up and has at least four true leaves. In heavy soils where more moisture is necessary and light rains may have caused crusting, a light irrigation may be advisable in order to help the seed break the crust; however, withholding water from young plants that are well sprouted will ordinarily not cause a loss.

It is well to remember that the "wilting point" varies in different soils from 2 per cent in coarse sands to 18 per cent in heavy soils. That is to say, that plants will wilt in heavy soils with much more moisture in them and, therefore, getting a stand on heavy soils needs much more careful attention, and especially at first. Other things being equal, it would be easier to get a good stand on heavy soils in the early spring, when more likely there would be the most favorable amount of moisture in the soil after the winter rains. Experienced alfalfa raisers usually have little difficulty in getting good stands because they usually know how to take advantage of natural forces and conditions.

The amount of water or "head" has as much to do in determining the proper width and length or size of your strips as the texture and slope have. A good head of water will cover the strip quickly and results in a good, even irrigation. Strips that are too long or too wide result in uneven irrigation, waste of water and usually spotted growth and low yield. Too great a head can be handled by irrigating two or more checks at the same time. Large checks and a small head of water in light soils give some parts too much water and other parts too little. Long strips on heavy soils under ordinary care usually result in over irrigation or flooding the lower end of the check.

Proper leveling, checking and irrigation mean more to the alfalfa raiser than the variety of seed he uses. Very often the amount of seed used per acre is more important than the variety. Some varieties of seed cost twice as much as others and some farmers try to economize by sowing less seed. This is a great mistake. Farmers who are willing to go to great expense and care to properly level, check and irri-

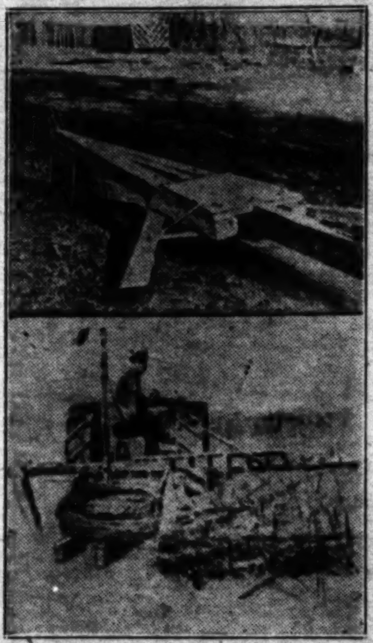
SAY MACHINERY NOT TOO HIGH IN PRICE.

"Price levels of farm machinery and farm crops are on a parity; on the average, the products of an acre of ground will buy as much agricultural machinery as in 1914; manufacturers are operating on the lowest basis consistent with safe operation, getting less than 10 per cent on their investment, and prices of farm machinery will remain at the present level under present conditions." These are the findings of the executive committee of the National Implement and Vehicle Association, which met January 13 at Chicago, after a long research into price and financial conditions.

W. H. Stackhouse, chairman of the committee, presents the following views on the situation: "Farm products increased from 1913 to 1919 118 per cent, while agricultural machinery increased only 72 per cent. Since 1918, substantial increases have occurred in the principal commodities entering into the production of farm equipment. Also labor rose from an average of 28.8 cents per hour in 1915 to 69.6 cents in 1920, in the factories. Since 1914, too, railroad rates have advanced 101 per cent."

USING LIZARD COTTON CUTTER WITH TRACTOR.

G. S. Middlehurst, a farmer of Heber, Imperial county, has rigged up a simple but effective cotton stalk cutter which he uses with his tractor. Mr. Middlehurst had 120 acres of cotton stalks to dispose of and, as he says, every move must count while farming in Imperial Valley, so he rigged up this "lizard stalk cutter" in four hours' time, with the help of his brother, using pieces of timber and "junk" found around the ranch. He used the following material—two 4-inch by 5-inch by 20-inch uprights; one 2-inch by 3-inch by 9-foot for rake bar, six tooth plates, two hinges, one piece 2-inch by 2-inch by 36-inch for lever and one chain or rope to dump rake at winrows.



Home-made Cotton Stalk Cutter.

Upper view shows "lizard" cutter devised by Imperial farmer; lower, cutter attached to hay hake drawn by a tractor.

Mr. Middlehurst says this arrangement cuts, rakes and dumps about fifteen acres of cotton stalks in ten hours. The cotton stalks are burned when the field is gone over.

BAHIA GRASS HIGH IN NUTRITIVE QUALITY.

Prof. C. V. Piper, who has been conducting experiments in Florida with Bahia grass, finding that it did better on the higher lands of that State than on the lowlands, is sending some of the grass to California, for seeding on southern pasture lands. Bahia grass (Paspalum notatum) comes from Brazil, the first of the grass having reached this country in 1914. In Cuba it is flourishing and is relished by stock, which graze it very short. The specialists who have been testing the grass have been handicapped by a short seed supply, but have found a large quantity of the seed in Cuba. It is a short grass, similar to Kentucky bluegrass, and is very palatable, indicating a high percentage of nutrition.

The Imperial county fair, which will be held in the City of Imperial in March, is already attracting many live stock and agricultural entries.

The Development of Water Resources and the Conservation

Running water in open earth ditches is the most wasteful way of conducting irrigation water.

The use of rivetted galvanized iron pipe has been found economical for the irrigation of alfalfa fields which are properly leveled.

Modern pump houses sheltering deep well pumps of large capacity are frequently met with in the orchard districts of Southern California.

Wooden flumes, also wasteful, are fast disappearing in the irrigated sections of the Southwest.

A series of six gigantic screw pumps on a Federal reclamation project. These large capacity pumps are designed for a short life.

Where the water lift is from forty to sixty-five feet, an engine of this type is found effective. It develops 25 horsepower.

Carnations

We offer for immediate planting the following splendid selection of varieties. The plants are strong, thrifty, well-rooted stock from two-inch pots. Planted now they will give you an abundant supply of early bloom. The weather conditions are ideal for transplanting them.

ALICE—An immense bloom of beautiful rose pink shade. Not unlike Enchantress in habit.

BENORA—A splendid fancy variety. White penciled with deep rosy scarlet.

DR. CHOATE—A splendid variety for cutting purposes. Strongly clove scented. Medium size scarlet flowers.

ESTELLE—Deep reddish scarlet. Extra choice.

E. K. HARVEY (H&S)—White beautifully overlaid and mottled with pink.

ENCHANTRESS—Enormous shell pink flower.

FAIR MAID — Soft apple blossom pink flowers, deeply fringed. Very fragrant.

HALOWARDEN—Rich crimson maroon. Deliciously fragrant.

MATCHLESS—Unquestionably the finest of all pure white Carnations. Remarkable alike for its immense size and vigorous growth.

ROOSEVELT—Rich crimson maroon, not unlike the color to be noted in the old fashioned clove pink. Intensely fragrant.

WHITE ENCHANTRESS—An exact replica of the pink form with immense snowy white blossoms.

MRS. C. W. WARD—A very large flowered variety with perfect calyx and dark rosy pink flowers.

PURITY—A very large flower, deeply fringed, snowy white. Quite distinct in character and growth from Matchless.

WHITE FAIR MAID—A deliciously fragrant white sport of Fair Maid.

PRICE of any of the above varieties, fine pot grown plants, ready January 20th. Each 15c; dozen, $1.50.

NOTE—If wanted by parcel post, add 10 cents per dozen, extra.

An Open Letter to Mrs. O. Shepard Barnum, President Friday Morning Club.

Dear Mrs. Barnum:
I Understand that your club is one of the representative, active women's organizations in Los Angeles.
Mrs. Stone is very anxious to become identified with the leading woman's club of Los Angeles. May I Ask what the requirements for membership are?
Has your club ever done anything to encourage the use of home products? Providing any article is as good as can be obtained elsewhere would it not be worthy of your club to encourage the use of a home product rather than of products made elsewere? You know home industry means more pay rolls, more pay rolls mean more prosperity for all.
I see that there are lots of coffees used in Los Angeles that are not roasted or blended or packed locally, and yet I have found none quite equal to Newmark's which I understand is a local blend, and very wonderful. Your club could afford to recommend the use of Newmark's to all its membership.

Very sincerely,
Franklyn Stone

trance, through a short, dark hallway and then, after a moment's fumbling, into the kitchen toward which he had perspired and conspired.

"This is paradise," he said softly, "and you are the angel of it." He whispered a trenchant vocabulary of love into her great ear the while his eyes fell speculatively upon an icebox.

"If we talk quietly," said the poor girl, leading him to a chair, "nobody can hear us."

"Sacre mille couchons!" suddenly exclaimed Villon as if a forgotten idea had just entered his head, "I am a brute! I have no doubt but you are starved. Let us go out to a restaurant. Genevieve, how can you forgive me?"

Genevieve sat herself down upon his lap and he repressed a groan.

"Oh, Mike, if all the boys were as polite as you. We can have a bite here and a bottle of beer, too."

The girl rose. "You just set still," she said with the authority of one about to make a gift. Then, in a few minutes, there appeared upon the table a platter of cold chicken, potato salad, preserves, cheese and some bottles of beer.

"You are the princess of the fairy tale," breathed Villon, drawing her to him and, inwardly commending himself for the sacrifice, pulled her great weight down upon his lap. "You are Cinderella by the gas stove. Kiss me, ma petite!"

And holding this 250 pound woman, whose heart fluttered at each of his words, he gorged himself with food, patted her wreathed neck and lied to her until the cold hours of morning finally drove him forth. As he reached the street again he turned, looked at the dark entrance and muttered:

"It is fate. One cannot find a good cook in the body of a sylph. The gods must have their little jests!"

Behind him, in the house, he left a prodigious and happy woman, who would count the hours until night came again and brought with it her graceful Mike. That knave, his eye always open to the possibility of a lean day, or fearing I might not return with my check book, had promised to reappear at the dance hall, for in all the land he knew of no other place where love would set table and where the expense of a meal was but a kiss.

The next morning I arose to find him stirring in the room which I used as a combination study and library. He had slept a few hours upon a couch, and as I entered he greeted me with a request:

"Mons. l'editeur, you are a most welcome sight. Are you in the market this morning for a story?"

I was interested at once. Already it had been possible for me to develop several of his escapades into popular tales and also I was curious to know of his life since he had disappeared from Washington Square. I sat down to listen.

"Ah, no, my friend, it is not yet finished. If you would like a happy ending to this story I must request the advance payment of five dollars. Otherwise, there will be no well-gowned heroine in the narrative and your readers will be hugely disappointed. And unless you are prepared to assist me through the day I shall die of starvation or marry a cook."

"A cook?" I queried.

"Mon Dieu! Yes, a cook, and a very large one. A thousand curses upon my ancestor for not endowing me with enough sense to succeed as a grocer's clerk. Oui, mon ami, a cook and one who is overweight. I thought my legs would crack!"

Beyond this point Villon would not go. He insisted that his story was unfinished. I gave him the money, and with what I know now I can see that his mind was upon his night's engagement with the mountainous Genevieve. He calmly went back to his couch, and it was not until early afternoon that he arose. Then he dressed himself with extreme care, for I was custodian of an extraordinary wardrobe which he maintained, a score of suits that would have excited the envy of a chameleon.

At 3 in the afternoon the Hotel Stuyvesant serves tea and cakes to several hundred women. Toward the Hotel Stuyvesant went Francois Villon, and at a cigar store adjacent he stepped into a telephone booth.

"Would you be so good," he asked the girl at the Stuyvesant desk, "as to have the Duke of Montcorbier paged and then have him telephone Beekman 10,000?"

When this was promised he hurried out, walked casually into the hotel and entered the tearoom. A moment later a page mispronounced in a piercing voice:

"The Duke of Montcorbier! The Duke of Montcorbier!"

Villon allowed this resonant name to flatten itself against the small pink ears of the assembled women, and then walked to the boy.

"Oui, mon garcon, I am Mons. de Montcorbier."

The boy delivered his message, and Villon handed him a quarter with the grace of a rajah. Then he gracefully took a chair and beneficently allowed these startled and delighted women the supreme pleasure of looking at him.

Even Francoise Villon sat dumb with astonishment at what followed.

A woman walked up to him, her hand outstretched, a surprised smile upon her handsome face.

"Mons. le Duc!" she exclaimed, with just a touch of accent. "To find you here of all places! Surely you have not forgotten. I am Mrs. Veedon, to whom you were so kind as to show the beauties of Langres after the armistice."

Villon seized each one her speech gave him. The woman's effrontery fascinated him. He jumped to his feet and bowed, and the vision of Genevieve began to blur in his mind.

"Ah, ma chere Mme. Veedon! Of course, I remember. You dined with me, if I am not mistaken, at the Grand Hotel de l'Europe; n'est ce pas?"

"Yes," she lied.

Villon fingered the money in his pocket. He was quite certain it was enough for tea. He signaled a waitress.

"And how is your charming husband, madame?"

"Oh," she answered, allowing her face to become serious for a moment. "Poor Frank passed away while we were on the continent."

"Ah!"—Villon's voice grew sympathetic as he said quickly—"that is very bad news. It would have given me great pleasure to have had your company and his for dinner. Now, I suppose, you must remain—retired?"

"Yes," she replied readily, "I seldom go out. Perhaps you would dine with me informally? It would be such a gratification to return the favors you showed Frank and myself—"

"I should be delighted," said Villon as he passed her a plate of cakes.

As they finished their tea, Mrs. Veedon called for a page boy, ordered her limousine and dispatched a telephone message to her servants to prepare a dinner. With these things accomplished, the happy woman allowed the crumbs of her conversation to fall upon the laps of envious tea drinkers whose minds had not been quick enough to win the grace of Mons. le Duc.

"Then you are quite alone, madame? It is a hardship for one so young!"

"You are very kind, Mons. le Duc. But I fear I am a wrinkled widow and quite passe."

"Non, non, madame!" protested Villon. "Ah, if you were capable of reading my thoughts you would blush like a debutante. Sacre nom! Your country frowns upon compliments, yet until I renewed my acquaintance with you I thought my heart had petrified!"

Mrs. Veedon smiled happily. A nobleman, no less, making love to her. Her mind took in the possibilities. She baited her hook delicately and dropped it overboard.

"You are merely visiting America for pleasure," she asked, "or are you upon some mission?"

"I am here," said Villon, with some degree of truth, "to do what I can toward feeding the French. When that is properly accomplished, perhaps I shall return."

"You fill me with desire, Mons. le Duc. France is such a country! We Americans are crude, don't you think?"

Francois Villon did not think, and said so with startling promptness. But it was not so much a compliment to this woman as to another he had in mind. He saw the phantom face of Isabel. Crude! He laughed mirthlessly; and then, in spite of himself, a line of the old Villon rose in his mind.

"Where are the snows of yesteryear?"

"Madame," he said at last, "the women of America are wonderful, and you are a perfect example of them. Were you not so recently bereaved—"

They rose to go, and Villon felt a slight pressure upon his hand as he helped her to her feet.

"Shall we drive about the city?" inquired Mrs. Veedon; "we usually dine at 7."

They entered the car, and again in Villon's mind came the remembrance of his appointment at the dance hall with Genevieve. He hoped she would not wait too long for him, and that other [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to her.

Francois Villon was indeed a wise [illegible]. But where is the giant who may escape? One does not murmur sweet nothings into an ambitious ear with impunity. When the silver-toned limousine drew up before a large house in one of the downtown aristocratic sections, Francios Villon, alias Mons. le Duc de Montcorbier, alias Michel Mouton, was engaged to marry.

"We shall have to marry in Europe, Francois. There would be too much comment here, even though Frank has been dead for years."

Mrs. Veedon left him in the drawing-room, while she disappeared to change her costume. Villon smoked a cigarette and once half rose, thinking to make his exit. Then he shrugged his shoulders fatalistically. Dinner was here, and marriage was several thousand miles away. She was young and beautiful and—"

"Sacre nom de nom!" he muttered. "Widows are not coy!"

Then Mrs. Veedon returned, entrancing, in a dinner gown cut daringly, and without a compromise to the late Mr. Veedon. They embraced and they whispered endearments. Villon, in spite of himself, kissed her as if his soul were in it, and, like all true wooers, he closed his eyes. In the midst of this delicacy a voice sounded, and he opened them again. He heard a servant announcing food:

"Dinner is served, missus," said the maid clumsily.

Villon looked at her, and his arms fell limply from Mrs. Veedon's shoulders. He waited for the inevitable, almost wishing to be struck deaf and dumb, and then the girl sprang forward, as if she had been shocked by electricity. The world came tumbling about the head of Mons. le Duc.

'My God!" he heard. "My God, it's Mike!"

Francois Villon saw Genevieve McCarthy's massive form wilt into a heap.

That was the story I received from him, and, with the privilege of my position, I gave him my personal check for $145. He had already received five dollars on account the morning after he had eaten chicken and cheese in the kitchen of Mrs. Veedon's cook.

MOVIE EXTRA AT SIXTY.

celebrity. How many reputations are made or marred in these studio gossips?

The novices like myself proclaim their lack of experience through the interest they manifest in even the simplest things. No wonder electricians are rough in their action as they move the huge light standards or pull the great coils of hose hither and yon. If they thus trip an unsuspecting extra who has unadvertently gotten in their way one cannot blame them if they grin in a manner that expresses satisfaction. Curiosity has no place on a set that is being "struck."

There is no better place to study human nature than among the "mob" on a studio lot or on location. Nor is there any better way to prepare for parts or even to win toward stardom.

Because I have referred only to the less pleasant persons do not imagine the extras are all like them. Indeed, no! Some very delightful people find congenial employment in the mobs of the studio lots. People to whom work is a necessity and this kind of work requires no experience.

Then there are the ambitious ones who believe they can advance more rapidly by beginning at the bottom. Some of them are educated, refined people whose faces and poise show culture and fine social affiliations. It seemed to me that in these older women I could see the grande dames of the screen in days to come, and in the younger ones the stars who are to draw capacity houses in the near future. Let us hope so.

New Rembrandt Found.

An early Rembrandt, the authenticity of which is vouched for by several well-known experts, has been discovered in a little town in the Harz. The picture, which is said to have been painted in the year 1630 or 1631, is executed upon an octagonal oak panel measuring twenty-two inches in height by sixteen inches in width. The subject is an old man of distinguished appearance. The picture is still in its original pinewood frame overlaid with horn, which is declared by one expert to have been specially made according to Rembrandt's instructions.—[Berlin Correspondence of London Times.

JOHN PAUL JONES.

[illegible] ing words sound as if they might have been spoken but yesterday, instead of 130 years bidden by the voice of France." Those ring- ago.

In a week he was dead! His faithful friend Aimee de Thelison, the natural daughter of Louis XV, Gouverneur Morris, our Ambassador to France at that time, and many other distinguished friends were with him at different times during the last few days of his life. He passed away on the evening of July 18, 1792.

The next day the National Assembly passed a resolution which decreed: "Twelve of the members shall assist at the funeral of a man who has so well served the cause of liberty."

It is said that after the battle of Trafalgar in 1805 when the British were victorious over the French, Napoleon asked one of his marshals: "How old was Paul Jones when he died?" On being told that he was 45, Napoleon said: "Then he did not fulfill his destiny. Had he lived till this time France might have had an admiral."

Paul Jones was a great sailor and a great man. The historian Abbott says of him: "I consider him as deserving a conspicuous rank among the most illustrious of those heroes and statesmen who not only formed a wreath around the brow of this country, but secured her a prouder destiny than ever fell to the lot of any other portion of mankind."

Shark Fishing an Industry.

Shark fishing on the Pacific Coast of Canada is reported as having developed into an established industry. Shark fishermen are making money, and are also making records in big creatures caught. The sharks are what is known as the "mud" variety, ground feeders at great depth and entirely harmless to human beings. They live in great numbers in the deep inlets of the coast and are valuable for their livers, their skins and the fertilization values of their flesh and bones. At Main Island, on the coast near Vancouver Island, the shark fishermen are catching very large mud sharks at a depth of 100 and 125 feet. Some have been thirty-five feet long, and one skipper of a coast schooner declares one body he saw was at least forty feet long from nose to tail.—[Indianapolis News.

In the Pastoral Line.

I RECENTLY renewed acquaintances with a pair of old friends who have lately arrived from their fondly loved home in New Hampshire for a season's stay in Southern California. I shall refer to them as Mr. and Mrs. Woodman, because the title fits them fairly well.

By profession these people are abandoned farmers. Their beautifully situated domain, with its enchanting mountain view, its hills, rills, vales and rocks—especially rocks—being situated near the Vermont boundary line.

Mr. Woodman, with his wife's joyous sanction, forsook life in the noisy city more than a score of years ago and went "back to the land" for good. Their first care was to build a home which should at once be in harmony with the locality and expressive of themselves. They have since devoted a goodly share of their energies to tilling, planting and fertilizing their plot of earth.

They early discovered that the soil of their farm somewhat too closely approximated the type analyzed and described by a rueful humorist as being "absolutely worthless until thoroughly fertilized and worse afterward." But scientific feeding and thorough cultivation have made it reasonably productive. At the same time its remarkable natural beauties have been enhanced in every possible way.

A sky-line row of virginal white birches—hardest of all trees to transplant—stand, like a guard of Dryads, along the summit of its highest hill. Other barren crests have been reforested with baby pine trees. The place originally had a wood-lot of primeval elms and in addition a grove of alternating firs and rock maples has been set growing.

The success of their experiments in reforesting the otherwise unproductive portions of their land is of real value as an object lesson to the State and to New England as a whole.

Making the waste places productive and creating beauty in lieu of barrenness is a truly divine task, allying the workers with that Power for Righteousness "which worketh hitherto and forever more." This is all the more true because those who plant forest trees cannot hope to live until these reach their prime. Therefore such tasks are done purely for "the joy of the working" and the good of mankind.

Nevertheless I am not yet ready to offer my friends as fit subjects for canonization, since they had the bad taste to prefer New Hampshire to Southern California as a permanent home. "California is an excellent place in which to tarry," say these amazing persons, "but in New Hampshire people really live."

The Reforming Spirit.

THE most original scheme to induce regular attendance at church and Sunday-school conceived within a century, has been formulated by the Society for Sunday Observance. As has been made public by the president of said society, Congress is to be directed to pass laws for the prevention not alone of such games and sports as are played by professionals and for which admission fees are charged, but also for neighborhood or family games of golf, tennis, ball or croquet. Likewise no ablutions or lustrations are to be taken on Sunday, outside the limits of the sacred domestic bathtub. Family joy rides are to be prevented by prohibiting the sale of gasoline for the propulsion of pleasure vehicles.

By these and kindred means the revered head of the movement declares that it will be made easy for adults to attend church services and for children to go regularly to Sunday-school.

The fact is that the average boy can be persuaded to "stand for" religious services on Sunday morning if he is assured of a "ripping time" for the remainder of the day. If this is denied him he is not made better, but worse, by such prohibition. People who have lived in small towns, where attendance at church is the only allowable form of post-meridian Sabbath entertainment, know this to be true. I have been in a reasonable variety of "tough" places in my time, but never listened to a lower type of conversation nor felt myself in a more sultry atmosphere than upon the back row of seats in country-town churches.

This I believe to have resulted from the fact that all healthful exercise was prohibited during the day and the younger element of the population found no safety-valve for their energies aside from that which our Puritan ancestors habitually described as "profane and lewd language." Not all the youths joined in such discourse, but only the "unco guid" who sat with their parents in the front pews failed to hear it, and be besmirched accordingly. If during the afternoon the boys had run, rowed, jumped or played games until forced to quit from sheer exhaustion they would have eaten tremendous suppers, fallen asleep while repeating a hasty prayer, emulated the Seven Sleepers for ten hours and awakened next morning to prepare for school or work with light hearts and clear consciences.

"Jews, Catholics and Unitarians," who are reported as refusing to join the Sabbath Observance Society, seem to have retained some first-hand knowledge of boy psychology and propose to act accordingly. Of course it is a thousand pities that the young of the human race are not born with wings and halos, but our first parents unfortunately decided otherwise.

Dominion.

I went beneath the sunny sky
When all things bowed to Spring's Desire,
The pansy with its steadfast eye,
The blue shells on the lupin spire.

The swelling buds along the boughs,
The grass grown heavy with the rain,
Dark roses, fitted for the brows
Of queens great kings have sung in vain.

The little cat with tiger bars,
Bright claws all hidden in contempt;
Swift birds that flash like darkling stars
Across the cloudy continent.

The wiry-coated puppy, curled
Stump-tailed upon the sunny flags;
The bees that sacked a colored world
Of treasure for their honey bags.

And all these things seemed very glad,
The sun, the flowers, the birds on wing,
The jolly beasts, the furry-clad
Fat bees, the flowers, and everything.

But gladder than them all was I,
Who being man might gather up
The joy of all beneath the sky,
And add their treasures to my cup.

And travel every shining way,
Laugh with the world at world's delight
Create a sphere for every day,
And store a dream for every night.

—John Drinkwater.

The Eternal "Why?"

RIDING sedately home over a wet pavement on one of the recent rainy evenings the car in which I was a passenger came within an ace of being, in nautical phrase, "rammed."

My host, who is a very careful driver, was driving slowly and all but hugging the curb when a very big and very blue car navigated by a speed fiend attempted to pass us, but skidded on the sloppy pavement and made directly for our vehicle with the apparent intention of splitting it in two. But when almost touching us the driver regained control and sharply turned the nose of his car forward, scraping our mud guards as he passed.

Comparing results later we found that not one of us had forecast fatal results during the dangerous moment when collision seemed inevitable. Personally I remember wondering whether the rapidly approaching machine would pile upon or somersault over us. But that we would be injured or killed no more occurred to me than it would have done to Achilles, in the same circumstances.

Why supposedly sane men will attempt to drive over a wet pavement at top speed is an unsolvable mystery. In writing of the early Norsemen Emerson remarks that "never were gallant gentlemen so anxious to put themselves or their fellows out of the world." Perhaps the speed maniacs are the Norsemen of the Sagas reincarnated. But at least the members of that elder race went through the form of disagreeing with each-other before going about their bloody business, while the speeders omit this point of etiquette, thus revealing their lack of true sporting spirit.

You Never Can Tell.

YESTER-EVE three of a kind—and a very good kind indeed—called and invited me to occupy a seat in their automobile for a trip to Pasadena.

They purposed spending a few hours there with an old friend whom we had all known in boyhood. Following our mass graduation from college "Dick" elected to become a pedagogue. He married in haste, as pedagogues usually do, but found no cause for repentance, since the brilliant young student whom he wedded proved herself as practical as she was companionable. Dick settled down in an eastern city which during the war became a center for the manufacture of munitions. Into this gruesome but profitable industry the couple put not only their savings but all the money they could borrow from their relatives and raise from the sale of their best clothes, jewelry and wedding presents. As the result of their thrift and farsightedness they are now possessed of a modest but sufficient competence, which since their arrival in California they have invested in Pasadena real estate.

During our salad days we always prophesied that Dick, who in spite of his prowess with the pigskin and the punching bag, had something distinctly material in his makeup, would marry young and become the begetter of a large family of daughters. However, while he did enter the bonds of matrimony at his earliest opportunity, he fooled us all by founding a family with twin boys. These handsome, sturdy but unruly and mischievous imps are the absolute rulers of their home, the whole family existence being shaped in accordance with their needs and desires.

Although admiring the young rascals greatly and finding them infinitely entertaining, I would not take charge of them for a year if the whole of their daddy's snug little fortune were offered me in payment.

For 'tis sadly true that, since moral suasion became the parents' sole reliance, the care of children has proved to be a task which would tempt St. John himself to indulge in cuss words.

I have no doubt that this agency, if wisely and properly used, reinforced by constant oversight and unaccompanied by nagging, will finally produce good results. But "in the middle of the meantime" one might as well live in the crater of an industrious volcano. But since Dick and his Laura seem likely to survive the ordeal and the twins find life distinctly worth while, it is not for me to worry.

A Man and His Dog.

ONE of our neighbors came in yesterday to return a borrowed tool and when about to leave, remarked in a would-be casual manner: "By the way, did you know that my Dicky died last Sunday?"

"Dicky" was a bright little Yorkshire terrier nearly ten years old but until a month ago, when he took a severe cold, as game and lively as in the days of his youth. His owner bought him as a present for his young wife a few months after their marriage. Dicky was then a newly-weaned puppy who was possessed by the spirit of mischief and he proceeded to horrify, though also amuse, his young mistress by such tricks as making night raids into her bedroom, carrying off her stockings and slippers to his lair and there chewing them to fragments, stealing the newspaper from the front steps and burying it in the garden and committing other high crimes and misdemeanors.

But he was easily trained and when a year old was an extremely well-behaved little dog, the pride and joy of his youthful owners.

For five years Dicky flourished greatly; but then came trouble. His mistress fell ill and for months lay between life and death, with the nurse and Dicky's master alternately caring for her while Dicky lay prone on the front steps with drooping head, at once lonely and apprehensive.

At last she died and for weeks thereafter, as I passed the house each evening, Dicky's master sat on the veranda with the dog snuggled closely in his arms.

A succession of elderly housekeepers came and went and Dicky's life had its ups and down to be sure. Every evening he met his master at the station and greeted him with ecstatic yelps and wriggles.

Of late a kindly man and wife have lived in Dicky's home and made his master and himself more comfortable than they had been for years. But in fair days, as in foul, the two remained inseparable and Dicky's last act on earth was to crawl to his master's feet and lift pleading eyes to implore a final word and caress.

Thus it came about that my neighbor, afraid of showing unmanly emotion, said to me yesterday in a carefully careless tone: "Oh, by the way, did you know that my Dicky died last Sunday?"

All of a Piece.

OUR Greek vegetable peddler is evidently a prince in disguise who has a cache of gold and precious stones in some accessible spot and masquerades as a perambulating merchant for some fell reason to be later revealed. He is a rather handsome brute, slightly over middle height, with a round head, a bull neck and a thick-set but remarkably agile body. His eyes are bold and piercing, his features regular and his expression that of a captive demon. He enters our quiet street with the dash and speed of Jehu, the son of Nimshi, blowing his horn and ringing a peal of bells alternately, to the great admiration of the small boys and the youthful domestics along his route. When a buyer appears he inquires in a brusque tone: "Vell wat-a you want?" If one inquires the price of certain vegetables he answers loftily: "Twenty cent a pound; take or leave; hurry up." Last Saturday Miss Olivera, an elderly lady living alone and therefore a small consumer, opened her breakfast-room door and asked him to send in a lettuce and a bunch of carrots. To this modest request he replied: "You comma git; my boy he no wear out-a shoe for twenta cent."

On me he fixes a peculiarly baleful glare. Whether he suspects me of being an admirer of Venizelos or a depreciator of King Constantine I know not. But if I thought that I might be likely to meet him on some of my lonely expeditions I should certainly carry a tomahawk at my belt and a razor up my sleeve.

When I inquire of his feminine patrons their excuse for buying from him they indifferently reply: "Oh, they are all of a piece nowadays; Jeshuron hath waxed fat—and kicks—!"

The Married Life of Helen and Warren.

Food and Prices of Latin Quarter Restaurant Win Warren's Approbation.

BY MABEL HERBERT URNER.

"ARE you sure it's on this street?" anxioused Helen limping along, her feet achingly tired from a day in the Paris shops.

"Positive!" Warren strode ahead, irritated that his prided sense of location had failed.

They had walked a mile along the Boulevard Montparnasse in a vain search for Jouven's—a small cafe at which he was obstinately determined to dine.

"Dear, what does it look like? Are there any tables out on the street?"

"Yes, and it's on a corner—on this side. Hello, that's it there."

But as they drew nearer, the lettering on the awning over the terraced tables was not Jouven.

"Warren, this looks all right. Let's go in anyway—my feet hurt so."

"Why the Sam Hill don't you wear sensible shoes? And get 'em big enough."

Helen's two-and-a-halves were ever targets for his thrusts. Any foot weariness he invariably attributed to her too-small shoes.

"It looks awfully attractive in there," she urged, glimpsing the tables through the green hedge. "And they say all these Latin Quarter restaurants are good."

"Well, we're going to the one we started out for," grimly. "Duret's tips are all right, and he says it's the real thing—where all the artists go. We drove past it this morning. That must be it just ahead."

Again they were disappointed. That he would walk miles out of the way rather than ask any one to direct him, Helen knew. So now in desperation, braving his displeasure, she fluttered up to a policeman in the street.

"Could you direct me to Jouven's? It's a cafe—Jouven's—JOUVEN'S!"

The inevitable shrug proclaimed his inability to understand.

"You could shriek at him 'til you're black in the face," growled Warren. "They never understand. Even if you ask for the Opera or the Place Vendome, if you don't get the pronunciation just right—they've never heard of it!" Then briskly, "Perk up now—it's along here somewhere."

It was a soft, velvety evening with only the leafless trees to betray that it was not midsummer. Had she not been so tired, Helen would have revelled in this long walk through the Latin Quarter, but now every step was torture.

"Dear, I CAN'T go any further! We'll have to go into one of these places."

"Now we're going to Jouven's, I tell you! If you can't walk—we'll take another cab. Here comes one now," signaling with his cane.

As they got in, Warren motioned the man to drive on in the same direction. To their amazed relief he asked in good English:

"Where do you want to go, monsieur? Jouven's? Why, that's at the other end of the Boulevard! You were going away from it."

With an effort Helen refrained from any "I-told-you-so" comments. Twice she had ventured that they might be going in the wrong direction, but Warren had been gruffly positive they were not.

"If I'd been alone—I'd have found it," savagely, as they drove off. "But you never can walk. You're always putting up a howl about your feet."

"Oh, I know, dear, you're wonderful at finding places! You really know Paris awfully well," hoping by tactful flattery to restore his good humor.

Though usually susceptible to such tributes, it was now nearing eight, and only food could alleviate his grouchiness.

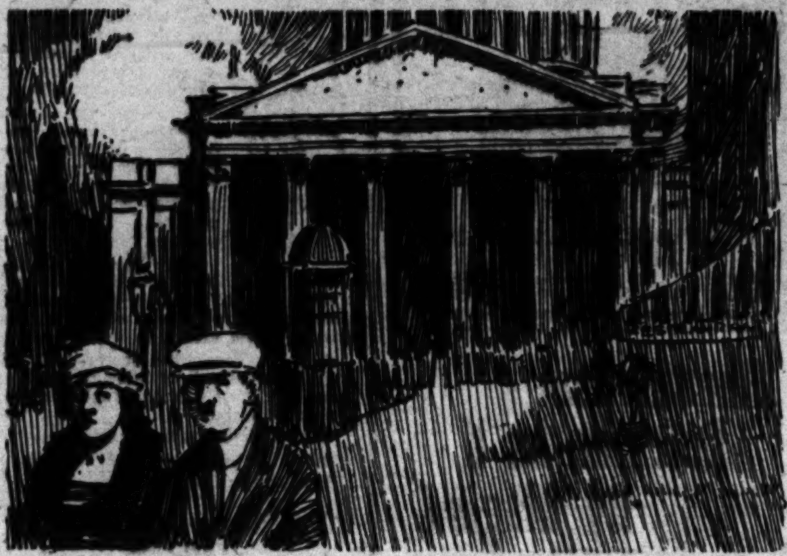
At last they drove up before the box hedge that screened the outdoor diners at Jouven's.

Not a vacant seat under the awning, and they were reluctant to go inside. Just then a couple rose to leave, and they secured their table.

"Oh, this is wonderful!" With a sigh of blissful comfort Helen discovered an iron bar beneath upon which to rest her feet. "And I love being right here by this hedge," hanging her gloves on a stiff sprig.

As it was now late, most of the diners were sipping their coffee and liqueurs. An atmosphere of peaceful, after-dinner contentment pervaded the place. Even the lights were restful, the electric bulbs under the awnings subdued by orange shades.

"Looks like a good brand of Burgundy," Warren was examining the label on the empty wine bottle. "Guess we'll try it."



"What do you suppose they had in these?" Helen sniffed at a tiny brown jar. "Some kind of cheese."

A waitress, radiating the French cordiality, came up to whisk off the soiled glasses and wine-stained cloth. The table reset, she gave them a menu written with the inevitable faint purple ink, almost illegible in the dim light.

"Snails!" deciphered Warren, his bill-of-fare French somewhat better than his conversation. "You've been wanting to try 'em."

"Oh, yes, I'd love to! How are they served?"

"Can't make out—you'll have to take a chance. We'll have mushroom soup first. Jove, things are cheap here! Soup's only sixty centimes."

"Dear, it can't be good and clean at that price!"

"Why not? I tell you this place's the real thing. Just lamp this crowd! They're not going where they get bum food."

It was a typical Latin Quarter gathering. Near by sat a man with flowing tie and velvet jacket. The girl with him, a red tam-o'-shanter drawn low on her bobbed hair, was smoking a cigarette over her cordial.

At the next table an artist, his pointed beard masking his youth, was penciling on the cloth a sketch of his companion. Even from where she sat Helen could see the cleverly exaggerated likeness.

The open door and windows gave a glimpse of the room inside. The long zinc bar with its gleaming array of bottles, the table, the sawdusted floor, and the walls covered with caricatures, evidently contributed by the habitues.

After the mushroom soup, deliciously smooth and rich, came the snails. The mouth of each spiral shell was filled with a greenish sauce.

"In the shells!" dismayed Helen. "How do you eat them?"

"Fork 'em out!" He drew out a long curled morsel.

Conquering a slight revulsion, she followed Warren's example.

"No, I don't like them. It must be a cultivated taste."

"Then hand over yours—I can stow 'em away. Real delicacies, these."

"Oh, dear, look! What is she going to do?"

A shabby, shriveled old woman had shuffled in from the street. Bowing and smiling, she threw back the shawl from her straggling white hair. In a piping treble she began to sing, executing a tottering measure after each verse.

"Oh, how pathetic! Why do they let her?"

"Guess that's the one Duret spoke of. She's been a famous opera singer. Comes around here every night to earn a few sous," diving into his pocket.

After the soup they had Chateaubriand with a delicious Bearnaise sauce, rissole potatoes and braised endive, delicately browned.

"Jove, that's a good wine! Wonder how much?" for he had ordered it by merely tapping the empty bottle of the preceding diners.

"Here it is," Helen compared the label with the wine list on back of the menu. "Moulin-a-Vent—only five francs."

"Must be more than that. By George, you're right. I'd like to take home a few cases at that price. Holy smoke, here's vin ordinaire for only sixty-five centimes a quart!"

"Oh, dear, isn't he huge?"

"Fat son-of-a-gun," as an immense tortoise-shell cat passed their table, haughtily disdaining the morsel Helen proffered.

"All the cats are fat and sleek in Paris. Haven't you noticed? If only they were as well fed at home. Oh, what a wonderful salad!" for the waitress had brought on a large bowl of crisp chicory.

"And we'll have some of that—whatever it is," Warren pointed to the small brown jars on another table.

"Creme d'Isijny! Oui, oui, monsieur."

"Creme d'Isijny! Oui, oui, monsieur." that?"

"What next?" Warren took up the menu. "We can afford to blow ourselves here."

"Oh, I couldn't eat another thing! That was both a dessert and cheese."

"Well, we'll have a cordial—we're not going to miss that. Great Scott, look at that list! Everything from Kummel to Creme de Cassis and nothing over one franc fifty! How about a Kirsch?"

"No, that's too strong for me. I'll take an Anisette."

"Enough to go on with," grinned Warren, when the waitress rolled up the wagon, bristling with bottles of every known liqueur. "Best brands, too. Guess we could sell our seats at a pretty good premium in New York, eh?"

Apparently strolling poets were frequent entertainers at the Quarter restaurants, for only casual glances greeted a long-haired "type" in a ragged corduroy coat, who now appeared from the street.

With a profound bow he began reciting in dramatic gestured French. The verses were his own, for occasionally he glanced at his manuscript, his dark eyes glowing with poetic fervor and absinthe.

"Only twenty-eight francs!" amazed Warren when the waitress finally brought the bill. "Must be more than that—she's left out something." Then checking it up, "No, it seems all right. Well, that's what I call my money's worth. Think of getting that feed for about two dollars!"

"I'm going to keep this menu," folding it up to fit her beaded bag. "We'll give this address to the Stevens' when they come over next summer."

"Yes, this is the real thing. These artist birds look like a lot of impractical boobs, but they know where to get good food—and get it cheap."

"And it's clean, too. Dear, it's really a wonderful place! I don't see how they CAN give this food at such prices."

"Huh, the Latin Quarter won't stand for high prices. It'd take more than they spend here in a month for a plate of soup at the Costmore. These velvet-coated Johnnies ought to come to New York. They'd get the jar of their lives if they were held up by some of our strong-arm restaurant pirates!"

SOME men have cultivated for themselves a belief that when Napoleon Bonaparte decided to revisit this sphere he took upon himself the form of certain financial geniuses—chain store kings, floaters of bond issues, and minor lights whom society has seen fit to lock within walls. Yet this reincarnation of Napoleon is hard to establish, for the burden of proof requires, besides a merchandising ability, the innate qualities of kingship.

It is more practical to conscript the souls of dead men whose virtues are neither too godlike nor too uncomfortable. So the vagabond, for whom I have become biographer, claimed to be the reincarnation of Francois Villon, nay, more than that, a lineal descendant of that gracieless poet of the fifteenth century, and it is logical that a man, proud of his progeny, may reincarnate himself as his own posterity. Let us, therefore, be content with this claim of my hero—he was the poetic rogue of old France—alive again in the modern swing and fever of New York, living a life which has excited the aspirations of the humblest who dream vicarious romance. In the Francois Villon that I know is that eternal temperament of the long dead poet who wined and wassailed, who loved and lost, who brawled and insulted his king. In him were the same complexes which allowed his ancestor to talk like a pirate—and to write the loveliest prayer which has ever fallen upon the ears of the Virgin Mary.

Of such a compound then was this Francois Villon of the twentieth century—just as lovable a scoundrel as the man whose blood he asserted flowed through his veins. From the balladier of Louis XI he wholeheartedly took his name, his aliases, his charm. Like his progenitor, he loved every beautiful woman he met, and was true to none. When he dined with silken ladies he dined as Mons. de Duc de Montcorbier. When he was penniless—which he was at the present moment—he was Michel Mouton, or Mike the Mutton, if your elegance will permit, and in this unsavory character he walked a side street of lower New York, his mind engaged upon the small matter of dinner.

Under circumstances similar to these, it has been my good fortune to furnish Villon with food and drink, but upon this particular day I had made an engagement which took me to Mt. Kisco. I had not seen Villon in weeks, not, in fact, since he abruptly quit the old house in Washington Square a few days after his affair with Isabel. I think it was the remembrance of her that had made the place distasteful to him—but that story has been told. Now, his mind was most prosaically occupied with the thought of a meal. As he leisurely took his way his eye fell upon a large canvas sign adorning the front of a red brick building and he stopped to read it:

CHUCK HAGAN ASSOCIATION BENEFIT
DANCE TONIGHT 7:30. ADMISSION
50 CENTS. LADIES, INCLUDING
WARDROBE, A QUARTER.

This modest cost of feminine society mocked him. For a moment he forgot that his original mission had to do with dinner, and then he decided that he not only needed a meal, but that he wanted a beautiful companion as well, and having attended dances of this nature before, he was quite certain that within this hall could be found an unattached cook with an enchanting slenderness and kissable lips. He would not be the first knight to glean his portion from a bourgeois icebox. He lifted his shoulders in a shrug—first the admission money, and after that—well, a clever liar can accomplish much in this world!

On the rather infrequent occasions when I was not in town, there was a corporation operating in New York from which Francois Villon would borrow small amounts. Now it was the admission fee to the dance which he needed, and he was smiling contentedly at the stars above the roof tops when he reached a large, gloomy house near Avenue A. Upon its door post was a small sign announcing furnished rooms. Villon knew that within the house his corporation kept a branch for the making of involuntary loans. He rang the bell.

"Well?" demanded a portly woman who answered his ring.

"I am most sorry to disturb you, madame," said Villon engagingly, as the landlady's formidable face hardened when no baggage was apparent behind her visitor. "I am an inspector for the gas company. We have had a death reported from a broken main in the neighborhood and I should like to see your pipe connections."

"Come in," grumbled the woman, plainly moved by this startling announcement. "I must say it's a nice time to find out about it."

"You haven't a covered light, have you?" asked Villon who walked down the hall toward the kitchen. "There might be an explosion."

This cool statement brought the proprietress to a sudden halt.

"I'll see," she said, and added with the instinct of her kind: "If anything happens I'll sue the gas company. Now, you be careful."

Villon hurried to the kitchen as the woman went upstairs, found the meter, one of those quarter affairs with which the company sells its product for cash, and wrenched off the lock. He removed two quarters and returned to the hall in time to meet the nervous landlady.

"I don't think you need worry," he said pleasantly. "I have twisted the petcock down, and it's all right now, but if you should smell any escaping gas just turn it off at the meter." This jargon which Villon invented to give a technical effect to his "investigation" was swallowed in its predigested form by the woman. "Don't go in with a lighted match," he warned finally, and with these words to give him enough leeway of escape, he disappeared jingling his money and humming happily.

Within the dance hall there was what Villon would have called an Apache crowd. The men were of that type who took their dancing seriously. It was a matter, with most of them, of maintaining an awful dignity, as if each convolution and gyration must be measured to a nicety, and, in addition, the women impressed with the occasion's formality. A purposeful air hung about the place except where spontaneity in the young male developed into the horseplay of mimic pugilism, also designed to impress the female with the extreme superiority and prowess of her lord.

Villon surveyed the twisting throng and wandered in a seemingly aimless fashion from one group to another. Of women with whom he might have danced, whose eyes smiled invitingly to him, there were numbers. In this high-collared, carefully-brushed-hair crowd of men whose clothing seemed to have been carpentered, he stood out in his own easily fitting tweeds like a star in a basket of eggs. Someone touched him on the shoulder.

"Hello, Frenchy!"

Villon turned quickly and recognized the one who had spoken, a compactly built youth who extended his hand.

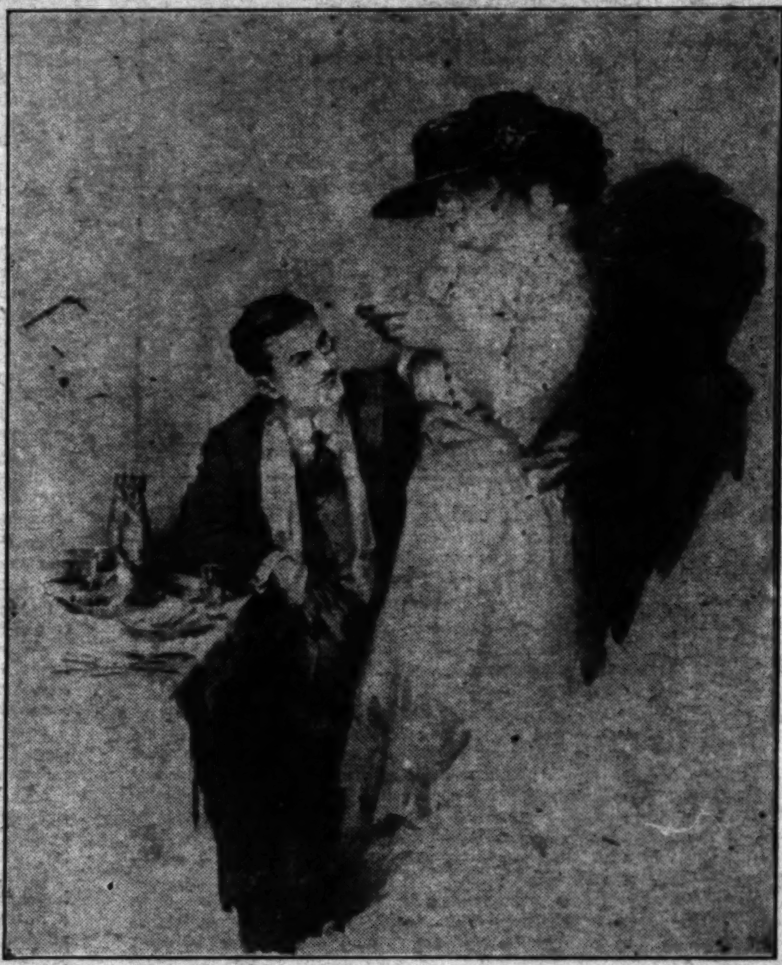
"Diable!" exclaimed Villon. "I thought, by now, you would be in jail!"

The youth laughed derisively at this idea.

"Nix," he scoffed, "I'm workin' a cinch game. Stickin' up street car conductors near the carbarns. What yuh been doin'. Frenchy?"

Villon quickly told some monstrous lies to impress the youngster. In the underworld of New York he had made many dubious friends, and certain of his escapades had become known, and the swaggering denizens who respect men for their fists had learned that the polite Frenchman was not a sugar and water "swell." On one occasion, Villon had forever perfected his prestige by drinking a half dozen of the "gas house gang" under the table.

I cite these facts of Francois Villon not to extenuate him, but to give as true a picture as I can of the vagabond. In all our relationship I never knew him to commit a dishonest action which he was not able to justify, or at least render harmless. He lived his life as hundreds merely dream theirs. It was infinite to him. Living was his occupation and in it he was an adept. As a poet will pick the iambics from a creaking wagon wheel, your painter discover beauties in the mud a fop carefully avoids, Villon, the artist of life, could plumb the motives of his fellow-men. He knew the ideals of a pickpocket, the limitations of a college professor, the envies of a ballet girl. He possessed that supreme gift, a knowledge of and a sympathy with human nature. Had he been an Irishman he would have ruled Tammany Hall.



'You are the princess of the fairy tale," breathed Villon, drawing her to him.

Froma painting by Dalton Stevens.

"Come over and meet a couple dames," urged his friend.

Villon followed across the floor to where a group of assorted women were giggling self-consciously and he was duly presented, with a perfection of etiquette such as can be found only in the amusement frontiers of Fourteenth street.

"Mike," said his guide, "let me introduce yuh to Miss Flynn, Mr. Mouton. Miss Klopfer, Mr. Mouton. Miss Grobelewski, Mr. Mouton. Miss McCarthy, Mr. Mouton."

Villon bowed to each of these new acquaintances, who ranged from the slender Miss Flynn to the large Miss McCarthy, and after he had daintily taken their hands, a blind listener might have thought the dance hall contained the younger sisters of Cleopatra.

"Mike's a frog, girls," said the youth who had engineered these introductions. Then he added facetiously: "Looks like a chef from the Biltmore but he ain't."

"I just adore French cooking," said Miss Klopfer hopefully.

The subject appertained to something in Villon's mind and he enlarged upon it.

"Did you ever have the pleasure of a rabbit stewed in wine? Ah mademoiselle, it is delicious!"

"I fixed one of them things for the missus last night," said the large Miss McCarthy and Villon found a sudden interest in her conversation.

"Then mademoiselle, you are an artiste culinaire?"

"Lay off that stuff, Frenchy," chimed in the youth. "These dames don't get the lingo like us soldiers. He means a cook, Genevieve."

"You shut up," said Genevieve, who preferred the title bestowed by Villon. "I guess Mr. Mouton knows what he's talking about."

Villon appraised his colossal defender and grimaced.

"Perhaps Mademoiselle McCarthy will favor me with a dance?" Mademoiselle McCarthy wreathed her several faces into happy smiles and Villon, swearing inwardly at the fate which had not designed the slender Miss Flynn as a cook, chucked his stout dance companion under one of her chins and whirled her out upon the floor.

"The music's fine, ain't it, Mr. Mouton?" gurgled the delighted girl, who had never experienced such rhythm.

Villon puffed hard to reply.

"It is wonderful mademoiselle, and you—you are like a butterfly. I shall demand every dance."

"Oh, you go on, you just say that."

This was a cut for emphasis and Villon stopped short in the dance, protesting his sincerity and resting his arms and legs.

"Mademoiselle, look at me. I think you have the grace of a bird. Do you doubt that I mean all I say? Ah, ma chere Genevieve, call me Mike and I shall be enchanted!"

And so they danced, Villon filling the girl's head with the most outrageous flattery, quoting, as his own, lines from newspaper poets, naming her from the flowers, squeezing her great red hands, and, although it almost choked him, steering her into vacant corners where he shyly kissed her neck. He wondered if she could cook.

Later he told me of these seductive tricks, and under the cover of his self-pity there was the zest of his escapade. "Was there ever such charity bestowed?" he said, "My excellent friend, you will never know what it is to be poor!"

Villon and the fascinated girl left the hall at midnight. The rogue was hungry, and he felt that in Jonah's place he could have eaten himself free of the whale. He pinched the girl's arm tenderly and allowed her to guide the way.

Genevieve led him northward toward Gramercy Park and stopped at the rear of a large house. Her heart was thumping with the excitement of this conquest. She thrilled under the compliments Villon delivered with the subtleness of a woodman using a broadax. The girl looked cautiously around.

"Ah, dear Genevieve," said Villon, his mind upon the kitchen where this girl was queen, "must we part so soon?"

"Don't make any noise," she whispered, and holding his hand she guided him carefully down a flight of stairs which he judged to be at the servants' and tradesmen's en-credulity in the American people, in flying rumors and news. It is a new development, highly unpromising. We are more and more becoming subject to what I call 'herd impulses,' gregarious impulses, common emotions."

Prof. Eliot pleaded for a radical transformation of the educational system, to obliterate "herd impulses" and to release individuality.

The "herd impulses" to which Prof. Eliot refers were not a characteristic of the sturdy American pioneers, who possessed strong individuality. It has come from dilution of the native stock with the blood of more emotional races; from crowding into cities, and from the substitution of newspaper headlines and motion pictures for individual thought and mature judgment.

Beyond Our Depth.

A STUDENT of the occult, a wealthy man, committed suicide in Los Angeles.

It is dangerous for us, with our finite minds, to attempt to solve the mysteries of the Infinite. There are some things that we may never know. A finite mind cannot grasp the Infinite, any more than you can put a quart of water into a pint pot.

Effects of "Rot Cut."

DR. W. P. GOODSMITH says: "I can tell a 'moonshine' victim the minute I lay eyes on him. They come to us raving crazy. A whisky drunk staggers, he is sodden, and quite often fairly good-natured. But a moonshine victim doesn't stagger. He spins around like a top. His eyes are closed or nearly blinded, and he often has complete or partial paralysis of the brain. He is vicious and wants to kill."

Civilization.

MEDICAL authorities, after examaining thousands of workers, haye shown that the average man uses less than one-third of his lung capacity; that over 400 of his muscles are actually weakened by disuse.

Calling attention to this startling condition, the late E. E. Rittenhouse of the Life Extension Institute said: "Time and labor devices have radically changed the living habits of a vast number of people. Physical exertion has greatly declined. The mortality rate from the wear and tear of life is abnormally gaining. The average American has no time to waste. He is getting bald. His eyes have been strained by the close focus of inside work—hence the eyeglasses. His teeth need attention. He never walks when he can ride."

With every forward step, advancing civilization puts new strains upon the human mechanism.

A civilization that produces such results is a sham civilization.

Greece had a real civilization 2000 years ago, when they taught and practiced "a sound mind in a sound body."

Lumps in the Breast.

A FEW days ago a "cancer specialist" printed in his advertisements the damnably false statement: "Every lump in a woman's breast is a cancer," thus causing much misery and suffering to deluded women.

Reputable physicians are not guiltless in this respect. They often advise an operation whenever a woman has a lump in the breast, although they know—or should know—that such lumps are common during menstruation, or at the menopause, owing to the close connection between the breasts and the sex organs.

Also, they should know that an operation can never possibly cure, but that, on the contrary, in this way a nonmalignant harmless swelling may be transformed into a cancer.

These lumps are due to the stirring up of waste matter in the blood, at the periods referred to. The waste matter is due to overconsumption of mucus-forming food.

By the Pound.

AN AIRPLANE service, from Chicago to New York, will charge passengers by the pound.

This is sensible. Why should an eighty-five pound woman pay as much as a 250-pound man?

In taking revenge a man is but even with his enemy, but in passing it over he is superior.—[Bacon.

Rheumatism Left Him As If By Magic!

Had Suffered Over 50 Years!
Now 83 Years, Yet a Big Surprise To Friends
Regains Strength Goes Out Fishing Back to Business Laughs at "URIC ACID"
How the "Inner Mysteries" Reveals Startling Facts Overlooked By Doctors and Scientists For Centuries

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army over fifty years ago," writes J. B. Ashelman. "Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures,' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now, as if by magic, I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change."

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Mr. Ashelman is only one of thousands who suffered for years, owing to the general belief in the old, false theory that "Uric Acid" causes rheumatism. This erroneous belief induced him and legions of unfortunate men and women to take wrong treatments. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as to try and get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints, by taking treatments supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. Many physicians and scientists now know that Uric Acid never did, never can and never will cause rheumatism; that it is a natural and necessary constituent of the blood; that it is found in every new-born babe; and that without it we could not live!

These statements may seem strange to some folks, who have all along been led to believe in the old "Uric Acid" humbug. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out this truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," a remarkable book now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this particular trouble.

NOTE: If any reader of the Times Illustrated Magazine wishes the book that reveals these facts regarding the true cause and cure of rheumatism, facts that were overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. Clearwater, No. 476-B Street, Hallowell, Maine, and it will be sent by return mail without any charge whatever. Cut out this notice lest you forget! If not a sufferer yourself hand this good news to some afflicted friend.

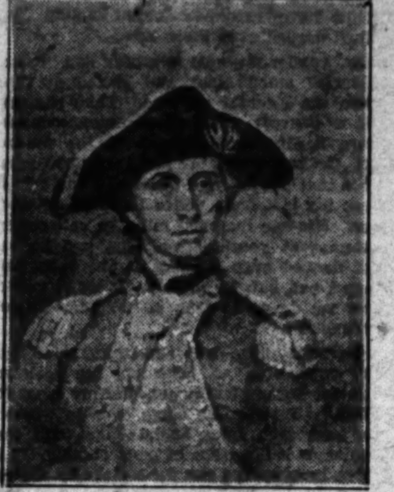
John Paul Jones, America's Great Admiral.

BY MRS. MARY MENDENHALL PERKINS.

DURING a somewhat extended stay in Paris in the year 1905, a Frenchman said to me one day: "Did you know they have found the body of your famous Admiral John Paul Jones in the old abandoned cemetery of Saint Louis, in the northeast part of the city?"

Out of the thousand and one things that were engrossing me in Paris that year this news held its own astonishing significance.



JOHN PAUL JONES.
"I have ever looked out for the honor of the American flag."

I wonder how many Americans realize that for six years previous to that date, our Ambassador to France, Gen. Horace Porter, had been seeking to locate the remains of our lost hero, aided at the last by an appropriation of $35,000 by the Congress of the United States. This first meager fact conveyed to me by one not a compatriot, was followed by an official announcement that the remains had been positively identified and placed in the vault of the American Church of the Holy Trinity on the Avenue de l'Alma, there to await a ceremonious funeral, in which both the French and American nations would unite to pay belated honors to Admiral John Paul Jones.

The great Paris daily, Le Figaro of July 6, contained accounts of the various dinners and receptions which were given by the President of France and Mme. Loubet, the President of the Council and Mme. Rouvier, and the Minister of the Marine, in honor of the Ambassadeurs Extraordinaires Americanes who arrived in Paris to receive and take back to America the rediscovered remains of Admiral John Paul Jones of the Americaines who arrived in Paris to receive eral columns to the social events, which were of such brilliancy as are not often seen even in the brilliant city of Paris.

Roosevelt Sends Squadron to Convey the Body Home.

THROUGH the papers I learned the details of the action taken in my own country regarding this momentous event. President Roosevelt, in one of his quick, wise decisions, had ordered a squadron of ships comprising the flagship Brooklyn, Tacoma, Chattanooga and Galveston, with Rear-Admiral Sigsbee in command, to proceed to Cherbourg and convey the body of the hero to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, where it was to receive permanent interment in the crypt of the New Chapel at that place. Gen. Horace Porter, who had been instrumental in finding the body of Admiral Jones, and Mr. Loomis, First Assistant Secretary of State, were the Ambassadors Extraordinary appointed by the President. Gen. Porter was already in Paris, but Mr. Loomis was sent with Admiral Sigsbee as the special representative of the President from Washington, to receive and bring home the remains of the great sea-fighter. Admiral Sigsbee brought with him 500 blue-jackets.

On July 6 at 3:30 p.m., the ceremonies atendant upon the transfer of the remains began at the American Church in the Avenue de l'Alma. My own opportunity to be present on this occasion is a piece of good fortune for which I shall always be profoundly grateful.

The coffin, placed in front of the chancel, was covered with flowers, while the church itself was beautifully decorated. The audience was of that distinguished character which one sees only in a world-capital. All the highest officers of the government were present, the American Ambassador, Gen. Horace Porter, the man to whose untiring efforts for a period of six years and more, the discovery of the body was due. Mr. Loomis, Special Ambassador from the United States, Admiral Sigsbee, with his captains and staff of officers, Senator Lodge and members of the diplomatic corps all were in attendance. Distinguished people from many countries gladly stood in the aisles and doorways throughout the ceremony. The elaborate uniforms and the beautiful display of flags and flowers made a setting for the solemn scene which was surely one of the most impressive in the world.

Gen. Horace Porter and the French government wished the occasion to be a "glorification of the dead;" consequently anthems, patriotic airs, and "Marches Glorieuses" constituted the music.

Hero's Remains Delivered Formally to Representative of United States.

AFTER the actual funeral service, conducted by the rector, Gen. Horace Porter formally delivered the remains to the United States in an interesting but brief address, beginning with the words: "This day America claims her illustrious dead. In the performance of a solemn duty, I have the honor to deliver to the government of the United States, through its designated representatives, the remains of Admiral Paul Jones, to be borne, with appropriate marks of distinction, to the country upon whose arms his heroic deeds have shed so much luster. It is believed that their permanent interment in the land to whose independence his matchless victories so essentially contributed, will not be lacking in significance by reason of long delay." Gen. Porter referred to the adoption by Congress of the present form of our flag, saying it embodied in the same resolution the appointment of Capt. Paul Jones to command the ship Ranger, and when Jones received the news he is credited with saying: "The flag and I are twins; born the same hour, from the same womb of destiny. We cannot be parted in life or death."

Unhappily they were parted for more than a hundred years, while the one who had spoken those thrilling words lay in an abandoned old cemetery, which had been filled in to the depth of fifteen feet and built over so that shafts had to be sunk and tunnellings made in order to locate his grave. Practically every foot of the space in the old Protestant burying ground was gone over in the course of the excavations, which brought to light the fact, that a mass of skeletons in three layers, one on top of another, were piled like cordwood in one section where bodies had been buried without coffins. Records have revealed that these were the bodies of the famous Swiss guards who were all killed in defending Louis XVI and Marie Antoinnette in the Palace of the Tuileries on Aug. 10, 1792, only twenty-one days after the burial of Paul Jones.

Resting Place Discovered Only After a Three Year Search.

PAUL JONES was known to have been interred in a leaden casket. Three such were exhumed, however, before the one sought was discovered. As each of these bore the name of the occupant, further search was made; when, at last, the one containing the body of Admiral Jones was found, identification, through measurements, and descriptions in the possession of persons in authority, was absolutely complete.

Mr. Loomis, First Assistant Secretary of State and Special Ambassador, received the body of the hero for its second interment, making an interesting speech in which he related some of the most stirring events in the life of Admiral Paul Jones which entitle him to a niche in the Hall of Fame. He also expressed the great gratification of the government of the United States over the recovery of the remains of the valorous sailor.

Admiral Sigsbee received the body from Mr. Loomis, after which eight American blue-jackets, all over six feet in height, stepped forward and carried the coffin from the church. These sailors called forth comment on every side, such as "Quels beaux garcons."

The coffin was placed on a French artillery caisson, or as we would say, gun-carriage, draped with flags. The imposing procession which marched from the church down the beautiful avenue of the Champs Elysees, was formed in the following order: First: the famous French cavalry, the Garde Republicain, followed by the 500 American sailors and the flag-draped gun-carriage bearing the body. Admiral Sigsbee and staff followed immediately. Then came the Ambassadors with Senator Lodge and the personnel of the American Embassy, the French officials of their government, and officials of the various diplomatic corps, delegations from the American Navy League and from the American Chamber of Commerce, Members of the Society of the Cincinnati, Sons of the American Revolution, and many other patriotic organizations. All these were on foot. The immense procession was ended with a battalion of French artillery and one of French infantry, both provided with bands which played martial airs all the way down the Champs Elysees.

Flag-Draped Caisson Passed Through Long Lines of People.

AS THE long column moved down the beautiful avenue and across the imposing bridge, the Pont Alexandre III, over the Seine, which leads to the Invalides, vast throngs of people, silent and sympathetic, lined the way. Every man uncovered as the flag-draped caisson passed by.

I had not realized how strongly I was overcome with patriotic emotion as I watched the passing of the very unusual spectacle, until a woman tapped me lightly on the arm and said: "Vous etes Americaine, n'est—ce—pas?" I was proud indeed at that moment to claim my American birth.

After crossing the Great Esplanade in front of the Invalides, where Napoleon lies in honored state, the coffin was removed from the caisson and placed upon a catafalque erected beneath a royal purple canopy, decorated with many beautiful warlike devices. The troops then all filed by and rendered the highest military honors to Admiral Paul Jones, whose fame has long since been cleared of the opprobious charge of piracy, current for many years through the animadversion of certain prejudiced historians.

At the conclusion of these rites the coffin was placed in a mortuary car and taken by special train to Cherbourg, accompanied by a guard of honor composed of Americans and Frenchmen.

In the harbor at Cherbourg lay the fleets of the two nations, side by side. As the American squadron sailed out the next day, it honored Gen. Porter with a parting ambassadorial salute. In the highly successful outcome of the undertaking, he no doubt felt amply rewarded for his long search, undertaken at first on his own patriotic initiative.

This second burial of one of the greatest sea-fighters of history furnished food for thought to any reflective person who witnessed it. Aided by historic records, I recalled his brilliant and stormy career, ending all too soon here in Paris in the year 1792.

Last Honors Paid to One of America's Greatest Heroes.

IN THE funeral oration delivered on the occasion of his interment July 20 of that year, Mr. Marron, the Swiss Protestant clergyman, said: "May the ashes of this great man, too soon lost to humanity, enjoy here an undisturbed repose." For considerably over one hundred years this mistaken wish had been fulfilled; but now America had claimed her own, and the great admiral was destined to repose for ever in the New Chapel of the great Naval Academy in his own land, the first of our illustrious dead to rest in what will no doubt become the Pantheon of the American Navy. The sight of his tomb there will incite our American youth to patriotism just as the tomb of Napoleon arouses in French hearts the fierce and undying love of country for which the nation is conspicuous. Congress meant this to be, and in the furtherance of its purpose ordered printed and bound 11,000 copies of the addresses delivered at the commemoration exercises held at Annapolis on April 24, 1906, the spring following the recovery of the body, together with other papers and illustrations to be distributed throughout the nation.

When all else in regard to Paul Jones is forgotten one thing no true American will ever forget—the fact that he was one who first raised the American flag at home and abroad, for it was not until that flag was saluted by a foreign power—which happened to be France—that we were recognised as an independent people.

It was then peculiarly fitting that the ranking flagship of the American Navy should "convey in state the bier of our first standard-bearer on the voyage to his home port, and that 'old glory' with many new stars in her firmament should wave splendidly, if mournfully, over his head."

THE CAPITAL AT ANNAPOLIS.
In this beautiful chapel, in the grounds of our great naval academy, the body of Admiral John Paul Jones now rests.

In his short and meteoric career disappointments were as plentiful to Paul Jones as were his successes. By the strange irony of fate, a letter from Jefferson, written by the advice of Washington, announcing his appointment as Commissioner for the United States, to treat with the Bey and government of Algiers, was sent to him in Paris, but it arrived after his death.

Although living abroad, Paul Jones was still a citizen of the United States. He had contracted the fatal white plague through sea-exposure, particularly during the Russian campaign which brought him the title of admiral from the great Catherine II of Russia, and had chosen Paris, the residence of many of his chosen friends, as the place in which to spend his remaining years. He had done his glorious share towards bringing our Revolutionary war to a close. Congress had acknowledged this by voting him a beautiful gold medal, on which was his portrait in bas-relief on one side, and the fighting "Bonhomme Richard" on the other. France was still in the throes of her own revolution, and Paul Jones was anxious to give more of his services to her. He had already been made a Chevalier of Honor for his services in her behalf. He owned a magnificent gold sword, the gift of Louis XVI, bestowed before the end of that monarch's tragic career. His life was to be concluded on foreign soil, but among scenes of love and honor, his winning personality binding to him the hearts of his associates. His character was such that it not only won him many titled friends, such as Lafayette, Count Segur and Count d'Estaing, but it earned him the esteem and affection of Washington, Jefferson, Franklin, Gouverneur Morris and a host of others in the councils of the nation.

Just Before His Death He Addressed French Assembly.

ONLY a week before his death he had made a most felicitous speech at a session of the French Assembly, where he expressed his love for America, for France, and for the cause of liberty, and regretted that his failing health interfered with his future service. He closed with the pathetic words: "But, ill as I am, there is yet something left of the man, not the admiral, not the chevalier, but the plain simple man, whom it delights me to have you call 'Paul Jones' without any rank but that of fellowship, and without any title but that of comrade. So, now, I say to you, that whatever is left of that man, be it never so faint or feeble will be laid if necessary, upon the altar of French liberty as cheerfully as a child lies down to pleasant dreams. I am now ready to act whenever and wheresoever

CARE OF THE BODY.

...payment ... be in compensation. ... his claim can be carried altogether ... to be settled.

"Where the State Insurance Fund is the insurance carrier, these frequent medical examinations and operations mean that the chosen doctors reap quite a harvest. Why so many medical examinations and operations? Why not pay the money to the injured party, instead of to the 'specialists.'

"Again, the doctors are chosen by the employer, the insurance carrier of the commission, and their opinions are very weighty with the commission. Of course the poor injured party may also have his own physician, at his own expense, in addition to these others. But many an injured employee is not able to procure the services of a 'specialist' to combat the 'specialists' that the commission, employers and insurance carriers employ. Consequence is that the injured man is at the mercy of the commission."

Modern Medicine.

"FIRST they pumped him full of virus,
from some mediocre cow,
Lest the smallpox might assail him, and leave pit marks on his brow.
Then one day a bulldog bit him—(he was gunning down at Quogue,)
And they filled his veins in Paris with the extract of mad dog.
Then he caught tuberculosis, so they took him to Berlin,
And injected half a gallon of bacilli into him.
Well, his friends were all delighted with the quickness of the cure,
'Til he caught the typhoid fever, and speedy death was sure:
Then the doctors with some sewage did inoculate a hen,
And injected half its gastric juice into his abdomen.
But, as soon as he'd recovered, as of course
he had to do,
There came along a rattlesnake, and bit his thumb in two:
Once again his veins were opened to receive about a gill
Of some serpentine solution, with the venom in it still.
To prepare him for a voyage in an Asiatic sea,
New blood was pumped into him from a
leprous old Chinee;
Soon his appetite had vanished, and he could not eat at all,
So the virus of dyspepsia was injected in the fall:
But his blood was so diluted with the remedies he'd taken,
That one day he laid him down and died
and never did awaken;
With the Brown-Sequard Elixir, though
they tried resuscitation,
He never showed a symptom of reviving animation:
Yet the doctor still could cure him (he persistently maintains,)
If he could only inject a little life into his veins."

Fresh Air.

FOLLOWING is by Mrs. Andrew J. Holmes:

"The essential of good health is pure, fresh air and plenty of it. Go into the average home and you find the inmates languid, disinclined to exertion and 'all tired out.' The reason this is so is that indoors we usually live in an atmosphere which lacks in life-giving oxygen and is charged with carbon dioxide, a poisonous gas continually being thrown off by each member of the household, together with disease germs that are seeking lodgment in constitutions in which the power of resistance to their inroads has been reduced to a minimum."

High Heels.

A SAN BERNARDINO woman writes:

"I had been troubled for over a year with my back. It seemed as if I couldn't stand the pain. I went to doctors and they thought it 'female trouble,' but couldn't get cured, and from the pain I was almost a nervous wreck. My husband took a pair of my high-heeled shoes to get new heels put on, and by mistake the cobbler substituted low heels. I was angry, but I wore them, and to this day my back has not troubled me, and I haven't used any more high heels.

"Why didn't the doctors tell me? I have had many operations. Perhaps the high heels were the cause of it all."

High heels are the cause of many serious ailments from which women suffer. Why ... they ... not only ... to the health, but they ... ugly. They make women look like freaks. It is refreshing to see a girl with sensible heels. Men may flirt with girls who wear high heels, but the right sort of men don't marry them. If they are so foolish as to do so, they will soon find themselves with a chronic invalid on their hands.

Women who are so unwise as to wear high heels are preparing for themselves a life of suffering.

Rupture Kills 7000 Annually

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO PAD, when adhering closely to the body, cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended, so the rupture CAN'T come down. Send your name today to PLAPAO CO., Block 298, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial plapao and the information necessary.—[Advertisement.

Experiences of a Movie Extra at Sixty.

BY CATHERINE FLEMING.

WHEN my relative declared he had secured an opportunity for me to work as "extra" with a certain film company he laughed and I gasped.

"You're always after thrills, auntie, and here's your chance," he said.

"But—but—my age—"

"Tut, tut," he responded, "you'll find plenty there older than you in years—and in knowledge, too."

That settled it. I couldn't help people being older than I in years but in knowledge—well, if there was anything to learn I wanted to learn it.

Nevertheless I dreaded the ordeal before me. The idea of a woman of sixty aspiring to a place in the film world was a bit appalling. I had seen a great many old ladies on the screen, of course, but most of them had had stage experience in their younger days and that made it different.

Who, in all the civilized world, has not felt, some time in his life, a desire to shine before the footlights or on the silver sheet? If everyone were honest he or she would acknowledge that in the secret recesses of his brain such a wish has fluttered. And in his innermost consciousness that person is convinced that, given an opportunity, he would have become a star of the greatest magnitude.

Perhaps that is the way I felt when this opportunity rattled at my door. Anyway, I grabbed it and hung on like a baby to its first rattle much to the astonishment of my family and the delight of my grandchildren.

"Grandmother's going to be a movie actress," they shouted and I, figuratively speaking, preened my feathers and strutted up and down the living-room.

Age? What matters age when the heart is young? Besides, it is possible that wrinkles and gray hair are not evident on the screen.

"Be on the lot, made up, at 9 o'clock," had been the order. The "making up" was a bit difficult the first day. In a hazy way I remembered to have heard that one must use yellow powder if she did not employ yellow grease paint because white is likely to cause balation, or make one look ghastly, or something like that. As I was to be one of the "mob" grease paint did not seem to me to be requisite, especially as the day was warm. Eventually I compromised on ordinary flesh tint and found it perfectly satisfactory.

There were so many "lens lice" that I was pushed to the background and the flashes in which I appeared were so brief that I could not have distinguished myself in the picture had I not known just where to look.

But eyes are another matter. It is eyes that count most in facial values so as mine were a faded blue I felt the necessity for accentuating them. No one likes to feel that he is of so little importance that no make-up at all is necessary.

But the color to apply to the upper lids was a question that puzzled me. I knew that black, blue, purple, brown and green were each used, but the reason for a certain color I did not know. I have since learned that the tint must subdue or bring out certain characteristics of coloring or features.

Because I possessed a black eye pencil I decided to use black which, under the circumstances, answered the purpose. Having lined my eyebrows, touched up my eyelashes with mascara, tinted the upper lids, powdered my face copiously and painted a Cupid's bow of a mouth, I sallied forth.

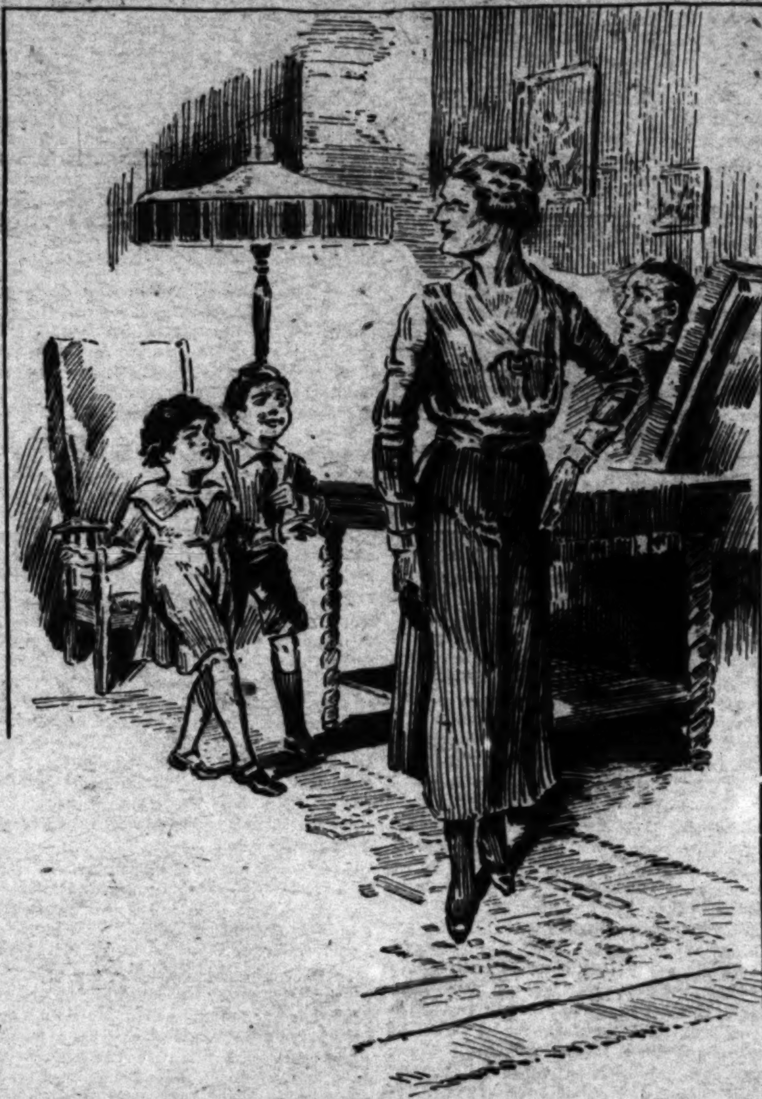
I had had sense enough to steer clear of rouge, knowing that red photographs black and that women who color their cheeks for screen photography look as if they were in the last stages of a wasting illness when the picture is shown.

I was the first extra to pass the gate. The gateman regarded me curiously as he glanced at his watch, but he made no effort to block my progress. Whether it was the mascara on my eyelashes, the color and shape of my lips or my gray hair that brought the flicker of a smile to his eyes I do not know, but that flicker made me shring into myself a little.

The "lot" looked inhospitable and so did the employees who were rushing about intent on the business that brought them a salary. There was a great spreading tree with a bench under it but I, not knowing the prerogatives of extras, did not seat myself on the bench. Other extras did, however, in a short time. There were other benches, but I chose a pile of lumber. It is not the most pleasing feeling in the world to be different.

It was to be "small town stuff" and in my plain, old-fashioned garb I felt poor, out of place and conspicuous—especially with the Cupid's bow, so I surreptitiously eliminated that and felt better. I drew my broad, low-heeled shoes up under me and adjusted the queer, flat hat which my daughter had assured me was especially small town in style.

Then automobiles began to arrive and I forgot myself. It appeared strange that any story should require so many principals for it did not occur to me that extras would come in motor cars. But when greetings were exchanged and references made to "The bit I done in Blank's picture," and "the director said I was just the type for that part he gave me," and similar personalities, I concluded the principals had not arrived and that these important people were just extras like myself, with the difference that they had been in the business long enough to realize how necessary they were to the success of the picture.



"Grandmother's Going to be a Movie Actress," They Shouted.

Presently a hush fell on the company as a distinguished-looking man alighted from a street car and hurried through the gate. He wore a brown Norfolk jacket, army breeches and leather puttees.

"That's the director," one whispered to another. "They say he gets $1200 a week."

"Do tell!" ejaculated the other in a tone of awe.

"Yes, an' us only gittin' $3 a day."

"'Tis a shame, but then you nor me couldn't direct a picture."

"Huh! Maybe you couldn't, but I've my own ideas about directin' screen productions and some of 'em's very different from his'n."

"What's he doing ridin' in a street car if he's gittin' so much?"

"His car's in a repair shop, I guess. I have to send mine there once in awhile. He's got a swell limousine."

I gazed curiously at the two and did not feel so old for, unless appearances were not to be depended upon, both were older than I was. Their eyelids were painted green and I am sure if Cupid had seen the attempt they had made to copy his bow he would have laughed; it was too funny to be vexed over.

Their costumes were a revelation of supposedly "small town" fashions. The story dealt with the present yet these two grandmothers—if they were not grandmothers they should have been—were garbed as their own grandmothers might have been in their youth.

So interested did I become in the clothes of the extras, men and women, old and young, that the call, "Everybody on the set!" seemed to come from a great distance.

Almost every decade for 150 years was represented in hats and garments, and in few cases did the hat accord, in period, with the dress. Men in the coats and stocks of civil war time sported hats that were the fashion during the late Spanish war unpleasantness. However, there were no knee breeches.

The attire of the women was just as incongruous. One aged lady displayed an exquisite Paisley shawl over a limp calico gown and shoes in a badly run-down condition.

One thing was noticeable and it was laughable while it was pathetic. Among the many elderly women present there was not one who did not endeavor to present the attractions of youth. It may have been in the style of hair-dressing, fashion of costume, or in kittenish manner, but there it was, that never-dying, insistent longing for youth—a youth which no amount of primping could bring back, but which each aging person fondly hoped might be brought out by the magic of the "Cupies" and the motion picture camera. I sighed, thought of my own secret aspirations and again rubbed at my lips.

The girls were different. Youth, real youth, is the same whether in town or city. It makes the most of what charms it has and doesn't care whether it represents urban or suburban conditions. How I wished I were a girl again and could wear dainty lawns and ginghams instead of the plain black dress that had seemed proper for such an occasion.

What did the girls care for the mandate, "small town stuff," as they danced between scenes and flirted with youth as represented by male extras in the garb of every-day city life? Small-town people take fashion magazines and go to the metropolis of their section often in these days when every farmer and country storekeeper owns an automobile.

These girls, with their carefully made-up faces, wore dainty, simple dresses which fitted them admirably, and no city maiden could have exhibited better-looking "biscuits" draped over their ears.

No wonder the men in stocks and "Prince Alberts" stood aloof and stared at them when the director shouted, "Take partners for a dance." The ante-bellum costumes were hardly compatible with the fox-trot and the hesitation, but probably nobody noticed that but me, and I had all I could do to keep my feet from under those of my partner. His age matched mine, in spite of his attempt at youthful make-up, and he had not danced even a polka at any later date than I had but, as he said, "It won't matter how we dance as long as we keep jigging around."

Perhaps there was something wistful in my expression as, later on, the assistant director began picking out different types for "bits." Anyway, he came over to where I sat and said, in a businesslike tone that somehow had a trace of understanding in it, "I've been saving you for a close-up. Come."

My steps spelled alacrity as I followed him across the set and seated myself as he directed. There were three of us in the close-up—one of the principals with an extra, myself one of them, on each side of her. We were supposed to be watching the dancers and commenting on them.

"Talk about the dancers and show great interest in what they are doing," was the order.

I followed directions and felt sorry for the other women who showed their interest and animation only by their facial expression, while I bobbed about as if to catch sight of certain dancers whom I tried to point out to my companions. They, apparently, had no interest in individuals.

The camera was very close to us and the lights glared and sent out a terrific heat, but I was floating on rosy-hued clouds of anticipation. I was sure my "action" would reveal a perfect comprehension of what was required of me while that of the other two would show the stolidity of the novice.

Alas! and alack! I reckoned without knowledge. When the finished picture was shown I realized that the other women were "camera-wise" and I was the novice. Their faces were indicative of such great interest that gestures and movement were unnecessary. My face, too, was expressive of the same emotions—when you could see it—but my "animation" was so pronounced that only my shoulder—notice the singular number—was "in the picture" as I bobbed to and fro. Once or twice a fleeting glimpse of my whole face was shown; just enough to prove that a camera depicts exactly what it sees.

It was a trying day as the work was all on the "sets" under the glare and heat of a double row of Cooper Hewitt and Klieg lights—the latter are carbon lights and sear the eyeballs and burn the skin of those unaccustomed to them.

The director was, in studio parlance, "a fiend for shooting" and the number of scenes accomplished before 5 o'clock was almost beyond belief. To his credit, and that of the cameraman, be it said there were no retakes.

Though the work was fast there were ample rests for everybody between scenes as all did not "act" at the same time. During these rests one plainly distinguished the "regulars"—those who worked almost constantly as extras and who had lost their ambition to rise any higher, if they had ever possessed such aspirations. They betrayed no interest in anything once the scene of which they were a part was finished. They read, or did fancy work, if they were women, or engaged in the gossip of the studios until the call for the next scene roused them to a sense of business.

The intimate acquaintanceship these people seemed to possess of stars and their domestic relations, their personal habits and their studio contracts was amazing. One could almost believe it a personal intimacy as he listened to the lingering cadence in the pronunciation of the given name of a chief coroner, Dr. A. Jukes Johnston, he decided that an inquest was unnecessary. It will be strange if public opinion in Toronto approves of this decision. It seems to us that this is a case which demands prompt and thorough investigation. If the chief coroner persists in his determination not to order an inquest, it will be the duty of the Attorney-General to interfere and see that all the facts relating to this tragic misadventure are investigated and disclosed.

"If the two women had died suddenly while undergoing treatment at the hands of a chiropractor, or osteopath, or a practitioner of some other school not recognized by the medical profession, we may be sure that an inquest would have been promptly ordered, and probably an arrest would have shortly followed. We do not mean to intimate that there should be an arrest in this case, for it is highly improbable that any blame attaches to the physician who used the serum. But it is safe to assume that for the deaths of those two women no person is to blame—that the deaths were only a mysterious visitation of Providence? Serums of many kinds are now in common use by the medical profession—each of them a specific remedy in the treatment of some particular disease. The general public should have reliable information about the origin and preparation of these serums. When a patient submits to having a foreign substance injected into his or her veins, that patient has a right to know where the serum came from—whether it was imported, is the product of a reputable firm, or was prepared by some nameless 'Toronto drug concern.'

"If the information which the public has a right to demand is to be withheld and the facts in tragic results of serum treatment are to be suppressed as Toronto's chief coroner desires to suppress them, many people will refuse to permit any physician to pump into their blood something which may prove far more deadly than the disease for which they are under treatment."

The Nobility of Health.

FOLLOWING is from Carlyle's "Essay on Sir Walter Scott:"

"Health is a great matter, both to the possessor of it and to others. On the whole that humorist in the Moral Essay was not so far out, who determined on honoring health only; and so instead of humbling himself to the high-born, to the rich and well-dressed, insisted on doffing his hat to the healthy. Coroneted carriages, with pale faces in them, passed as failures, miserable and lamentable; trucks with ruddy-cheeked strength dragging at them were greeted as successful and venerable. For does not health mean harmony, the synonym of all that is true, justly ordered, good; is it not, in some sense, the net-total, as shown by experiment of whatever worth is in us? The healthy man is the most meritorious product of Nature, so far as he goes."

Selfishness.

FOLLOWING is by Clarence W. Barron:

"What we need to insure the prosperity of the cou y are things of the spirit. It is not more coal or more water power or more horse power. We need the spirit of co-operation and this can be had only by recognition of the law of mutual service. The spirit typified by Prussia in its attempted world conquest is not entirely local to Germany. The spirit of conquest over the neighbor, the spirit to make others subservient to one's self, the spirit to do less and get more, belts the entire world. It cannot be eradicated in a minute; it is the primal, eldest curse, and the cause of all the fall in man. It is just human selfishness."

Political Physicians.

BEFORE the war, there was a movement in Germany to pension physicians of the regular school, because the Nature Cure had made such inroads on their business that they could not earn a living.

Here we don't pension them, but we create for them fat medical-political jobs as health officers of State insurance examiners or so forth, at the expense of the public.

A correspondent writes:

"It seems to me that politics and medicine are getting too nearly related. I wish to call your attention to the practice of the Industrial Accident Commission of the State of California. I have had some 'cases' before said commission, representing the injured employee in each case.

"There is a practice of continually requiring the injured party to submit to first one and then another medical examination. The case is unduly prolonged in this way, and several doctors thus receive fees. These examinations are made, covering a period of months after the accident; and if, in the opinion of an examining physician, the injured employee should submit to a surgical operation or even a series of operations, then the employee must submit or

Getting Mabel Married

BY E. N. FOQUE

THE trouble with marriage isn't only that which you have with your wife but also the bunk you have to put up with from your wife's relations. Barring the usual arguments about what we was going to have for Sunday dinner and who was to get up and light the heater in the morning things had been going pretty smooth with me and Min. At least they wasn't any worse than usual and I was satisfied. But Min's sister Mabel came and by the time she left I wasn't on speaking terms with Min nor any of her family and was on the outs with Tom Stevens who has the biggest private stock in town.

Mabel sure brought disaster and lots of it. That goes literally as well as figuratively. She didn't weigh an ounce over 275 pounds in her B.V.D.'s and the first day she was with us she broke three chairs and crippled the sofa. What made her that way I guess was her fondness for soft custard. She looked like one, too, but wasn't near as easy to take. The only thing in her favor was her cooking ability and she was a living advertisement of that.

It was her cooking that almost landed Tom. He went East last summer for a look at the old homestead and met Mabel and her pancakes. She thought then she had him hooked, but he got away, which was why she come to see us. She wanted to look him up and complete the crime. She almost did.

I told Min that no man in his right mind with as much money as Tom had was going to voluntarily hitch himself up to a human davenport when Broadway and Spring streets were full of ninety-pound squabs. And Min said that when a man got to be as old as Tom he'd lost his taste for lip rouge and it was a girl's disposition that counted the most. She said Mabel had a beautiful disposition and that it was a family trait. If that was so then Min married me under an assumed name.

But Min had the right dope at that because the first thing I knew Mabel was invited to stay at the Stevenses. Tom lived with his married son and I guess there was quite a row when he first suggested it, but he finally said if he couldn't have his lady friends come to visit him he'd go to a hotel to live. And after they saw Mabel I guess they thought it wouldn't be a bad idea at that figuring he would get tired of seeing so much of Mabel. Which wouldn't be hard to do seeing as there was so much of her to look at. Anyway she went over there and I had the furniture fixed.

There was nothing half-hearted about the way they entertained her either. Right away they threw a big party. And it sure was a swell blowout. Dress-suits for the men and undress drapes for the women. You could tell the street car crowd from the limousine gang at first glance. Those who came in a nice warm machine had less on.

I didn't have any dress-suit and thought that would let me out. Ed had one, he's my brother-in-law, another one of the wife's family with ingrowing dispositions, but I didn't see any chance there because he was invited, too. That suited me because the home brew was due to be bottled about that time and I figured it would be more interesting and profitable to attend to that. But Ed got a big job and was getting double time for overtime and lots of it so he decided to stick to his plumbing and let society take care of itself. Another case of high wages being an economic evil because Min egged him on to lending me his suit.

He brought 'em over and said to be careful of them. Said they was the only ones he had and besides his father give 'em to him. After I saw the suit I was willing to bet that the title went back farther than that as the lawyers say. I'm bigger than Ed and the clothes was a close fit. There was places where Min had to use the button hook, and I was sure glad the machine had a self-starter. When she got through I felt like somebody had buried me up to the neck in sand and then tamped it down. I couldn't have carried anything on the hip even if there wasn't any law against it. I had a hunch something was going to happen.

When we got there and Mabel give me the double O to see if the buttons was still holding, Tom took me in the library where they kept the encyclopedia and the private stock and gave me some. It was pretty good, tasting a whole lot better than any brew I'd made to date. I partook freely that is to say I drank quite a lot. Tom didn't say nothing either. I saw later why he didn't.

Mabel come round after a while and said they was going to elope that night and I was elected to drive them over to the county seat. They didn't trust the Stevens's chauffeur and I was to meet them in front at 1 o'clock. I'd had so much Canadian Club by that time that I'd've agreed to anything. That was where I made the first mistake. I made others later on, but that was the worst.

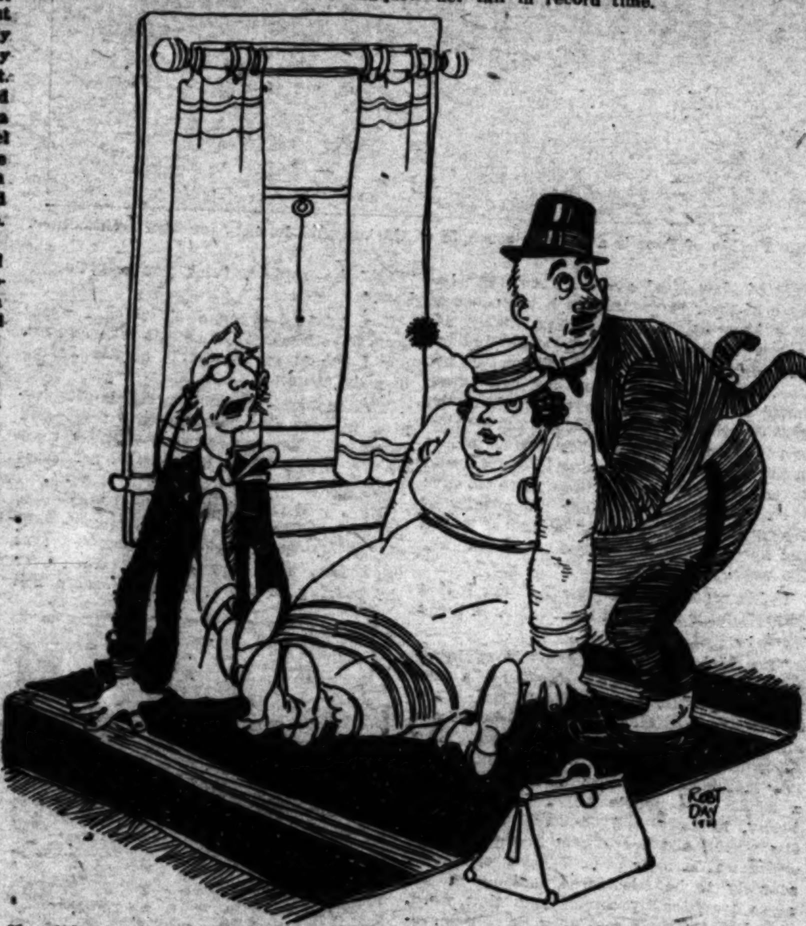
Not wanting to finish the bottle too quickly I put it under the davenport and went out and danced with young Mrs. Stevens. I did pretty good, too, only Min got sore because I didn't dance with her. But why eat ham sandwiches at a banquet. And when the music stopped Mrs. Stevens clapped for an encore and dropped her fan. And being a gentleman I leaned over to pick it up and the damn pants split out where they was the tightest. They was so old they didn't make no noise, just opening up easy like, but I could tell by the feel there was a draft somewheres.

I didn't say nothing, though keeping my head in the face of disaster, so to speak, and slid along the wall coquettish-like and backed into the library where the bottle was. I put it in easy reach and sat down. And a couple of dames come in and kidded me about not dancing and I said I wasn't rigged to navigate in a head wind. They said they didn't know I was a sailor and I told 'em I wasn't but I knew enough not to leave port with leaky seams.

Then Min come in and bawled me out for sticking away by myself and I told her there was a good reason. And she says yes and the reason is bottled in bond. She made so much fuss that I finally got up saying all right, have it your own way. She gave one look and says, "Jake Curtis what's the matter with your trousers?" And I said nothing was the matter with 'em except they split a little, but they wasn't mine and I didn't care. She made me sit down again which was agreeable with me but I told her not to change her mind again.

She went out to see Mabel and after a while she come back and said it was all fixed. I was to sit there until everybody went home and then me and Tom and Mabel was to beat it together. Min said she'd go home on the street car and get a wedding breakfast ready for us when we got back from the county seat.

So I sat there and finished the bottle and everybody went home. I guess I must have fell asleep because the next thing I knew it was dark and Tom was tapping me on the shoulder. He said to wait a minute while he got some money out of the safe so while he was juggling the combination I grabbed the bags and started out. Tom was using a flashlight and it was as dark as the outlook for peace in Russia. I ran into Mabel and she being topheavy anyway lost her balance and fell over. The poor saphead had to pick out a Looey Cans chair to flop into and it spread apart on one side and she slid off. And she slid onto Tom pinning him to the mat so to speak. It was her fall in record time.



She slid onto Tom, pinning him to the mat, and by the time I got Mabel onto her feet again I could hear young Stevens moving around upstairs.

By the time I got Mabel onto her feet again I could hear young Stevens moving around upstairs. Tom got panicky and being unable to get up on account of his knee being wrenched where Mabel sat on it, he said to hide 'em and come back later. So I put Tom in the coat closet and locked the door so young Stevens couldn't find him and rolled Mabel under the davenport. That is I tried too, I finally had to lift it up and put her in back of it. She was puffing like a locomotive crossing the Rockies so I kicked her in the shin to make her shut up.

I was going to fade away myself only just then young Stevens come down and turned on the light. And there was the safe open and me standing there in a pair of bum trousers. And he says that he sees I've changed my methods of robbery. Referring, I suppose, to the reasonable prices I get for suits at the Curtis Cut-Rate Clothing Store.

I told him if it hadn't been for me he'd have been robbed. I worked the old bean at double space for a few seconds and told him I'd come back after Min's coat which she forgot and caught a burglar right in the act of opening the safe. And how I fought with him and if he didn't believe me to look at my trousers.

He said he didn't see no doors or windows open and how did he get out? And I said how did I know. If I was so slick as he was I'd be a burglar myself. He couldn't prove I was lying and if he had I'd have walloped him one. But he got sarcastic instead and started running down our family. Said Mabel was an adventuress and we was all highbinders and Jesse Jameses. And I got sore and told him he didn't appreciate Mabel's disposition and all our family was the same. Then I went home.

Min wanted to know where Tom and Mabel was and when I told her she got peeved. She said I was a congenial idiot, meaning I was a saphead. I got sore myself and told her I'd never do anything for her family again and that Mabel could rot in back of the davenport for all I cared. We argued considerable about it and I finally said I'd go back and show her what a Curtis could do when he set his mind to it. And she said if I let it set long enough it might hatch an idea but she had her doubts.

So I went back after I changed my clothes. The front door was locked and so was the back so I had to crawl in the pantry window. Going through I put one hand in a bowl of gravy and the other on a pineapple. Then I hit my knee on the stove and stepped on the cat. It was lucky they didn't have no fly-paper around or I never would have got out of there.

I got Tom out of the closet and pulled Mabel from in back of the davenport. She wasn't puffing any and it seemed to me she looked different. I wasn't deceived none. She was bigger and she told me her corset strings busted. When she turned around I saw that her dress was as bad off as Ed's pants.

Tom whispered to me to take Mabel and beat it quick because his knee was on the bum. Said he never realized before how heavy she was and he couldn't afford to take no chances at his time of life. He said he was going to bed and put some liniment on his knee. I sat on that idea right away. I couldn't afford to get in bad with Min for all the private stock in the country.

While we was arguing about it young Stevens came downstairs again in his night shirt. He looked at me and says, "You here again?" Naturally I was and I told him his guess was correct. He started to get sore and then he saw Mabel. When he could control himself sufficiently he told Tom to come to bed and let us go home. Said he would like a little sleep that night even if it did seem to be a sort of all night party for some people. And Tom said he'd do as he damn pleased and we all went out.

When we got outside though Tom said he was going to a hotel for the night and for us to go home. Said he'd changed his mind about getting married but he wasn't going to let any young whippersnapper order him around. I tried to catch him but I guess his knee wasn't so bad after all because he got away. Mabel seemed to worry most about her dress. All the way home she kept telling there was $23 worth of silk in it and now it was ruined.

Min sure read the riot act to me when we got to the house, and everything that wasn't anchored began coming my way. So I locked myself in the spare room and went to sleep.

Everytime I see Tom now he pats himself on the hip and looks pleasant but doesn't say nothing. Ed wanted me to buy him a new dress-suit but I told him it was his own fault they got busted because he'd ought to have attended to Mabel's marriage himself. She was his sister and not mine. Mabel even said it was my fault her dress got ruined never figuring that no woman should try to make four yards of silk do the work of five. She went home and married a widower with seven children and Min got a letter from her the other day saying she was going to visit us this summer on account of the children needing the sea air. But that's the bunk. Those kids don't need no sea air. That's only an excuse for her to come here and get even with me by busting up the rest of the furniture.

Take my advice and don't never help nobody to get married. No matter how it comes out they get sore and you get the blame.

Medical Closed Shop.

DRUGLESSS healers continue to be prosecuted by the medical trust in Los Angeles. A chiropractor, who was sentenced to ninety days in jail, or a fine of $200, although able to pay, chose imprisonment, and refused to eat, sacrificing comfort to principle. It was intimated that he might be tried for insanity.

It is not these men, but the medical autocrats, who are insane. "Those whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad." In their determination to enforce the closed shop in medical practice, they are forgetting the record of the ages, and are attempting to turn back the hands of the clock. Persecution has always proved a boomerang. "The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church."

Why will the medical profession never learn by experience? They fought for the closed shop thousands of years ago, when the offices of priest and physician were combined in one person, as they are today in the "medicine man" of the North American Indian. We have evolved from that. The people of the United States, in the twentieth century, will no more endure medical tyranny than they would endure religious tyranny. The Medical Trust is riding for a fall. Unable to maintain itself on merit, it seeks to do so by legislation.

Clair Tappaan of Los Angeles, while digging up some early English statutes, came across this law, enacted in the reign of Henry VIII:

"Any person being no common Surgeon may minister outward medicines.

"Wherein the Parliament holden at Westminister, in the third year of the King's most gracious Reign, amongst other things, for the avoiding of Sorceries, Witchcrafts and other Inconveniences, it was enacted;

"That no person within the City of London, nor within seven miles of the same, should take upon them to exercise and occupy as Physician ro Surgeon, except he be examined, approved and admitted by the Bishop of London and other, under and upon certain pains and penalties in the same act mentioned. Sithence the making of which said act, the company and fellowship of Surgeons of London, minding only their own lucres, and nothing the profit or ease of the diseased or patient, have sued, troubled and vexed divers honest persons, as well men as women, whom God hath endured with the knowledge of the nature, kind and operation of certain Herbs, Roots, and Waters, and the using and ministring of them, to such as been pained with customable diseases: As women's breasts being sore, a Pin and the Web in the eye, Uncomes of hands, Scaldings, Burnings, sore mouths, the Stone, Strangury, Sancelin, and Morfew, and such other like diseases. And yet the said persons have not taken any thing for their pains or cunning, but have ministered the same to poor people only for neighborhood and God's sake, and of pity and charity. And it is now well known, that the Surgeons admitted will do no cure to any person but where they shall know to be rewarded with a greater summe or reward than the cure extendeth unto: for in case they would minister their cunning unto sore people unrewarded, there should not so many rot and perish to death for lack of help of Surgery as dayly do: —but the greater part of Surgeons admitted, been much more to be blamed than those persons that they trouble.

"For although the most part of the persons of the said craft of Surgeons have small cunning, yet they will take great summs of money, and do little therefor, and by reason thereof they do oftentimes impair and hurt their patients, rather than do them good.

"In consideration whereof, and for the ease, succour, help, relief and health of the King's poor Subjects, inhabitants of this his Realm, now pained or diseased, or that hereafter shall be pained or diseased;

"Be it ordained, established and enacted by the authority of this present Parliament, that all time from henceforth it shall be lawful to every person being the King's Subject, having knowledge and experience of the nature of herbs, roots, and waters, or of the same, by speculation or practice within any part of the Realm of England or within any other the King's Dominions, to practice, use, and minister in and to any outward sore, uncome, wound, apotheamtions, outward swelling or disease, any herb or herbs, oyntments, baths, pultes, and emplasters, according to their cunning, experience and knowledge in any of the diseases, sores, and maladies beforesaid, and all other like to the same, or drinks for the Stone and Strangury, or Agues, without suit, vexation, trouble, penalty or losse of their goods, the aforesaid Statute in the foresaid third year of the King's most gracious reign or any other Act, Ordinance or Statute to the contrary hereof made, in any wise notwithstanding."

Benjamin Franklin said:

"When a religion is good, I conceive it will support itself, and when it does not support itself, and God does not take care to support it, so that its professors are obliged to call for help of the civil power, 'tis a sign, I apprehend, of its being a bad one."

The same is true of medicine. We have religious liberty. When shall we have medical liberty? As Dr. Benjamin Rush, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, said: "Medical liberty is as essential as religious liberty."

The Regulator of the Body.

"DOROTHY DIX," in one of her syndicate articles, published in The Times, answering a correspondent, who asked her to tell how to acquire the habit of cheerfulness, writes:

"To one who would fain take an optimistic outlook on the world, I would recommend a good course of liver medicine, as a starter along the cheery road. Nothing puts such hope in your soul and strength in your character, as a judicious dose of calomel. Whenever you have that dark-brown taste in your mouth, and life becomes ashes, cinders and dust in your teeth, beat it for the nearest drug store. The subsequent results will leave you loving your fellowman, and convinced that God is in His heaven, and all is right with the world.

"So many things that we think are spiritual are merely physical. Most grouchiness is the result of dyspepsia. Morbidness is the outward and visible sign of flapjacks and sausage within, and nearly all irritability is overwrought nerves. Good health would cure most of the wrongs of society, for when we are feeling good we act good.

"So if you want to be cheerful, look first to your liver, for not without reason do the Turks speak of one they love as 'The joy of their liver.' Nobody can smile the smile that won't come off unless that organ is doing business properly at the old standard."

This is bad advice. Calomel is a camouflaged form of mercury, the most damnable drug that has cursed the human race, the cause of millions of deaths and chronic diseases. Not health and happiness, but sickness and misery come that way.

There is more truth than poetry in the saying, "Is life worth living? That depends on the liver." When your liver is in good working order, all the world looks rosy. When it goes on a strike, you see everything through blue glasses.

Morbid appetite is one unfortunate symptom of congested liver, and ignorance of this fact is a large factor in the obstinacy of liver and digestive disorders. It must be held in check, as all the "liver invigorators" ever devised cannot relieve congestion. The reason why the appetite is craving is because the cells of all parts of the body are not being properly nourished. The appetite is the voice of these cells, calling impatiently for nutrition, but overloading the stomach, or, indeed, taking a reasonable supply of food, will not satisfy it, so long as the liver is not properly doing its work. Set the liver right, the first thing, then food can be properly utilized, and the incessant cravings of appetite satisfied.

Another unfortunate symptom or effect of liver torpor is constipation, because the bile is an important element for stimulating the peristaltic or muscular, worm-like action of the intestines, besides its saponifying effect on their contents, which renders fecal matter more easily movable. Liver torpor favors constipation, and constipation aggravates liver torpor.

An excellent natural stimulant for a torpid liver—far better than any kind of "bitters"—is a short sea trip. If your liver is shrunken and hardened you will not get seasick. That is why some of you old soaks are surprised to find that you are not affected by the rolling of the vessel, as you were when you were young. This does not mean that a person who does not get seasick must necessarily have a hardened liver. Not at all. Those who are most subject to seasickness are persons who habitually eat wrong, especially of starches, sweets and fats, and have engorged livers.

Other methods of arousing the liver to action are rides on electric or steam cars, or on a bicycle and horseback riding. You may also punch and knead the region over the liver, fore and aft, and bend to stoop and twist yourself sideways, while keeping your face front. Then get your fingers under the lower right rib, and give the liver a little massage. If it is much engorged, you will begin to feel as if you were on board a ship, in a gale. A bandage, worn damp at night, with a dry cloth over it, is a good thing to stimulate the organ.

All this will afford only temporary relief, if you continue to outrage your liver by overeating of starches, and fats, and sweets. Some of the worst cases of "gin liver" are found in those who never drink alcoholic beverages, but use condiments freely. Avoid all fried foods, as you would poison. Also beer, whisky, coffee and cream. Live for a few days on tomatoes and apples, drinking nothing but a little citrus fruit juice. Then adopt a rational dietary, and you will begin to feel as if life were worth living after all.

If you have been insulting your liver for a long time, especially if you have been doping with mercury "liver pills" and that sort of thing, it may take quite a long time before the abused organ begins to respond to good treatment, but it will do so, never fear. And the effort is certainly worth the price, for an able-bodied liver is a most excellent thing to have in the family, not only for you, but for those who come in daily contact with you.

Suppressing the Facts.

LAST week I referred to the case of two women who died in Toronto fifteen minutes after being given an injection of "salvarsan," or "606." A local physician was quoted as saying that such cases frequently happen, but are seldom heard of by the general public. Commenting on this case, the Hamilton (Ont.) Herald writes, editorially:

"On Saturday afternoon, in Toronto, two women suddenly collapsed and died just after they had received serum treatment in the surgery of a prominent physician. The serum used is described as the product of 'a Toronto drug concern.' Dr. McConnell, the physician who administered it to the two unfortunate women, says he had treated them with it before, apparently with beneficial results.

The Pueblo Indians in Fear of Citizenship.

BY GEORGE LAW.

MENTION Indian to persons from the oil fields of Oklahoma; they will immediately begin to speak of fine automobiles, richly furnished homes, graduates not only of Carlisle and Haskell but of Harvard, Dartmouth and other real universities. They will tell you of oil gushers producing from 500 to 2000 barrels a day, at $3.50 per barrel. The Indians get a royalty on each barrel of one-eighth; figure it up. Adaptable? Why, they live elegantly, exclusively. Civilized? Why, the first grand piano ever built by Steinway was ordered by an Indian family. And they were dissatisfied with it; they required the company to gold-leaf the case!

No wonder that certain of our gentlemen in the National Congress got the notion that the Indians have been making tremendous and rapid strides toward civilization since the old Dawes Act of 1887—the vehicle of the Citizenship-With-Land-Allotment policy. It is not surprising that in giving their post-bellum attention to the public exchequer they conceived of a swift economy via the Indian—by legislating all the Indians at once into citizenship, and the Indian service with its annual fat appropriations upon the toboggan of nonexistence.

The Indian Citizenship Bill (H. R. 288) passed the House of Representatives on Jan. 14, 1920. In the Senate it was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs where it is now pending, with the possibility of being considered during the present session.

Measure Contemplates Granting Citizenship to All Indians.

ACCORDING to its sponsor, Hon. Charles D. Carter of Oklahoma, this bill undertakes to do three things: first to give to every Indian in the United States full citizenship; second, to relieve the competent members of the tribe from the incompetent by removing property restrictions; third, to appoint a competency commission to go among the Indians and pass upon the competency of individuals.

The Carter Bill, if made into law, will affect some 170,000 Indians who are now government wards. The passage of the bill by the House was urged upon the grounds that the Indians are not aliens, but on the contrary the First Americans who originally owned all the land; that 12,000 or 6 per cent of their manhood, as compared to 4 per cent of our own, volunteered in the Great War; that the Indians bought more than $10,000,000 worth of Liberty Bonds and contributed generosity to the Red Cross; that the freedom of citizenship is their natural right, and that in the words of Mr. Carter, "The purpose of this bill is a simple act of justice to render the Indian that which has long been due him." In fact, the bill passed as a hurrah measure, assumed, without too close scrutiny, to be a vehicle of reward and reparation for the long sufferings of the red man during what some have called a century of dishonor.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Acoma, N. M., Graduates of Carlyle.

Indians of Southwest Consider the Bill a Menace.

EXAMINING into the situation of the Indians we find that there are some fifty or sixty thousand residing in the Southwest and the Northwest to whom the passage of the bill is a menace. With the exception of the Mission Indians of California hardly any of the far western bands have come into close contact with progressive white communities. Hence citizenship for them is not only impracticable; it is not a boon or act of justice at all, but a precarious turning loose of lambs among wolves.

Particularly is this true of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico and Arizona, not because of their backwardness but because of their long established and peculiarly advanced native institutions. The Indians that used to be hunters and pillagers do not want citizenship because they are accustomed to the gratuity system; but the Pueblos, who have never received gratuities, do not want it because they prefer to live in their own way, continuing to support and govern themselves as they have always done. Moreover they fear the novelty of disorganization, the probable land swindles, and liberties and obligations for which they are unprepared.

The Pueblo of Taos is a striking example o the only indigenous American architecture.

In his report for the year 1872 the Indian Commissioner speaks of the Pueblos in these words:

"The history of the Pueblos is an interesting one. They are the remains of a once powerful people, and in habits and mode of life are still clearly distinguished from all other aborigines of the continent. The Spanish invaders found them living generally in towns and cities. . . . They are a remarkable people noted for their sobriety, industry and docility. They have few wants, and are simple in their habits and moral in their lives. They are, indeed, scarcely to be considered Indians, in the sense traditionally attached to that word, and, but for their residence upon reservations patented to these bands in confirmation of ancient Spanish grants, and their continued tribal organization, might be regarded as a part of the ordinary population of the country. . . . Each village has a distinct and organized government, with its governor and other officers, all of whom are elected annually, except the cacique, a sort of high-priest, who holds his office during life."

While They Are Civilized Their System is Different From Ours.

THE commissioner observed fifty years ago what a great many travelers are observing today, that the life of these people is distinctly civilized and on a plane comparable with simpler aspects of our own; but that their system is entirely different.

Between that time and this day schools have been established in most of the villages, and a small percentage of the people has received supplementary education in the large reservation and nonreservation Indian schools. But the remarkable part of their story is that education and white influence have hardly affected the surface of their traditional way of life. They remain today the most conservative, and strangely enough the most thrifty, incorruptible and worthy Indians with whom we have to do. And they afford also the most picturesque and fascinating element in our composite American life. Hordes of tourists, artists, writers and scientists are drawn to their quaint mud and stone cities and prehistoric necropoles each year.

Some years ago while living in Santa Fe I was wont to attend the fiestas at the various villages, often remaining for several days as the guest of Pueblo friends. Recently I was motoring near the village of Santo Domingo when some Indian men employed in road construction hailed us to explain how to cross a sandy wash where the bridge was being repaired. The face of one of them awakened old memories.

"Are you not Clemente?" I asked.

He stared at me a moment in surprise.

"Yes," he replied, "and you are George Law."

Ten years had gone by since I spent three days beneath Clemente's father's roof. (Or I should say mother's, as the women own the houses.)

The incident received added impressiveness from a circumstance that transpired later; with but one or two exceptions, none of my former white friends and neighbors recognized me at all!

The joy of renewing old friendships made our visits to the various pueblos particularly delightful. Then I shortly discovered that the people were very much disturbed over the bearing of the Carter Citizenship Bill upon their own future. They showed me communications from Washington; made known their fears, desires, hopes; and invited me to their councils.

A Happy and Thrifty Hopi Family.

Pueblo Indians Are Opposed to the Citizenship Grant.

THE sum of the matter is this: The Pueblo Indians do not want to be made citizens in our nation; they desire neither the benefits nor the obligations of our civil code; the ballot is meaningless to them; the courts are a strange and, as past experience has shown, unfriendly tribunal; our system of owning property privately is opposed to their communal custom; while the hazard of separating from the tribe and competing as individuals in the open arena of civilization foretokens certain misfortune.

There are eighteen villages of these Indians in New Mexico. They are solidly united in their intelligent and justifiable stand against citizenship. The nine Pueblo villages of the Hopi reservation in Northern Arizona, being more isolated and not possessing the fee to their lands, know almost nothing, and care less, about citizenship legislation. They are the ultra fact in Indian conservation; and their almost waterless desert is their best protection. But I asked different English-speaking individuals among them what they thought of citizenship. The vague, irrelevant answers revealed how complete and profound is their ignorance of our institutions. To compel them to live as citizens would amount to destroying the foundation of their lives. Certainly our government would not do this except through sheer ignorance of their situation.

The total Pueblo population is in the neighborhood of 12,000. These people, whether Hopis, Zunis or Rio Grande Indians—whether comprehending or in the dark as to what may happen to them—are all in the same predicament. They are schooled in their own way of life, but only superficially in ours; they know how to support themselves and find happiness after the methods of their ancestors, but by ours they are confounded; they are further along a certain path of natural social development than any other group of aborigines, but that path is different from ours.

The Matter of Having to Pay Taxes is Principal Bugaboo.

SO THEY fear what is strange and novel the thing unsuited to them, foreboding evil and destruction. My Pueblo friends who talk English or Spanish tell me that they fear citizenship lest their lands be sold for taxes. The tax matter is their bugaboo. With the generous rights of citizenship come obligations, as of course, is just. But these people do not want the boon, and they are not equal to the obligations. Their lands for the most part are unproductive desert washes, hills and lava beds. The arable acres are few and produce barely enough for food and the next season's seed. And these few good acres in the river valleys are the very ones that would be sold—the little desirable land that Mexicans and local whites, I regret to say, are eager to despoil them of This gone the Indians would be destitute.

Citizenship is at present a real menace to the Pueblo Indians. If the bill goes through they should be excepted—every last one of them from Taos in Northern New Mexico to Hotevilla in Northern Arizona. Possibly in time, with continued perseverance of white school-teachers and missionaries, the Pueblo Indians will be fitted for citizenship. But this will not be in the present generation nor in the next.

Safety First.

"Of course," said the lady to the druggist, "it may be perfectly harmless, just as you say; but then, you know there has been so much exposure of patent medicines and such like goods that I—"

"My dear madam,' interrupted the druggist, "I beg to assure you in the strongest terms that you need not apprehend any—"

"I know; but I read in one newspaper where lots of people had acquired the drink and drug habits through using such remedies, and—"

"Impossible in this case. Why, you can see for yourself that—"

"Will you give me your word of honor that it contains no alcohol?"

"I would swear it on oath,' answered the druggist.

"Then I'll take it." And then the druggist wrapped up the porous plaster for her. —[Unidentified.

A Conservative Barometer.

A number of New York sportsmen, putting up at Bill Baker's Maine camp, found their sport much interfered with by rain. Still—fine or wet—the old-fashioned barometer that hung in Bill's general room persistently marked "set fair."

At last one of the party drew Bill's attention to this curious glass. "Don't you think," he said, "that there's something the matter with your glass?"

"No, sir," answered Bill, indignantly. "She's a good glass, an' a powerful one, but," he added reflectively, "she ain't moved by trifles."—[Unidentified.

ROMANCE OF MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTS.

Fool." Keeping no guard over his tongue, he showed himself without control in other respects. He is said to have drawn his dagger on an official who brought him a disappointing message. To his wife, who had done so much for him, he was brutal and ungrateful. Ill-mannered, petulant, resentful, he was anxious to enjoy royal privileges without displaying energy or insight in transacting the necessary business. His plighted word was worthless.

Riccio's Dastardly Taking off Fired the Queen's Heart With Vengeance.

WHEN, therefore, he joined in the conspiracy to murder David Riccio, whom he had come to dislike bitterly—in large measure because Riccio discharged duties for Mary that really belonged to him—he signed his death warrant. The blood-stained room in Holyrood Palace is still shown where Riccio was done to death by his enemies; after being torn from the side of Queen Mary, then far gone in pregnancy. And Darnley was father of her unborn child, afterwards James the Sixth of Scotland and First of England! A deep revenge settled in the heart of his incensed wife, who remarked, in passing the grave of Riccio, that a fatter than he would soon lie beside him.

James Hepburn, Earl of Bothwell, at least had been loyal to her, and to him she transferred her affections, and the business of deliberate revenge. At one time commander of the Scots at the Court of France—who guarded the person of the French king, and every one of whom ranked as an officer and gentleman—he was a man of culture and conduct; "fierce, passionate, unyielding and strong. A greater contrast could not be to the false, fleeting Darnley, the bully with a heart of wax. In him Mary had more than enough of bloom and youthful graces; she could master him, and she longed for a master. If then she loved Bothwell, her love, however wicked, was not unnatural or incredible." Such is the verdict of Andrew Lang, in his "The Mystery of Mary Stuart. A Cavalier by sympathy, whose Scottish hero in his History of Scotland, is James Graham, Marquis of Montrose, Lang would naturally say all that he could in Mary's behalf. But with the murder of Riccio, he registers the breakdown of Mary's character. Henceforth, Evil, in the form of deliberate revenge to be inflicted on a faithless and brutal husband, was her good.

Loathed by his wife, trusted by no one, despised by his former associates who became reconciled to the queen, Darnley sought to escape to France; but he was forbidden to leave the realm. He refused to attend the christening of his son, who was born in July following Riccio's murder. Then, struck down by smallpox at Glasgow, he was visited by Mary, who pretended wifely solicitude, and urged him to come to Edinburgh. There the net closed round him in the doomed room at Kirk-of-Field.

Edinburgh University Now Occupies Site on Which Darnley Died.

ONE of the valuable books, gifted by Judge Blackstock, Collegiate Churches of Midlothian (Bannatyne Club, 1861,) gives an excellent account, with maps and pictures, of this historic spot, now occupied by the quadrangle of Edinburgh University. Indeed, as students in the Greek class there, we used to say that we were seated in the exact place where Darnley was murdered. By the time of Mary the buildings were inclosed in the city walls, although the place had been a southern suburb at the time of Flodden. The buildings, in the shape of a quadrangle, with pleasant garden attached, were originally built in the thirteenth century by Preaching, or Black, Friars of the Dominican order. King Robert the Bruce and other Scottish monarchs were benefactors; and the inclosure extended from the old High School and Royal Infirmary westward to the present site of the university. The name Kirk-of-Field translated the Latin, Ecclesia Sanctae Mariae in Campis. Just before the breaking up of the monasteries during the latter half of the sixteenth century, John Hamilton, Duke of Chatelherault was granted a free charter to build a mansion-house on the premises. With the suppression of the monasteries, the place was purchased for the site of a college in 1563; and this intention on the part of the Town Council to found an academic institution for the training of ministers and teachers finally matured in the year 1581. Edinburgh University, though today the largest and strongest of the four Scottish universities, is the youngest, and the only post-reformation foundation. Until the year 1858, when an Act of Parliament brought the four universities into greater harmony and modernized the constitution of all four, Edinburgh University was practically managed by the Town Council.

Queen Was Aware of the Fate Which Awaited Her Consort.

IT WAS, then, to this rising ground at the south end of the capital—an attractive spot among leafage—that the hapless prince was brought in a litter. He occupied the house of the Provost—the title borne by the former heads of the monastery. Here Mary visited him frequently and the breach between them seemed to be healed. But on their last evening together she made an ill-omened reference to Riccio. When she left him on this evening of [illegible] 1567, we know through the narrative of her own French secretary, Nau, that she was aware of the powder that had been placed in the chamber beneath the sick room. She excused herself, after spending hours at his side, that she might attend her servant, Sebastian's, wedding at Holyrood Palace, which lay about a mile to the northeast. By 2 o'clock in the morning the town was alarmed by the sound of an explosion and the news was early spread abroad that the house in which the king was lodged had been blown up and the bodies of Darnley and his valet, Taylor, had been found in the adjoining garden.

So the prophecy made over Riccio's new-made grave in the spring of 1566, when she fled from Holyrood—"ere a twelvemonth was over a fatter than he should lie beside him"—was now fully justified. The man who was universally credited with the crime, Bothwell, came openly into the queen's good graces; all inquiries that would have compromised his character were suppressed. She retired with him to Seton House in seeming good spirits, and there called for the tune, Well Is Me Since I Am Free. They played golf together, and indulged also in the sport of archery. No attempt whatever was made to avenge her husband. Bothwell applied for a divorce from his wedded wife, Lady Jane Gordon, and within three months became Mary's husband.

It is a sad story of triumphant revenge, followed by the certain Nemesis. For Mary it meant imprisonment at Lochleven, the short but decisive battle of Langside after her escape, the ill-judged flight across the English border, nineteen years of imprisonment and the final tragedy of Fotheringay. For Bothwell it meant flight across the North Sea, and ten years of exile in Denmark where his remains rest in the old church at Faarvejle. To quote the words of M. Jusserand, now our French Ambassador, and then at the Danish court, who visited the place twenty years ago,

"Our poor queen's last scoundrel lies low in a darksome place."

A PERFECT LITTLE LADY.

GEORGE M. CROSBY.

GENE, the bell-boy, was enamored of her—perhaps you'll be interested.

He claimed she was easily the most beautiful lady in the house. "So fresh from the angels," he remarked to her grandmother.

The little lady usually wore pink knickers with big white buttons around the waist.

Of a sleepy afternoon Gene was busy leaning on the counter trying to write a letter.

Los Angeles.

Dear Red: Am still here and having considerable fun. Not a bad sort of a place—it's a home, a living, with the chance of doing a bit of scribbling on the side—on the hotel stationery. The clerk is upstairs somewhere making beds or mental notes of the lay of the rooms and suites. He's new here, too, you know.

Let me tell you what I'm looking at—a perfect little lady. Her eyes, very blue and very soft, appear to focus on nothing at all; yet nothing escapes them. That she is thoughtful as well as beautiful was just proven. In the window corner is a davenport wherein the girlie sits. Close by sits her grandmother with her back to the great window. The sun was striking her newspaper, when the little one rose and lowered the shade a bit and was thanked for her gracious act.

The little lady has no book of fairy tales, no doll or tatting to keep her out of mischief. She is humming, building air castles maybe, while nestled cozily amongst the pillows. Now she is admiring the patterns on the ceiling. Now she is glancing this way—up to the light overhead. Her eyes drop, then sweep about the lobby and out the window.

A fat little girl is playing with a small boy on the lawn opposite. She watches them till the two run away; then flashes another glance at the scribe. Evidently she figures him—me—a flirt, as her lips move, probably reporting me to her grandmother.

The stillness is broken by the rustling of the newspaper as grandmother lowers it and peers over her glasses. A pleasant nod and no reply to the girlie, and she returns to the news of the day.

Oh! I forgot to tell you that the little lady is burnt a rich brown, her skin so clear that one might wonder is she careful about her food and hours of rest. Her halo is a mass of spun gold completely hiding her shoulders. A glorious pink ribbon rises from her crown. Her tanned legs are quite slim and graced with white sox. Now for action!

Absent-mindedly she measures the length of her pleated skirt—just to the bottom of her baby-pink knickerbockers. Up she glances right into the eyes of her admirer and reaching for the corners of the ruffled pillows, draws them together and disappears. Slowly the pink, pink ribbon turns this way to tell the tale of her peeking. Her nose appears and with a graceful wave of her arms she throws aside the screen and lets her marvelous eyes rest calmly—yea, coldly, I'll say—on the face of the bell-boy with whom she was really flirting—innocently though.

How he longs for a smile, however faint—just a sign of wanting to be out and out friends. But she yawns straight at him as though saying: "You're nothing at all in my sweet young life." Another yawn as she shakes out her skirt. Is she vain of her outfit—or is she only comparing the white of her dress with the tinted knees—one of them scarred?

Too bad she misses the effect of the ribbon, the hair, the eyes and the angelic face.

"They toil not neither do they spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not—." The interruption, Red, was not because of a switchboard or elevator call and it must not be laid to the well-known serious paper famine. The grandmother and little one [illegible] would [illegible] and [illegible] little lady held tight to her grandmother's [illegible] with both of hers, and followed in the [illegible] of the black silk dress, her face completely hidden. Grandmother bade her come out of it and meet her admirer. Out she came like a good little girl—with the back of her head toward the counter.

The elder laughed and led her away. Before reaching the door the girlie began making backward glances. "Good-by, Alice," I called to her, and though she made no reply I was content with two startled winks from the marvelous eyes. Her thumb was in her mouth so she could hardly be expected to wave or speak a farewell. Anyway, in her sight I was only a flirt, while she?—surely a perfect little lady.

The Romance of Mary, Queen of Scots.

BY JAMES MAIN DIXON.

THE tragic story of the Stuart Queen who lost her life on the scaffold never loses its fascination; nor will her personality be soon forgotten, associated as it was with a fascinating exterior and willful and impetuous ways. And whatever may be the verdict of capable and fair-minded historians regarding her guilt, she will always have wholesale partisans. Three and a half centuries ago the Scottish nation decided emphatically that she had sinned grievously against the sixth and seventh commandants; and this rooted conviction helped to strengthen the solid Presbyterianism that was then established in the realm for good, having Edinburgh as its capital and center. With the rise of the romantic school of writers and historians, however, which flowered in the novels of Sir Walter Scott, the Puritan verdict, which had held for a good two centuries, was assailed, and youthful Scots of the nineteenth century were taught to sympathize with their unhappy queen. One of her stoutest champions was the lawyer-poet Henry Glassford Bell, whose sympathies were intensely on the cavalier anti-Puritan side, and who made a hero of Claverhouse. Hitherto in his native Scotland the name of John Graham of Claverhouse had been execrated, as the "bloody Clavers." Glassford Bell made it his aim to recall the verdict both in his case and in that of Queen Mary. In both cases he chose the vehicle of poetry, apostrophizing Claverhouse, in his Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers, as:

"Last of Scots and last of freemen."

the worthy successor of that other Graham, Marquis of Montrose, who also fought and died for the Stuarts.

Poetic Version of the Lovely Queen's Dramatic Resolve.

GLASSFORD BELL'S poem, "Mary Stuart;" copied into some of the most popular academic readers in the Scotland of my youth, used to be a particular favorite on the school platform, each successive scene in the drama of the queen's life being introduced by the histrionic words, "The scene was changed." Here is one of the scenes:

"The scene was changed—It was an eve of raw and surly mood,
And in a turret-chamber high of ancient Holyrood
Sat Mary, listening to the rain, and sighing with the winds
That seemed to suit the stormy state of men's uncertain minds.
The touch of care had blanched her cheek, her smile was sadder now;
The weight of royalty had pressed too heavy on her brow;
And traitors to her councils came, and rebels to the field;
The Stuart sceptre well she swayed, but the sword she could not wield.
She thought of all her blighted hopes—the dreams of youth's brief day,
And summoned Riccio with his lute, and bade the minstrel play
The songs she loved in other years, the songs of gay Navarre,
The songs, perchance, that erst were sung by gallant Chatelar.
They half beguiled her of her cares; they soothed her into smiles;
They won her thoughts from bigot zeal and fierce domestic broils.
But hark! the tramp of armed men! the Douglas battle cry!
They come, they come! and lo! the scowl of Ruthven's hollow eye!
Stern swords are drawn, and daggers gleam—her words, her prayers are vain—
The ruffian steel is in his heart—the faithful Riccio's slain!
Then Mary Stuart brushed aside the tears that trickling fell:
'Now for my father's arm,' she said, 'my woman's heart farewell!'"

University of Southern California now Owns Valuable Collection.

BESIDES writing a two-volume History of Mary, Queen of Scots, Glassford Bell contributed an introductory note to J.F.N.'s Mary Stuart and the Casket Letters, published at Edinburgh in the year 1870. The slim volume is now in the library of the University of Southern California, having been gifted with twenty-seven other valuable books, nearly all bearing on events in Queen Mary's life, by Judge N. Blackstock of this city.

A native of Tennessee, Judge Blackstock came to California forty-five years ago, and was for thirty years a resident of Ventura. Of Scotch-Irish stock, he attached himself to the active Caledonian Society there; and happened to engage in a discussion over certain events in the career of the hapless Scottish queen. The subject caught hold of his fancy and he became so interested that he wrote and delivered several lectures thereanent. Not only so, but he visited Scotland, where he picked up fresh material. Some of the books are quite rare. For instance, it was a year before the Edinburgh bookseller, through advertising, could secure a copy of George Buchanan's Detection of the Actions of Mary Queen of Scots in the English translation of the year 1721.

This noted scholar, the finest Latinist of his time, and a writer of tragedies as well, showing a poet's imagination, does not shine in the Detection. He had been classical tutor of Mary, who rewarded him by conferring on him the revenues of Crossraguel Abbey in Ayrshire, the picturesque ruins of which are still worth a visit. His career had already been of a cosmopolitan kind. He was for some years professor of Latin at the College of Guienne in Bordeaux, and, when driven thence by the plague, served for three years in the faculty of the College of Cardinal le Moine at Paris. Next we find him as lecturer at the University of Coimbra in Portugal. When the crucial events connected with Darnley's murder made it necessary for every Scot to be either for or against Mary, he took up the case warmly against his former pupil, whose high virtues he had hitherto warmly celebrated.

Buchanan tries to make a complete villain out of Bothwell and in doing so unfairly besmirches his queen. Her lapse begins, according to him, with her attempt, in September, 1566, four months before Darnley's death, to reconcile Bothwell with Maitland of Lethington. This wily Scot, the ablest man among them all, dubbed "Michael Wylie" (Machiavelli) by his compatriots, had come under Darnley's displeasure. In his Mystery of Mary Stuart, which appeared only eight years ago, and fairly well sums up the case for and against the queen, the historian-essayist, Andrew Lang states that "In September, 1566, Mary certainly was in Edinburgh, reconciling Lethington to Bothwell, and also working at the budget and finance in the Exchequer House. It was large and had pleasant gardens to it; and next to the gardens, all along, a solitary vacant room,' says Buchanan. But the real charm, he declares, was in the neighborhood of the house of David Chalmers, a man of learning, and a friend of Bothwell. The back door of Chalmers's house opened on the garden of the Exchequer House, and according to Buchanan, Bothwell thence passed through the garden to Mary's chamber, whence he overcame her virtue by force. She was betrayed into his hands by Lady Reres."

This lady was a niece of Cardinal Beaton and aunt of Mary Beaton, one of the Four Maries celebrated in song; described by Buchanan as "a woman very heavy, both by unwieldy age and massy substance." A few days after the abominable act of Bothwell, if we are to trust Buchanan's story, the queen, who was still at the Exchequer House, sent this veteran procuress to summon that nobleman. Instead of choosing one of her young girl attendants for messenger she must needs let old Lady Reres down by a string, over an old wall, into the next garden. . . . Behold, the string broke and down with a great noise fell Lady Reres." Buchanan cites the confession of George Dalgleish, Bothwell's valet, to support his story, but in the report of this confession, printed in the Detection, no such details are present.

Scotland's Romantic Queen Long a Bone of Historical Contention.

THE advocates of Mary's case had in Buchanan's story, describing an impossible villainous Bothwell and a strangely facile Mary, a good case of falsified history to begin with. But, unfortunately, the mistakes made in the prosecution by no means establish the case for the defense. A short resume of the career of the queen at this critical time may be in order. The tragic death of Henry the Second of France, killed accidentally at a tournament by the Count of Montgomery, April, 1559, made the youthful Mary Queen-consort of France. But she was not crowned along with her husband, Francis the Second, at Rheims the following September, seeing that a French queen-consort had to promise at her coronation to do nothing without her husband's consent; and as Mary was Queen of Scotland in her own right such a qualification would have struck at her royal dignity. Perhaps in compensation all the other ladies at the ceremonies wore only plain black, silk or velvet. Clad in her jewels and finery she watched the proceedings from a gallery in the historic cathedral so abused by German guns in the recent World War, though happily not demolished.

Mary was Queen of France for only fourteen months her boy-husband dying in December, 1560, the least corrupted of the sons of Catherine de Medici. In the summer of the following year she sailed for Scotland, putting into Leith Harbor a week sooner than was expected, at 6 in the morning, in a heavy fog. There was nobody there to meet her; the ship containing her horses had been taken by the English, and only a few ponies were available, with shabby old saddles and bridles; but her subjects gave her a warm welcome to make up for other deficiencies. The manner of their welcome was not appreciated by the Frenchman Prantome. She was serenaded at night by a company of musicians, whom he describes as "500 or 600 ragamuffins singing psalms out of tune to the vilest fiddles and little rebecks." The music, however, pleased John Knox.

She presided over a splendid court for the next four years and was very popular among her Scots. Her hand was sought by Spanish and other princes, but in July, 1565, she surprised the world by marrying Henry Darnley, then in his twenty-fourth year, being one year her senior. He was a Stuart, his father being Earl of Lennox, of a Catholic family; and the choice alarmed the Protestants in her realm. Darnley's mother was a granddaughter of Henry VII of England and a niece of Henry VIII. She was thus a full cousin of Elizabeth, whose dubious rights to the throne of England, never recognized by the Roman Catholic church, made her sensitive to the privileges and prosperity of rival claimants. Darnley would have required all the wisdom of a trained diplomatist to steer his way among the shoals; but his marital conduct was foolishness itself. Created Duke of Albany by his royal bride and later proclaimed — though illegally — King of Scots by her order, he became an open target for ill will and jealously and revealed all his worthlessness.

He was a handsome, accomplished man, spoiled by a doting mother from whom he may have inherited many of his characteristics. Just as Henry the Eighth was built more after the likeness of his portly maternal grandfather, Edward IV, than his Welch father, so his sister, Margaret, was less a Tudor than a Yorkist. She became the wife of James IV, who fell at Flodden; and through the son she bore to him the Stuarts finally succeeded to the English throne. As a royal widow she showed herself headstrong and imprudent, and got into trouble by marrying a lad of nineteen—Archibald Douglas, Earl of Angus, or "Anguish," as her uncle, Henry VIII, and his court would spell the name. The marriage was unhappy and resulted in a divorce; whereupon the willful woman married a third husband, Henry Stewart. Her marital experiences, therefore, resemble in a way those of her much-wedded brother, Henry the Eighth. She took refuge from her Scottish troubles at his court at Greenwich, and the little Margaret Douglas was petted by her uncle, who was fond of children.

Enter Comely Prince of a Fair and Large Stature.

THE nobleman whom Margaret married, Matthew Stewart, Earl of Lennox, chose to regard himself as heir to the Scottish throne, disregarding the claims of the Hamiltons, Dukes of Chaterherault, as being illegitimate. Much care was devoted to the physical and mental training of their son, who at the early age of 9 wrote to his cousin, Mary Tudor, quite a learned letter in a script like copperplate. When first Mary met him, she was highly impressed by "the comeliness of his sweet behavior, personage, wit and virtuous qualities, as well in languages and lettered sciences, as also in the art of music, dancing and playing on instruments." He has been described for us as "a comely prince, of a fair and large stature, pleasant in countenance and well exercised in martial pastimes upon horseback as any prince of the age." Probably no handsomer royal couple were ever wedded than Queen Mary and Lord Henry Darnley; an event which took place in the chapel-royal of Holyrood—recently restored—on the 25th of July, 1565. But a private marriage is said to have preceded the public ceremony in David Riccio's apartment at Stirling Castle.

His subsequent behaviour was such as to earn for him the title of "The Young "Mary Stuart and the Asket Letters," published in Edinburgh in 1870. A very rare and valuable book.

THE HOW IN HOUSES

HOW TO PLAN · HOW TO BUY · HOW TO SAVE

IN LAST week's article the earlier English furniture styles were discussed in brief, two types of the Jacobean chair, the Cromwellian and the Charles II being illustrated.

When the last Stuart king was banished and William of Orange came from the Netherlands to take the throne with his wife, Mary, daughter of the deposed King, James II, two influences became dominant in English furniture. These were the Dutch and the French. French influence was directly due to the royal architect, Daniel Marot, who had long lived at the court of Louis XIV of France.

Furniture Came Under Dutch Influence in New Era.

THE Dutch influence, however, became paramount in time. With the new era carved cane panels in chair backs fell into disuse, under braces instead of being carved elaborately became curved, but with little ornament, and mahogany superseded cane as a form of decoration. Only in those chairs in which the French influence was strong were the solid backs filled with carving.

The typical William and Mary chair had four straight turned legs, usually with a round or inverted bell-shaped ornament, curved under braces, upholstered seats and backs, rounded or slightly pointed at the top, the framework of which was filled in with cane. In chairs in which the French influence prevailed the backs were filled in with elaborate carving.

It will be seen that William and Mary furniture resembled in general that of Charles II, even after certain features were different, notably in chairs the substitution of carved under braces for heavily carved straight ones, the broadening of the back with the discontinuance of the rectangular panel, and the use of the peculiar cup-shaped ornaments on the turned legs. Both types of chair were rectangular in shape.

But in Queen Anne furniture we find a decided change, with the development of an English style along Dutch lines.

Cabriole or Bent Knee Legs With Splay Foot.

THE outstanding feature of Queen Anne furniture is the cabriole or bent knee leg with the round or splay foot. In some examples the knee showed a carved shell ornament, though this is the exception. The foot had such variations as the club, the scroll, the claw and ball, and the hoof.

Chairs, all with cabriole legs, were quant in form. They had wide upholstered seats, rather high backs carved to fit the form, with broad center columns called splats. The chair is often described as the "fiddle backed." Underbracing in chairs was little used, and when it was it usually reverted back to the carved form of the Restoration, or it consisted only of a single rail joining the back legs.

It is to be noted that the broad seats of Queen Anne chairs had curved sides with rounded corners.

These features, notably the cabriole legs, are to be found on highboys, lowboys, tables and other pieces of furniture.

Inlays of Pearl, Ivory and Ornamental Woods Predominated.

THE splats and framework of the fiddle-backed chairs were ornamented in various ways. The splats were frequently pierced, and inlay of ivory and ornamental woods was used, sometimes elaborately. On some chairs the whole frame, except the legs, was inlaid with woods in color.

Favorite designs in the carving on Queen Anne furniture were the shell, the leaf and the scroll. Acanthus leaves were much used on all earlier furniture of the period. Foliage and flowers, drapery and tassels, conventionalized claws were all represented in the carving.

An odd piece of furniture is the three-cornered Queen Anne chair, made to fit into a corner. It had two splats, with an extension top piece.

Corner cupboards were common, frequently being built in as part of the room.

New types of tables, desks, settees and chests correspond in the type of leg and foot as well as in ornamentation and finish with the chairs.

Large winged arm chairs, upholstered in tapestry, brocade or rich velvet are one of the many variations in Queen Anne furniture.

Side Lights.

A PROBLEM IN COMPOSITION.

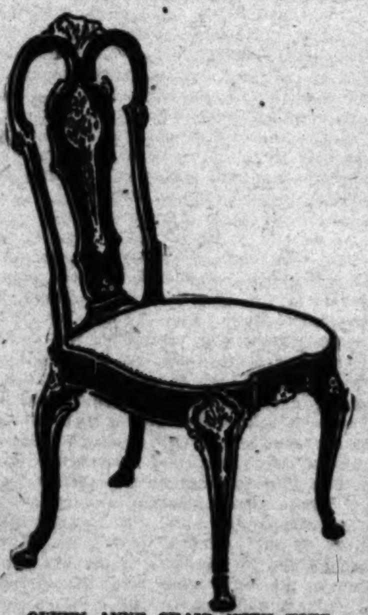
The most important principle in house decoration is that each piece of furniture, each picture, every object in a room must be considered not as an individual thing but in relation to the whole. Unless an object is suitable for a room and for a particular place in a room it should be kept out of it. The most attractive rooms are pictures, in which the composition is as carefully thought out as in any work of art. This means that no object stands alone, but always in relation to its environment.

PAINTED BEDSTEADS.

Brass bedsteads may be painted to harmonize with the room, if desired. Several coats of paint are required. Either a soft gray or an ivory may be used to accord with the ivory or gray bureaus and chiffoniers now so popular. An old bureau can be painted in the same color as the bed and thus a room of which the occupant has wearied may be transformed at little expense and labor. When painting it should be kept in mind that three coats are better than two and four coats better than three.

COLOR OF FLOOR AND WALLS.

A good effect is produced by keeping the walls darker than the ceiling and the floors darker than the walls. This does not mean that the floors must be dark—merely that when light walls are used it is well to have the floor a little darker in effect.



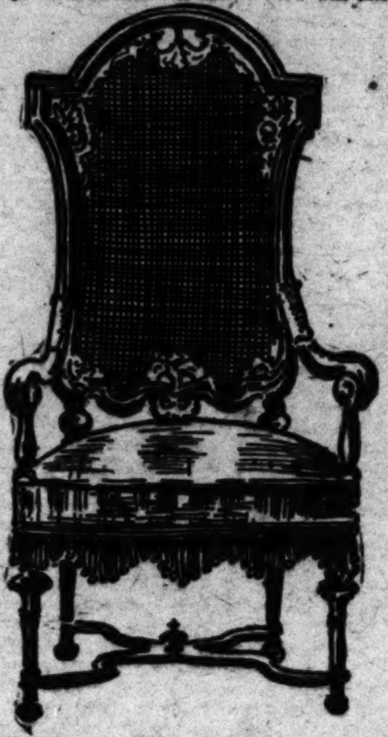
QUEEN ANNE CHAIR WITH FOUR CABRIOLE LEGS.

COMFORT IN CHAIRS.

The first demand the average man makes in regard to a living-room is that there be several comfortable, large and roomy chairs. In furnishing or merely making changes in furniture, careful attention should be given to this. Of comfortable chairs, the new and graceful overstuffed models are naturally to the fore; then there are the good standard leather-covered arm chairs, as well as the roomy wicker built on good lines and well padded as to back and seat. The general plan of the room determines the type of chair to be used, but one's good common sense dictates comfort. A chair in which a man fidgets and groans is one way to send him to the club—or to a worse place.

BUY FOR POSTERITY.

A good question to ask when about to buy a piece of furniture is this: "How will this look twenty or forty years from now?" If it is tawdry, badly constructed, of an extreme style, lacking in genuine grace and beauty, or poorly adapted to the purpose intended, it will fail ingloriously under this test.



WILLIAM AND MARY CHAIR. CANE BACK, TURNED LEGS AND CARVED BRACES.

Only a really good piece of furniture withstands the wear and tear of two or three decades, with the inevitable change of style, and remains a desirable possession. Buy for posterity and you will be buying to the best advantage for yourself.

SPACIOUSNESS ACHIEVED.

A series of small rooms in which one general scheme is carried out is far more spacious looking than the same room when each has a different scheme. This applies particularly to the color scheme. The size of such a suite is made to appear larger when the same color or tone is used throughout for walls and ceilings and woodwork. If draperies are uniform throughout the effect of unity and of spaciousness is enhanced. For the walls and woodwork gray or ecru or other light neutral color is best, for such colors make excellent backgrounds and at the same time add to the apparent size of the rooms in which they are used.

A HOUSE TRANSFORMED.

One who "knew how" recently moved in-in a cottage of half a dozen rooms which boasted a green living-room, a red dining-room, two blue bedrooms, a white kitchen and a yellow bathroom. The rooms were small, and the disruption caused by the varying color schemes made them appear still smaller. After a careful survey the walls were repapered in all but the kitchen and bath. A plain dovegray paper was used, with a ceiling just a little creamy in tint. The woodwork, which had been white, was darkened into the palest gray, only one coat of paint being required over the white. And the result was surprising in the added spaciousness and restfulness attained. One room seemed to naturally lead into another, unity was gained, and, in addition, an excellent background for pictures and furniture provided.

A DEVICE FOR A COLOR SCHEME.

In planning a color scheme for a bedroom or other room a device that decorators often use is to select a cretonne or piece of chintz that is peculiarly pleasing and follow the color combinations worked out in it. For instance, a cretonne with a deep ivory ground on which appear dull pink roses, green leaves, brown stems and trellis work affords the basis for a pleasing color scheme for a room, though none of the cretonne is used. From it is evolved ivory walls, ivory or brown woodwork, leaf green draperies and chair cushions, either dull pink or green cushions, and dull rose lamp shades.

FAMILY PORTRAITS.

Intimate family portraits and photographs do not belong in a living-room unless there is a more formal room in which guests are received. Banish these to the bedrooms, the library, or the attic. As for crayon portraits of the departed, why keep them glowering or meditating or even smiling over the room? They are neither beautiful nor cheerful. If for reasons of genuine sentiment these portraits are still dear to the family or to some member of the family, why not put them in the private room of that member, and not inflict them on the general public, who "knew not Joseph."

ONE AT A TIME.

Persons with small purses, and with a keen desire for beauty in the home can derive much joy by selecting once in many moons a thoroughly beautiful cabinet, chair, table or other piece of furniture and making it the keynote of the room. To this choice piece, whether modern or antique, another piece may be added in time and still later another. In this way the commonplace may be gradually banished and only good and beautiful furniture remain. And the joy of acquisition is thus long drawn out and so all the more real.

TO KEEP A RUG DOWN.

As a general rule neutral tints are as desirable in rugs as in walls and ceilings, as all these make up the background of the room. But if you have rugs or carpets striking in color or design or both, the best effect is produced by keeping the hangings, walls and furniture covering in unobstrusive neutral tints. A room with a too brilliant blue rug boasting a gray red and black border became in the hands of an artist a most satisfactory picture. The walls of this room were papered in a dull-finished pearl gray, the woodwork was painted a gray in a little lighter tone and then was hand-rubbed in wax, which gave it a dull glow, the draperies were of a dull blue gray Shantung silk, and the cushions and furniture covering of gray corduroy. All these quiet background tones prevented the rug from shrieking and gave the rooms that air of repose and dignity so desirable.

HOW ABOUT ORNAMENTS?

This is what a well-known decorator said recently about ornaments: "I seldom enter a house that I do not wonder why some one does not clear away the useless trash from walls, mantels and bookcases.

"Many a room that is now a total failure judged from the point of view of beauty and good taste would develop character and charm if every so-called ornament in it were swept away."

WHAT LINCOLN MEANS TO ME.

ute to the undoing of some fellow-creature. All his power and sensitiveness were reflections from the unblurred sincerity of his soul.

History discovers that his coarseness, his grotesqueness, and his crudities, were of little consequence. Herein lies a valuable lesson for ultra-refined and genteel persons—that is, to measure values more discriminatingly.

All I have ever read or heard of Lincoln has served to verify and to deepen the impressions of him that I have already expressed. The matured, composite image of him which is enthroned in my heart is a precious thing to me. Always, it is reminding me of the citadel of my own strength.

Yesterday I was sorely tempted to stoop to cheap ends to gain a point. I chanced to glance at a picture of Lincoln, hanging on my wall. Instantly, my inner eye opened to the light, and I saw that a direct and large sincerity was the better way. Once when our purse was very flat, and my feminine soul was pining for many vanities which our circumstances denied me, my husband made me a birthday gift of a fine bust of Lincoln. I received it with a throb of delight. But I said, solemnly: "Had you dared to present me with the image of any other being under our present financial conditions, I should have wept bitterly."

For long periods no word or event may draw my attention to this hero of my heart. But when a reminder does come, it never fails to be with a thrill of love and power reflected back to me for use in life.

Recently, as I lay on the beach sands, pessimistically watching the movement of the waters from the surf to the horizon, I was thinking that life was like them: dull and gray. My 7-year-old son, digging in the sand near me, whispered, shrilly:

"Mama, are you asleep?"

I turned and smiled upon him, ready for conversation. His face was full of thought and vision.

"What did Abraham Lincoln do to make everybody love him?" he burst forth.

"For one thing, he freed the slaves," I answered, casually.

"Is that all?"

"Oh, no. He did many wise and noble things that saved our country from disunion." I was more attentive, now.

"But didn't anybodys never do nothing but him?" he pressed. "Teacher's always talking about him."

I studied the child earnestly. There was a soul hunger in his eyes. I might give him a condensed history of Lincoln's conspicuous doings; but I felt that would not satisfy him. Finally, I said:

"He always told the truth, and did what he thought was right," and I watched my son's face closely. It looked, immediately, relieved and satisfied.

"Oh well, then, 'course we love him!" and sonny returned to his digging; while I thought:

"Little man, you're right. That is the chief secret of Lincoln's hold upon our heart-strings."

I turned again to the ocean; my head at a different angle this time, but my thoughts still pessimistic. The dull gray waters, over a wide path, were changed to gold. The choppy little waves had caught the scintillating sunlight, until the expanse seemed covered with shining fairies, spilled from their radiant home—the sun. These seeming myriads transformed this wide path on the dull sea to light and beauty. My son's queries had filled my mind with thoughts of Abraham Lincoln; but as I looked at the sun-jeweled rug stretched across the sea, the persistent cynicism of my mood strove to dethrone my most cherished idol. My evil genius told me that Lincoln and his nature were symbolized in the dull, restless, topsy-turvy water—brilliant only in the light cast upon it—that Lincoln was probably, in reality, like the majority of humanity, somewhat topsy-turvy and dull. That we had thrown around him a halo of imagination and fancied virtues; that his greatness and beauty of character were not inherent; but much like that stretch of sunlight on the water—all cast upon him by minds that love to idealize and to hero-worship. This little devil said: "Oh, of course, he had many elements of greatness; but the transforming processes of time had magnified that greatness a hundred-fold."

But, somehow, this thought of Lincoln left me so bereaved that I determined to go to books, and read of him once more. I did so. I read, not eulogies like this; but every book that I could find that contained a record of his written or spoken words. I read with an absorption never felt before. As I read, biographies, old scrapbooks, newspaper transcripts, I found my hero more securely established than ever. I know of no reading more transcendentally fascinating or illuminating than that concerning Lincoln and the period in which he lived. If we would all refresh our memories with draughts of Lincoln, and "Lincolnisms," we would be far better Americans.

If you "go and do likewise," I guarantee that the inspiration you receive will richly repay you. Do not be satisfied to read. Read, and then write—as I am doing! Read the Gettysburg Address, the Second Inaugural Address! With no great stretch of imagination it may apply to our own times—industrial war, industrial slavery!

"If we shall suppose that American slavery is one of those offenses which, in the providence of God, must needs come, but which, having continued through His appointed time, He now wills to remove, and that He gives to both North and South this terrible war, as the woe due those by whom the offense came, shall we discern therein any departure from those divine attributes which the believers in a living God always ascribe to Him? Fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray that the mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondsman's years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid by another, drawn with the sword, as was said 3000 years ago, so still it must be said, The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous together. With malice toward none, with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations."

And so, Lincoln means to me, as he will to those who study him: Grace, to accept seeming defeat; untiring patience; passionless tolerance; humanitarism; love; sincerity, rectitude, truth.

And as we love our country, as we love the world, let us not allow our memories of America's Gibraltar to dwindle. Let us have a Lincoln revival, not alone of eulogies, but of acquaintanceship.

AN EPIC OF LINCOLN'S BOYHOOD.

BY FRANCES WIERMAN.

THE year 1818, when Abraham Lincoln was about 9 years old, was a most unhappy one. It was then, he afterward said, the seeds were sown which grew into the melancholy that marked his whole life.

Thomas Lincoln moved his family to the wilds of Indiana, and hastily put together a cabin eighteen feet square. It was open to the weather on one side and had no windows nor chimney. There Abraham endured the hardest winter of his hard childhood. The cabin was crowded and cold. The father found it almost impossible to provide his family with sufficient food and clothing.

But in that cabin was a mother. Her faith in God, and love for her children, fed their souls and warmed their hearts, even though their bodies lacked food and raiment. The mother's courage kept them all living from one day to the next. Lincoln, a master of English, was never able to put into words his love for her nor his gratitude for what she taught him. Her spirit rose above the privations of her daily life; and from those heights she handed down to her boy the eternal truths she had learned. Upon the clean pages of his mind she wrote her own tender and reverent ponderings.

While the winter was at its worst, the mother died.

Thomas Lincoln cleared a small space in the dense forest and made a coffin of green wood. No minister could attend. While a few relatives and friends stood around, the body of the mother was buried. The Lincolns returned to their bleak cabin, now destitute of the one thing that had made their life bearable. Thomas and the other grown people turned again to their tasks, feeling that they had done all that was possible for the dead woman.

Abraham suffered intensely. Bad weather kept him indoors, and his own thoughts were his closest companions.

What were those thoughts?

The boy knew, that his mother was not dead. He realized that it was but her earthly shell which had been put out of sight in such a primitive fashion. But that shell had housed her white soul. More than once she had warmed the shivering child against her breast. When Abraham climbed the wooden pegs that led to his loft, and lay down on his bed of dried leaves, he missed the goodnight kiss from her lips.

His mother's body was to him a sacred thing.

As he lay alone and listened to the sharp whistling of the wind and snapping of twigs under the weight of snow, Abraham thought of his mother's grave. He brooded over the fact that no religious ceremonies had been a part of her funeral. He felt that proper respect had not been paid to her body. His reverent spirit protested against a burial but little better than that given an animal.

Finally, in his labored hand, the 10-year-old boy wrote a letter to Elder Elkins of the Baptist church. He begged the elder to come, even though the mother had been buried several months, and preach a funeral sermon. Elder Elkins cheerfully consented. He traveled on horseback through the lonely country over one hundred miles, to the Lincoln cabin. For the second time a few relatives and neighbors gathered around the unmarked grave. The elder preached a sermon and offered prayer, and started back on his hundred-mile ride to his home.

As he lay down to sleep that night, Abraham was happy for the first time since his mother's death. And where was the spirit of that mother? She must have been very near that night to her 10-year-old son, who had already given proofs of a nature superior to anyone around him.

The Mule.

The mule, like everybody else, has his place. He is considered a bad actor. Fathers caution their sons about going near any animal with long ears and ropy tail. The sons know what the animal will do because they have been looking over the "funny paper" each Sunday and were delighted in seeing the mule fold up and let loose with a kick that sent a man through the side of a barn or over the fence. But in spite of this undesirable advertising the mule is with us today on more farms than ever before. He is a hard and rugged worker and is especially adapted to the more hilly farms of our agricultural sections. Even through the Middle West there are some counties that have more mules than horses. In 1867, the mules of the United States numbered 822,000, with an average value of $66.94. In 1890 the number was 2,321,000 valued at $78.25. By 1914 the number had increased to 4,123,000 with a value of $119.84 per head. On January 1, 1920, the number was 4,995,000 and the value per head was $147.

The mule has gained rapidly in popularity, in many localities taking the place of the horse, and has also prevented the introduction of the tractor in many places. There are not a few mule ranches over the United States, the owners finding it a paying kind of stock to raise. The demand is increasing and those having them for sale cannot supply the market.—[Thrift Magazine.

Agreed that we'd just be [illegible]
Cut Christmas out,
And we felt very "smart" as we [illegible]
town
And bought sensible presents in a common-sense way.
And we thought it all ended, the "fuss and the rush"
And nonsensical "giving" and all. But today
As I passed through the stores I was tempted,
Old Christmas came back at me with all its lure
And I fell. And I found myself buying a tree
And some tinsel and stars, bells and candles of red, blue
And green. And I said, "Only this." but I passed by a counter
Just laden with perfumes and things
Women love.
And I saw it before me, the beautiful bottle
Of lilac perfume that mother just loves
And won't buy because the "essentials come first."
And I thought it called out: "I'm the soul of all flowers
From old-fashioned gardens. I've a message for mother, Take me!" And I did.
And I said, "Only that—"
But a quaint jar entranced me of rarest sachet,
That brought to mind sister with all her young sweetness,
Who's eighteen and engaged and romantic
And all.
And then from the bottle I pressed to my nostrils
Arose a faint scent reminiscent of Egypt,
Or Persia or somewhere
Where caravans cross desert sands treasure-laden,
And veiled women with eyes like black pansies look out
Over pomegran'te walls at their Lovers who sing.
And I took two little jars, because I wanted to feel
That romantic and all. And I sighed
"Now I'm through." But I wasn't—far from it—
A number of coins were bewitched from my purse.
And I passed by a store
From which music stole forth
And was tempted again, and I went in and listened
To swaying dance records and bought four; you see,
We'll need music for Christmas to go with the tree!
And as the girl played them I was dancing inside
In my heart, or my soul, or wherever we "feel."
And it made me go back to when I was sixteen
With my hair "just done up" and my first party gown
And a really true lover with
With black eyes and hair.
And I thought he was wonderful, and he said that I was,
And he was and I was and all the whole world was.
And I fear I was smiling too gaily perhaps,
As smiles answered back from the folks on the street.
And the feeling's not left me, and I know it's all right
That the world is all right and most everything in it,
When people put "young" thoughts in phonograph music,
Lilac gardens in bottles,
Romance in sachet!

A Better Name.

THE late William Dean Howells was very fond of traveling in Spain. He once said on his return from Andalusia:

"The Spaniards, especially the Southern Spaniards, have enormous families. Eight children is the average and families of sixteen and seventeen children are quite common.

"But they don't know how to raise these children. They take babies of three or four months traveling with them. In every hotel and train there are sure to be as many babies as adults.

"I was ushered one evening by a Malaga waiter into the lofty marble and bronze restaurant of a sumptuous hotel. The restaurant was crowded with babies.

"'This is our dining-room, senor,' said the waiter complacently.

"I put my hands over my ears.

"'Your dining hall?' I said. 'Don't you mean your bawlroom?'"

NEWLY arrived nursery governess to 5-year-old who is altering the trimming on her doll's hat:

"Now, darling, suppose you put your dolly away and come and learn the letters of the alphabet, big A, big B and—"

Five-year-old, raising her eyebrows:

"S'pose you learn the letters yourself and mind your own business. And, please, remember, I'm not your darling but father's when he behaves himself."

Rank Outsider.

"ELDERLY married men have a pretty hard time of it. Their wives care for them no longer. And pretty girls actually despise them."

The speaker was George Ade. He went on:

"In the lounge of a fashionable restaurant I overheard one night a low-voiced conversation between an elderly married man and his wife.

"'Bill,' the wife hissed, 'I don't like the way you looked at that girl in the outrageous yellow gown.'

"'Well,' said Bill savagely, 'she didn't either.'"

Obvious Precaution.

GEORGE WHITE, head of the Democratic Presidential campaign, said to a heckler at a political meeting in Chicago:

"You are too hard to satisfy, my friend. You remind me of the prisoner.

"It was a case where juryman after juryman was challenged by this prisoner's counsel. However, all things come to an end, and at last the jury was completed. But the prisoner, leaning over the dock, sought the ear of his counsel.

"'The jury's all right now, I think,' he whispered, 'but ye must challenge the judge. I've been convicted under him several times already, and maybe he's beginnin' to have a prejudice.'"

BUSTER, aged 4, entered the sitting-room of his home proudly one day, carrying in his chubby arms, to the horror of his spinster aunt, a dirty yellow puppy. He bore his tiny burden tenderly and cuddled it to him affectionately.

"Buster," shouted the aunt in dismay, "where did you get that dirty little creature?"

"It ain't a creature, it's a dog," said Buster, "and I found it out in the street. I'm going to take it into the bathroom and give it a bath."

"Don't you dare, Buster," ordered the aunt. "It's probably covered with germs. You take it right out and put it down."

"What are germs, Aunt Mary?" he wanted to know. He still held the wriggling yellow pup, which now attempted to lick his chubby face with a tiny red tongue.

His aunt sought hastily for a definition his little brain might grasp. "Germs are little things on him that might make you sick," she said at last.

"Oh, don't worry, Aunt Mary," came the quick reply from Buster. "I found all of this dog's germs and took 'em off. Here's one." And he opened one fat little hand and disclosed to the amazed eyes of his aunt, a real, live, jumping flea.

Senatorial Pleasantries.

SAYS Senator Ashurst of Arizona to Senator Knox of Pennsylvania:

"Well, Senator, what do you think of the election? It certainly was awful, wasn't it?"

"Election? Election?" says Senator Knox. "What election do you mean?"

"Why, the one last November," replies Senator Ashurst."

"Oh," says Knox, "that wasn't an election. It was a census."

"I'd say it was a consensus," puts in another Senator, who failed to leave his name with the clerk.

That's the Republican side of the case. Now for the Democrat.

A Senator approached Senator Knox and said:

"Senator, why do you suppose Mr. Harding has been conferring with Mr. So-and-So and Mr. Such-and-Such?"

"Well," replied Senator Knox, "I suppose he wanted complete mental relaxation."

FRANK BACON'S success in "Lightnin'," the fact that the actor had played more than three years in New York in the stage "hit," and that "Lightnin's" run was the longest ever known in a Broadway theater, was thought to be pretty widely known to the world at large. But this story was gleaned over Mr. Bacon's shoulder as that gentleman sat in a Long Island train coming into New York from Bay Side:

An old man had occupied a seat. In walked Mr. Bacon. There was commotion and the first man leaped to his feet, extended his hand, and gasped:

"Frank! By gosh! Do tell! If it ain't Frank!"

Mr. Bacon calmly grasped the outstretched hand, smiled and said: "Yes, and I'm glad to see you after all these years. How are you—and the children? My, how time does fly. Last time I saw you was in—let's see—Leavenworth, Kas., 'way back in—" and the conversation became dimmed to the hearer.

Presently from the first man:

"Well, well, Frank; this is sure a treat to see you. Tell me, Frank, what're you a-doing now, anyway?"

Laboritis.

JUDGE ELBERT H. GARY, on his return from Europe, discussed the English coal strike at a luncheon.

"The men demanded an unconditional two shillings' increase," he said, "but the government couldn't very well grant them that, because each former increase had been followed by a decrease of output. So many miners, you see, found that they could make enough in three or four days to keep them all the week.

"So many miners, in fact, were like the sick miner. As the sick miner, pale and drawn, lay in his bed, the doctor entered.

"The doctor examined him and then said:

"'I prescribe complete rest. You tired yourself all out in the last strike.'"

"WELL, my dear," said he, as he was dressing. "I s'pose you were right when you told me last night that there were burglars in the house."

"Why?"

"Because all the money that was in my pockets when I went to bed is gone."

"Well, if you'd been brave and got up and shot the wretch you'd have had your money this morning."

"Possibly—but then I should have been a widower."

She gave him back half the money.

By Proxy.

A CLERGYMAN who had been preaching some miles away was returning home at a late hour. He noticed that the occupants of one house had left a window open, so he decided to warn them and perhaps prevent a burglary. Putting his head through the open space, he called out:

"Hello, good peop—" That was all he said. A pailful of water struck him in the face and as he staggered back, a woman shrieked:

"Didn't I tell you what you'd get if you didn't get home by 10 o'clock?"

MARY GARDEN said on her return from Europe:

"I think that English tea-shop girls are very pretty. With their rosy cheeks and bright eyes, they look charming in the trim black and white of their uniforms. It is impossible to resist tipping them and yet—"

"'Tips are forbidden, I believe?' I said in an A. B. C. tea shop one afternoon as I tentatively held out a shilling to a pretty waitress.

"'Yes, but,' and the waitress accepted my shilling gracefully—'so were apples, you know, in the Garden of Eden.'"

"THE war is over," said Ambassador Davis at a dinner in New York, "but you wouldn't think so from New York prices.

"I heard a story the other day about a New Yorker who went into a shop to buy a ready-made pair of shoes. The price was $19, and as he counted out the money, he said to the salesman:

"'There's one consolation, anyhow. If another war came on, and if a Zeppelin sailed over here, she couldn't do this town a bit of damage.'

"'No? How so?' said the salesman pleasantly.

"'Why,' said the customer, 'everything has gone up so darn high that I don't believe even a German bomb would come down.'"

Not Ideal.

TWO little tots were still trying out Christmas sleds although it was a week or more after the holiday and the short hill down which they were coasting was entirely devoid of snow in spots. They would slide along for a few feet until they came to a bare spot, drag their sleds over the barren place to the next patch of snow and repeat.

"Where does the snow come from?" the smaller of the two children, a boy of about 4, suddenly asked.

"My mother says it is some woman way up in the sky shaking her pillows until the feathers fall out," was the naive reply of his companion.

"Well," exclaimed the boy, after a thoughtful pause, "I wish her feathers wouldn't melt."

GEORGE LUKE, the well-known artist, said at a reception in New York:

"Servants are paid such high wages nowadays that only labor unionists and captains of industry can afford to keep them. As for us painters—"

Mr. Luke made a helpless gesture and went on:

"A promising young painter said to me the other day in a complacent voice:

"'My work is now hung on the line.'

"Then a bitter thought struck him and he added:

"'So's my wife's.'"

YOUNG Col. Theodore Roosevelt was taken to task at a dinner in Albany by a young matron.

"I should have thought," she said reproachfully, "that you'd have stuck to the army, colonel."

"But politics are so much more exciting," the young legislator retorted.

"Politics? Politics more exciting than war?"

"Yes, indeed," said Col. Roosevelt. "In war, you see, you can be killed only once, but think how many times you can be killed in politics?"

A Fool's Paradise.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., said at a Brown University reunion:

"The prohibition law is no hardship to the majority of our most successful business men. As a class these men have practically always been total abstainers. The reason is, of course, that they need all the brains they possess for work and can't afford to befuddle themselves with alcohol."

Mr. Rockefeller smiled.

"I remember dining out once with a famous financier, and our hostess, seeing that the great man drank nothing but ice water, exclaimed:

"'Why, Mr. Banks! You are drinking no champagne. Don't you care for it?'

"'Yes, madam,' the financier answered. 'I like it very much. But experience has taught me that the trouble with champagne is that it makes things seem so easy.'"

"So you are for prohibition?"

"I am," replied Uncle Bill Bottletop.

"For what reason?"

"The simple reason that there isn't any more use of arguing about it."—[Washington Star.

Hyland's 14

A New Way to Treat Colds

LACK of motor energy is the real cause of colds and grippe.

Wet feet, chill and draughts cause colds only when nerve energy is lacking. It is then that the membranes of the nose and throat become sluggish and offer a fertile field for the breeding of millions of cold germs.

Hyland's 14 restores action to these membranes. It acts directly upon the cause of colds—energizing the motor nerves and fortifying the system in a natural way.

Hyland's 14 differs vastly from the old time "cold and grippe cures" which physicians now condemn. It contains no quinine, no aspirin or other coal tar products.

an Thinketh So She Is—Valentine.

BY CLOUGH McQUINN.

[illegible] of two half-grown girls and a widower for six years, the recipient of a valentine. He held the impossible thing be e him in one hand and with the other chanically smoothed the hair over a prosctive bald spot. From close up and from ms length the effect was the same. Even en squinted at through one eye he still w just a plain, old-fashioned picture, like teel engraving, with an imitation frame of ssed paper around it. Not at all like brightly colored lace and flower trimmed lentines displayed in the shop windows.

Hanley laid the valentine on his desk and, ting himself before it, studied the picre. A man at the right hand corner and a man at the left hand corner stood looking ck along a path that led from where each od to a horse and buggy in the middle tance. The horse and buggy was what ld Hanley's eye, was what he studied and uinted at. They were exactly like one he d owned and driven when he was a young n—a very young man. And didn't he e that calico pony, and wasn't he proud of t shiny red-wheeled buggy! An old med photo of them hung above his desk. s gaze traveled from the valentine to the oto and he marveled at the resemblance. s mind went back to the days of his proud nership of them and his heart warmed. s big expensive auto never gave him the ill that even the memory of the little pied ny and the bright new buggy gave.

Then he saw the inscription beneath the lentine picture:

> "Could we only call them back
> Those happy days so bright."

"Happy days so bright," he repeated. Yes, ren't they? What rides he had taken in t buggy, down the cool country lanes on iet Sundays, with pretty Margaret Dane side him. Following the path in the pice, he was carried back to his own young . Friends, forgotten for years, came, id and life like to his mental vision. Pic s by the river; parties he had gone to, iving the high-stepping pony, that shied at ery rustling leaf; escorting Margaret with bashfulness that made him timid and a de that made him bold.

Margaret! Margaret Dane! Although she ll lived in the same town he had not ught of her in years; not really thought her. They often met and often talked gether, but they were friends of today, not ends of the horse and buggy days.

They had quarreled in those days, as the ung in their headstrong impatience are ne to do. She complained that he was ays late to the parties they attended. was too diffident to explain that he came e from choice; that it was torture to his uthful timidity to arrive early and sit in a lliantly lighted parlor, that looked as e as a church in its blank emptiness, and to make small talk to a middle aged host le they waited for the guests.

nd Margaret didn't explain either, that liked to be early and have the dressing om and long mirror all to herself while she ranged every little frill and curl to her tisfaction and could come floating down stairs when the room was well filled, nfident that she looked her best.

They drifted apart. Margaret married fore he did and had long been a widow. e had never felt the least sentiment about r. There had been numerous more or s romantic friendships with girls who d left a stronger impression than had argaret.

"Still it must have been Margaret who t this valentine," he said to himself, "beuse the horse and buggy wouldn't mean ything to anyone else." No other girl d ridden with him in that buggy. A busiss opportunity had called him West soon er their quarrel and he had acquired a mily and a small fortune before he rerned.

He picked up the envelope in which the lentine had come but it was typewritten. d it been written by hand he wouldn't ve been any wiser; he was not familiar ith Margaret's writing. But, of course this alentine picture couldn't be from any one else. He felt a sort of warming around his heart. Margaret remembered. She took this way of letting him know she treasured the memory of "those happy days so bright." Perhaps she had loved him. Women sometimes cherished in secret an rly love; he had read of such romances. reddened as he thought of it. Hanley held the valentine at the best angle to his glasses and read again:

> "Could' we only call them back
> Those happy days so bright."

"Including me I suppose. Um, I'm not so sure I want to be called back, but still, Margaret was a pretty girl; she's a nice looking woman, too," he added as he thought of her pleasant face and always well groomed appearance.

"And if she has—er—cared all these years," he felt the red stealing, again, into his face, "I suppose she wonders why I haven't tried to revive our old love." The red was decidedly pronounced now, the idea of love between him and Margaret was as yet, so new.

Evvy and Doris, his two little girls, came running into his study. He hastily thrust the valentine under the papers on his desk.

"Daddy we got seven valentines, three for me and four for Evvy. Did you get any?"

"Me get a valentine! Nobody sends valentines to ugly old fellows like me."

"Ugly old fellows! You're fishing, father. It's so plain you don't deserve to be told that you're the nicest—"

"Father," Evvy interrupted, "we saw Mrs Sinclair" (that was Margaret.) She was going to the station with Arthur. She asked about you."

"She said she hoped we were taking good care of you," Doris finished as she led the way to the library for their study hour.

"So she asked about me." Hanley added that to his cogitations. If he had needed further proof that Margaret had sent the valentine this would have furnished it.

What ought he to do? They were friends; neighbors; certainly not one-time lovers. He hoped he wouldn't see her for a long time; not until he could think out what to say and how to act.

Thinking what to say and how to act kept him awake half the night; that, and reminiscing, recalling the few parties they had attended together and the rides home; re-living their youthful romance. He called it that now, though he couldn't remember that there had been any romance. He hadn't kissed her; hadn't even held her hand. But she must have thought he cared. She had sent the valentine, which was proof that she treasured the memory of the days when she rode with him.

That morning, and for several mornings, Hanley went forth dreading a meeting with Margaret. Every night he planned just how adroitly he would bring up the subject of the valentine and express his appreciation of it. And every morning he realized that the plan of the night would not do.

As the days went by and he did not see her he became so anxious that he made cautious inquiries and discovered she had gone with Arthur, her son, to the city to see him established in the hospital where he was to finish his medical course.

It was well into the middle of May when at last Hanley came upon Margaret, walking down the avenue, half a block ahead of him. He was driving home from his office and his first thought was that he was glad he had just had the car cleaned. Then he smiled as he remembered how he used to polish the buggy till it shone like a mirror, when he was going to take her out.

He wouldn't have admitted, even to himself, that in the two months past, he had thought of her almost constantly and watched the streets for a sight of her. But he had to admit the jolt it gave him to come upon her unexpectedly.

She wore a pert little toque and a quite modern suit that showed her trim silk-clad ankles. Perhaps Margaret wasn't beautiful, but she was very good to look at.

Hanley ran his car along the curb beside her and asked if he could give her a lift, to wherever she was going.

"Why, Hanley Clark, how you startled me," she greeted. She did look flushed and startled. "Probably remembering the valentine," Hanley thought.

"Get in," he invited.

"Why, yes," she accepted. "I'll be glad to. I was only walking part of the way home along the avenue," she explained as she settled herself beside him in the car. "I love the trees when the little new leaves are coming out."

"There ought to be a lot of green things in the park," he suggested, "would you like to drive by that way?"

"Oh, but that's out of your way."

"Yes, a little," he agreed. "Matter of a pint or so of gas. Of course, if you are in a hurry—"

"No, no, I'd love to go."

They went. Margaret talked of the trees and flowers; of the embryo doctor-son and his wonderful prospects and about Hanley's two daughters and when at last he drew up to her door he had had no opportunity, adroitly or otherwise, to approach the subject of the valentine.

"But," he consoled himself, "she understands that I responded to the sentiment. I never asked her to ride before, she must know it's my answer."

After that they seemed to meet oftener than in all the years before. They really didn't, but he was now vividly conscious of her presence when she came near. He invited her to ride whenever he saw her walking out, and he saw her often because he was always looking for her.

The accidental meetings and impromptu rides were so enjoyable that they occurred more and more frequently and from being accidental they became intentional.

Hanley, from being conservative, rather pompous and middle-aged, was growing into a youngish man with the spirits of a boy, and he liked it.

Another Valentine Day came. Hanley, with Margaret beside him, as was quite the customary thing now, drove past a store which flaunted a window full of bleeding hearts and passion-protesting-verses.

"I love valentines," Margaret impulsively declared. "They're so brave and young. They make such extravagantly beautiful professions. Isn't it a pity we have to outgrow fairies and Santa Claus and valentines?"

Hanley's heart side-stepped. He'd had his eye out for an opportunity to talk valentine for a year, and here it jumped out at him and nearly took his breath away. Nothing startles us so much as the appearance of the thing we're looking for.

"I haven't outgrown valentines; I still believe in them." Hanley grasped his opportunity. "At least in one—one I got last year. It has made life a different thing for me. I've wanted to tell you ever since—" a passing vehicle required Hanley's attention at the wheel, then he went on.

"It was a wonderful thing to do; wonderful to think of. I got the message right off."

He hesitated, waiting some response from Margaret. Auto drivers should keep their eyes on the road, but Hanley risked a glance at her. She looked puzzled but catching his questioning glance she ventured:

"Yes, what was it?"

"Oh—well—all that old-time stuff, you know. Took me right back to our kid days. It's good to know some one else remembers, too. Of course, I always knew we were friends, but," with a shade of tenderness in his voice, "I surely do appreciate your sending that valentine."

"You what?" demanded Margaret, sitting up straight, startling Hanley so that his machine swerved and the driver of a passing car let out an exasperated "Damn," as he narrowly escaped a collision.

"What in the world do you mean about a valentine I sent you? Do you think I indulge in such silly childishness? No, please don't talk about it," as Hanley attempted to answer. "You nearly ran over that man back there. But get it out of your head that I'm a sentimental school girl."

Neither spoke during the few remaining blocks to Margaret's home. As Hanley reached past her to open the door, he said, very seriously:

"Margaret, I didn't think it was silly. I thought it was beautiful and kind. It has made me happy all this year and I was hoping and sort of planning to make it last always."

"But why should you think I sent you a valentine?" Margaret questioned.

"It wasn't a valentine anyone else would have any reason for sending me. It meant just us two."

"I can't imagine a valentine applicable to just us two. I'm afraid, Hanley, that you have been neglecting a very sentimental lady friend. Don't you think you ought to look her up and square yourself?" She bantered as she made a move to step out of the car.

Hanley opened the door, "No, there isn't any lady friend, and if there was I wouldn't look her up."

As he drove home he went over their conversation, suddenly he smiled, even chuckled. "She didn't deny sending it. She talked all around it but she never said she didn't send it. I suppose I was too sudden; I shouldn't expect her to admit it right off.' '

He was so pleased with himself that he stopped at the confectioners and bought a box of her favorite glace fruit which he sent to her with a note saying:

"I have to escort my girls home from a valentine party at 10 o'clock, if you'll ask me over till then I'll help dispose of this and show you the valentine I told you of.

Margaret phoned him the desired invitation.

Hanley thought the valentine would help him to finish the proposal he had fizzled earlier in the day but in that he was disappointed. Margaret was politely interested but she had no fond memories of a calico pony—no remembrance of a quarrel—no regrets for a blighted youthful romance.

"I'm afraid you've got me mixed up with some girl you were fond of in those days," she teased.

"No, I haven't," he denied. But the past he had built up was rapidly shrinking to insignificance. "I admit that maybe I've exaggerated some. I've thought about it a great deal." He noted the softening look in Margaret's face and laid the valentine aside. "What's past doesn't matter. I'll say with the poet: 'What we've missed of life we couldn't have, you know.' But we can have what is left," he urged. "I'd like us to have it together, you and I."

"But there's the valentine," Margaret persisted. Somebody sent it, you know; somebody who has a claim on you and—" the clock chimed out the hour of 10.

"There I've got to go after the girls. Come with me; it's a wonderful night for a ride."

He thrust the vexatious valentine into his overcoat pocket.

Together they drove through the quiet streets to the scene of juvenile revelry, and picked up his two daughters. When at his own home he got out to open the door for the girls, the valentine fell at his feet.

"You dropped something, father," Doris said as she picked it up, then, "Why, Evvy, here's that valentine I sent father last year! Oh, daddy, aren't you the sly old fox, not to let on and Evvy and I just dying to know if you got it. We thought you'd be so pleased because it looks just like the picture over your desk and we thought you'd remember when you used to take beautiful ladies out riding, and all that."

"I told you sentiment would be wasted on father," reminded Evvy.

Hanley could almost hear the crash of his selfmade romance as it hit bottom in its final fall. Over his daughter's heads he tried to catch Margaret's eye but she feigned an interest in a distant star.

On the way home Margaret talked animatedly and continuously as women do when they shrink from a crisis.

"You were right, the lady who sent the valentine has a claim on me," Hanley admittedly teasingly as he unlocked her door for her. Then very humbly he continued, "I'm sorry, Margaret; I did think you sent it. Those old days meant so much to me; I thought maybe you cared a little too. I've been so happy all this year, loving you more and more every day, hoping you loved me and that we would spend the rest of our lives together. Well," regretfully, it's all a mistake, I wish it might have been true." Then, persistently hopeful, he pleaded, "Couldn't we make it come true Margaret?"

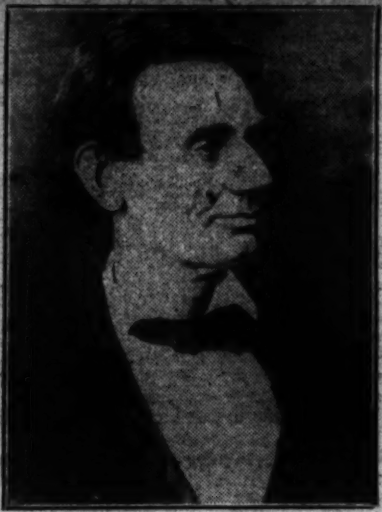
"It is true," Margaret murmured. "It wasn't true long ago, but it is now."

Strange Insects in Brazil.

The so-called parasol ants of Brazil get their name from their habit of marching along in single file, each one with a piece of green leaf held over its head. These scraps of leaves are taken to underground chambers, well chewed, and allowed to ferment and decay in a mass, through which the mycelium of a fungus soon begins to run in white threads. When little mushroom buttons have started to develop the workers bite them off and feed them to the baby ants.—[Indianapolis News.

Personal Reminiscenc

BY ERVIN CH



Abraham Lincoln in 1860.

I WAS personally and actively engaged in the movements that resulted in the organization of the Republican party, the election of Abraham Lincoln as President, the preservation of the Union and the abolition of slavery. As early as 1844, when I was but 6 years old, I became deeply interested in the discussions I then heard between my father and our neighbors relative to the institution of slavery, and the first dollar I earned, when but a lad, was invested in a year's subscription to the New York Weekly Tribune, with other antislavery publications. I read with such purposeful eagerness that at 16 I was on the platform advocating emancipation, and at 18 took an active part in the organization of the Republican party and the unsuccessful campaign for the election of Fremont as President in 1856.

Fugitive Slave Law and John Brown's Raid Kept Antislavery Alive.

THAT was the most enthusiastic and spectacular of all our Presidential campaigns and the fervency and force by which it was conducted continued without pause or abatement during all of the succeeding four years. The fugitive slave law and its vigorous enforcement, the John Brown raid at Harper's Ferry and the struggle in Kansas kept the slavery question constantly before the people and caused the antislavery sentiment in the non-slaveholding States to become stronger and more intense. During the Fremont campaign of 1856, I saw forty oxen in a team hauling a wagon with an immense hayrack loaded with people and several such teams and loads in a procession miles in length with "fife and drum brigades" filling the air with inspiring martial music as they proceeded to a spacious grove where throughout the day oratory and song combined to kindle the fires of purposeful enthusiasm and to keep them burning.

At such times I have seen an improvised table half a mile in length loaded to its capacity with choice, substantial food that to all the multitude was as free as the air they breathed. There was never any reaction from the excitement of such gatherings, for they were inspired by a purpose as high as heaven and as broad as the rights of humanity.

David R. Locke (Petroleum V. Nasby) of whose writings Lincoln was very fond.

I first heard of Abraham Lincoln in October, 1854, when he entered the arena at Springfield as the recognized antagonist of Douglas and his new doctrine of popular sovereignty.

Lincoln's Entrance Into the Struggle Heartened Antislavery Forces.

THE clash of arms at the encounters of these two giants, first at Springfield and a little later at Peoria, was heard throughout the nation and awakened in the hearts of antislavery people a hope which the present generation may not fully understand. But I was in the thickest of the fight then raging and I cannot forget the thrill of interest and delight with which we welcomed the entrance of Lincoln into the contest. We did not know this new champion but when we learned that during the State Fair at Springfield he had for four consecutive hours held a vast audience enthralled by an able and eloquent reply to Douglas and that Douglas, who was present, after spending two hours in rejoinder retired from the scene manifestly disturbed and dejected, our yearning desire for a leader equal to our needs at once ripened into the hope that such a leader had appeared. And that hope was strengthened when a few days later Lincoln's great speech at Peoria on October 16 was published in full and read with rapturous delight.

Ervin Chapman, D.D. LL.D., author of this interesting account.

Douglas Was too Much for His Opponents in the Senate.

IN THE public estimation, at that time, Douglas's argument in support of his scheme for the extension of slavery had not been successfully answered by the great antislavery Senators, Sumner, Seward, Chase—the "Big Three" in the Senate—who were masterful in discussing the slavery question, but Douglas cunningly ignored that question and in his "Popular Sovereignty" doctrine raised a new issue by denying the right of Congress to legislate as to slavery in the Territories. That right had been exercised by Congress during all the history of the nation and never before had it been seriously denied. The Missouri compromise of 1820 which Douglas had extolled but now proposed to repeal was an exercise of that right. And as that right had never been a subject of political discussion no one was prepared fittingly to defend it. But Douglas was thoroughly prepared to deny that right and to defend his claim that the people of the Territories and not Congress possessed the right to determine whether they would or would not permit slavery to exist in their jurisdiction. He had long considered that question and he had secretly made the most thorough preparation for the discussion which he knew the launching of his scheme would cause. But the antislavery Senators did not know of his purposes and, therefore, when he introduced his Kansas-Nebraska bill repealing the Missouri compromise and permitting the introduction of slavery into those Territories, the antislavery Senators were all taken by surprise and were unprepared fittingly to oppose the measure. "Popular Sovereignty" was a taking phrase and it was exceedingly difficult without careful preparation successfully to answer the sophistry with which Douglas defended its exercise by the people of the Territories respecting the institution of slavery.

Douglas Recognized as Great Leader of a Bad Cause.

AND throughout that prolonged and tremendously forceful discussion in Congress, Douglas was more than a match for those who opposed him and at its close he returned to his constituents in Illinois hated and feared by the opponents of slavery as an able champion of a bad cause and the unmatched master in debate.

Thus was Douglas regarded by the antislavery forces with whom I was actively associated and therefore it was to us a joy unspeakable to learn that in his own State a champion had arisen who was unquestionably his superior in forensic combat. The four hours' speech at Springfield was not published, but to learn as we did that it had disconcerted Douglas caused a wave of joyous satisfaction to sweep over all the regions where the standard of opposition to slavery had been enacted and when the Peoria speech was published in full and reproduced by the great dailies we began to realize that a leader of immense measurements had arisen and was in command.

Lincoln at Once Became the Prophet of Opponents of Slavery.

AND from that hour Lincoln's hold upon the thought and confidence of the people steadily increased. I am telling this just as it existed at the time and I know whereof I write. We had our great leaders as we thought but we were being unconsciously led by Lincoln all the time. We read with interest the speeches of our great antislavery statesmen but we never quoted them or used their arguments in our conversation or speeches. What Lincoln said we talked about and quoted on the stump and in print and while in our purposes we were loyal to our local champions we were steadily becoming more strongly attached to Lincoln. Douglas was the one man we feared and Lincoln was the one man whom we regarded and depended upon as his antagonist.

I was at all seasons and constantly on the stump and I was "loaded to the muzzle" with Lincoln's arguments but very seldom if ever did I quote from the speeches of other leaders or use their arguments. Chase was my political idol but I never used his arguments on the stump for what Lincoln said was much better and more easily understood. And the same was true with other speakers in all the non-slave-holding States. It was one of the peculiarities of that campaign that the public regarded the issue as one that was to be and was settled by just two men.

And there was but one issue, namely, the right of Congress to legislate for the Territories respecting slavery, which was denied by Douglas and his party and claimed by the Republicans. The only interest that either party had in that issue was in its relation to slavery, the extension and perpetuation of which Douglas and his party were seeking and the "ultimate extinction" of which—to use Lincoln's famous phrase—was the aim of the Republicans. Douglas and his party tried to ignore the slavery question but the Republicans kept it prominently before the people.

Lincoln Deals Four Master Strokes in Forwarding the Cause.

AND for six years, from the introduction of the Kansas-Nebraska bill in 1854 to the election of Lincoln in 1860, the struggle continued during which Lincoln dealt four master strokes, each of which was necessary to accomplish the results that were achieved. The first of these master strokes was the speech on June 16, 1858, on "The House Divided Against Itself." During the preceding four years the contending forces had been maneuvering for position and in Lincoln's opinion the time had come for a declaration that slavery was inherently wrong and destructive of free government and must be put in the way of ultimate extinction. It is not possible at this time to realize the dynamic force of that declaration. Like an electric current it swept through the ranks of the antislavery forces causing our hostility to slavery to become more intense and our purposes to prevent its extension to ripen into a patriotic determination to accomplish its extinction. It caused them to realize that there was an irrepressible conflict between freedom and slavery and that to preserve freedom, slavery must be destroyed. By showing that the nation could not continue to exist half slave and half free it aroused us to an exalted purpose to make it all free. It changed our entire battle front and opened before us a vista through which we could see the ultimate extinction of slavery. The world knows that Lincoln's advisers remonstrated against his making that speech and that Lincoln declared he would rather be defeated as a candidate for the Senate than not to make it, but only those who were fighting beside him can realize its tremendous influence for good at the time and to the end of the conflict.

Many Feared He Would not be a Match for Douglas.

THE challenge of Douglas to a joint discussion was Lincoln's second master movement, but the enthusiasm which it aroused had a silent element of apprehension that in such a struggle he might not be the equal of his powerful and crafty antagonist. Lincoln's sublime courage in making that challenge was inspiring but I now remember that with bated breath I awaited the first encounter. And when it became known that at the close of the first debate Lincoln's friends had with wild delight literally carried him from the platform to his hotel, we who were watching the conflict from a distance knew that however aggressive and forceful Douglas had been, Lincoln had been more than his equal.

NCOLN HOME IN SPRINGFIELD.
, Lincoln received official notification of his nomination as candidate for President.

I was not then a voter but I was active in the campaign then in progress in my native Ohio and all Republicans knew that the contest for the Senate between Lincoln and Douglas in Illinois was in a very important sense preparatory to the great national battle to be fought two years later. I was then preparing for that coming national campaign and to that end I noted every feature of the Lincoln-Douglas contest. The speeches in each of these seven debates were published in full in the great daily papers of the nation and were read with eager interest and delight by the enemies of slavery and in sullen silence by its friends. By no other feature of Abraham Lincoln's activities were his immense measurements and resources so fairly disclosed as in his bringing on of those discussions and his participation in them and nothing else was more potential in determining his career and in accomplishing his great work.

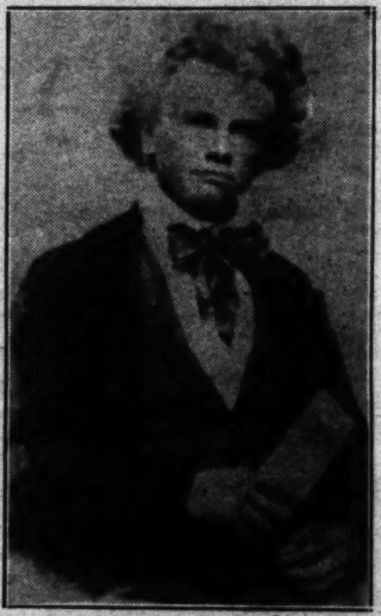
The master stroke of campaign strategy in our political history was the "Freeport Question," as it came to be called in the second joint debate at Freeport, Ill., on Aug. 27, 1858. Lincoln and Douglas were at this time opposing candidates for the office of United States Senator with a Presidential campaign only two years away and the one issue between them was the extension or restriction of slavery. Douglas in his "Popular Sovereignty" doctrine claimed that the existence of slavery in the Territories was subject to the will of the people and Lincoln claimed that the Dred Scott decision of the Supreme Court, which Douglas approved by declaring slavery inherent in the Constitution, denied the people the right to exclude it from the Territories. Thus the "Freeport Question" compelled Douglas unequivocally to admit or deny. To have admitted it would have destroyed his doctrine of Popular Sovereignty, and defeated him as a candidate for Senator; to deny it would help him in his campaign for the Senate but would divide his party in the nation and make impossible his election as President two years later. Lincoln foresaw this as he stated at the time but it is possible that Douglas did not for he so answered the question as to accomplish the results which Lincoln was endeavoring to achieve. The eyes of Lincoln's supporters were upon the seat in the Senate to which they were seeking to elect him but Lincoln was unselfishly willing to lose that prize if thereby he could accomplish the election of a Republican President in 1860. Lincoln's greatness as disclosed by that question is the more manifest when it is remembered that at that time he had no thought of being himself chosen as President. Nor had those of use who were watching his movements from other States. But we were delighted by the assurance that, in that encounter at Freeport, Douglas had received a wound that would certainly prove fatal to his Presidential aspirations, as it did. That master stroke made effective every Republican speech during the succeeding Republican claim that the Constitution two years and added immensely to the vote by which Lincoln was elected President in 1860.

The Cooper Union Institute Speech Proved a Climax.

THE fourth and greatest of Lincoln's pre-election master strokes was his address at Cooper Institute, New York, on the 27th of February, 1860. This is according to my convictions at the time and is with me a certainty today. That address was regarded as a marvel when it was delivered and it has been increasingly so to the present time. It was in defense of the confers upon Congress the right to legislate as to slavery in the Territories of the United States. For six years that question had been under discussion in and out of Congress by the master minds of the nation. It was the one question discussed by Lincoln and Douglas and the one issue between the Republican and Democratic parties. It seemed at the time that nothing new or of special interest or value could be said upon that subject. But in that Cooper Institute speech Lincoln presented an entirely new line of argument and so fully exhausted the subject and settled the question that never since has it been seriously discussed. In the national campaign of that year it was the main issue but the constitutional authority of Congress in the matter was not seriously discussed after Lincoln had settled the question in that Cooper Institute address. And more remarkable still is the fact that sixty years after that address was delivered as an argument against the claims and doctrines of the Democratic party its closing sentence was quoted by a Democratic President and a southerner as the keynote of his last annual message to Congress.

Two-thirds of Party Wanted Seward for Their Candidate.

THAT address made Lincoln President as was then claimed and is now universally admitted. When Lincoln visited New York to deliver that address two-thirds of the Republican party expected and desired



Ervin Chapman in 1860 while making 100 speeches advocating Lincoln's election as President.

Seward to be their candidate for President. And yet eighty-one days after that address was delivered Lincoln received the nomination.

I was active in the movements that produced that result and I can now recall the thrilling interest with which I saw the setting in and flowing of the tide that carried Abraham Lincoln into the Presidential office.

The part I had taken in the organization and activities of the Republican party, the wide and intimate acquaintances I had formed among the distinguished leaders of that party, caused me to be called to Washington and assigned to important official and confidential work in connection with the general government. I thus came to know Mr. Lincoln more fully and more intimately than was possible before. But of that I cannot write in these "Personal Reminiscences of Abraham Lincoln Before His Election as President."
